The American League last fall approved expansion to 12 clubs in 1969, reviving a Kansas City franchise to compensate for the Athletics' switch to Oakland this season and adding Seattle as a second new member.

Warren Giles, National League president, earlier this week said the meeting was aimed only at setting down ground rules for five cities seeking the two new franchises for operation not later than 1970.

But one NL club executive said "there could be some definite action because time is getting short."

The franchise applicants include Dallas-Fort Worth, San Diego, Milwaukee, Montreal and Buffalo.

Celtics Defeat Phillies

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Celtics, sparked by amazing John Havlicek and ageless player-Coach Bill Russell, streaked to a 114-108 victory over Philadelphia 76ers Wednesday night, sending the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division finals into a seventh and deciding game.

Havlicek, dividing his time between the backcourt and the corner, scored 26 points, set up plays and harassed 76ers with his ball hawking tactics.

Russell, seeking to lead Celtics to the NBA championship they surrendered to Philadelphia last season after an eight-year reign, scored 17 points and dominated the boards in his personal duel with Wilt Chamberlain.

50,000 See Orioles Defeat Oakland In New Coliseum Opener

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore's Boog Powell says the new Oakland Coliseum is a hitter's park, but his team-mate Dave McNally made it something less than that for the new tenants.

"The ball seems to carry well here," said Powell after he socked a homer that helped the Orioles to a 4-3 victory over the Oakland Athletics in the first game played in the new edifice. "I'd like to play here all the time."

But McNally, who limited the Athletics to two hits, understandably noticed some advantages for the pitchers.

"I don't think there'll be any cheap home runs here," the young left-hander said. "You still have to hit the ball to get it out."

McNally held the Athletics hitless until Rick Monday homered leading off the sixth and after that the only Oakland hit was Tony La Russa's single in the ninth. A crowd of 50,164 watching the opener saw new Orioles home runs by Brooks Robinson and Mark Belanger.

In other American League games, New York Yankees beat California Angels 3-2, Minnesota Twins crushed Washington Senators 13-1, Detroit Tigers topped Cleveland Indians 4-3 in 10 innings and Boston Red Sox shut out Chicago White Sox 2-0.

A big star for the 10th consecutive-winning Orioles, McNally had arm troubles last year and finished with a 7-7 record.

Mickey Mantle scored one run and drove in another and the Yankees survived Rick Reichardt's two-run homer in the ninth to beat the Angels before a home-opening crowd of 30,188.

Harmon Killebrew's third homer of the young season highlighted the Twins' route over the Senators before 21,238 in the first Minnesota game at home.

Willie Horton hit a two-run homer with two out in the 10th inning to give the Tigers the extra inning.

Cleveland had gone ahead in the top of the inning on Leon triumph after Duke Sims' sacrifice fly.

Dick Ellsworth's five-hitter sent the White Sox to their fifth straight loss of the season and his first victory in four decisions.

Carl Yastrzemski homered in the first inning. The homer was Yaz' fourth.

Mikita Tops In East

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Sporting News announced Wednesday that Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks, a 40-goal scorer this year for the first time in his National Hockey League career, has been named East Division player of the year.

Mikita, four-time scoring champion in the NHL, was voted the honor by fellow players. Derek Sanderson, Boston's 21-year-old centre, was named the league's rookie of the year.

The weekly sports publication placed Mikita on its East Division all-star team. Others named were Detroit's Gordie Howe, Bobby Hull of Chicago and defencemen Bobby Orr of Boston and Tim Horton of Toronto. New York's Ed Giacomin was named all-star goalie.

De Vicenzo Player In Azalea

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Gary Player of South Africa and Roberto De Vicenzo of Argentina were the top names in a formidable foreign entry that hoped to make hay in the $25,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament opening today.

The most touring stars who qualified by winning a tournament in the last 12 months were competing for the $5,000 Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas, Nev.

In their absence, about 140 players, most of them schoolaged lesser-lights of the tour, and others who had had a recent run of bad luck, gathered at the Cape Fear Country Club for the four-day, 20th annual Azalea in this port city.

With The Trotters

TORONTO (CP) — Anxious Age, ridden by Clifford Potts, won the featured dash at Greenwood Wednesday by 2½ lengths over Margabella.

The exactor of Anxious Age and Margabella paid $13.80.

Boy Bandi, winner of the first, and Field Doll, winner of the second, combined for a $87.50 daily double.

John LeBlanc and Robin Platts rode double winners. LeBlanc won aboard Canadian Spirit and Disney Flyer. Platts won with Judge Wadge and Win Isle.

CAMPBELLVille, Ont. (CP) — Zip Tar, one of Canada's best rookie pacers last year, finished the mile a neck in front of R. Yankee Wann in 2:05 1-5 in the sixth race at Mohawk raceway Wednesday.

Zip Tar, who recorded eight wins and five seconds in 15 starts last year, returned $2.50 for the win and combined with R. Yankee Wann for a $9.20 exacter.

Adios Debutante registered her maiden victory in the first with Harold McKinley driving. Ron Feagan won the second with The Irishman, a 10-year-old trotter owned by Don Coates of London, Ont.

The Adios Debutante-The Irishman duo returned a $86.10 daily double. Ross Curran, of Smiths Falls, Ont., had a double win on the nine race card.

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP) — Tay Town Laddie led all the way to win the $1,700 claiming handicap pace that featured the Batavia Downs program Wednesday night. The time was 2:07 1-5.

Handguns

Louis Kulcsar scored 260 to lead the field in the regular Wednesday shoot at the Belleville Handgun and Rifle Club.

Other scores were 255 for Reg Sprackett, 240 for Harold Howling, 238 for Joe Heimbach and 222 for Tim Bolsvert. The team total was 1215.

The club is open to new members and anyone interested in competitive shooting in either handguns or rifles is invited to attend one of the regular Wednesday shoots at the Belleville Police Department range.

Portland Reaches Finals

PORTLAND (AP) — Portland moved into the finals of the Lester Patrick Cup playoffs of the Western Hockey League Wednesday night, defeating San Diego Gulls 3-2 in overtime.

Larry Leach, who had been goalless in the best-of-seven series, scored on a partially screened shot to win the game for the Buckaroos.

Portland, regular season champion, won the series 4-3. Buckaroos meet Seattle Totems in the opening game of the best-of-seven finals Friday.

Willie O'Ree and Al Nicholson scored the San Diego goals that gave Gulls 1-0 and 2-1 leads. Dennis Kearns and Bill Saunders were Portland's other marksmen.

Portland outshot San Diego 42-34.

Seattle eliminated Phoenix Roadrunners in the other semi-final in four straight games.

Birth Damage by Measles May Be Ended

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A scientist says mothers of child bearing age may be able to get protection within a year against the birth-damaging defects of German measles. The next epidemic of the disease is due about 1970.

That was a report on a new live virus vaccine against German measles given today by Dr. Maurice R. Hilleman of the Merck Institute for Therapeutic Research at West Point, Pa.

Hilleman said large-scale tests are already under way in the United States and that by the end of the year up to 30,000 children in five different areas would receive this experimental vaccine. Tests of other vaccines will cover another 20,000 children.

At least three other vaccines using different strains of the virus are undergoing tests in the United States and abroad. The manufacturers also hope to get them on the market within the year.

German measles is a relatively mild disease that strikes mostly children and young adults. Until recently there seemed to be no need to prevent it, but now doctors have proven that it causes serious congenital defects in children whose mothers were infected in the first trimester of pregnancy.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Dear Mr. Meltzer: In two weeks I am going to settlement. Is there any kind of a guarantee that I can get that the heater, plumbing, wiring and roof are in good condition, and will remain so for a specified time after settlement?

I ask this question because my sister had to spend over $2,000 on repairs in the first year after she moved. I want to avoid this. — Mrs. S. T.

ANSWER: Our correspondent has posed an extremely intelligent question. The only problem is that she apparently received her inspiration too late. In order to get the guarantee requested, the agreement of sale specifically would have had to provide for such a guarantee. In the absence of this written commitment, the conventional business practice is that the seller furnishes no such guarantee.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Twenty years ago I did a terrible thing. I bought a lot under an assumed name. I did this to spite my wife.

The price was only $100. She forbid me to spend money on this gamble. So, I took $100 that she knew nothing about and bought the land, using somebody else's name. The lot is now worth over $7,500. My anxious question is, "Do I own the lot?" I'm no longer worried about my wife because with that much money, she would be happy regardless of what I did 20 years ago. — Mr. A.

ANSWER: Regardless of the use of an assumed name, you are the owner of the land. It is merely a matter of identification — namely, that the person named in the deed and yourself are the same person.

Curiously, you will find that when you sell, you will have to continue to use the assumed name as the grantor in the new deed; otherwise, there would be a break in the chain of title.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: For two months, a continuous argument has been going on in our house — at least my wife keeps talking but I answer her with silence.

It all started when I bought two gallons of paint for the children's room. It seems my wife was reading a magazine that said there should be one type of paint for the walls and another for the ceiling. She stubbornly insists that I exchange one gallon, but I am just as unyielding. Who is right? — Mr. T. M.

ANSWER: It is a very consolation. I offer this observation. Normally, it takes two to make an argument, but only one is required to make an argument — if she's your wife.

I'll get you in further trouble by telling you you're right — but don't tell it to your wife. Contrary to popular opinion, there is no important difference between a ceiling paint and a wall paint.

The one minor difference is that when ceiling paint is specifically designated, it usually has more covering or hiding power so that the job can be done in one coat. Also, ceiling paint is often less washable since, under normal circumstances, footprints and handprints are not supposed to be on the ceiling.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Moisture was coming through the walls of my brick house until you recommended that pointing of the bricks would solve the problem. You told me to remove all loose and crumbling mortar by gouging it out with a screw driver or chisel.

This I have tried as per your instructions, but the only trouble is I was going through the brick walls out to the other side. Now I've got a ventilated house. What are your instructions now? — Mr. W. A.

ANSWER: I should have added in my instructions that under no circumstances should the mortar in a brick wall be gouged out more than one inch, no matter what the state of the joints. A depth greater than that can seriously impair the structural soundness of the wall.

• • •

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately, he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

LIGHTNING THOUGHT

SUMMERVILLE, Ga. (IP) — When Mrs. H. A. Carlton asked her second grade pupils to draw pictures of spring, most of them drew colorful flowers, green grass and budding trees. All except one girl, who drew a barren black tree in a field. Asked why, she replied, "Well, I think my tree got struck by lightning."

No More Help in Sight

BURKS FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Premier John Robarts said Wednesday that further financial aid for the municipal property taxpayer will have to await major redistribution of tax revenues among the federal, provincial and municipal governments.

Mr. Robarts told the Parry Sound Municipal Association that his government's implementation of two recommendations of the Smith committee on taxation already account for more than one-third of the new financial aid for municipalities recommended by the committee.

Before further changes and transfers can be made, there must be a much broader redistribution of tax revenues between the three levels of government," he said.

Fishermen Must Wait for Answer to Appeal

OTTAWA (CP) — The Newfoundland fishing industry will have to live with its troubles a bit longer before getting federal help.

A delegation from the industry came away from a three-hour meeting with Fisheries Minister Robichaud and other officials Wednesday with assurance their woes are being studied but that solution won't be forthcoming just yet.

The delegation's proposals for various forms of federal aid to the industry, hard hit by stiffer competition and surpluses of unsold fish, were set out in a 15-page brief which formed the basis of Wednesday's talks.

Mr. Robichaud said in an interview later:

"I could not be expected to come up with definite answers as I must submit these proposals to the government."

This didn't satisfy Pat Antle, general secretary of the Newfoundland Federation of Fishermen. His reaction:

"I had hoped for a straight yes or no to the points in the brief. But we were told to sit back and wait.

"However, we did get some assurance on the salted cod problem that measures are being taken now and that an announcement may be made in the near future, possibly by May 1."

The industry has proposed that the federal government purchase Newfoundland's backlog of salted cod left over from 1967 and dispose of it at reduced prices, or give it away under the external aid program. There has been an 80,000-quintal increase in the unsold surplus in Eastern Canada over the last 12 months—a quintal is 112 pounds.

The industry has proposed that the federal government purchase Newfoundland's backlog of about 80,000 quintals of salted cod—a quintal is 112 pounds—left over from 1967 and dispose of them at reduced prices or give they away under the external aid program.

Mr. Antle told an interviewer he is satisfied on the salted fish problem that "something will be done along these lines."

Mr. Robichaud said any federal action on the problems would take into account similar situations in other parts of the Mari times.

What's hurting the Newfound land and Atlantic fishing indus try generally is a fall-off in sales to the big U.S. market due to stiffer competition from Rus sia, Poland, East and West Ger many and other countries.

*When you buy the Easy Spiralator Mark V Twin-Tub Washer-Spin-dryer at Cherney's you get a big bonus of Tide: all the Tide you can carry in your arms! Enough to last you through months of wash-days!

Your Washday (any day!) is a breeze with the EASY Twin-Tub Washer/Spin-Dryer!

When you have the EASY Twin-Tub Washer-Dryer in your home you'll find your family wash is quick and easy to do — any day! Quick? The specially designed Spiralator makes sure of that! Easy? You can wash and spin dry in kitchen, bathroom or laundry room using the simple top controls.

- FAST WASH with the exclusive spiralator to swish clothes around continuously.
- AUTOMATIC wash timer control.
- LINT FILTER — operates all the time.
- SPIN RINSE — works at any sink (no special plumbing required)
- SPIN DRY FULL LOAD — wash new load at same time! (Dryer works separately from washer)
- COMPACT model — fits into small kitchen, yet will wash large blankets easily.
- SAFETY STOP dryer — drum stops spinning soon as lid is raised.

Repression Brings Reaction

By STINKY J. HARRIS
Thoughts at Large:

We can easily be satisfied with a small reason, when it is in favor of doing what we have a mind to do, but can find a dozen holes in a larger reason, when it would deter us from doing what we have a mind to.

• • •

Parents are often surprised to hear that their good children at home are misbehaving rambunctiously at school — but there is almost an inverse ratio of youthful conduct, in which those children repressed at home act up in school, and those permitted free expression at home are tractable in school.

• • •

One of the most tedious and pointless phrases in argument is the charge: "You're over-simplifying!," for it's impossible to engage in conversation without over-simplifying to some extent, and no harm is done as long as we're keenly aware that we're drawing a sketch, not an accurate blueprint.

In this connection, it's worth remembering Whitehead's action for scientific inquiry: "Everything should be made as simple as possible — but no more so."

• • •

Men who have something substantial to say to the world never become writers.

• • •

A high school student wants to know whether the word "dickens" as in "Where the dickens did I put that hat?" comes from the name of the author Charles Dickens; and the answer is no — "dickens" is one of the many euphemisms for "devil," and is to be found as far back as Shakespeare. ("I cannot tell what the dickens his name is.")

Running water cleanses itself, and so does an active mind — we should distrust as possibly pulsanous all those ideas we have held for a decade or more without continually re-examining their source and the degree of their stagnation.

MANY ISLANDS

There are about 2,000 Islands in the Aegean Sea.

Running water cleanses itself, and so does an active mind — we should distrust as possibly pulsanous all those ideas we have held for a decade or more without continually re-examining their source and the degree of their stagnation.

Heaven and Hell have been regarded as "spatial" concepts, which is absurd; more accurately, if they exist, Heaven and Hell are "temporal" concepts, in that Hell consists in being offered Heaven when it is too late to do us any good.

• • •

Two opposite lies may contradict each other, but truth and lying are often more complementary than contradictory — they blend with each other, like complementary colors in a picture, and therefore it is perilously easy for us to combine truth with a matching falsehood, so that the observer cannot tell where one ends and the other begins.

• • •

It's surprising how many Americans think that Lloyd's of London is an insurance company, when it's merely a location.

Universe Doomed--in Ten Thousand Million Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Navy researchers report they've obtained evidence the universe is curved, closed system—and therefore inexorably doomed to fiery destruction some 10,000,000,000 years from now.

They said the new findings, gleaned from the flight of an Aerobe rocket, appear to provide a possible definite answer to a great cosmological question that has plagued scientists for generations:

Will the now-expanding universe, with its millions of star-filled galaxies, grow forever—or is it a closed system whose expansion will gradually slow to a stop, with catastrophic results?

Dr. Richard C. Henry of the naval research laboratory, who reported the findings Monday on behalf of a five-man research team, said the rocket-gathered evidence "indicates strongly that the universe is closed."

He said such a system, would "fall inward until all the galaxies condense again to one great fireball of matter and radiation."

"These observations of the Aerobee," he said, "indicate that there's enough matter in the universe to produce the complete curvature required for a closed universe."

Color-blind Boy Needs Special Help

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: We have just found out that our nine-year-old son is color-blind. The school nurse said he is in the red – green category and the doctor said the green category, just a bit. What is the difference?

I understand it is hereditary. Is this so? Two uncles on my mother's side are color-blind. Will it get worse? How does it start? Can it be cured? Why is it worse in boys than girls? Can I help my son in any way? — Mrs. D. H. C.

Color-blindness is hereditary, and present in 10 times as many boys as girls, but the cause is unknown. Nobody knows how it started.

While it is incurable, there is no reason to expect it to become worse in your son's case — and color sense can be developed to some extent, to make the best use of the ability he has in this regard.

"Color-blindness" amounts to the inability to recognize red, green, or blue — or some combination of these colors. It is unusual for a person to lack perception of all three (although this may occur in older persons having atrophy of the optic nerve.)

More usually, the color-blind person lacks the perception, in varying degrees, of one color or two colors. Further tests can determine whether your son cannot distinguish green, or cannot distinguish either red or green. The red-green combination does occur.

What can you do to help the boy? Follow the advice of your ophalmologist (eye specialist.)

The boy will have to be trained in a career which does not involve dependence on perfect color vision, but that still leaves him a wide field to choose from. He may need some help in the choice of clothes or cosmetics, for example — to avoid color combinations that do not blend well, but that is not a very important problem.

Color-blind people readily learn how to recognize traffic signals. The red (stop) light is uniformly the top light and green at the bottom, with the yellow warning signal in between. He will be able to see by the brightness of the light which is on, and tell the color by its position.

Much of your help to the boy will depend on the degree of his trouble — whether he has some or very little color recognition and what colors are involved. The doctor, of course, will assist in determining this.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes nodules to form on the finger? Does this get worse with time? What can be done to minimize it? They get very tender and sensitive. — Mrs. E. S.

If you mean swelling at the first joint of the fingers, they may be Heberden's nodes, a result of arthritis. There is nothing that can be done about them, but it is comforting to know that after a time they cease being painful, although they still aren't very sightly. If they are Heberden's nodes, that is — better have your doctor take a look next time you see him and make sure that I am guessing right. There can be other kinds of "nodes on the fingers."

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: What I use to keep from sunburning especially near the water? I have used (a certain brand of) suntan lotion but it did no good. — R. H. C.

Some suntan lotions contain special materials to screen out the ultra-violet rays and thus protect against burning. Other lotions are intended mostly to help you "cook" to an even tan.

Therefore, check the labels of various brands to find those which have this sunscreening effect. But if you have an unusually tender skin, don't expect miracles. Such lotion can help, but you still have to avoid overexposure until you have gradually built up a protective tan.

Cost $31,000,000

INCO to Develop Mine

TORONTO (CP) — International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. confirmed Wednesday that it will proceed with a $31,000,000 development of a nickel-copper mine at Lower Shebandowan Lake, 30 miles west of Port Arthur.

It will be the company's ninth new mine under development in Canada in Inco's current expansion program.

Company chairman Henry S. Wingate told the annual meeting that the new mine, to come into operation in 1971, will employ between 400 and 500 persons.

Plans call for a shaft to be sunk to a depth of 1,975 feet, with 14,000 tons of ore to be handled weekly. A concentrator is to be built at the site, with the concentrates to be shipped by rail to the Inco smelter a Copper Cliff, near Sudbury.

Housing for the employees will likely be built at the nearby village of Shebandowan, officials said.

Mr. Wingate, who described the Shebandowan property as a small-sized operation with a long-life potential, said it is part of the company's plans to increase total output by 1971 to 600,000,000 pounds of nickel annually from the current level of 450,000,000 pounds.

Total capital investment during the next two years in Canada to help bring these new facilities to production will be about $320,000,000, he said. Another $80,000,000 would be spent outside Canada, primarily in Guatemala and New Caledonia.

The company's previously announced plans for new Canadian mines include five in the Sudbury district and three at Thompson, Man.

The new operations will provide an estimated 3,200 new jobs, the company said. Of these, 1,200 would be in Manitoba and 1,500 at Sudbury.

The rest would be needed for the Shebandowan project. The company indicated at last year's annual meeting that the property was economically feasible.

Alan Lawrence, Ontario mines minister, said the announcement was of major importance to all northwestern Ontario.

Mr. Wingate told shareholders that continued rapid expansion is needed to meet expected consumption demands during the coming years.

He said the company recently has reached agreements for exploration and possible development of nickel prospects in New Caledonia and Indonesia, as well as the company's nickel-copper leases in Minnesota.

Inco is a 40-per-cent partner with the French government and other French interests in the New Caledonia prospects, Mr. Wingate said at least 18 months more exploration is needed in that area, reported to be one of the world's largest potential nickel producers.

Pattern for North?

Canadian Faraday to Pay for Children's Schooling

TORONTO (CP) — Children of union miners in the isolated community of Werner Lake, Ont., will receive $1,000 to go away for schooling not available in the town, a union leader said Wednesday.

The provision of company-financed assistance for secondary schooling is contained in a contract negotiated by the United Steelworkers of America and Consolidated Canadian Faraday Ltd., for its copper and nickel mining site about 12 miles from the Manitoba border.

William Kennedy, the union representative who negotiated the agreement, said the clause could set a pattern for labor agreements in isolated mining communities.

Mr. Kennedy said about 12 children come within the terms of the agreement immediately. The nickel mine employs about 150 people.

He said the union and the company had been discussing for many years the loss of employees who moved from the town because there were no schools for the children after Grade 8.

He said there are many other communities in the north where the same problem exists.

That's no lady in the men's dressing room — that's Charley's Aunt. Famed farce opened at Centennial Secondary School last night as Theatre Guild offering in Arts Festival '68. Title role is played by Colin Robbins, at makeup table with Roy Hunt, Peter Kitcher.

Charley's Aunt Delights Audience

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Arts Festival '68 dashed full tilt into its second week last night as the Belleville Theatre Guild romped through the opening night of Charley's Aunt.

The chestnut is the hardest theatrical nut to crack and Charley's Aunt has a shell that hasn't slimmed with the years.

In these days, its successful appeal to adult audiences prevents problems.

Charley's Aunt has been on stage since before the turn of the century, and this century now has turned its back on many of the theatrical that made it a classic of its kind.

However, it can still be a shell-out of sheer entertainment — as last night's presentation at Centennial Secondary School showed.

The Guild met the challenge by retaining a practitioner of theatre and the hand of the professional has steered the production to success.

Responsible for the achievement has been Peter Bortzki, Toronto director-producer.

Opting for a pace that even startled the audience, his accomplished hand pulled out all stops on the play's comic potential.

Its lines were drained of every possibility for stage business to keep the pace mounting from the moment the curtain rose.

The result was a scintillating exposition of theatrical imaginativeness that stimulated spontaneous response even during the action.

Charley's Aunt recounts the dilemma of two enamored university students who invite their girl friends to meet a wealthy aunt from Brazil, the aunt becomes unavailable and to ensure the tete-a-tete, the aid of a third undergraduate is enlisted. Dressed in women's clothing he masquerades on cue only to start running into complications as other characters arrive unexpectedly on the scene. The whole ends up happily with the women engaged and the men financially secure.

Last night's success made obvious demands upon its cast and here the disciples of the professional director was again the key. Without it, what was an outrageous romp might easily have degenerated into mere unruliness onstage and audience restlessness, even boredom, ofstage.

Key figure in the farce is the actor who doubles as Charley's Aunt.

The role was played by Colin Robbins and to him must go much of the credit for audience enjoyment. His first major role with the Guild was a personal tour-de-force for Mr. Robbins, moving at times with burlesque agility, pausing only with the dignified outrage reminiscent of a Stan Laurel contemplating further vengeful anarchy.

Sound character cameos were presented by Peter Kitcher as an Indian Army officer, and Jack Archer as a flinty guardian.

Peter Remmer and Hugh Charlebois were paired as the undergraduate catalysts who caused the entire rumpus.

Sue Brickwood and Dee Dee Tobin were pretty additions as the objects of affection although their contribution at times was overpowered by the masculine shenanigans around them..

As the real Charley's Aunt Lois Summerville had a commanding ease and style.

The costumes were in keeping with period elegance although the sets in the first two acts at times seemed overwhelming. However, the decor of the final act was cool and graceful in its setting.

Last night's audience — about 600 — took to the entertainment with enthusiasm. The production ends after its second night tonight.

Women Greatest Supporters Of Live Theatre and Concerts

Women are the greatest supporters of live theatrical and concert performances in the Quinte district.

This fact is one of the first to be uncovered by Dorothy Trieger in her study of the status of the fine arts in the area.

Mrs. Trieger, a Toronto researcher, was engaged in March by Loyalist College and the Quinte Arts Council to discover what kind of artistic events people want to attend and take part in, and in what area of the arts encouragement is required.

Audiences at recent performances have found her questionnaire in theatre seats and have co-operated in answering her queries. Purpose of the questionnaire is to obtain an "audience profile" for each event in the community. On the basis of these, profiles a final blueprint for development of the arts in the Quinte region will be drawn up.

Mrs. Trieger emphasized yesterday that the questionnaire should be filled out at every performance attended.

"Some theatre and concert goers think they should fill out the questionnaire only once," she said. "This is incorrect. It's a profile of each audience I'm after, so I would appreciate it if members of the audience would fill out the questionnaire each time they encounter one in their seats."

To show how her survey works, Mrs. Trieger yesterday released statistics compiled at the performance of Stop the World, I Want to Get Off.

Women made up 61 per cent of the audience, she found. By occupation, housewives formed the largest group (25 per cent), followed by white collar workers (20 per cent) and teachers (16 per cent). Only three per cent of the audience were blue collar workers.

When the audience was broken down by age, the largest perpetage (34) was in the 30 to 40 age group. Those from 20 to 30 made up 25 per cent of the audience almost matched by those from 40 to 50 with 24 per cent. Only 9 per cent of the audience was over 50.

Belleviliens comprised 67.7 per cent of the audience and people from out of town 32.3 per cent.

Mrs. Trieger has lauded a special plea for audience participation in answering the questionnaire during Quinte Arts Festival events.

Deputy Grand Master Pays Official Visit

NAPANEE — District Deputy Grand Master Dr. Norman Freeman of Inverary paid his official visit to Union Lodge A.F. and A.M. No. 9, G.R.C. last Wednesday evening. Dr. Freeman is the District-Deputy Grand Master of the Frontenac Masonic District. Visitors from many other lodges attended, among them District Deputy Grand Master of Prince Edward William Oliver, now of Belleville. Mr. Oliver formerly lived in the Napanee - Selby area.

The banquet, held in the Masonic Temple, was prepared and served by wives of the members under the leadership of Mrs. Willard Ramsay.

Following the banquet the formal meeting was held in the lodge room on the ground floor.

The Masonic Temple in Napanee was once St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, closed after church union, a fitting meeting place for this ancient order.

Roy Lawrence is the present Grand Master of Union Lodge A.F. and A.M., No. 9 G.R.C.

Russia Jails Seventeen More For Plot to Overthrow Regime

MOSCOW (AP) — Seventeen members of a group in Leningrad opposed to the Soviet regime have been convicted and given sentences of up to seven years.

Four other members of the group, calling itself the All-Russian Socialist Union for People's Freedom, received prison terms of 8 to 15 years in another trial last December. They were charged with conspiring to overthrow the Communist system.

The second trial, according to information reaching here Wednesday, began in March and ended April 5. The minimum sentence was said to be 14 months, with three or four years the average.

The charges were similar to those in the first trial.

The group involved, the information said, included persons described as intellectuals dedicated to bringing democratic rule to the Soviet Union. It is reported some members did not reject the use of terrorism in principle, but there were no indications that they had committed terrorist acts.

The secret police began making arrests of the members in January, 1967. It is common in this country for suspects to be investigated for long periods before being put on trial.

Earlier this week the Russian Federation Supreme Court upheld sentences of up to seven years against four Moscow intellectuals convicted of anti-Soviet activity.

The Soviet leadership that replaced Nikita S. Khrushchev has taken a hard line on suppressing internal dissent and a number of cases of this kind has developed.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For April 19

Your birthday today: The coming year promises increased — perhaps not wholly welcome — public attention and opportunities for extensive travels. Since today's natives tend to be visionary reformers capable of sudden changes of direction, the times we live in will provide you many tasks to fulfill. Diaries of this year's incidents can be later published with satisfaction and profit.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Mixing business with pleasure today sets up explosive or distressing possibilities. Do first one, then the other. Plan the whole weekend's activity. Pursue romance.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Keep on pressuring a calm surface to the world as best you can: the inner concerns are mainly subjective and not visible. Find out more about the needs of your mate.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Slow up a bit today so your friends will truthfully be more restless than you are. Plan for a quieter evening at home, avoiding rush hour traffic if you can.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Trading is difficult today — nobody wants to compromise. Your social life is fluent and expansive. Go with the tide, pursue your sentimental interests.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): This day is not an easy one, but in many small ways very satisfying. Transportation is apt to be interrupted. Be thrifty with your own and others' money. Encourage your family to express themselves.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Today's work is cluttered with a million details. The important factor is calmness and a definite sequence of action. Visit with friends tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Interesting new ideas come to you today, but check them out before you put hard - earned money into a new venture. Research is favored. Review your budget this evening — you may find a nice surprise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 — Nov. 21): Much as you might prefer to avoid sentiment, a little of it adds to the profitability of the day. Many deals are uncertain and an emotional reference may tip the balance in your favor.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Your work attracts backing today, although you are not entirely comfortable with some of your supporters. Pay very close attention to any flash of intuition — it may save immense difficulty later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan 19): Give attention to your health today. Do the usual chores so you'll be ready for the weekend. Money is hard to get/ vote tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): There really isn't anybody but yourself in your own personal world. Today gives you another chance to co - operate with others in their personal worlds, and to realize what the boundaries are.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Be cautious about expenses today, and put your major effort into personal relationships. Find out more about the people you care for, do things to show your feelings. Listen carefully.

Counsellors From Ranks of Poor Prove Worth

HALIFAX (CP) — The federal manpower department has cancelled its plans to eliminate 10 field workers employed in its pilot project in the city's north end, William C. Stewart, Atlantic regional director for the department, said today.

The decision to replace the 10 local citizens with professional counsellors raised a storm of protest in the city.

The Halifax Neighborhood Centre, which encouraged the experimental project to find jobs for persons living in a low employment area, was organizing a citizen's mass protest meeting and planning representations to various levels of government.

Mr. Stewart said today there had been some misinterpretation of facts about the situation.

He said he was conscious that it is most important that organizations which serve the public recognize the views and needs of the public they serve and adjust services accordingly.

A department spokesman said professional counsellors would work along with the 10 field officers. Three counsellors were already at work in the area.

The project, first of its kind in Canada, was set up by Manpower last July on a six-month trial basis with the understanding that if it succeeded similar centres would be established in other cities.

Eight men and two women, living in the community where the project was set up, were chosen as field workers on the basis of their initiative in trying to find jobs, personality, intelligence and potential.

Their average educational qualifications were not above Grade 8 and they were unemployed. They were trained by Manpower counsellors.

The field workers first made a house-to-house survey of the community and found more than 1,000 persons unemployed, many of them deemed unemployable because they lacked education and skills.

Employers in the area were approached, and by the end of March the field workers had placed 1,011 persons in jobs. In the meantime the project was extended another six months.

Robert J. McCleave, Halifax Conservative MP, says the advantage of the field workers is that they speak the same language and understand the problems of people in the community.

Going to Russia

Vancouver bassoon soloist George Zukerman has been invited to give four concerts in the Soviet Union in March 1969. Mr. Zukerman, who is the first solo bassoonist from any nation ever invited to the Soviet Union, will perform at concerts given in major Russian cities, and on radio and television. (CP Photo)

Sugar No Cure for Drunk

WINNIPEG (CP) — Dr. T. A. Pincock, medical director of the Manitoba Alcoholics Federation, has called a recent Canadian Sugar Institute statement that sugar helps drinkers sober up a "dangerous bit of propaganda."

"People might say all they have to do is take some sugar after drinking and they can drive again.

"This is nonsense of course. Anyone who has been drinking —no matter how much and regardless of whether he eats sugar right after to reduce after effects—should not drive under any circumstances."

Stanfield Will Ask About NORAD Renewal

VANCOUVER (CP) — Opposition Leader Stanfield Wednesday night promised to demand a full explanation for the government's renewal of the NORAD agreement when Parliament reconvenes April 22.

He told a news conference the government must "frankly state the degree to which Canada will be consulted in important matters of NORAD policy."

NORAD, an acronym for North American Air Defence Command, is the joint Canada-U.S. defence policy.

The new five-year agreement was signed March 30 after Parliament had adjourned for the Liberal leadership convention.

Mr. Stanfield said that because the agreement integrates air defence forces of both countries "it implies a commitment to provide some of the equipment."

The amounts of material to be supplied by Canada must be made known by the Canadian government, he said.

"An increasing number of Canadians are concerned that we must reappraise our role in our defence alliances. In order to ensure the most effective possible participation by Canada."

A text of his remarks was released in advance.

Stanfield Comes to Trudeau's Support Defending His Right to Be Kissed

Why Not? It's Spring

OTTAWA (CP) — A small crowd of spectators as well as reporters hovered near the parliamentary East Block entrance Wednesday when a cabinet meeting ended.

Gail Fitzpatrick, 17, of Ottawa, asked Liberal Leader Trudeau whether she could kiss him.

"Why not? It's spring," he said.

She kissed him and told reporters: "It felt fantastic."

She said it did not matter to her whether Mr. Trudeau was 46 or 48.

Mr. Trudeau was asked persistently all day about his age, given in the Parliamentary Guide as 46 but in Montreal court records as 48.

By the third time around on the question, Mr. Trudeau said: "I'm confused. I think I know my age."

He added that he had not discussed the matter of his age with anyone. The matter was not important.

Kiss From An Admirer

Why Not? He's Leader

VANCOUVER (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield says the pressures of being prime minister have aged Pierre Elliott Trudeau, newly-elected Liberal leader, even before he has taken office.

Mr. Stanfield was referring at a news conference Wednesday to a Quebec Superior Court birth record which shows Mr. Trudeau to be two years older than the 46 claimed by his staff during his leadership campaign.

Asked to comment on the report that Mr. Trudeau bestowed a kiss on a 17-year-old blonde admirer, Mr. Stanfield said:

"What are you trying to do? Take away one of the few pleasures left party leaders?"

Mr. Stanfield said his Tories don't plan to get tough with Mr. Trudeau when Parliament resumes next week.

"We aren't out to draw blood," Mr. Stanfield said.

Woman's View

QUEBEC (CP) — Former politician Pauline Jewett said Wednesday that Pierre Elliott Trudeau's allure for youth and intellectuals will help him meet the challenge of bilingualism and national unity.

Miss Jewett, once a Liberal MP for the Ontario constituency of Northumberland and now a political science professor, told la Cercle des Femmes Canadiennes, a Quebec City women's group, that the new Liberal leader's way with the younger generation will be of more help than any possible measure by federal or provincial governments.

USE TEACHING AIDS

BURNABY, B.C. (CP) — Simon Fraser University in this Vancouver suburb has installed a $14,000 animated film laboratory for production of films for use as special teaching aids, the first university in Canada to do so.

Points for Parents

By MARY SEYSON

Mother: "Tom, will you pick up the toys and put them away?"

Tom: "Why can't Jimmy pick up his stuff."

Mother: "Now don't argue. He's just a baby."

It's easy to expect too little of the baby of the family. Give him a helping hand if he seems to need it, but encourage him to pick up after himself and to do his share of household chores.

Home and School Association News

KING GEORGE SCHOOL

The King George Home and School Association held its regular meeting in April in the school auditorium with a record attendance.

President Mrs. Dorothy McCracken welcomed everyone after which the secretary's annual report was read by Mrs. R. McKeown and the treasurer, Mrs. Marie Powers presented the audited report.

The president also congratulated Mr. Burns and students of grades 6, 7 and 8 for their success at the annual Science Fair and Hobby Show. Banners for attendance were presented to Mrs. LaSociete's grades 4 and 5; Miss Casey's grade 7s and Mr. McQuaid's grade 8s.

The principal, L. McQuaid, introduced the program and paid tribute to Mr. Cooper for his direction of the band. Although Mr. Cooper was unable to attend, the students rendered a number of appropriate selections. A fashion show was presented by the home economics students of Miss Boyd. Each girl modelled was fashion co-ordinator and the models were colorfully attired in fashions made from the same basic pattern. The choir under the direction of Mrs. Howell and Miss Mc-Kinnon rendered a selection of spiritual and national songs.

Mrs. Joanne Cavalier expressed thanks to the teachers and students for a most entertaining evening.

The display recently entered at the Home and Hobby Fair was set up for everyone to enjoy viewing.

Students enjoyed milk and donuts, while the parents were served coffee and donuts at the close.

QUEEN VICTORIA SCHOOL

The general meeting of the Queen Victoria Home and Association was held recently in the school auditorium and was opened by the president Douglas Shaw.

Past president Mrs. Lil Stenson read the Home and School creed and presented William Coveney with a past president's pin.

During the business portion minutes were read by Mrs. Jean McKenzie. It was decided to send delegates Mrs. Barbara Skrill and Mrs. Lil Stenson to the annual convention in Hamilton. Mrs. Skrill, the fun fair convener reported a successful fair and thanked everyone for their assistance for this annual event.

Room count was taken with the winners Mrs. Fulton's and Mr. D. Lockyer's classes.

John Welch, president of the district council and a former member of Queen Victoria School executive was present and spoke briefly commending the group for the splendid attendance. He noted that the annual dinner is to be held at Tabernacle United Church, April 30, at which time K. Bradford president of Loyalist College will be the guest speaker.

The pupils of Mr. Roblin's, Mr. Bateman's and Mr. Lockyer's classes conducted by Mr. Lockyer favored with a number of songs. Appreciation for the musical program was extended by Mrs. Stenson. A film "Paddle to the Sea" concluded the entertainment.

Lunch was served and the meeting adjourned.

Hastings East WI Sponsors Calendar Tea

On April 10 over 100 women attended a Calendar Tea in Plainfield WI Centennial Hall sponsored by Cordova East District Women's Institute. Each branch and the executive were responsible for decorating the 12 tables to represent the 12 calendar months. The district president, Mrs. J. McAren, welcomed the guests and members and was chairman for a program of readings, piano selections, a solo, a recitation and a mock wedding. Each item of program was appropriate for a particular month of the year. Members from each WI Branch assisted in serving the guests, who were seated at the table representing their birthday month.

Over a cup of tea and a bountiful lunch, all enjoyed the opportunity to make new friends at their respective tables.

It's A Good Day

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Ghana had a big day here recently. Mrs. Grace Ziagge, a Ghana High Court judge, was elected chairman of the UN Commission on the Status of Women. Emmanuel Kodjoe Dadzie, principal state attorney in the attorney-general's department, was elected chairman of the UN Commission on International Trade Law.

Guide Cookie Day to Be Held

On Friday night, April 19 and Saturday, April 20 the Girl Guides and Brownies and Rangers of Belleville Division including Point Anne, Corbyville and Rossmore will again be selling Girl Guide Cookies.

The cookies are made especially for the Girl Guides to insure their freshness and are a cream filled sandwich half chocolate and half vanilla.

The profit from each box of cookies sold from door to door goes directly to the packs and companies and so directly helps the children in their program and activities.

All children selling cookies must be in full uniform and the support of the public is kindly requested.

Couple Wed 50 Years

ROSLIN — Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Harrison, Roslin, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday in Trinity United Church Hall, Roslin.

At noon 35 members of their family gathered for a turkey dinner, catered by Trinity UCW. Mrs. Harrison's brother, Dr. S. R. Beatty, Madoc, was master of ceremonies. He proposed the toast to the couple and also paid tribute to Mrs. Kathleen Daw, who had been their girl and Mrs. Helen Jeffery, who had played the wedding music 50 years ago.

In the afternoon and evening Mr. and Mrs. Harrison received relatives and friends. Congratulatory messages were received from Clarke Rollins M.P.P., Lee Grills M.P., Premier John Roberts and Robert Stapfield. A framed scroll was received from the province of Ontario.

J. Frances Beatty and Winfield Harrison were married by Rev. R. W. Bleakley, April 3, 1918, at the home of the bride's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Beatty, Thomasburg. The bride-groom's parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Harrison, also of Thomasburg.

The couple have lived at their farm home at Roslin since that time. Their neighbors in the community and the congregation of Trinity United Church presented them with gifts honoring the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison have three daughters: Mrs. Barry (Marion) Christie, Whitby; Mrs. Russell (Reta) Pyear, Belleville; Mrs. Joseph (Margaret) Thompson, Springbrook and two sons, Everett Harrison, Grand Rapids, Michigan; and Dr. Keith Harrison, Roslin.

There are 14 grandchildren, the eldest of whom is Jim Christie, now married and living in Australia.

Just add a lb. package of Cow Brand Baking Soda into a tub of warm water. Sit back lazily and relax. Excellent for relieving sunburn, hives and chicken pox.

Eastminster UCW Entertain CGIT Group

The CGIT of Eastminster United Church were guests of the UCW at a potluck supper at the general meeting in April.

The auditorium was decorated with Japanese motifs, origami, Japanese scrolls and pictures made by the CGIT group. Mrs. Ross Smith, Mrs. Ruth Maw, and Mrs. Kae McAuley convened the dinner, and honouring the CGIT, decorated the tables with navy and white streamers, the CGIT crest, and navy and white candles.

Following the dinner, the 25 members of the CGIT took over the program and opened with the singing of the CGIT hymn, accompanied by Dawn Yateman on the piano. The intermediates gave the worship service on World Friendship. A poem "I Am a Child of the Sun" was read by Heather Smith: the scripture was read by Nancy Normald; the meditations by Barbara Killough and Susan Sisson: and the prayer was offered by Susan Throope. Heather Smith was pianist for another hymn.

The juniors gave the mission study on Japan. Each girl told of a different aspect of life, in Japan including the development of Christianity in that country. Those taking part were Joan Kunsch, Debbie Sullivan, Debbie Warren, Ann Thompson, Anne Sisson, Jane Cameron, Kim Sturgess, Laurie Edey, Linda Lewis, Dawn Yateman, Shirley McGugan and Cathy Smith. To conclude this part of the program the intermediates and juniors sang a Japanese song "Sakura".

The senior girls staged a play entitled "The Church Ladies' Aid Supper". This comedy, supposedly in the Church, was received with much laughter by the members of the UCW. Those taking part were: Janice Jeffrey, Laurie Burnham, Heather Meldrum, Leeann Doran, Ruth Nesbitt, Marilyn Smith and Kim Allin.

The girls concluded the entertainment with the singing of the CGIT song accompanied by Susan Sisson on guitar.

Mrs. Dorothy Locke expressed thanks to the girls.

Following the program, UCW president, Mrs. Lois Edey, held a short business meeting and then the group dispersed to examine a display of Japanese clothing and articles belonging to Susan Hunter.

Club Activities

CENTENNIAL TOPS

The regular weekly meeting of Belleville Centennial TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) was held at St. Thomas' Parish Hall.

The monthly crowning ceremony took place with a tie between two members for a seven-pound loss, each, for the month of March. Runners-up received gems for their losses.

The members recently held two auction sales to raise expense money to send the leader and the Queen for 1967 to the TOPS convention held at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto.

WEDDING

PEARSON — LA BRASH

FRANKFORD — On Saturday, April 13th at 3 p.m. in Trinity Anglican Church, Frankford, Rev. M. Caswell united in marriage Barbara Rita La Brash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred La Brash of R. R. 2, Belleville with Gordon Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Pearson of Frankford in a double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with pots of white lilies.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length bridal A-line gown of white crepe with lace sleeves and train flowing from her shoulders. Her four tiered veil was held by a rhinestone crown. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Maid of honour was Miss Patricia Jones of Codrington who wore a floor length green brocade gown with hat and shoes to match and carried a bouquet of yellow and white carnations. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Gregg La Brash of Batawa, sister-in-law of the bride and Miss Nadine McDermaid of Toronto both wearing identical yellow floor length gowns with matching hat and shoes, and carried bouquets of mauve and white carnations.

Groomsman was Donald Pearson of Frankford, brother of the bridegroom and ushers were George La Brash of Batawa, brother of the bride and Bruce Pearson, of Frankford, brother of the bridegroom.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Lyle Bamber. A duet was sung by Mrs. Charles Hill and Mrs. Frances Frost.

The wedding reception was held in Trinity Church Parish Hall, where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a blue suit with white accessories and corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing a green lace suit with white accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to Peterborough and Algonquin Park, the bride wore a white bonded lace suit with a light green coat and white accessories and a corsage of red carnations.

They will reside at R. R. 1, Frankford.

Women's Hospital Auxiliary Plans Hospital Ball as Spring Highlight

Mrs. Grant Harvey presided at the April meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary meeting. There was a good attendance despite the fact it was really too nice to be indoors.

Discussions about decorating the solaria and other projects were held over till a later meeting. Potted begonias were distributed to the patients of the hospital at Easter. The new A.M.P.M. portable radio for pediatrics is now in the ward.

Plans for the Hospital Ball are progressing favorably. This event is being held May 3, 1968 at the Sun Valley Motor Inn. There will be both dancing and bridge with an appetizing smorgasbord at the close.

Other coming events for May are a tea by the auxiliary for the graduating nurses and their mothers on May 4 and Hospital Day which is May 12, 1968.

At the meeting Mrs. W. Finkle on behalf of the Auxiliary congratulated Mrs. J. E. Buchan, a former president of the hospital auxiliary on receiving a Centennial Medal. Mrs. Buchan has done a tremendous job for the auxiliary in the past. Also for other Hospital Auxiliaries in the province.

Guest speaker for the meeting, John Deacon was introduced by Mrs. Herbert Brown. Mr. Deacon is the chairman of the Board of Governors for the new Regional Nurses' Training School to be opened in Belleville to be called The Edith Cavell Regional School of Nursing. The region includes Belleville, Trenton, Campbellford and Picton. Plans for this school is being placed out.

A new seven storey dormitory is to be built to house the student nurses. Between 145 and 150 are to live in the new residence.

This is a new concept in nursing training as set out by the Department of Health for the Province of Ontario.

The course is called a two and one course — two years of study theory and continued use of experience where quality is the key factor in learning. The third year is a clinical year.

To do this exacting and time consuming work they have engaged Mrs. Madge Pindall as the principal of the new Regional School.

Mr. Deacon said he hoped as soon as the nursing school could take advantage of some of the facilities at Loyalist College, also a new concept in education in the Belleville area.

Mrs. Ev Campbell thanked Mr. Deacon for his most informative talk and for showing the plan of the proposed building which is to be in front of and to the west of Education Hall.

The meeting ended with a delightful cup of tea. During conversation members were reminded once again of the Hospital Ball to be held at Sun Valley Inn, May 3 which will be a highlight of the spring season.

PC Women's Group Formed

The Tyendinaga Conservative Women held a meeting at Melrose in the Township Hall recently for the purpose of organizing a Women's Conservative Association.

Mrs. Gladys Rollins and Mrs. Bertha Aitkins of the Thurlow Association attended and gave suggestions of how to organize.

Mrs. Rollins conducted the elections of officers as follows: president, Mrs. Gerald Stratton; 1st vice-pres., Mrs. Wm. Cooney; 2nd vice-pres., Mrs. Finley Elmy; sec. Treas., Mrs. Ken Vivian.

Chairwomen for each poll were selected.

Plans were made for a home baking sale in April and the meeting closed with a social half hour.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Carman Dafoe, R. R. 1, Corbyville, announce the engagement of their daughter Judith Anne to Mr. John Roy Holgate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Holgate, Corbyville, on May 18, 1968 at 2 p.m. in St. Mark's United Church, Carrollton.

Teenager Has Intense Fear of Dying

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 19-year-old girl who needs your help. I couldn't possibly discuss this problem with anyone else because they'd think I was insane. What bothers me is that they would probably be right.

I have an intense fear of dying that is driving me batty. When I read the obituaries in the newspaper I get panicky and start to shake, even though the people who died are strangers. A few months ago a friend of mine lost her sweetheart in a car accident. She was not a close friend and I hadn't seen her for more than two or three times, but I couldn't eat or think straight for weeks. She was dating again before I was able to get a good night's sleep.

I keep imagining that I have all sorts of fatal diseases although I have never been seriously ill. I am afraid of doctors and always have been.

Please don't suggest a psychiatrist. I can't afford one. Can you help me? — S.O.S.

DEAR S.O.S.: If you had a severe toothache would you ask me not to suggest that you go to a dentist? You need psychiatric help. I am telling you to get it.

Your preoccupation with death may be related to a childhood fear which has nothing to do with death. You must get the cobwebs out of your head and you need help to do it. Almost every city has mental health facilities which are free or extremely reasonable. Some of these clinics have sitting lists and others are actively looking for patients. Write to the headquarters of the National Association for Mental Health, 10 Columbus Circle, New York City, N.Y.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is a very restless sleeper. Kermit thrashes around all night and keeps me up. But that's not the worst of it. He has been clipping me on the chin, banging me in the mouth and this morning I have a black eye from where his elbow caught me.

I told Kermit we must get twin beds and he says we can't afford new furniture right now. What would you think about me putting up a board between us until we can afford the twin beds? Here at home I get — BLACK AND BLUE.

DEAR B. AND B.: Yes, it does. Maybe after Kermit bangs his head on the board a few dozen times he'll learn to sleep like a gentleman. P.S. Has it occurred to you that he may be doing things "in his sleep" that he hasn't the nerve to do when he is awake? He may need professional help.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It all started as a joke, but it isn't funny any more. A boy in my class took my wristwatch as a gag. I removed it when I put on some hand cream. I saw him take the watch off my desk and he knows I saw him because he said, "This will cost you $10 to get it back."

Two days have passed and now he says he hasn't got my watch. What shall I do? — TIMELESS.

DEAR TIMELESS: Tell him the joke is over and to return your watch at once or you will report it to the teacher as "stolen" — along with details.

U.C.W. Meetings

FRANKFORD UCW

FRANKFORD — The president of the Coboconk-Trasbasterial of the United Church Women was guest speaker at the Easter meeting of Frankford UCW Tuesday night in the church.

She discussed women in God's world and outlined the problems confronting women returning to work. She closed with the plea of the housewives: "Give us status too."

The sanctuary was decorated with yellow and white mums and yellow candles to set the Easter theme.

Mrs. J. Weese and Mrs. J. Beach greeted guests from Batawa, Zion, Stockdale and Wooler. Mrs. R. Rowe, Mrs. R. Baur, Mrs. G. Savage and Mrs. F. Morse conducted the worship service. Miss Raelen Rowe, accompanied by Mrs. E. Sykes, sang a solo; Miss Anne Beach played two violin solos; and a triple trio from the church choir sang a selection.

WEEDS BUGGING YOU?

There isn't a lawn, garden or farm in Canada that doesn't have a weed problem. But it's amazing how little people know about weed control.

WEEDS IN LAWNS are a cinch. Ordinary 2, 4D controls most of them, but KILLEX (improved 2, 4D in layman's terms) handles every broadleafed turf grass weed you've ever seen, properly applied at the right stage of growth. KILLEX kills dandelions, plantain, chickweed, etc., without harming turf grasses, but shouldn't be used exactly in the season, when weeds are young, tender and growing rapidly.

GRASS WEEDS IN GARDENS & AMONG SHRUBS can be completely irradicated in no time without harm to desired plants with the terrific new product WEEDRITE (Grammoxone to farmers). This product, readily soluble in water, kills all growth on contact in a few days' time, but doesn't affect mature brown bark (Hedge plants, trees, etc.) so can be sprayed directly onto the base of such plants. WEEDRITE is completely neutralized upon contact with the soil, so does not interfere with subsequent plantings of seeds or plants. Its' death of quack grass; just spray the whole garden, wait a week until the quack turns white, then cultivate and plant.

YOUNG TREES, BRUSH & HARDY PERENNIALS are easy prey to BRUSH-KILLER. It's the same product that the hydro and the Department of Highways use along right-of-ways, power lines etc. Just follow directions on the container and be careful to drench when leaves are full grown and right to the roots. Also death on Poison Ivy.

GERMINATING WEEDS IN SHRUBS, ROSE BEDS, ETC. are empty all the time. Simply wait until seedlings of desired plant are over 2 inches high (after final cultivation for roses etc.) then apply CASEY-PITE over entire area. CASEY-PITE is in granular form to the surface of the soil. A barrier is immediately formed against germinating from seeds. Just think of the hours of labor you can save.

Remember "Nature Abhors a Vacuum" . . . she'll fill every vacant spot with weeds if you let her have her way, but you vacant spot with weeds if you let her have her way, but you with these chemicals.

Other Girls Flirt with Fiance at Party

Dear Doris: I am engaged to be married soon. My boy friend has a good job and I am quite proud of him.

Whenever there's a company party the girls flirt with him. One night one girl came and sat on his knee and was kissing him. I didn't say anything but of course I was hurt. I love him with all my heart.

I don't know whether he is flirting at work, or what! Should I just let it go or flirt with someone else, or say something to him? Doris, he says he loves me and only me. Puzzled.

Dear Puzzled: Flirting with someone else is no solution, so that's out.

We don't know that he encourages the office flirts, so don't accuse him. But a man may like to be thought a good fellow by his work mates — so he is not exactly pushing them away.

Nuptials are nearing. No time to harbor this kind of a secret sorrow. Better get it all out in the open and let him know how you feel.

Dear Doris: Would you please stress the fact to readers that a child with a reading problem who has done well in a test after hard studying, but has not quite reached the normal grade, is helped more by some praise and encouragement than by ignoring her problem?

My girl has come home many time in tears, throwing down her books, and declaring that she is not going to study any more. "It does not help anyway!"

It takes a good deal of tact to reason with her and to defend the teacher. I strongly believe in a child's respect and trust for a teacher, but it can get monotonous after a while. — A Mother.

Dear Mother: I'm with you 40 ways.

Dear Doris: My daughter plans her wedding for June.

Now I'd like to know, if I am called on to make a speech on behalf of the bride's family, what does a mother say? — A Widow of 30.

Dear Widow: Ordinarily a father gives a daughter away, and responds to the toast to the bride's parents.

If there is an uncle or family friend "in loco parentis" who is giving your girl away, he would be the one to take care of you and respond for you.

But there's no reason you can't speak yourself if you care to.

Your remarks should be cheery, friendly; glad to welcome a new man into the family; grateful for every moment you have had with your daughter as she grew from babyhood to a lovely bride. Make it warm, perhaps amusing, not long.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Use for Leftover Mashed Potatoes

By MARY MOORE

Two Home Economist friends of mine worked out a recipe called Frontenac Potatoes and gave it to me to try because of their pride in it.

You see the idea is to use up deliverately leftover mashed potatoes (or instant mashed potatoes from a package) to make a facsimile of baked potatoes with the ever-so-popular chive and sour cream topping.

It was a great hit when I served it to five people on Sunday.

FRONTENAC POTATOES

(serves 4 or 5 - courtesy Irs Gillespie and Eileen Campsall)

2 cups stiff cold mashed potatoes, well packed two-third cup dairy sour cream
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley (or bottled flakes)
1 tablespoon finely chopped chives (or bottled flakes)
¼ teaspoon salt
NOTE: Mashed potatoes must be stiff and cold and you need at least 2 cups. (If you use Instant mashed potatoes use 1¼ cups hot water, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup milk, 2¼ cups instant potato flakes, but no butter, and combine as directed on package. Chill.)

Form into large potato shape approximately the size of a potato. Have ready about 2 cups fine brown bread crumbs or corn flake crumbs or finely rolled shredded wheat biscuits. Roll the potatoes in them to make them look like baked potatoes in their brown skins. Place on well buttered shallow baking dish. (I used a 10" pyrex pie plate.) Make deep indentations in top centre with your gravy ladle and fill liberally with a mixture of sour cream, parsley, chives and salt. Bake at 325 deg. F.for, until heated through — about 20 to 25 minutes — and cream starts to brown a little. Carefully, with pancake turner, lift to preheated flat serving plate.

I served these with Braised Celery and Green Peppers (serves 4 or 5), made by sauteing together in 3 tablespoons butter over heat (very low); 2¼ cups coarsely chopped inner celery and 1 coarsely cut green pepper with 1 teaspoon chicken soup granules, covered, for 15 minutes, or until celery was barely tender.

Winters Rejects Economic Czar Job

Change Comes Monday

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Trudeau spent half an hour with Governor - General Michener Thursday and made arrangements to be sworn in as prime minister Monday afternoon.

Mr. Trudeau's visit to Government House followed an informal one by Prime Minister Pearson who tendered an oral resignation to the Governor-General. The resignation will not be accepted until Monday.

The moves made official what has been known for some time —that Monday has been selected as the day for Mr. Trudeau and his new cabinet to take over the reins of government.

A Government House announcement early Thursday said Mr. Pearson had given his formal letter of resignation to Mr. Michener. But a spokesman later said this was incorrect, the resignation was oral only.

Mr. Pearson advised the Governor-General to summon Mr. Trudeau, elected Liberal leader April 6, with a request to form a government. Mr. Trudeau, awaiting the call, drove to Government House and advised Mr. Michener he would be ready to oblige Monday afternoon.

Parliament resumes its session Tuesday afternoon.

"Here's one, Judy. Good pay, plus a nice white house in Washington."

Canada Pledges NATO Force Won't Be Cut

THE HAGUE (AP) — Leo Cadieux, Canada's defence minister, said today he has told leaders of the Atlantic alliance that Canada is not reducing its military contribution this year and will review its commitment for 1969.

Statements by Pierre Elliott Trudeau, who Monday becomes Canada's prime minister, had been interpreted to mean that Canada was pulling out of NATO, he said.

"Some of the others were feeling pretty uncomfortable" Cadieux explained in an interview today "and I felt justified in putting things right."

Cadieux spoke Thursday at the start of a two-day session of the nuclear planning group of NATO. The meeting is being held behind closed doors to map out guidelines for the tactical use of nuclear weapons as a deterrent to attack by the Soviet Union, and in case of war.

Cadieux said Canada wants a strong and effective alliance.

Twin Portfolios Offered by Trudeau

By Ken Clark

OTTAWA (CP) — Robert Winters, beaten by Pierre Elliott Trudeau for the Liberal party leadership, has decided against a return to the cabinet under formation by the new Liberal leader.

Mr. Trudeau announced Thursday the 57-year-old former trade minister had rejected an "important portfolio" in the new cabinet, to be announced Monday. Mr. Winters would retain his York West Commons seat for the present.

Although Mr. Trudeau did not say so, the portfolio was said to be a new one combining trade and industry, now under Charles M. Drury.

Mr. Winters resigned his trade portfolio just before the April 4-6 party leadership convention. He ran second in that race to Mr. Trudeau.

Mr. Winters apparently leaned more to a resumption of his profitable business career, interrupted in 1965 when Prime Minister Pearson persuaded him to return to federal politics.

Winters people said he planned to "silently fade away" with no hard words for anybody. They rejected suggestions he opted out because he did not get what he wanted in the Trudeau cabinet.

Several factors led to his decision to stay out; family pressure, lure of the business world and the knowledge that he had only about half-a-dozen years left to devote to whatever field he selected at this point.

Mr. Winters, restive in the Pearson cabinet over government economic policy, was further unsettled by recent reports he wanted a deputy prime minister's post. The reports were labelled erroneous.

There also are indications that Mr. Winters, with a business career not far from his mind, was unwilling to give a long-term commitment to remain in the cabinet.

His departure gives Mr. Trudeau more room to manoeuvre at the top in the cabinet-making process, which has been going on for 11 days.

It reinforces speculation that External Affairs Minister Martin, another unsuccessful leadership candidate, could switch to justice to make room for Finance Minister Sharp in external.

Treasury Board President Benson could go to finance. Either Consumer Affairs Minister Turner or Energy Minister Pepin could move up to trade.

Doctors' New President Hints Medicare Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president-elect of the Canadian Medical Association said Thursday night a nationwide doctors' strike may be the last resort in the profession's battle for changes in federal medical care insurance legislation.

Dr. H. D. Dalgleish of Saskatoon was speaking at the fourth annual convention of the Canadian Association of Medical Clinics and the Medical Group Management Association of Canada.

Dr. Dalgleish was president of the Saskatchewan Medical Association in 1962 when Saskatoon doctors withdrew their services to protest sections of the provincial medical care plan.

"What else are we going to do?" he said. "We're not unionized."

Dr. Dalgleish said there is hope that sections of the medical care bill with which doctors disagree will be changed.

"I'd hope that pressure from the provinces causes modifications," the incoming CMA president said. "Confrontations between the profession . . . have occurred in every country which has a state medicalplan.

"As long as the state is the only source of medical insurance, conflict is inevitable, and it will be continual and serious.

"We should prepare for a national health plan as inflexible and unapproachable as that of Britain.

"At the same time, I hope doctors' will not have to withdraw their services, as was done once before.

"To remain a profession we must retain our freedom, and to do that we must, if absolutely necessary, be militant."

Dr. Dalgleish said later in an interview that withdrawal of all but emergency services is the only real weapon doctors have in disputes with government.

He said his distaste for compulsory national health insurance plans is caused by the fact that money is the sole area of contact between the medical profession and the government.

Hospital Plan Is Under Attack

HAMILTON (CP) — A Hamilton labor official charged Thursday night that the Ontario government has "hoodwinked the public" ever since the Ontario hospital insurance plan came into effect in 1959.

Ben Dorrington, chairman of the Hamilton and District Labor Council's political action committee, claimed that recent premium increases were "unwarranted and unfair."

He said the provincial government has never lived up to its original obligation to pay one-third of the cost of the plan.

Even in 1959, he said the provincial government paid only 31 per cent of the cost, with the federal government paying 45 per cent and the premiums bringing 42 per cent.

U.S. Lists Ten Sites Acceptable for Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, indicating growing impatience with the impasse over where to make initial peace contacts with North Vietnam, is looking to Hanoi for a speedy reply to the latest American proposal listing 10 new potential sites.

Although the new U.S. proposal raised to 15 the number of countries it lists as acceptable locations for such talks, diplomatic sources in Washington were betting, that Paris—not included in the newly padded total —would eventually be agreed on by both countries.

These diplomats, including some from countries allied with the United States in the war, reasoned that since neither Washington nor Hanoi has mentioned Paris as a possible site its compromise selection would result in neither side losing face.

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin indicated how important such a face-saving compromise might be in Hanoi when he said Thursday in Rawalpindi, Pakistan, that North Vietnam will conduct peace talks "as a nation that has not been vanquished, that has not been defeated."

Coffee Break At One Plant Is Ford Issue

TORONTO (CP) — A United Auto Workers union official says the hinge that will swing a settlement in the strike against Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. is the relief system at the Talbotville plant.

More than 11,000 workers in five Ontario centres have been on strike since Tuesday.

"Local issues have been solved in Windsor and Niagara Falls and we are very close in Bramalea. There are a few small sticklers in Oakville but it is Talbotville that presents the problem," said a union official.

The issue there involves the union's request that the plant shutdown for two 10-minute breaks instead of continuing the current practice of individual relief.

"The men state that because Talbotville is a fairly new plant there are not enough experienced workers who can provide relief in a variety of jobs."

Tight Money Faces Consumers in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans face the prospect of harder-to-get loans at higher interest rates following the second increase in little more than a month in U.S. federal reserve system's discount rate.

The discount rate is the charge commercial banks must pay when they borrow money from the U.S. federal reserve. Other interest rates are pegged upward from it.

The federal Reserve Board approved effective today a discount rate of 5.5 per cent for three of its 12 banks — New York, Philadelphia and Minneapolis. It had been five per cent.

The other nine banks are expected to follow.

The new rate is the highest since just before the 1929 stock market crash when it went to six per cent.

All three received medals from Warden Calvin White at yesterday's Hastings county council meeting.

Ottawa Mum on Dispute Over Quebec Attendance at Parley

OTTAWA (CP) — "No decision" and "no comment" were about the extent of Ottawa reaction Thursday to the latest developments, or lack of them, in the dispute with Quebec and Paris.

The dispute involves Canadian representation, if any, at an international education conference of 37 French-speaking nations opening in Paris Monday.

Quebec will attend, as it did the first session of the conference in Gabon in February. Canada suspended diplomatic relations with Gabon, a French-speaking country in West Africa, for inviting Quebec and not Ottawa.

Prime Minister Pearson has said that Canada treats big and small nations alike.

Mr. Pearson has not yet replied to a letter from Premier Johnson of Quebec, received here last week, on the situation.

Apparently no decision has been made whether he will reply at all. He will cease to be prime minister Monday and, in any event, he had already sent at least two letters to Mr. Johnson on the subject.

Officials said no decision has been taken on when Jules Leger, Canadian ambassador to France, will return to Paris.

He arrived here Saturday for consultations—he has talked to Mr. Pearson and to Liberal Leader Trudeau, who becomes prime minister Monday—and officials said Tuesday he would return in a "few days."

Paris notified Quebec of the Quebec education conference, begun in Gabon, would resume.

Federal Minister Blames Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government's dispute with Quebec and Paris over international affairs is Ottawa's fault, Mines Minister Pepin said Thursday night.

The federal government "neglected the French aspect of foreign affairs, so Quebec stepped in," Mr. Pepin said in an address to a science symposium.

In a direct referenfe to the dispute over whether Canada or the Province of Quebec should be represented at an educational conference opening Monday in Paris, Mr. Pepin said "If the federal government had assumed responsibility . . . this wouldn't have happened and we wouldn't be suffering now."

Quebec Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal arrived in Paris today for the second session of a conference opened last February in Gabon, a French-speaking west African republic.

It sent no invitation to Ottawa.

The big worry here is that the Gabon-France action could set a precedent by which Quebec—or any other province—could deal as a sovereign state with other countries in fields under its own jurisdiction.

Ottawa claims sole jurisdiction in any arrangements with other countries. Quebec claims it has the authority to make such arrangements in fields under its jurisdiction, such as education.

Mr. Trudeau said Wednesday that present circumstances do not warrant Canada breaking diplomatic relations with France.

He indicated no Canadian action will be taken at least until after the Paris conference starts and France's treatment of the Quebec delegation becomes apparent.

Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal of Quebec told a news conference Thursday in Quebec that he does not believe there will be a confrontation between the federal and provincial governments on the issue.

"I believe there is a solution to this problem, if a problem exists at all."

Mr. Pearson and Mr. Trudeau have both said the problem can be resolved.

But how it can be has not yet been set out.

No Increase in Hastings County Tax Rate--Budget $3,396,352

County administration is now in the field of big business!

This was indicated at Hastings county council yesterday when members approved a 1968 budget in the amount of $3,396,352 -- approximately three times over the amount of seven years ago when Clerk - Treasurer Administrator Carl E. Bateman assumed office.

The year's budget as presented by Mr. Bateman was approved without change by the county body.

The mill rate for municipalities within the county roads system will remain at 27.857 mills, the same as last year. The road rate at 12.5 mills, is also the same.

The county levy will raise a total of $891,447.82 -- the amount required after grants and other revenue are taken into consideration.

With the exception of administration of justice costs, this year taken over by the province, county expenditures are increased pretty well all along the line. However the county was able to hold the tax line because justice costs are eliminated.

Mr. Bateman said the tax base on which rates will be levied will be $34,289,493, up 333,996 over last year, a growth rate felt to be rather slow.

He urged that every effort be expended to encourage development in any form.

The big county expenditure as usual is the county roads system on which a total of $1,653,282 is now expended this year. This includes a figure of $763,000 for development roads.

The roads figure for 1968 is down slightly from $1,694,694 last year.

General government costs are up to $311,333 as compared to $232,783 last year, or an increase of $78,600. This, however, includes an amount of $21,500 to be set aside and added to the county's $124,237 in reserve funds. Last year's county surplus was given as $66,984.

Other increases under general government were said mainly the result of increased salaries, increased honorariums (council pay was boosted to $20 per day, and the warden's honorarium was increased by $1,000, and added a number of personnel.

But the biggest increase in the county budget will be in the costs of social and family services which this year will amount to an estimated $1,150,273 up $671,282 from the $478,221 figure last year.

General welfare assistance will cost an estimated $376,732, welfare administration $31,321 and the county share of the health unit $30,415.

The net cost to the county alone for general welfare assistance will be $438,468 after all subsidies and revenues are accounted for.

(The new county welfare unit taking in the city of Belleville will go into operation on May 1.)

Children's Aid expenditures are up by $23,025, as result of increased salaries, increased personnel and the fact that the CAS is now occupying new rented accommodation.

Expenditures at Hastings Manor are estimated at $209,940 with revenues of $457,180 leaving a net operating cost of $37,760. The Hastings Centennial Manor costs at Bancroft are estimated at $112,150 with revenues at $88,850, leaving a net of $22,220.

Mr. Bateman said that possibly the brightest spot in the $28 will go towards the reduction in debt on the Belleville General Hospital.

The county also this year is budgeting for an amount of $23,800 as the first payment on the addition to Hastings Manor.

The local share of county roads costs (after subsidy) will be $364,873.24, while $413,565.58 will be raised by the general levy of 12.061 mills.

The debentures levy will amount to $113,007 -- $71,610 for the county home and $74,197 for the hospital.

Is Hastings County 'Short End of the Stick?'

With the province of Ontario taking over all administration of justice costs Hastings county will save more than $100,000 this year but there is a feeling that the county may still be getting the short end of the stick.

County Clerk Treasurer-Administrator Carl Bateman told council at its budget meeting yesterday that he was still unable to give an accurate forecast of how the county will fare as no arrangements have yet been made with the province regarding rental of court house accommodation.

He said he had been told verbally that the county would receive $1 per square foot in annual rent for above ground facilities and 50 cents for below ground accommodation.

Also, he had been told that where there is an outstanding debenture when payments will be made by the province to meet this debt and the amount deducted from the amount received as rent.

And that is where the rub comes in.

Mr. Bateman said debt payments on the county administration building amount to $36,000 annually but this cost is assumed by Belleville and Trenton.

The reason for this is that at the time the building was constructed the county paid its share through increased levy while Belleville and Trenton debentured their share.

The county administration of justice occupies about 20,000 square feet in the county administration building and according to the rental figure proposed by the province this would mean a rental of $20,000 per year.

"However," Mr. Bateman said, "since the debt charges amount to far more than the rental expected, it would appear at first glance that the county will receive nothing and would be unfairly penalized because they chose to pay for their share of the building rather than debenture it."

The $1 per square foot rental figure for the comparatively new accommodation in Belleville was also considered to be unfair.

Accommodation in many other counties was said to be of far less value, yet according to the provincial formula, the same $1 rental rate would be received.

Getting Stick?"

An added problem insofar as Hastings county is concerned is that according to the provincial proposal, rents would be paid only for 15 years, then ownership would be vested with the province.

Council is concerned with the possibility that in 10 years time it would be asked to vacate its present virtually new quarters.

In the meantime the province is expected to pay between 60 and 70 per cent of the maintenance costs at the county building.

Council is now wondering if in consideration of the higher class accommodation, a higher rental figure than the $1 per square foot can be worked out with the province.

Auditorium Project

The Belleville Parks Board has agreed in principle with the request of the Belleville Agricultural Society to proceed with construction of the auditorium as the first stage of the proposed arena community centre complex at the local fairgrounds.

No cost figures have yet been worked out and financing of the auditorium is still to be arranged.

The approvement in principle decision for the auditorium construction was made by parks board members at a meeting held yesterday at city hall.

Plans would call for construction of a pre-engineered structure of 120 by 200 feet with a ceiling height of 20 feet. Construction would conform in appearance with the general outlines of the proposed arena structure.

The only site seriously considered for the auditorium is the site of the old cattle sheds building. The south wall of the auditorium would abut the proposed arena.

Depending on availability of finances, construction of the building shell would be completed in time for this year's Belleville Fair.

The proposed building would provide a free unobstructed area of 110 by 80 feet (8,800 square feet) and would provide space for fair displays, volleyball, dancing, banquets, basketball and other activities.

The building would also provide storage area, dressing rooms, washrooms and a refrigerated area for staging Belleville fair cheese shows.

Firm Modifies Oil Facilities

Plans of Domtar Chemicals Ltd., Canada Division of Trenton, calling for $23,000 modifications to oil removal facilities, have been approved by the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

The firm, which is located on the Trent River, will construct additional retaining walls to direct oil - bearing waste to treatment units and will modify existing oil separator and inclinator units.

Completion of the program is scheduled for next August.

Builder Honored

"Guess it could be called "Past President's Night," said Stan Stafford of Ontario Hydro and a member of the Quinte Homebuilders Association.

He was referring to last night's meeting of the homebuilder's which was held to honor former presidents of the association. All of the former executives of the organization were not able to make it but a show average turnout made the night a success.

All of the former chiefs were awarded citation plaques in recognition of their leadership in the organization which began seven years ago.

The idea for a builder's organization was the brainchild of Charles Lambert, who was the first president. Since then membership has continually grown until now members from every facet of the building industry are represented.

"It gives those concerned with building a chance to get together once a month and discuss and in some cases find solutions to problems in our industry," Mr. Lambert said.

President of the Quinte Homebuilder's for this year is Al Horlock who awarded the plaques. Immediate past president is Douglas Bone who came down from Toronto for the event.

There is still one more meeting scheduled for 1968 before the Homebuilder's retire for the summer.

Homebuilders at Home

Former presidents of the Quinte Homebuilders' Association Maurice Rollins, Don Keller, Charles Lambert, Douglas Bone and Al Horlock look over a new home going up on Highway 2. A meeting honoring the former executives was held last night and they were awarded silver trays by 1968 president Al Horlock.

IN MEMORIAM

MACDONALD — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Claude Macdonald who passed away April 19, 1963.
He looked down on the earth,
He saw that it was good,
He put His arms around you,
And took you to rest.
God's garden must be beautiful,
For He only takes the best.
—Sadly missed and remembered by his wife Janet and sons.

McPHERSON — In loving memory of our dear father Duncan who passed away April 19, 1965.
The blow was sudden, the shock severe,
We little thought he was so near.
We think of him in silent prayer,
Our loving father is always there.
—Never forgotten by sons Clarence, Robert and daughter-in-law Carole.

McPHERSON — In memory of my dear husband Duncan who passed away suddenly April 19, 1965.
Your place is filled, your memory I treasure,
But in my heart you will live on forever.
—Forever remembered by wife Ellen.

McPHERSON — In loving memory of a dear father Duncan (Dickey) who passed away April 19, 1965.
Dad, how the years are suffering,
Since you left us to suffer alone.
No one knows how we miss you,
Only those who have lost a father.
Away in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of Paradise,
Some time, dear Dad, we know not when,
We'll meet you again.
—Always remembered and sadly missed by daughter Emily, Ruby, Laurna and Blanche.

SWEENEY — In loving memory of our dear daughter Jean Sweeney who passed away April 19, 1965.
You're not forgotten, granddaughter dear,
Nor will you be,
As long as life and memory last,
We will remember you.
—Never forgotten by grandmother Wood, Woodstock, Ont.

Prince Edward Subdivision Bylaw

By DAVID LEES
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Six of Prince Edward county's 10 municipalities lie open to exploitation by "unscrupulous outside land developers."

Area councillors and municipal officials here urged yesterday to adopt a 'subdivision control by-law' that would prevent that situation by J. M. Anderson, representative of the community planning branch of the Ontario department of municipal affairs.

The bylaw is already in effect in Picton, Ameliasburg Hallowell and Hillier.

Without the bylaw, communities have little say as to land sales, or land developments.

"Uncontrolled development will cost the municipality, and the general taxpayer large amounts of money, for the benefit of a single person," said Mr. Anderson.

"Indiscriminate development in the townships will affect school bus routes, traffic speeds, and can even present health problems," he added.

With enforcement of the bylaw, permission must first be obtained from the community planning branch, Toronto, every time land can be sold or broken into lots.

The stipulations that must be met ensure that the land is suitable to its projected use. Subdividers, for instance, must prove that the soil of the property is of the proper nature and porosity to contain septic tanks, or guarantee that proper sewage facilities will be installed; that proper roads, curbs and gutters will be provided, and that lot sizes are adequate.

"Otherwise," explained Mr. Anderson, "municipalities can be left holding the bag, being forced to provide the proper facilities themselves."

The bylaw places the community in such a position that it can negotiate with the developer to the advantage of both.

"In extreme cases, the planning branch can step in to control the situation, without any bylaw," he said.

He noted that although the planning branch gave the impression of being highly restrictive, it was in actuality flexible, and "willing to play ball" to fit the circumstance.

He said that the land purchasers who encountered lengthy delays when dealing with the department, did so because they failed to send proper information and specifications.

When the control bylaw is in effect in an area, before land broken into lots, for sale or lease, the department must receive information regarding the location and widths of proposed or existing highways in the area, a plan and the nature of all land adjacent to the property, the purpose for which the lots are to be used, as well as their approximate dimensions and layouts, a list of all artificial features (buildings, railways) and natural landmarks (streams, swamps, wooded areas), the elevations of the land, the availability of natural water supplies, and available municipal services, and the nature and porosity of the soils.

Eight or more copies of the information must be provided for distribution to various departments, authorities and commissions.

Before permission to proceed is granted, the planning branch considers whether the proposed subdivision fits into the official area development plans. It forecasts whether the subdivision is premature, or necessary to the public; whether the land itself is suitable for the purposes of the subdivision; whether the road or highway system in the area is adequate; whether the subdivision is in keeping with the preservation of natural resources, and flood control in the area; and whether adequate school, municipal services and utilities are available.

Mr. Anderson pointed out that the bylaw, had been successful where ever it had been adopted.

He said that its rejection by municipal councils was largely due to the lack of understanding on the part of the council members.

He offered to return to this area to speak to councillors, as a group, or individually to iron out any misunderstandings.

Subdivision Control Explained

Members of the department of municipal affairs explained subdivision control legislation to Prince Edward County planners. Shown are Allan Railey, chairman of the Prince Edward planning board and T. M. Anderson and W. O. Dew of the department's planning branch.

Bancroft Centennial Manor Ready for Patients June 1

The $1,214,000 Hastings Centennial Manor at Bancroft is expected to be ready for admission of patients by June 1, members of Hastings county council were told Thursday.

The county homes management committee reported that North Hastings residents presently in Hastings Manor at Belleville will be given the opportunity of moving to the Bancroft home if they so wish. However, there will be no encouragement offered in either direction.

The two home superintendents, Kenneth Yorke and Gerald Caldwell, were said to be assessing the number of Hastings Manor residents considering a move to the Bancroft home and Mr. Yorke said it appeared as though 25 to 30 might want to make the move.

Mr. Yorke said that Hastings Manor now had a full complement of 247 residents but with the opening of Centennial Manor the occupancy pressure was expected to be relieved.

A per diem rate of $6.50 has been set by the Department of Social and Family Services for the Bancroft home.

The rate for Hastings Manor has not been set, but is expected to be in the neighborhood of $5.00.

The per diem rate for Bancroft will always be higher than at Belleville, mainly because it is a smaller institution with certain fixed overhead costs.

Request Hunting on Sunday

Hastings county council will petition the provincial government for legislation to permit Sunday hunting in Southern Ontario.

But the decision to make the request was far from unanimous with the 34 member council being almost evenly divided on the issue.

It was decided out that Sunday hunting was permitted in Northern Ontario, but was denied in the southern part of the province.

Movers of the resolution, Delore Reeve Charles Girdanier and Elzevir Reeve Kenneth Smith noted that fishing, sports and other forms of entertainment were allowed in the south part of the province.

They couldn't see that hunting was any different.

But Tweed Reeve Barbara Allen rose in support of the wild animals. "Aren't we going to give them any rest at all?" she asked.

Later several of the opposing reeves were heard to say that Sunday hunting would result in even more properties being posted.

"Even now it is not safe to work in the fields on Saturdays", commented one reeve.

Chamber Plans Ladies' Night And Dinner

TWEED — Members of the Tweed Chamber of Commerce will hold a Ladies' Night and dinner at the Hotel Tweedsmuir, Tweed, at 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 23rd.

The dinner will be part of the National Chamber of Commerce Week Program.

The speaker will be William W. Bittle, of Thomasburg, and of the Department of Lands and Forests, Tweed, who will show a film and discuss game and fur management. Owing to the size of the dining-room, at the Tweedsmuir, a limited number of tickets are available from Barry Hunter and Guy B. Hughes, who are in complete charge of the ticket sales.

Even the smallest community needs a constant ambassador of good will to the general public, to neighboring communities and the country at large. The Tweed Chamber of Commerce can and does perform this role with the members help.

The members are proud of the community, and an energetic organization like the Tweed Chamber of Commerce can make it an even better place to live and make a living, so say the members.

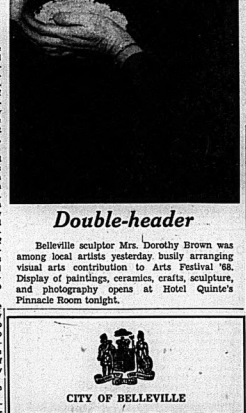
Criminal Negligence Charged

BRIGHTON — The Crown's case of criminal negligence against a Brighton man was enlarged until Wednesday May 22 after five hours of testimony in magistrate's court here yesterday.

Herbert C. Town, 35, of RR1, Brighton, was charged following a one-car accident December 9 which took the life of Delbert Cassidy, 51, of RR1, Hilton, riding with him.

Crown attorney Geoffery Bonnycastle objected to defence counsel Ron Cass insisting the expert witness answer questions pertaining to Cassidy's urine tests as well as his client's blood sample. Mr. Cass argued they were related while the Crown disagreed. Magistrate R. B. Balten heard both sides of the reasoning and then permitted defence counsel to continue his line of cross examination.

Donald Joss has been appointed chairman of advance gifts for the 1968 United Community Fund campaign. The campaign will take place from Sept. 23 to Oct. 7.



Camera Club Members Show Favorite Slides

The regular meeting of the Belleville Camera Club was held at the Kiwanis Centre on Wednesday evening with 18 members and guests present. Following the business portion of the meeting slides from the recent competition — "Snow Scenes" — were shown. The winners were: J. Lewis first place, E. Ineson second place, J. Lewis third place.

Several club members showed a number of their favorite slides including a picture story of a sugar bush operation with an interesting commentary by D. Julien. These slides were an outstanding example of how any operation can be presented in an interesting and easy to understand manner by the use of pictures together with a carefully prepared explanation. As Mr. Julien pointed out, one need not go far afield to find interesting photographic subjects to treat in this manner.

It was announced that the Belleville Horticultural Society has extended an invitation to members of the Camera Club to attend their meeting at Tabernacle Church on May 14th when Professor E. E. Watson of Queen's University will show color slides of wild flowers.

The meeting concluded with refreshments.

U. K.'s Lead

The traditional image of the Briton as a conservative, reserved individual has undergone considerable modification in recent years.

Perhaps it would be more correct to say the image has been shattered, never to be restored. In every sphere except perhaps in industry and commerce the country has been a pacesetter.

British inventiveness is always manifesting itself. The miniskirt heralded a charming new dimension on the ever-changing fashion scene. The Beatles' dabbling in the philosophy of an Indian mystic has stirred interest too. A host of engineering accomplishments — from the jet engine to the hovercraft — originated in Britain.

In some ways this kind of leadership has fallen short of high standards of conduct. A growing permissiveness and lack of discipline among people generally have been more noticeable perhaps in Britain than anywhere else.

If there is such a lowering of standards, an effort is also being made to match the mood of the times, to assist the natural process of evolution. Such a development is the introduction of a "youth charter."

A committee presided over by a judge has recommended that young people be permitted to marry at the age of about 18 without parental consent — even though it is generally conceded this will lead to an increase in the divorce rate.

And if divorce is one problem in Britain, there is another. At a family planning conference in London recently an obstetrician said that in 1966 38,500 teenage brides, or one in three, were pregnant.

In any event, new proposals also give teenagers most other rights and responsibilities of adults except the vote.

The advantage of giving tangible expression to the growing maturity of young people is that an even greater maturity and stability may be expected from generations to come. And it is to be hoped these qualities will accrue despite the permissiveness we mentioned earlier and which constitutes one of the major social problems of our day.

Quinte Development

Revival of the Quinte area executive committee comprising area representatives who would meet to discuss matters of mutual interest is in harmony with the times.

Expansion is bound to affect the entire area, and ultimately existing boundaries will disappear.

In the past the committee discussed everything from water and sewer services to industrial publicity. Now its terms of reference may be expanded to include all phases of area development. This may be taken for mean discussion of the Quinte area of the future.

Belleville cannot live in isolation. It must reach out to its neighbors to an increasing extent. Fifty years from now this will be a very different place. By then the redevelopment of the city should have been accomplished, and it should be a better, brighter place. That it will be a bigger place is inevitable. Let us hope that from the planning now being undertaken will evolve a livelier and more attractive city.

The raw material is here — the people, the businesses and industries, the rich countryside. The executive committee for Quinte will have much to discuss, not only on the individual and community but with regard also to regional development. More and more that is the tendency today.

Lakehead Dilemma

A provincial government recommendation that the cities of Port Arthur and Fort William and their suburbs amalgamate is reported to have drawn mixed reactions from area officials.

This is not surprising. The separate history of the two cities goes back for more than a century. Each has its traditions and pride and these are factors that cannot be ignored.

Still, amalgamation may come one day. If it does, "Lakehead City," as it might well be called, could become one of the busiest communities in Canada.

The location of the twin cities could scarcely be surpassed. They straddle the Thunder Bay area of Lake Superior and look out to Isle Royale, Canada's (The Sleeping Giant), beyond that to Isle Royale, United States island territory that is part of the State of Michigan, while westward is the beautiful coastal region that extends across the border into Minnesota.

As one community Port Arthur and Fort William, which of course are the country's leading grain outlets, could look forward to progress on a much greater scale than they experience today as separate municipal entities.

Nova Scotia's Industry-boosting Agency Has Competition

By DAL WARRINGTON

HALIFAX (CP) — Nova Scotia's drive to industrialize its economy has bumped over rough roads lately. The resulting ripples in the development vehicle have led to some acrimonious debates in the legislature.

The success of Industrial Estates Ltd., the Nova Scotia Crown agency, in providing aid for the new secondary industry led other provinces to try similar methods. Thus the competition for new plants has been stiffening.

Despite this, IEL signed agreements with nine new industries and six expanding ones last year, the largest number in its 10-year history. High point was the opening of Anil Canada Ltd. $10,000,000 hardboard plant at East River on the north shore.

But this continuing development has been clouded to some extent by troubles at two of IEL's earlier projects—Clairtone Sound Corp. at Stellarton and Deuterium of Canada Ltd. of Glace Bay.

In addition, the recent withdrawal of Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. from both steel and coal production in the province produced shocks that will be felt for years to come. Steps have been taken to adjust to this blow but the final solution is not yet in sight.

The Clairtone and Deuterium problems have struck most of the sparks in the legislature. Clairtone's $4,000,000 Stellarton plant began turning out color television sets and responsible record players in 1966.

After employing up to 900 people at the peak of 1967 production the plant stopped assembly for about two months early this year. It resumed on a smaller scale with about 450 workers.

IEL took a controlling interest in the company last October after having to advance another $2,000,000 in working capital. More fireworks erupted in the house last week when it was disclosed the final assembly for steerage would be moved to Strathroy, Ont., to reduce freight costs on the cabinets.

This week Clairtone President Peter Munk announced a loss of more than $6,062,000 in 1967 operations, blaming most of it on a drastic drop in public demand for color TV.

Gerald Regan, the provincial Liberal leader, charged the government with reckless use of public funds, although supporting the concept represented by IEL.

Conservative Premier G. I. Smith contended that Mr. Regan's "irresponsible" charges could only serve to help Clairtone's competitors and magnify the company's admitted problems.

The Deuterium company's heavy-water plant at Glace Bay was to have begun producing for automatic plants by mid-1956. Delays of one kind or another have postponed the start until at least next October.

Mounting costs and difficulty in raising capital have resulted in the company being taken over by the Nova Scotia government—98 per cent of Deuterium shares owned directly and 51 per cent by IEL.

The final cost of this first commercial-size heavy-water plant in North America has risen to $92,500,000 from $30,000,000 according to figures given the legislature industry committee by Deuterium officials.

However, the company treasurer, James Smart, says a 13½-year contract to Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. ensures that the plant will be "substantially paid off" by the time the contract expires.

As for Clairtone, Mr. Munk said steps are being taken to increase efficiency at Stellarton and elsewhere.

"With substantial management and operational changes," he says, "we may be able to the future with confidence and optimism."

But despite current problems the industrial side of the Nova Scotia economy is changing, especially in Cape Breton Island. The Cape Breton Development Corp., a federal-provincial Crown agency, has taken over operation of Dominion Steel coal mines on the island, hoping to gradually replace them with other modern mines. And the Sydney Steel Corp., a provincial Crown company, is opening the former Dosco mill with a tough, young management team and a work force eager to prove Sysco can make the plant economically productive.

At the Strait of Canso the $45,000,000 mill of Nova Pulp Ltd., the $65,000,000 heavy-water plant of Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., a $10,000,000 chemical plant and projected oil refinery form the foundation of Nova Scotia's newest industrial growth area.

Planners foresee a city of 30,000 growing up around the present Strait town of Port Hawkesbury as industrial development mounts in the next two decades.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

April 19, 1968 . . .

The worst fire in Toronto's history broke out 64 years ago tonight—in 1904. Breaking out downtown shortly after 8 p.m. on a windy spring night, the blaze caused an estimated $11,000,000 damage. Looking at first like an ordinary warehouse blaze, it soon engulfed almost the entire wholesale area of the city as the wind fanned the flames. It was when the wind suddenly changed direction that the fire was brought under control.

1856—Prince Rainier of Monaco married Grace Kelly.

1861—Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba collapsed.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918 — U.S. forces attacked near Toul on the Western Front, beating back enemy forces and inflicting heavy losses; the British commander advanced trenches in the Givenchy and Festubert area, and Russian children were evacuated because of German long-range bombardment.

Alberta's Ombudsman Presents First Report

Ottawa Journal

Former RCMP Commissioner McClellan had been ombudsman in Alberta for four months, September to December, when he presented his first report to the legislature recently.

He had received 216 complaints. Here is the box score:

Declined or beyond his authority	77
Abandoned	10
Withdrawn	11
Given mentally-disturbed person	1
Unsigned	1
Investigated	29
Inquiries continuing	97
	216

Of the 29 cases investigated, 18 were found "not justified" and McClellan reported that a few of them "did not willingly accept the decision."

In the 11 cases where the ombudsman found the complaint justified, rectification was made to the satisfaction of the complainant by the government department concerned or the ombudsman provided information which proved to be of assistance.

McClellan found himself involved in ensuring that the rights of mental patients had been protected. Complaints about land use and government demands for payment of debt have been made to him. He passed on to the proper departments and got action on a new man's complaint about failing to obtain a suitable refund on a bearing aid and an elderly couple's difficulties in having a furnace properly installed.

The latter cases showed that people were not aware of government services already available to ensure fair treatment.

The brief Alberta experience does not prove the federal Government requires an ombudsman.

The Auditor General, an officer of Parliament, already makes sure that complaints of injustice received by him are sent to the proper quarter. Added protection is being provided by the New Consumer and Corporate Affairs Department.

Anyone with a grievance can write to Ottawa and seek satisfaction through the public service. If he fails he has the right to have his MP take up his case.

Every Canadian should have quick and adequate right to inquire or complain — but if our present system is inefficient properly we don't need an ombudsman.

LaPierre—A Foil for Trudeau

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

The news that the New Democratic Party will hold a leadership convention before too many months have passed really comes as no surprise. Neither is it surprising to hear that Laurier LaPierre is a contender. Mr. LaPierre has hardly been able to contain himself in his desire to inherit the mantle of Mr. Douglas.

One could almost wish him success, since he would be the perfect foil for our new Prime Minister!

Like Mr. Trudeau, Mr. LaPierre has had considerable television coverage, particularly in the interesting and controversial 'This Hour Has Seven Days'.

Mr. LaPierre used this for all it was worth, manipulating carefully so that his own perspicility was shown off to the best advantage. Perhaps he was unaware that his ill - concealed contempt for a guest and his predatory manner were also conspicuous, so much so at times that one was chillingly reminded of Kenneth Grahame's 'Toad'.

How different from Mr. Trudeau's innate good-manners and breeding.

There is no doubt that Mr. LaPierre takes himself very seriously. Mr. Trudeau takes his work seriously — himself — not. The stamp of true greatness.

Mr. LaPierre recently visited Belleville and met many students. Now, as parents, we realize that our children are very earthy in their attitudes to us, (any aspirations to the Whistler's Mother image went by the board long ago) and to life in general. It is significant, therefore that they were rocked back on their heels by Mr. LaPierre's choice of language.

How different was the patience and respect shown to young people by Mr.. Trudeau at Confederation time.

Mr. LaPierre lost no time in registering his disappointment at the outcome of this Convention. One suspects that he was poised at the mail box before the computers had stopped ticking.

He has derided Mr. Trudeau for not having clear-cut policies. In this rapidly-changing world of today, what is clear-cut policies, whether national or international, and 'play it by ear' with what he has and what he is. I defy even Mr. LaPierre to do more.

Mr. Trudeau has asked for the participation of every Canadian in his Age of Reason. A similar challenge, from a man of Mr. LaPierre's calibre would be an invitation to anarchy.

Amelisburg.

Beatles Are Still "With It"

Winnipeg Free Press

The Beatles, in apparent defiance of earlier predictions, seem to be going from strength to strength. Having been successful as recording artists, they have gone on to do well in films and one of their number, John Lennon, has written two best-selling books of nonsense.

Now the theatrical establishment seems ready to accept the Beatles movement. The National Theatre of Great Britain has announced that it will produce a new play, Act One, Scene Three based on Mr. Lennon's two books, In His Own Write and A Spaniard in the Works.

It began to look like Strawberry Fields Forever, and roses roses all the way, for the omnipresent Beatles.

Good Friday 1968-Style

The Globe and Mail

It is by now a familiar technique of church sermon to ponder how the contemporary world would treat Jesus Christ if He were here today, doing and saying the kind of things He was doing and saying almost 2,000 years ago.

Curiously, this kind of exercise is acceptable to almost everyone as long as it does not stray too far into graphic realism. At this point, in the view of some church leaders, it becomes scurrilous, offensive to Christians, and disturbingly controversial.

So Edmonton, the community of Smiths Falls staged a contemporary re-enactment of the crucifixion on Good Friday, with hundreds of teen-agers milling around the figure of Christ, chanting: "We want justice" and "Kill the bum". In this contemporary setting, Christ had been charged with being a hippie, a dope peddler, a freeloader and a bummer.

Rev. D. K. Purdy, of St. John's Anglican Church, who played the part of an interrogating officer, claimed nothing more for the production than that it might teach teen-agers about the crucifixion in a way that would remain in their minds. We would guess that it accomplished this objective admirably and that, by relating the Easter story to a contemporary setting, it made some strong points about the need for tolerance in modern society.

Perhaps controversy is for folk, but the Smiths Falls production seemed to be more relevant to Easter than many of the loftier observations made elsewhere.

Of late the sidewalks in the city have been used extensively by men and boys on bicycles. Several young men will appear before the magistrate in police court tomorrow to answer to the charge. This practice must be stopped.

David Craig, the Canadian missionary who was almost killed in Nigeria a few months ago, looks over his experience as related in Weekend Magazine. Mrs. Denton Taylor from St. Colomba's Presbyterian Church, where Mr. Craig will be speaking tomorrow night, looks on.

Missionary Guest Speaker

"Death and David Craig"—certainly no man has ever been closer to it.

While a missionary in Nigeria a few months ago, Mr. Craig was taken prisoner by the Nigerian federal forces, accused of being a Chinese mercenary, and put before a firing squad.

However, the rifles didn't speak and after being tied and taunted for five days Mr. Craig was finally released.

Tomorrow night Mr. Craig will be speaking to the youth group at St. Colomba's Presbyterian Church in Belleville relating the purpose and the results of his work in Nigeria.

The meeting will be at eight p.m.

Mr. Craig's capture was the aftermath of a federal attack against Biafra, the eastern portion of Nigeria which seceded from the rest of the country in May of 1967.

Biafra is settled by the Ibos tribe which is much more advanced than the rest of the country — they had controlled Nigeria both politically and economically and were finally overthrown in a coup.

Tension mounted between the Ibos and the rest of the Nigerian tribes until finally in 1966, 30,000 Ibos were slaughtered by federal forces.

The slaughter resulted in the Ibos' secession and civil war has raged across the country since.

Mr. Craig's mission was situated in Calabar, a city in part of the seceded territory.

When a major attack came Oct. 18, 1967 against the Ibos and the city Mr. Craig was captured. His wife had already left the country.

Although it was mainly a case of mistaken identity and the missionary was finally cleared and released the experience has left definite impressions in Mr. Craig's mind.

"I am still completely divided as far as favoring one side or the other is concerned," he said this morning.

"After being dominated by the Ibos for so long it is no wonder that the rest of the Nigerian tribes hate them as much as they do — still the Ibos have points in their favor," he finished.

Mr. Craig was forced to leave the county completely two weeks after his release because of letters found in his mission by federal troops.

The missionary explained that these were personal letters he had brought back from the neighboring country, Cameroon, after driving refugees and missionaries to safety. If they had been found while he was imprisoned they would have resulted in his death.

All mail and communication between Biafra and the outside had been cut by the federal forces.

"I was able to get through," said Mr. Craig, "because I was a missionary but mostly because I knew of a back road out of Biafra to Cameroon that the federal forces didn't."

It didn't take long for Lagos (capital of Nigeria) to find out about the road though. One of the missionaries Mr. Craig had spirited away to safety "talked too much."

The story was broadcast over BBC and soon after that a federal attack came against Calabar (the one in which Mr. Craig was captured) cut off the only exit from Biafra.

Now the federal forces, who are supported by the British and Russians, have cut Biafra in half and Mr. Craig is certain that if the war continues the secession will be completely crushed.

"The situation there is still bad — a lull and then an outburst of battles and bloodshed," he said. "We've heard reports that our school and mission were destroyed."

Both Mr. Craig and his wife are returning to their mission in September to try and rebuild and rectify any damage that has been done.

In the meantime he is touring Canada speaking to Church and youth groups about his work, and his experience, in Nigeria.

About returning Mr. Craig is optimistic, even after narrowly escaping death.

"We were accepted there and welcomed by the people," he said. "There is more to be done now than before and I'm sure we'll make it."

"I just hope they have short memories about those letters," he concluded.

No Action On Fees

The city recreation-area commission yesterday took no action on a request from Belleville lawyer Robert Temple, manager of the local Mohawks Senior Hockey Team, to revert to last year's arena rental rates.

At the budget meeting two weeks ago the commission approved an increase in arena rental for the senior hockey team, the rate to include charges for practice time.

Yesterday Mr. Temple assured commission members that an amount of approximately $10,000 owing by the team for last winter's operations would be paid.

At present the parks board meeting members gave approval in principal to the offer of the Belleville Federation of Musicians to stage a series of band concerts this summer at Zwick's Island.

In addition to the band concerts the parks board may bring in other musical entertainment on dates not committed.

Also the parks board approved the request of the Quinte Outboard Hydroplane Racing Club for use of Victoria Park on Sunday, May 19, for the purpose of holding races in the bay off the park.

However, permission to charge admission to the park was refused, it being pointed out that this was against board policy.

The club was advised to contact the Belleville Yacht Club and the Belleville Harbor Commission for completion of arrangements.

Committee Chops Budget Requests

The property and supply committee of the Bay of Quinte High School Board recommended last night that principals' requests for changes, additions and renovations in the schools be chopped from $641,765 to $75,954.

The committee report will be presented to the board for approval.

Last year property and supply expenditures totalled about $71,000.

Cuts from the requests hit hardest at Moira Secondary School where principal Linton Read proposed construction of a greenhouse—agriculture laboratory, an enlarged library and an expanded music room. The committee approved only $7,633 of the $398,156 requested.

Quinte Secondary principal John Hayman fared a little better with the committee. He received committee approval for $30,550 of his $84,400 request.

The committee approved a new greenhouse expected to cost an estimated $12,000. New lighting fixtures for the gymnasium were approved as well as extensive renovations to the girls' shower rooms.

Belleville Collegiate fared a little better than the other schools. They received $17,336 of a total amount of $73,596.

One of the major items was the remodeling of two home economics rooms at a cost of $6,000 per room.

Committee members granted Centennial Secondary $3,310 with $18,725 going to Centre Hastings High School in Madoc. About $13,000 of this amount will be used to lease and renovate the armories in Madoc for use as temporary classroom space.

At BCIVS the committee decided to postpone replacement of the boilers until next year. This was expected to cost an estimated $35,000.

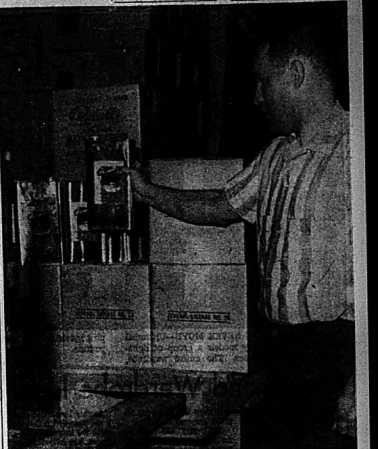
The principal's requests were discussed by the committee members and each was given a priority rating.

Included on the list of items not approved by the committee was a $375 amount for acoustical flooring in the principal's office at Moira Secondary.

Acoustical improvements in the cafeteria at Moira were also deleted from this year's expenditures.

The rewiring of Belleville Collegiate for a new public address system costing $15,000 was also removed from the budget.

Additional fencing at Quinte and Moira Secondary Schools was also chopped from the budget. "It seems to me we should encourage young children to use the school property," board chairman James Clarke said.



The committee also decided to include $2,500 to overcome a heating problem at Moira Secondary School.

Charges Laid Over

COBOURG, Ont. (CP) — Five Campbellford men were remanded to May 13 in court Thursday on charges arising from an Easter weekend disturbance in Campbellford.

During the outbreak last Sunday, the Riot Act was read to disperse 200 persons who became unruly after a 21-year-old man was arrested for careless and dangerous driving.

Several persons in the crowd threatened to break into the police station to free Wayne Ouellette.

Carried Away for Syrup

Jim Canty, while counting up the maple syrup cans for the Kiwanians' weekend sale tomorrow afternoon at the Belleville plaza, almost got carried away by a lift truck this morning. The syrup is being stored at F. LaPalm's warehouse and the sale will be on for two weekends.

FASHIONS THAT NEVER MOVE—Universal actress Sharon Harvey models a group of lightweight "action" dresses. The entire wardrobe, plus movie camera, weighed in at less than three pounds.

Five-second Wardrobe Ideal for Travel

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

The fashion focus is on "action," for today's design must move well and travel light. Keeping in step with this style assignment is a 5-second wardrobe that's equally at home racing for a jet or promenading at San Antonio's HemisFair '68. In fact, Universal actress Sharon Harvey's coin-dot coatdress is a sightseer's delight; it can be donned in approximately the same time it takes to load her 8 m.m. camera.

The cocoa-and-white outfit boasts hook-on jabot, frost-fastening skirt and adjustable chin strap hat. Ensemble literally snaps to attention.

Cool, crisp and quick — that's the cue for this lightas-air organza stroller dress. Ideal for scooting across a midway or striding through an exhibit hall, the line wraps around has the same easy fit as a robe. To keep it speed-paced, designer Kay Canonwine has banded cuffs with elastic instead of buttons, so sleeves can be quickly adjusted to any arm size or position.

Another time-tested style is a one-piece design that duplicates the look of a skirt and blouse. The frilly fake, made from butter colored organdy, features sippered back opening that combines shirtwaist, belt and skirt. Its puckered finish is splattered with porous coin dots that keep you (and fabric) air-conditioned. Also Sharon discovered a travel extra — the entire wardrobe, plus movie camera, weighed in at less than three pounds.

P.S. Do you look chic in your clothes? If not, it may be the fit of the dress, not your figure, that needs adjusting. Our new leaflet offers tips in selecting figure - flattering fashions, plus a bonus "size chart" to help you determine your correct size. Completion of Two-year Hospital Project Only Means Next Step Is Ready to Go

The biggest operation in the history of Belleville General Hospital will have its first phase completed in September.

That's when the hospital's new seven-floor wing will be officially opened.

But completion of two years building bustle doesn't end the construction activity.

For, by that time the next stage of the operation to totally alter the appearance of the hospital site will be underway.

And when that's finished the hospital will have new administrative quarters and a regional school of nursing.

Right now, however, the main preoccupation is with the hospital wing, an imposing rectangle overlooking the Bay of Quinte.

Hospital administrator Phillip Rickard says patients will be moved to the new edifice in September.

Opening ceremonies for the $10 million building have been laid on for Sept. 8, and there are now no reasons to fear any delays.

Work is forging ahead with installation of service equipment and interior decor.

"It's got to the exciting stage where you can see it's definitely taking shape," says the administrator.

As a working area, the new quarters already have been tested — and qualified.

Since late last year, the hospital laboratory has been installed on the groundfloor.

Its technicians and student force under pathologist Dr. Louis Tremblay move in surroundings matched with sophisticated new equipment.

Sophistication also is a key purpose of installations throughout the new hospital area.

Automated supply systems will service the wards while ultra-modern intercom equipment will speed communication between rooms and nursing stations.

The installations have a serious working purpose.

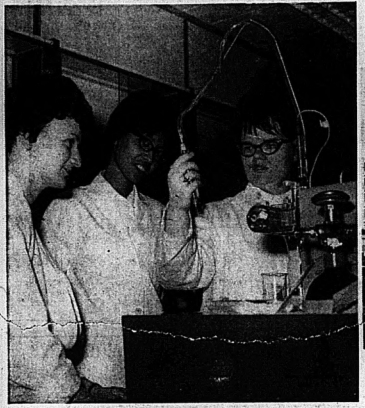
In an age when all hospitals are being challenged by shortage of nurses, easier communications will reduce demands on personnel, making more nursing time available.

Patients too will benefit from the new approach.

Equipment is so designed that patients may have television available at the bedside. Small, translucent sets with five-inch screens equipped with individual earphones likely will be available on a rental basis.

Contractors are expected to sew up their end of the operation by July, says Mr. Rickard.

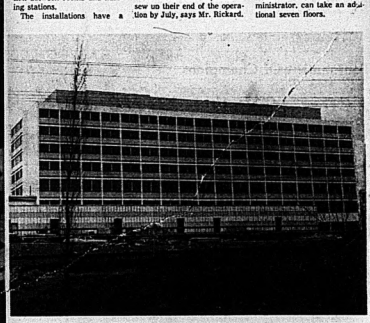
After that, the hospital will begin moving in its equipment to meet the September deadline.



By that time, work already will have begun on linking up new administration quarters and the separate nursing-school building.

And construction at the hospital site may not end there.

After all, the new extension centre of a complex which will provide about 450 beds by fall 1969, someday may be in need of more space.



That's already been taken into account.

The building, says the administrator, can take an additional seven floors.

Already Operating

The new hospital building already has been tested under working conditions. Laboratory has been in operation on ground floor for months. Here equipment is tested by technicians (from left) Carol Simpson, Rose Pasillabon and Judy Fletcher.

New Look for Shoreline

The big, gleaming rectangle of Belleville General's new building, also is a handsome asset to the Bay of Quinte shoreline. Rising seven floors, it also will provide patients with panoramic view reaching across to Prince Edward County.

Testing!

Modern new surroundings in laboratory are indicative of shape of things to come in new BGH building. Running microscope test are Doug Rose and Diane Pickett.

New Industry

Hamilton-based Firm Locating in the City

Noticed any activity down by the CNR tracks on Cannifton Road lately.

What used to be Belleville Brick Company is now being transformed into Belleville's newest addition to her industrial family.

Hallman Silos Ltd., a Hamilton based firm, is renovating the building and will begin to manufacture there within a few weeks.

The product which will be concrete silos for the storage of grains and feeds, is going to require 5,000 sq. ft. of manufacturing space.

Ray Brown, Belleville's Industrial commissioner, said the operation will initially employ five or six people.

The commissioner also commended a local realtor, C. O. Chisholm, as being instrumental in bringing the industry to Belleville.

The Hamilton firm bought the acre of land and building and it should not be too long before production begins.

County Reluctantly Approves Debentures for New Schools

Hastings county councillors have given up hope of delaying the Jan. 1 date for the setting up of county boards of education, but they aren't happy over the county being asked to issue debentures now for new school construction in No. 2 public school district.

Yesterday councillors debated the issue for 1½ hours before voting to make application for the approval of the debenture issue totalling $1,257,000.

Plans call for the construction of a new seven-room school with library and gymnasium at Marmora; the provision of seven additional classrooms at Madoc, and the provision of 10 portable classrooms at Tweed.

A library and general purpose room would be provided at Stirling and the present high schools at Stirling and Marmora would be purchased for public school use.

Frank Tate, area public schools superintendent, told council that the concentration of school facilities in the Centre Hastings villages and at the central school in Madoc township, had the full approval of the Department of Education.

Clifford Cotton, business administrator for the No. 2 school area said that 10 of the 11 local municipalities involved have given approval.

But many of the county councillors were reluctant for the county body to issue debentures for the school construction, when in only a few months schools administration would be taken over by a county board of education.

The feeling was that the debentures could effect the county's future borrowing capabilities, despite the fact that the debt charges would be met by the county education board.

School officials said that for the county to issue the debentures was the simple way out. Otherwise they would have to go to local municipalities involved, resulting in a delay of up to two months.

When the issue came to a vote council was almost evenly divided, with the motion for the county to issue the debentures carrying by a slim margin.

Earlier during the session council took no action on a Tweed village resolution asking that favorable consideration be given for the enlargement of the Tweed high school and for a moratorium to be placed on school construction until the new county board of education takes over in January.

Patrols Recover Stolen Cars

BRIGHTON — OPP patrols recovered two cars stolen from other centres during the night.

No arrests were made in connection with the one missing earlier from Trenton found abandoned along 401 highway west of here.

Two men were arrested when a car was stopped at nearby Colborne after it was recognized from a description by Metro Toronto auto theft investigators.

Target Is Checked

OPP constables George Sands and Roy Paisley check rifle-fire accuracy at target. Officers were among group of proficient marksmen stationed at Quinte-district OPP units who took accuracy training at Lower Trent Valley Conservation Area range yesterday.

Provincial Police Practise Rifle Fire

FRANKFORD — Police were out in force and sniping near here yesterday.

But there was nothing lethal in the action.

It was all in the best interests of law and order. Scene of the exercise was the Lower Trent Valley Conservation association — an 85-acre zone now being rapidly developed by conservation - minded district sportsmen.

The officers were members of OPP units stationed in the Quinte-Kingston area, undergoing annual rifle practice.

Each detachment has a man trained in the use of rifles and the yearly event is to maintain a maximum of proficiency among police sharpshooters.

The training would come into necessary practice where police may be faced with an obdurate, armed antagonist.

The officers are exercised until their marksmanship becomes so-fine they can disarm at a distance without inflicting serious wounds.

"They are trained not to kill but simply to deter," a senior officer explained.

He Takes Aim

Drawing bead on target, OPP Constable Roy Paisley, of Kingston detachment, takes aim through telescopic sight at rifle range near Frankford yesterday. Practice was part of sharpshoot training designed at disarming armed antagonists from safe distance.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Senior "A" hockey wearing the uniforms of the Belleville Mo-Hawks has ended the 1967-68 season on a shaky foundation, booked over its shoulder, then ahead and decided to operate again in the 1968-69 season.

A delegation consisting of Robert Temple, Dave Kerr, former New York Rangers goalie star; Maurice Rollins, Gordon Rollins and Les Tulchlas told this department yesterday that plans are under way to establish a seasonal entry in the OHA Eastern Ontario Senior Hockey League.

A financial foundation is the first requisite of any hockey club of this nature.

Former general-manager and new Chairman of the Board Bob Temple said that twenty or twenty five sponsors will be necessary to start the club off on the right foot. A committee has been formed to handle the matter and potential sponsors can contact Mr. Temple, Gordon Rollin, Maurice Rollins and Dave Kerr.

Season tickets will go on sale immediately and outlets will be announced within the next few days.

Since the announcement of the fundraising plan, the response has been generally good. Some seventeen community-minded men have agreed to sponsorship, but the entire quota must be realized before the club is on a sound footing.

Included in the sponsors are Robert Temple, Dave Kerr, Lou Tulchlas, Peter Zegouras, Gord Rollin, Maurice Rollins, Michael Temple, Peter Furtis, Earl Allin, Howard Booth, Ben Yanover, the McDougall Insurancers, Gordon, Don Jim, Les Jenkins and Dr. G. A. Morton of the Intelligencer.

The delegation announced that the board will secure the services of an ex-NHL personality to be the club at manager-coach.

The statement indicates that Floyd Crawford, the guy who gave everything he had to his Mo-Hawks and for the club will no longer act in the coaching capacity. Incidentally Floyd is in hospital having undergone surgery on a knee.

Asked what the prospects for the next season, Dave Kerr said, "We hope to have a bigger and better club."

The committee hopes appeals to the community-minded and hockey-loving people of the city in their efforts to finance the undertaking will be successful.

A spokesman said that Belleville is a good hockey town, as has been proven in the past and he hoped that the necessary financial support will be forthcoming.

If the initial financial support is forthcoming and the new management can step with a club that sta win at least half its games, there will be no qualms about fandom. ...

This city has been and still is, in my opinion, a good senior hockey community. This has been proven during the past two years especially last year with the Mo-Hawks coming up with split performances and ending outside the playoffs.

What is meant by a "bigger and better" team I do not know at the present but there definitely should be some changes made in last year's squad.

Despite the hoary thatches, expanding waistlines and quicker breathing of some of the oldsters, modern sport is strictly a young man's "baby" with speed and condition the prime requisites.

However, according to the delegation, next season's edition of the Mo-Hawks has started off with a fairly good financial foundation, but more of that sponsor "cement" is needed.

More information regarding sponsorship can be secured from Mr. Temple, Mr. Kerr (Queen's Motel), Mr. Rollin and Mr. Rollins.

And to end the piece on a personal note. It is with extreme regret that I learn Floyd Crawford has been relieved of the coaching position with the Mo-Hawks. Floyd has been and is a dedicated hockey man whether playing, coaching or in an administrative capacity. He gave all to the club last year. He always gave his best — and that's all any man can do.

Habs Pass Wizardry Dazzles Hawks

MONTREAL (CP) — Classic passing on the attack gave Montreal Canadiens a psychological lift Thursday night as they opened their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series against Chicago Black Hawks.

In the Western Division playoffs Thursday night, Minnesota North Stars bombed Los Angeles Kings 8-2 while St. Louis took Philadelphia 3-1. The victories gave Minnesota and St. Louis their best-of-seven division al semi-finals four games to three.

"I don't think I ever saw a team pass like that—was going dizzy watching the puck," said Chicago goaltender Denis DeJordy after the Canadiens bombed the Hawks 9-2.

The passing, with accurate shooting to finish off the plays, accounted for three goals within three minutes in the first period "and put us behind the eight Reay.

Yvan Cournoyer and John Ferguson scored two goals each to lead Montreal while Ralph Backstrom, Gilles Tremblay, Jacques Lemaire, Jean Beliveau and Claude Larose got the others.

Defencemen Doug Jarrett and Gilles Marotte accounted for the

JOHN FERGUSON

Chicago goals after Montreal had fashioned a 7-0 lead.

Coach Toe Blake of the Canadiens said simply that his club "got the breaks."

He did concede that his penalty killers played a major role and "kept us in there early in the game."

The Canadiens, who had wrapped up their best-of-seven quarter-finals in straight games against Boston Bruins, were by far the superior team Thursday night.

Bobby Hull, the National Hockey League goal-scoring sensation, said it was simply a matter "of them being rusted for seven days."

And when someone suggested to Reay after the game that perhaps his club should have bit more instead of trying to skate with Montreal in the early going, the Hawks' coach said:

"What in the name of . . . do you think we were trying to do on there? You can't hit what you can't catch and we couldn't catch them.

Reay, who can usually find some hidden reason for any failure, said the whole "thing goes back to last year's expansion draft when Montreal and New York Rangers" jobbed the new clubs out of players.

He said the Canadiens were not hurt by the draft "because of the under-the-table deals."

He knew about how the Canadiens lost Claude Larose in the draft and then made a deal to get him back?

The Hawks played Thursday without the services of right winger Ken Wharram, of the high-scoring Scooter Line with Phil Esar Mikita and Doug Mohns.

YVON COURNOYER

Wharram suffered rib injuries during the quarter-final series against New York Rangers. "They're still sore, but I'm going to make a special effort to play Saturday," he said.

The second game Saturday is scheduled for 8 p.m. EST and will be televised nationally by the CBC. The series then switches to Chicago for the third and fourth games next Tuesday and Thursday.

The series opener began with the accent on speed and both clubs jockeyed for scoring position for more than five minutes. Montreal appeared to bear down from that point and were swarming the Chicago net when Backstrom beat DeJordy with a low shot at 6:37.

Montreal kept coming and Cournoyer beat DeJordy 44 seconds later on a three-way attack that caught the Chicago defence in a moment of bewilder-ment.

The play that led to Ferguson's goal and a 3-0 lead for Montreal was indicative of the Canadiens' high-flying style.

Jacques Lemaire fed Claude Provost and then jumped onto the bench as the play swept into Chicago territory. Provost slipped the puck to Ferguson, who beat DeJordy cleanly.

The pace slowed considerably after that and Bobby Hull played on a regular shift after working almost the entire first nine minutes.

The ineptness of Chicago's attack was evident in the second period, however, when the Canadiens drew successive penalties at 10:17 and 12:00, but the Hawks were unable to mount a serious threat.

Referee Bruce Hood called six minor penalties, four of them to Montreal. The game, despite the high score, was by no means a league or Stanley Cup playoff record.

Montreal set the playoff record in 1944 by beating Toronto Maple Leafs 11-0 and Toronto defeated Montreal 10-3 on another occasion.

Both Chicago and Montreal scheduled a morning practice today, although Reay said that only "the fellows that didn't see much action," Thursday night would work.

Tournament of Champions

Ten-Player Traffic Jam At Top

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Paced by two old pros and a member of the younger set in golf, no fewer than 10 players were within three strokes of each other today as play went into the second round of the $150,000 Tournament of Champions.

The veterans were Gardner Dickinson, 40, and Dan Sikes, 39, and the youngster was Terrell Zarley, 26, each of whom shot three-under-par 69s in the first round of action Thursday.

Winnipeg-native George Knudson, now golfing out of Toronto's Oakdale Club, was five strokes off the pace at 73. He won the Tucson and Phoenix Opens earlier this year.

The weatherman promised warmer skies and abated winds following the first round chill which prevailed over the 6,706-yard par 36-35-71 Stardust Country Club layout.

Deadlocked at 70, two shots behind the leaders, were five challengers, including Billy Casper and newly crowned Masters champion Bob Goalby.

Bracketed with them in quest of the $30,000 top money in this 16th annual spring event were Julius Boros, Don January and 26-year-old Randy Glover.

Even with par 71 were George Archer and Dudley Wysong.

Well back at 78 was Frank Beard, the defending champion.

A Heartfelt "Thanks"

Although words seem most inadequate when I try to express thanks and appreciation for the many, many kindnesses I have been shown since my eye injury, I would like to try and do so through the newspaper.

It is impossible to try and thank everyone individually who contributed so much in so many ways, both during my hospital stay and later with an overwhelming display of generosity at the benefit hockey game.

I would like, on behalf of myself and my family, to say a sincere "thank you" to the fine people of the Belleville area, to the press, radio and TV for their strong support, the OHA, my Mo-Hawk Directors and team mates and to all my old playing buddies who came back to play on my behalf, to the many hockey clubs in Canada and the United States who donated so generously to the firms, businesses and companies of this entire district who assisted so much and to very good friends. Floyd Crawford and Lionel Body, and the many people who worked so hard with them in organizing a benefit game for me.

I would personally like to thank each and every person who purchased a ticket to the game and I assure you, no one can understand exactly how it felt to realize so many people cared for me before me. I will always be grateful to the game of hockey for giving me the opportunity to make so many wonderful friends.

Please forgive me if I have overlooked anyone in this feeble attempt to say, once again, a very genuine "thank you" one and all.

Sincerely,
Hillary "Minnie" Menard.

900 Enter Marathon

BOSTON (AP) — The greatest human traffic jam in the history of Hopkinton, a town due west of here, was in store today for the start of the 72nd annual Boston marathon.

A record field of about 900 starters were expected to toe the line for the 26-mile, 385-yard run, set to get under way at noon on a narrow, wooden road.

"It got bumped around on three miles after the star," one young runner complained last year when there were a record 601 starters from 735 entries.

Despite establishment of a $2 entry fee for the first time this year, director Will Cloney had entires from 1,014 male runners in his desk.

Leading Canada's representation—more than 20 Canadians are entered—is Ron Wallingford, 34-year-old assistant professor of physical education at McMaster University in Hamil-

Playoff Scoring Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Centre Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks was held pointless Thursday night but held first place in the National Hockey League playoff scoring race.

Mikita has three goals and six assists for nine points in seven Stanley Cup playoff games.

Grouped behind Mikita are six players with seven points each.

Team-mate Bobby Hull picked up an assist as the Hawks bowed 9-2 to Montreal Canadiens and now has two goals and five assists.

Tied with Hull are Lovell MacDonald and Doug Robinson of Los Angeles Kings, Bill Goldsworthy and Dan Baloo of Minnesota North Stars and Claude Provost of Montreal Canadiens.

Federation Sanctions Title Bout

SAINT JOHN, N.B (CP) — R. B. (Dick) Pearson, commissioner of the Canadian Boxing Federation, announced Thursday the federation has sanctioned the 12-round Canadian light-heavyweight championship bout between Al Sparks of Winnipeg and second-ranked Frank Bullerd of Toronto.

Sparks, Canadian champion, will defend against Bullard in Toronto May 8.

Pearson also said the federation is insisting that the winner must enter into "negotiation for a title fight with Roger Durelle of Baie St. Anne, N.B., within 60 days of the fight.

First Learn Cause of Dropped Foot

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: What caused a dropped foot and what can be done for it? There is no pain but I just do not have enough power to raise it from the ground. — Mrs. A. R.

This condition results from something affecting the nerves of the lower leg. It can be the result of injury, undue pressure on the limb, of certain chemical poisonings, of which lead, arsenic and alcohol are commonest.

The first essential, naturally, is medical examination to ascertain the cause.

Once the cause is removed, the condition may clear up by itself. Otherwise, physical therapy measures may be necessary to help the muscles regain their proper action.

Beyond this, a special brace may be necessary to hold the foot in a functional position.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: Does nonmalignant cancer brain damage? — F. S.

Nonmalignant can (not necessarily will) cause irritation of the meninges, or lining of the brain, resulting in headache and stiffness of the neck. I am not, however, familiar with its causing brain damage. Few as endless as what to expect, and what to do read my booklet on Nonmalignant. Send 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed, un-stamped envelope to Dr. Molner, you in care for postage, in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 188, Dundee, Ill., for a copy of the booklet.

Dear Dr. Molner: At home we sit about 5 feet away from our TV set, and at his place of business my husband's set is about three feet away. A visitor the other day said we are sitting too close and getting radiation from the sets. Is this true? — C. M.

No. There were some sets recalled by the manufacturer a few months ago because inadequate shielding was permitting radiation. Overexposure. Even though it would hit only the floor, the sets were modified. But I don't know of any that throw radiation toward watchers.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter, 37, had an operation for inguinal hernia. The operation was a success, but I want to know whether local would cause it to return. She is a cocktail waitress and drinks a lot. — Mrs. L. M.

Liquor will not cause a hiatal hernia to return, but it may cause irritation of the lower gullet and stomach.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband's parents raise their own beef and my question is about bringing some home after our next visit. We will pack the meats in foam-type ice chests and put it immediately into our freezer locker when we get home. The trip takes 9½ hours. The owner of the locker says it is kept at a temperature "around zero."

What is your opinion, would be the length of time we could safely store this meat? — J.O.

Meat, so long as it stays frozen, can be safely kept for varyingly long periods. The danger is in intermittent thawing — as the meat thaws, bacteria can multiply — and when the meat is frozen again, the bacteria can survive even though not active.

Your 9½-hour trip with the meat is safe under the conditions you specify. Have the meat solidly frozen to start with, carry it in your foam-type chests, which will retard the rate at which the meat warms up.

Traveling in cold weather would help. In summer you might have too much thawing in three to six hours in the trunk of a car, but you could use dry ice, or even pack ice around the outside of the foam chests — I say outside, in order to keep moisture away from the meat.

• • •

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Fantasy Is A Delicate Business For Production on TV Screen

NEW YORK (AP)—Fantasy is a delicate business, and sometimes it comes off better in book form than in visual form.

Thursday night's NBC broadcast of The Enormous Egg was an example of the difficulty.

The hour-long Children's Theatre special was adapted from a book about a little boy and his pet dinosaur. It started with Nate Twitchell's hen, Henrietta, producing a very large egg which ultimately hatched into a 14-pound dinosaur, the first in millions of years.

The dino, named Uncle Beasley, grew to enormous size, was moved to the Smithsonian Institution for care, got into trouble with the authorities when it tipped over a milk truck and narrowly escaped extermination at the hands of an overzealous and ignorant senator. Then Nate appealed for help on television, and, of course, TV saved the day and the dino.

The idea of a huge, gentle dinosaur pet with a taste for marigolds had charm, but, adult voice incongruously matching the lip movements of the young boy.

Until last year, Broadway's "Tony Awards" were given out with little public fanfare. Then Alexander H. Cohen, one of the top producers, volunteered to put a Tony Awards show on network television. He persuaded colleagues to permit numbers from their hit shows to be shown on television. He played down the envelope-opening and the thank-you speeches. He came up with one of the brightest, fast-moving and entertaining shows of the season.

Cohen's second Tony Awards comes up next Sunday night—90 minutes long this year, live, with numbers from eight Broadway hits. It is the principal coming attraction of the TV weekend.

Reds Nip Aces 4-1

PROVIDENCE, R.I (AP) Providence Reds narrowed their defecit in their best-of-five semi-finals with Quebec to 2-1 Thursday by downing the Aces 4-1 before a crowd of 5,252.

The fourth game of the series will be played here Saturday night.

John Rodger and Bob Leduc scored first-period goals for Providence.

Coach Dave Creighton and Eddie Kachur added goals for the Reds in the second period.

the most popular fund-raising projects of churches today. The men of the Deseronto United Church fell off about a month ago, Selby United Church men followed April 8 and Trinity United Church choir fed a record crowd on Easter Monday.

The men generated the idea, and overran the arguments of the women choir members that a sandwich and tea supper. Dale Clark, Wes Alkenbrack, and Roy Lawrence, men of the choir, were joined by Rev. E. L. Johnston in making the arrangements, which included obtaining the materials as reasonably as possible.

The syrup was donated by Canada Approved, whose wife is organist and choir director, and was made in their own sugar bush. Clarence Baker donated the milk from his purebred Holsteins, and there were many other donations, or materials furnished at wholesale prices. Equipment was borrowed, also. People of all denominations lent a hand to help.

The choir will have a subsidy to contribute to the $25,000 organ fund.

OPP Complete Safety Instruction at Schools

NAPANEE — Last week the 260 children in last five rural schools in this area received instructions in safety from Provincial Constable J. E. Elliott, of the Napanee detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police. This completes his talk to the 4,186 children in the 33 rural schools of the area who have been instructed in safety in the home and the school, in swimming, boating, hunting and traffic. Each pupil received a booklet in which these safety rules are set out, in the belief that parents would read and enforce them.

The report for last week continues the safety theme. Motorists are warned that, with good weather, bicycles will be more numerous and are asked to use care. Parents are advised to see that the bicycles are in good condition, and that their children know the safety rules.

The report notes that its first fatality of the year occurred Sunday, April 7th, when, in a one - car accident, Mrs. Hagette McFadyen of Wilsonville was fatally injured. Last year by that time, there had been two fatalities on the highways patrolled by the Napanee detachment of the O.P.P.

Statistics for the week ending April 13 show five additional property damage accidents and one personal injury accident which sent three people to hospital. During that week officers laid 33 charges under the Highway Traffic Act, checked 58 vehicles for safety, and issued 25 warnings for minor mechanical defects.

Tax Rate Reduced

DESERONTO — For the second year in succession, Deseronto's tax rate has been lowered. The budget, passed during when council met early this week, sets the rate for residential and farm property at 137.93 mills, a decrease of 3.76 from 1967.

For commerce and industry the rate for this year is 151.90 mills which is 2.83 mills lower than for last year.

Two factors have made this decrease possible. The school tax is lower, and there was a surplus from 1967. The school tax is 18.51 mills, on residences and farms, and 20.57 mills on industrial and commercial property.

Although Deseronto has sanctioned three expenditures, since, none had to be provided for in the budget this year. Deseronto's assessment quarter million dollar addition to its public school, the erection of a new water tower, and the installation of sewers and a sewage disposal plant.

The school board has been instructed by the Ontario Municipal Board to have its architects draw up working plans for the addition, and the board may call for tenders. But no work can commence, and no money expended until plans and tender have been approved by the O.M.B. Once such approval is given, the town will then issue debentures, for no payment will be made on these until 1969.

The Ontario Water Resources Commission has asked for a meeting between its representatives, the town engineers, and the Town Council. Council is now waiting until the O.W.R.C. and the engineers have agreed on the date of this meeting, when the councillors will cooperate. First payment on debentures for this project, also, would not fall due until next year.

Sewers, and the sewage disposal plant will be constructed from G.M.P. and Deseronto will pay for these on a long-term rental basis. The town from G.M.P. and Deseronto will provide for these payments, as the rate will be added to the water rate.

U.S. Eyes Trudeau Warily, Waiting for Policy Changes

WASHINGTON (CP) — Pierre Elliott Trudeau, Canada's new Liberal party leader, "is a leader about whom the rest of the world, not just Canada, should reserve judgment."

That appraisal from the Washington Star seems to fit the U.S. mood. State department officials are plainly interested by the man and his stated intent to revamp Canadian foreign policy.

They regard as a plus the Trudeau indication of wanting to join the Organization of American States. But, like West Germany and some other European partners in NATO, they will be anxious to see whether Canada may go so far as to cut troop strength there.

The U.S is not the only interested country. France, which in the past has sometimes sought to gain some insight into the Canadian scene by questioning state department officials involved with Canada, has been trying to take more soundings, it is understood.

U.S officials say their French counterparts evidently believe the Ottawa-Washington relationship gives the U.S specialized knowledge about Canada.

Trudeau's image, a "card-carrying swinger" as the National Review puts it, ranks high in the comment.

His election "introduces an interesting new figure in the pretty well shopworn field of North American politics," says the Washington Evening News.

The Baltimore Sun says he will "strike many Americans as a hopeful successor to Mr. Pearson."

The Boston Herald says "Trudeau's success in Canada makes it clear there is a new style of politics developing on the American continent."

The Los Angeles Times sees prospects of more Canada-U.S. "friction," however

"Trudeau's accession to power seems to symbolize in fact the drift toward neutralism which has been occurring in Canada as the result of the unhappiness in the Vietnam war and of growing confidence the Soviet threat is fading," it says.

It also cites Canadian "resentment" about economic dependence on the U.S

The Minneapolis Tribune says Trudeau may not have much time to show what he can do because of the threat from Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch lauds Trudeau's stated determination to have good relations with France.

The Buffalo Evening News says the Liberal convention "completed one of the most amazing political success stories in the history of Canada—or any other nation."

Law and Medicine Differ

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A government study of income by occupational groups shows that doctors, as a class, earn about twice as much from the practice of medicine as attorneys do from the practice of law.

But this is only another example of the danger of statistics in a void. For while the great bulk of the doctors' income comes from medicine, a similar percentage of the lawyers' income does not come from law.

Many, if not most lawyers, make as much or as little as they do from their direct law practice. They are involved in many legal deals in forming companies, buying property, and "putting paper together." For their services, they are often rewarded with a piece of the action. Most lawyers get rich not from legal fees but from supra-legal connections.

Another common fallacy holds that psychiatrists — and especially psychoanalysts — are at the financial top of their profession because they charge anywhere from $25 to $50 per visit from a patient. Actually, these men rank near the bottom of the medical specialties in terms of income. A top accountant or broker would clearly show.

A psychoanalyst sees about eight patients a day, whereas a well-equipped dermatologist can see more than eight an hour. At $15 a clip, the dermatologist can pull in more than $600 a day. The psychoanalyst is forced to charge so much because he gives proportionately so much more time — and to pay attention — to each individual patient.

Moreover, these men have perhaps double the investment in their career than most other specialties: for only after they go through a longer regimen of study, they must also have several years of their own personal analysis—which is not deductible as an educational or professional expense.

(And someone who wants to do child analysis must take an extra two years to be certified for this specialty-within-a-specialty, which may mean he is nearly 40 years old before he begins to earn more than a nominal income.)

One of the real problems of our time is the lengthening of medical education. The four years in medical school that used to cover most of a formal medical education now constitute less than half of it. Knowledge has been growing at such an exponential rate that half the technical material learned a decade ago may be obsolescent by the time the student is ready to practise.

Sunday School Lesson

Life Like Chemistry Class

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

Life is like a chemistry class. Each new class must perform its own experiments based on what science has already discovered about the nature of chemicals and their reactions. But sometimes a student gets rebellious. He resents having to study and follow a text-book. So, when he thinks the teacher is not looking, he decides to mix some chemicals in a beaker to see what will happen. And he finds out. When his experiment comes down from the ceiling, the stain on his note-book tells plainly what happened in that experiment.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for April 21: "What Is Wisdom?" Job 28; 12:13, 23, 28; Proverbs 3:13-18.

Through the ages, men have been experimenting with living. A lot of knowledge and understanding have resulted as the precipitate of these experiments. Men have discovered what combinations of factors result in explosive conditions that endanger human dignity and development. These results are recorded in the scriptures and many people reject the Bible as a text-book for life. They even think the Author of the text is worse than he's looking. So they experiment in dishonesty, indulgence, etc. History's pages are dotted with the tragic results of the actions of those who ignore the findings of those who experimented before them.

Much of the results of these experiments in living has been distilled into wise sayings, or PROVERBS. Benjamin Franklin was adept at condensing such practical wisdom into catchy phrases. Long before him, Solomon is said to have practised the same gift. In fact, his wise sayings, along with many others, were gathered together in a book of proverbs to guide the youth of Israel.

This book of proverbs, along with two other books, make up what is called the wisdom literature of the Bible. These three books are Proverbs, Job, and Ecclesiastes. They are worthy successors to the messages of the prophets.

The prophets spoke to the nation. These books speak to individuals. They deal with personal living, and point out pitfalls that lurk in the way of personal HAPPINESS. They include much practical advice, and reflection on the problems of living.

Wisdom is the chief virtue extolled in the book of Proverbs. (Prov. 4:7) Running through all its warnings and practicall ad vice, wisdom is presented as the catalytic agent that can make experiments in living come out right. A person can possess much knowledge and still not be wise. Wisdom is knowing how to relate the knowledge gained over the centuries to the problems of everyday living. Since God is the Source of all wisdom the wisest of all persons, this wisdom literature, are those who seek to know and to do God's will. (Prov. 3:5-7)

But one thing bothered those who read these proverbs. They seem to promise happiness and prosperity as the reward of good living. But what about suffering? Why do so many good people suffer while so many bad people ejoy life?

The author of Job set out to deal with this problem. He based his book on the life of a righteous man who suffered a series of almost unbelievable calamities. Why did Job have to suffer so?

Although Job's dialogue with his so-called comforters, the author refutes the idea that suffering is always a punishment for sin. Perhaps, Job's friends advise him, God is correcting you for your sins. They accuse him of deserving his fate because of his false pride. (Job 32:1)

Job even dares to question God about the treatment he is receiving. (Job 7:11 ff) Job does not get an answer to his questions. But he gets a sowing the book indicates is more important. He gets a vision of the majesty and greatness of God. (Job 38-41) This vision humbles Job and convinces him that, in spite of his suffering, God is good. In fact, the book is written to give its readers this assurance. The author illustrates this point by pointing to Job's restored prosperity. (Job 42:10-17)

A still later author goes a step further. The book is called Ecclesiastes, and it points out that wisdom alone is not enough. It must be undergirded with faith.

The author confesses that he has experimented with wisdom. (Eccl. 1:13), with folly, with alcohol, and with wealth. (Eccl. 2:1-9) None of these brought him the sense of fulfillment he sought. Later he tried really living for God. To his surprise, he discovered this brought him a peace and joy he had not previously experienced.

He ends his book, therefore, with a direct appeal to youth to turn to God and trust Hi mbefore old-age and death overtake them. For, he concludes, man's highest duty is to obey the commandments of God. (Eccl. 12:1 ff)

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For April 20

Your birthday today: The coming year will put you into unexpectedly exposed positions where your quality is tested. Your usually astute judgment of other people's resources is distorted by wishful thinking, bringing new difficulties into your relations. Those eligible will be granted greater personal authority in their professions. Success in pursuit of emotional goals is strongly indicated, along with awakening psychic strength.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Practicality is the keyword for the day. Decide what is needed for your home and set priorities. Try out new creative areas. Entertain this evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Today people are more willing to co-operate with you than usual. Make the most of it in work during the day, and keep it going with a party this evening.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Deal with this problem. He based his book on the life of a but you can't just fait back and collect on the plan—you must push it on through. You can get some unusual self-promotion today, for free. Finish your correspondence promptly.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): You may become impatient with the procrastination of today, but this is the way it almost has to be. Bargain vigorously and get done with it. Pay cash and take discounts. It is a busy social evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Today is the time to pick up the odd pieces many others are lying around for the diligent picker-upper. Social affairs are probably better skipped this evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Close teamwork today produces exceptional work. Your previous reputation has a marked influence on your income. Close the workday promptly and get ready for an evening of light fun.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): This seems to be another of those days when you fare much better sharing with your mate and close friends than going it alone. Listen carefully and cooperate. Romance flourishes in the night.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Your nose for new business is sharp today, and the right field you go in better. Just be sure you have the carfare back. Put on your most dignified attire.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Today will be one of unusual amount of cash if you follow your best plans. Expect to scrape in a few dabs, but put in some time now to organize the deal fully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Just follow your grooves today. They may not be mere but what seem efficient from long experience. Children are prominent in your environment today, and should be given special attention.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Stick to your work and put off the interesting news of other people's affairs for another time. Buy what will be needed quickly, postpone major purchases.

Saskatchewan Crowd Protests Hospital Fees

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan residents began paying utilization fees this week under the province's medical care and hospital insurance plans but critics of the measure have shown no sign of abandoning their fight against it.

The most dramatic demonstration of protest came Wednesday when some 400 persons marched to the legislature and Premier Ross Thatcher was drowned out by jeers when he attempted to defend the fees, which went into effect last Monday.

Meanwhile, the New Democratic Party, outnumbered 35 to 25 by Mr. Thatcher's Liberals in the legislature, was waging a last-ditch campaign against Bill 29, an amendment to the Saskatchewan Hospitalization Act imposing the fee on users of the hospital care plan.

The hospital fee is $2.50 a day for the first 30 days and $1.50 for the next 60. There is no charge when a hospital stay extends beyond 90 consecutive days. The medical care fee is $1.50 for a visit to a doctor's office and $2 for a house visit or emergency call, except to patients in hospital.

Both plans were previously financed solely by premiums and tax revenue. A single subscriber pays an annual $72 hospital care premium and $24 hospital tax. Both figures are doubled for subscribers with families.

Provincial Treasurer Dave Steuart has estimated that the combined cost of medical and hospital care for the next fiscal year will reach $105,000,000, an increase of $12,700,000 over the preceding year. He says the increase poses a threat to government financing.

While protests against hospital and medical care fees have been equally vigorous, the controversy inside the legislature is confined, at least technically, to the hospital fee, which requires amending legislation.

The medical care fee was covered by terms of the Saskatchewan Medical Care Insurance Act of 1962. The government was able to impose it by changing the regulations within the act without having to refer it to the legislature.

The NDP looks on the fees as a tax on the poor and accuses the government of being more interested in padding provincial coffers than in helping the sick. The NDP would rather see the government collect the revenue by increasing taxes on corporate profits.

Mr. Grant has defended the fees as a check on "irresponsible use" of the hospital and medical care facilities but NDP critics argue that the government has offered no evidence that the plans are being abused.

Indigents and newborn children are exempt from the fees and the federal government pays fees for treaty Indians and recipients of the war veterans' allowance.

Ky Denies Charge He Smuggled Opium

SAIGON (AP) — Both the U.S. embassy and Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky today denied a report being investigated by a U.S. Senate subcommittee that the Central Intelligence Agency fired Ky for smuggling opium in 1963.

The report, made to the Senate foreign expenditures subcommittee, said Ky commanded air crews in a secret CIA operation flying saboteurs to North Vietnam and took advantage of the setup to fly opium from Laos to Saigon.

The U.S. embassy said there was "no truth in the story that Ky was removed . . . for opium smuggling or for any other reason."

Ky's vice-president just laughed when he saw the story," said a spokesman for Ky. "He said it was groundless news, and there is no truth to it at all."

The spokesman added that Ky took part in the flights over North Vietnam, "but he would not get involved in smuggling."

The Senate subcommittee's staff director, Joseph Lippman, made the report available to The Associated Press in Washington with the stipulation that the source could not be identified.

The author of the report said he was sent to Vietnam in March, 1962, by an American company to serve as an inspector and adviser to ground crews that maintained the aircraft used in sabotage missions.

The company, the report said, "was a fictitious company set up by the CIA . . . as a blind for a program called Operation Haylift."

"Operation Haylift was flying Vietnam agents into North Vietnam for the purpose of sabotage. . . . When the program first began the CIA engaged air crews and their commanding officer was Col. Nguyen Ky who now is vice-president of South Vietnam.

". . . Col. Ky took advantage of this situation to fly opium from Laos to Saigon. Of course the CIA removed Col. Ky and his flight crew and they were replaced by Chinese air force pilots from Formosa."

Ky, 37, was elected vice-president of South Vietnam last September on a slate with President Nguyen Van Thieu after holding the rank of brigadier-general and commander of the South Vietnamese Air Force. He became premier in 1965.

Will Add New Attractions For Apple Blossom Festival

AMELIASBURG — New attractions to add interest to the township's annual Apple Blossom Festival inspired discussion and action at a meeting of the festival committee last night.

One item suggested by Mrs. Eben '(Gwen) James called for an open air art exhibition to be included in the program. The paintings collected from artists in the Quinte area would be displayed for the public to appreciate among blossoming trees in one of the orchards open to visitors. The committee decided to explore the idea further before meeting again this coming Monday.

Last night Maurice McLeod the United Church minister in the Ameliasburg charge was elected festival chairman for 1968. Members of his executive include: co-chairman, Lyle VanClief; secretary-treasurer Mrs. Carl (June) Reid; committee members Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bonter, Mrs. E. James, Summers Dawson, Earl Onderdonk, Jerald Anderson, Arnold Wetherall, Norman Post representing the township, Art Rutter, representing District No. 7 of the Apple Producers Marketing Board, Bill Bond of Toronto and Elmer Bonter.

The Festival this year will be held on Sunday May 26. The Blossom Ball introduced for the first time last year is to be repeated by popular request the night of Friday May 24 in the auditorium of Kente public school. At this affair the new Blossom Princess will be chosen. Crowning of the princess has been listed as a feature of the Sunday festival program.

The day of the festival will commence with a non-denominational church service in the open in the morning, weather permitting.

On Saturday entries in the District No. 7 apple pie baking contest will be displayed and judged in the basement of Albury church.

Will Oppose Proposal To Close Out Station

Hastings county council will lend support to the Marmora village and township in opposing the proposal of the CN railway to close out the station agent's office at Marmora.

Marmora Reeve William Shannon said that despite the revenue received from Marmoraton mines for the transport of ore, the railway's intention was to remove the station agent.

He felt it would be good public relations for the railway to leave the station open.

And the Marmora reeve said he expected the next move on the part of the railway would be to remove the tracks on the Hastings line from Marmora north.

Spur lines further north in the county had already been lifted.

Alarm was felt that further removal of railway lines might interfere with the county's program to attract industry.

Industrial Committee chairman Reeve R. C. Graham said the absence of railway facilities could preclude the establishment of heavy industry.

And Reeve Shannon agreed, claiming the CN highway truck service does not take the place of the railway.

Last night at the dinner meeting hosted by South Hastings member Lee Grills, Reeve Graham asked Rideau area Manager H. J. Fast if CN had plans for lifting any further track in the North Hastings area.

Mr. Fast replied there was no application for further retirement of track except possibly north of Bancroft.

High School Senior Wants to Just Get By

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a high school senior who gets along O.K. The problem is my father. He's a self-made man and doesn't let me forget it for a minute. He keeps badgering me to be "tops," although I have tried to make him understand that not everybody can make the grade, or wants to.

Is there anything wrong with being just an average guy? The double domeg and eager beavers in our school are laughed at behind their backs. Average guys seem happier and are better liked. They aren't always in a sweat. They are also better rounded because they aren't breaking their heads to excel in one thing — like grades.

I am satisfied to just get by. Please tell my dad that there is nothing wrong with being an average guy and to get off my back. When I try to tell him he gets mad. — ME.

* * *

DEAR YOU: I don't think you have to worry about being tops. With your attitude there's little danger.

Not everyone can be a world-beater. It takes energy, drive, tenacity and discipline. You seem quite proud of the fact that you have none of these qualities.

Since you are content to "just get by" I trust you are also prepared to settle for everything that goes with mediocrity. I trust, too, that you won't be bitter when you see your ambitious, hardworking buddies reap the rewards that come with making it big in this highly competitive world.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am going crazy and I need your help. I took this secretarial job three weeks ago. It pays extremely well and the people are pleasant. The problem is my boss. The first thing he does when he comes to the office is turn on the radio and it stays on until he leaves. I go home at the end of the day completely exhausted. It is only 9:45 a.m. as I write this letter and already the side of my head is numb. I am taking tranquilizers and have tried ear plugs but they make me nervous because I am afraid I will not hear the boss' buzzer.

The station my boss prefers is high frequency station and there must be something about this one that reacts badly on my ears. He once had the radio on FM and it didn't bother me at all. Perhaps an ear specialist could explain this.

I must work to support my children, and this is a dream job. Dare I suggest to my boss that he turn the radio off, change stations or wear earplugs? What do you say? — SOUND AND FURY.

* * *

DEAR S. AND DF.: A job that makes a nervous wreck out of a woman is not a dream job.— no matter how much it pays.

My advice is to give notice — explain why you are leaving and check the classified sections of this paper. You have no right to ask the boss to turn off the radio, change stations or wear earplugs.

Girl 11 Is Terribly Lonely and Discouraged at School

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: When my 11-year - old daughter comes home from school she is always so discouraged. It seems that the other girls her age don't want to play or have anything to do with her.

Her teacher tells me that she's very polite in school, that she's not spoiled and that she seems to get along with whomever wants to play or talk to her.

She tells me she doesn't want to go back because the little girls don't play with her. The doctor doesn't find anything wrong with her. But she is so lonely! — Discouraged Mother.

Dear Mother: It's heartbreaking. Yet we watch our youngsters struggle through one crisis after another. Many an 11-year-old is at odds with herself and her surroundings.

Having eliminated hallitosis and B.O. — and this is worth checking on — give her a chance to be a hostess to one or two friends. If you are overprotecting her, don't.

Can she cook? Sew? Polish a floor? Place some unaccustomed responsibility in her hands and rejoice with her when she comes through. Of such things are happy adults made.

* * *

Dear Doris: I am a widow. Bob, a lovely gentleman, has been taking me out, and I'm sure I've met all his friends, who are all fine people.

When my son gets married, is it proper for me to have Bob at the head table with me? And also in the reception line? I don't really know if he would do it, but then again if it is proper maybe he would. By the time the wedding comes around Bob and I will have been going together for exactly one year. — This Puzzles Me.

Dear Puzzles Me: Not proper. Only the bridal party will be sitting at the head table, and that won't include parents of bride or groom; so you won't be there yourself. If there is a second table for parents and clergyman, this might be a spot to include him. Discuss it with your son.

He would not stand in the reception line with you.

* * *

Dear Doris: I have a science report to have finished in two weeks' time and would be interested in any information on the modern drugs that teen-agers use. — Science Student.

Dear Student: Two weeks doesn't allow enough time for a letter to be forwarded to me and a reply back to you — even if I did think it cricket to write your essay for you.

But I will say this: The modern so - called psychedelic drugs and dope do great harm. The person who insists they are not habit-forming may be the very one to get hooked.

Why on earth do physically healthy young people need artificial stimulation? If they are frustrated, dulling the senses and creating a false, temporary euphoria, is a poor way out.

(Longer fuller replies went privately to those correspondents who enclosed a stamped, self-addressed, envelope.)

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Fondue A Favorite in Switzerland

By MARY MOORE

LETTER: I read your recipes for the different fondues in the paper. I am from Switzerland and not only cheese fondue but also fondue bourguignonne comes from my home country. In Switzerland the sauces eaten with this beef fondue are different from restaurant to restaurant and from family to family, according to their imagination. I did not know the fish fondue but find it a good idea and will try it soon.

May I ask you to tell your readers to use two forks for both fondue bourguignonne and fish fondue — that is, a wooden-handled fork to cook and a table fork to eat with, so they may not burn their lips. The fork used for cooking the meat in the boiling oil gets very hot. I know from bad experience. I had blisters for more than a week because I once forgot to change the fork.

Do you know the so-called Oriental fondue? It was a great favorite in Switzerland a couple of years ago. I do not know its origin. It is made of different sorts of meat, very thinly sliced in the size of about 1-to-2 inches. The meat must be half frozen and should then be sliced with a food slicer or a very sharp knife. At home we had it cut by the butcher. We take four different kinds of meat — beef tenderloin, pork, veal and veal kidney (fat removed). These meat sizes are not cooked in oil but in a light beef bouillon and eaten with the same sauces as fondue bourguignonne or any sauce you can imagine. It is needless to say that this cooking adds meat juice and flavor to the bouillon and the amount of bouillon should be big enough (include loss through cooking) that at the end every guest gets a bowl of it. — Erika D.

ANSWER: Thank you Erika for your authentic information on these lovely Swiss dishes — especially the tip regarding changing forks.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Why didn't you tell me you didn't get the part you wanted in the school play?"

Daughter: "I never had a chance to talk to you. You were busy all evening and somebody was always around."

Mother: "Laurie and I always have a 'talk time' while she is getting ready for bed. She counts on it, especially if she has something private she wants to discuss. It's the only time some of the family isn't around."

Parents should try to give each child some time every day that is his alone. It's one way to keep the channels of communication open.

Problems Starting to Pile Up for Future Prime Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—The problems are starting to pile up for Liberal leader Trudeau even before he takes over as prime minister Monday from Lester Pearson.

It will be a time of testing.

The refusal of Robert Winters to rejoin the Liberal cabinet appears likely to have repercussions within the party.

As the runner-up to Mr. Trudeau at the Liberal leadership convention April 4-6, the former trade minister's return to the cabinet would have solidified party unity.

His departure could have the reverse effect, observers say.

Mr. Winters, 57, is representative of the party group that seeks a return to "fiscal integrity" policies, including a balanced budget. His supporters are likely to be disappointed by his departure and some of the blame could fall on Mr. Trudeau, the cabinet maker.

Beneath the surface lurks the problem of Canada's relations with France, which appear to be in some jeopardy because of Quebec's intention to send a representative on its own to an international education conference in Paris with France's blessing.

The bypassing of Ottawa in the arrangement has raised doubts about the authority of the Canadian government in this external affairs matter.

Mr. Trudeau's attempts to solve this problem may be hampered by the fact that he is no friend of Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec. So the possibility of a confrontation is in the offing. And others hope Canada's relations with France will not suffer in the fallout.

The new leader also must come to grips with the question of when to call a general election. This year, when he is still on a popularity crest following his convention victory? Or later on, when things might be more uncertain?

There are a host of related factors on the timing of a general election including public reaction to having one this year, two years before the government's mandate ends in 1970.

Stanfield Calls for Early Budget

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) — Conservative Leader Stanfield said Thursday night the Opposition will give Pierre Elliott Trudeau "every reasonable chance to prove his promise" after he becomes prime minister Monday.

"But there must be an early indication that the government is prepared to recognize the hard reality of Canada's present economic position."

Mr. Stanfield said a first and necessary step for the government to restore confidence in the Canadian economy is to bring in a budget for the present fiscal year.

Toronto Council Okays Plan

TORONTO (CP) — City council Thursday accepted a $50,000,000 Hilton-operated hotel as winner of a downtown development contest.

The decision came on a 17-to-4 vote after 13½ hours debate.

Board of control, acting as the contest jury, Tuesday awarded the 3½-acre development site to Third Generation Realty Ltd. on a lease and profit-sharing deal with Hilton.

The only other entry in the contest was Inn on the Park and Four Seasons Motor Hotel Ltd. with a plan for a $40,000,000 hotel scheme that would be 51 per cent owned by International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. of New York.

British Tory Quits Party Over Racial Issue

LONDON (CP) — A prominent Conservative walked out of the party Thursday, underlining sharp internal dissension over its stand on a race-relations bill before Parliament.

Humphry Berkeley, a leading party left-winger and member of Parliament for Lancaster between 1957 and 1966, accompanied his departure with a statement of "shock" at the Opposition shadow cabinet's decision to vote against the Labor government's anti - discrimination bill next week.

At the same time, the shadow cabinet took a clouting from the Conservative-supporting weekly Spectator, which said the decision was based on "ignorance, prejudice and fear."

Home Secretary James Callaghan's proposed law would prohibit discrimination on race grounds over a wide field including housing, jobs, union membership and services. At present, a ban applies chiefly to public places.

The Conservative parliamentary hierarchy under Opposition Leader Edward Heath already is in trouble with a block of its members over its decision to oppose second reading when the bill comes up next Tuesday.

Between 20 and 30 of the 200 Conservative members—including possibly two of the shadow cabinet itself—are reported ready to abstain from the vote.

A few may actually vote with the government.

Berkeley, chairman of the British United Nations Association and a close personal friend of Heath, personally delivered to him Thursday a "Dear Ted" letter saying he thinks the Tories are committing themselves to a wrong attitude.

Heath wrote back immediately saying racial tensions would not be smoothed by the easy acceptance of legislation. Much of the bill was unworkable and parts of it tended not only to remove disadvantages but to create privileges for those it protected.

"A depressing failure of leadership." The Spectator commented of Heath's attitude.

The opinion weekly also drew attention to experience in Canada and the United States which it said "indicates that in a wide variety of situations anti-discrimination legislation has proved successful in reducing the extent of discrimination."

MPs and Senators Hamper Research

OTTAWA (CP) — The great hindrance to development of scientific research in Canada is the apathy of MPs and senators towards its importance, Dr. O. M. Solandt, chairman of the science secretariat of Canada, said Thursday.

Testifying before the Senate science committee, he said Parliament must take steps to increase members' awareness of the importance of scientific research to the social and economic well-being of the country.

The secretariat had been hindered in its work of promoting and co-ordinating research by lack of funds to hire adequate staff.

More money now was available and the staff had been enlarged.

The Senate committee was established to determine what science policy Canada should follow.

Dr. Solandt, three other council members and Industry Minister Drury appeared before the committee to discuss formulation of a national science policy and the recently-announced plan to develop a Canadian satellite telecommunications system.

Mr. Drury said a satellite will be used to transmit both French- and English-language radio and television programs as well as other forms of communication when it goes into effect in 1971 or 1972.

The $100,000,000 system would consist basically of two satellites in synchronous orbit 22,300 miles above the Equator and a series of ground stations feeding and receiving them.

Trudeau Sworn In, Early Vote Likely

Mine Next, Please!

Pierre Elliott Trudeau, sworn in today as Prime Minister of Canada, here is besieged by autograph-hunters as he leaves the Parliament Buildings. (CP Photo)

June 17 Said Likely Choice

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Trudeau was expected to call a general election shortly after taking over from Lester Pearson as prime minister today.

Reliable informants said an election call is in the offing, but had no precise time. It could be called today or a day or two later.

The most likely voting day is June 17, the date when four by-elections were to be held. Under election rules, it is the earliest possible date if the election was called today.

Election talk sprang up after it was announced late Friday that Mr. Trudeau had put the formal prime ministerial change-over ahead from Monday to today. The advance would give him the authority to call a June 17 vote.

The Canada Elections Act requires that federal elections or byelections be held on a Monday. If the chosen Monday falls on a country-wide holiday, or a holiday observed in any province, voting is on the following day, Tuesday. However, experts on elections say it may be politically undesirable to hold an election on the day after a holiday.

The two Mondays after June 17 are both holidays. June 24 is St. Jean Baptiste Day, a Quebec holiday. July 1 is a general holiday across Canada, the 101st anniversary of Confederation.

The chief electoral officer, Jean-Marc Marel, says it takes 60 days to organize an election but if necessary this can be shaved to 58 days. Today is the 58th day before June 17.

An election call would mean the dissolution of Parliament, which is supposed to resume Tuesday after a recess during which the Liberal leadership convention was held. Mr. Trudeau was the victor.

Many observers had felt that

Quick Vote Is Opposed By Douglas

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national New Democratic Party Leader, said Friday an election call for June or fall would only be to get to the voters before they can assess Liberal Leader Trudeau's policies.

Mr. Douglas told about 400 persons at an NDP fund-raising dinner:

"If Mr. Trudeau calls an election for either time it would be to get the voters of the country before they get an opportunity to get a view of what his policies will be...on the bread-and-butter issues facing Canada today."

U. S. Will Consider Any New Talks Site

From AP-Reuters

WASHINGTON (CP) — U.S. administration policy-makers say the United States — which already has proposed 15 sites for initial contacts with North Vietnam — will consider any new sites Hanoi suggests.

The statement by U.S. authorities came after the United States announced it has notified North Vietnam that Warsaw is not acceptable for initial talks because Poland has given military assistance to Hanoi.

The U.S. position was outlined in response to a statement by the North Vietnam foreign ministry, broadcast by Hanoi radio, that accused the United States of delaying talks between the two sides and asked for formal answer to Hanoi's choice of Warsaw.

The Hanoi statement drew a stiff rejoinder from Washington that communications between the two countries should be through private and official communication channels and not through newspaper headlines.

U.S. officials conceded today that Washington - Hanoi exchanges over suitable site for peace contacts appear to have become almost hopelessly bogged down.

North Vietnamese rejection of the 10 additional locations proposed by State Secretary Dean Rusk hardened the impasse between the two governments, they said.

But state department spokesman Carl Bartch left the door open for North Vietnam to come up with some more suggestions beyond its existing proposals that the contacts take place in Warsaw, or the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh. The U.S. has objected to both.

"If Hanoi has any other sites to suggest, we would be glad to consider them," he said.

Stanfield Says He Expects Trudeau Will Call June Election 'Because He Said He Wouldn't'

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said Friday he has a suspicion Liberal Leader Pierre Elliott Trudeau might call a June 17 federal election, "because he said he wouldn't."

Mr. Stanfield, speaking to a Yukon Conservative meeting of about 200 persons, said there is "any man who . . . shaves a couple of years off his age wouldn't hesitate to shave a couple of years off Parliament."

The reference was to an announcement this week that Mr. Trudeau's birth records showed he was 48, and not 46 as his supporters had announced during the Liberal leadership campaign.

Mr. Stanfield, on a two-day tour of the Yukon, said Mr. Trudeau's election campaign would have to be based on a record of one day as prime minister.

"He has no record to campaign on except Mr. Pearson's and I don't think even Mr. Pearson would want to do that.

"Mr. Trudeau's platform would be an important one; it would have to substitute for the speech from the throne, also for the budget and policies regarding national finances that we would expect to hear from him if he were to face Parliament."

Mr. Stanfield said the first important test facing the new prime minister is a growing uneasiness in Canada because of inflation and the weak economic policies of the present government.

"They have preached restraint and practised extravagance."

Mr. Stanfield said that before the Opposition would entertain a summer recess, "we must receive a full accounting from the present government and a complete budget. . . ."

The Opposition leader said he has demanded another government budget that would be "adequate . . . for the present fiscal year."

Hundreds of U.S. Deserters Said in Canada

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says hundreds of deserters from the United States armed forces are settling in Canada, some with the knowledge of the federal government.

It says organizations in the U.S. and Canada have formed an underground railway to bring deserters to Canada to acquire legal residence.

The Canadian government has already granted permits to about 10 openly-declared U.S. deserters to stay in Canada, the newspaper says.

But it says many deserters are applying for and getting permanent residence without declaring themselves. Others are here illegally, working under assumed names.

Interviews with deserters and those who aid deserters, the newspaper says, indicate that there are at least 200 deserters in Canada—and there could be more than 1,000. Lowest estimates indicated a minimum of 75 deserters in Toronto, 125 in Vancouver, 40 in Montreal and 60 in smaller towns.

Deserters are men who have already been inducted into the armed forces but have deserted. They would face court martial or imprisonment if caught in the United States, but cannot be extradited or deported from Canada on the ground that they are deserters.

The newspaper says deserters are so secretive that often their closest friends believe they are draft dodgers, not deserters.

Many believe that U.S. authorities will try to kidnap them and take them back for court martial.

A senior official in the department of manpower and immigration is quoted by the newspaper as saying that about 10 known U.S. deserters have been allowed to stay in Canada in the last two years under permits renewable every 12 months.

"We have no record of any cases where a known deserter has been given the legal status of landed immigrant," he said.

Total Cost of Two Schools In Marmora, Stirling--$442,999

When the Central Hastings School Board purchases secondary schools in Marmora and Stirling it will pay $145,741 in cash and take over payment of another $297,258 in debentures.

The Bay of Quinte High School Board has agreed to sell the units at the end of the school term for use in the public system next fall.

The Central Hastings Board will pay $134,118 in cash and assume $63,681 in debentures now owing on the Marmora school. The total purchase price for the school, worked out under a system presented by the department of education, will be $198,000.

The total price of the Stirling school will amount to $263,000 with payment of $29,623 in cash and $233,376 in debentures.

Students attending the two schools at the present time will be transferred to either Belleville or Madoc where an addition to the Centre Hastings High School is planned.

The $2,300,000 expansion program will not be completed by next fall as temporary facilities will be set up in Madoc Armories.

Students transferring to Belleville will attend Centennial Secondary School. Extra space will be available when Loyalist College students move into quarters under construction at the present time.

The addition to the Centre Hastings School will double the capacity from 600 to 1,200 students. It should be completed for use in the 1969-1970 school year.

The purchase of the schools in Marmora and Stirling is part of a million dollar program by the Central Hastings Public School Board to eliminate one and two room schools.

The students will be bussed to the larger units.

Seemingly alone in the crowd, this youth nonetheless commanded much attention at visual arts display at Hotel Quinte last night. It's a work by Belleville sculptor W. A. Eakins, guest artist at Festival '68 event.

Separate School Supporters To Pay More Taxes in 1968

PICTON (Staff) — Taxes for public school supporters here stayed about the same as last year, but separate school supporters will pay more in 1968.

The commercial levy on Separate School supporters increased by 5.02 mills while residential separate school supporters will feel a 2.61 mill increase over 1967.

Ratepayers under the separate school levy will pay less than public school supporters according to mill rates.

The total public school rate is 99.84 for residential areas, down .3 mills, and 109.85 for commercial areas, down .02 mills, while separate school levies are 96.81 for residential areas, and 106.99 for commercial areas.

The total expenditure this year amounts to $719,279, $38,922 over last year's expenditure of $680,341.

The Picton taxpayer, however, pays only $606,240 of that, the remainder being taken up by general revenues of $109,039.

Those revenues are up by $15,626, over the 1967 figure of $94,293.

The bulk of total tax costs will be taken up by education, which will consume 30.92 per cent.

Second in line for the tax dollar will be Picton's share of county rates, 18.75 per cent.

Streets absorb 8.6 per cent, police 8.4 per cent, debt charges 7.5 per cent, fire department 6.3 per cent, sanitation 3.4 per cent and administration, 2.4 per cent.

The balance is taken up by street lighting, library reception, conservation, tax discounts, and general purposes.

In dollars and cents the per envelope cost the tax-payer $92.547 for public schools, $120,538 for county rates, $18,060 for the public library, $90,454 for Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, $48,547 for debt payments, $224,917 for town payees, and $5,226 for the separate school.

Art Display Draws Crowd

A broad view of the visual arts in the Quinte area is available in Belleville.

Part of Arts Festival '68, the exhibition opened last night at the Hotel Quinte's Pinnacle Room.

The displays drew a steady stream of visitors during the evening and numbers are likely to increase tonight, before the exhibit goes under wraps for another year.

It combines the work of three community groups: the artists of the Belleville Art Association; the photography of the Belleville Camera Club and the inspired productions of the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club.

This year, the exhibition gives prominence to a guest artist.

He is Belleville sculptor W. A. Eakins, whose work dominates the scene.

Many of the exhibits — paintings, leatherwork, ceramics, hooked rugs — are also available for purchase.

Missionary to Speak

Rev. Harry M. Percy, Eastern Canadian Representative of the Sudan Interior Mission, brings to a conclusion the Second Annual Missionary Conference at Parkdale Baptist Church, Belleville this weekend.

Mr. Percy, himself a returned missionary is widely travelled and speaks with authority. He says that there is a great need for a positive stand and witness to fulfil the Divine Commission in a day of spiritual and moral declension.

He will speak to a Youth Rally tonight at the Church and at all the services on Sunday.

Early Vote Likely

a calculated-risk gambler of Mr. Trudeau's reputation would call an early election to take advantage of the surge of popularity that won him the Liberal leadership.

Finance Minister Sharp, who withdrew from the leadership race and threw his support to Mr. Trudeau prior to the convention, held a long meeting with Mr. Trudeau as the election talk circulated. Mr. Sharp is emerging as Mr. Trudeau's chief lieutenant.

Edwin A. Goodman, the Conservative party's national chairman of organization, told a reporter it would be "highly irresponsible" for Mr. Trudeau to call an election without presenting a budget or a legislative program to Parliament.

However he said his party was ready, as an election, Another Conservative source said key party people had been alerted about the possibility of a vote.

The New Democratic Party issued a 14-page booklet containing its platform for the next election.

Liberal pro-election hawks have been urging an early vote partly because of the massive convention publicity. They also note neither Mr. Trudeau nor the Conservative leader, Robert Stanfield, has a personal mandate from the electors.

Both took over as party leaders since the last election.

The governing Liberals have only a minority of Commons seats, a precarious position made more so by several cabinet resignations. Pending government legislation could tie up the Commons for months and the controversial items could cause the government trouble.

The official explanation for the advance in the swearing-in change would also permit the date was because Mr. Trudeau's cabinet-making efforts had gone faster than expected. The change would also permit the new cabinet two full days of preparation for the resumption of Parliament.

Bearing candles, members of Belleville-district Greek community last night observed Orthodox Good Friday by carrying flower-decked symbol of Christ's tomb around St. Thomas' Church grounds. The community celebrates its Easter this weekend.

Greek Community Celebrates Easter

Easter is only beginning—for members of the Belleville area's Greek community.

This year, by the Orthodox Church calendar, the Christian festival is being celebrated exactly a week later than other religious communities.

The Orthodox observances began in Belleville last night — giving the city its first encounter with the colorful rituals of ancient customs.

Many of the Greek community's 350 members attended Good Friday ceremonies at St. Thomas' Anglican Church where the rites were directed by Rev. Nikolas Avgoustinakis, of Toronto.

The ceremony — nearly 90 minutes long — culminated with the congregation marching behind the epitaphion, a flower-covered bier borne shoulder - high symbolizing Christ's tomb after the Crucifixion.

Carrying candles, the attendance walked behind Father Avgoustinakis as the procession circled the church grounds in darkness, pausing to sing hymns mourning the religious event.

The ceremonies continued today with communion and Anastasis — the Orthodox church service — tonight at midnight.

It was the first time the Greek community organized the ceremonies here, and its leaders say they plan now to make it a yearly event.

IN MEMORIAM

GOODFELLOW — In loving memory of our dear mother Gladys, who passed away April 20, 1967.
There's a voice we love to hear,
There's a face we'll never see,
There's a gap we'll never close,
Though we try to every day.
Sadly missed by husband Clarence, Bruce,
There's memory round and true,
There's a token of affection, dear,
And heartache still for you.
Never forgotten by husband John.

GOODFELLOW — In loving memory of our dear mother Gladys, who passed away April 20, 1967.
If I had all the world to buy,
And all the world to sell,
I'd buy back Mother's smile,
And give it all as well.
And give it all as well.
But all I can do, dear mother,
I'll never forget you.
You leave behind a world of love,
You left behind a heartache,
I like to think in life is done,
Wherever best we may be,
That she'll be met at the door,
Up there to welcome me.
Lovingly remembered
Beverley, Tom and Cathy.

SHARPE — In loving memory of a dear father, Matthew Sharpe, who passed away April 21st, 1965.
Those years have been a long absence that
When one we loved was called
God took him home, it was His will
But in our hearts he lingers still.
Within our hearts his memory lives,
Sadly missed by wife Ethel, daughter-in-law Jean and grandchildren.

BADGLEY — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away April 21st, 1967.
He would not stop for goodbye,
He never cared for adieu,
But just to go home quietly,
And leave no sorrow for you.
Sadly missed and fondly remembered by Viola Beatrice and family.

Local Government Does Work

City Residents Can Expect $50 Tax Rebate Next October

Tax rebates are easy to take.

But municipalities may have some initial difficulty digesting the Ontario government's property-tax reduction scheme.

For one thing, while Queen's Park gets the credit, local government must do most of the work—and, apparently, pay administrative costs.

At least that seems the impression left by Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough when he explained the tax-reduction plan to municipal treasurers in Peterborough.

The provincial government has yet to spell out some important specifics in the scheme — providing $150,000,000 this year in property tax assistance.

But Belleville city treasurer John Grohn is certain of some aspects.

(1) Depending on the new 1968 mill rate, the average refund to Belleville householders will be $46-50.

(2) the cheques should be mailed in September or October.

(3) The province will dole out a lump sum to the municipality which in turn will process individual refunds.

"For us it means a large refunding operation — which means we may have to hire temporary help and issue cheques," says Mr. Grohn.

"There'll be costs in administering the scheme.

"The Minister said this is the best way of doing it and that they looked to the treasurers of the municipalities to do all the footwork.

"So the municipalities are the ones who will have all the administrative headaches," added Mr. Grohn.

He said the Peterborough meeting did not clearly reveal if local government would receive any compensation for processing the plan.

The rebate will go in the form of outright payments to those with clear tax accounts. For persons still owing taxes it will be applied as credit.

The big question still being pondered is how the benefits may be passed from landlord to tenants.

The situation is simple if there is only one tenant in one assessed property. After that, it becomes more complicated as the number of tenants multiply.

"There's a whole variety of possibilities and they're trying to define who gets what," said Mr. Grohn. "But basically, the landlord is required under the legislation to pay the refund to the tenant."

"For the tenant with a lease it is easy for the landlord to give him a cheque or lower his rent," said Mr. Grohn.

However, the leaseless tenant is "at the mercy of the landlord" says the treasurer, and "the legal ramifications are endless.

"The leased-landlord situation itself is endless" Mr. Grohn believes, with "no specific solution (at present) except that the act says the landlord is required to pass the refund."

Mr. McKeough indicated the government would not set up an appeal board to mediate disputed claims.

He indicated, said Mr. Grohn, that the municipal treasurer would use discretion to determine eligibility.

An appeal board would smack of rent control the minister told the treasurers.

In total, Mr. Grohn said he was not "too pessimistic" about the plan which may see around $350,000 distributed in Belleville this year.

"It has to be administered," said the treasurer, "We hope to do the best we can and hope the regulations are specific enough to do a good job."

The intent of the basic shelters exemption is to reduce the burden of municipal taxes especially on those least able to pay them, Mr. Mc. Keough earlier emphasized in the Legislature.

The tax credits are based on an equalized mill rate across Ontario.

To determine the amount of credit, a local assessment of $2,000 is multiplied by the equalized assessment.

It is estimated the provincial government will pay an average of 15 per cent of each residential taxpayer's taxes. This would mean that between $45-$65 on the vast majority of Ontario residential properties.

Nearly 1,200 municipalities and school boards in unorganized districts will benefit from the program, described as an innovation in the field of North American realty law.

"This technique," Mr. McKeough told the Legislature, brings benefit to all residential property taxpayers, and it brings the greatest benefit proportionately to those who need it most."

Two-year Term Set For Tweed Council

TWEED — In the future, members of Tweed village council will be elected for two-year terms. The decision was made at the recent council meeting, with all councillors present. The ruling will go into effect Jan. 1, 1969.

A letter was received from Wood Gundy Canada Ltd., seeking up to 60,000 gallons of village water each day from May 1 to September.

Council will ask the Ontario Water Resources Commission to act as its agent for construction of storm sewers. A representative of Oliver, Lloyd and Associates Ltd. attended the meeting and explained the steps necessary to have the storm and sanitary sewers separation program undertaken.

Council advanced $900 to the Tweed Public Library Board and appointed Sister Mary Timothy to the Board.

Tenders have been received for the new roof at Tweed Municipal Building and repairing of the heating equipment has been discussed with dealers.

The old village truck was sold to Dennis Downey, who submitted the highest tender.

Hospital Staff Must Supply 'Image' Says Administrator

Sparkling new buildings may add lustre to a hospital's image.

But the confidence of the community it serves can only be gained by the hospital staff.

The caution came last night from Belleville General Hospital administrator Phillip Rickard, as the hospital prepares to move into ultra-modern quarters.

"There's a lot more to instilling confidence than by just providing a beautiful building," Mr. Rickard reminded an audience of doctors and hospital staff at Belleville General's Education Hall. "Mostly it's achieved by the service given within the building."

Mr. Rickard was guest speaker at the 1968 class graduations from the hospital's school of medical laboratory technology.

"Every person on the hospital team who comes in contact with a patient either adds a little to the store of confidence which the hospital provides — or they lose a little.

"We can't afford to lose even the smallest amount — but it's difficult with a staff of over 600 people to make this point fully understood," said the administrator.

More thought must be given to the hospital's image, he believed.

But "a sparkling image" is, of course, not an end in itself. The confidence that the image gives is helpful, but in the end the image and the confidence have to be justified by the service that is provided.

Mr. Rickard stressed that each individual staffer must be interested in the hospital's overall objectives. "Determined effort must be made to avoid establishment of zones of indifference," whereby hospital workers are interested only in their own department," he added.

Mr. Rickard also took a broader look at the shape of things to come and to cope with this outline of the patient of tomorrow.

"Society will be more sophisticated and the patient will have a greater knowledge of his problems. He'll be more inquiring as to his treatment, more demanding — and more likely to appeal to the courts if he is dissatisfied. This may result in setting up checks and double checks for many medical, nursing and technical procedures."

Basically, however, the emotional responses of tomorrow's patient will be unchanged.

"Underlying this veneer of sophistication, the patient of the future is unlikely to be any less frightened than the patient of today. This is why humanity must be added to your technical competence," he told the young laboratory graduates.

Humanity and competence are inseparable requirements in the environment of hospital technology, the administrator cautioned.

Automation already has been successfully applied in hospital laboratories.

"The cold preciseness of electronic machines is the very antithesis of the warm, tender regard which is needed for humanity," he said. "In both precision and regard are necessary. For while science without sympathy and courtesy become conscienceless, humanity without science may be sinfully ineffective."

Continuing education is mandatory in today's society of progressive technology, Mr. Rickard advised the graduates.

"The certificate you get . . . is only a temporary passport. If you fail to keep pace with the knowledge explosion . . . your opportunity passport will be withdrawn and you'll become persona non grata with those you would like to serve."

This year, a total of nine girls graduate from the hospital's two-year laboratory course.

Tops in achievement was 20-year old Linda Richards who received the Best of Governors award for the highest marks.

In second and third places were Lynne Alexander and Ann Burns, also both 20.

Miss Burns also was valedictorian for the exercise.

Campaign Director to Speak

The annual meeting of the Belleville branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society will be held April 23 at 8 p.m. at the YMCA.

Ross Morrison of Kitchener, campaign director of the Ontario division of the society, will be guest speaker at the event. He is responsible for developing and organizing volunteer committees in charge in fund-raising, public information and patient service.

CARS is now organized in 49 communities and plans a total of 100 branches by late 1968. The patient care program in the province has been expanded with the opening of an additional specialized treatment facility in Hamilton and the addition of five physiotherapists, for a total of 33 in the home service program.

In Belleville the society conducts an evening physiotherapy clinic, staffed by Mrs. K. Brown, who last year gave 547 patient treatments.

The society is now conducting a recruiting program which will include the location of a full-time physiotherapist in Belleville.

ROSS MORRISON

District residents who require specialized long-term treatment are admitted to the society sponsored rheumatic disease units in Kingston or Toronto.

Funds for the society's patient care, research and information programs are distributed by the Ontario division.

Of the $906,213 spent last year, $461,150, came for United Appeal campaigns in communities having a CARS branch. The Belleville branch has asked for $2,974 from the funds to be raised in the coming United Community campaign. The remainder of the society's operating expenses come for from CARS campaigns in communities without a United Appeal, from government grants and from the Ontario Hospital Services Comm'ssion.

Pierre Trudeau Busy

For Pierre Trudeau the honeymoon period of his new role in Canadian politics is about to close.

Currently, he finds himself combining the role of serious politician with the special problems of an eligible bachelor being pursued by predatory women from the age of 17 up.

The poor man does not even have an aide as yet to carry his bags — a chore he performed for himself when arriving at Parliament Hill the other day after an Easter vacation in Florida. But then Mr. Trudeau is athletic and well able to carry his own bags. Time enough for formality when he actually takes over from Prime Minister Pearson as leader of this country.

Piecing his cabinet together has been Mr. Trudeau's immediate concern. As for the problem that his new residence at 24 Sussex Drive has no official hostess, it is evident from the way Mr. Trudeau is being followed around that there are any number of aspirants.

It is Spring, of course and this could account for some recent phenomena in Ottawa. The same sort of thing has been happening in the United States. In Kalamazoo, of all places, a 27-year-old mother of five chased Senator Kennedy's convertible, threw her arms around the presidential candidate as he stood up in the vehicle, and whipped off one of his shoes.

Politics on this continent certainly can lead to some unpredictable behavior.

Mr. Winters Withdraws

The withdrawal from the cabinet of former Trade Minister Robert Winters represents a considerable loss to the Government ranks.

Mr. Winters is said to have been invited by incoming Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau to serve in his former capacity of Minister of Trade and Commerce, with additional responsibility for the overlapping Department of Industry.

However, Ottawa sources believe Mr. Winters felt there would be less challenge in such a position than in private business to which he is now returning. Nor did he feel his influence in the cabinet would be as great as he had thought at first. For instance, Mr. Winters had reported proposal that the trade department be given the tariff-making powers now held by the finance department apparently got a cool reception.

As the starter in the recent leadership race, Mr. Winters finished strongly. He is an advocate of balanced budgets and any attempt to achieve such fiscal stability would have been a valuable contribution to the integrity of the Canadian economic scene.

But Mr. Winters is not the kind of man who wants his hands to be tied. He probably feels, and rightly so, that private business has far more to offer a man of his calibre than politics. As private business, and with a former cabinet member, the opportunities afforded him to boost Canada's economic capacity are almost unlimited.

Town and Country

This is an age of rapid transportation made possible by modern road communications. Yet some curious gaps exist on the Ontario scene.

A Bellevillian travelling east along No. 9 highway from Etobicoke at Easter wanted to join 401 while still avoiding Toronto. This he accomplished by taking Highway 10 south from Orangeville and driving east along No. 7 to No. 12 and then south to 401 at Whitby.

All quite convenient, had it not been for the fact he missed a turn for Markham and had to backtrack from Richmond Hill. Then, suddenly, from a heavily-built up area he found himself alone at night in the lonely rural country east of Markham.

In this area — north of Whitby and Oshawa — Toronto and the urban region to the north along Highway 7 might have been hundreds of miles away, so bereft was the countryside of habitation let alone restaurants or gas stations.

Highway 400 is there all right, and 27 and 401 itself, and of course 7, but map reading along the rural sections mentioned above has to be fairly accurate.

It all goes to show that while urbanization is proceeding apace in Canada, there are still lonely areas where the uncertain vintage and stability twist and wind and one is in the Canada that has not changed much in the last 50 years.

UN Bilingualism A Matter of Supply and Demand

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Would you believe Canada is doing something new - setting for the United Nations?

And with the Afro-Asian majority generally giving UN operations the gun, it is usually some pace they are setting in New York's modern Tower of Babel.

Even so, Canada has been showing the UN a clean pair of linguistic heels in the fine politically - motivated art of pushing the use of French.

Led by France with the blessing of President Charles de Gaulle, a bloc of 37 Francophone (that is what the clan calls itself) states, including the new French-speaking African republics are hard-at-work pushing for payment of an annual $500 bilingual bonus for the 10,000 member UN staff.

Here in Canada the federal government has been paying a seven percent salary premium to the eligible bilinguals on its 224, 216-member staff.

The way the language equation has worked out, a French-speaking civil servant required a plus of nothing less than good, although not perfect French to add up to a bonused bilingual.

Opposition to the UN bilingual bonus proposal, now before the world organization's budget committee, reports no less an authority than The New York Times, is coming from the United States, Britain, and a few "other" states — but, notably, not Canada — who pay the great bulk of the bills.

They are objecting to it as not only impractical and politically-motivated — another aspect of the de Gaulle delusions of global France grandeur." As one sees it — but as a wild extravagance.

It would cost "millions," they protest, although not specifying how many.

So the United States, Britain and the "others" who pay the UN shot into the organization simply can' afford it.

It is different here. It is costing millions — no firm official total yet — but that does not matter.

Armand Berard, France's delegate - in - chief at the UN, protests that France and the Francophone states are only demanding their "legitimate rights of equality" and not petitioning for special favors. Sound familiar?

But at the same time he complained about a UN language report which he protested "exaggerated the excellence and influence of English."

Basil O'Connor, the US representative on the UN budget committee, allowed that the world organization might seem "more Anglophone than Francophone" but that was because of what it was a world organization with an overwhelmingly greater demand for documentation in English than French.

The latest language survey by UN Secretary General U Thant has disclosed that the organization used English in communication with 43 foreign offices abroad, and employed French in conversation with only 30.

So the idea of a bilingual bonus was out of the question both on grounds of expense and of practicality.

The proportion of French to English at the UN of 30 as against 43 is greater than here in Canada where less than one in three speak it.

But here, in the headlong rush into bilingualism, the "equality" the Federal government demands of French with English not only is pre-judged to be exactly practised but will worth the price of open-ended millions.

Funny thing happens every day at the UN, to hear the New York Times tell it.

Something which rather underlines a language "fact" here in Canada that the federal government rigidly refuses to face — of there being some 6,000,000 people in what is known as "The Third Force," whose mother tongue is neither French nor English.

For when Assembly President Cornelio Manescu, the Rumanian Foreign Minister, talks with UN Secretary General U Thant, they have to do it through an interpreter.

Manescu speaks no English and U Thant no French beyond exchanging "bellos."

Idle Citizens
Welfare as A Way of Life

Montreal Gazette

One of the perpetually unsolved problems in Canada is that of the able-bodied unemployed — the problem of those who have exhausted their unemployment insurance benefits, but who remain jobless. Under the existing system, they are entitled to welfare benefits, paid half by the federal Government and half by the provincial government concerned.

While there are undoubtedly cases of those who continue to seek work but cannot find it, there are also undoubtedly cases of those who cease, to all intents and purposes, to find a job and who settle down indefinitely on welfare as a way of life.

Premier Daniel Johnson has denounced as "lazy parasites" some 18,000 unmarried welfare recipients who, he believes, are using their welfare payments as a kind of unearned income. He says that they are living "in three and a half furnished apartments," regularly cashing their welfare cheques at the expense of the conscientious working man.

"When someone starts living on welfare," says Mr. Johnson, "it is not easy to dislodge him. It is a scandalous and frightening situation for the man who slaves to keep his family alive. It is an untenable situation."

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland believes that the answer to the problem is to put the able - bodied unemployed to work. If they cannot find jobs in industry, the provincial governments should put them to work at socially useful things.

There should be no attempt on the part of the provincial governments to use such a plan to get cheap labour. The able-bodied unemployed should be put to work by the provincial governments at the going trade union rates of play, under the going trade union conditions of employment.

This cannot be done unless there is a change in the present federal - provincial arrangements. At present, the federal Government will reimburse the provinces only so long as the unemployed person continues to be idle. Once he starts to work, he must disappear from the welfare rolls.

A problem that has been recognized by so many provincial premiers, now so many years — a problem that has not changed— is one on which action cannot be endlessly delayed. One of the worst problems in welfare is that of stagnant idleness. As this is a federal - provincial, as well as a provincial problem, perhaps the new Prime Minister might consider it among the subjects on which initiative might be exercised. It would benefit all concerned.

Pinnacle's Spring Water

Editor,

With regard to Belleville's water supply to be drawn from the bay, they "zapped" a God-given spring on Pinnacle street.

That water supply as yet will try to seek its own level.

I cannot say where that water supply is going today but it may be undermining Pinnacle Street's asphalt top.

Disease in Decline

Ottawa Journal

The "good old days" look rather bad after reading the Dominion Department of Health's summary of annually reported infectious diseases.

Diphtheria has declined from 3,473 reported cases in 1924 to 14 in 1965. Typhoid suffered the same fate, dropping from 867 reported cases in 1927 to 39 reported cases in 1965. From a high of 2,769 cases in 1946 tuberculosis declined to 1,407 reported cases in 1965. Of even more significance, the tuberculosis death rate plunged from 59.6 deaths per 100,000 population in 1924 to 2.2 per 1,000,000 population in 1965. Smallpox, once the scourge of Indian and pioneer communities, fell from 1,323 reported cases in 1924 to zero cases in 1965.

In 1943 there were 6,975 syphilis cases reported but after the Second World War venereal disease declined until 1957. Since then there is some suggestion of an increase in both gonorrhoea and syphilis with 2,459 gonorrhoea and 893 cases of syphilis reported during 1965 in Ontario.

Nowhere is the dramatic advance of medical science better illustrated than by the statistical demise of poliomyelitis. In 1927 there were 2,544 cases of the crippling disease reported. In 1965 there were none.

Infectious diseases may be on the wane but 15,941 reported cases of chicken pox and 21,432 cases of measles in 1965 kept Ontario mothers unstrung and children quarantined.

How Will Trudeau Deal With France?

Windsor Star

Even before he takes office as prime minister, Pierre Elliott Trudeau is faced with one of those problems that appear to be completely impossible to solve.

France has bypassed official Ottawa and has invited Quebec to send representatives to a conference in Paris. When the French-speaking republic of Gabon did exactly the same thing, Canada promptly suspended diplomatic relations with Gabon. Mr. Trudeau, campaigning for the Liberal leadership at the time, said the same would happen to France if she acted as did Gabon.

Now France has done the same thing, Mr. Trudeau is soon to be prime minister, and the majority of English - speaking Canada probably expects Mr. Trudeau to pack up his campaign statement. But Mr. Trudeau has new responsibilities, among them maintaining national unity, and to suspend diplomatic relations with France would undoubtedly arouse passions in Quebec.

Was there ever a more perfect example of a dilemma?

Nurses in Miniskirts In Germany

St. Catharines Standard

Canadian hospital officials may be interested to hear of the simple technique that created a West German hospital administrator to end a chronic staff shortage at his hospital and at the same time give the patients a brighter outlook on life.

Speculating on female vanity, the West German official organized a fashion show to let nurses at his hospital choose their own uniforms. Their choice fell on a short, gay uniform with miniskirt and an attractive cap.

Hospital authorities approved the change, replaced the title of "nurse" by that of "hostess," and then watched the hemline of former years for the breeze and charm of youthful freshness. Not only was the hospital no difficulty in recruiting nursing staff, but the "hostesses" are happier — and so, of course are the patients.

Golfing Calamity

The Globe and Mail

The Scotsmen who invented golf must have laid upon it the same inflexibility they brought to another national field of triumph, accounting: to tell with how many strokes a player played, it's what's down on paper that counts.

By the official count and every witness' certain memory, Roberto de Vicenzo was tied with Bob Goalby at 277 in Sunday's round at the Masters Championship in Augusta, Ga. But because, in a moment of tension and distraction, he signed a card for a par-4 on the 17th hole, when he'd actually shot a birdie 3, and then, more solemnly decided he had a 278 score and the tournament, which should have gone into a playoff, was lost.

It adds a final touch to this delightful nonsense that the man who made out the faulty card was a mathematics major from the University of Florida.

Russians See Film About U. S.

Christian Science Monitor

New York contains "all that America can be proud of and all that it must be ashamed of."

Although overwhelmingly of this statement strikes us as being both essentially fair and sharp as shrewd. Most interesting of all, it was the punch-line of a 30-minute documentary given over Moscow television on America's largest city.

From what has been reported of the documentary, we gather that it was an attempt to be fairly factual. That the Soviet Government is prepared to present such a program to Russia's most influential audience in the midst of intense Russian chilliness over Vietnam strikes us as heartening.

Such an event underlines Premier Kosygin's recent statement that, notwithstanding the sent troubles, America and Russia must and inevitably will learn to live together. He is to be happily apparent that neither Moscow nor Washington would welcome a break between the two countries. And future cooperation will be eased by opportunities on the part of both peoples to know the other better.

We hope to see this two-way traffic of understanding spread.

MUSHMOUTH REPORTS

Dear Boss: —

The pea soup simmered gently in the big iron pot. Uncle Slug stood over it burping little bubbles with siphoned squirts of whisky blast.

That was before game time when he announced that Toe Blake's musketeers of Montreal (seat of here) would scatter the Black Hawks to the four winds and let the feathers fall where they may.

Furthermore he announced that he would not touch a drop of the spliced green sludge until the Habs scored a goal. Three minutes after the game started the Unk was half-stoned.

Then in flew Unk Pierre of Little Lac, Quebec, a rank separatist if ever there was one, in that he loves to separate money from anyone foolish enough to bet against the Habs, and the judge of the grape from anyone willing to purchase it.

Unk Pierre is the leading private eye of Little Lac. He's the .007 of the French Canadian community and once suffered the loss of an eye while on a special assignment.

This job called for some key-hole peeping and the Unk was in the middle of the job when Lieutenant Lefarbe decided to lock the door from the inside.

That, boss brings me to the point of this report.

Unk Pierre decided to do a little snooping on the side when he learned Toe Blake was taking his cup-seeking musketeers to a quiet hideout which happened to be close by Little Lac.

And he made an outstanding discovery.

Disguised as a pea-soup vendor, he entered the small rink where he said the Habs were supposed to be working out. He was aged to late the dressing room where a strange sight greeted him.

The Habs were seated around the room doing something in the hockey stick line. They were using a strange concoction later found to be a mixture of glue, hawk repellant and an odd metallic substance.

They coated the blade of the stick and then sprinkled the mixture until it had disappeared into the wood. Then they gave the blade a second coat and a dose of the mystery stuff.

Then Unk's one eye nearly popped out of his socket when one of the Habs dropped a puck on the dressing room floor.

Another held out the blade of his stick and that time some of the mixture — and stayed there. Another held out his stick and the first player gave the puck a nudge. It went true to the blade of the second milliskaph.

Well, boss you know the rest. The Habs went out there in the Forum Thursday night and made chickadees out of the proud Highwaying Hawks of Chicago. They scattered their plumage all over the Forum ice with a near double-figure barrage of goal beaks.

Even their stoutest fans sat or stood amazed at the passing virtuosity of the Habs. From one stick to another the puck flew with unerring accuracy. Sixty passes were as rare as an Indian riding a bicycle through Quebec war-chanting "This Land is My Land."

The display was a sports writer's dream.

The sports pages screamed headlines about the magic of the Canadiens passing. The scribes went into printed raves over the brilliancy of the Habs' teamwork. One gave a couple of paragraphs to two guys named Courneyer and Ferguson who merely scored two goals each but the main theme was the deadly lines of communication between the war clubs of the Habs.

Meanwhile high in the gods sat Unk Pierre, a wide look on his face and a knowing gleam in an eye.

Passing wizardry be damned, boss.

Those Canadiens merely played with magnetized sticks and a puck, that thing of the free passes sought refuge in the Hawks' nest, the times over all.

Gump May Be Out

GUMP WORSLEY

MONTREAL (CP) — A hockey team fails or succeeds on the abilities of its centres and coach Billy Reay of Chicago Black Hawks is hoping that Pit Martin will make a vast difference in the Stanley Cup semi-finals.

"He's playing his best hockey of the season because he has never been up to par," Reay said Friday on the eve of the second game of the best-of-seven series against Montreal Canadiens.

Montreal walloped the Hawks 9-2 in the opener Thursday night and is looking for a second victory in tonight's game at 8 p.m. EST.

"But Martin can make a big difference because he's been injured most of the season and played far under par because of it," Reay said.

Martin, a 25-year-old native of Noranda, Que., was one of the players involved in a trade that sent centre Phil Esposito to Boston Bruins at the end of the 1966-67 season.

"And he's been under a lot of pressure all year because of that deal," Reay said.

Esposito chased Stan Mikita to the wire before the Chicago centre won the National Hockey League scoring championship this season, although Reay contends that the merits of the trade will not be known for several years.

Actually, Martin, who was a standout performer against New York Rangers in the quarter-finals, stepped right into Esposito's shoes. He took over Esposito's centre spot with Bobby Hull on left wing and Chico Maki at right wing.

The centre position is actually the Achilles heel of the Chicago club.

In addition to Martin, the only other regular centre is Mikita, although Reay has been using various combinations on his third line with Paul Terbenche and Lowell MacDonald alternating.

Montreal has wealth of strong centres in Jean Beliveau, Henri Richard, Ralph Backstrom and Jacques Lemaire and has utilized them on four separate lines.

Chicago got good news Friday when Montreal reported that Bobby Rousseau had suffered a knee injury in Thursday's game. The Canadiens said Rousseau would play tonight, but no one is certain how serious the injury might be.

The Canadiens were handed one other setback Friday when goaltender Gump Worsley suffered a bruised hand while stopping a shot in practice.

PIT MARTIN

Montreal coach Toe Blake said Worsley will probably be recovered by tonight but Rogatien "Vachon could step in any time."

Actually, Blake was less than overconfident after walloping the Hawks in the first game.

"Don't let one game fool you," Blake said. "We'll probably have to fight for our lives for the rest of the series."

And Montreal defenceman Jacques Laperriere, who was outstanding Thursday night, said the Hawks will "be tougher but we should be too."

"We were on vacation for a week but we got back to work strong. That game should have helped us."

Tonight's game will be televised nationally by the CBC from 8:30 p.m. EST. The series will then switch to Chicago for the third and fourth games next Tuesday and Thursday.

A fifth game, if necessary, will be played in Montreal next Saturday.

The Black Hawks have one injury for tonight's contest. Wharram missed the first game with injured ribs and said Friday that he "will give it the best try I can."

Reay said there is a strong possibility Wharram will be missing from his regular right wing spot on the Scooter Line with Mikita and Doug Mohns.

Broncos Bruins In Finals

EDMONTON (CP) — Pentiction Broncos and Estevan Bruins will meet in the Memorial Cup western finals to decide which club will represent Western Canada in the national junior hockey championships.

Penticton earned their berth Friday night by eliminating Edmonton Movers 5-2, winning that semi-final series four games to one.

Estevan moved to the western finals a day earlier by taking— also four games to one—the other semi-final series against the Fort William, Ont.-based Westfort Hurricanes.

The Bruins, playoff champions in the 11-team Western Canada Junior Hockey League, had trounced Westfort 8-3 in the final game of that series.

No dates have been announced for the western final series.

Stanley Cup Schedule

MONTREAL (CP) — The first game of the National Hockey League's West Division best-of-seven final series between St. Louis Blues and Minnesota North Stars will start at 1 p.m. EST Sunday in St. Louis, the NHL announced Friday night.

The second game will be played in the Minnesota arena at Bloomington Monday night and the third at St. Louis Thursday night, April 25.

The fourth game of the series is a Minnesota home game which will be played in St. Louis because an ice show has booked the Bloomington arena. The game will be Sunday if the East Division final between Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks is completed in four games, and Saturday night if the east series goes beyond four games.

Remaining West Division games, if necessary, will be played at St. Louis Monday, April 29; at Minnesota Wednesday, May 1; and at St. Louis Friday, May 3.

Brampton Romps To 7-4 Victory

RICHMOND HILL, Ont. (CP) — Brampton romped to a 7-4 victory over Drummondville, Que., in the series B third game o' the international midget h'ck'y tournament here Friday.

Larry Hodson and Terry Claridge scored twice for Brampton, with other goals coming from Al Ringler, John Manser, and Vic Wright.

Dennis Ratte, Georges Bessette, Denis Dupere and Denis Drolet replied for Drummondville.

January Sikes Head Traffic Jam

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A major traffic jam shaped up to day in the third round of the $150,000 tournament of Champions, with veterans Don January and Dan Sikes sharing the lead and seven others but on their heels.

January, 38, the gaunt Texan from Dallas, and Sikes, 37, a non-practicing attorney from Jacksonville, Fla., were deadlocked at 138, four strokes under par for 36 holes.

January did it with rounds of 70-68 and Sikes with 68-70 to lead the 64 25 professionals over the 6,708-yard, par 36-35—71 Stardust Country Club course.

Seven players were within three strokes of the co-leaders.

Gardner Dickinson was alone at 139. Bob Goalby, George Archer and Julius Boros were tied at 140, and Bob Charles, Dave Stockton and Randy Glover were knotted at 141.

George Knudson, Toronto pro, was tied for seventh place with Dudley Wysong, each with 145.

The wonder of the thing, as most of the players agreed, was that scores were so low.

Weather Friday was sunny, in contrast to the chill and high winds the previous day.

The personable Goalby, 1968 Masters champion, had one explanation. "The greens are spooky," he said." It seems like each green is a little different from another."

Billy Casper, a master of most greens, shot a second round 74 for 144 and in the course of things missed three putts on two feet each.

"I developed a great putting stroke—a bad one," said Casper.

Sikes had some thoughts: "It's a scary course. There are out of bounds on almost every hole and it's natural to play scared. But if you want to win the tournament you've got to force yourself to go with the driver and be sold. On the other hand, you don't want to be too bold or you can go for a seven or an eight."

The defending champion, Frank Beard, after soaring to a 76 the first day, came back with a par 71.

Eastern Division

All Games Telecast!

TORONTO (CP) — The Eastern Division of the National Hockey League will enjoy full television coverage of its remaining playoff games, but the Western division may have to settle for a single exposure.

The CBC announced Friday the network will carry all games in the Eastern Division finals between Montreal and Chicago, in color and beginning half an hour after the opening face-off.

Montreal took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven series by beating Chicago 9-2 in Montreal Thursday. The second game, scheduled for tonight, also will be played in Montreal. CBC coverage will begin at 8:30 p.m.

The series then switches to Chicago for third and fourth-game to be played Tuesday, April 23 and Thursday, April 25. Telecast time for both games is 9 p.m.

The fifth, if necessary, will be played in Montreal Sunday, April 28, with the telecast beginning at 2:30 p.m.

The sixth game will be played in Chicago Tuesday, April 30, with coverage beginning at 9 p.m. EDT, and the seventh May 2 in Montreal beginning at 8:30 p.m. EDT.

The other Canadian network, CTV, has the right to telecast any game that is potentially decisive.

The league's Western Division is certain of network coverage on only the first game of its final series between St. Louis and Minnesota.

That game will be telecast live from St. Louis Sunday, April 21, beginning at 1:05 p.m. on CBS. The CBS program will be relayed to Toronto-area viewers over CFTO, Channel 9, but will not be carried on either Canadian network.

CROP INSURANCE

Protects you, your crop . . . and your credit . . . with low-cost, comprehensive coverage against the hazards of Hail, Wind, Drought, Frost, Flood, Plant Disease, Insect Infestation, Excessive Moisture and Excessive Rainfall. Apply for coverage now

To insure spring grains — apply by May 15
Crop insurance is a guarantee of production. Select the coverage you want — 60, 70 or 80% of your average yield of oats, barley, mixed grains — and if your yield is below the guaranteed level, the insurance makes up the difference.

To insure forage — apply by May 1
Designed to meet the needs of both dairy farmers and cattlemen, this coverage protects hay and pasture crops. Say alfalfa-brown yields 816, 420, 1,025 per acre and you say or have yield insurance premiums as low as 82 cents per ton. Select your coverage on the basis of what you would have to buy if forage next year was destroyed.

To insure grain corn, soybeans — apply now
The recent passage of two new insurance plans gives coverage for grain corn and soybeans. Corn is covered against the added hazard of wildlife damage. These crops can be insured for 70% of your average yield at the established prices of $1 per bushel for corn and $2.50 per bushel for soybeans. Final application dates for insurance on these crops vary — for the deadlines in your area, check with your local agent, or write us direct.

$15 down
A $15 deposit on your premium secures your crop insurance contract — the balance payable when you report your seeded acreage.

NEW, "MULTI-CLAIM" DISCOUNT
Federal and Ontario Government subsidies cover most of all premium costs — and a new discount scheme reduces premiums still further. A cumulative premium discount of 5% under each claim is allowed each year to insured holders who have not reported claims — up to a maximum discount of 25%.

The prudent farmer insures his crops for the same reason that he insures his buildings, machinery, equipment and livestock.

With Harvey Back In Action, There's No Blues In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (CP) — At 43, Doug Harvey could be claiming consultant fees from his younger St. Louis Blues teammates—if he wasn't playing a regular shift himself.

Harvey was called up from Kansas City of the Central Professional League Thursday and coach Scotty Bowman of the Blues feels the added experience on the blueline helped put his club in the National Hockey League playoff semi-finals.

The Blues open the best-of-seven series here at noon CST Sunday against Minnesota North Stars following their 3-1 win over Philadelphia Flyers Thursday. Minnesota walloped Los Angeles Kings 9-4 in the deciding game of their series to enter the semi-final.

Bowman said Friday he thinks Harvey helped the team just by being there.

"As a team meeting in the morning, Harvey wrote something on the blackboard in the dressing room in Italian," he said.

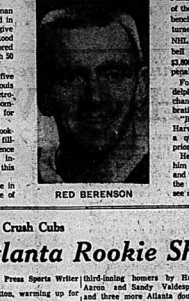
Harvey, who appeared in 60 games as playing coach at Kansas City, will work with Jim Stanley Cup playoff game Sunday after 14 years of post-season competition with Montreal Canadiens between 1948 and 1961.

"The defencemen worked hard against Philadelphia and Harvey steadied them," Bowman said.

"They respect him and did you see who got an assist on the winning goal?"

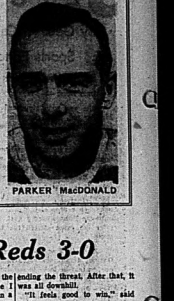
Harvey set up Larry Keenan at 10:45 of the second period in Philadelphia Thursday to give the Blues a 2-1 lead which stood up until Red Berenson scored into the empty Flyer net with 50 seconds left in the game.

The North Stars will play five of the seven games in St. Louis because their home, the Metropolitan Sports Centre in Bloomington, Minn., is being used for the Ice Follies next week.



Meanwhile, Bowman is looking for Harvey to continue filling a hole in defence even when Noel Picard suffered infection in a fractured hand this week.

Picard broke a small bone in a fight with Claude Laforge of Philadelphia in the fifth game of the Blues, Flyers series. Both benches emptied and the game turned into a brawl, prompting NHL president Clarence Campbell to assess fines totalling $3,000. Picard picked up four penalties in the fray.



Following the win over Philadelphia, Harvey didn't get a chance to join the Blues, celebrations.

"It was a nice game to win," Harvey said before leaving for a quick trip to Kansas City prior to Sunday's game.

He said his son telephoned him before Thursday's game and told him to sit on the end of the Blues' bench "so he could see me on television."

Cards Crush Cubs

Atlanta Rookie Shuts Out Reds 3-0

Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Britton, warming up for his first major league start, built his arm. And then things got worse.

The young Atlanta right hander surrendered hits to Cincinnati's first two-hitter Friday night and seemed ripe for an early rescue. But the first of four Atlanta double plays retired him and he came on to pitch a seven-hitter and shut out the Reds 3-0.

Britton rode consecutive third-inning homers by Hank Aaron and Rico Carty, sandwiched and three more Atlanta double plays to the victory—the third straight for the Braves.

In other National league action Friday, Chris Short hurled a three-hitter as Philadelphia nipped Houston, 2-1, Jim Hart and Willie Mays led San Francisco to a 5-2 victory over Pittsburgh, Orlando Cepeda and Dick Simpson exploded two-run Chicago 9-2 and Los Angeles squeezed past New York 3-2.

"My arm was dead," confessed Britton after beating Cincinnati. "That's the first time I haven't struck out anybody in a game. I guess, you have to finesse them a little bit."

Britton finessed the Reds pitching in the opening inning when singles by Pete Rose and Alex Johnson put men on first and second. The youngster got dangerous Vada Pinson on a pop foul and then fed Tony Perez a double play ball.

In the third, he ran into trouble again with two on the two out. But again he got Pinson, ending the threat. After that, it was all downhill.

"It feels good to win," said Britton.

It felt good, too, for Rich Allen, who tagged his first home run of the year and helped short beat the Astros.

"I'm just glad to hit one hard," he said.

Bobby Wine also homered for the Phillies and John Bateman spoiled Short's bid for the shutout with an eighth inning shot for the Astros. Short struck out nine.

National League Adopts Expansion

CHICAGO (AP) — The National League will expand to 12 teams next season and, like the already expanded American League, probably will have divisional playoffs.

The NL originally had a target of no later than 1971 for expansion to 12 teams but was spurred to the earlier date by the fast-moving American League.

Warren Giles, president of the NL, left no doubt here Friday at a league meeting, that his circuit will follow suit in splitting into two divisions. The only problem left unresolved was the choosing of the two new cities.

The AL has already said it will start 1969 with two teams in Kansas City and Seattle and meets in Chicago next Thursday to make up the two six-team divisions. The winner of each division would meet to determine the World Series representative against the rival NL.

Bidding for NL franchises are Milwaukee, San Diego, Dallas-Fort Worth, Buffalo and Montreal.

Milwaukee and San Diego already have major league playing facilities but the other three would be ready by next season if selected.

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston marathon championship is back in the United States for the first time in four years because a pupil listened to his tutor.

Lanky Ambrose Burfoot, the New England intercollegiate cross-country champion from Groton, Conn., proved he learned his lessons well from veteran Johnny Kelley as he captured the annual Hopkinton-to-Back Bay classic Friday.

Ron Wallingford of Hamilton, Ont., led a large field of Canadians across the finish line, placing 13th in 2:37.03. A native of Ottawa, the 34-year-old assistant professor of physical education at McMaster University finished first in 1962.

The only other Canadian in the top 20 was Morros Asrbo of Edmonton in 2:39.02.

Lunn Leads Azalea

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Bob Lunn followed his record first-round 66 with a flashy 66 Friday to lead the $35,000 Azalea open golf tournament at the halfway mark with a 129 total for 36 holes.

It widened his lead to four strokes. He was 13 under par. Dick Rhyan was his nearest challenger at 133 following a second-round 67.

The 129 by Lunn is the lowest 36-hole score on the U.S. PGA tour this year and three under the Azalea mark set in 1955 by Bob Toski and tied twice later.

Wilf Homenuk of Winnipeg shot another 69 for a six-way tie at 138.

Dale Douglass and Dave Ragan are tied for third place at 135, with Gary Player, Steve Reid and Hugh Royer locked at 136.

A 9-2 Hitfest

Bosox Clobber Tribe Behind 6-Hitter

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Oakland isn't much of a city to visit, says Joe Coleman of the Washington Senators, but it's a good place to play cards and a better place to pitch.

"I don't mean to say anything bad about Oakland," Coleman said, "but there's nothing to do here."

But then Friday night rolled around and Coleman started pitching, and now baseball wishes he hadn't come at all. The 21-year-old right hander pitched the Senators to a 3-0 victory over Oakland for his first major league shutout.

Coleman, 8-9 last season and 3-0 in parts of two other seasons with the Senators, allowed only six hits and had only minor problems with the A's as he won his first game of 1968 without a loss.

Another second-year man, Gary Waslewski, also hurled a six-hitter and Boston clobbered Cleveland 9-2 in a game of hit batsmen in which the pitchers did almost as much hitting as the batters.

The California Angels edged Baltimore 2-1 in 10 innings on Bobby Knoop's hit in the only other game.

Detroit's game at Chicago was postponed because of cold weather and Minnesota and New York were not scheduled.

Coleman, who probably will be looking forward to another visit to Oakland, outdueled Jim Nash with the help of Frank Howard's third home run and the hitting and fielding of second baseman Frank Coggins.

Coggins, who had three hits, tripled in the fifth inning and scored on an infield out. After Howard made it 2-0 in the sixth, Coggins snared a line drive with his glove and none out in the bottom of the inning and turned it into a double play. Then he made a diving stop for the third out.

"I felt a little keyed up in the first inning," said Coleman, who gave up three unearned runs in 2 2-3 innings in his only other start, "but that was good. It made me pitch better."

Waslewski fell behind 2-0 on Tony Horton's two-run homer, but Carl Yastrzemski's double tied the count in the third and his sacrifice fly broke the tie in the fifth. The Red Sox hammered out 12 hits.

Olympics

Brundage, Boycott, Bluff

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Olympic boss Avery Brundage was to fly in today amid mounting evidence that the International Olympic Committee is about to confirm the admission of South Africa to the Mexican Olympics and call the bluff of boss countries threatening to boycott the Games.

The committee's nine-man executive board was to assemble for a two-day meeting expected to decide the fate of the Mexican Olympics.

An IOC postal vote taken during the Winter Olympics in Grenoble, France, decided to readmit South Africa—with a suspended narrow majority of three votes. Brundage called today's meeting after pledges by some 40 countries that they will not take part in the Mexico City Games.

The Soviet Union has also strongly hinted that it might withdraw and would presumably be followed by its East European allies.

But the sources close to the IOC said only 14 countries have thus far announced their definite intention of withdrawing if South Africa is admitted.

TORONTO (CP) — Sarnia Legionnaires scored five unanswered goals in the third period Friday to defeat Markham 6-3 and take a 3-0 lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior B final.

The fourth game in the best-of-seven series will be played Sunday in Toronto.

Markham led 2-0 after the first period and 3-1 at the end of the second.

Don Gordon and Tom Douglas scored two goals each for Sarnia while Bob Lacey and Les Fontaine counted one each.

Bill PIPER scored two for Markham and Dennis Romanesky added the other goal.

Allan Salter Starry Lifter Here Tonight

One of Canada's outstanding weightlifters, Allan Salter of Ottawa, is appearing here tonight in the Ontario Quebec lifting tournament at Moira Secondary School.

Salter has had a colorful career. Now 21 he has compiled a fine record. He won the national bantam title four years in a row. He took the featherweight crown three times.

He represented Canada at the world championships in Budapest and Iran, the 1964 Olympics and the Empire Games in Kingston, Jamaica.

He has his eyes set on the summer Olympics in Mexico.

Salter will join Belleville's Price Morin, national heavyweight champion, on tonight's card.

Junior 'A'

Rangers Rout Flyers!

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A final series has become a goal scorers' paradise and a goalie's nightmare.

Kitchener Rangers scored four goals in the first seven minutes of the second period Friday night and trounced Niagara Falls Flyers 9-1 to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series with one game tied.

A total of 36 goals have been scored to date. Kitchener has connected on 21 and Niagara Falls on 15.

The victory was the second in a row for the Rangers who tied the first game of the series 6-6 and lost the second 7-1. They defeated Niagara Falls 4-1 last Saturday. The series continues Sunday with the fifth game at Kitchener and the sixth in Niagara Falls Tuesday.

Dennis Dupere, Dan Seguin and Mike Robitaille paced the Rangers with two goals each. Single goals went to Ab DeMarco, Jim Krulicki and Lee Inglis.

KNUDSON'S WORLD OF GOLF

By GEORGE KNUDSON

LAS VEGAS — They call Chicago the Windy City, but I'll put my money on Las Vegas.

I've been coming here to play golf for 10 years and I can't remember a single tournament that didn't have at least one day of wind — the kind we used to get at home in Winnipeg in the corner of Portage and Main.

We expected things to be the same here this week at the Stardust Country Club for the Tournament of Champions.

The kind of wind I'm talking about is the gusty breeze that tends to blow you off balance when you're at the top of your backswing.

There's only one way to handle this situation and that's to play it just a slightly-back in your stance.

What we're trying to do here is to keep the trajectory low. And always use a modified or three-quarter backswing so you can control your balance.

When the wind is strong, a full swing may throw you off balance, sending your shots astray and your score to dizzying heights.

The tendency is to try to hit the ball harder in wind, but that's a mistake.

Keep the ball low so the wind can't play with it as much; control your backswing and control your balance.

A Guide to the Traveller

Journey Into Russia — by Laurens Van der Post.

This book describes one of the longest journeys made in Soviet Russia by a writer without political bias. Colonel van der Post's story is of a journey into the hearts of the Russians and into the hearts of places visited from Moscow to Tashkent, Samarkand, Kiev, and Moscow to Siberia and back. In this important and remarkable book, Colonel van der Post has done unusual justice to a country which, more than any other, today attracts the imaginative traveller.

The Selective Traveller in Portugal — by Ann Bridge and Susan Lowndes.

The authors of this delightful guide book have travelled widely throughout Portugal visiting remote places as well as Lisbon and the other leading cities and have gathered a wealth of useful and interesting information on the country, its history and its people, as well as its Baroque art and architecture.

Everyone's Guide To Israel — by John Comay.

This is a sophisticated and fascinating account of Israel from its ancient roots in the land of Canaan down to its most recent achievements, plus an authoritative guidebook for the prospective visitor. There are detailed and knowledgeable "tours" of Israel's regions and cities, blending an up-to-date perspective with intriguing background information.

Picton Industrial Night Slated For May 2

PICTON—The Picton Chamber of Commerce is taking steps to encourage and promote industry in Prince Edward County.

An industrial night will be held May 2, said Jack Evans, chamber secretary.

Speaker at the banquet will be J. R. Delaney, chief of the industrial development branch of the department of economics and development.

Mr. Delaney will talk on "the Ontario Equalization of Industrial Opportunity" will be of great value to local industrialists.

Although the banquet is open to the public, he said, special encouragement will be given to executives of local industries, by way of written invitations.

Mr. Evans said that the chamber in the future would take a renewed interest in local industries.

It is hoped that the May 2 banquet, the first of its kind will be repeated.

Levesque Wildly Applauded

Separatists Hell Bent for Quebec Independence

MONTREAL (CP) — Rene Levesque's movement to establish a sovereign Quebec within a Canadian common market began a weekend policy meeting Friday night with Levesque supporters hell-bent for Quebec independence.

Delegates to the first general meeting of the Movement Souverainete-Association gave a standing ovation to a call for unity among Quebec separatists and cheered enthusiastically a movement leader who said:

"Soon you will all be together in one political party to liberate Quebec."

The 6,000-seat Maurice Richard arena, scene of the meeting which will likely conclude with the founding of a new independence party, appeared to be about two-thirds full. Crowd estimates ranged from 3,500 to 5,000.

Actor Doris Lussier, known in French Canada for his appearances as a comedian on the C B C's French-language network, got A rousing ovation when he told the cheering crowd: "We are anxious for the day when we will be one big separatist party . . ."

"We are united by the assentials. Let's not become divided over details."

Francis Aquin, like Mr. Levesque a former provincial Liberal who now sits in the legislature as an Independent, said that from this night on, the sovereignty movement joins other separatist parties in "the struggle for national liberation."

Mr. Levesque, a former Quebec welfare minister introduced as a spokesman and symbol of the independence movement, was wildly applauded for more than four minutes when he walked onto the platform.

Theme of his 90-minute address, if it had a single theme, was "we can do it if we want to." He said education and technology have provided French-speaking Quebecers with the chance to "make a country" out of the predominantly French province.

"It's an historical opportunity. For the first time is here our own little corner . . . instead of living from St. Jean Baptiste Day to St. Jean Baptiste Day or St. Jean Baptiste Day."

Mr. Levesque said Quebec can form a sane partnership with the rest of Canada once the province becomes independent. There was no reason why Quebec could not achieve sovereignty and become associated with the rest of Canada "serenely."

A working paper to serve as the basis of workshop and general assembly sessions today and Sunday recommends that Quebec recognize only French as an official language.

But the province's English-speaking minority, numbering

Financial Crisis In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A warning that the United States is "in the midst of the worst financial crisis we have had since 1931" was issued Friday by Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr. of the Federal Reserve Board.

Martin told the American Society of Newspaper Editors that unless huge deficits and inflation are curbed in the next several years, the U.S. dollar could be borne down by a worldwide devaluation of currencies.

Martin called on his audience of 550 editors to marshal public support for a tax increase and expenditure cuts.

He said the country is plagued by "an intolerable balance-of-payments deficit, side by side with an intolerable domestic deficit."

"Both have to be corrected, and both have to be corrected over the next several years, if the United States is going to face either an uncontrollable recession or an uncontrollable inflation," Martin said.

He spoke here day after the Federal Reserve System took strong money-tightening action by raising its discount rate from five per cent to six per cent, the highest interest rate on loans to commercial banks since 1929 when the discount hit per cent.

The action is expected to push up interest rates and make credit scarcer throughout the U.S. economy. It was also on the same day that Chairman Arthur M. Okun of President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers said the country is suffering the consequences of a new and dangerous "over-all boom."

Martin's speech to the editors was interpreted as an attempt to increase pressure on Congress for the 10-per-cent income tax surcharge requested by Johnson.

There was some belief, however, that the latest money-tightening action of Thursday might encourage some congressmen to delay tax action longer. In an apparent effort to forestall such delay, Martin held out hope that if taxes are raised, the credit squeeze may be lessened and a repetition of the 1966 "credit crunch" avoided.

Martin divided blame between the administration's guns-and-butter policy and the "recalcitrance of Congress" in refusing to approve a tax, increase and spending reductions.

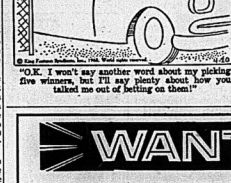
"I think it is the duty of the Federal Reserve to point out the disastrous effects of the perpetual deficit, both in the balance of payments and in our domestic economy," Martin said.

In what may be the latest the first public admission by a high government official that a devaluation of the U.S. dollar is conceivable, Martin said: "Unless we reverse our current trend, it will inevitably lead to worldwide devaluation of currencies."

Afterward, he told reporters he was including the dollar in that statement but added that he was "not in k1TE g e prediction—we still have it within our power to prevent this."

Handling Charge Approved

Furniture (plus postage) is the new policy of the United Community Services furniture exchange decided the directors of UCS at a meeting Thursday.



A handling charge of $2 per item will be imposed for furniture delivered to families in Belleville.

The committee pointed that the charge would apply to all major items, and that revenues would be used to defray the costs of cartage and parts for appliances.

Mrs. E. J. McLaughlin, director of the exchange said that the charge was essential if the service was to be continued.

"Several of the people who have received furniture have indicated a willingness to pay the nominal charge," she said.

Late Frost Could Cut Fruit Crops Drastically

TRENTON — The dry warm weather is beneficial to farmers in the area at present but if it continues another two weeks a late frost could cut fruit crops drastically.

H. R. Heeney, superintendent at the Dominion Experimental farm at Smithfield commenting on the small amount of rain that has fallen in April so far this year said excellent growing conditions now prevailing was bringing on blossoms earlier than usual. The first spraying in orchards here today is two weeks ahead of schedule he observed.

Mr. Heeney recalled a similar situation in 1945 when Nature's cycle had been activated premature by the first week in April. That year he recalled along came a late frost causing heavy damage to fruit blooms and a harvest never equalled for low yield since. He referred to the similar circumstances providing the records of the great crop failure as the reason for his present concern. But if no frost holds off the harvest should be early and yields satisfactory this growers and other factors involved favorable, he forecast.

At CFRA Trenton the duty forecaster reported that precipitation since April 1 totalled .81 inches after a reasonably heavy snow and rain fallout of 3.22 inches (water equivalent) since January 1.

Last year from January 1 to April 30 total precipitation in that district amounted to 1.74 inches weather records show.

The outlook for the weekend regarding the possibility of rain from information supplied by the U.S. forecast service is one half to three quarters of an inch in showers starting Saturday afternoon re-dawning the forecaster said.

Melrose

MELROSE — Miss Barbara Weese, Renfrew, spent Easter weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Weese.

John English has returned home from Waterloo and will resume work in Toronto this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken McMechan entertained members of the Kimmett family Easter Sunday.

Miss Lorraine McMechan entertained a group of friends Monday on the occasion of her birthday.

Mrs. Joe Summers was in Toronto Tuesday to attend the funeral of her uncle, Jack Brown.

The sacrament of the Lord's supper was observed in Melrose Church Easter Sunday when four young people were received into membership. They are Shirley Elizabeth Lazier, Glenn Robert McMechan, Scott Arthur McLaren and Richard Earl Phillips. The Hi-C group conducted the Good Friday evening service.

Members of the new executive of Melrose WI met at the home of the president, Mrs. Donald McLaren to arrange the 1965-66 program.

John Farrell is still a patient in Kingston General Hospital.

Clifford Hagerman and Sterling Madge are still patients in Belleville General Hospita.

Official Charges Circuit

LONDON (AP) — The head of Britain's Lotus car company charged Friday night that racing driver Jim Clark might have survived his fatal crash in West Germany if the Hockenheim circuit had provided "adequate crash barriers."

The charge was made in a statement issued by Colin Chapman 12 days after Clark, the Scottish double world champion auto racer, died in a Formula 2 race at Hockenheim.

Chapman said it was impossible to be sure about the reason for the fatal crash. But, he said, piecemeal investigation of the wreckage of the Lotus car revealed no structural failure.

Clark's Lotus 483 racer, according to the statement which quoted eyewitnesses reports, left the Hockenheim track on a curve at an estimated speed of 120 miles per hour. The car plunged into woods alongside the track.

Kapuskasing Captures Opener 6-4

SEPT-ILES, Que. (CP) — Real St. Jacques collected two goals Friday night as Kapuskasing defeated Sept-Iles Miners 6-4 in the opening game of their best-of-three Eastern Canada Intermediate A hockey finals.

Larry Paiement scored the winning goal at 14:13 of the third period, sending Kapuskasing ahead 5-4 before 2,000 fans.

R. Cloutier, Russ Belliveau and Gilles Picard were Kapuskasing's other scorers while Yvan Filbotte, Henri Roy, Jean-Paul Bouchard and Jacques Bergeron replied for Sept-Iles.

Sept-Iles outshot Kapuskasing 32-30.

Second game of the series will be played here tonight and the third, if necessary, here Sunday.

Roughies Sign Two Gaels

OTTAWA (CP) — The Rough Riders have signed defensive halfback Guy Potvin, 24, and Theron Craig, 20, a defensive end, both from Queen's University, the Ottawa Football Club announced today.

Potvin has played for Queen's since 1963. He was a member of two championship teams and selected for the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association all-stars three times.

A kicker, he was tied for top scorer in 1966-67 with eight converts and five singles.

Craig has played with Queen's since 1965 and was voted most valuable rookie that year.

Both Potvin and Craig played high school football in Ottawa.

Six Knights To Attend Larks Camp

MONTREAL (CP) — Tony Golab, general manager of Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League, Friday announced that six members of last season's Oakville Black Knights of the Ontario Rugby Football Union's senior circuit will attend the Als rookie camp in June.

They are: Halfback Al Alexander, 22; guard Brett Biggs, 23; Ray Olesiuk, 23, a defensive tackle or end; Peter Dalla Riva, 22, a linebacker; guard Bill Mountain, 23; and Brian Murphy, 22, who is listed as a guard or tackle.

With The Trotters

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP) — Roaring Water, owned by the H and B. Stable of London, Ont., scored his seventh win in eight starts at Batavia Downs Friday night, capturing the featured handicap trot for $4,000. The time was 2:07 2-5.

Bill Harvey drove the five-year-old bay gelding, who led most of the way in taking a hard-charging Single Creed by a head. Tarpon Lou was third.

Roaring Water paid $5.40.

What A Bore!

High school vocationals students were among visitors to Industrial, electrical equipment show Thursday at Belleville Curling Club. Among exhibits was this boring machine for threading pipes, explained to students by salesman Jack Dowell. Show, sponsored by Electric Sales and Service, had 25 exhibitors.

Celtics Wilted The 'Stilt'

PHILADELPHIA (A P) — Boston Celtics regained the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division championship Friday night with a 130-96 victory over Philadelphia 76ers, whose Wilt Chamberlain scored only two points and took one shot in the second half.

In winning the seventh and deciding game of the eastern final, the Celtics became the first team in NBA history to come back from a 3-1 playoff deficit and win.

'Particular Position' Endorsed For Quebec in NDP Booklet

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Democratic Party endorses the "particular position" of Quebec in a 16-page booklet containing the party's platform for the next federal general election.

A federal department of science and technology to co-ordinate research in Canada and a department concerned with "working for the consumer" are called for in the booklet.

The federal guarantee of Quebec's special position would be contained in a new constitution drawn up by federal and provincial governments.

"Our federal system must . . . have the flexibility to recognize the particular position accorded to Quebec since 1867 as the centre of the French-speaking community of Canada.

"She must have the right and the funds to fulfil government responsibilities which affect the community—such as social security, education, town planning and community development."

The party would establish a permanent federal-provincial planning and development council to "make sure the economic and social plans of our levels of government dovetail."

The council would also seek new ways to make finances available to the provinces for low-income housing, urban transportation and control of air and water pollution.

The program stresses the need for an independent economic policy in Canada.

A Canadian capital resources fund would be established by the federal government to mobilize Canadian capital for research and development.

"A third new federal department would deal with problems of housing and urban development.

It would work with the provinces to "provide "100 per cent of the cost of land assembly and servicing, 100 per cent of the cost of public housing and 75 per cent of the cost of rent subsidies."

Stanfield Announces Advisory Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Stanfield announced Friday night the establishment of a continuing advisory committee which is to report to him on its recommendations and views on policy.

He said T. H. B. Symons, president and vice-chancellor of Trent University, will act as chairman of the committee which will consist of persons from the academic, business and professional communities as well as Conservative MPs and members of the Progressive Conservative national association.

Not all would be active supporters of the Conservative party, Mr. Stanfield said in a statement released by his office here.

"However, all are concerned to help this party become an effective and contemporary instrument of government in Canada."

Establishment of the committee was recommended by a special committee set up by Mr. Stanfield last October to find means of improving co-operation between the party and informed Canadians on matters of public policy.

PC Chief Attacks 'Colony' in Yukon

WHITEHORSE (CP) — Opposition Leader Stanfield said Friday a Conservative government would hasten the development of responsible government in the Yukon.

The "revolution towards responsible government here has been too slow," he said.

"The Yukon was a "colony" of Canada and such a system was not "appropriate" in this country.

One of the major contributions of the Diefenbaker government had been to develop the feeling among residents of Northern Canada that they were part of the country.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For April 21

Your birthday today: You are likely in the coming year to risk your stake in the world many times by magnanimous but ingenuous acts. Some difficult adjustments between physical needs and personal ambition will have to be made; something has to give. There will be uncertainty as to how much backing you will receive from society. Today's natives tend to pleasant personalities rising above petty levels early in life.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): This Sunday is most rewarding to those who hold their tempers in check. Be pleasant to all — a smile costs only the slightest effort.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Anything you do or don't do today will likely be misconstrued, so just play it straight. Be candid, but with a smile; no edges on your words.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): You may not be in much of a mood for social doings. Putter around the house or just loaf for a mini-vacation. There will be opportunity for other things in the future.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Emotional involvements are all around today. Be wary of them, stick to your usual practical approaches. Pay attention to that sudden hunch when it says "leave off."

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Argument with those you love could be provoked today by almost any stimulus. Since your generous nature will forgive when its over, do the forgiving first and avoid the crisis altogether.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Travel is apt to be inconvenient today. Contact with people may be abrasive — keep your distance, hold your tongue. Relax early; start at such a good show.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): There is a time and a season for all things. And, for you, today is the time for economy, both of money and of words about it. Go to a party or a good show in the evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Tact is the keyword for today as it is likely that you are right in your side of the debate. Moderation is also very much in order. Rest early tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): You may discover that most people are so troubled with their own concerns that church is neglected. There's an extra message in the service. Walk, don't ride.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Unless you have events well planned, today is likely to give you a feeling of frustration. Don't crowd other people too closely; there is an odd mood in the air.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Spend the day visiting people you have not seen for quite a while, but do not linger. Drive with exceptional care, or use public transit.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Church today serves as a means of avoiding needless scrapes with other people. Divert the energy into checking your home for hazards, insurance coverage and security.

For April 22nd

Your birthday today: This year you will settle in a new pattern of social movement, with new habits, new connections. The tension and challenge for you are nowhere near as great as for those born a few days earlier, but are still notably high. Today's natives find themselves cast in the role of picker-upper for their slightly younger fellows. Their generally artistic nature makes this role somewhat awkward.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Today sees you reverse your recent upward trends. If you accept the defeat as final, it will be. If you try to correct with spending, you spoil everything. Take it as a passing phase, nothing serious.

TAURUS (Apr. 20—May 20): Your mate or a close associate may have put you on the spot with some credit deal. Be very patient, realize there are reasons and reasons, and that it can all be worked out in time.

GEMINI (May 21—June 20): Get up bright and early and get right on work. Listen carefully to what people around you say, but try to be a bit slower to answer than usual. Wait for the whole story.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Abide by safety rules today, avoid traffic jams by going early or late. There is enough tension in the air without adding to it. Avoid repeating hasty or incomplete news.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Social daring or erratic spending will get you nowhere, either in romance or finance, so just behave for the time being. Defer major purchases.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Today you are likely to bite off more than you can chew; many major deals are held to more than you can handle. Keep things very simple today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23—Oct. 22): You are prone to overestimate your potential income today. Do not expect much from personal connections: the extra obligation becomes too high a commission to pay.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Emotional confusion invades business today, so that rash deals, rush jobs, and unexpectedly high costs are normal. Think twice before closing the transaction.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Mistaken idealism can mix you up today. Curb your wanderlust, stay home with new books on your pet subjects, and catch up with what is going on in other places.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Credit deals, installment buying, are not favored today, particularly where they are shared with friends or relatives. Stay with the tried and proven lines and quit early.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): This is the day the legal wind hits the office and bits of red tape blow about. Do more than usual talking, be full of your facts. Extreme care in handling power tools is indicated.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Common sense and quiet tact will get you further today than any other approach. Obey safety rules, avoid travel if you can. Defer buying anything important.

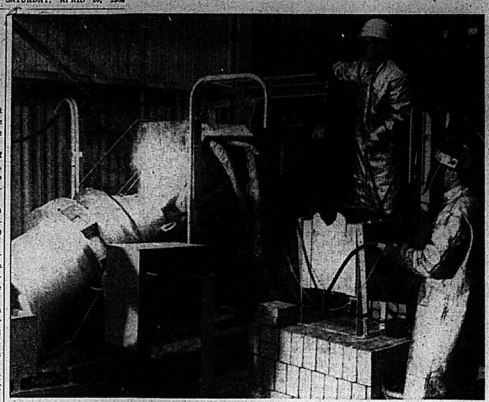
Forestry Officials On Alert

With little or no rain in sight forestry officials in the Quinte area are anxiously facing the weekend.

In the Tweed Department of Lands and Forests division, which already has lost close to 1,000 acres to fire, the timberland is tinder-dry



Less than a half inch of rain has fallen this month — compared to an April norm of 3.10 inches.

The weekend threat is compounded by the fact that fine weather is sure to draw thousands of urbanites into the Quinte outdoors.

Human carelessness is blamed for the 37 fires so far this month which have burned 974 acres of forest. During the whole of 1967 a total 670 acres were lost to fire.

A ban imposed on burning permits throughout the district earlier this week still remains in force.

This prohibits the lighting of fires in the outdoors. Not to easily controlled however, are careless smokers, who always are considered a grave threat by forestry officials.

Experimental Steelmaking

Two employees of Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd., in Hamilton, work with a newly-installed oxygen steelmaking vessel which will be used experimentally for DOFASCO. This furnace and auxiliary equipment was installed at a cost of $150,000 and is the sixth experimental oxygen steelmaking plant used by the company since 1954 when it pioneered the oxygen steelmaking process. The new unit will be used to find ways of refining the steelmaking process and improving the-finished produce. (CP Photo)

FBI Pinpoints Killer As Prison Escapee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI has pinpointed as ex-convict, high school dropout and U.S. Army reject as Eric Starvo Galt, target of a massive manhunt in the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The FBI said Friday a "systematic-and exhaustive search" through 'its fingerprint files revealed Galt and James Earl Ray—drifter, loner, avid dancer and prison escape—as the same man.

In its first positive identification of the man sought by the FBI since the April 4 assassination of King in Memphis, Tenn., the bureau further pictured Ray as a 40-year-old white man in trouble with the law since his youth—and one who "should be considered armed and extremely dangerous."

There was no indication the FBI was any closer to catching Ray than it was Wednesday when it put the name Galt on a fugitive warrant charging him "and an individual whom he alleged to be his brother" with conspiring to deprive King of his civil rights to travel from state to state.

Ray fled the Missouri Penitentiary—where he was serving the seventh year of a 20-year sentence for a 1959 market holdup and auto theft in St. Louis—on April 23, 1967.

Prison officials, who said a 1966 escape try by Ray was thwarted when he was discovered in a ventilator shaft, indicated he succeeded the next year by hiding in a truck carrying bread from the penitentiary baker to its farms.

The FBI said Eric Starvo Galt was one of a string of aliases favored by Ray in frequent brushes with the law beginning when he was 21 years old—several years after he dropped out of high school in the 10th grade.

John Willard was the name used by the man who checked into a shoddy Memphis rooming house overlooking the Lorraine Motel, where King was fatally shot as he stood on a balcony and talked with friends.

The FBI has said Eric Starvo Galt purchased a 30-06 rifle in Birmingham five days before the assassination. That rifle, with a telescopic sight intact, was recovered outside the rooming house just after the assassination.

Ray was described as five-foot-10, and 165 to 174 pounds, with brown hair, blue eyes and small scars on his forehead and right palm. He is said to have a habit of tugging on an ear when nervous. His left ear protrudes slightly further than his right ear.

Ray was said to have worked at various times as a laborer and baker, a merchant seaman and riverboat cook.

The FBI said the fugitive's acquaintances called him a loner who likes beer and vodka, favors country and western music and speaks with a rural twang. The loner tag seemed to conflict with the FBI description of him as an "avid dancer."

In more obvious conflict was the FBI's Wednesday statement saying Galt "took dancing lessons" in New Orleans in 1964 and 1965—a time when Ray was still imprisoned in Missouri.

A bureau spokesman said the earlier Galt description should have said he "reportedly" took the dancing lessons, rather than stating that he had.

Easter Marked At School For Retarded

NAPANEE — Easter created excitement for the pupils of Happy Day School, the school for the mentally retarded on the Slash Road. Mrs. Fernan Martin teaches the nine oldest ones, who are at school all day, and Mrs. Garnet Dupre, the seven younger ones, four of whom go home at noon. Mrs. Martin has all 12 in the afternoon. The pupils are taught all the academic work they are capable of absorbing, but most of the time is spent in teaching crafts.

The pupils were taught the Easter story in simple form, but are incapable of absorbing much of it. And so the teachers wisely linked it up with spring, and the coming back to life of dormant plants, the springing up of seeds, the birth of animals, and the hatching out of chickens. The tradition of the Easter bunny especially interested them.

At Easter approached their craft work reflected what they had been taught-about Easter. Those in the senior room made very attractive Easter cards, using egg shells. Each made an Easter basket of construction paper. The older ones constructed tiny chickens to go into their baskets, and the lower grade pupils made recognizable bunnies.

Wednesday night the children left a window open when they left school, and when they returned Thursday morning great was the excitement "to find that the big Easter bunny had filled their baskets with Easter eggs, as they had hoped.

Several wives of the Napanee detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police visited the school Thursday bringing Easter baskets of candy from the whole group. Also Easter gifts came from the League of Mercy of the Salvation Army, but only a sunshine bag of candy eggs, but also a permanent gift, such as a book mark or a scrap book.

Pennell Appointed To Ontario Bench

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointment of former solicitor-general Pennell as a justice of the Supreme Court of Ontario was announced Friday by Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Pennell left the Liberal cabinet earlier this week. It has been reported for some time that he wished to leave politics and go to the bench.

The announcement said Mr. Pennell's appointment is effective Monday.

Mr. Pennell was first elected to the Commons in 1962 as MP for the Ontario Riding of Brant-Haldimand and was appointed solicitor-general in 1965.

The 53-year-old lawyer had been asked by new Liberal Leader Pierre Elliott Trudeau to stay in the cabinet. But in announcing his resignation Wednesday he said personal reasons prompted him to go.

Mr. Pennell studied at McMaster University in Hamilton and Osgoode Hall in Toronto, served five years as an RCAF navigator and then returned to practise law in his native Brantford.

In 15 active years in court he handled mainly civil litigation but occasional murder cases as well.

He became known after his appointment to the cabinet as the leader of the parliamentary campaign to abolish capital punishment.

Late last year he saw a vote approved abolishing the death penalty for murder for a five year trial period, except for slayers of police and prison guards.

474 Mile Trek

Adventurers Reach Pole--First Since 1909

CHICAGO (CP-AP) — A 474-mile trek across the polar ice cap.

Plaisted said the North Pole looked no different from the massive ice cap the team travelled over by gasoline-powered vehicles to get there.

"It's strictly a geographic location," he said, "and it's cold too. The temperature is 23 degrees below. We're camped on a large block of ice."

The party planned to spend at least a day at the pole to allow a U.S. Air Force weather reconnaissance plane to confirm their position and take pictures.

A spokesman for the Self-organization, a Chicago public relations firm which acted as contact for the expedition, said four members of the six-man party covered the final 10 miles to the pole.

Plaisted, a St. Paul, Minn., insurance man, said those with him were Jean-Luc Bothbardier, 29, Montreal, a technician, Walter H. Pederson, 40, St. Cloud, Minn., a mechanical engineer; and Gerald R. Pitzel, 34, an instructor at the University of Minnesota, St. Paul.

"It's a little overwhelming," Palisted remarked. "As soon as we got here we bowed our heads. We'd made it. The North Pole. We shook each other's hands and laughed."

Two other members of the expedition, Donald E. Powellek, 40, St. Paul, an electronics engineer, and Dr. Arthur C. Auf derheide, 43, a pathologist from Duluth, were prevented from rejoining the surface party when the support plane was grounded by bad weather.

The six men flew from Minneapolis in late February to establish a base camp at Ward Hunt Island in Canada's Northwest Territories. The camp was 15 miles from the point where Commodore Robert Peary started his dogsled expedition to the pole in 1909.

The expedition was travelling by four gasoline-powered vehicles towing supply-laden sleds. They were resupplied with food and gasoline by a support aircraft.

"We hope to airlift them off the polar cap within a day or so," said Robert Christie, in Montreal, who is handling the expedition's public relations. "There is a possibility we will see the party in Montreal next Friday, although that has not been confirmed."

Brown Says...

Reductions in NATO Disastrous

TORONTO (CP) — Unilateral action to reduce military contributions to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization would be "absolutely disastrous," George Brown, former British foreign secretary, said Friday.

"The whole house would fall in" if member nations began withdrawing troops assigned to NATO without the most careful planning, he told a news conference.

Great changes are taking place in Eastern Europe, but it would be "absolutely mad if we were to drop our guard."

It is too soon to try to get rid of NATO and the Eastern European Warsaw agreement, which play a role in stabilizing world relations, the 53-year-old Labor member of Parliament for Belper in Derbyshire said on arrival in Canada.

Military assessments must be made continually by NATO members, and if it is concluded that the number of "men on the ground" is no bigger necessary "than we must work out how to use our ability to reduce our over-insurance in order to get a reduction on the other side."

Mr. Brown, who resigned as foreign secretary several weeks ago, said he had always wanted Britain in a larger European organization so that "the could play a longer role and have a larger voice in NATO."

"The important views of Europe could be heard sooner than they are, louder than, they are and be listened to with more attention than they are."

Mr. Brown is speaker at the National Newspaper Awards dinner tonight.

Former Primate Is Village Vicar

SHERBORNE, England (AP)-In the nearby village of Trent, folk don't say, "Hello vicar" when they meet their parson. They say, "Hello archbishop." For last year, revered is a Most Reverend and a titled lord at that.

For 18 years Geoffrey Francis Fisher, rector of Trent, played his role in the largest tapestry of English history. As Archbishop of Canterbury and Primate of All England, he performed wedding rites for two princesses of the royal house, Elizabeth and Margaret, crowned Elizabeth as Britain's Queen, christened her three eldest children, Charles, Anne and Andrew, and presided over leaders of the Anglican communion twice at Lambeth Conferences.

But he once said: "I don't think Prince of the Church has ever described me. I'm a parish priest at heart."

That's what he is today. Now a mellowed figure compared with the stern man who once ruled the church of England, he strolls the rural lanes around his 17th century rectory, leaning a little on his blackthorn stick. On a smaller stage, he devotes to parish problems the same keen mind he once used for affairs of state.

This is the rich, remote, dairy country of Dorset, made famous last century by Thomas Hardy's novel Tess of the d'Urbervilles. Nothing much happens here, though it's a scant 120 miles from London's urban sprawl.

The black and white cows munch lazily in the meadows, knee-deep in yellow buttercups. Bees drone lazily under the spreading cedar in the rectory garden. The midday murder of voices from Rose and Crown is muted.

Here Lord Fisher of Lambeth—the Queen gave him the title when he quit office—lives the simple life. But for a man who will be 81 May 5, it is an active one. He preaches at Matins on Sundays. He up notices about the next choir practice, talks to the Mothers' Union, looks in on the jumble sale. Like any country parson, he sometimes goes up to the big manor house with Lady Fisher for a glass of sherry and a chat.

Contented as he seems, Archbishop Fisher cannot resist an occasional nostalgic glance back at the stage he quit.

From his white-painted, book-lined study he keeps up a steady stream of handwritten letters to The Times, The Church Times and other serious publications. When he disapproves of something he says so, often with bluntness. He is not quite a few things of which he disapproves.

Archbishop Fisher, who first broke the Reformation ice by discreetly visiting Pope John XXIII in Rome, sees dangers in, today's growing ecumenical fervor.

It might, he thinks, make Christian people forget the restraining and inspiring loyalties of their own church tradition.

"There is nothing to church history to suggest that all the separate churches must cease to exist or must lose their identity and self-government," he declared during a recent lecture in London. "To invent a new, terrifying, all-embracing ecclesiastical union would be the surest way to destroy the spontaneous spirit of an all-embracing bond of unity."

Back at Trent rectory he put it more simply:

"It's all wrong when people get the idea that in the end every church has got to be part of one organic structure and under one control. In fact, there are a lot of reasons against it.

"In full communion you have to trust each other—like in a civilized marriage—not sign on the dotted line. Of course such ideas rule out endless discussions by the theologians. That's why they hate them. They'd be out of a job.

"But we can do a lot of embulando — walking together—almost straight into full communion. It seems so obvious to me that you cannot shut your eyes to it."

Changed Attitude To Judaism Urged

NEW YORK (AP)-A major shift in Christianity's theological view of Judaism is urged in a new American study. It says Christians should recognize that Judaism, although not accepting Jesus as Saviour, continues to be a divinely sanctioned instrument of salvation.

Judaism's non-acceptance of Jesus "falls within the sovereign purposes of God," says Rev. Dr. A. Roy Eckardt, a Protestant theologian and apologetic scholar on the subject who advances the case for a basic re-evaluation.

He calls Judaism the "star of redemption" and Christianity the supplemental "rays of that star" for reaching out to a pagan world.

He deplores Christian efforts to convert the Jews as a "fatal distortion of the structure of the history of salvation" and in veiled form, an "attack upon the essence of the Christian faith itself."

He adds: "For if the Jewish people are not already members of the family of God, who who are Gentiles remain lost and without hope. The covenant into which Jesus the Jew ostensibly leads us would be revealed as a delusion."

But the divine covenant with Israel is "an enduring one," he says, and "all attempts to put it out of business by missions, however well intentioned, contradict God's purpose."

Dr. Eckardt, a Methodist and chairman of the religion department at Pennsylvania's Lehigh University, has specialized in studying Jewish-Christian relationships for 25 years.

His new analysis is entitled "Elder and Younger Brothers."

Dr. Eckardt calls for a basic change in the traditional Christian teaching that the church entirely succeeds Judaism as the "new Israel," leaving its predecessor outmoded.

As younger partner, the church can carry forward "its own revered role" toward Judaism, he says, but "the church does not annul the role of original Israel, nor can it ever, in human history, take the place of Israel."

Dr. Eckardt, who is editor of the Journal of the American Academy of Religion, sees Judaism and Christianity as representing "two sides" of God's "single unfolding covenant" with a "jointly-held mission," one within Judaism and the other outside it.

From an over-all biblical perspective, he says, "it was not God's revealed will or purpose that the great majority of original Israel should come to acclaim Jesus as the Christ."

In fact, he adds, it was the non-acceptance of Jesus by most Jews that served mysteriously to project the faith outside Judaism to the pagan Gentiles.

Canadian Sociologist Reports On Use of Oral Contraceptives

BOSTON AP — A Canadian sociologist reported Thursday that 63 per cent of the Roman Catholics interviewed in a survey of married women said they practised some form of birth control, with oral contraceptives the most popular choice.

The figure compares with reports by 83 per cent of the Protestant women that they practise birth control, Dr. J. E. Kanter told the annual meeting of the Population Association of America.

Kanter, a professor of sociology at the University of Western Ontario in London, said his findings were based on interviews with 976 Metropolitan Toronto women "exposed to the risk of pregnancy" between December, 1967, and last month.

He said oral contraceptives were the choice of 42.5 per cent of 293 Roman Catholics in the survey. He said the rhythm method, the only type of birth control officially approved by the Roman Catholic Church, was the next most popular choice, being reported by 17 per cent.

Kanter said 49 per cent of the 604 Protestant women surveyed said they used oral contraceptives, while condomns, the choice of 16.5 per cent, were the next most prevalent. The rhythm method was the sixth most prevalent at 2.7 per cent.

He said four-tenths of one per cent of the Protestant women said they used contraceptives for "medical use only," compared to 2.1 per cent of the Catholic women, suggesting that the Catholic women "may find it easier to rationalize their use of the pill on this basis."

Kanter added that among Catholic women now using the pill, 45 per cent said they previously used the rythtnm method, compared with 9.4 per cent of the Protestants who made the change. He said this indicates that "the effect of switching has been to reduce the risk of unwanted pregnancy considerably more for Roman Catholics than for Protestants."

Breast Cancer Increasing

TORONTO (CP) — Breast cancer in women is virtually at an epidemic stage, a United States medical specialist said Wednesday.

Dr. Alexander Walt, professor of surgery and medical dean at Wayne State University, Dearborn, Mich., told a continuing education seminar for physicians that medical advances have not succeeded in reducing the death rate in breast cancer in the last 20 years.

He estimated that about 32 per cent of the women who develop cancer of the breast live beyond five years. One in women in 20 who lives past 70 develops breast cancer.

Dr. Walt said breast cancer, the commonest malignancy among women, takes some eight years to develop to a point where a lump can be observed.

He suggested better x-ray methods to diagnose the lump at five years' growth.

Although mass screening would cost millions of dollars, he suggested it would be economical because breast cancer often strikes during the most productive years of life when women have growing children.

Silverplate Advertised At The Turn of Century

By JACK JAMIESON

The silverplate illustrated was advertised at the turn of the century. It was guaranteed to wear from eight to 12 years but is still being used 70 years later. It cost from $2.25 a dozen for teaspoons to $5.50 a dozen for table forks.

Louis XV pattern, probably still the most popular, was available then in sterling, 925-1000 fine. It sold for $3.70 a dozen for coffee spoons with gold-lined bowls. Spoons were a big item with patterns on one or both sides, with gold bowls or silver bowls. There were two sizes of coffee spoons, three of teaspoons, dessert spoons, table spoons, berry spoons, preserved fruit spoons, and orange spoons. No wonder turn-of-the-century tea sets included spoon holders!

Cream ladles, sugar sifters and bon bon scoops no longer grace our tables. They turn up occasionally at sales along with grape scissors and egg scissors. Prices were originally from $1.00 to $2.00 each and now may run to $20.00. At this rate Louis XV is a good investment.

A silver-plated tea set of teapot, sugar bowl, cream jug and spoon holder, engraved and gold lined, sold for $13.25. A matching coffeepot was thrown in. Tea trays started at $7.00. The most expensive single item was a tilting hot water kettle and stand at $15.00.

Almost all these pieces have a similar appearance because standardized parts were used. The same handle appears on many teapot shapes. A number of standard sprouts were used and even the pot shapes were standardized.

In 1898 a number of independent Canadian firms were absorbed into the International Silver Company, although some continued to use the old name. Many pieces were stamped with the name of the country where they were to be sold, so that many Canadian silverplate is stamped USA.

Electroplating was not new as the term is used today. The process is the same but the thickness of the silver deposit was greater. Sheffield plate was made by fusing silver to copper and then rolling the two metals together. Old Sheffield was very popular in the early 1800's and is highly collectable today.

Sheffield plate was replaced by electroplate. There were at first many imitations of well-established French and English silversmiths. Their work in sterling is much sought after but the trade disappeared as it was replaced by the cheaper electroplate. In the 1870's one firm, Hendery and Leslie, made and stamped silver for over one hundred different dealers in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes.

In 1878 the Meriden Britannia Company started making silver plate in Canada and in a few years their wares were sold coast to coast. These early items, generally black and in need of re-plating are either thrown out or sold for pennies in second hand stores.

Re-plating is not expensive. The re-silvered piece should be worth about ten times its original price and will certainly go up in value in the future.

GROUP ORGAN LESSONS PROVE SUCCESSFUL

Shown above are four of the six pupils and music teacher during the first group organ lesson at the Music Studio of Booth Radio and Television Limited. Each pupil wears earphones and hears only the organ he is playing. The music teacher also wears earphones and is able to select and listen to any one of the students at the touch of a button. Pupils never hear each other play.

The new simplified guitster system is designed for the beginner who has had no previous organ or piano experience. The course is held one evening a week for 8 weeks at only $5. A lesson with free practice time available in Booth's studio.

There's no age limit . . . enroll the whole family! Just phone 968-5785, Booth Radio and Television Limited, 36 Bridge St. East.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM McQUARRIE

McQuarrie — Bateman

Albert College Chapel, Belleville, was the setting on Thursday, April 11, 1968 at 7 p.m. when Helen Marilyn Bateman, daughter of Dr. James Henry Bateman and Mrs. Bateman, Bleecker Avenue was united in marriage to William Arthur Owen McQuarrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Colin McQuarrie of New Westminster, B.C.

Rev. Melville Buttars officiated at the ceremony and Angus Macleod, organist of Holloway Street United Church rendered traditional wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory peau de sole bridal gown in princess style with Empire fitted bodice, and long sleeves. Matching ivory Alencon lace border outlined the bottom of the skirt and adorned the waist and sleeves. A veil of lace was caught to a cap of Alencon lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias stephanotis and ivy.

The maid of honor Miss Karen Leslie, cousin of the bride from Oakville and the bridesmaid Mrs. Barry MacMillan, Vancouver, B.C., were identically attired in maroon velvet princess styled gowns with matching bows of maroon velvet as headdresses. And each carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

Alexander McQuarrie attended his brother, while the ushers were John Bateman, brother of the bride, Donald Pugh and George Pugh, all of Kingston, and Bryan Leslie, cousin of the bride from Oakville.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Bleecker Avenue where Mrs. Bateman received the guests wearing a champagne colored satin floor-length gown enhanced with golden embroidery, with a corsage of white gardenias. Mrs. Bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a floor-length gown of deep pink brocade with a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

For the wedding trip to California and the south — west coast of the USA the bride chose a marine blue silk dress and jacket ensemble accented with white and white cost enhanced with matching blue collar, with a corsage of white gardenias.

Upon return the couple will reside in Vancouver, B.C.

Club Activities

PR. ED. - BELLEVILLE LADIES' CLUB

The Easter meeting of the Prince Edward - Belleville Ladies' Club was held at the Recreation Centre recently, with an attendance of 25 members and one visitor.

Meeting was opened in the usual way by president Mrs. T. Henderson. Appreciation was extended to Miss I. Reid for the Easter lily which graced the table.

Easter and April are both examples of the coming of new life. Several letters of thanks were read by Mrs. O. White, corresponding secretary. Mrs. E. Morris received a letter from Mrs. R. Packman.

It was decided to have a potluck dinner on May 8 at the Recreation Centre at 12.30.

Miss I. Reid's and Mrs. B. Way's groups were in charge of the program. Miss Reid read a suitable poem. The devotional was given by Mrs. Way on the Easter theme.

An instrumental selection was given by Mrs. Mary White and readings by Mrs. A. Mastin, Mrs. R. Jose and Mrs. Derpaw.

Lunch was served by the group in charge.

STIRLING HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY

STIRLING — Mrs. Frank Harding was hostess for the April meeting of Stirling Horticultural Society held at St. John's Anglican Church parish hall Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Holt entertained with scenic views of their recent trip to California, Arizona and Nevada. Two members of Belleville Horticultural Society outlined plans for their society's rose show in Centennial Park on June 29th at the same time as the annual meeting of district 3.

Membership stubs were drawn for the winners of the 14 crab trees.

A plant sale will be held in May and a flower show in June, the members decided.

Personal Brief Presented

VANCOUVER CP — Mothers and magazines force a phony ideal of womanhood on Canadian girls, 21-year-old Katharine Keate told the woman's commission Thursday night.

"You look at television and you look at women's magazine ads and you get grief" she told the commission's last public meeting in Vancouver.

"Mothers pressure their daughters to be sociable and popular and the mass media tell them they should be 'beautiful ornaments,' she said.

"I think this causes a lot of suffering in girls as they are growing up."

Miss Keate, daughter of Stuart Keate, publisher of the Vancouver Sun, spoke to an applauding audience of about 300 women and a sprinkling of men at an evening hearing held in a suburban shopping centre.

She is the first young unmarried woman to appear before the travelling commission to present a personal brief on young women's views.

Today the five women and two men members of the royal commission on the status of women take a break from public hearings for a sightseeing. They meet next in Calgary Monday before moving on to Edmonton and Saskatoon.

Miss Keate, a part brunette university student, said she thinks young men of her generation are willing to consider women their equals, or at least are willing to be persuaded that women are competent.

She said women should be able to choose whether they want to be career women, or mothers, or both.

Women should also be able to get abortions and contraceptives "if they want them" and contraceptive information should be made accessible to all.

"The most important thing is that women should have control over their own bodies" she said.

Helen McCrae, dean of women at the University of British Columbia, said she considers it "stupid" that regulations require a person to work one year in the labor force before they can apply for Manpower department retraining.

New Italian Fashions Reminiscent of the '30s

FLORENCE AP — The skirt-length battle was still undecided as the showing of Italian lines for fall and winter ended in Florence today.

Fifty-nine houses have fought it out on the Pitti Palace runway, and everything goes, from long bare legs to covered calves.

The boutique houses were mad about maxis. The knitwear houses were a little more cautious with only an occasional long skirt. The ready-to-wear lines from the couture houses were even less prepared to take risks; the maxi was in a definite minority.

The 1930s theme has been a big and good second inning. Fox furs, droopy dresses in draped crepe, floating scarves and platinum blonde hair were copied straight from the Hollywood sketchbooks of 30 years ago.

Belted coats were a constant in all collections. Double breasted styles are popular, with tiny fitted tops buttoned up to neat band necklines, but wrappers are coming. Sleeves are set in and narrow. Below the waist, coats fan out in flares, flares, flares; cuts, subtle seaming, bright metal buttons and plenty of pockets.

Suit jackets are long and lean and usually with belts. Skirts are shaped just off the straight. Plenty of pleats are still around.

Classic tweeds are back, all the "well-bred" weaves and county club checks. Chalk-striped flannel in grey or navy is a favorite choice for sharply tailored suits cut on mandish lines.

The screaming colors that the Italians used to love are replaced by sombre muted shades in keeping with the somewhat sedate styles being shown. Grey has a big share of all its own way for day and evening. Also important are beige, black, white and olive.

Matron of Honor Is Impolitely Replaced

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Months ago my husband and I were asked to be attendants at a friend's wedding. I spent money on a dress; my husband bought a new suit.

My husband then got a job which took him far away from home. The bride wouldn't be able to be at usher, but gave no reason, only that he'll be the matron of honor. (I had helped plan all the dresses and decorations.)

Later the bride called back to say she had another girl to take my place, but would I like to sell my dress to her. I was stunned. They came over to try on and buy the dress, with not even an "I'm sorry".

I feel I was impolitely kicked out of the wedding, and want to say so. — Still Bitter.

Dear Bitter: What does she here? I'm indignant too.

Perhaps (1) she is an arranger who simply must have everybody neatly paired off; (2) replacing the ushers, taking the new one's girl friend too; or (3) her mother thought it was not fitting for a matron of honor to have any other escort than her husband. Some people (foolishly) worry about such things.

Whatever her thinking, any such change must be made most graciously. If at all, preferably by the bride's personal visit to the rejected attendant, with a serious effort made to retain goodwill.

Don't start a row about it. This only reduced you to her level.

Dear Doris: I am a grade nine student in a small school. Our teacher is a nice person but has an irritating habit of picking his favorites and the girls when he is speaking to us. I am sure that he does this being quite unaware of the mental discomfort it causes us.

Please print this letter as I know he reads your column and please do so quickly before someone blows and feelings are hurt. — Irritated.

Dear Irritated: O.K., here it is. Your too-friendly teacher's assembly-you are still children. You know different!

Confidential to Widow of Spring Valley: Hearts are in trouble these days. We live under pressure, with too much to do, too much rich food to eat.

The Canadian Heart Foundation recommends these rules:

1. Eat fish and poultry frequently; have skim milk, fewer eggs, cook with vegetable shortening and vegetable oils. In these ways you reduce cholesterol-rich foods.

2. Count calories — avoid excess weight.

3. Control high blood pressure.

4. Don't smoke. Heart death rate is 50 to 200 per cent higher for heavy cigarette smokers than it is for non-smokers.

5. Exercise regularly — regular, moderate exercise. Get your doctor to say what is moderate for your age and condition.

6. Have regular medical check-ups. This-way you catch threatening conditions early.

(Doris cannot begin to answer all your questions in the column. To make sure of your reply, remember to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Pineapple Squares from Recipe Are Too Dry

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I am returning this recipe (Toasted Pineapple Squares) and would like you to check and see if there is something missing from it. I found it to be very stiff and real disappointing in flavor. It was so hard and tasteless that I had to put it in garbage. I followed all directions even to pan. My sister-in-law had the same experience with it. — Mrs. J. D.

ANSWER: Thank you Mrs. J. D. for a tolerant letter. I received one other criticism from a reader in British Columbia saying her Frosted Pineapple Squares were dry, too. But on the other hand I received dozens of letters thanking for the recipe, saying they were excellent.

However it is the comments like the squeaky wheel, that get the most attention so I made them again and to make sure they would not be dry I added 4 tablespoons 10 percent cream and have mailed samples of this fresh batch to you. (Note: Our frozen Frosted Pineapple Squares sent from January 10th are still lovely and moist when thawed.)

FROSTED PINEAPPLE SQUARES (given Jan. 10, 1966- adjusted now) (thirty-two 1")

SATURDAY
(Guests)

Dinner Menu

Chilled Cranberry Juice;
Baked Pork Chops; Celery; Soupsauce; Buttered Noodles with Poppy Seeds; Green Peas with Mushrooms; Date-Apple Pie a la Mode; Coffee.

2 cups sifted all - purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup chopped nuts (walnuts or pecans)
½ cup soft butter or margarine
½ cup light brown sugar firmly packed
2 eggs
½ cup all-bran
1 cup crushed pineapple not drained
1 cup California raisins (or chopped stoned dates)
4 tablespoons (¼ cup) 10 percent (cereal) cream

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and spices. (Spices are optional.) Stir in chopped nuts. In large mixing bowl cream together the butter or margarine and brown sugar until light, then beat in eggs, all-bran, pineapple, cream and raisins. Add the sifted dry ingredients and mix well. Butter a 9 x 9" or 11 x 7" pan and spread batter in it evenly. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 30 minutes or until when tested at centre with finger tip it feels fairly firm. Cool in pan. Frost with glaze made by stirring 1 tablespoon boiling water into 1 cup sifted icing sugar. Cut into bars. If desired decorate top of each bar with half green or red candied cherry surrounded with 4 or 5 "slivers".

These freeze well when freezer wrapped.

Ann Landers

Woman Is Mysterious About Background

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I met an attractive women three months ago. (She was waiting for a bus.) We have been going out regularly, once a week, and I enjoy her company. Yvonne is divorced and has two children which the Judge awarded to her husband. She is not allowed to see them, which I find hard to understand. According to her, the judge gave her a rotten deal.

ANN LANDERS

Some small things about Yvonne bother me and I'd like your views. She refuses to give me her phone number; says she lives in a boarding-house where the people are very nosey. She won't let me pick her up at home and I have never been allowed to see her to the door. Her self-imposed "curfew" is 10 p.m. (She says she had TB years ago and must have a lot of rest.)

I have never met any of her friends or relatives and she will not tell me where she works — says it is "confidential" for the government. What do you make of this? — ALFIE.

DEAR ALFIE: A lady who can't be picked up or taken home, refuses to tell you where she works, won't give you her phone number and has to be in by 10 p.m. is hiding something — like maybe a husband. My advice is to knock off this secret arrangement.

I hope you make a better selection next time, Alfie, and your chances will be vastly improved if you don't go in for bus stop pickups.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this for all the stupid girls in the world who are seeing men who are separated but not divorced. Maybe if I had seen a letter like it three years ago I wouldn't be so full of nerve medicine that I can barely write this letter.

In 1965 I fell hard for a man who said I was his dream girl. He and his wife were not getting a long and a divorce was in the works but him more in the understanding that we would be married as soon as his divorce came through. A few months later when his divorce was final he said he wasn't ready to "give up his freedom yet."

Three years have passed and he still isn't ready. He is out four nights a week and I pace the floor smoking and crying. I am 26 years old and broke — I pay most of the bills. My reputation is ruined and my health is shot. I know now he will never marry me but I still love him in spite of everything. If you care to send something to my letter that might help others, please do so. It's too late to help me. — DESTROYED AT 26.

DEAR D.: I have nothing to add. You've said it all.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married for nearly 32 years. We never had any children but we have several nieces and nephews.

The nieces are crazy about Ralph and they come over often. Three of these girls are teen-agers. They hop on Uncle Ralph's lap, dance with him and sit close to him on the bench when he plays ragtime jazz on the piano. He loves every minute of it.

One of the nieces announced yesterday, "I'm going to marry a man just like Uncle Ralph." I think such talk is indecent. I told Ralph to cut out the nonsense and that I am sick of seeing him act like a fool. What do you have to say on the subject? — DON'T NEED TROUBLE.

DEAR DON'T: I see nothing indecent about young girls being friendly and affectionate with their uncle — especially in a group. If this is an example of the way your mind works, you'd better stay away from your nephews.

Points for Parents

College Guild Hears Talk On Easter

At the April meeting of the Albert College Women's Guild, Rev. Dr. McLeod brought the Easter message.

"Easter is the time of preparation for spring and may mean many things to many people. It may mean new clothes, the Easter bunny, but best of all it reminds us that God loves His people and opened up a new way of life for us. Before Christianity, the coming of spring was celebrated in a pagan way. Man cannot take Christ out of Easter. God has worked out a way for us to know eternal life."

The Easter message is one of hope of what God can and will do for His children. We must not keep this good news to ourselves but spread it around to every person not just in foreign lands but right here. If the Easter message means anything to us we will not be able to keep it to ourselves. Easter may mean a recognition that Christ lives".

Mr. McLeod was introduced and thanked by Mrs. W. Smith who also had charge of the devotional period.

Mrs. H. McKay, the president, opened the meeting and conducted the business.

At the social time following the meeting, Mrs. E. Denyes and Mrs. E. A. Fleming presided at the tea table.

The regular meeting of the Avondale Neighbors' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. D. MacLean, with the president, Mrs. C. Twiddy, in the chair.

Progress was under the direction of Mrs. R. Griffith and Mrs. J. Wannamaker.

Mrs. Griffith paid tribute to Martin Luther King Jr. with a reading on this famous man. A tribute was also paid to Edgar Albert Baker, who lost his eyes in the 1st World War and one of the founders of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Plans were made for a rummage sale, to be held in May at the Legion Hall, Pinnacle Street.

Mrs. L. Reid and Mrs. W. Wiley served lunch.

WEDDING

KIRKHAM — KELLAR

TWEED — Recently the wedding was solemnized in the Flinton Community Hall, when Heather Marie Keller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kellar of Kaladar, was united in marriage to Keith Wayne Kirkham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kirkham of Kaladar.

Robert Joy of Belleville was the officiating clergyman.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white floor length gown with matching headdress. She carried a bouquet of white and pink 'mums.

Theresa Fobear was maid of honor and was in a white gown and carried a bouquet of white and pink 'mums. Miss Darlene Kellar was flower girl and was dressed in white. She cvarried a basket of red roses.

Jerry Knight was groomsman and the guests were ushered by Garry Hughes.

A reception was held in the Flinton Community Hall with the bride's mother receiving in a pink gown. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who chose a green and blue ensemble.

LETTERS FROM LAOS

Youth "must be exposed to shattering new ideas and strange new forces, the potential that makes their destiny." — Dr. Thomas Dooley in "The Night They Burned the Mountain," published by Farrar, Straus and Giroux, Inc.

* * *

"Well, here I am in Vientiane, the capital of Laos. It is lovely and I already feel as if I belonged here. There is a gibbon monkey sitting beside me as I type, and hopping back and forth from my lap. I guess he recognizes me because he immediately took to me and screams and cries when I leave the room," writes Patty Gibbon, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Gibbon and the late Mr. Gibbon, 193 Macdonald Avenue. A graduate of BCI, now an air hostess for Air Canadair Lines, Patty is on a leave of absence for three months from her air duties, to be a voluntary worker with the Medico Branch of the Dooley Foundation in Laos, in a small northwest village, Houi Sai.

Who, indeed, does not recall Dr. Thomas Dooley, the world-famous medical missionary who helped found Medico — who is famed for his work in establishing hospitals in Laos — who inspired many to work for humanity. Dooley died of cancer some two days after his 34 birthday, January 19, 1961?

It lifts the spirit to realize his work is being carried on in Laos, and we are privileged, and pleased to present to our readers glimpses of the life and work in Laos, as seen and experienced by one of our own Belleville girls. Her letter was written March 10, 1966:

"I had a nice time getting here. I had a whole row of seats to myself on the plane all the way to Hong Kong. I got off there and stayed two days. I slept most of one, did some shopping and looked around. The second day I went to Macao on a hydrofoil boat which was interesting.

"That night I left for Bangkok and spent most of the day there. I was very hot, of course, and had to believe it is so cold in Belleville." I was here in the lowly gardens of the Siam hotel where Thai dancing is held on the lawn in the morning that she ran into another girl from home whom she knew. She was too, by American troops stationed in Bangkok, many with their wives are fortunate for the living is good, whereas those in Hong Kong on "R&R leave (rest and recuperation) before returning to Vietnam, try to "live it up to the hilt," in the time allotted to them.

"I came from Bangkok to Vientiane on Royal Air Laos," she continues. "I was awfully excited and I guess a little scared, not knowing just what to expect and being all alone. I took a taxi from the Airport to town," and after a little complication arrived at the Dooley House. "This is a sort of clearing house for the people going and coming to Laos with the Dooley Foundation.

"Currently there is a American nurse from Buffalo going from Houie Sai to Khong Island. She had about 50 pictures with her of the staff at Houie Sai and it looks really nice. There is another American girl who is an X-ray technician on her way to Houie Sai. Also a purser from Pam Am on his way to Khong Island, and last of all a Canadian doctor from Ottawa on his way home. In just a few minutes these people made me feel I had been here for months. They are far more casual and informal and not really the dedicated types I sort of expected to find, and it is more or less a home away from home, extremely comfortable.

"The country here is pretty much as you would imagine; balmy air, lots of birds, green and tropical. Much like they are in Jamaica or Africa, but much less civilized than Jamaica and more tropical than Africa. I'm awfully glad I was able to come out here. I have a feeling I am really going to like it. We have to wait here until the local air transport people have room on one of their flights to take us to Houie Sai. I don't mind, it is like having a holiday.

"Gibbie the monkey is sound asleep on my lap now!"

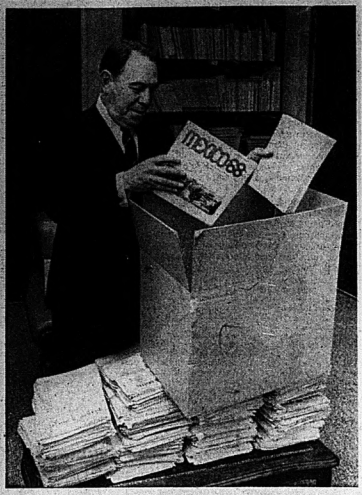
Quebec Liberal Thinks Trudeau Will Grant Special Status

TORONTO (CP) — Paul Gerin-Lajoie, former Quebec education minister, said Friday he will soften his stand on constitutional affairs and will eventually accept a form of special status for Quebec.

Mr. Trudeau was to be sworn in as prime minister of Canada today.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said he expects Mr. Trudeau will abandon his "theoretical" opposition to special status and take "a more realistic approach" once detailed constitutional talks get under way.



The former Quebec minister was speaking in an interview after addressing students at the University of Toronto's Scarborough College.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie, a leading contender for the Quebec Liberal party leadership when Jean Lesage steps down, was the author of the special-status stand adopted by the Quebec Liberal party at its convention last fall.

He told students it is "bloody nonsense" to argue that Quebec does not need special status. The province has had special status in one form or another since the Constitutional Act of 1791, he said.

In the last 25 years developments had made it imperative that Quebec have new powers to assure her distinct cultural and social development. These powers should include some control over immigration to the province and a larger role in the area of broadcasting.

The federal government should also establish federal-provincial consultative bodies to discuss monetary, fiscal and banking policy, Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said.

300 Quebec City Residents Are Guests in London

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — More than 300 French-speaking residents of Quebec City from a variety of social classes arrived here Friday to spend the weekend with 100 London families.

The visit was organized and financed by businessmen of London. It is the largest of its kind ever organized by private enterprise in Canada.

An anonymous donor from London covered the air fare for the visitors.

Receptions, visits and other activities are planned for the Quebecers during their weekend stay.

Today, teachers in the group and others interested in education will meet with Carlton Williams, president of the University of Western Ontario, and will attend a dinner by the London school board.

A special mass will be celebrated Sunday at St. Peter's Roman Catholic Cathedral and afterwards the city council will give a luncheon at Centennial Hall.

Before their departure for Quebec City Sunday afternoon, the visitors will each be given a tiny tree as a souvenir of London—the Forest City.

"A spokesman for the group of London citizens said it is hoped to create a precedent that will be imitated by other Canadian cities in order to improve relations and mutual understanding between the two founding peoples of Canada.

Railway Owners To Be Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move that could make financial history, an Interstate Commerce Commission examiner Friday ordered officials of five financial institutions to identify the hidden owners of some of the United States' largest railways.

Observers said it was the first time in the commission's 81-year history that such a positive step has been taken to pierce the traditional veil of secrecy that shrouds the true ownership of the railways.

There was no immediate indication whether the banks and brokerage houses would obey the subpoena without a fight.

Poor People's Campaign Receives Offers of Supported Assistance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organizers of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s Poor People's Campaign in Washington say they've been flooded by offers of support since the April 4 assassination of King.

"It brought an increase in the number of volunteers, particularly from the black community," reported Anthony Henry, chief Washington organizer. "Fifty per cent, I'd say.

"Also a larger number of organizations are willing to release staff people full time to work with us."

Henry's storefront office, in the middle of an area that saw heavy destruction during rioting in Washington that followed the assassination, was much busier and more crowded than it had been a month ago.

Committee chairmen who four weeks ago were in desperate need of volunteers were loaning people to other committees.

There is only one week left before the campaign is to begin its scheduled starting date of April 29 set back only one week from Dr. King's April 22 timetable.

Poor people are not scheduled to begin marching to the capital in large numbers until May 2, when a symbolic group will leave from Memphis, Tenn., where King was slain.

But the planned pre-march confrontation between 100 Negro community leaders and leaders of the U.S. Congress and government agencies—possibly including sit-ins in government offices—will go on as scheduled, led by Rev. Ralph Abernathy, who succeeded King as president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Henry was interviewed in his small third-floor office where the telephone seldom stopped ringing.

Downstairs, in the high-ceilinged, first-floor room that once served as a bank, a half-dozen Negro and white volunteers cranked out hundreds of copies of preliminary instructions for the campaign marshals that the SCLC will depend on to prevent violence.

Henry is aiming for one marshal for each 20 of the 3,000 basic volunteers he hopes to keep in Washington in a tent city until the campaign ends.

"Each marshal shall keep all weapons and alcoholic beverages off the campsite at all times," the instructions read in part.

"Marshals should patrol quarters 24 hours a day" and "Marshals shall work closely with police officials."

SCLC hopes to prevent any outbreak of violence such as that which erupted during King's Memphis march the week before he was killed. Each of the 3,000 volunteers who will live in the tent city will be sent to workshops on non-violence set up in Washington and other cities.

The campaign still has not obtained a site for its tent city, but Henry said the choice has been narrowed to two prime spots, and several alternates.

Witness Found

Man Saw Boy's Shooting

TORONTO (CP) — A 17-year-old youth claimed Friday he saw a well-dressed man shoot down a 15-year-old boy in an east-end park early Sunday.

Bill Dwight said in an interview he had been baby-sitting when he saw two men chasing a smaller person across a park. He said he saw one of the men stop and extend his arm forward. He heard a loud bang. He said the person being chased staggered and fell.

The injured youth is in hospital with a bullet wound in the thigh. He had been sought since he escaped from St. John's training school in nearby Uxbridge March 18.

Police say the shooting was an accident and that the revolver discharged when a plain-clothes constable, Bruce Elsdon, 32, stumbled and fell. The policeman was suspended but returned to duty after police Chief James Mackey read a report on the incident.

Dwight said neither of the pursuers fell. He said the pursuers were about 30 yards behind the youth when the shot was fired.

Dwight said he did not report the incident immediately because "I didn't want to get involved."

Dog Kills Boy, Age 6, At Renfrew

RENFREW, Ont. (CP) — Steven Sirosky, 6, died in hospital Friday after he was attacked by a dog near his home in this Ottawa Valley town.

Witnesses said the boy was returning home from school with two young companions when he approached the dog tied in a back yard.

His companions called neighbors who pulled the boy out of reach of the dog.

Renfrew is about 60 miles northwest of Ottawa.

A police spokesman said the dog has been impounded for 14 days to be observed for signs of rabies.

A hospital spokesman refused to release details of the boy's injuries pending results of an autopsy.

Same Trudeau

As PM, Still Kisses

By KEN CLARK —

OTTAWA (CP) — You know, it was really hard to believe. Here we were, 40 reporters awaiting, as dusk fell Saturday, the arrival of Prime Minister Trudeau to shed some light on election talk.

The cabinet had just completed six afternoon-long debate in the East Block of the Parliament Buildings on whether to have a June vote.

A Trudeau aide came into the news conference room and told reporters the prime minister would be along in two minutes. Mr. Trudeau had just stepped out to say hello to the crowd that had been standing outside the door to catch glimpses of him and other ministers.

Several reporters went out to watch.

Mr. Trudeau, standing in the doorway arch, signing autographs as usual, was laughing and relaxed while much of the political community was in a flap over election talk.

The crowd of 100 or so, mostly teen-age girls, produced occasional squeals at the Liberal leader's witticisms and changes in expression. When he left, the shouts included one plaintive cry to the prime minister: "Goodbye, Pierre."

At the news conference, at which he said no decision had been made on an election, Mr. Trudeau was asked how he liked his new role.

"If I didn't get great satisfaction out of this I don't suppose I would do it," he said. He liked meeting the people, such as those gathered outside. And giving "the children" autographs.

"Perhaps some day I'll cease to like it," he said, "when I get ulcers and lose the rest of my hair."

Accompanied by a knot of reporters, Mr. Trudeau went outside to head back to his office. The crowd had disappeared except for a few stragglers, one of whom was a blonde teen-ager in a tight-fitting candy-striped jersey and blue jeans.

She wanted a kiss of course. After all, Mr. Trudeau had done the same for another girl who had got a well-published peck last week.

Mr. Trudeau invited the new girl to walk along a bit.

"I don't like these girls who kiss and run away," he said.

The photographers, reporters and the girl had hardly gone a few paces when Mr. Trudeau held up the brown valise he was carrying as a shield and kissed the girl, who told reporters she was Colette Lebeau, 18, a Matagami, Que. schoolgirl.

'Caretaker Cabinet' Named With Only Three New Men

OTTAWA (CP) — Pierre Elliott Trudeau, who won the Liberal party leadership two weeks ago, picked up the responsibilities of victory Saturday, formally taking office as Canada's 15th prime minister.

The retirement ceremony for the old cabinet headed by Lester B. Pearson and appointment of the new Trudeau cabinet took place at Government House.

Mr. Trudeau named what amounted to a caretaker cabinet with three new faces and 20 holdovers from the Pearson administration.

Shortly before 11 a.m., members of the retiring cabinet and the new cabinet started to arrive. As they did, the first cabinet changes became evident.

John Munro, MP for Hamilton East, was an early arrival. He had a light checked coat over morning attire — a dead giveaway that he would be moving into the new cabinet.

He was later sworn in as a minister without portfolio.

Two other MPs, Gerard Pelletier, Montreal Hochelaga, and Donald MacDonald, Toronto Rosedale, who also had no place at a cabinet resignation ceremony, arrived and gave further advance notice of the Trudeau intentions. They wound up as ministers without portfolio.

The members of the outgoing cabinet were arriving, singly and in groups.

The cheering section was in good voice by this time, applauding every arrival.

Lester Pearson, putting in his last appearance as prime minister, got a round of applause that rivalled the accolade for Mr. Trudeau.

Talking to reporters inside, Mr. Pearson said leaving the country's most responsible job brought him a "certain regret." But there also was "a real feeling of relief."

His sunny smile gave ample evidence that it was a pleasure to let someone else worry about the pros and cons of election timing and other political problems.

Cabinet Split On Vote Day

Earliest Election Day Now Tuesday, June 25

OTTAWA (CP) — Election talk was rampant today with Prime Minister Trudeau under heavy pressure both to call and not to call a spring vote.

If the newly-sworn prime minister goes to the people, the likely voting day is June 25,the earliest date available because of the slow-moving election machinery.

The caretaker cabinet debated the election issue at its first meeting shortly after the swearing-in ceremony. After it was over, Mr. Trudeau said no decision has been made. The cabinet met again this morning.

A deep cabinet split has developed between those who want an "early vote and those who want to wait until fall. The early-election hawks outnumber the late-election doves, but Mr. Trudeau has the final say and it is likely to be primarily guided by his own judgment, not that of others.

While the political community was tense over the election debate, Mr. Trudeau maintained his casual air.

Although Mr. Trudeau had the rest of the week to make up his mind on the June 25 date, he has to get Parliamentary dissolution today for an election if he does not wish to meet Parliament.

The recess for the Liberal leadership convention ends Tuesday.

One well - placed government source said it appears the government is moving inexorably towards a June vote.

Another said that a cabinet consensus for a spring vote was reached last Friday when it was publicly announced that the changeover from the Pearson to the Trudeau administration would be moved ahead from Monday to Saturday.

The two-day advance would have permitted Mr. Trudeau to call an election for as early as June 17 if he had acted Saturday. He backed off entirely to call an election until he had formally taken over from Lester Pearson as prime minister.

In any case, a cabinet hangup developed Saturday over the June vote, and Mr. Trudeau postponed his decision.

Ford Accord Ready

TORONTO (CP) — Negotiators for Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. and the United Auto Workers union shook hands across the bargaining table shortly before midnight Sunday, signalling a probable end to a six-day strike by 11,400 employees.

The new three-year contract, drafted during more than eight months of negotiations, will be put before ratification meetings of the union's five locals as soon as halls can be hired.

"All we have left to do here is to initial the final contract after we check the wording," a union spokesman said. "Then we can send it to the locals."

He estimated it would take until Tuesday to schedule ratification meetings on the local level, and that the men could be back on the job Wednesday.

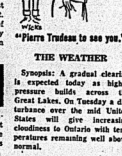
The workers walked out last Tuesday when negotiations passed the union's strike deadline. The old contract expired Dec. 1, 1967. Involved are Ontario plants in Oakville, Windsor, Talbotville and Niagara Falls, and the Bramalea parts depot.

Stanfield Critical Of Choices

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield says it appears prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau is not able to form an effective government as yet—and doesn't want to face Parliament.

Mr. Stanfield, leader of the Conservative party, was informed of the make-up of the new cabinet Saturday during a visit to the Anvil Mine, about 125 miles northeast of Whitehorse.

Mr. Stanfield said one thing that struck him is that representation from Western Canada is even weaker than it was before.



He said the doubling of a number of portfolios seems to show both indecision and apparent doubt on the part of the prime minister in the competence of the people in his government.

Trudeau Cabinet Slightly Younger

OTTAWA (CP) — The average age of the 24-man Trudeau cabinet is 48.

His predecessor as prime minister, Lester Pearson, put together his first cabinet almost exactly five years ago with an average age of 52.

Mr. Trudeau doubled to four the number of cabinet ministers under 40 years of age by appointing Donald S. Macdonald, 36, and John Munro, 37, as ministers without portfolio.

"Pierre Trudeau to see you."

Saigon on Alert For New Assault

SAIGON (AP) — All South Vietnamese Army units in Saigon and the surrounding 11 provinces were put on a 100-per-cent alert today because of intelligence reports indicating an impending big attack on the capital, Vietnamese sources reported.

American officials did not appear to give much credence to the reports. An American military spokesman said U.S troops were on the same alert they've been on since the Viet Cong's lunar new year offensive in February.

South Vietnamese troops had been on a 50-per-cent alert since the February offensive, with half of them allowed overnight passes. Now all troops are restricted to their bases.

George Brown Warns Against Indefensible Vietnam Settlement

TORONTO (CP) — Critics of the United States position in Vietnam should realize that "a simple U.S. pull-out could have a disastrous impact" on a wide scale and over a wide area, George Brown, former British foreign secretary, said Saturday.

"There is no doubt of the need to end the fan-dance over the possible sites for peace talks," he said in a speech to the National Newspaper Awards dinner. "But any settlement must stand up and it must be defensible."

"I know that if the Americans had been involved in Europe after the First World War there would not have been a second. All of recent history shows what price we paid for America's retreat into isolationism."

Greatest of the remaining three major problems, facing the world, including the Middle East and changes in Eastern haves and the have-nots, which in practical terms is the conflict between whites and coloreds," the 53-year-old deputy leader of the British Labor party said.

Mr. Brown, Labor member of Parliament for Belper of Derbyshire, said the countries of Eastern Europe are showing "greater flexibility," and the West has "an enormous opportunity to think of military stabilization.

"It is time now to think of NATO as an organization for . . . positive political action . . . in an exciting and interesting area."

Too little world attention is paid to the "grave dangers" that exist in the Middle East, Mr. Brown said. Israel's existence as a state must be recognized, but "the Arabs have many problems and many injuries that need to be put right."

Mr. Brown was speaking to news media representatives attending the National Newspaper Awards dinner sponsored by the Toronto Men's Press Club.

Pearson Outlines Views On Vietnam Peacekeeping

OTTAWA (CP) — Lester Pearson, who stepped down Saturday as prime minister, says Canada would send troops to supervise a Vietnam peace settlement under certain circumstances.

He said on the CBS television program, Face the Nation, Canada would have to feel the peacekeeping force "would have chance" to do the job.

It must be invited by both sides to the conflict, Canada, he said, would carefully appraise the terms of reference for the force before committing itself.

He said on the program, elapsed the day before he step-ed down red broadcast the c..

after, that Canada does not want to send troops and have them "standing around while the fighting goes on."

Mr. Pearson said a Vietnam settlement must be based on the principle of self-determination for both North and South Vietnam. But elections are an "unrealistic way" to decide the issue.

He said there is risk of a Communist takeover if the opponents of the Saigon regime are included in some form of coalition with the South Vietnamese government. But there is no way of avoiding that risk. There will never be a settlement unless the other side is invited into a coalition.

Variety of Alarms Keeps Firemen Busy

It was one of those weekends for Belleville firefighters — unexceptional, but slightly wacky. They were called out in the middle of the night to cool off a burning roof. Another midnight alarm sent them to a late night grassfire. Between times a lost dock needed dampening down.

The early-morning food emergency sent fire-eaters scrambling to the Targon Motel where an oven roast got out of control, said Fire Chief Ted Poste.

Later Saturday there was a fire in a Coleman Street lumber pile which, the chief said, may have been started by small boys playing with matches.

There was a grass fire on Robbins Drive, then a call to the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club where dock planks were reported smouldering.

Early Sunday morning, automobile enthusiasts were dismantling an old car on South John Street with a cutting torch. Firemen were called when the car caught fire.

There were more grass and garbage fires. Finally at 12:48 a.m. today the last call came in — a grass fire on North Front Street.

Picton Band Will Play Uniform Tune

PICTON (Staff) — The Picton Junior Band may march in full regalia this summer depending upon the success of a youth concert to be held tonight.

Proceeds from the show will be spent upon new uniforms.

Creighton Lockyer, bandmaster, said that both the junior and senior members of the band would perform.

The junior and senior distinction in the group is based upon experience. All of the youthful players range in age from nine to 16.

The show will be held at the Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, beginning at 8 p.m.

Performers from throughout the county and Belleville will take part.

College President To Speak

Loyalist College president, John E. Bradford, will be guest speaker to this year's annual meeting of home and school associations in the Belleville area.

The yearly dinner meeting this year will be held April 30, at Tabernacle United Church.

Deadline for banquet reservations is April 23 and further information can be sought from executive organizer Mrs. Lee Jourard.

'HOPPERS ABOUND

About 600 species of grasshoppers have been identified in the U.S. and Canada.

A large pile of bushes on Queen St. that have been there for over a week provoked a question from a John St. resident as to why his car got ticketed and the bushes didn't. The pile of brush extends the width of a car into the street.

The car got a ticket but the bushes didn't. The scene of another complaint by a John St. resident is this pile of brush on the street. However, complaints about overnight parking tickets will be fewer now as Mayor J. Russell Scott indicated this morning that changes will be made.

Sweeper Says Cars Interfere

A complaint by the city public works street sweeper operator may have initiated last week's reported crackdown on overnight parking.

Over the weekend Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott said he had received a number of complaints from residents of having their cars ticketed while parked overnight on the street in front of their residences.

Mayor Scott said he had called a meeting for this morning with the city manager, the city engineer and police chief, in an effort to sort out just what had happened.

Overnight parking on the city is in contravention to the city traffic and all highway entrances to the city are posted accordingly.

The purpose for the no overnight parking is to allow operation of snowplows in the winter and city street sweeper in the summer.

Mayor Scott said it could be that residents didn't understand that the no overnight parking edict was in force only during the summer as well as during the winter months.

Overnight Parking Controversary Takes Shape

To ticket or not to ticket — that is the question.

And it has been plaguing both the city police department and the mayor since complaints about cars being ticketed for overnight parking have been pouring in during the past few days.

Peter McNevin, manager of Glen Roy Creameries, phoned the mayor Sunday night to complain.

"It cost the people at our place $20 in the space of a few minutes," he told the Intelligencer this morning, "and all they were doing was visiting."

According to the parking by-law of the city of Belleville, any car parked on a city street between two a.m. and six a.m. can be ticketed — the fine is $2.

There isn't even a specified amount of time the car has to be parked before it can be ticketed.

Chief C. D. Crosbie said this morning that under the bylaw a person could stop on a street, run into a house to get something, and be ticketed for it."

Reasons for the bylaw are to keep the streets clear for snow removal and street cleaning.

"But who is out street cleaning on the weekend," pointed out Mr. McNevin. "I've never heard a street cleaner go down Dunbar St., even during the week," he noted.

All of the complainants agree that the police are only doing their job under the municipal law — at the same time they feel strongly that something should be done to stop the "senseless ticketing."

Mayor J. Russell Scott thinks "it is an unfortunate situation and met with Chief Crosbie this morning to discuss possible alternatives to alleviate the situation.

In the meantime overnight parkers beware—rumor has it from unofficial sources that there were over 150 overnight parking charges this weekend.

From the other side of town a resident of John St., asked why the piles of bushes on John and George Streets were not ticketed.

"The piles take up as much room as a car and they've been there for over a week," he said.

"And as for street cleaners on John St., well, the sand put on the sidewalks during the winter is still there — I've yet to see a cleaner on the street," he finished.

It does not look as if it is going to take very long to rectify the situation.

Mayor Scott, after meeting with the city manager, J. R. Reynolds, and city engineer Wilbur Purcell and Chief Crosbie, said this morning that all aspects of the problem are being looked into.

"I hope the matter should be ready to present to city council by our next meeting," the mayor said, "and there will most probably be a differentiation between curbed and uncurbed streets."

Chief Crosbie made a suggestion that a copy of the Toronto bylaw be obtained to see how the problem was solved there.

"If the Toronto bylaw is applicable here," said the mayor, "we will try and incorporate some of its regulations to suit Belleville."

At any rate some changes are forthcoming.

A word of woe, however, to those already ticketed — they will have to pay their fines.

Lawn Bowlers Ready For Another Season

The lawn bowling season is fast approaching and 25 members of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club gathered at the clubhouse on Sunday evening to lay plans for the year. The meeting was under the direction of Wally Lavergne, the new president.

The members were informed that the greens had come through the winter in excellent condition and with good weather they should be ready for use on the May 24th holiday. A number of new ditch boards have been purchased and the members will hold a "bee" to install them. A new type of fertiliser will be used on recommendation of the CIL after samples of soil had been sent to the company for analysis.

A new sump pump and exhaust fan will be purchased for the clubhouse and the furniture committee will be activated to complete the furnishing of the clubhouse. The meeting voted to assist the Madoc Bowling Club in the event that club wished to use the green for a Sunday tournament.

Bob Semple and Jay Rollins were named to conduct the thuisiasm was seen at the meeting which augurs well for another good year for this popular pastime.

Expropriation Case Has Been Laid Over

The controversial expropriation case between Murray township, Warner Jack Alves and the Trenton Public Utilities has been laid over until May 29-24.

The Cobourg case is to set a price for the 12.8 acres expropriated last year by the Trenton Utilities for the town's new water reservoir.

Mr. Alves has been asking $17,000 for the property, a price which the Utilities commission has declined to meet.

IN MEMORIAM

REID — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother Eva Reid who passed away April 22, 1953.

The dearest mother, the kindest friend,
One of the best that God could lend.
God took her home; it was His will,
But in our hearts, she liveth still.
—Sadly missed by all the family.

SHARPE — In loving memory of our dear dad, who passed away April 21, 1963.
God looked around His garden,
And found an empty place,
And made the world more harsh,
And saw your loved face.
He put His arms around you,
And lifted you to rest,
God's garden must be beautiful,
For He loves only the best.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife, Etta Mary, sons, daughters and grandchildren.

EARLEDON — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, William H. Earledon, who passed away, April 22, 1958.
The years are quickly passing,
Since you were taken away,
But in the hearts that loved him,
His memory lingers yet.

Driver Dies in Flaming Truck

SHARBOT LAKE — A truck here. driver was burned to death early today when a transport loaded with cardboard hit a rock cut and burst into flames near here.

Provincial police said it might take a day to positively identify the victim, whose badly-burned body was found inside the cab of the tractor-trailer.

The fatal mishap occurred about 2.30 a.m. on Highway 7, five miles east of here.

Police, unable to immediately determine the cause of the mishap, said the driver lost control of his east-bound vehicle.

It left the highway and plowed into the rockcut, erupting in flames.

There were no witnesses to the accident. Police were called by passing motorists who arrived on the scene shortly after.

Faulty Electric Wiring Believed Cause of Fire

RAWDON — Fire believed to have started as result of faulty electric wiring Saturday night completely destroyed a frame home and storage shed and machinery in the 7th concession of Rawdon, just off No. 14 Highway.

The frame home, used as a summer cottage by Ernie Allore of Belleville, was completely destroyed along with contents.

The storage shed was owned by Gordon and Lorne Bailey, co-owners of the adjoining farm, who used the building as house machinery.

There was no estimate of the loss said partially covered by insurance.

The Allore house was a residential fixture well over 100 years old and was known as the Dafoe homestead. No one was home at the time of the fire.

The Rawdon fire department, under fire chief Mac Mason, was called to the scene but the blaze was already far advanced and nothing could be done to save the structures. Everything was tinder dry and the two buildings burned rapidly.

Four Injured In Crash Near

A 25-year-old man was seriously injured early Sunday when his car smashed into a hydro pole at Consecon, sending four Kingston people to hospital.

Patrick Gerard Burns, who suffered severe chest and face injuries, today was reported in satisfactory condition in Belleville General Hospital.

Also injured were his wife Joanne, 30, (fractured arm, cuts, bruises); Bernard Doherty, 27 (severe face and skull cuts) and Doherty's wife, Elaine, 24 (severe leg lacerations).

Police said both couples were en route home from a dance at Club Cedars when Burns apparently lost control of the car nearby.

County System Needed
Serious Loss Prevented in Picton Fire

PICTON (Staff) — The initiative of Fire Chief Duane Fosbay in battling a Saturday afternoon blaze, may have prevented the loss of a Picton home.

The incident however emphasized the need of a county wide fire fighting system.

The blaze, it is suspected, began as a grass fire in the back yard of a St. Paul street home. Caught by the wind, it swept beyond town limits into Hallowell fields, and beyond the jurisdiction of the Picton fire department.

A fire call was placed to the Bloomfield department at approximately 12:30 p.m.

That department reacted quickly, but found that it could do little to combat the flames spreading over corn and grain stubble in fields belonging to Bobby Hull and to James Wycott.

A shift in the wind directed the flames toward the Wycott home and barn, both located in Picton. A Bloomfield fire department spokesman said that at that time the fire had covered 15 acres of land.

George Thompson, also of the department, said that at that time the Bloomfield pumper bogged down in the field and it took five to 10 minutes to release it.

Meanwhile the Picton department had arrived upon the scene but was technically helpless to step in.

Town bylaws forbid the department to act beyond town limits except in cases of extreme emergency. Chief Fosbay, however decided the flames in Hallowell were a threat to the Picton home and began fire fighting operations.

Mr. Thompson said that without the action of the Picton department, the house would have gone up in flames.

The fire was finally stopped about 30 yards from the buildings. The only damage done by the blaze was the destruction of the stubble and a stretch of cedar fence.

Barnard C. Hepburn, chairman of the Picton fire department and reeve of Picton, said that a joint county fire fighting system could not be initiated here for at least another year.

He made the original proposition for that system last week at county council.

He explained that with the bridges already set, and with the great amounts of taxpe to go through, it was impossible to accomplish the task this year.

However, studies have begun to determine the feasibility of the proposal, he said.

Bloomfield Man Killed

PICTON (Staff) — A 28-year-old Bloomfield area man died yesterday following an accident on Highway 33, just north of Wellington.

Dead is Ralph Bird, RR1, Bloomfield.

Two passengers involved in the accident suffered minor injuries, Wayne Sanderson, 19 of Bloomfield, and William Lindley, 56, RR1, Bloomfield, were taken to Prince Edward Memorial Hospital.

The automobile left the highway and struck a tree. Damages are estimated at $500.

The accident was reported to the Picton Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police at 6:26 a.m.

Mr. Bird was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bird, Bloomfield.

Musician Injured

TRENTON — Kenneth Hartman, 35, of R.R. 2 Carrying Place underwent surgery for a fractured skull at a Kingston hospital late Saturday following a one-car accident south of here.

This morning the hospital reported the locally known musician and sportsman remained unconscious.

According to police Hartman driving alone was returning home from Trenton, when he was thrown out of his car when it left 33 Highway at the Dead Creek curve. He was taken to the Trenton Memorial hospital for emergency treatment and moved later to Kingston.

Employed at CFB Trenton for a number of years the young man is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hartman of Brighton.

His wife Isobelle residing at home near Carrying Place.

Quinte Canning Crop Growers To Get Higher Prices This Year

Quinte district canning crop growers will receive slightly increased prices this year for tomatoes, peas, and corn, according to the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Marketing Board.

The Can Crop Newsletter lists the 1968 prices for tomatoes at $50.50 per ton for No. 1 grade and $38.50 for No. 2 grade. In both instances the increase is 50 cents per ton.

Minimum prices for peas based on tenderometer readings will range from a high of $188.40 as compared with $180.25 last year, and a low of $94.20 as compared with $93.25 last year.

Processors who purchase green peas of the Alaska type will pay $7.50 per ton over the above prices.

The 1968 price for sweet corn will be $29.50 per ton as compared with $29.00 in 1967.

Ontario produces 94 per cent of the canned tomato pack in Ontario and a higher percentage of the juice pack. Last year Central Ontario grew 3,898 acres of tomatoes with a production of 108,000 tons or an average yield per acre of 12.63.

Total Ontario production was 23,596 acres with an average yield of 14.2 tons per acre.

Green pea production in Central Ontario last year amounted to 5,318 tons from an average of 1.25 tons per acre. Ontario produced 41 per cent of all canned peas grown in Canada last year and about 35 per cent of the frozen pack.

Sweet corn production in Central Ontario last year was down slightly as compared with 1966. The all Ontario production was 113,502 tons as compared with 120,431 tons the year before. Central Ontario production was 49,128 tons with an average yield of 4.96 tons per acre.

The Can Crop Newsletter says that imports of tomato products is a continuing worry to the domestic industry and suggests that every effort must be made to sell the consumer on the superior quality and value of the domestic products.

Last year 34,332,291 pounds of canned tomatoes were imported 55,903 pounds of tomato paste and 6,071,803 pounds of tomato juice.

Portugal has taken over a substantial portion of the tomato paste industry with that country supplying 61 per cent of this country's imports last year.

The newsletter says that the unrealistic tariff on paste of 1½ cents per pound for the highly concentrated products has been protested for years but requests for help have fallen on deaf ears.

"We must continue to press for tariff protection against foreign products from low wage countries; in the meanwhile every effort must be made to promote our own production," the newsletter says.

Campbellford Hospital Issues Annual Report

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford Memorial Hospital is suffering from overcrowding, with as many as 77 patients accommodated at times in the 65 bed institution.

This was revealed at the annual meeting of the hospital board Friday evening. The number of inpatients treated in 1967 totalled 1,722 and the number of outpatients totalled 4,418.

Income for the year was $630,653 and expenditures were $676,863, giving a net revenue of $13,792.

An addition to the parking lot to accommodate 46 cars was made in 1967 and an improved X-ray machine was purchased in anticipation of extra bed space resulting from this year's building program.

The new addition, at a projected cost of $1,600,000 will give an additional 10 beds in the surgical ward, greater laboratory space, an increased kitchen and laundry service area, a solarium, tuck shop, display room and a classroom for nursing education.

The Women's Auxiliary has played an important part in the 15 years of the hospital's operation with a total contribution in that time of $53,221. Thirty-five Candy Stripers have been trained in volunteer service.

Forty-four per cent of the employees come from the hospital area and 56 from outside the immediate area.

Seven of the board's 12 members are elected and five are appointed. Elected members are W. F. Scott, chairman, J. F. R. Douglas, George Free, O. L. Ireton, Mrs. Jesse Locke, R. J. Locke, Austin Putnam.

Appointed members are Mayor M. Tanner, Campbellford; Kenneth Parr, Seymour; A. Wartman, Percy Mrs. R. Fox, Hospital Auxiliary; and Dr. R. B. Pritchard, Havelock, chief of medical staff. Honorary directors are R. D. MacDonald and Archie Meyers.

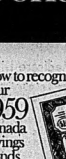
If you haven't yet exchanged your 1959 Canada Savings Bonds

The Government of Canada has created a special new high-yielding security for the advance refunding of 1959 Canada Savings Bonds. These Special Replacement Bonds will be dated May 1, 1968, and will mature in 10 years 5 months on October 1, 1978. They will be available only in exchange for an equal amount of 1959 Canada Savings Bonds, and not for cash. Their average annual yield to maturity will be 6.88%. They will retain all the standard features which have made Canada Savings Bonds the most popular investment in Canada's history. This includes the right to cash them any time at any bank for full face value plus earned interest.



In addition, Special Replacement Bonds offer the opportunity to double your money. If you choose not to cash your regular interest coupons during the life of the bond, 3 Compound Interest Certificates then become payable for a total of $280.00 extra (on each $1,000.00 bond). This amount plus your regular interest coupons doubles your money.

You can take advantage of this compound interest feature in various ways.

And that's not all. There will be two Prepayment Coupons, cashable May 1, 1968, attached to each Special Replacement Bond. They represent the 6 months' interest already earned by your old bond and the prepayment of the 3% non-taxable premium originally due November 1, 1968. On a $1,000.00 bond, these two Prepayment Coupons will be worth a total of $55.00.

The exchange procedure is simple. Take your 1959 Canada Savings Bonds to your bank, authorized investment dealer, trust or loan company. They will make all arrangements for you. Ask them about the other features of Special Replacement Bonds including the convenient denominations, and the availability of both coupon and fully registered forms.

Exchange your 1959 Canada Savings Bonds for the new high-yielding Special Replacement Bonds. Don't delay. This offer expires on May 15, 1968.

How to recognize your 1959 Canada Savings Bonds

There are two simple identifications to note. The denomination is shown in the upper corner of each bond is protected by "21" in block. Second, the name of the bond, "Canada Savings Bond 1959 Series" is shown.

Quebec and France

With the transition of Government leadership accomplished in Ottawa it will be interesting to see how Prime Minister Trudeau handles relations with Quebec.

Currently the Government is pondering the latest of the comic opera situations involving Quebec's new-found rapport with France. Ever since President de Gaulle uttered his "Quebec Libre" cry last summer there has been tension between the federal and Quebec provincial governments. Questions have been raised that even the recent federal-provincial conference failed to resolve satisfactorily.

The impression remains that where Quebec is concerned, federal authority rests on very tenuous support. Now there is talk afoot of Canadian representation at an international education conference of 17 French-speaking nations in Paris this week.

Quebec, of course, if attending, as it did the first session of the conference in Gabon, in February. Canada suspended diplomatic relations with Gabon, a French-speaking country in West Africa, for inviting Quebec and not Ottawa. Now the question is, should Canada break off diplomatic relations with France because it did not inform the federal government of the Paris conference?

Prime Minister Trudeau has said present circumstances do not warrant such a move. And very likely they do not. To do so would be to cut off one's nose to spite one's face. On the other hand must Ottawa forever play second fiddle in such matters?

Certainly, if federal authority in both domestic and foreign affairs is not to become completely ineffectual, the Trudeau cabinet will have to display more diplomatic initiative than has been evidenced of late. Ottawa has allowed itself to be placed on the defensive with regard to both Quebec and France. The sooner it is able to call the tune again the better.

Move for Sharp

From finance to external affairs is the prestigious jump being made by Mitchell Sharp in Mr. Trudeau's new cabinet.

In going to external affairs Mr. Sharp is likely being rewarded in part for his support of Mr. Trudeau at the recent leadership convention.

Considering the trauma one might associate with a move from the cold, cut-and-dried world of budgeting, to the more exotic realm of foreign affairs, one might pause for a moment to consider what qualifies a man to take over such a post almost overnight.

We have seen this after the manner of dabbling with balance sheets and statistics Mr. Sharp has not forgotten his geography. If some adventurous Canadian tourists get arrested for taking photographs of bridges in, say, Ulan Bator, will Mr. Sharp know the part of the world with which he has to deal?

Of one thing we are sure, Mr. Sharp has the manner and bearing of a diplomat. He may have to smile more, but he is smooth. He has a voice that would be equally at home at an international conference or on the diplomatic reception circuit. And we suspect he will become every bit as expert as Mr. Martin was before him in the art of circumlocution. And that of course is the business of saying a great deal while at the same time saying nothing.

Medicare Dispute

The prospect of a nation-wide strike of the medical profession if changes are not made in the Medicare program is disturbing.

The president-elect of the Canadian Medical Association, Dr. D. A. Dalgleish, of Saskatoon, is quoted as saying that as long as the State is the only source of medical insurance, "conflict is inevitable."

Expressing the hope that sections of the medicare plan will be changed, Dr. Dalgleish went on to say that withdrawal of all but emergency services is the only real weapon doctors have in disputes with government.

As in many other strikes, however, it is the unfortunate public which stands to suffer most from such an attitude. Thus, every effort should be made to resolve whatever differences exist.

Canada cannot afford to have a repetition of the kind of bitterness that was engendered by the introduction of medical insurance in Saskatchewan some years ago. Dr. Dalgleish at least should be mindful of that, for he was president of the Saskatchewan Medical Association in 1962 when Saskatoon doctors withdrew their services to protest sections of the provincial medicare plan.

Britain Withdraws From Joint Space Venture In Europe

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain is quitting the space race in a decision that may bolster her treasury at the expense of European friendship. Questions were likely to be asked in Europe whether Britain can be considered as a serious partner in joint technological projects.

In 1961, Britain took the lead in persuading the Common Market countries to join with her in developing a European rocket-launcher program that one day might match the United States in ability to carry heavy commercial satellites into space.

Of an initial budget of some £70,000,000 ($182,000,000), Britain agreed to put up more that one-third with the aim of launching lest satellites by 1966. But costs mounted and production timetables were stretched. Meanwhile Britain's efforts to gain Common Market membership failed.

This failure has led to British reappraisal of relations with Europe. Prime Minister Wilson pressed ahead with an offer of technological co-operation with those Common Market partners sympathetic to Britain's position. But this offer hasn't made much headway.

With Britain now almost completely preoccupied with domestic problems and with George Brown, the man who led the Common Market campaign, having quit the foreign ministry, the British government's relations with the Continent appear to be somewhat equivocal.

Into this greyish atmosphere the British government now has dropped the bombshell that after 1971 it will no longer support the joint launcher program though it still will contribute to joint space research.

The experts immediately predicted that, without Britain's help, the program will have to shut down, giving the U.S. a virtual Western monopoly in space satellites on which future commercial broadcasting and communications are to be mainly based.

France and West Germany are building a heavy satellite known as Symphonie which was to have been carried by the joint launcher. These two countries may try to build a launcher of their own or be forced to buy one from the U.S.

President de Gaulle is unlikely to savor the idea of having to approach the U.S. on such a deal.

So far Britain has contributed more than £50,000,000 to the European launcher program. British newspapers said her withdrawal likely will leave the program in ruins and Britain with another international battle on her hands.

But another paper, The Financial Times, suggests that while the decision may be regrettable it may mean there no longer will be blind involvement in costly prestige projects with little or no economic justification.

Nurses' Experience

Jobs and Qualifications

Letter to The Globe and Mail

In a letter to the London Times on April 8, a Canadian registered nurse, Mrs. B. Campbell, complains that she has been forced to work in England as a computer punch card operator because the General Nursing Council will not accept her qualifications.

The council, she said, took two months to assess her application for registration and then told her to get further training. She looked into this training requirement and "found that not only am I expected to train as a student nurse but to wear the uniform of a student nurse, work a full-time rotating schedule (regardless if I find this inconvenient), and also earn a salary of approximately £21 per week", she said despite her BSc. from a Canadian university and the current shortage of nurses in England.

As an English-trained nurse in Toronto, however, I can report some very similar experience. It requires almost divine intervention to obtain a reasonable day-time job here, and the applicant is subjected to a bizarre range of insults and delays from people in the personnel world.

The Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario is adamant in its registration requirements, and about as helpful to Commonwealth nurses as the Russian foreign office. Along with many hospitals, the association seems to be imprisoned by the idea that its syllabus is the finest in the world.

On top of this, there is fierce resentment of anyone who admits straight away that they don't want to work in the wards on the 24-hour shift system.

But I think the root of the problem on either site of the Atlantic is the inevitable character of the professional spinster hierarchy. Few hospital matrons will knowingly offer a married woman a civilized job, and with the Government controlling most medical institutions there are very few private alternatives.

(Mrs.) Rachel Clarkson

Modern Films Are In Dubious Taste

Letter to The Montreal Gazette

"Film attendance falls precipitously with marriage and age, the movie habit generally being broken by the age of 29. It should surprise no one that the influence is young." If this is indeed the case, then why on earth are there so many unlawfully lustful, depraved and offensive films being produced for this presumably young audience? If the adult population stays at home, then why not cater to the young in the first place, in the manner of Walt Disney Presentations, with films which would stimulate their intellect and imagination?

The universal appeal of Jean de'Le Fontaine's Fables, for example, is due no doubt to this French poet's great ingenuity, accurate perception of the human nature and, what is very pertinent "moral" of each of his Fables. The modern writers lacked of a long time now, in my opinion, was hardly an "accurate perception of the human nature — our society has been reflected very well in its art — but a pertinent "moral" in their scripts. . . However, there is hope that by making such a socially conscious film like "In The Heat of The Night," Hollywood came of age at long last, and will continue to make movies which do not exploit or degrade but celebrate the dignity of man. —Christina Chilpalski

Women Seek A Share of Government Appointments

Brantford Expositor

Alleged job discrimination was one of the main reasons cited by women's rights activists in pressuring the federal government into appointing a royal commission to inquire into the status of women. At the commission's first public hearing in Victoria the local Voice of Women put forward a discriminatory proposal of its own. One-third of all government offices, it said, should go to women.

The group presumably had in mind the judgeships or plum posts on boards and commissions which are at the disposal of governments. Women now form about one-third of the total labor force and occupy roughly the same proportion of government jobs. To set an arbitrary figure for the number of government office women should hold is to place the very type of restriction on female appointments that women have been protesting against. Their claim up to now is that these positions should be allocated on merit and not on sex. It must certainly be conceded that women are under represented in public life, but men are not entirely to blame for this. Many public offices are elective posts for which women have shown a reluctance to contend. In addition voters of their own sex have not been eager to elect them.

There should be no automatic right to appropriation of government offices on the basis of group or sex. French-Canadians argue that they should receive one-third of all federal appointments because of their numbers. If all groups were to be catered for in this fashion, it would require a slide rule to determine the formation of a government agency. Some eminently qualified people would be barred from appointment because the quota for their group had already been filled. There should be no statutory limit on the number of women to be appointed to a particular board or commission if they meet the requirements. The Victoria VOW is seeking discrimination in reverse.

"Status of Women" Hearings Get Off to A Poor Start

Peterborough Examiner

Handling everything from telephone directories to what college girls cannot get summer jobs through to serious LaMarsh and Mrs. Laurendeau Sabia, former president of the Canadian Federation of University Women, does little to help the cause of women. Fortunately these ladies are counterbalanced by others such as Mrs. Francis, Pauline Jewett, former MP for Northumberland, and Gertrude M. Laird, who have served on the B and B commission and is now a member of the Status on Women commission. Mrs. Francis et al have shown the way that women can be fully accepted, while recognized for their femininity, without any forcible effort on their part.

If the Status of Women Commission is to be successful it is to be hoped that it will not bog down in the hopeless miasma of foundering emotionalism. Mrs. Francis and her commission need all the assistance possible if they are to bring in serious recommendations for changes to improve the lot of Canadian women. Neither the commission nor the country can afford to have this commission develop into an ombudsman service for Canadian women.

Japan Finds Expo 70 Is A Costly Venture

Kingston Whig - Standard

Canadians who remember the problems which arose during the planning and construction of the Expo '67 site in Montreal will be sympathetic towards Japanese efforts to prepare for the Japan World Exposition scheduled for Osaka in 1970. According to The Japan Times Weekly, some construction costs are posing a "formidable obstacle" in the construction of a special fiber research building.

The construction of buildings, including the pavilions of Japan and foreign countries, was supposed to get underway in July but this is doubtful now. Canada's pavilion which is to be walled by four huge mirrors (19.5 by 90 metres) is also stumbling on building costs. The Canadian Government was to share the costs for the construction of the 4,400-square meters pavilion. The remainder is to be spent on exhibits, transportations and administration of the building. Japanese builders insist that it will cost at least 50 per cent. more.

Expo66 indicate that revision of the blueprints is now underway at a Japanese consulting firm in order to keep the cost in line with the Canadian budget. The result will be that the Zeebrugge mole is made smaller by about 20 per cent., and that it will not be as widely applied by Canada instead of concrete.

Expo Association officials maintain that while Japanese construction costs have risen to exceed the European level, they are still less expensive than those of the United States and Canada. Obviously there will have to be widescale altering of blueprints for major Expo facilities if the construction of the buildings is to proceed smoothly in the latter months of 1968. And in this alteration Expo 70 may well suffer in overall quality.

Tuesday Vote Still Not Ruled Out as Trudeau Possibility

OTTAWA (CP) — What basis was there for the rumors Friday night and Saturday that Prime Minister Trudeau will call an election for Monday, June 17?

The question is all the more pertinent now that June 17 bubble has burst. The chance went by when Mr. Trudeau did not dissolve Parliament by 7 p.m. Saturday, the absolute deadline for holding an election on the rumored date.

The disappearance of one date has not stopped talk that a vote might be called on one of two weeks later. Since the days concerned are holidays—June 24 St. Jean Baptiste Day in Quebec and July 1 a general holiday across Canada—the available dates are Tuesdays, June 25 and July 2.

The rumors of e June 17 vote were rooted in circumstances, a certain amount of interpretation and in positive statements by people associated with the new prime minister, right up to cabinet level.

Since Mr. Trudeau became Liberal leader April 6, there has been election talk in political circles.

Much was based on the theory that before long the new prime minister would want to seek his own mandate from the people although the present Liberal government was elected in 1965 for a five-year term.

Reinforcing this were arguments by what might be termed election hawks that the vote should be as soon as possible to capitalize on the great flood of news coverage for the Liberals and Mr. Trudeau in the leadership convention.

The fever quickened as the process of assembling a new cabinet went on, especially when Larry Pennell, former solicite-general, r e s i g n e d his Commons seat and it became known that Paul Martin would go to the Senate.

Once the Paul Martin change is made, the Liberals will be reduced to 128 members in the 264-seat Commons against 94 Conservatives, 22 NDP, eight Creditistes, four Social Credit, two Independents and one Independent-Conservative. T h e r e will be six vacancies.

In practice the minority position may be intensified further. Lester B. P e a r s o n, former prime minister, is going to Ireland in May for an honorary degree and a holiday. Robert H. Winters and Judy LaMarsh retained their Commons seats on resigning from the cabinet but it is not known how active they will be in parliamentary affairs.

With this background, the announcement Friday that Mr. Trudeau and his cabinet would be sworn in Saturday, two days ahead of schedule, made it look as if the idea was to call an election immediately for June 17.

The conclusion was not all a matter of perception. People in a position to know said categorically that was the plan.

The rumors gained strength Saturday when the cabinet was sworn in. Its very makeup bore a caretaker stamp. Mr. Trudeau himself conceded it might be called that.

The arguments for an early election persist and the acceptance of the idea seems to be growing. The advocates keep saying that, with an election likely later on this year, it would be politically unwise for the new administration to meet Parliament, scheduled to resume its session on Tuesday,

PM's Plans Jolted Martin

OTTAWA (CP) — It has been a dreadful two weeks for old political soldier Paul Martin.

For all his adult life, the 64-year-old dean of the Commons has toiled for the Liberal party. He won 10 straight elections in his Ontario riding of Essex East since 1935.

But the main prize eluded him.

At the 1958 leadership convention, he got 305 votes to 1,074 for Lester B. Pearson. At the 1968 convention two weeks ago, he got 277 votes, tied for fourth place on the first ballot and retired from the race. A man almost a generation younger won.

Last Wednesday, this younger man, Pierre Elliott Trudeau, told Mr. Martin in his East Block office on Parliament Hill, as gently as possible, that he could no longer keep his beloved external affairs portfolio.

There were tears in Mr. Martin's eyes as he walked alone and head up across Parliament Hill to lunch at his club after this encounter.

To the lone reporter who accompanied him part of the way, Mr. Martin made no complaint, not even a hint of one.

If he had dished it out on occasion — and he plays politics for keeps — he proved he can also take it, not once but twice.

Still erect, he walked into Government House Saturday to be sworn into Prime Minister Trudeau's cabinet as minister without portfolio. He will be government leader in the Senate, a cabinet post.

He had been offered the justice portfolio, which Mr. Trudeau eventually kept himself. But as a devout Roman Catholic, Mr. Martin could not in good conscience accept a job of piloting through the Commons a Criminal Code amendment to legalize some abortions.

Many admirers of Mr. Martin maintain that he should have won the Nobel peace prize at least once.

In 1955, his personal diplomacy broke the m e m b e r s h i p logjam at the United Nations and 16 new members were admitted. It was from then that a goal of universal UN membership was set.

In 1964, Mr. Martin again rescued a floundering UN when he ordered a planeload of Canadian soldiers to Cyprus to start a peacekeeping force to stop communal warfare. He then got other countries to come in by simply announcing to them that such a force had been established and Canada was on the way.

But Canadian parents would thank him much more for a weekend of courage in 1954 when he was health minister.

The Salk polio vaccine had just appeared. An early batch made in California was bad and infected some American children.

Would the vaccine produced in Canada prove good or bad? Mr. Martin, in one of the loneliest and most awesome decisions of his life, decided that it would be good. It was.

There was no vaccine when polio struck Mr. Martin at the age of four. His mother and his own spirit brought about his recovery and he still swims nearly every day.

Mr. Martin was born in Ottawa June 22, 1903, the son of a millwright. He went to school at Pembroke, Ont., and Ironside, Que. — and later at Harvard, Cambridge and Geneva.

He settled in Windsor, Ont., as a lawyer and was first elected to the Commons 33 years ago. He joined the cabinet in 1945 as secretary of state and in 1946 became health minister. He led Canada's delegation at the UN from 1952 to 1955.

He was one of a small band of Liberal MPs who kept the party alive and kicking through six opposition years from 1957 to 1963 and helped it to recover from the Diefenbaker landslide minister for five years.

Senator Paul Martin? It will take some getting used to — for himself and others.

Levesque Wins Ideology Battle

MONTREAL (CP) — A dispute over the rights of Quebec's English-speaking m i n o r i t y emerged during the weekend as a possible obstacle to political unity of Quebec's French-language independence movement.

Rene Levesque's movement to make a sovereign state out of Quebec province decided to establish a new political party which would seek to unite all separatists who share his views of forming an economic association with Canada.

But the two-day policy meeting of Levesque followers revealed division within the movement over how the English-speaking minority—20 per cent of the population—should be treated in a sovereign Quebec.

The split was manifested in a surprise showdown between Mr. Levesque and Francois Aquin, former president of the Quebec Liberal Federation, who, like Mr. Levesque, quit the Liberal party to sit as an independent in the legislature.

Mr. Aquin led forces who tried to get the Levesque movement to endorse the ending of state subsidies to English-language schools in the proposed unilingual French-language republic of Quebec.

But Mr. Levesque virtually threatened to quit and his dramatic move swung the delegates away from Mr. Aquin's position, which is identical with the views of other separatist groups.

The Levesque movement endorsed French as the only official language of a sovereign Quebec, but voted to maintain subsidies to English-language schools out of "pure justice, our own pride in ourselves and plain, good, common political sense."

In a workshop session, Mr. Aquin supported a resolution which, if accepted, would have put the movement in favor of several restrictions on the English-language community, such as special taxes for English-language enterprises.

Mr. Levesque and Mr. Aquin said negotiations on separatist unity will begin immediately with two existing separatist p a r t i e s, the Rassemblement pour l'Independance nationale and the Ralliement national.

Mr. Levesque expressed confidence that his views would prevail but some separatists say the more moderate Levesque forces risk becoming a minority in a single separatist party.

The republic of Quebec envisaged by Mr. Levesque's movement would be a socialist state adorned with everything from state-run babysitting services to a "modest!" army.

Movement members, working on an eventual political platform, adopted resolutions to serve only as a basis for further study.

All youth would be recruited to serve one year in a "compulsory civic service to permit young people, by giving one year of their lives to the community, to participate in the edification of a new society."

The state would maintain "strict surveillance" over all mass media to ensure "development of popular culture" and a state-supported Quebec press agency with complete autonomy" would be established.

"An office of publicity control would oversee radio and television to ensure application of the state's over-all cultural policy. network would be in the French language."

Mr. L e v e s q u e's republic would, in his words, be "democratic, progressive and pacific." o p p o s e d to war but equipped with a modest army which would be at the disposal of the United Nations, and would defend territorial integrity.

Hemlines Dominate Fashions

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

Fashion attention for spring and summer is still fastened on the hemline which continues to bob up and down in ever-widening variations.

Age, weight, income and time of day now determine which length is the right length for which person.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press finds where people live is a factor in the attention attracted by the two longer styles, the midi-length and the maxi-length. Otherwise, it doesn't seem to affect the matter much.

The mini-length remains the favorite among the young. The majority favorite is the mid-knee or just above.

A Toronto department store spokesman says the midi-length — mid-calf —and the maxi-length—five inches above the ankle—are a yet, only for the woman who can afford to gamble on them as extra dresses in after-use. His prediction is that the maxi-length might be taken seriously in the fall, but not before.

Other areas mention them only in passing. Saint John, N.B., reports maxi-skirts are being shown with frilly blouses but no one customer that matches the season's taste for the feminine.

Dirndl skirts have returned to popularity there, as in other parts of the country. Down in St. John's, Nfld., expect to be selling them, too, as they share the general trend to more fit and flare than fashion has called for in several years.

All colors are showing signs of return to a natural shape. Vancouver reports some stores are showing dresses that offer an option. They may be worn with or without a belt.

Lace collars and cuffs, long sleeves, ruffled blouses and demure white trim are all being used to accent the feminine look.

Other styles, accessories and shoes still sport the industrial sipper, eyelets, laces, nailheads.

Suits and three-piece outfits are popular. The pantsuit continues its popularity. Flaring elephant pants are in.

Montreal reports the much-publicized Bonnie and Clyde look of the 1930s has not caught on there, and there is little mention of it from other centres, except for its influence on hats. Montreal says berets are selling well. Regina reports the clothes and Garbo styles are in favor.

A variation that Regina calls western and Saskatoon calls Australian is growing in popularity. It is a wide-brimmed hat with a under-chin strap to be worn by the mini set mostly.

Colors everywhere match the list from Winnipeg. They are mostly bright, strong pinks, citrus shades, greens. White is to be worn by itself, as trim with brown, black or navy and especially as a detail color on jabots, cuffs and ruffles.

Cooper – Smith

MR. AND MRS. MARTYN R. J. COOPER

Brenda Mona, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford H. Smith, Belleville, and Martyn R. J. Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald P. Cooper, Belleville, were married by Capt. Robert Sloss and Capt. J. Dwyer in the Salvation Army Citadel, Belleville, April 13, 1968, at 3 p.m.

The bride's uncle, W. S. Thomson, played the wedding music and Robert Lessels was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a fitted A-line gown of satin brocade with matching train extending from the shoulders, a wedding ring collar, and three-quarter length cuffed sleeves. Her shoulder-length three-tier veil was held with a crown of orange blossoms and seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of yellow sunbeam roses, white hyacinth bells and sprays of white heather sent from Scotland.

Miss Judy McGregor, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a pale blue crystal crepe floor - length gown with matching blue Italian lace jacket and carried yellow and blue mums.

The bridesmaids, Miss Norma Cooper, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Lynne Thomson and Miss Linda Denerson, cousins of the bride, wore yellow gowns similar in style to that of the maid of honor. The attendants' headdresses were blue lace-trimmed wedding ring bands with shoulder-length veils.

The bride's sister, Miss Deborah Smith, was flower girl. She wore a white French lace over peau de sole floor-length dress with blue sash and three - quarter length sleeves. She wore a band of yellow sunburst mums in her hair and carried a wristlet bouquet of the same flowers.

Kenneth Lessels attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Ronald and Kenneth Smith, brothers of the bride, and Bryan Cooper, brother of the bridegroom.

At the reception in Tabernacle United Church, the bride's mother wore a coral brocade suit with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. To assist in receiving the guests the bridegroom's mother wore a flowered nylon dress with turquoise wool coat, flowered hat and white carnation corsage.

For her wedding trip to the United States the bride chose a pink wool suit with pink flowered hat, brown accessories and a corsage of white carnations and pink hyacinth bells.

On their return the couple will live in Hamilton.

Operation of Juvenile Court Outlined by Area Probation Officer

D. I. MacKinnon, Provincial probation officer for the County of Hastings was the guest speaker at the April meeting of the University Women's Club of Belleville and District.

Being thoroughly acquainted with the subject Mr. MacKinnon gave a talk dealing with the operation of juvenile court. In opening he stated that each county in Ontario has a juvenile court. In Hastings County there are two sitting judges, T. Y. Wills and Magistrate R. C. Jackson, who serves the northern part of the county.

The speaker went on to explain the procedures of juvenile court, saying that after a child is taken into custody there is a police investigation. The crown attorney then decides whether or not to prosecute. If the offense is minor such as breaking a window, the parents of the child are approached and it is usually settled out of court.

Mr. MacKinnon stressed that a charge should be laid even at the first offence in order to teach the child that the law must not be broken and to deter him from committing the offense again.

The ensuing investigation of a juvenile offender takes as long as for an adult offense. The charges are laid against the parents to ensure that the child is brought to court at the specified time. Charges are read by the judge and often the parents request legal aid. An adjournment is granted and a new date for the trial is set.

If the child is guilty the police are called to give their summary of evidence and a question period follows. The judge passes sentence and the child is usually put on probation under the supervision of Mr. MacKinnon. At the present time he has 129 persons under supervision ranging in age from 9 to 55 years.

He attempts to change their attitudes and has had success in almost all his cases.

It was noted that children commit the same crimes as adults. Last year in Hastings County there were 30 juvenile delinquents, 112 boys and 8 girls. There were 208 charges laid against these 120 youngsters.

The rate of juvenile crime is increasing. In 1965 the number was 56 and this increased to 74 in 1966 and Mr. MacKinnon estimates that there will be 170 offenders in 1968. Most of the charges are for theft, followed by break-ins with intent to steal and breaking and entering and theft. Liquor offenses are also high on the list as well as vandalism especially on construction sites with most of these committed within the city of Belleville.

Mr. MacKinnon queried whether these youngsters are the delinquents or are they the products of delinquent parents. The ages of the children who get into difficulty are in the 13-14-15 year old bracket who are so adventurous, but are clever, often handing their class at school.

In concluding Mr. MacKinnon felt optimistic about juvenile delinquents and said that praise and interest can win most youngsters. Many of these children have never seen at anything and when they receive encouragement their whole approach changes.

A question and answer period followed the speaker's remarks.

Mr. MacKinnon was introduced by Mrs. B. R. Collins and thanks expressed by Mrs. G. E. Boyce.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. R. E. Merritt, convenor for the Spring Fair to be held May 3, informed the members that plans for the event are going ahead satisfactorily.

Art Exhibition Now Being Shown at Public Library

The East Central Ontario Art Exhibition which opened in the Cobourg Gallery early in April, is now being shown in the Belleville Public Library Gallery.

This exhibition has something for everyone — there are the abstract, the representational floral arrangements, still lifes and non-objective paintings. There are also cottages as well as one done with bits of cloth, and two interesting ones of wood.

Once again Belleville was well represented, with more local artists having work accepted than any other locality in the district. This year for the first time all the work submitted was done without supervision, with an aim toward raising the calibre of work in the show.

This show, which has been brought to Belleville under the joint sponsorship of the Belleville Public Library and the Belleville Art Association, will be shown from April 22 until May 4.

Valuable Keepsakes Missing; Suspects Favorite Niece

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My nephew married a lovely girl and they frequently come to visit us. Now, however, I find some lovely keepsakes from my grandmother have disappeared.

Among them are pretty silver spoons from abroad, a handworked doily, carved wooden salad fork and spoon, an antique salt cellar that can never be replaced.

She saw me showing some of these things to another niece; but the thing is some of my good linens and souvenirs are kept in a chest in the room she slept in. I suspect her very much.

How am I going to get back my treasures? — Serious Offence.

Dear Serious: Make positive sure the things you miss are not just mislaid, put away somewhere else or loaned out.

Having turned everything inside out and drawn a blank, confront her with your loss. Ask if by any chance she has seen them, or put them away for you, or packed them by mistake. Her reaction may tell you more than what she actually says.

DORIS CLARK

If she proves to be light-fingered, she may need psychiatric help. Stealing can indicate some kind of emotional disturbance, and you nephew will have to know about it.

* * *

Dear Doris: I am a 13-year-old youth with a problem.

To put it simply my parents think that I should brush my teeth twice daily because they followed this rule and they managed until now. At present I am following the Canadian Dental Assn.'s advice, I brush my teeth four times daily. Before breakfast and after every meal.

My parents think that if I continue with four times brushing, I will eventually damage my gums and weaken the teeth's support. The teeth may not be damaged but the gums will, causing the teeth to have to be pulled, so says my parents. — True or False?

Dear T. Or F.: False. Constant poking might injure or puncture any skin surface, but my dental consultant has no fear for you. Gum massage, with fingers, is a recommended gum-strengthening technique. Three or four brushings a day are o.k.

He adds that damage to teeth is also done through sugar-laden saliva. Not only is a candy goes down does it leave a harmful sugar coating also as it is absorbed into the blood stream it returns in saliva, the worst culprit of all.

Moral: Keep down your intake of sweets.

* * *

Dear Doris: How can you overcome shyness of boys? My friend and I met these boys on what we call the "hot line" (a certain telephone number) and we were supposed to meet them somewhere and when we got there we were too shy to complete it. — Too Shy.

Dear Too Shy: The Lord was with you! How can you know what sort of person is at the other end of a "hot line"? Never, never, take such a risk again!

When you get used to boys in ordinary situations, you'll gradually lose your nervousness.

* * *

(Is it better to put up with misunderstandings, or to begin talking things over? Let Doris help you see the light.)

Ann Landers

Mother's Attitude Cool Toward Friend

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I will try to make a long story short and get right to the point. I am going with a boy I am terribly fond of. Ken is fond of me, too. My mother's attitude toward Ken was always cool. It was obvious she disliked him.

ANN LANDERS

About three weeks ago she said, "I hope you are not planning to marry Ken." When I replied, "As a matter of fact I am," she turned white and blurted out. "You can't. He is your first cousin." My mother then told me about her youngest sister who had died giving birth to an out-of-wedlock child. I had never heard a word about this sister or the child — in fact, the whole story is so bizarre I am wondering if my mother made it up. She insists there is no way of checking as nobody knew of it but her.

The thing that bothers me is that Ken looks enough like me that people have asked if he is my brother. Also, he is adopted. I am a nervous wreck with worry. Can you give me some advice that will settle me down? — NIGHTMARE GIRL.

DEAR GIRL: First of all, tell Ken everything you have heard. If you still want to be married, you are ready for the next decision.

Be aware that when first cousins marry the likelihood of their children inheriting harmful recessive characteristics is increased. These recessive genes could be present even if there is no blood relationship. Marriage always presents this possibility.

You and Ken should go to a physician, have complete physical examinations and give the doctor all the facts pertaining to your family medical histories. Also see a lawyer. Some states do not allow first cousins to marry. While the medical authorities are divided on the question, "Should first cousins marry?" the majority of enlightened physicians feel it is not particularly hazardous.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Because I feel you are my friend, I would like to share something with you.

Here is a recent news item which appeared in our local newspaper:

"When Patrolman . . . . . " head of the Police Department's traffic revenue, opened a parking ticket envelope the other day, he found a letter attached to the $5 bill paying the fine. He expected to read the usual profane language instructing the 'lousy cops' to spend more time catching criminals and less time harassing people who park too close to fire hydrants.

"What he read nearly shocked him out of his uniform — "To whom it may concern: I would like to thank each and every police officer who risks his life every day to protect citizens such as me. A policeman's job is a dangerous and thankless one. Officers of the law take an enormous amount of abuse. Too often the entire force is blamed for the poor behavior of a few. May God bless the policemen in our city. More than ever, we need them now." — MRS. J.H."

If you think this letter has merit, Ann, please print it. Sincerely yours, — STEADY READER.

DEAR READER: I do and I will. Here it is.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Old-fashioned Pea Soup for 12

By MARY MOORE

Unless you mothers teach your daughters how to cook they do not know how easy it is to produce a big pot of luscious soup.

Our lesson today is How To Make Old-Fashioned Pea Soup at a very low cost. Since it is one of those soups that makes itself as it slowly simmers, they will be rewarded with a wonderful feeling of accomplishment when they serve it to the family. And notice this: these amounts serve twelve hearty soup bowls full.

OLD - FASHIONED SPLIT PEA SOUP

1 pound dry green (or yellow) split peas
1 ham bone (with a little meat attached from roast ham) OR ¼ pound fat salt pork finely chopped
12 cups cold water
¼ cup chopped onion
1 medium stalk celery, chopped
1½ teaspoons salt (add only 1 teaspoon salt if fat salt pork is used)
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ of a bay leaf (optional)

Tip peas into a large sieve and wash under running cold water. Turn into large soup pot with lid and add the cold water, cover and let stand in cool place overnight. Three hours before mealtime add all remaining ingredients and simmer covered for three hours, stirring frequently. At serving time fish out the ham bone and bay leaf (if used) and discard. With a slotted spoon lift out any pieces of ham which have fallen from bone and chop them and return to soup. Serve in preheated soup tureen or large soup bowls, with crusty French bread.

Note: If you use fat salt pork instead of ham bone you should cut off and discard the outside rind before chopping the fat pork.

'Free Worn-out Mothers from Yearly Child-bearing' Is WI Plea

CALGARY (CP) — A woman should be able to have surgery to prevent childbirth if she wants, the rural commission on the status of women was told today.

The plea to free worn-out mothers from "the burden of yearly child bearing" came from the Alberta Women's Institute at the seven-member commission's first public hearing in Calgary after a week in British Columbia.

"We may have upset a lot of people at our hearings in Victoria and Vancouver," Commission Chairman Anne Francis told a press conference on her arrival in Calgary.

"But, by gum, no one is going to be able to say any more that women have no problems."

Direct hotlines to commissioners Lois Lange of Clarseholm, Alta., and Elsie MacGill of Toronto proved successful in B.C. that they were to continue today.

For the commission's two days in Calgary the lines are to be kept open during early mornings and afternoons at a downtown hotel for anyone wanting to talk personally about women's problems.

Presenting another of today's briefs, Fanny Molen said on behalf of the Farm Women's Union of Alberta that Canada's laws "have been formulated exclusively by men, with little or no regard to women's desires or needs."

"In our modern world it is made to seem natural that the occupants of certain swivel chairs should be male."

The union's far-ranging brief said poor people need birth control information most but they are often denied it.

The poor, who could not afford the luxury of a private physician, end up "having more children than they want or can adequately support."

Mrs. Molen recommended a removal of all restrictions on free distribution of contraceptives and called for a public program of birth-control information.

The Alberta Jaycees said that "each request for abortion should be judged on its own merit rather than through a blanket policy."

The Jaycees recommended setting up a hospital abortion committees "composed of persons from a wide range of medical and social professions."

Racialist Speech Punished

Heath Expels Powell From PC Shadow Cabinet

LONDON (CP) — Britain's latest controversy over race has opened splits in the opposition Conservative party and brought renewed warnings of possible tensions ahead in Britain's increasingly mixed society.

A bombshell prediction of racial catastrophe, made in a weekend attack on current immigration policies by Conservative Enoch Powell, provoked party leader Edward Heath into expelling Powell from the opposition "shadow" cabinet.

Powell was the member of the shadow cabinet for defence and would have taken command of that ministry if the Conservatives ousted the Labor government. Reginald Maudling, the deputy party leader, took over Powell's defence duties while Sir Alec Douglas-Home assumed Powell's brief for Commonwealth affairs.

Other right-wing Tories denounced Powell's firing. One, John Jennings, called it "a tragedy."

Heath, however, reiterated grave doubts about a new bill aimed by the government at prohibiting racial discrimination in such fields as housing, jobs and membership and services.

Debate on the measure starts Tuesday and opposition—to some details of its provisions if not to its principle—seems to extend beyond Conservative ranks.

Condemnation of Powell came from representatives of the country's 1,000,000 colored immigrants, with Labor spokesmen vigorously joining in.

At least two Conservative newspapers today criticize Powell for the alleged extremism of his Saturday speech at ethnically-mixed Birmingham. Another loudly defends what it calls his right to speak out.

Heath in a Sunday night statement labelled Powell's address "racialist in tone and liable to exacerbate racial tensions.

"This is unacceptable from one of the leaders of the Conservative party and incompatible with the responsibility of a member of the shadow cabinet," the party chief added.

Political writers considered Powell's speech a challenge to the more moderate Heath's leadership, forcing the party chief to take strong action or abdicate to the Tory right wing. The Times said Heath acted "to demonstrate beyond doubt that he dissociates himself and the Tory party from racialism."

Powell represents part of Wolverhampton, a racially-mixed Midlands city where last February he delivered a storm-raising attack on what then was the free flow of Asian settlers to Britain from East Africa.

The flow later was cut through government-sponsored legislation and Powell insists that now, as in February, he only speaks for thousands of white Britons.

In his speech he said Britain should bar further colored immigrants and pay those now here to return to their native lands. The speech was peppered with such volatile remarks as "colored immigration is "a match on gunpowder" and rivers of blood will eventually flow.

McCarthy Wants Rusk Replaced by Mansfield

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Eugene J. McCarthy says State Secretary Dean Rusk should be fired because any acceptable replacement would be Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

The Democratic presidential candidate also said Sunday in a television interview that Director J. Edgar Hoover controls the FBI as a "kind of fief" and should be retired.

Turning to Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon, McCarthy said it was the "old Nixon" who accused Democrats of dishonesty by promising massive and immediate programs to aid the poor.

Nixon Saturday had called promises of massive anti-poverty spending a "dishonest an cruel delusion" and said he would rather lose the election than join in making such promises.

Nixon urged President Johnson Sunday to immediately cut the federal budget by at least $8,000,000,000 to ward off inflation which he said threatens Americans' savings and the international monetary system.

"The United States is today hurtling down a path toward the worst economic crisis of the post war era," the former vice-president said in Cheyenne, Wyo.

Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey is quoted by Newsweek magazine as saying Nixon will be harder to beat this year than in 1960 but that "if I get the nomination, I'll beat him."

Toronto Man Saves Boy From Florida Sharks

RIVIERA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A 10-year-old boy, whose bleeding body was snatched from the jaws of three sharks by a Toronto tourist Thomas Fletcher, 35, and two young surfers, Sunday was reported in "poor to critical" condition.

Hospital officials said the killer fish seriously slashed the left arm, both legs and the lower back of Steven Samples Saturday.

Milton Samples said he was on the beach when his son screamed: "Daddy! Sharks!"

"He never panicked," Samples said. "He had teeth marks on his left hand where he had hit a shark with his fist and he was still fighting when this man Fletcher got to him."

Officials said Fletcher reached the thrashing boy first and was quickly joined by surfer Paul Mulack, 21, and Doubles Brewster, 19, both of Bay Shore, N.Y

Industrial Brochure Suggested

The Hastings county industrial committee feels that a study of the county's assets and publication of an industrial brochure, could help in attracting industry.

Committee chairman, Hungerford Reeve R. C. Graham told council last week that his committee felt such a survey was important if the county was to attract industry.

"We have to be in a position to tell industry what we have to offer," he said.

Mr. Graham was unable to say what such a study might cost, but urged provision be made in the budget in case a professional firm was hired to do the work. He said that ARDA had been approached in an attempt to solicit financial assistance for such a study.

Committee Will Hold Series Of Meetings

The Hastings county council ARDA committee (Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act) is planning a series of meetings throughout the county to inform the public just what advantages are available under the program.

The first of the public meetings will be held in Actinolite Friday, April 26. The meeting gets underway at 8:00 p.m.

The chairman of the county ARDA committee is Marmora and Lake township reeve John Wilkes, with reeves Kenneth Smith, Belmont Card, Frank Pevver, Edward Cunningham, S. J. Carr and Warden Calvin White as members.

ARDA grants of up to 90 per cent and more are available for a wide range of projects in rural areas.

Animal Park Not Feasible At This Time

Should Belleville have an animal park or zoo?

At least one Belleville resident feels it should and has suggested in a letter to the city parks board that something be done about it.

The letter suggesting the setting up of an animal park was from Mr. D. Kellar, 804 Front Street.

Parks board members considered the animal park proposal at its regular meeting last week but decided such a project was not within the financial capabilities of the board at this time.

The Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, APRIL 22, 1968

The man put it this way:- "The Montreal Canadiens cocoon of the first half of the National Hockey League schedule has burst forth into the brilliant butterfly of the second, and will sweep home in winged glory perched on the silver of the Stanley Cup."

That may sound like a habitant blippy emerging from a "cocoon" with all his pocsy, but swelp me, I'm beginning to think the guy has something, at that.

His five o'clock shadow descended on a spiked point just south of his chin. He exuded a slight aroma of the grape but his eyes were clear and his diction perfect.

There was a gleam of merriment in his eyes. "These fruiticome frogs of the Forum (no offence meant) remind me of that awesome baseball team at 1927, the New York Yankees, of which the famous Casey Stengel once said, "Don't worry, buster, there just ain't nuthin' around that can beat 'em".

"The Habs," he said, "caught fire in the second half and roared unabated through to the league championship. In that Hab-versus-the-Rob series the fire department of the Boston Bruins met the biggest blaze of the season and were hosed into ashes after four trips to the execution block."

Meanwhile on the other side of the two-tinged playoffs circus, the Chicago Black Hawks in a fierce spasm of resurrection, spotted the high-flying New York Rangers a pair, then catapulted back to send the Broadway Blues home to a silent, disappointed Great White Way with four straight defeats hanging on their tails.

"That is exactly the position the Black Hawks find themselves in at the moment", he said. "They blew into Montreal and hoped to meet a rich ham who was cooled off with a week's rest. Instead they met Hurricane Habitant which had lost nothing of its wind velocity, and were promptly blown to the four winds in the first game as nine thunderbolts found the target."

Again on Saturday night the Hawks failed to supply an antidote for the virus of the Canadiens accurate passing and hard shooting and were walloped 4-1 mainly through the target shooting wizardry of one Jean Beliveau.

"I was in Montreal for the second game" the man said "and did a spot of tavern-hopping after the Canadiens victory. The bottles and bistros rang with the tassle to Le Cros Bill. And I imagine Quebec City didn't exactly resemble a country churchyard."

And now it's back to Chicago where for the second time in the playoffs a slight gloom has descended over the Windy City faithful.

But hope dies hard in the hearts of the Chicago hockey fans. They're looking for the second resurrection of their beloved Hawks and some 20,000 of 'em will rafter-choke the Stadium on Tuesday night for the third tussle. The teams go at it again on Thursday night.

I asked my spike-chinned friend his opinion as to the eventual outcome.

"I always thought" he said "even when the Canadiens were in those first-half doldrums, that they had everything necessary to win the Stanley Cup. It was, and has since been proved, merely lying dormant. Toe Blake started to pull out the potential in the second half, and whether accidental or not his timing was perfect."

"Now, that potential is in full bloom. Passing, shooting, scoring, goal-keeping and most outstanding, the ability to kill penalties. If they can maintain their stride I can see them coming out of Chicago early Friday morning whetting their scythes for the winners of the Minnesota North Stars - St. Louis Blues hassle."

"And if they do, that gentleman in your news room, who in a moment of facetious prediction said the Canadiens would take the Stanley Cup in twelve straight, will be sorry he didn't grab the 100-5 odds."

Three And One

"Could Be Better"

Beliveau Barrage Shot Down Hawks

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean Beliveau ripped off a strip of adhesive tape that held his pads in place for 60 hard-hitting minutes and confessed that maybe he "could have been better."

But Beliveau, fresh from leading Montreal Canadiens to a 4-1 win over Chicago Black Hawks Saturday, allowed that, "I try as well as I can."

The six-foot-three centre scored three goals and had an assist in the second game of the eastern Stanley Cup semi-final.

JEAN BELIVEAU

The victory gave the National Hockey League champions a 2-0 lead going into the third game Tuesday night in Chicago in the best-of-seven series.

In the Canadiens' dressing room later, Beliveau said:

"Maybe I could have been a better hockey player. If I am not as good as some people think I could be, then maybe I have weaknesses. I go out and do the best job I am capable of in each game. Nobody can ask any more of any man."

He was referring to critics who have claimed during his outstanding 17-year NHL career that he could have been better — the greatest player of all time.

Beliveau's three-goal performance was his first in 124 post-season games and made him the second-highest playoff goalgetter with 67, two more than Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings. Former Montreal teammate Rocket Richard scored 82 playoff goals for the all-time record.

Beliveau also assisted on a goal by rookie Jacques Lemaire Saturday night but his four points were not enough to catch Stan Mikita of Chicago, who has 10 points in this season's playoffs.

The 36-year-old Montreal team captain has nine points on six goals and three assists while Mikita, who got Chicago's goal Saturday, has four goals and six assists.

Saturday's game was full of the fury of playoff hockey with Beliveau crashing to the ice before his shot entered the Chicago net on at least two occasions.

Chicago opened the scoring in the first period with Mikita tipping a rebound from Doug Mohns past goaltender Gump Worsley 40 seconds after Montreal defenceman Jacques Laperriere was sent to the penalty box for charging.

Beliveau then elbowed and clawed his way through a scramble in front of the Chicago net and outmuscled a Black Hawk defender to jam a puck past Chicago goaltender Denis DeJordy some eight minutes later.

The teams went into the second period tied 1-1 but Beliveau scored on the first Montreal power play at 3:21.

The concensus among hockey fans is that coach Billy Reay of Chicago five minutes later lost any hope the Hawks held of squaring the series.

Laperriere and Mohns tangled behind the Montreal goal and Reay later accused John Ferguson of going after and delivering at least two punches at the Chicago forward's head.

"Ferguson knew he got a penalty himself," Reay said. "He (Ferguson) even skated to the penalty box."

Referee John Ashley assessed penalties a gainst Laperriere and Mohns, but refused to give Ferguson time off for bad behavior. Reay then refused to send his club out for a faceoff.

Ashley gave Reay a bench penalty which was served by Paul Terbenche and left the Hawks with four players on the ice, one less than Montreal. Lemaire deflected Beliveau's shot from the blueline past DeJordy while Montreal still had the man advantage.

Reay continued to bicker with Ashley and was given another bench penalty at 17:06. Beliveau scored to give Montreal a 4-1 margin just 49 seconds later.

T. Of C. Golf

January; Whew, It Was Close!

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Jean Beliveau breezed to victory in the $150,000 Tournament of Champions golf tournament Sunday and then discovered it wasn't so easy after all.

The current national PGA champion finished his second straight 69 Sunday, two strokes under par, for a 72-hole tournament course record of 276, eight under par.

But it wasn't until after he parred the last two holes that Borna had missed catching him by only one stroke and one roll of the ball with a sizzling finalround 66 for 277.

"I didn't know what Moose was doing," January confessed later. "I was a little upset that I didn't know he was so close."

It could have been even closer —a tie or even defeat for January. On the final hole Borna faced a 45-foot chip for an eagle three which at that stage would have tied him with January, playing two holes behind.

The ball stopped an inch or so from the hole and Borns got the birdie.

Young Randy Glover finished with a 68 for 279 and $12,000, while the sentimental favorite of many, Bob Goalby, after a disappointing 75, tied with Gardner Dickinson, 69, at 280.

Goalby, who a week before had captured the famed Masters, led January by one stroke entering the round.

George Knudson of Toronto tied for 11th place with Miller Barber with a 290 total and won $2,975.

McBean It's Hero

Pirate Power Picks Its Pitcher

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

This is the tale of two pitchers and their adventures with that tricky intangible called Pirate Power.

Pittsburgh's Al McBean wears by far the most billing of the Pirates which has helped him to a 3-0 record this season. Team-mate Bob Veale isn't sure the players use the same bats when he's pitching.

Veale has 10 more runs with which to occupy himself Sunday and shut out San Francisco 10-0. That's 25 runs in 27 innings that the Pirates have given McBean to work with this season—22 more than Veale, 0-2, has had.

The Pirates got 13 runs for McBean in his last start and went to work early for him Sunday, scoring seven times in the fourth inning. Meanwhile Veale, shut out 1-0 by the Giants Saturday and recipient of three runs in 27 2-3 innings this season, watched enviously.

In other National League games, Philadelphia Phillies pounded Houston Astros 8-0, Atlanta Braves whipped Cincinnati Reds 3-2, St. Louis Cardinals battered Chicago Cubs 9-2 and Los Angeles Dodgers swept a doubleheader from New York Mets 7-6 and 3-2.

Saturday, Ferguson Jenkins, the strong-armed Chatham, Ont., native who became the first Canadian in half a century to win 20 games in major league baseball last year, picked up his second win of the new season as the Cubs whipped St. Louis Cardinals 5-1.

In other Saturday games, New York Mets beat Los Angeles 3-1, Philadelphia Phillies clobbered Houston Astros 7-1 and Cincinnati Reds edged Atlanta Braves 2-1.

Atlanta's Aaron brothers—Hank and Tommie—wrecked Cincinnati Sunday. Hank smacked three hits including his fourth home run and drove in two runs and Tommie drove in three runs with a pair of singles.

Playoff Scoring Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jean Beliveau did everything but sweep out the Montreal Forum Saturday night, but he still couldn't catch Stan Mikita in the National Hockey League playoff scoring race.

Beliveau scored three goals and one assist for Montreal as Canadiens downed Chicago Black Hawks 4-1, boosting his scoring total to nine points after six games.

But Mikita scored the Black Hawks' only goal and held onto first place by one point. Mikita now has four goals and six assists for 10 points compared to Beliveau's six goals and three assists.

There's a three-way traffic jam for third place with Bobby Hull of the Hawks, veteran Dickie Moore of St. Louis Blues and Wayne Connelly of Minnesota North Stars each posting eight playoff points.

Connelly has the most goals, however, and shares the scoring lead with Beliveau. Each has six.

Hull has two goals and six assists while Moore has three goals and five assists.

Ten players follow the first five with seven points apiece.

MAYOR SCOTT

Brundage Bows To Recommendation South Africa Be Banned

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — South Africa, whose readmission to the Olympic Games touched off a world-wide controversy, today is on the verge of exclusion from the summer games in Mexico City.

The executive board of the International Olympic Committee, meeting in an emergency session, bowed to enormous pressures Sunday and recommended that South Africa be banned from the Games.

The unanimous recommendation of the nine-man board, announced by a sorrowful Avery Brundage, went to the 71 members of the IOC for their action in a postal vote. It is almost certain that the full IOC will approve the board's recommendation.

Brundage, 80-year-old American president of the IOC, said that if a minimum of 36 members reject the recommendation then South Africa still could be invited to participate in Mexico next October.

But IOC officials said this is highly unlikely. They said that since the executive board was unanimous in "strongly recommending" members not to invite South Africa, it virtually banned South Africa from the Games.

But they conceded that, technically, it is remotely possible that a majority could reject the recommendation.

Brundage indicated that the board's decision was influenced by racial riots in the United States following the assassination of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King.

Brundage said the meeting took into account "the violent disorders of the past 60 days throughout the world."

But this seemed a loophole through which the IOC was able to preserve the unity of the the Mexico Games.

There seemed little doubt that the IOC's hand was forced by the threat of a large-scale boycott by about 40 nations, including the Soviet Union, if South Africa was allowed to compete.

South Africa, which has a national racial policy of apartheid, was banned from the 1964 Games in Tokyo. But when South Africa promised to field an integrated team in Mexico City, a postal vote was taken on the question of re-admission.

It was announced in Grenoble, France, in February, that a majority favored re-admission.

Black African nations protested immediately on the grounds that while South Africa's team may be integrated, segregation still exists in South Africa as a national policy.

As the boycott threat grew stronger the IOC called the emergency session during the weekend culminating in a non-stop 10-hour session of the executive board Sunday.

In Johannesburg, Frank Braun, president of the South Africa Olympic Committee, called the board's recommendation "a shocking miscarriage of justice," and said South Africa's chances of winning the postal vote were not good.

Well-informed sources within the IOC said the decision was personally instigated by Brundage as he realized there was a serious threat to the future of the modern Olympic Games.

"He had the choice of either shooting himself or taking arsenic," one source said.

Brundage denied rumors that he plans to resign as a result of the action taken by the executive board. He was on record as saying that the Grenoble vote was a legal and democratic one which could not be reversed.

Sandra Calls Own Penalty

ATLANTA (AP) — Carol Mann won the Lady Carling golf tournament by 10 shots Sunday, firing a closing 68 for a 36-hole total of 200 strokes, 16 under par.

The total equalled the all-time 54-hole record op the women's tour. A 15-foot putt on the 18th hole that would have broken the mark narrowly missed the cup.

The $1,500 payoff was Miss Mann's first victory cheque in nine months.

Sandra Post of Oakville, Ont., Sunday shot a 68, four under par, and could have done even better except for a penalty.

Miss Post, 19, called the penalty on herself on the 18th hole when her caddy accidentally tested the green illegally.

Police Probe Minor Player's Death

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — The death of a 16-year-old hockey player, the second to die in New Brunswick this year, was under RCMP investigation today.

Eric Graves of Dartmouth, N.S., died in hospital here early Sunday several hours after he was injured in a juvenile tournament game between teams from Shearwater, N.S. and Newcastle, N.B.

A Newcastle player was given a five-minute major penalty for slashing after referee Sonny Mifsud said he turned and saw Graves falling, holding his head in his hand with an opponent's stick in the air.

Tournament officials said the incident was under police investigation and the penalized player's name would not be disclosed at this time.

Graves, a right winger, was wearing a protective helmet in the game as was 16-year-old Ronald Ryan of Newcastle Creek, N.B., who died Feb. 2 after falling in a pickup game in Minto, N.B.

Ryan's death came a few days after Bill Masterton of Minnesota North Stars of the National Hockey League died after he fell and struck his head on the ice. He was not wearing a helmet.

Referee Mifsud said he did not see the incident Saturday night in the game at Oromocto, N.B. He said the puck had been cleared out of the area and he was following it. When he looked back, he saw Graves falling to the ice. Mifsud said he stopped play and assessed the major penalty.

He said Graves got to his feet and skated to the players' bench where he sat for several minutes before complaining that he didn't feel well.

He was taken to hospital in Oromocto and later transferred to hospital here, where he died at about 4 a.m.

Sunbury County Coroner Norman Pearson said an autopsy showed the death was caused by a fractured skull and brain hemorrhaging. He said no decision had been made on an inquest.

Chuvalo Meets Seattle Boxer

SEATTLE (AP) — Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo and Bill Schelhas of Seattle will be featured in a boxing card in Penticton, B.C., June 20.

George Chemeres, Schelhas' manager, said Saturday,he had signed a contract for the young heavyweight to meet a Canadian challenger in one 10-round event.

Oilers Nip Fort Worth

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Doug Barrie's 60-foot slapshot at 1:13 of the overtime period gave Tulsa Oilers a 2-1 victory over Fort Worth Wings Saturday night and gave the Oilers a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven final series of the Central Hockey League playoffs.

Junior 'A'

Goalie Sparks Flyers' Win

KITCHENER (CP) — The powerful Kitchener Rangers may have been laughing Sunday night when rookie goaltender Dave Tataryn laced on the pads for Niagara Falls Flyers in their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A final series.

But Tataryn, who played only 4½ games during the regular season, had the last laugh as he played outstanding hockey to lead the Flyers to an 8-5 win and tie their best-of-seven series at two games each and one game tied.

The rookie goaltender replaced the injured Phil Myre midway in the first period and blocked 21 of 34 shots. Myre, who cut his ear on the goalpost during a scramble, gave up two goals—both to Kitchener captain Walt Tkaczuk.

The sixth game will be played in Niagara Falls on Tuesday night with the seventh here Thursday.

Don Tannahill and Steve Atkinson each score two goals for Niagara Falls. Doug Brindley, Phil Roberto, Gerry Swain and Tom Webster got the others.

Tkaczuk and John Barber each had two goals for the Rangers. Bill Orr scored the fifth in the final minute of the game.

The winner of the series meets either Verdun Maple Leafs or Cornwall Royals for the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup title. Verdun leads that best-of-seven series 3-0.

Eastern Allan Cup

Marlies Face Elimination!

TORONTO (CP) — The lure of the ponies at Greenwood race track has pushed Toronto Marlboros one game away from elimination in the best-of-seven eastern Allan Cup final.

Claude Hardy, regular goaltender for the visiting Victoriaville, Que. Tigers, went to the track shortly after his team arrived here. As a result, backup netminder Andy Payette took over in goal for Sunday's third game of the eastern senior hockey final.

It was Payette who made the difference as the Tigers scored three unanswered goals in the third period to defeat Marlies 4-1 and take a 3-0 lead in the series.

The fourth game will be played here tonight.

Payette was not especially busy in the first two periods but he did stop Earl Balfour and Mike Draper, who came in on back-to-back breakaways. Earlier Payette robbed Balfour on two clear-cut shots.

Payette, a 20-year-old former pro, was one of three players picked up by Victoriaville from St. Hyacinthe, Que. He made 20 saves in the third period and stopped 46 in all while Toronto goalie Gerry McNamara was tested on 18.

With The Trotters

CAMPBELLVILLE, Ont. (CP) — A crowd of 6,638 Saturday night saw Armbro Gambol, driven by Ken Gabrielli of Chesley, Ont., win the $6,855 Milton Stakes at the final night of spring harness racing season at Mohawk Raceway.

Sharon Dolly, from Dr. Frank Dave's St. Catharines stable, finished second and Viola Walker's Kenland Lass drove in third.

Blaze Pick paced the fastest mile of the meet in the sixth for Russell and Jean Miller of Duton, Ont. The four-year-old Chestnut, voted Canada's two and three-year-old Pacer of the Year, finished the mile in 2:04 minutes.

Jack Kopas reined his Uncle Dares to a $4.30 win payoff in the second to complete a $22.20 daily double.

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP) — Mary Vi scored her first on her second trip of the season in the $4,000 Handicap Pace at Batavia Downs Saturday night, winning by a nose in 2:05.1 over Captain Norris while Chanceway Royal was third.

No Doubt, owned by Christopher Locking and Clarence Wiskin of Kingston, Ont., won the sixth, a $1,100 pace, with Eldon Turcotte driving.

Canadian Pacer Out Of Classic

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Gerry Mir, a Canadian pacer, has been declared out of the $50,000 International Pace at Yonkers Raceway Thursday night.

Marcel Destile, trainer and driver of Gerry Mir, said Sunday he had told owner Adrien Miron of Deux Montagnes, Que. the horse "just wasn't good enough at this time" for the testing 1¼ mile race.

The withdrawal left the field at eight. Song Cycle, Best Story and Adios Vic will represent the United States; Cardigan Bay, Cardinal King and Southern Song will represent New Zealand; First Lee will represent Australia and Golden Blend, Canada. Golden Blend is owned by Nick DeAngelis of Montreal.

Cardigan Bay and Cardinal King will race as an entry since both are trained by Stanley Dancer.

Blues Blast Stars; Blair Blows Top Over Schedule Set-Up

WREN BLAIR

ST. LOUIS (CP) — Manager-coach Wren Blair figures his Minnesota North Stars lost more than a hockey game Sunday and he is hopping mad.

The North Stars went down 5-3 to St. Louis Blues in the first game of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final and Blair charged that the St. Louis brass took advantage of a scheduler problem to get five of the playoff games played in St. Louis.

"They've got us down and they're kicking us," said Blair after it was announced the second game will be played tonight in Bloomington, Minn., with the next three scheduled in St. Louis.

"It's not my idea of sportsmanship. They're trying to win with five games on their own ice.

"I've been in sports 20 years and I wouldn't want to win that way. There was nothing wrong with having four games in St. Louis, two games on our ice and one on neutral ice. They have kept throwing a monkey wrench into everything."

Blues were entitled to four home games in the series because they finished the regular season ahead of the North Stars. But the Minnesota home arena is booked for the game this week, forcing North Stars to ask for a change in its home dates.

The five home-game arrangement for St. Louis was worked out by Walter Bush Jr., president of the North Stars, and Sid Salomon III, executive-vice-president of the Blues.

Meanwhile Sunday, coach Scotty Bowman of St. Louis wasn't too happy with his players after the victory.

"We had a bad first period," Bowman said.

"Some of our players thought they were Montreal Canadiens. They figured all they had to do was throw their sticks on the ice to win. But they learned fast."

St. Louis got goals from Tim Ecclestone, Frank St. Marseille, Dickie Moore, Bill McCreary and Larry Keenan after a loose first period ended in a 1-1 tie. Each goal drew screaming delight from 11,117 home fans.

Wayne Connelly scored two goals for Minnesota and Milan Marcetta the other.

Left winger Dave Balon of Minnesota was hit by a shot on the right wrist and was taken to hospital after the game for x-rays. Bill Collins could also be a doubtful starter tonight after suffering a deep cut on his right elbow.

Marcetta and Ecclestone scored in the first period for a 1-1 tie.

Connelly put the North Stars ahead 2-1 with 49 seconds gone in the second period before St. Louis rapped in three goals in as many shots in three minutes.

With Collins and defenseman Bob McCord off for Minnesota, St. Marseille and Moore scored for St. Louis at 9:31 and 10:05. McCreary counted his second playoff goal, by sidestepping Minnesota defenceman Mike McMahon and putting a low shot past goaltender Cesare Maniago.

Connelly completed scoring in the period with his second goal of the game at 15:45 with St. Louis defenceman Al Arbour was serving an interference penalty.

Keenan batted in a waist-high pass late in the final period to close the St. Louis scoring.

Maniago stopped 27 shots, 13 of them in the third period. Glenn Hall, who had ample protection after Blues settled down in second period, blocked 26 for St. Louis.

GLENN HALL

Oldtimers Hockey

"Ole Red" Was Top Star!

TORONTO (CP) — Charlie Conacher, who once held a team-mate out a hotel room window by the heels to win an argument, would have loved the affair.

It was billed as a benefit game for the Canadian Cancer Fund and featured National Hockey League old-time stars of the Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens.

There were no speeches, just hockey and hilarity from the moment the widow of the big Maple Leaf winger faced off the first puck Sunday night.

When it was over, the scoreboard said 5-1 for Toronto and referee Red Storey—himself a member of the Hall of Fame —had been chosen first star of the game and the 8,000 fans loved it.

He laid down the rules early —"no slapshots, no bodychecking and one-minute penalties only."

Things went along fairly normal through much of the first period—Ed Smith came up on the right wing with Howie Meeker and Gus Mortson to backhand one behind Montreal goalie Jerry McNeil at 9:22. Less than four minutes later Rocket Richard fisticuffed after a passing attack with Ken Reardon as Elmer Lach hit the short side behind goalie Johnny Bower.

Bower had taken over from a puffing Turk Broda.

Then, at 15:34, Max Bentley took a penalty for slapshooting and the gags began.

The second period had barely begun when Harry Watson put Toronto ahead 3-1.

Bower was penalized for holding and Wally Stanowski, coming out to serve it, fell while executing a single Salchow 4t centre ice. Richard bounced a high drive off Storey and got a penalty for being color-blind.

Jack Hamilton of Toronto was slapped on the wrist for holding linesman Robb Wadell's pants at face-off.

Gus Bodnar made it 3-1 for Toronto at 17:06 when he beat Denis Brodeur in the Canadiens' net.

Brian Cullen and Watson finished off the scoring in the third period—almost.

Bill Mosienko, who never appeared in danger of beating his NHL scoring record of three goals in 21 seconds, had a goal disallowed when the puck was found to be high by a length of cord to his stick blade.

"He was stringing us along," the public address announcer reported.

Ivan Walmsley took over in the Toronto goal and stopped everything until the last minute when he, after 30-man Montreal bench—and man firing at least two pucks—came over the boards at him.

By that time, everything was anarchy.

Skip Burchell roared in on Walmsley and the goalie kissed him on the cheek.

Storey was given a one-minute penalty for giving linesmen for delaying the game.

King Clancy was penalized by Storey for "having a short memory" and threw a bucket of water at the referee.

Cal Gardner got half a minute for holding and half a minute for hiding.

Elmer Lach fell and, when he was slow to rise, was given a penalty for "melting the ice."

Jimmy Orlando wrestled Tod Sloan to the ice in front of the Montreal goal and the referee helped Orlando to his feet. He protested a penalty and Storey flipped him for it —and lost.

There is word this may become an annual event.

Archers Tops In Cornwall

Belleville archers batted 1,000 while competing in the Seaway Valley Archers' shoot, in Cornwall, on the weekend.

Three competitors from the Belleville Archery Club took part and captured as many firsts.

Royce Dostator took top honors in the men's freestyle event with a high score of 272.

Not to be outdone by hubby, Leola Dostator brought home the women's freestyle honors with a score of 254.

And John Widdicks made it a clean sweep, in the men's barebow competition with a first-place score of 225.

Approximately 40 archers, from Seaway Valley and Eastern Ontario centres, took part.

Outdoor Tips And Tracks

By BOB BLAIND

Fishing has been fairly good the past couple of weeks and outdoor activities are reaching a peak.

Next weekend many area fishermen will be taking their first trip into Algonquin Park for a weekend of speck and lake trout fishing.

Big Bob Taylor and gang have everything planned for another long trek and Bob usually is able to bring home his count of good fish.

Larry Meagher and little Bob Taylor and crew, who had such a successful trip last opener are reserving space for an 8 or 9 pound speck.

These fellows claim they know where they sat and slept and if old age has not taken its toll of giant speckles should bring home their count.

Les Weagant, Frank Donovan and the boys are also planning a bang up trip to the park.

All of these fishermen work real hard to find these fish and travel many miles up lakes, over many portages, lugging at least 60 lbs. on each back as carrying boats is banned miles over rough trails.

Tents are usually a piece of poly over a rope making a lean-to and at this time of the year nights are plenty cold usually below freezing. So if you are a real tenderfoot better wait for warmer weather and drive not walk to a favorite lake where you can back your fully loaded boat into the water.

Muskrats are really on the bite in the Quinte area and any evening from about 7 o'clock on, favorite haunts such as Corbyville, the pump house cove or the harbor off Victoria Park there is standing room only at the hot spots.

Several good catches of brook trout have been taken at Parks, Rawden and Squires Creeks mostly on worms.

The smelt have just about finished their run in the Moira and are now starting at the lake.

Rainbow fishing opens April 21st in Shelter Valley area and the creeks are really low. Many nice trout are "trapped" in Grafton area and it should be like fishing in a barrel for some fishermen.

Pike and pickerel season opens in the Bay of Quinte and Prince Edward County on May 4th and north of No. 2 Highway on May 7th. Better be ready.

Sarnia Junior B Champions

TORONTO (CP) — Sarnia Legionnaires captured the OHA Junior B championship in four straight games with a 7-2 victory over Markham Sunday afternoon.

Sarnia went into a 4-0 lead at the end of the first period and then led 6-1 at the end of the second.

Sarnia scorers were Cavan Simpson with two and Don Gordon, Steve Stefanyk, Tom Douglas, Brian Skinner and Len Fontaine.

Scoring for Markham were Rick Kessell and Brent Swanick.

This is the fifth OHA Junior B championship for Sarnia since the 1951-52 season.

About 1,800 fans watched the Sarnia team win the OHA Junior B trophy.

Cornwall Trails Verdun 3-0

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — Verdun Maple Leafs Sunday took a stranglehold 3-0 lead in their eastern Memorial Cup semi-final with a convincing 7-4 victory over the injury-hit Cornwall Royals.

Fourth game in the best-of-seven series will be played here tonight with a fifth, if necessary, Wednesday—all in Cornwall.

For the Leafs, one more win will put them in the Canadian Canada junior finals against either Kitcher Rangers or Niagara Falls Flyers, tied at five points each in their struggle to advance along the Memorial Cup trail.

Versalles walked and scored again in the Dodgers 3-2 victory in the nightcap.

Proof Wins California Rich Derby

NEW YORK (AP) — Proper Proof raced to victory Saturday in the $118,700 California Derby at Golden Gate Fields track in Albany, Calif., and qualified for the Kentucky Derby.

Don B. Bo-B-Good, never seriously threatened but nipped Traffic Beat for second by two lengths.

Proper Proof paid $9.40, $3 and $2.20. Don B. $2.40 and $2.20, and Traffic Beat, a 45-to-1 shot, $5.80.

Time for the 1¼ miles was 1:48.1.

It was only the second stakes victory for Proper Proof owned by Mrs. Montgomery R. Fisher of Los Angeles and trained by J. L. Mosbacher.

At New York, Dancer's Image overtook Iron Ruler just inside the sixteenth pole and then survived a foul claim to win the $113,500 Wood Memorial at Aqueduct.

Nine Wins In Row

Torrid Tigers Trample Chisox Twice

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mayo Smith learned to take his winning and losing streaks in stride 13 years ago. Eddie Stanky is still learning—the hard way.

Smith's torrid Detroit Tigers ran their winning string to nine games Sunday with a 4-1, 4-2 doubleheader sweep over Stanky's frigid Chicago White Sox, who are still looking for their first 1968 victory over nine straight setbacks.

Streaks are nothing new to Smith. He managed the 1955 Philadelphia Phillies, who broke a 13-game losing skein by yanking off 1 victories in succession.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Minnesota Twins downed New York Yankees 5-2, Baltimore Orioles slugged California Angels 11-4, Cleveland Indians whipped Boston Red Sox 7-0 and Washington Senators downed Oakland, Athletics 3-0.

Right-handers Earl Wilson, and Denny McLain breezed to complete-game victories for the Tigers, who lost their season opener before streaking to the top of the American League standings. Wilson pitched a five-hitter in the opener and McLain scattered seven hits in the second game.

Pete Ward accounted for the White Sox' runs with bases-empty homer in the first game and a two-run ninth inning blast in the nightcap. Chicago third baseman connected a costly error in each game however, as Detroit rapped for six unearned runs in the doubleheader.

Tony Oliva broke an 0-for-slump with a tie-breaking fifth run homer in the fifth inning leading the Twins past the Yankees, who had won three straight; Rod Carew laced for Twins for the Twins and right-fielder Dave Boswell picked up a second victory in three decisions with relief help from Worthington. Losing pitcher Fred Talbot homered for New York.

Totems Nip Buckaroos

SEATTLE (AP) — Veteran Gayle Fielder, the Western Hockey League's all-time scorer, fired in a 10-foot rebound with six minutes gone in overtime Saturday night to cap a fantastic Seattle comeback that gave the Totems a 7-6 win over Portland Buckaroos.

122 Lose Lives

$700,000 in Diamonds Missing In South African Jet Crash

WINDHOEK (AP) — A $700,000 shipment of diamonds was missing today in the wreckage of a South African jetliner that crashed Saturday night in South-West Africa, killing 122 persons.

Sixper sons survived the crash, including American diplomatic courier Thomas Taylor. The U.S. diplomatic pouches he took aboard in Johannesburg, South Africa, were recovered from the wreckage Sunday.

South African Airways' newest Boeing 707 had just taken off from Windhoek, first leg of two stops on a flight from Johannesburg to London, when it began to wobble and plummeted out of sight. Watchers at the airport heard a crash and saw flames spurt into the sky.

Rescuers said they found Taylor beside the wreckage and he told them: "Don't worry about me. See the others." Taylor, 30, was reported in good condition. Rescue teams had difficulty crossing the rough, roadless terrain to the site, about 25 miles from the airport. The plane had broken into four large pieces.

Police corralled off a wide area for the search for the diamond shipment, reported bound from Johannesburg to London and for Japanese diplomatic pouches also reported aboard the plane.

The crash of the Boeing 707 delivered from the United States last month ago was among the most costly in lives in aviation history.

It came just a year after a chartered Swiss plane crashed at Nicosia, Cyprus, killing 126 persons. In the worst single-plane crash ever, 133 persons were killed in February, 1960, when a Japanese jetliner plunged into Tokyo Bay.

Boeing investigators will make an on-the-spot appraisal of wreckage.

All the bodies, many mutilated and burned, were recovered and taken to an improvised mortuary at Windhoek airport.

Cape Breton's Economy Shows Signs of Rebound

SYDNEY (CP) — The Cape Breton economy, staggered on Black Friday six months ago, is showing promising signs of rebounding.

Economic watchdogs in the area are cautioning that there is certain to be rough going ahead — but there's guarded optimism following the recent development:

—A change in ownership of coke-making facilities at the steel mill here, assuring a major new market for Cape Breton coal—still the biggest employer in the area;

—Significant successes by the steel mill's salesmen who have cracked markets never reached in the 87-year history of steel-making in this city of 34,000.

—Completion within three years, of a $55,000,000 oil refinery at the Strait of Canso, the promising new industrial area 25 miles from the traditional steel-and-coal belt.

These developments follow government take-over from Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. of the steel mill and the four major coal mines in the area, start-up of production at the Canadian Motor Industries Ltd auto-assembly plant at nearby Point Edward and at the electronics component factory of General Instrument of Canada Ltd. here.

Cape Bretoners refer to last Oct. 13 as Black Friday—the day Ottawa announced the Sydney mill was uneconomic and would be closed by April 30. A special 1 p.m. Saturday session cleared the way for government involvement in steel-making.

The steel mill is being operated by a provincial corporation —Sydney Steel Corp.—while the coal mines are under the wing of a federal-provincial organization, the Cape Breton Development Corp. (Devco).

The two government agencies got together on the coke-ovens deal, which has been recommended by executives of both the steel and coal unions in the area.

The deal has a double-barreled effect: The $4,000,000 Devco paid Sydney Steel for the coke facilities will be available for needed plant improvements, and there will be a market for about 500,000 tons of Cape Dosco officials argued that Cape Breton coal was too high in sulphur content for satisfactory coke-making and they imported U.S. coal—500,000 tons last year to only about 125,000 tons from the nearby mines.

The new operators are confident that Cape Breton coal will produce first grade coke.

With brevity which has marked Sydney Steel announcements, the corporation disclosed last week that it had won a 50,000-ton order for rails from the South Korean government railways.

Last month, the corporation closed a deal with Chilean railways for 20,000 tons of rails.

The oil refinery at the Strait of Canso, considered one of the best natural harbors in the world, will be built by British American Oil Co. Ltd. It will produce 60,000 barrels a day, with capacity for 30,000 more and with expansion plans already being considered.

Provincial governments experts consider it a potential cornerstone for a major petrochemical industry in the strait

Nova Scotia Expects Shuffle In Its Cabinet

HALIFAX (CP) — Premier G. I. Smith is expected to shuffle his 12-man cabinet within 20 days.

Observers expect several changes, the first since Mr. Smith was sworn in as premier Sept 13 following Robert Stanfield's election as national Conservative leader.

The premier, who became 38 earlier this month, expected to remove himself from the onerous portfolio of finance and economic minister which he held for six years under Mr. Stanfield and in the seven months since he became the province's 17th premier.

He is also chairman of the Power Commission.

Informants say Labor Minister Tom McKeough, now vacationing in Bermuda, has been offered the finance and economics post, but has not yet given his answer.

Camping and Emergency Accessories Are Listed

By RAY STAPLEY

A reader writes:

"The number of car accessories offered confuses me. Without spending a fortune, what do you consider a reliable emergency kit for summer trips? Also, what type of haul tools are practical for minor repairs on the road, and especially around the campsite?"

Few of us could afford all the devices, gadgets and accessories offered and even if we could our cars would end up resembling overdecorated Christmas trees. I'll list the tools and accessories that I find useful when camping.

Let's start with the equipment that comes with the car. Clean, lubricate and test the jack. Make sure there is a base plate for the jack and a dual purpose wrench to operate the jack and loosen the wheel nuts. Inflate and check the spare tire. Placing the spare and jack in last when loading the trunk avoids unpacking should the spare tire be needed. Don't forget a spare tire for the trailer if you are hauling one.

Safety items should include first aid kit, fire extinguisher, flashlight, windshield washers, safety belts, a reflector and a deal with the danger of aggressive stinging insects within the car or around the campsite. Booster battery cables should be kept in the car all year round. If for some reason your car's battery goes flat these cables can be hooked up to the battery of a friend or a passing motorist.

And remember, many cars equipped with automatic transmission cannot be push-started even if you do find a motorist who is willing to risk front end damage by shoving your car.

On long hauls I carry a sturdy 30 foot tow rope. While prolonged highway towing by amateurs is extremely dangerous, a tow rope can prove helpful to you or a fellow motorist if stranded in no-man's-land.

Rope is preferable as it offers a certain amount of stretch when slack is suddenly taken up by the towing vehicle and when jarred violently it will break. I have seen many instances when over-zealous use of a chain or steel cable has ripped off bumpers or damaged the undercarriage.

A minimum tool kit should include an all-purpose screwdriver set with blades to fit square, slot and slotted screws, a can of general purpose oil, a pair of pliers, vise-grips, an adjustable wrench, hammer, side-cutters, a set of open-end wrenches and a roll of electrician's tape.

Possibly $12 would buy this kit, and while for this amount of money the tools will not be top quality, they are suitable for odd emergencies with the car, outboard motor, lawn mower, campsite, summer cottage and home.

Mr. Stapley is a former garage operator who now specializes in automotive research.

Moderates Getting Squashed

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It is an absolute rule of history, and of social psychology, that whenever a conflict becomes more intense, each side becomes more polarized. And the people in the middle get squashed.

The present course of racial conflict in America is a dramatic, and alarming, example. As the Negro protest grows more militant reaction sets in — which, inturn, creates more Negro protest.

What happens then is that moderate Negroes become afraid to talk moderately for fear of being labeled "Uncle Toms" and moderate white are likewise threatened by the militant anti-Negroes among the white racists. Extremists on both sides get in the saddle and ride hard.

Much the same happens in international relations. When the cold war begins to heat up the temperature shrivels the moderates on both sides of the Iron Curtain. Those over here who think we can achieve a modus vivendi with the Russians are called "Commie sympathizers" and moderates in Russia who feel no good can come of a conflict are called "betrayers of the Revolution."

Moderates are made to feel "disloyal" to their group — although loyalty consisted of blind partisanship and passionate hatred. Actually, true loyalty to a cause means wanting and working for what is best, whether this best happens to be compromise or all-out conflict.

The polarization of opposites has always been the greatest peril faced by the humane race, and we can see it in the divorce courts just as plainly as in the slum streets of a city or the battlefield of nations.

A couple may enter a divorce meaning to be calm and just and moderate — but when the feelings get heated up, and property and children are involved, each side begins making accusations and hurling imprecations that, in the end, damage everybody, and the children most of all.

Getting back to the racial problem, it is my firm impression that most Negroes and most whites in America belong to the moderate camp, and that the real differences between these groups could be settled in a fair and peaceful way — if they were left alone to handle them.

But the angry racists on both sides make it hard for the moderates to be heard — and almost make it seem like "treason" to admit that the other side has some just complaints. As the tension increases, communications break down, each side withdraws to its own battlements, and the haters take over.

It was thus in ancient times, and it remains thus today. The millions of Americans in the middle, who want only a decent life for all people of good will, find before they know it that their "middle" is being led by men who bear only ill will toward all outsiders.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For April 23

Your birthday today: You face a wide open opportunity in your pursuit of dramatic self-expression. A new form of creative work or a new and more stylish job assignment is likely. You have a good chance to save money from the upheavals and revisions that come during the year ahead. Today's natives tend to be energetic, creative, and organize, usually on the side of law and order.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Your common sense or intuition should have led you past the traps of the last few days in good shape. If not, learn from them, and work as usual. Don't be dramatic about it.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): The search for more information is important today. Check out your facts diligently. Review your personal finances this evening. Retire early.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): If you have been considerate of the feelings of those around you lately, you will find some reward today in their solid support of you. Do something cheering for your mate tonight.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Your consistent efforts lately should have good results today at all levels of activities. It should be clear to your associates what your qualities and capabilities are.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Your mental efforts is normal, and all goes better. Brief yourself well on distant matters of interest, then pursue local matters vigorously. Relax at home early, celebrate quietly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Today has a healthier balance between work and play. There's plenty of both, and a good profit possible for the diligent. Put in a full day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Get good witnesses for every step of the way on all deals today. Share everything, including your income with mate. Seek agreement tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 — Nov. 21): Today can be very pleasant and constructive. It takes more effort to shirk your job than it would take to do it properly, so just pitch in and do it right.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): The idea you have today can be worth ten times what you earn. Work it out thoroughly, and plan your methods of exploiting it. Do moderate exercise routines this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 — Jan. 19): The doors are open for you today. Go right after what you want, but press during the day; satisfaction of personal needs this evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): If your system held up under recent pressures, continue along the same line. If not, get busy finding a better one. Take your time, not tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Improved earnings and savings are indicated. Be sure you give due credit, and hand your mate a good share. Conservative investment may be in order.

The Stars Were There

Broadway Proves It Still Has Glamor

NEW YORK (AP) — There's no doubt about it—the Broadway theatre has electricity and glamor that somehow motion pictures can't touch. It was evident Sunday in the Tony Award presentations on NBC.

This year, the second time the award show has been on network television, the program was expanded to 1½ hours. There were awards for writing, acting, music, choreography and a number of special awards. But the big items of the evening were the production of scenes from a series of hit musicals.

It started with an elaborate production number from Golden Rainbow, and moved on to a number from The Happy Time. There were short numbers from past Tony-winning shows which are still running, Fiddler on the Roof, Cabaret and Man of La Mancha.

Pearl Bailey and the company from the current Hello, Dolly! received a roaring welcome from the audience. There was a gay song-and-dance number from How Now Doe Jones.

It was a night when the producers really had to take refuge in the alphabet in handling the names of the participants. They ranged from Ann Bancroft to Joanne Woodward, but in between there came the names of just about every important star of the current Broadway stage.

Maurice Chevalier, on the eve of his 80th birthday, received a special award from Audrey Hepburn, and the theatre audience showed its affection for the man who has been entertaining the world for 68 years. Marlene Dietrich, stunning in a white gown, made her first U.S. television appearance. She, too, received a special Tony.

Helen Hayes, accepting an award for the APA-Phoenix repertory theatre, used the occasion to campaign for the future inclusion of repertory theatre in the regular competition.

Jack Benny wandered in and out making stingy jokes. Angela Lansbury and Peter Ustinov were the hosts. There was Groucho Marx, Gregory Peck, Eli Wallach and so many more that it was impossible to list them.

Selection of Zoe Caldwell for the Prime of Miss Jean Brodie and of Hallejulah, Baby as the best musical play seemed to be particularly happy choices as far as the audience was concerned.

The envelope - opening and thank-you business, which has become such a drag in the movie and TV award shows, was kept down to a brisk minimum.

Reid Wins Azalea

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Steve Reid, a strong hitter from St. Louis, is the third consecutive PGA tour player to win his first golf tournament in the $35,000 Azalea Open.

Reid did it the hard way Sunday in a sudden-death playoff with one of golf's biggest names, little Gary Player of South Africa.

Reid, 31, dropped a six-foot birdie putt on the second extra hole of the sudden death to win the Azalea's $5,000 first money.

Bruce Devlin of Australia finished 12 under par for third-place money, but missed a chance to finish in a tie for the lead when his 40-foot birdie putt rolled past the cup on the 18th green.

Sam Carmichael, who shot a final round 65, got a fourth-place tie with Bob Lunn.

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg shot a 72 Sunday to end with a 276 total and a tie with four others. Each won $1,100.

Trudeau's Intentions Still Are Not Known

Eleven Items On Order Paper

OTTAWA (CP) — There is no clear sign which bills will come in for priority action of Parliament goes back to work today under a new government.

There were 11 items on the Commons order paper when Parliament closed March 27 for Easter and the Liberal leadership convention.

The new government under Pierre Elliott Trudeau, sworn in Saturday, could deal with some but not all of them before adjournment.

Government sources say the order of priorities has not yet been determined, but a good bet for early action is the measure designed to reduce drug prices through increased competition among manufacturers.

The bill stirred a storm before the recess when the NDP complained that the government was dragging its feet on the proposed legislation. For a time, NDP members held up estimates study in a campaign to get action on it.

With a new prime minister, a few cabinet shake and the ever-present possibility of a sudden election, the fate of the other 10 items is uncertain.

Most attention has been fastened on two of them: The labor bill broadening the scope for regional bargaining units and Criminal Code amendments setting out new laws on such contentious issues as homosexuality, abortion and firearms control.

A committee report on the labor bill is expected shortly after the Commons resumes, but there is strong pressure both on the government and opposition side to have it shelved.

The Criminal Code amendments promise to be servers predict that they will not be passed before the session ends.

Also on the government's list are the main spending estimates for the 1968-69 fiscal year, now in the process of getting an economy trimming. A spring budget also is a possibility.

Two bills requiring passage before the summer break would reduce tariffs in line with the Kennedy Round cuts and would approve Canada's membership in the new international grains agreement coming into effect July 1.

There are also three secondary bills before the Commons which have already been processed by the Senate and which probably would not require much more Commons time.

House Ready To Open Today

OTTAWA (CP) — Tension over a probable June general election call continued to mount today as Prime Minister Trudeau headed for a meeting of the Liberals' parliamentary caucus.

There still was some speculation the Commons might not meet as scheduled at 2:30 p.m.

Mr. Trudeau spent the morning alone in his office in the Centre Block on Parliament Hill before heading for the caucus room in the West Block.

Reporters were maintaining a watch at the residence of Governor-General Michener on the chance Mr. Trudeau might show up there today to ask for dissolution of Parliament.

Mr. Trudeau attended a Government House dinner Monday night for his predecessor, Lester B. Pearson, and could have used the opportunity to ask Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener to dissolve Parliament.

The new cabinet has been sharply divided over the wisdom of an early election and Conservatives had a field day Monday saying at what they called Mr. Trudeau's indecision.

Conservative Leader Stanfield held an afternoon news conference and chipped at Mr. Trudeau's image as a swinger, saying that so far "all we've seen is swinging from one view to another."

Mr. Trudeau met his new cabinet in the morning and told reporters afterward that an election would be called "in God's good time." He had not yet made a decision.

Mr. Stanfield said the reasonable course would be for Mr. Trudeau to meet Parliament and show what kind of government and what kind of program he meant to provide.

But he added:

"We will be prepared for an election if it comes—and I will prepare myself for leading the government after the election."

Mr. Stanfield claimed Mr. Trudeau's popularity already was going quickly downhill after only two days in office.

He cited the "snakepit" cabinet Mr. Trudeau announced Saturday; the fact that former trade minister Robert Winters had not been brought back into the government and what he called the indecision over calling an election.

Reporters reminded him of a recent poll showing the Liberals commanding 52 per cent of electoral support against 35 per cent for the Conservatives, but Mr. Stanfield said this did not disturb him.

In view of the publicity the Liberals had received through the leadership race, and the "so-called Trudeau boom," he had not expected the Conservatives share to be so high.

Both Mr. Stanfield and former Conservative leader John Diefenbaker had harsh words for the temporary cabinet Mr. Trudeau has formed.

Four Die In Metro Air Crash

TORONTO (CP) — A CBC television news crew of two was among four men killed early today when their light plane crashed 60 feet from a house on the northwestern outskirts of Metropolitan Toronto as it attempted to land in dense fog.

The twin-engine Piper Apache aircraft was headed directly for the house in which a family of five was sleeping, when it nosed into a field and flipped end-over-end into the family's back yard.

Dead are Robert Schlaffino, 28, Reinhardt Lemke, 47 both of Toronto, and Herbert Foxcroft, 46 of Hamilton.

Police withheld the name of the fourth man.

Mr. Foxcroft, the pilot, was a freelance cameraman who had worked for the CBC for more than 10 years.

Mr. Schlaffino, a television reporter, had been with the CBC since 1966.

The news team was filming the return of Mr. Lemke to a former prisoner-of-war camp at Monteith, 40 miles from Timmins, where Mr. Lemke was held during the Second World War.

Britain Asks UN Ban All Rhodesia Trade

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — Britain today introduced a resolution in the Security Council calling on all states to place a world-wide ban on trade with Rhodesia.

The British proposal would prevent any country making investments in Rhodesia and also seek to restrict the travel abroad of Rhodesian citizens.

"The resolution, which would be binding on all UN members, would prohibit airlines from operating in and out of Rhodesia.

Heart Specialists Outdiagnose Computer

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Six heart specialists studying cardiographs from three patients outdiagnosed a computer Monday.

But the contest was close — one victory for the specialists and two ties.

"A computer is not as good as an expert," said Dr. Elliot Corday, a past president of the American College of Cardiology, "but a general practitioner could use a computer to good advantage."

The cardiologist vs. computer contest was set up at the Inter-American Congress of Cardiology, a week-long meeting of about 200 heart doctors from 21 countries.

The doctors won the first test.

"The computer said about the same thing as the doctors," Corday said. "But it was less detailed. Our doctors gave a more complete diagnosis. The computer didn't give all the significant points."

The next two tests were adjudged ties with identical diagnosis by computer and specialists.

Dr. George Burch, president of the American College of Cardiology, said: "These tests show the value of a specialist. But if no specialist is available, I think the computer does a better job.

"I believe doctors everywhere should support development of computer diagnosis."

Public School Tax Here Up 1.05 Mills

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

The elementary education tax rate for Belleville this year will be 1.05 mills higher than last on both residential and industrial assessment.

The Belleville Public School Board last night approved its 1968 budget estimate of $2,048,816, an increase of $359,052 over last year's actual cost of $1,689,764.

The budget now goes to city council for approval and inclusion in the 1968 municipal budget.

The Public School Board's share of the mill rate will now be 7.95 mills on residential assessment and 8.75 mills on business and industrial assessment.

Board chairman Macdonald Smith called the budget "a reasonable one," and said this was the first increase in the mill rate for public schools in two years.

He added that the 1968 rate is only two mills higher than it was 12 years ago. This figure is a correct comparison, provided by an adjustment to offset the raise in assessment in 1963.

Teachers' salaries accounted for the major part of this year's increased estimates. Expenditures for teachers' salaries are up $302,210 over last year's total of $1,094,719, for an estimated $1,396,929 in 1968.

However, board member John McFarlane emphasized that salary negotiations with the teachers are not yet complete, and the salary figure is only approximate.

Cost of administration, school operation and maintenance, instructional supplies and books, transportation, and auxiliary services have all increased this year.

Major items in the estimated 1968 budget, with the 1967 actual costs in brackets are: administration $47,435, ($42,783); operation and maintenance $209,200, ($197,813); instructional supplies $120,700, ($81,471); transportation $5,400, ($3,538); auxiliary services $8,575, ($1,617).

The debenture debt has decreased slightly from $190,370 in centennial year to $190,076 this year.

The board allocated $18,000 to buy two acres of land needed for the addition to Sir Mackenzie Bowell School.

Trustees' expenses have been upped from $1,562 to $2,500. Superintendent L. A. Kells said the extra $938 would be used for seminars and study sessions to acquaint board members with the problems of the changeover to county-wide boards of education in January 1969.

Municipal property taxes will raise $802,076 of the 1968 budget and the remainder required will come from government grants ($1,079,818), 1967 surplus of $73,489, non-resident tuition fees and rebates on such things as provincial sales tax. The federal government will pay $16,000 this year to buy elementary education for pupils from Tyendinaga Reserve.

Of the $802,076 raised by municipal levy, $138,076 will be applied to debenture debts and $607,000 will be used for operating expenses.

Ten Million Hungry in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new report says that in the Deep South, in New England, on Indian reservations, in Appalachia—in every section of the nation—at least 10,000,000 Americans suffer unremitting hunger and the number of victims is growing.

They suffer anemia, growth retardation and parasitic diseases usually found in underdeveloped countries, the report said. And their infants are fed water instead of milk, while their aged suffer dizzy spells from hunger.

"No other Western country permits such a large proportion of its people to endure the lives we press on our poor," the report said. "To make four-fifths of a nation more affluent than any other people in history, we have degraded one-fifth mercilessly."

The report, made public Monday by the Citizens' Board of Inquiry into Hunger and Malnutrition in the United States, urged President Johnson to declare that a national emergency exists and to launch emergency food programs in 256 hard-hit counties, as well as migrant labor farm camps and some Indian reservations.

It also recommended establishing a free food-stamp program and stripping the agriculture department of responsibility for food aid because it places "the interests of agricultural producers first, the needs of the poor and hungry second."

The report said only 5,400,000 of the estimated 30,000,000 persons in poverty receive surplus commodities or food stamps under current agriculture department programs. And, it added, one-third of those receiving the government aid still have a poor diet—according to agriculture department standards.

Ready for Action

Deseronto Police Force Increased

The town of Deseronto has up-dated its police force.

No longer does the former lumber town on the shores of the Bay of Quinte have the one man police force of a few years ago.

Under a complete re-organization effected since the beginning of the year, Deseronto now has a three-man force consisting of police chief and two constables.

And in the communications department the Deseronto force rivals the facilities which might be expected in a centre much larger than the town's listed 1,735 population.

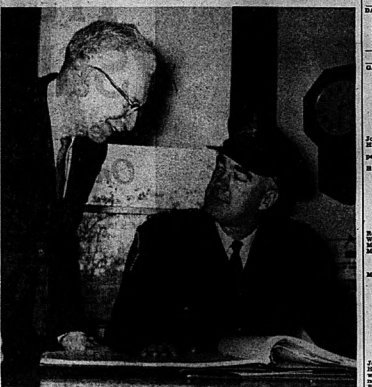
For instance, the department office boasts radio communication with its police car; the constables carry walkie talkie units while patrolling their beat and the police chief is in radio contact with his constables any time of the day — or night.

Deseronto's new police chief — since late in January this year — is Gerald Moody who comes from Hagersville, where he served for 12½ years as the chief constable.

The other two members of the force are Constables Kenneth Vallentgoed and Carl Beattie. Constable Vallentgoed comes from Moose Jaw where he served for 18 months on the police department. Constable Beattie comes from Perth and had three-and-a-half years service with the Canadian Army, including six months on Cyprus where he was with the Army policing action.

The town of Deseronto has had a long history of frequent police personnel changes, but it is the hope of Chief Moody that this pattern is now at an end.

Plagued with a long record of police changes, council last year moved to have their town policed by the Ontario Provincial Police.



But residents wanted a full-time police department so there was a move to re-organize the town police force.

Chief Moody will be one of the first to admit that the role of a small town police officer is no sinecure.

First, he says, such an officer must be a dedicated man as there is little hope that he can enjoy a 40-hour week such as police in larger cities or workers in industry expect.

And he must also accept the fact that he will have to do all types of police work — there can be no thought of specialization as is possible with the larger departments.

But Chief Moody says the larger police departments are only too happy to co-operate if the need arises.

Deseronto Police Re-organized

Chief Gerald Moody, head of the re-organized Deseronto Police Department, confers with town clerk treasurer J. C. Reynolds. Town police force now has chief and two constables.

Junior Band Concert Success

PICTON (Staff) — An almost capacity audience crowded the Prince Edward Collegiate Auditorium for the Picton Junior Band's "Youth Concert" last night.

Officials there said close to 600 persons assembled for the event. The crowd's response to the band's selections was warm and enthusiastic.

Other performers appearing at the show were the St. Gregory's Choir, directed by Sister Marie, Pat Hoag, vocal soloist and Joseph Burchill, coronet soloist from Belleville, Master of ceremonies was Don Baxter.

If any of the performers outshone the others, at least in the eyes of the audience, it was the Picton Junior Band beginners.

The players, some as young as nine years old, were introduced to their instruments only last September.

Under the leadership of Sgt. Howard Kelly of the RCAF, they performed a number of selections.

Mr. Kelly explained that the performance paid off for the children in the experience of appearing in public as well as in the money raised.

Finances from the performance will go towards new uniforms for the group.

Picton Event

Circus Is Coming To Town

PICTON (Staff) — Picton businessmen leaped full force onto the wrong conclusion yesterday, but things have begun to straighten themselves out.

Persons unknown have apparently been soliciting advertising by telephone, asking for amounts varying from $20 to $5. As one businessman put it yesterday at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club, "They ask for whatever they think you're worth."

The telephone approach of the solicitors assured the potential donors, mostly Main Street merchants, the monies so raised would be directed towards heating and construction of new dressing rooms at the Prince Edward County Community Centre.

In return for their contribution the name of the businessman or his firm will be printed upon the circus program, or at least that was the assurance of the mysterious voice over the telephone.

Putting notes together at the Kiwanis Club, the local merchants discovered that they knew of no circus and that all in all the entire situation appeared questionable.

However, Stanley Rankin, arena representative to the Kiwanis Club, has explained all. There really is a circus coming to town. It is the Garden Brothers Circus which has appeared here in the past. It arrives May 8.

The circus brings a money-making proposition to the arena.

Garden Brothers will handle all expenses but will split over the top profits with the arena commission. The arena really will get a cut of the advertising money.

Mr. Rankin explained, however, that the money would not be directed towards heating or director room construction as the mysterious telephone voice had said.

That was a misunderstanding on the behalf of the solicitor.

Young Belleville Musician To Give Solo Performance

Tomorrow night the curtain comes down on Arts Festival '68.

Simultaneously, it will have inched a little higher on the public progress of a young Belleville musician.

For 18-year-old Scott Bradford, the solo performance with the Belleville Choral Society marks his first piano presentation in concert platform style.

It also will be a prelude to full-time pre-occupation with music in the next few years.

This year, seeking a degree in music, he will enter the University of Toronto for four years of study.

During that time he also will debate what course his career will take.

If past accomplishment has any significance, his choice may be for church and choral music.

Even at 18, he has much experience in that realm.

In recent years he has probably been the youngest choirmaster in Ontario.

When he was 15 he took on the responsibilities of organist and choral director at the city's St. Margaret's - on - the-Hill Anglican church.

Group singing is the forte to which his musical instincts most readily respond, he admits.

"I like that mass of sound," he says.

And by way of musical diversity, he also plays the clarinet in the Belleville Collegiate band.

However, the piano so far has been the source of most of Scott's musical exercising.

He began taking lessons on the instrument when he was seven in London, Ontario.

His family has moved twice since then and he has had five teachers.

In coming years, he will be seeing more of the last of these — Clifford Poole at the Royal Ontario Conservatory.

He will continue to study with Mr. Poole while majoring in organ music at university.

At present, however, the piano does not bulk large in thoughts of a future career.

He has, for instance, no thoughts of becoming a concert pianist.

"I'm not (at present) interested in solo work. I think it would be too demanding — and becomes too narrowing," says Scott.

Neither is he enthusiastic about teaching, either privately or in schools.

However, he has much time to polish his thoughts on the shape of things to come.

Right now, his time is occupied preparing for tomorrow night's guest appearance.

For his audience he has chosen works by Mozart, Schumann and Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 6.

It won't be the last heard from the teenage musician either.

Before he departs for university, Scott is planning a concert of his own. It's set for May 12, at the Ontario School for the Deaf junior school.

He Goes It Solo!

Scott Bradford, 18-year-old upcoming city musician, practises for Festival '68 concert with Belleville Choral Society at Centennial Secondary School tomorrow night. His solo recital is also his first appearance on serious music platform.

IN MEMORIAM

JONES — In loving remembrance of a dear mother and grandmother, Jennie Jones, who passed away April 23, 1967.
Sadly missed and never forgotten by daughter Marion, son-in-law Ray, granddaughter Sandra, Barry and Jane Jones.

JONES — In loving memory of my dear wife Jennie, who passed away one year ago April 23, 1967.
As I loved you, so I miss you,
As my memories dwell on you,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many a silent tear.
Sadly missed and never forgotten by husband Walter.

JONES — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Jennie Jones, who passed away April 23, 1967.
So many years have happened,
So many things we've shared with you,
So many times we've needed you,
Had you been left, to stay.
Every day in some small way,
Memories of you come our way,
Though absent, you are ever near,
Still beloved, loved, always dear.
Ever remembered by daughter Frankie and wife Catherine and grandchildren Debbie, Dale and Karen.

REID — In loving memory of Mary Jane Reid, who died April 23, 1966.
As quickly passing reason's bring,
Time takes from us our dearest love,
Each year that leaves tries broken strings,
It set in Heaven's crown above.
As nature gives the earthly chains,
The circle widens in the sky,
Dear are the loved ones who remain,
Remembered, the ones who dwell on high.
—Always remembered by son Wesley, Violet, grandchildren Pamela, Marion and their families.

Family and Senior Citizen

Rental Units Planned

TRENTON — The Town of Trenton's request for the Ontario Housing Corporation to provide 38 rental accommodations on a "geared-to-income" basis for families and senior citizens of the municipality is viewed as a $500,000 shot in the arm for the construction industry and associate trades.

Last night council passed two resolutions accepting the recommendations of the OHCs survey of need and effective demand dated in March of this year.

The one resolution called for units for families to comprise accommodation of six two bedroom; 16 three bedroom; 10 four bedroom and four five-bedroom as recommended.

In the case of family units the town agreed to contribute two per cent of any annual loss arising out of the operation of the family housing.

The other resolution called for OHC to provide 14 bachelor units and eight one-bedroom units for senior citizens as determined by the survey.

The town agreed not to tax senior citizens more than $25 a year.

* * *

Council signalled comptroller Larry to proceed with the suggested draft of an agreement with the Hastings Welfare department.

A resolution calling for the employment of college student Douglas Gourlay as an assistant in the assessment department received council's approval.

The necessary authority for the town to sign a subdivision agreement with Scaletta Realty was granted. The Realty firm proposes to develop part of Lot 4, in concession A formerly located in adjoining Murray township.

The sale of a strip of property running parallel with the south boundary of 401 highway to the Hydro Electric Power Commission was referred to the finance committee for final consideration. Some 7,005 square of land are involved.

The town treasurer was authorized to issue a cheque for $57 to Maurice Rollins Construction of Belleville as a progress payment on the construction of the new firehall.

Councillor Weaver suggested the town take advantage of the free services of government senior analyst A. J. Humber before deciding to employ Eric Hardy at $100 a year as a municipal consultant.

Board Resignation Accepted

TRENTON — Council accepted the resignation of former public school teacher Miss Amelia Hayes from the Library Board with regret.

A new appointment to the board will be considered at the next meeting of council.

Council was unanimous in agreement Miss Hayes had provided long and faithful service to the town.

Ballots will ask voters how they feel about: a) liquor being served with meals in dining lounges, and b) liquor being served by itself in liquor lounges.

Animal Control To Cost $1,700 In Next Year

TRENTON — Animal control is going to cost the townspeople $1,700 for the next 12 month period, dog catcher Donald Tucker estimates.

Last year the service cost taxpayers $2,086 when 137 dogs and six cats were picked up and impounded.

According to Mr. Tucker there are now 300 dogs running at large within the town limits at present.

First Council Broadcast

Radio Station CJBQ provided the facilities for Trenton council to make history last night. In a two-hour meeting relayed over the air waves town and area residents were acquainted with the intricate conduct of the corporation's business. Afterwards councillors commented favorably on their new experience.

Ready to Sell?

Offer Made for Old Post Office

TRENTON — The town's dealings in connection with the old post office property were recalled last night when councillors considered a communication from the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce expressing a desire to purchase the building and land surrounding it.

Acting mayor Duncan McDonald offered comment before discussion got underway on the matter. "I feel after sitting in budget meetings the last two or three days," he said, "the town is not in a financial position to develop the property. I'd say it was a good time to sell it and get the extra tax revenue." He referred to the proposal the landmark be developed as a municipal building.

Councillor Ted Parker said he felt the original purpose of acquiring the property was now out of the town's reach and suggested calling for tenders to dispose of it. "We might have our cake and eat it," he added, explaining there would be an opportunity to widen Albert St., to the green belt south when the new owners made plans for the construction of a new building on the premises.

Councillor Douglas Kinney suggested council give the bank's proposal in this case serious consideration.

Councillor Gerald Weaver pointed out the town would have been receiving tax revenue from the property two years ago if council had permitted the bid of $41,506 made by Joe Gould and him to stand instead of deciding to match it. He called for comptroller O. W. Larry to read a resolution dated March 21, 1966 under which authority was granted the town to purchase the former post office building. The resolution set the purchase price, stipulated the buildings be demolished and the property landscaped while spelling out the purpose of the acquisition was for municipal use.

After the meeting councillor Weaver told The Intelligencer he considered the town would be showing the worst kind of discrimination unless Mr. Gould and himself were given the first offer of refusal should a decision be made to liquidate the holding. Mr. Weaver said he intended airing the whole issue in length in future discussions regarding the matter.

At the meeting councillor Ed Todd said it was his opinion councillors should first decide whether they wanted to sell all or part of the post office premises. Then if permission is obtained from the Ontario Municipal Board tenders can be called be observed.

The matter now goes to the financial committee for further study.

After the old post office was vacated Crown Assets put a price tag of $83,000 on the premises. An offer of $53,000 by the town was refused.

Later when the town's offer of $1 (one dollar) was turned down the government disposal agency advertised for tenders. Mrs. Gould and Mr. Weaver submitted the successful bid. Then the town executed a legal right to purchase the property by matching their offer.

Garbage Collection Costs More

TRENTON — As Trenton grows so does the cost of its services for the residents.

For the next five years garbage collection will cost the ratepayers $24,000 per annum.

Last night council accepted Ross Wellman's tender on a five-year contract.

A petition signed by some residents seeking a second weekly collection during the summer months was not included in the new arrangement. The contract, however, covers the disposal of leaves providing they are set out in plastic bags and boxes.

Construction Of Sidewalks Authorized

TRENTON — Under flood improvement council authorized the construction of new sidewalks on Film, Byron and John Streets at a total cost of $6,000.

Council authorized the town to enter into an agreement with Imperial Petroleum for petroleum products and certain equipment to be installed on the government dock. The part of the dock torn up for repairs since the winter will be ready for mooring May 4 when the storage tanks and gas and diesel pumping equipment will have to be in place by then.

Sale Of Land Deferred

TRENTON — Lou Shetzrell, a local plumbing and heating contractor, offered to purchase one acre of land on Stanley St., and build a warehouse on it immediately because he needed the space.

Councillor Paul Tripp chairman of industrial and economic development asked for the matter to be referred to the finance committee.

Councillor Weaver requested permission to comment on the proposal. "I think direction from council is required on a matter of sales of town land," he insisted. He explained he felt council should determine what constitutes industrial from service trades.

Mr. Tripp offered that warehousing qualified as light industry and it had been his committee's policy to follow that ruling.

There was agreement in the decision caused the industrial committee a net to discuss policy.

Awaiting the May Opening Date

The Quinte area has been basking in unusually warm weather during the month of April — but it's not time yet to open the parks. Here, in Prince Edward County, stacked picnic benches by the hundreds await May opening date.

Industrial Promotion Outlined

"There are ten very important rules for doing a good job in industrial development", according to Belleville's Industrial Commissioner Ray Brown.

Mr. Brown who was speaking to the Bancroft Chamber of Commerce Monday went on to list the rules:

Make the calls to make the sales.

Always use dependable and defendable facts.

Be honest in whatever you do or say.

Be able to keep a confidence.

Make a factual survey of your community.

Co-operate with other "I.D." men.

Don't advertise cheap labor and low taxes.

Keeping making your contacts for tomorrow.

Help instill pride in your community.

Realize that people are your most important product.

The local commissioner told the Chamber that the first thing to do was find a "likely industrial prospect based on which line your community would like to advance."

As for promotion, Mr. Brown said, "the Belleville Industrial Commission would be happy to include and disseminate your information in our brochure whenever possible."

The economic impact of 100 new manufacturing jobs astounded most of the chamber members.

According to figures compiled by the Research and Development department of the CNR 100 new manufacturing jobs creates 359 more people, 91 more school children, $710,000 more personal income per year, 100 more households, $229,000 more bank deposits, three more retail establishments, 97 more passenger cars registered, 65 more employed in new manufacturing, $331,000 more retail sales per year and 303 new telephones.

To derive all the benefits of new industry Mr. Brown pointed out to the Chamber that the attitude of the community and every citizen in it was the key to success.

Traffic Line Painters Again on the Job

The city public works department traffic line painters are again on the job.

Department officials say the mechanically equipped line painters have been working for about a week and directional lines have been painted in the North Front Street and other areas.

Today the line painting crew is working on Pinnacle Street.

The value of traffic line painting is appreciated by motorists and policemen alike.

In the words of a former city councillor "It's the cheapest traffic control there is."

MANY ARE FOREIGNERS

More than one-third of Israel's 4,200 merchant seamen are foreigners, shipping officials say.

Catching Them Young

More Canadians are taking an interest in politics — and they are catching the bug at an earlier age.

Autograph hunters surrounding Prime Minister Trudeau in Ottawa the other day were aged about six on up. There were boys and girls in about equal numbers. One attractive young miss with a outstretched for the signature was perhaps 15. A small blonde with her camera trained on the prime minister looked all of 8.

And from Toronto the word is of a "teenage revolution" sweeping the annual meeting of the Toronto and district Young Liberal Association. According to The Globe and Mail, a survey of 87 persons present showed that 35 were over 21. The two oldest were 27, but 56 were teenagers. Two were aged 14 and six said they were 15. The most common age was 16.

In such a situation could it be that future elections and conventions will take on an entirely fresh atmosphere?. With plenty of young people yes, but at the same time youngsters able to conduct the business of politics without having to resort to such phenomena as the "hospitality suite?"

That may well be, considering the fate of Garthe Evans, an "old-timer" of 26 and candidate for president of the Young Liberals. Relatively few of the delegates were old enough to go in and meet Mr. Evans over a whisky.

A perplexing situation for the Liberals, in this same context, is the news that campaign coffers are low. Perhaps the tyranny of the hospitality suite during the leadership campaign has had a lot to do with this situation.

And, as we have noted, if the grass-roots spadework in politics henceforth is going to be performed by a much younger group of people — too young in fact for the law of the land to countenance their presence in hospitality suites — will the latter facet of modern politics enjoy a merciful demise?

U. S. Curbs

Americans are unaccustomed to austerity. Times have changed however. They have changed with the increasing tempo of the war in Vietnam and with race rioting at home.

These stringencies may be observed in a number of situations. Restrictions in tourist spending overseas is one. A cutback in spending in the anti-poverty program is another. So too is the return to active service of the second world war battleship New Jersey. When it is considered that seven broadsides from the big vessel's guns are equal to the bomb loads from some 60 fighter-bombers the saving in men and airplanes could be considerable.

Now the word from Washington is that Americans face the prospect of harder-to-get loans at higher interest rates following the second interest increase in little more than a month in the U.S. federal reserve system's discount rate.

The new rate of 5.5 per cent — approved initially by three banks under the jurisdiction of the Federal Reserve Board and expected to come into force in nine others — is the highest since just before the 1929 stock market crash. Then it was six per cent.

Any repetition of those days however is unlikely. The recent run on gold has been halted and the United States, for all its commitments, remains prosperous. Yet even amid prosperity Washington is finding that caution is necessary.

Busier the Better

If you want something done in community or public affairs ask someone who is already a busy person.

This is advice that is often heard. The busy person is one who accomplishes much more than the person who says he has no time. The latter has difficulty completing routine tasks without taking on additional responsibilities.

Politicians, of course, are among the busiest of people. And cabinet ministers in particular. So how can they be expected to increase their workload?

Well, this is the scheme of things in the new cabinet of Prime Minister Trudeau. Five ministers are being given additional responsibilities. They include Jean Marchand, minister of manpower and immigration, who is combining this department with the office of State Secretary formerly held by Judy LaMarsh.

Busy people is a hard life. Yet there is never any shortage of candidates for this most demanding of activities.

Pearson Adviser "Master-Mind" Behind Trudeau's Success

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — There's almost it for a moment remembering the pattern of events — and you can't calculate it any other way than that Pierre Elliott Trudeau was Prime Minister Pearson's own personally selected successor.

No, there was no public laying-on-of-hands, no open knighting of him with the sword of power on the shoulder.

There didn't have to be.

For the succession was arranged with a subtlety that made it all that much more certain.

It had to be done with infinite skill, exquisite success to pull it off.

For if there had been a shred of evidence in the weeks before the crowning at the leadership convention, the delegates, some of whom already were suspicious, resentful of manipulation, might have revolted, destroying the dynasty.

Such delicate walking-on-eggs was not required when Mackenzie King passed the sceptre to Louis St. Laurent and "Uncle Louis" handed the instruments of power to Lester Pearson.

It was more than enough for each of them to say: "This is my man."

The conventions then became mere charades, a rubber-stamping by loyal subjects of a royal decree.

It was all very easy, and one of the reasons was that the line of succession conveniently followed the liberal tradition of alternating the leadership between French and English.

This time it was different and difficult.

With his initial cabinet effacer corps of what are known as "Quebec lieutenants," Lester Pearson had nothing but fouled-up luck.

There was the Lucien Rivard business, the firing of that Quebec race track franchise, the smear of the no-down-payment furniture affair, the spilling of Gerda Munsinger beans — and each juicily scandalous episode cost the resignation of a Quebec-based member of the Pearson cabinet.

Then, even worse, there was the disposition in Quebec to laugh at, and brush off as incompetents those cabinet ministers around the prime minister who were supposed to speak for Quebec.

They were discounted — and as a result, usually ignored — as not "representing" the "real" Quebec.

Justice Minister Guy Favreau for a time held out some promise of making it.

But at best he was a big amiable bear and he died, a sacrifice to political savagery, under the pressures of Parliament.

So Lester Pearson went shopping for a made-to-order successor from Quebec and recruited two initially potential French-speaking prime ministers: Gerard Pelletier and Jean Marchand.

They said they would come along, making the "sacrifice" of joining the federal Liberal team in Ottawa, if their friend Pierre Elliott Trudeau, could be persuaded to make it a trio.

It was agreed.

Quickly it became apparent that Pelletier just didn't have it.

Jean Marchand and Pierre Elliott Trudeau did.

Marchand said he was too physically frail to survive the beating any prime minister must take, and anyway, he wanted to return to Quebec and enter provincial politics.

By elimination, Pierre Elliott Trudeau had to be "it," the chosen instrument of the transfer of power from an English to a French prime minister.

The trick, then, how to swing it.

The answer was lights, cameras, action — and especially action.

Trudeau became justice minister and did a lightning - fast rewrite of the Criminal Code's sections on contraception, abortion, weapons, drunk driving and lotteries.

Then all of an overnight-sudden, it was Pierre Elliott Trudeau and not Lester Pearson who faced down Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson at Janary's federal - provincial conference.

5

It was Pierre Elliott Trudeau who drew the key assignment of sweetening up the constitution more to provincial tastes.

It was Pierre Elliott Trudeau who was packed off across the country to confer with the provincial premiers.

And it was Pierre Elliott Trudeau who became the instant living-color focus of the government - controlled CBC.

Finally, when Lester Pearson sat there with an innocent "who, me?" look on his face, who do you think was transforming Pierre Elliott Trudeau's campaign for the leadership, especially in the three crunch days of the convention, Lester Pearson's "special adviser," Marc Lalonde, that is who.

Coincidence, all this?

In this league of high-pressure politics, there is no such working word.

Prime ministers are seldom, if ever, the creation of "coincidence."

Letters to the Editor

School Buildings And Their Use After Hours

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Two questions I would like answered are these: "Why aren't school buildings made available to the community after school hours," and "why do the schools stand empty with their facilities completely wasted"?

The Department of Education has advocated the use of public buildings, namely schools, for community projects for the last decade or more.

I will admit that many Canadian schools are used after hours and on weekends for a variety of community activities from gymnastics to cultural programs.

However, I feel part of the answer lies with the school trustees. When the majority of this body feels that school buildings belong to them instead of the taxpayer, then we are back to the "Colonial Status."

Why is it we could be a board of five who dictate when a school is used, but a general policy that our schools be used to the fullest.

Is there any other answer?

(MRS.) MARY MARSHALL,
Roblin Lake.

21st Battalion Veterans

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

We are looking for survivors of the 21st Battalion CEF of 1914-18. You would greatly assist our Club by publishing the following in your letters to the Editor column:

Members of the 21st Battalion Club of Kingston are endeavoring to secure names and addresses of former members of the 21st Battalion CEF regardless of whether they have attended our reunions or not.

On Sept. 27, 28 29 this year the club will celebrate its 50th birthday at a family reunion in the Armouries at Kingston.

Our ranks are thinning very rapidly — 27 of our members passed away last year. We are therefore anxious to know just how many survivors of the Battalion are still alive.

Will members please send their names and addresses and Company for our records to the 21st Battalion CEF Club 57 Cherry Street, Kingston, Ont.

"Capricious" Is the Word For Nature

Peterborough Examiner

Nature never ceases to amaze. In less than five weeks we have passed from the dead of winter to what could easily pass for summer.

Winter has begged off to keep an appointment in some part of the southern hemisphere, but summer catches us with our shorts still in the basement trunk. There was no real spring no transition period, no time to adjust.

And this, of course, is the lady's intention — always to surprise, never to become predictable. If it were within her power, she would dump a foot of snow upon us the first day of July. But, like all of us, Nature has her limitations.

She lives for the day and suggests that we do the same.

Apples in The Rond

Winnipeg Free Press

In North America apparently we like our apples to be "long" rather than "round" — as if someone had taken the traditional apple and squeezed it from all sides so that it takes an elongated form, fatter at the top, thinner at the bottom. This preference is playing bob with the sale of apples from other countries: New Zealand for example. There, scientists are hard at work trying to change the shape of local apples. New Zealand apples, like the Red Delicious, have the old kindergarten shape and while undoubtedly the taste fine the shape lacks appeal on the North American market. So researchers are trying to develop apples that are less in the round. The scientists are in for a time of it if North Americans should ever develop a preference for round bananas.

Today in History

April 23, 1968 . . .

William Shakespeare was born 404 years ago today— in 1564. He also died on the same day 52 years later, in 1616. The bard was the third child and first son of John Shakespeare, a leather dresser and whittwer—a craftsman who cured and finished skins to make gloves. Mystery still surrounds much of Shakespeare's life and nothing is known about his youth, but his plays and poems have made him immortal.

1827—Guelph, Ontario, was founded by John Galt.

1863—A $5,000,000 fire ravaged the Vancouver waterfront.

An Age Of Frenzy

Dennis Sears in
The Kingston Whig - Standard

This is a different era; this is a time of frenzy, of hysteria, of go-go girls grinding and writhing to jungle music, of cold-hearted cocktail bars devoid of hospitality and conversation. The easy, agrarian days have given way to the urban ratpack existence where spooks and freaks of indeterminate sex plan mean games and experiment with drugs in an attempt to give a meaning to life they never learned to enjoy.

Relations with France

Ottawa Journal

Canada's problems over Quebec's attendance at the second session of that international education conference in Paris would be much eased all around if the preposterous notion of severing relations with France over the incident were rejected at once.

There should be nothing unusual in the nature of ultimatums which Canada might find itself forced to make in order to continue to maintain normal diplomatic relations with Russia, for example, or establishing relations with Communist China, how can anyone think of a complete rupture with France?

The Federal Government should, however, recognize the understandable desire of Quebec or any other province to deal with foreign governments in matters, such as education, which are primarily a provincial responsibility. External Affairs shouldn't be shocked at the idea of consent it as an intrusion in a private Ottawa preserve.

Interrupting exchanges by Quebec, specially with French-speaking nations, would be useful not only to the province but to Canada.

The challenge to both Ottawa and Quebec is to establish the machinery which facilitates such activity without doing violence to the essential constitutional requirement that only Ottawa speaks for Canada in international affairs.

Woodlands Improvement

Kingston Whig-Standard

According to the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, all of Southern Ontario will be eligible for assistance in woodland improvement by 1969. Since the Woodlands Improvement Act was passed two years ago more than 3,500 acres have been planted and thinning and other improvement work has been carried out on over 1,000 acres of immature woodlands.

That the government is pleased with the progress being made in woodland improvement is understandable. Over 200 landowners who have entered into agreements with the Minister of Lands and Forests had work done on their woodlots during 1966 and 1967. According to the department, about 400 additional owners should receive assistance this year. An estimated 4,000,000 trees will be planted and 2,000 acres of immature woodland is scheduled for improvement in 1968.

It should be pointed out that one of the main reasons why the government decided to help private landowners by providing trees at nominal charges and planting them, was the long-term nature of timber crop production. The government is talking in terms of 80 to 100 years. The revival of detective trees, thinning and other improvement work in immature stands should help upgrade future log quality in Ontario. More than a quarter of a million people visited the park on the 1967 program alone, and it is proposed to increase this amount this year.

What is the value of such a program? Besides providing employment in rural areas, tree planting and other improvement work helps make use of land areas which might otherwise be unproductive. The program also ensures a long future for Ontario's timber crop. It is to be hoped that the woodlands improvement program continues to expand in scope in the years ahead.

Government Optimistic Over Nova Scotia Steel Mill Operation

HALIFAX (CP) — Behind-the-scenes optimism for the future of the Sydney steel mill—the province's biggest single industrial employer—has been given cautious support by Premier G. I. Smith.

But both here and in the Cape Breton city where steel-making has been a way of life since 1900, the optimism remains firmly tempered with warnings that "we're not out of the woods yet."

The premier's words were carefully chosen and in some observers were fearful they would be interpreted as a firm indication that the mill—in provincial government hands for less than four months—had its future secured.

A source close to the Sydney Steel Corp., the Crown agency which has been operating the mill since Jan. 1, said Monday night "everyone's encouraged—but there's no one dancing in the streets yet."

Mr. Smith, faced with the Sydney steel crisis one month after succeeding Robert Stanfield as Progressive Conservative premier this fall, told a Halifax service club Monday:

"There is some reason to hope it (the mill) will turn out to be self-supporting."

But he stressed and restressed that "it is too early to prophesy whether we can make it a self-supporting industry—and if we cannot, the public of Nova Scotia cannot forever support it."

The deepest crisis ever to hit the Sydney mill began unexpectedly at 7:35 p.m. last Oct. 13 when Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. announced it would abandon the plant, with the shutdown to start this April 30. The Sydney Steel Corp. was established by a special session of the legislature after six weeks' bargaining—between the government and Ottawa, which contended the mill was losing money and could not be made economic.

The new corporation, headed by aggressive Nova Scotia industrialist R. B. Cameron, was empowered to operate the mill until at least April 30, 1969, with order to go full out to make it economic and thus attract a new operator.

Mr. Smith described the extension in life as "a respite which must not lessen our sense of urgency." When the government corporation took over, he said: "A remarkable concentration of brains, talent and determination is being brought to bear upon the problems. . . ."

Mr. Cameron, personally publicity-shy, has injected the same attitude throughout the corporation and steel sales for the Sydney mill have been almost obscured. Terse announcements disclosed two relatively major sales of rails to Chile and South Korea.

But experts have been keeping a close watch and their reports have been encouraging.

Mr. Smith said Monday that when Sydney Steel first took over the mill, losses from Jan. 1, 1968, to April 30, 1969, were expected to reach $6,000,000. But, within a few weeks, this estimate was down $2,500,000 and there have been further cuts in the projected losses in recent days.

The premier has contended that whatever the losses suffered in the government's move into steel-making the cost of any alternative would be even greater.

The mill, Sydney's economic backbone, employs about 3,200. Sydney's population is about 34,000.

Economists have predicted serious depopulation of the industrial Cape Breton area if the steel plant is closed.

They have long argued that the plant must be diversified. This position is supported by Martin Merner, the Steelworkers Union president at Sydney who has called for up to $40,000,000 in new capital for the mill.

With this, says Mr. Merner, jobs for 1,500 more men will be provided and "the Sydney steel plant . . . will be the cornerstone for industrial progress in Nova Scotia."

Long Distance Dialing Available--March 1971

Direct long-distance dialing won't be available in Belleville for almost three years.

It will be March 1971 before equipment in the city's Bell Telephone exchange will totally be modified for change, Bell district manager Charles Buckley told this morning.

The updated facilities will make available both direct-distances dialling and push-button phones, he told Loyalist college secretarial students at Centennial Secondary School.

Modification of the Belleville exchange is taking longer than some other areas in Ontario and Quebec because it had its dialling system installed earlier, Mr. Buckley said.

Hence, the switchover is that more complex.

"The Belleville exchange has to have the entire inside workings torn out and replaced. This is a tremendous job at a tremendous cost. Even a telephone company has to budget for these things," he told the students.

Mr. Buckley also had more human - interest revelations for the seminar, ostensibly called to acquaint the students with competency in answering office telephones.

For instance, under certain circumstances Bell can now trace nuisance calls to the source in about 10 minutes.

The company acts if a subscriber is being persistently victimized.

Once a call is received the phone is left off the hook this leaves the crank caller with a dead line.

Once alerted, technicians seek the source with a tracing device and identification can be made in seven to 10 minutes.

Then, Mr. Buckley says, he calls the offender with some terse reminders: Their telephone service can be cancelled for life and legal penalties are a possibility.

Nuisance calls were more common in the early days of direct dial phones than at present. Over the years, offenders have become aware their crank calls can be traced.

"If someone is receiving calls consistently and it's part of a pattern then we'll trace it," said Mr. Buckley.

As a corporate enterprise, the Bell is not partial to absorbing another private companies, he said.

"We have a natural monopoly much like hydro and water suppliers," he pointed out.

Bell operates in a delicate area and as a utility it's somewhat subject to nationalization."

Hence, the more companies involved the more difficult it is to nationalize, he reasoned.

"We don't like being the big ogre that takes over everything in its sight. We don't want to take over small companies, if the service provided is good enough."

However, rates and service standards are controlled by government which may virtually force improvement.

"Because Bell is the biggest in the field, we will be the ones normally told to purchase at a reasonable price."

Bell also likely will remain the largest enterprise of its kind in Canada.

"Because we operate in Ontario and Quebec which are the two most densely populated provinces we will always be the biggest," predicted Mr. Buckley.

Man from the Bell--with Belles

Bell Telephone district manager Charles Buckley had many remarks ready on telephone competence this morning. His audience also turned out to have appeal. They were all students of secretarial course at Loyalist College. Bell film also encouraged communication during discussion on telephone techniques.

New School Legislation Poses 'Election' Problem

Legislation setting up county-wide boards of education is having far-reaching affects on municipal election dates.

This was brought to light last night at Belleville Public School Board meeting, when a letter was read from city manager J. R. Reynolds.

It appears Belleville will have to seek legislation to change its civic election date to coincide with school board election date and save the taxpayers an estimated $10,000 in election expenses every other year.

Bill 44, now before the provincial legislature, sets the first Monday in December in even-numbered years as the date for school board elections.

The first election under the new set-up will be held Dec. 2, 1968 and board members will be elected for a two-year term.

An amendment to a private act of the Ontario legislature, made two years ago, grants the city of Belleville permission to hold its election for mayor and councillors on the same day, but in odd-numbered years. The term of office is also two years.

The next civic election is scheduled for 1969.

Belleville would thus be faced with an election every year — for school board in even-numbered years and for council in odd-numbered years.

Mr. Reynolds this morning estimated election costs at about $10,000. If civic and school board elections could be arranged to coincide, taxpayers would get two elected bodies for the price of one election every other year, with a resulting saving of $5,000 a year.

Mr. Kells told the school board the election date set by Bill 44 was designed to standardise practices across the province and cannot be altered.

"Municipal election dates in Ontario are scattered all over the calendar and are much easier to change," he said. "I suggest municipalities bring their dates into line with ours."

This morning the city manager agreed. The resolution, he said, was for cuncil to ask for an amendment to the private act of the legislature to allow an election for mayor and councillors in December 1969 for a one-year term.

This would make the next civic election date December, 1970 to coincide with the second election of the county-wide school board.

The matter will be brought before council in October, Mrs. Reynolds said.

Mr. Reynolds said.

Senior Hockey Club Owes Arena $1,500

Despite a substantial operating loss during the 1967-68 playing season, the Belleville Mic-Hawks Senior Hockey Club will operate again this coming winter.

This was promised by hockey club officials last week when they appeared before city parks officials regarding money still owing for arena rental.

(The amount owing the arena is $1,500 and not $10,000 as was reported in The Intelligencer.)

Team General Manager, Robert Temple, said he realized the hockey club's debt to the arena for last winter's hockey practice time and said he hoped the matter would be cleared up in the near future.

Mr. Temple appealed to the Parks Board to reconsider its decision to raise arena rental rates to the senior hockey club and asked that the rate revert to the 1967-68 schedule.

Pleads Guilty To 5 Charges, Fined on Two

After pleading guilty to five different charges in Magistrate's Court this morning, Philip Benovoy was remanded until April 30 by Magistrate T. Y. Wills for sentencing on three of them.

He had been charged under the Public Accountancy Act for "taking or using the name or title of Public Accountant" and for "practising as a public accountant.

Mr. Benovoy had advertised in the Intelligencer as an accountant and had undertaken employment with a few local firms, when he was not qualified to do so.

After hearing the pleas, Magistrate Wills fined Benovoy $100 plus costs on two counts.

The remaining three charges all involved cheques that Benovoy had attempted to cash or cashed that were fraudulent accounts of $415.

Since there was no pre-sentence report available he was remanded for sentencing.

Contracts Under Way

The H. J. McFarland Construction Company of Picton has commenced work on two highway contracts in the Belleville area — one of them a resurfacing job on two 401 river bridges and the other a bridge replacement project on No. 2 highway.

A company spokesman said yesterday that the Moira River bridge and the Salmon River bridge on highway 401 would be resurfaced with asphalt.

At the Moira bridge north of Belleville, detours across the centre boulevard between the two traffic lanes are being prepared to allow paving operation.

Also McFarland's have commenced preliminary work on the construction of a new No. 2 highway bridge over Marysville Creek at Marysville.

Here again the necessary detour is being staked out and two temporary bailey bridge structures will carry traffic over hte creek during the bridge construction project.

On 401 highway east of the city, another contractor, Gaffney Construction, has commenced construction of an overpass to carry local traffic over the four lane artery. The overpass is at the Leaning sideroad intersection.

Re-inforcing steel is being erected preparatory to pouring concrete for the overpass support pilars.

Appetizing Shrimp Curry

By MARY MOORE

On the evening of the day before, Marianne knew 12 people were to be served a buffet supper. The guests were visiting fellow officers of her husband, Commanding Officer at Work Point Barracks, in Victoria, when I was visiting them.

During the evening together we planned the menu: Curried Shrimp, Rice, (see both below), Baked Bananas, Tossed salad, Garlic - buttered French Sticks (2), Strawberry Bavarian with Strawberry Sauce, Spice Layer Cake with Mocha Frosting drizzled with Melted Chocolate, Coffee.

Late that evening Marianne made the cakes while I made the Bavarian. Early next morning we did the shopping and laid the table. My greatest joy was gathering and arranging hundreds of daffodils, narcisi and grape hyacinths from their garden for the bouquets. Running that a close second was the satisfaction of seeing it all eaten to the last crumb.

SHRIMP CURRY (for 12)
3 pounds small (or halved large) shrimp (or 2 pounds raw shrimp and 1 pound cup scallops)
¼ cup margarine
2 tablespoons (or more) curry powder
4 medium cooking onions, chopped
4 long stalks celery, chopped
½ cup flour
1 teaspoon Accent
1 tablespoon salt
4 cups 10 per cent (cereal) cream
½ cup shredded raw (OR unsweetened packaged) coconut (optional)
In an outsize heavy frying pan or saucepan or Dutch oven melt the margarine and add the curry powder. Stir over medium low heat until the curry is saturated with margarine. Add chopped onions, celery and apples and stir until they are saturated with the fat but not at all brown. Stir in the flour, salt and accent. When all is blended stir in the cream and coconut milk (if used) until thick. Add the raisins, and shredded cocoanut (raw cocoanut used), shrimp (or shrimp and scallops) and heat through over low heat until just boiling, stirring gently. Taste - shrimp to see if it is barely cooked. (Note: If desired, do what we did: transfer to a very large baking dish with cover, and hold hot in the oven at 200 deg. Fahr.) Serve in chafing dish or in preheated casseroles with covers.

Serve on Rice: In heavy saucepan, to 3½ cups raw long grain rice add 6 cups boiling water and 3½ teaspoons salt and 1 tablespoon butter. Bring to boil, cover tightly, turn off heat for 5 minutes. Turn heat on low for 25 minutes. Rake rice with fork from pot to preheated serving dish. Serves 12.

Dinner Menu

Chicken Pot Pie with Dumplings and Vegetables; Green Peas in Green Onion Butter; Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers Vinaigrette; Baked Apples Porcupine (stuck with slivers of almonds); with Lemon Syrup; Tea.

Parent's Presence Helps Young Patient

LONDON (CP)—Young children whose mothers stay with them in hospital suffer fewer physical complications and much less mental strain than children on their own, a British study has shown.

Results also suggest the mother is a better judge than medical authority whether she ought to stay with the child in hospital.

However, the nurses involved in the study still prefer to keep parents away except for limited visiting hours.

Doctor D. J. Brain and Inge Mackay selected 197 children under five years of age for the study. All were due to have tonsils removed and in each case the mother had expressed willingness to stay with the children in hospital.

Groups of the selected children were admitted to hospital in successive weeks, alternately with and without their mothers. Parental visiting is unaccompanied children was limited.

In observations during and after their three-day stays for tonsillectomy, the accompanied children were found to have suffered significantly smaller incidence of both emotional troubles and infections, says the report in the British Medical Journal.

Almost all the children of mothers who had expressed a strong wish to stay with their children but were in the unaccompanied group experienced a high rate of emotional disturbance.

Children of mothers who had been more passive in their willingness to stay with them, and did not, showed about half the rate of disturbance. Thus, the authors suggest, the mother is often the best judge of whether her child needs her in hospital.

All but a few mothers who accompanied their children were satisfied with the arrangement. But the nursing staff was unanimously against the experiment. The nurses expressed strong disapproval of mothers who upset ward routine, although only four mothers were judged to have caused appreciable trouble.

MR. AND MRS. GARY WAYNE McMURTER

McMurter – Johnson

Rev. Wilbert Cox officiated at the recent double-ring wedding ceremony in Mount Pleasant United Church, when Pauline Eleanor Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Johnson, Stirling R.R. 2 was united in marriage to Gary Wayne McMurter, of Terra Cotta, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McMurter, Gormley, R.R. 2.

Wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Douglas Keiser of Frankford who accompanied the soloist, Robert Ash of Madoc.

Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride wore a floor length gown of embroidered organza over silk taffeta enhanced with lily-point sleeves. The floor length train of matching material extended from the shoulders and a shoulder length bouffant veil was caught to a tiara headdress. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white mums.

Mrs. Jim Johnson, sister-in-law of the bride from Cobourg wore a floor-length gown of green lace over taffeta and carried a bouquet of mums tinted to match her dress. Bridesmaids, the Misses Carolyn and Nancy Johnson, sisters of the bride were attired identically to the maid of honor but in yellow and pink respectively. Each carried a cascade bouquet of matching mums. The flower girl Miss Susie Reid of Campbellford was similarly dressed in a floor length green lace dress and carried a basket of pink, white and yellow roses.

Ted McMurter of Terra Cotta attended his brother, while the ushers were Rich and McMurter, brother of the bridegroom and Jim Johnson of Cobourg, brother of the bride. Master Gary Johnson, brother of the bride was ringbearer.

A reception was held at the Mount Pleasant hall where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a blue printed silk dress with matching coat, bone accessories and a corsage of yellow mums. The mother of the bridegroom assisted wearing a yellow wool crepe dress with navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to New York, the bride chose a blue bonded wool suit with orange accessories and a corsage of orange and white mums.

The couple will reside at 63 Paisley Blvd., Cooksville, Ontario.

Bemersyde IODE Holds 50th Anniversary Tea

CAMPBELLFORD — The 50th anniversary tea of Bemersyde Chapter IODE was held at the home of Mrs. D. J. Hughes Saturday afternoon.

A large number of people were in attendance from Belleville, Peterborough, Marmora, Norwood and Stirling Chapters. The Provincial Councillor, Miss Rose Spry, Stirling, was also present.

Mrs. D. Watters was convener, assisted by a committee comprised of Mrs. J. M. Reid, Mrs. C. Davidson, Mrs. D. Meyers, Mrs. S. Hoppand, Mrs. E. Steele and Mrs. G. Vine.

Mrs. R. Fox and Mrs. A. Burgis were in charge of home baking, and Mrs. D. Grant and Mrs. J. Trimble convened the candy table.

Mrs. D. Meyers and Mrs. J. F. R. Douglas registered guests for the draw won by Mrs. Sarr of 40th Northumberland Regiment Chapter, Norwood.

Those pouring tea were Mrs. F. F. Rutherford and Mrs. A. D. Bennett, honorary members, Mrs. K. C. Ferris, honorary regent, and Mrs. G. Shurvett, a charter member.

Tea room hostesses were Mrs. H. Beatty, Mrs. Don Bennett, Mrs. W. Kingston and Miss J. Smith.

The hostess, Mrs. D. G. Hughes and the Regent of Bemersyde Chapter, Mrs. P. Rutherford, received guests at the door.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

BEMERSYDE IODE

CAMPBELLFORD — Bemersyde Chapter IODE held its regular meeting in the library of Kent St. public school. Regent Mrs. Pearl Rutherford presided.

Two student loans of $300 each were approved for students planning to attend university in the fall.

Several congratulatory messages were read from IODE Chapters in surrounding areas as well as from provincial and national headquarters on the occasion of Bemersyde's 50th anniversary. The Regent expressed the hope that the 50th anniversary year would be a challenging and profitable year in the work of the order.

Services at Home and Abroad convener Mrs. F. Pallister received a considerable number of knitted articles to be sent to headquarters and announced a quantity of wool was available for those who wished to do summer knitting or sewing.

Mrs. E. Craighead, membership convener, introduced Mrs. Eva Fraser who was initiated into the Chapter.

Mrs. W. Hoey, principal of Merryvale School for the Mentally Retarded, gave a report of the plans for the future and of activities of the school for the current month.

Mrs. Helen Anderson reported on the visiting at Hillcrest Nursing Home where there are now 43 patients.

A film, Why Canada, was shown by Commonwealth convener Mrs. O. Benns.

Ann Landers

Boy's Long Hairdo Source of Arguments

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 17-year-old son Larry went to wear his hair longer than his father thinks he should. For years his father used to cut the boy's hair but lately haircut time has produced such terrible fights that my husband has told the boy he will not cut his hair anymore — he'll have to go to a barber and pay for his haircuts out of his allowance.

ANN LANDERS

I had a private talk with Larry and he told me he hates to be different from the other boys at school. He says short haircuts are considered square and that's all there is to it. He made it clear he does not want to wear his hair long but his ears are covered up but he does like bangs (which I think are frightful) and he also likes a full look in the back.

Ask, I am so sick and tired of listening to my son and his father argue about hair I could scream. Several of my friends tell me they are having the same trouble. Please, once and for all, settle this in your column. Do you think a boy's haircut is important enough to fight about day and night? Do you think parents have the right to insist that a teen-age son wear his hair the way they think he should? If you would devote a few paragraphs to this subject, parents of teen-agers all over the country would bless you. — BESIDE MYSELF.

DEAR B.: Hair has become one of the most passionately argued subjects of our time — ranking third after Vietnam and the race riots. I have received thousands of letters from Anchorage to Austin — letters from distraught fathers, exhausted mothers and embattled teen-agers. Some readers have sent photographs (front and back) and asked, "Do you think this is too long?"

I believe the male teen-age craze for long hair is rooted in (a) the desire to look like the other guys and (b) rebellion against parents, society, or whatever they happen to be fighting. The length of the boy's hair is a good method of measuring a boy's rebelliousness. The kid who wears his hair so long that he attracts stares from strangers is saying, "See, nobody can tell me what to do."

If your son fits this description I recommend the following: Keep quiet about his hair. Make it clear he can wear his hair in braids, in his ear or in his navel for all you care if his grades don't suffer. He says short hair is square? Tell him you're glad he's not trying to be "in." Say you're proud of him for not following the crowd. Brag about his independence. Tell him you're glad he's not a conformist. Tell him you're glad he's not a robot. Tell him you're glad he's not a sheep. Tell him you're glad he's not a lemming. Tell him you're glad he's not a yes-man. Tell him you're glad he's not a rubber stamp. Tell him you're glad he's not a puppet. Tell him you're glad he's not a marionette. Tell him you're glad he's not a zombie. Tell him you're glad he's not a clone. Tell him you're glad he's not a replicant. Tell him you're glad he's not a Stepford wife. Tell him you're glad he's not a Stepford husband. Tell him you're glad he's not a Stepford child. Tell him you're glad he's not a Stepford pet. Tell him you're glad he's not a Stepford anything. Tell him you're glad he's not a Stepford human being. Tell him you're glad he's not a Stepford person. Ontario Creates First Primitive Park on Hudson Bay Shore

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario has its first primitive provincial park, a land populated by polar bears on the frigid fringe of James and Hudson bays.

Creation of the 7,000-square-mile sanctuary—called Polar Bear Park in recognition of its inhabitants—was announced in the legislature Monday by Lands and Forests Minister Rene Brunelle.

Nearly 3½ times the size of Prince Edward Island, the park area includes Cape Henrietta Maria, the James Bay coast south of the Attawapiskat River and the coastline of Hudson Bay west of the Kinushso River.

It is the second largest in Canada, next to Wood Buffalo Park in Alberta and the Northwest Territories.

Besides polar bears, it contains bearded seals, walrus, arctic foxes, breeding colonies of snow and blue geese and a wandering band of between 200 and 300 woodland caribou. It is also a breeding ground for plarnigan.

Mr. Brunelle said the area will fall under a new classification system for provincial parks.

"Polar Bear Park is the first to be set aside within the primitive park class under this system. As such, it will be managed so as to carefully preserve the unique natural resources of the area."

In other legislature business Monday:

—The house spent more than six hours debating a single $271,480,000 outlay for road construction in highways department spending estimates before it adjourned at 1:35 a.m. today.

Premier Robarts adjourned the legislature after opposition comments about the lateness of the hour.

Debate on the estimates began March 26 and continued for eight sittings before the legislature's Easter recess. The discussion resumed shortly after 3 p.m. Monday and continued through the night sitting.

—A proposal by Leonard Reilly (PC—Toronto Eglinton) that union members be guaranteed the right to contribute through dues to the political party of their choice sparked a discussion over sources of election funds.

Liberal speakers supported the resolution which, under house rules, did not come to a vote. NDP members opposed it.

—Premier Robarts rejected a suggestion by MacMakarchuk (NDP—Brantford) that the government set up an "impartial committee" to investigate conflicting positions of Massey-Ferguson and the United Auto Workers on effects of wage parity between Canadian employees and the company's United States workers.

About 6,000 company employees in Toronto and Brantford went on strike last Friday, mainly over the 46-cents-an-hour wage gap between Canadian and U.S. workers.

THE PICK OF Punch

"We're incompatible!"

Men Ignore Firm's Threat to Leave Brantford

TORONTO (CP) — Pickets marched in front of embattled Massey-Ferguson Industries Ltd. plants say: "They can't scare us."

This was the stock answer Thursday when interviewed here and in Brantford about the company's threat to pull out of Canada if the union insists on wage parity with the United States workers.

About 6,000 workers in the two plants, members of the United Auto Workers Union, struck last Friday to support demands for wage parity. The gap between workers here and the company's 2,000 U.S. workers is 48 cents an hour.

The company says that with wage parity there would be nothing to offset increased shipping costs to the U.S. where 90 per cent of the Canadian production is sent. For example, it costs the Canadian company $212 to ship a combine from Brantford to Des Moines but shipping charges the other way were only $98.

John McKenzie, a spot welder with the company for 10 years, said the union won't let the men down.

"We're prepared to stay out as long as the union says we should."

A typical reaction among pickets interviewed Monday was the comment of Earl Morgan, a tool-and-die maker with the company for 20 years.

He said Massey-Ferguson recently built a new tool-and-die shop here costing about $2,000,000.

"Are they going to give it up?"

In Brantford, Michael MacDonald, a union committeeman, said wage parity is "only fair."

"The company for a long time has been getting away with this free trade and they've had a big advantage over their competitors. I feel that we give them just as good quality machines, just as many machines as the Yankees do. . . .

"We don't want them to move . . . we want them to stay here. But we also want what's ours—rightfully ours."

Welder Frank Legere said the workers had been exploited over the years through the farm implement free trade agreement between Canada and the U.S.

"They've made their bucks. Now, all of a sudden, because we demand our rights they want to move to the United States," he said. "I don't think they can."

The company's latest contract offer includes a 17-cent-an-hour increase for one year from the signing date. The old contract expired Dec. 15.

The proposed new union contract would add three-per-cent increases in December, 1968, and 1969.

Skilled trades would receive an additional 30 cents in the first year, retroactive to Jan. 1.

Parole Not Unusual

TORONTO (CP) — An investigation by the department of reform institutions has revealed nothing unusual in the March 15 parole of Viola MacMillan after serving seven weeks of a maximum nine-month term, a department spokesman said Monday.

"The case has been investigated from every angle," he said. "Mrs. MacMillan's treatment was completely in accordance with parole board practices."

He said her release was solely the decision of the parole board "which operates entirely by itself and apart from this department."

Mrs. MacMillan 63, was convicted of wash-trading, the term used to describe the buying and selling of shares by the same individual or group to give a false impression of market activity of a stock.

Quebec Delegate to Parley Is Treated Same as Others

PARIS (Reuters) — Quebec quietly took its place at a conference of French-speaking education ministers Monday amid efforts to prevent Quebec's presence from causing a crisis in Franco-Canadian relations.

Both French and Quebec officials denied there had been any difficulty over the seating of Jean-Guy Cardinal, Quebec education minister.

Cardinal sat between ministers from the African states of Niger and Rwanda when the five-day meeting opened Monday afternoon.

Cardinal told reporters he was representing Quebec and not Canada.

"I am completely satisfied with the treatment I have received here," he said. "It has been the same as for all the other delegates."

Fears had been expressed that his presence might cause trouble between France and the Canadian federal government, which suspended relations with Gabon after a similar conference—which Cardinal attended in Gabon in February.

Ottawa objected, asserting that it had not been consulted on the invitation and that the Gabonese government had welcomed Cardinal as if he were a representative of a sovereign state.

French officials said that the question of invitations does not arise this time since the talks are the second part of the Gabon meeting and would normally be attended by the same delegates.

Cardinal was a guest Monday with the other delegates at a luncheon given by French Education Minister Alain Peyrefitte.

But French sources said Cardinal did not have separate talks with Peyrefitte. There was no special discussion of Cardinal's status at the meeting, they said.

In a speech, Peyrefitte said the current talks are a continuation of the Gabon meeting and stressed that they were of a technical nature.

Don't Look for Trouble Is Stanfield's Advice

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Stanfield took the government to task mildly Monday on its attitude toward Quebec attendance at the Paris conference on education.

"I don't think we should make too much of this," he told a news conference."

"I think to some extent we're looking for difficulties."

If a province wanted to attend such a conference, representing only the province, it should be allowed to do so, he said.

The Pearson government's view that Quebec Education should be Canada's representative was not a satisfactory solution, since Quebec could not presume to speak for other provinces on educational matters.

Mr. Stanfield said the issue was complex and he had not been trying to make trouble for the government on it.

He was speaking only from the point of view of Canada's approach—if the host country acted in an offensive way, or affronted Canada, that would be another question.

But he suggested that the government had not thought out its approach carefully and that a full study should be made on it by the federal-provincial study group on the constitution.

Asked whether he would press for re-establishment of diplomatic relations with Gabon, Mr. Stanfield hesitated and then said he supposed this did follow from his stance.

Relations with Gabon were suspended after the first part of the education conference earlier this year.

School Bus Accidents Climb Because Cars Have to Stop

TORONTO (CP) — School bus accidents have increased in the last two years because of a law that both oncoming and following drivers must stop when a bus stops, the Ontario Traffic Conference was told Monday.

John Trew, senior traffic control analyst with the Ontario highways department, and Sidney Cole, traffic director for the Borough of North York, said school bus accidents increased by 40 per cent in1966, and the increase was even higher last year.

"When the law compelling drivers from both directions to stop was passed two years ago, I predicted that accidents would go up 25 per cent," said Mr. Trew.

"I was wrong. Since then they have gone up almost 100 per cent."

Mr. Cole said:

"It was panic legislation that was hurried through. It was a political decision, not a technical one, and it was not good."

Kenneth Giles, supervisor for school transportation at Oakville, said cars and buses were colliding because the provincial government had not adequately publicized the two-way stops.

The province's 700 school buses were involved in 415 accidents last year, 324 in 1966 and 264 in 1965. Last year, 278 persons were injured, up 56 per cent from 1966.

A total of 128 accidents last year involved cars running into the rear of stopped buses despite their flashing lights.

In 202 other accidents, oncoming cars were brought to a sudden halt, then hit by following cars, and pushed into the buses.

Oshawa Boy, 15, Faces Trial on Murder Charge

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — John Edward Donald Ross, 15, of Oshawa pleaded not guilty Monday to a charge of non-capital murder arising from the death of George McDonald, 4, of Oshawa.

The small boy was found by Oshawa police in an open goodsie car on the CNR railway siding in Oshawa Nov. 21 and died about eight days later in a Toronto hospital from injuries.

A Supreme Court jury found Ross fit to stand trial on the non-capital murder charge.

The trial was to open this morning before Mr. Justice Maurice King at the Whitby courthouse.

After hearing the reports of two psychiatrists and the boy's father, H. C. Ross, the jury found the boy fit to stand trial.

Adults Read More

Adults read more library books during March 1968 than they did during the same period last year, but the number of books lent to boys and girls decreased. This was due to the mid-term break in March and the loss of circulation in the schools for that week, the chief librarian, Miss Olive Delaney reports.

Total adult circulation for the month was 15,906. Juvenile circulation totalled 13,190.

One of the most popular films available in A Place To Stand, the Ontario film shown at Expo. It can be rented locally in 16 mm. film.

Seventy-two inter-library loan requests were filled in March, most of them from Belleville, Tweed, and Trenton.

Senior students from the School for Retarded Children visited the library, and one class from the Ontario Business College came for a talk on books of use in the business world.

MUSHMOUTH — FINAL

Dear Boss,

This is my final report to you after all those years. Now just to log your memory:—

REMEMBER?

Back in the 1936 bye-election when Mitch Hepburn addressed a Liberal picnic, and used a manure spreader as a field as his platform. "This" Mitch quipped "is the first Tory platform I have ever used." And from the back rows came a Conservative voice "Oke to it, Mitch. You've the biggest load it has ever carried."

* * *

At the same election when a Cabinet Minister named Marshall in a packed Orange Hall in Thurlow blasted the press and said if he ever saw the reporter again he would stuff his story down his throat.

Then one scrap rolled from the back of the hall "That's him in the brown suit." You looked around the press gang, boss and couldn't see anyone wearing a brown suit. No wonder, you had it on.

* * *

That early yawning with rain pouring down when you and a late colleague could not get a taxi, so you helped yourself to a wailing horse and milk-wagon? And a few hours later the dairyman owner phoned you and said he was forwarding a bill for twenty quarts of undelivered milk!

* * *

That day at the Shannonville "Little World's Fair" when the hard-looking guy caught the greasy pig after swimming half-way across the Salmon River. What kind his name by officials he gave it and immediately OPP Constable, Sam Irvine stepped forward and said: "Thanks, buster, we've been looking for you for the past six months."

* * *

That Picton-Napanee baseball game with the "Colonel" Ron Church on the Picton Mound. In the ninth inning he walked twenty foot behind the plate and sat down, head in arms. The umps rushed over and asked "Whassamatter, you sick or something?" "Naw" yawned Church, "just plain dam tired."

* * *

That Dodgers-Yankees world series when you were in Freddie Fitzsimmons' car (the longest in N'Yawk) and the georgeous blonde came in and sat beside you. After ordering a "Shassador" in typical Brooklynese she noticed your badge with "Canada" on it. She smiled and said "I gotta boyfriend up there in Canada. Comes from a place called "Kibbick." It was ten days before you found out she meant "Quebec."

* * *

That day in the Hotel Yalta in Prague, Czechoslovakia when the elite of the city held a fashion show in the ball-room, coffee was served to Prague's bluest bloods and invited Canadian visitors. Came the moment when a gorgeous creature slowly descended the ivory circular staircase. A deep silence fell over the room in the background violins violins whispered. Then out of a blue sky came a husky deep-throated Canadian voice "Where the hell is the cream and sugar?"

* * *

That evening in the stadium in Prague when you and Ed. Simon of the Canadian Press were given the red carpet treatment. A lovely dame in slacks and an escort of black-tied waiters "To your room gentlemen" said the maitre-d. You followed the waiters and were led into the arena proper and taken to a special room. Over the door was a sign "Private, for officials only." Those guys had mistaken you and Ed for a pair of German hockey referees' frankly imported.

* * *

That's thirty, boss. See you in the pasture field.

MUSH.

Nip Blues 3-2 — Pace Tells

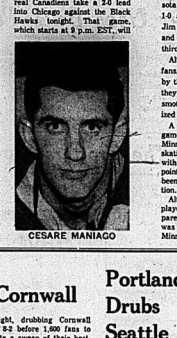
Stars Win Clutch-Grab Overtime Set

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MINNEAPOLIS (CP) — Players are tied and the best-of-seven National Hockey League semi-final series between Minnesota North Stars and St. Louis Blues is beginning to show it.



The North Stars came back Monday night for a 3-2 overtime victory to tie the series at a game apiece.

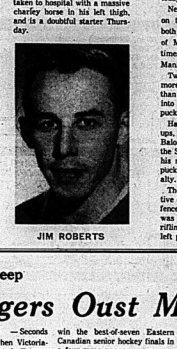
"I've pushed this club hard and they've given me all they've got," said manager-coach Wren Blair after Parker MacDonald tipped the puck past St. Louis goaltender Glenn Hall at 3:41 of the sudden-death overtime. "How much can you push them?"

Scotty Bowman, coach of the Blues, agreed as he herded his charges out of the area towards some sleep before returning to St. Louis and the third game Thursday at 8 p.m. CST.

The fourth and fifth games also will be played in St. Louis Saturday and Monday.

In the other semi-final, Montreal Canadiens take a 2-0 lead into Chicago against the Black Hawks tonight. That game, which starts at 9 p.m. EST, will be televised nationally by the CBC.

CESARE MANIAGO



Milan Marcetta and Bill Goldsworthy scored the other Minnesota goals with St. Louis taking 1-0 and 2-0 leads on goals by Jim Roberts in the first period and Frank St. Marseille in the third.

Although it delighted 9,776 fans, the game was dominated by the fatigue of the players as they clutched, grabbed and smothered rather than organized their plays.

A dominant factor in the game was the willingness of Minnesota—more noted as a skating hockey team—to hit with the Blues whose strong point most of the season has been to overpower the opposition.

Although Blair used only 13 players as regular shifts compared with 19 by Bowman, it was St. Louis rather than Minnesota that came out on the short end of the relentless hammering that punctuated the game.

Defenceman Al Arbour was taken to hospital with a massive charley horse in his left thigh, and is a doubtful starter Thursday.

JIM ROBERTS

Gary Veneruzzo of the Blues was nursing an injured right shoulder that will be x-rayed today for a possible fracture.

Neither goaltender was called on to make many saves, but both Hall and Cesare Maniago of Minnesota were brilliant at times. Hall made 24 saves, Maniago 22.

Twice when his defence was more intent on attacking rather than defending, Maniago skated into the corners to grab loose pucks.

Hall had his downs as well as ups, getting decked by Dave Balon in the first period when the St. Louis goalie went behind his net to cover up on a loose puck. Balon got a charging penalty.

The winning goal was indicative of the general play with defenceman Mike McMahon, who was outstanding for Minnesota, rifling the puck at Hall from the left point.

Verdun Sweeps Series

All Over For Cornwall

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — Verdun Maple Leafs continued to run roughshod over their Eastern Canada Memorial Cup semi-final opposition here Monday night, drubbing Cornwall Royals 8-2 before 1,600 fans to complete a sweep of their best-of-seven series in four straight games.

The Leafs, who scored 35 goals in the four games to only 16 for Cornwall, now meet the winner of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series—either Kitchener Rangers or Niagara Falls Flyers—in the Eastern final.

The Leafs, who also made it look easy in their earlier playoff series with Halifax Canadiens, rolled up victory scores of 7-5, 8-3 and 7-4 in the round with Cornwall.

Reynauld Comeau paced Verdun with two goals as they took a 3-0 first period lead and increased it to 6-1 after two. Other Leaf scorers were Mark Rioux, Guy Charron, Robert Brunelle, Jean-Rene Lozier, Jim Mitchell and Richard Lavoie.

Cornwall marksmen were Dave Snelgrove and Jim Healey.

Montreal Eyes Pro Franchise

MONTREAL (CP) — Without a professional baseball team since 1960, Montreal is vying for another shot—this time in the expanding National League.

Gerry Snyder, vice-chairman of the city's executive committee which is working for a major league franchise, says that if a major league club is set up here it could use the Autostade built for Expo 67 and under contract this fall for use by Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League.

"It can be enlarged to seat between 37,000 and 40,000," he says. "We can take out seats to make the foul lines in left and right fields 300 feet from home plate."

Snyder says he's hopeful Montreal will get the nod when the league expands by two teams to 12, in either 1969 or 1971. The new additions will be announced July 9.

Canadiens' Depth Main Factor In Gallop To The Cup Finals

CHICAGO (CP) — Coach Billy Reay of Chicago Black Hawks says he has a pain in his right elbow "that burns like a knife wound if I bend it the wrong way."

"Bone chips probably—something I picked up checking Milt Schmidt of Boston Bruins many years ago when I was with Montreal—and something we're going to have to do to beat the Canadiens."

The pain in the elbow made Reay, wince Monday as he opened the door to the Black Hawks' dressing room on the eve of the third game of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final.

The memory of his club's 9-2 and 4-1 losses in the first two games in Montreal last week probably made the pain more acute to the 43-year-old coach who takes his team against the Canadiens in the third game tonight.

"We've got to play the man more," he said. "We have got to go after them and hit them. That's the only way they can be beaten."

The situation is grim for the Hawks, who rebounded from two straight losses to win their quarter-final series in six games against New York Rangers. Reay contends his club has no depth and a look at his roster bears this out.

Chicago has two regular centres in National Hockey League scoring champion Stan Mikita and 25-year-old Pit Martin. The other two centres—Paul Terbenche and Brian MacDonald—are both rookies.

The Canadiens have four established centres in Ralph Backstrom, Henri Richard, rookie Jacques Lemaire and Jean Beliveau. And Montreal have been utilizing them on four lines.

The Hawks, fully aware of their own weaknesses, have been using powerful left winger Bobby Hull as a centre on a line with his brother, Dennis, and right winger Eric Nesterenko.

And Nesterenko has also been playing the dough-nut role, filling a centre spot as an alternate for Bobby Hull.

This means that Bobby Hull plays one shift on left wing, another at centre and is a key point man on the Chicago power-play as well as a penalty-killer.

"I don't mind that," the blonde scoring ace said Monday. "It'll play as much as I have to—even sell tickets."

And Jessie Hayes of Columbus, Ont.

The Hawks have two doubtful starters for tonight's game along with defencemen Pat Stapleton who is still experiencing difficulty with the vision in his right eye.

"I see flashes and spots—not like pucks—and it's blurry," Stapleton said. "I have to see an eye specialist Tuesday."

Meanwhile, defencemen Doug Jarrett and right winger Ken Wharram are not likely to play. Jarrett twisted muscles across the small of his back in Saturday's 4-1 loss to Montreal and Wharram is not fully recovered from rib injuries suffered in the New York series.

Tonight's game is scheduled for 9 p.m. EST and will be televised nationally by the CBC.

The fourth game is scheduled here Thursday night with the series switching to Montreal for the fifth game, if necessary, Sunday afternoon.

The winner will play the champions of the Western Division, now being decided between Minnesota North Stars and St. Louis Blues in a similar series.

Dodger Uses Bull To Bag A Moose!

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Zoilo Versalles, turned hunter again, used a bull to bag a moose, and came home with the limit for the second straight day.

The Los Angeles Dodgers shortstop capped a three-run ninth inning rally with a two-run triple off reliever Bob Moose that shot down Pittsburgh Pirates 5-3 Monday night.

"I used the bull—that's Al Ferrara's bat," said Versalles, describing his weapon.

"This way we keep him in the lineup," he added, referring to the absence of Ferrara, who is out with a broken ankle.

Versalles, far off the mark in 1967 after leading Minnesota Twins to the American League pennant in 1965, appears back on target now after last winter's trade to the Dodgers.

He is only hitting .154, but the big hits are returning.

Cookie Rojas was the top marksman in the only other NL game as he set up one run with a hit and then singled home the winning run with one out in the 10th inning to give Philadelphia Phillies a 2-1 victory over San Francisco Giants.

The Pirates, aided when Willie Davis dropped a fly ball, scored twice in the sixth inning for a 3-2 lead against Jim Bunning, who came to the Dodgers with Versalles. Moose protected the lead with 2 1-3 shutout innings until the ninth.

Grant, winner Jim Brewer who struck out five of the six hitters he faced, and Jack Billingham stopped Pittsburgh on three hits as the Dodgers won their third straight.

Yankees Trip A's For Fourth Loss

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Oakland's Floyd Robinson still is ahead of Dooley Womack, but the New York Yankees' pitcher has shortened the distance by about 350 feet.

Robinson, who beat the Yanks a week ago with a 400-foot pinch-hit homer off Womack in the ninth inning, nicked the slender reliever for an infield single with two out in the ninth Monday night.

Womack, however, retired the next batter, preserving a 2-1 New York victory that ran the Athletics' losing streak to four games.

California's Jack Hamilton pitched a three-hitter and drove in the deciding run with a fourth inning single, leading the Angels past Washington Senators 4-2 in another American League night game. Baltimore Orioles nipped Minnesota Twins 2-1 on Andy Etchebarren's 10th inning homer Monday afternoon in the only other game on the AL schedule.

Womack rescued southpaw Fritz Peterson in the eighth inning at Oakland, striking out Sal Bando to escape from a bases-loaded jam.

The Yankees managed only four hits against loser Lew Krausse, who fanned seven before going out for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Singles by Horace Clarke and Mike Ferraro, followed by Tom Tresh's sacrifice fly, sent the winning run across in the sixth.

Hamilton spotted the Senators two runs in the second inning, then held them hitless the rest of the way to win his first 1968 decision. The lanky right-hander snapped a 2-2 tie in the fourth with a run-scoring single off loser Dick Bosman.

South Hastings League Has Four Entries

Expansion plans for the ageless South Hastings Baseball League have fallen through — but it won't keep the old standbys from the starting gate.

League secretary Art Buller announced following a league meeting that proposed entries from Frankford and the Belleville Minor Baseball Association's juvenile division will not join the loop. But four have been represented at an earlier meeting and voiced intentions of entering.

Last season's four clubs, Canniffton Plants, Latta, Shannonville and Read will form the 1968 league.

They will open an 18-game schedule on May 22. Included in each team's schedule will be two home and two away Sunday games.

Buller also announced that the league had signed a three-year pact with the Belleville and District Umpires' Association.

Added incentive for the teams to finish atop the league standing has been added, Buller said, when the league decided to award $50 for a first-place finish and $25 for a second place.

"Player registration has been raised from $1 to $2 per player this year, and the league will award the position money out of this," Buller added.

Parsons Open Soccer Season In Kingston

The eight-team Kingston and District Soccer League opens its 1968 schedule this week and Belleville's entry will see action for the first time on Saturday.

Parsons Cleaners trek to Kingston for a five o'clock clash with Kingston Portuguese Saturday afternoon.

The clubs will play a 14-game schedule prior to "A" and "B" section playoffs next fall.

Bobcats Win Darts Title

The Belleville and District Dart League named its champions last night, completing the 1967-'68 season.

Temple's Bobcats won the league championship, Ellis Printers the "A" division crown, ANAF Dukes the "B" division title and Bob's Sports the "C" division championship.

Thoroughbred Stable Will Be Disbanded

BRAMPTON (CP) — The Armstrong Brothers plan to disband their entire thoroughbred stable May 21 at the sale of the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society in Toronto, it was announced Monday.

Elgin Armstrong, president, said the company intends to keep operating a considerable stable of standardbred horses, but the thoroughbred stable will be disbanded.

The thoroughbred stable consists of seven racehorses under trainer Art Warner, plus 18 stallions, mares, weanlings and yearlings.

Closes Successful Season

Badminton Had A Ball

Belleville's active Garrison Badminton Club closed out another successful season with a presentation dance in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Officers' Mess of the Belleville Armouries.

Presentations were handled by outgoing club president Leo Fortin and incoming president Gene Refausse, followed by dancing to the music of the Frankie Howard Combo.

Barb McCracken won the women's singles title with Bill Latchford capturing the men's singles crown.

In "A" play, Tod Melbourne and Bill Latchford won the men's doubles while Mike Church and Billie Waldron hooked up to take the mixed doubles.

Irene Harris and Betty Hunter combined for the women's "B" doubles championship; the mixed doubles crown went to Harold Russell and Sue Smith; the men's doubles to Dave Geen and Steve Bunnett.

In "C" play, Irene Lewis and Helen Philp captured the women's doubles title; Gord Smith and Dave Sneddon the men's doubles crown; John Smith and Barb Palmateer the mixed doubles honors.

Longer Television Programs In Cards for Next Season

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—You'll see longer programs on television next season and probably for many season to come.

That can be confirmed by a look at the 1968-69 schedule, which displays an increasing number of 90-minute, two-hour and—for feature movies—even longer formats.

The "long form" has been embraced by network programmers, especially those of NBC, which introduced the elongated show with Saturday Night at the Movies in 1961 and the 90-minute series with The Virginian in 1962.

Last week Don Durgin, president of the NBC television network, discovered on the "long form" before a meeting of the Hollywood Radio and Television Society. He pointed out that the 15-minute and half-hour shows, which abounded in early "TV, were a hangover from radio programming.

He cited these figures: In the 1959-60 season, there were 96 half-hour shows on the three networks. In the current season there were only 32.

Why the decline of the half hour?

"Most informational and entertainment media through the centuries have evolved a form longer than 30 minutes," Durgin said.

The same pattern of longer shows was established with motion pictures, which began as 30-second subjects in penny arcades. One-reel and two-reel films dominated the industry in its first decade, until the feature film was developed. During the 1930s and 1940s, 90 minutes was the normal length of a film; now movies average two hours and many run longer.

Durgin was bullish on feature movies as an audience-puller, and the network's attitude is demonstrated by its scheduling of three movie nights for next season. He explained that the addition of a third movie night was possible because NBC bought large backlogs from Universal, United Artists, and other companies.

"We knew that our Saturday and Tuesday nights at the movies were and are the No. 1 and No. 2 rated movie packages this season, according to Nielsen, both in homes and in young adults," he said.

"But we could not take full advantage of the strength of our feature film arsenal with only two nights. If we could go three nights and make the necessary arrangements with the producers of the films, we knew we could bring our full strength and power to bear."

Such decisions have brought complaints from critics and labor unions that networks are abdicating their creative functions—and eliminating jobs for movie workers—by devoting seven nights a week to old movies. But the viewers don't seem to be complaining. Ratings indicate that the home folks enjoy the diversity and superior entertainment of the movies.

Durgin held out high promise for the first regular news program in the "long form." Beginning next January, NBC will offer First Tuesday, a two-hour news show from 9 to 11 p.m. EST on the first Tuesday of every month.

Burning Permits Issued

TWEED — The Department of Lands and Forests reports the one-acre forest fire in the northern part of Barrie township has been extinguished.

Three other forest fires — in Grimsthorpe, Limerick, and Hinchinbrooke townships — are now burning, but under control.

A spokesman for the Department of Lands and Forests in this district said that Monday's rainfall "just wasn't enough. All yesterday's accumulation did," he explained, "was dampen things down until the sun comes out. It did, however, allow us to issue a few badly needed burning permits."

Rainfall accumulation, as reported by the Climalogical Bureau in the Tweed district was .14 inch at Tweed, 1.0 inches in While Lake and Bancroft. .06 inch at Dacre and Plevna, and .20 inch in Palmer Rapids.

Historical Society Lists Officers

NAPANEE — Mrs. N. W. (Helen) Hutchison, was elected to the presidency of the Lennox and Addington County Historical Society at the annual meeting held in the Memorial building last Friday evening. Although the Society was founded in 1907, Mrs. Hutchison is only its fourth president. Clarence Treverton, its founder, held office until 1915. W. S. Herrington, a native of Belleville, was the second president, holding office until 1947.

The Society was dormant for some years, coming into activity again in 1954, when Judge F. P. Smith took over the presidency. The rejuvenation had been due to his efforts. Friday night Judge Smith stepped down giving over the reins of office to Mrs. Hutchison, vice-president for several years, stepping up from the second vice-presidency on the death of Fred McConnell. She had held that office from the time the Society was reorganized in 1954.

In the election of officers for the year, Cummings Daverne was elected vice - president, changing places with Bruce Allenbrack, who is now a director. There is no second vice-president. James Eadie remains as secretary, Miss Betty Smith as general treasurer, and Mrs. David Smith as treasurer of the Macpherson House fund. In addition to Mr. Allenbrack, other members of the board are E. P. Edson, Miss Anne Turner, R. O. Fretts, and Kenneth Wheeler, a junior member. A new office was created, that of corresponding secretary, with Mrs. John Bonham as its first holder.

An interesting program had preceded the election of officers. The out-going president was paid glowing tributes by Wesley Allenbrack, past president of the Royal Canadian Legion, branch 280, who made a presentation on behalf of the Society, also by Mrs. Hutchison.

Moving pictures were shown of various events in the county during Centennial year, beginning with the proclamation by Mayor Lorne A. Smart on the steps of the town hall at the hour of midnight ushering in the eventful year. Others included were of a skating event in February, Pioneer Day, the Fun Fair, the Centennial banquet of the Society on the anniversary of its Diamond Jubilee; and celebrations in Odessa, Amherstview and Napanee.

Missionary Nurse Gives Travelogue on Rhodesia

NAPANEE — For 20 years a missionary nurse in Rhodesia, Miss Virginia Strait brought to her audience an intimate picture of the people among whom she works, and whom she has learned to love. Now home on furlough, Miss Strait is looking forward to her return to Rhodesia, probably in September.

She illustrated her talk with slides depicting the people and the conditions under which they live. She began her work under primitive conditions, holding her clinic under a tree. Now there is a hospital in that location, and Miss Strait has moved further back in the country, where the natives have had fewer advantages. She and two other white nurses, and two native nurses have a clinic where people come for advice and treatment. A doctor visits them every two weeks.

The new building at Lundi in which they work has a wide, overhanging roof, under which people may spend the night sheltered from rain. There are both public and high schools there, supported by the government, with native teachers whose salaries have recently been doubled. The high school does not yet take the two senior grades but these will be added.

Most of the drugs used in the clinic are supplied by the government, Miss Strait stated. Education is the great need. It is available for them but the fathers are reluctant to spare their children from herding the cattle. Gradually the government is making it compulsory. There are more girls in the schools now, many of them hoping to be teachers or nurses. Whites and blacks train together for these professions. There are now many native pastors.

When asked how she and her fellow missionaries reacted to the trouble in Rhodesia, Miss Strait said that they did their best to remain neutral, and to continue their program of winning and teaching the natives through love, and to satisfy their own desire to prepare the natives for the day when they will govern the country themselves. She states that she recognizes the weaknesses in the people, but that she also has an admiration for some of their native customs such as their never-failing courtesy toward each other.

Friday Miss Strait visited the H. H. Langford School and spoke to each room separately as this school has no auditorium. It was a timely visit, as some of the grades are studying Africa.

In addition to her collection of slides, Miss Strait had with her various articles to illustrate the country and the lives of its people. Among them were models of the native huts.

KISS WAS COSTLY

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The goodbye kiss bar-girl Ho Kuei-yung gave an American sailor on a street at Kaohsiung landed her in the unloving arms of the law. Nationalist Chinese police accused her of violating the traditional morality code, and the fine amounted to $2.25.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

BROWNIE HIKE

DESERONTO — Fifteen of the 20 First Deseronto Brownies were able to join the hike Saturday and have a grand time on a glorious April Day. They left their meeting place, the Lions Hall, about 11 o'clock and were back by about two.

Meanwhile they had strolled out the Boundary Road in leisurely fashion to a pleasant spot back of the Hugh Fingland farm.

After lunch they played games, had a singsong, and just rested. Some picked a few wild flowers along the roadside on their way home.

"It really was a good outing, and a lot of fun," their leader, Mrs. James Gaylord stated. Her assistant, Mrs. Boomhour went along, as well as two packs, Rose Roebuck and Sharon Hearns.

Harold Gall Heads Tweed Curlers

TWEED — The Tweed Curling Club elected Harold Gall as their new president, taking over the office held last year by Donald Chisholm, at a recent meeting held in the council chambers. The club's constitution limits the president's term of office to one year.

Other officers elected were: past president, Donald Chisholm; 1st vice president, Kenneth Thompson; 2nd vice president Bob Sullivan; secretary, Terrance Rashotte; treasurer, Helen Price; mixed club representative, Charles Heeney; open's draw chairman Ev. English; ladies draw chairman, Irene Chisholm; convener of junior curling Alice Thompson; Bonspiel chairman Wallis Moffatt; ice chairman Frank Country-man.

Donna English reported for the committee in charge of women's curling. There were 44 members plus spare curlers. During the past year the members had purchased a 75-cup coffee maker, table cloths, etc., and had a balance of $190.22 on hand.

Reporting on mixed curling activities, chairman Charles Heeney said there had been a shortage of lady curlers. He suggested that the Club would either have to cut down on the number of rinks or find more women curlers for the mixed teams.

Wallis Moffat reported that the number of men's rinks had increased from 10 to 12 during the past season. Bonspiel chairman Bert .D.unne, suggested that, another year, members wishing to curl would put their names on a list and that the committee would then make up draws for the inter-club bonspiels.

Treasurer Mrs. Bert Dunne, reported a balance on hand of $284.15, less outstanding accounts. The Club paid the grants of $2,975 to the Tweed Hungerford Community Centre Board for ice rental during the past season.

Mrs. Alice Thompson reported on Junior curling and the junior bonspiel for school students. Ten rinks of junior curlers from Tweed and neighborhood communities took part in this latter event.

In his presidential report Donald Chisholm noted that the Club had purchased one set of rocks and a piano. Garrett D. Morton, Clerk of Tweed Village, gave the meeting a financial statement concerning the cost of building and maintaining the Community Centre. The building had cost in the neighborhood of $94,610.13, and the artificial ice plant in the neighborhood of $45,800. The annual payment of principal amounts to $5,406.30. This, plus interest and the operating costs, etc., costs nearly $12,000 per year. The Centre is about half paid for, according to Mr. Morton. If not paid by revenue, then the cost must be paid from taxes, with Tweed paying 60 per cent and Hungerford Township paying the 40 per cent of the costs.

Donald Chisholm suggested that the Club should plan to erect its own curling rink. The incoming president, Harold Gall, told the meeting that he would want to wait at least five years before he would consider a separate curling rink, and then he would prefer to see an addition to the present arena to accommodate the curling area. If a new rink was to be build immediately, Mr. Gall told the meeting that he did not wish to assume the office of president.

A steering committee was appointed to look into the possibility of constructing a seperate curling rink. The members of the committee are: Keith Baldwin, Sanford Wilson, David Morton, Harry Martin, Joseph Chisholm and Clyde Bell, with Mr. Harold Canaleon acting as consultant. The committee will select a chairman from among the members and report to the executive in the autumn of this year.

A motion was passed limiting the voting power at directors meetings to the named officers and the chairman of the steering committee. The Club will be incorporated. Keith Cotton acted as chairman for the election of officers. About 50 members attended the meeting. A pot-luck supper was held at the Community Centre, Saturday night when the prizes were presented to the various winning rinks.

Campbellford AOTS Hears Talk on New Era

CAMPBELLFORD — Edward J. Buckley, co-ordinator of adult education for the Belleville district, was guest speaker at the Campbellford-Seymour AOTS Men's Club ladies' night in Burnbrae Presbyterian Church.

He spoke on the theme, wonderful era, mentioning the advances in science and their effect. By 2,100 he said, ten per cent of the population will be in agriculture, ten per cent in trade and the remainder in service and administration.

"If Canada is to compare with the rest of the world, it will have to have the best educated people available, for Canada's greatest resource is her people.

Bill Petherick was chairman, assisted by Clayton Thompson, who conducted the devotional period with Rev. W. Cox of Rawdon circuit. Lindsay Anderson proposed the toast to the ladies and Mrs. C. Thompson replied.

Piano selections were given by the Misses Carolyn Merrick and vocal solos by Miss Faye Petherick.

Labor Unity Exhibited in Tweed Strike

TWEED — The strike of nearly 50 workers at Sawyer Stoll Lumber Company entered its sixth week Monday after a weekend morale-boosting show of labor unity.

More than 40 sympathizers from Marmora, Peterborough and Hamilton showed up at the picket line Saturday to demonstrate sympathy for the strikers, members of the International Woodworkers of America.

The strike for higher pay also is being financially supported by other unions in Ontario.

Workers at Marmarston Mines in Marmora are reported planning a gate collection Friday at the mine. An $800 cheque already has been sent to the strikers from union symphonists in North Bay.

There was one disconcerting incident during the Saturday show of strength. Strikers who stack their picket signs in a nearby shed found the placards had been stolen.

The Sawyer-Stoll walkout which started March 16, is the first labor problem to hit this village in many years. The company, which operates four bee camps further north in the Quinte area, has been manufacturing wood pallets here since 1957.

War Game Over Before Police Arrive

TRENTON — Youths duelling with lighted firecrackers in tinder dry grass in a field off West St., prompted frightened residents in the vicinity to call police Sunday.

When the patrolman in the cruiser arrived at the scene, however, the war game had ended and no signs of those engaged in it were visible.

WILL HOLD COURSE

TRENTON — On Wednesday is a joint undertaking the Trenton and District Real Estate Board and the Bell Telephone Company presents a "telephone courtesy training course" at the Dutch Mill Inn on Dundas St., E. The course is being given for all brokers, sales staff and secretaries in the area.

POPULATION INCREASES

TRENTON — During March the population of the Trenton area increased by 46 according to a report on the number of new births at the Trenton Memorial hospital for the month.

In the same period adults and children admitted for care and treatment numbered 456.

A.N.A.F. Weekly News

Next Saturday evening promises to be a great treat for those members who enjoy country and western music. The entertainment chairman has engaged that well known musical group, "The Westerners" to supply the music and entertainment including a demonstration of square dancing. This will be the last spring dance and members and their guests will be welcome with no increase in the price of admission. The dance will be held in the air conditioned Audi-torium and it should be an evening to remember.

The chairman of the sick committee reports the following comrades still confined to their homes, S. Cherry, Ab Seaman, and W. Cumby, Cdo. K. Thompson is still in the Belleville Hospital. All have been visited and looked after. If you know of any sick member, leave his name with the steward or notify Cdr. R. Fletcher or his committee.

What with the hockey game on television and the Mr. and Mrs. darts match being played on Saturday evening there was a large and boisterous crowd in the downstairs lounge with everyone having a great time cheering their favorites. The winners of the Mr. and Mrs. were Cdes. D. Young and Marjorie Holmes while the runners up were G. Ackerman and Marion Dracup. Ladies High three darts was won with a score of 115 by Cde. Eileen Silk and the men's high score of 160 was thrown by G. Ackerman. Plans are being finalized for the big finals and will be announced at a later date. The Saturday afternoon darts doubles were played but owing to the sports afternoon having another engagement, winners names are not available.

The house chairman, Bill Storms and his hard working committee have thoroughly cleaned the air conditioning units and made what repairs were necessary with a little remodelling at the lady's and stairs and downstairs lounges will be kept cool and comfortable and will be a pleasant place to sit and relax in the coming summer months.

The regular Friday and Saturday evening socials will be continued during the summer, keep your eyes on the notice board after the week's hard slogging. It's your club and for your use.

Easter Seal Campaign Nets $2,222

TRENTON — Calling for Ontarians to make one big final push in their Easter Seal campaign the publisher of the club's weekly newsletter reported returns to April 15 totalled $2,222. The appeal is considered the club's No. 1 project this year.

REFLECTS OUR TIMES

MELBOURNE (AP) — An Australian insurance firm has introduced a new burglarsmash policy that reflects the troubled times in Southeast Asia. It covers "all insurable expenses incurred by a policyholder's family or employer in obtaining release of an individual wrongfully detained" by any foreign government.

To Your Good Health

Radium No Way to Remove Tonsils

Dear Dr. Molner: Will you give your opinion on radium treatment for removal of tonsils? Our family doctor says no, they might not regulate it just right and cause a burn or other harm.

I have talked to several people who have had theirs removed this way, and they say it's the only way. — H A. L.

My opinion is no.

I have tried consistently — most recently only a few days ago — to persuade people not to fear the brief exposures involved in whatever X-ray examinations they may need. But in the same breath I am just as intent on people avoiding all X-ray (or similar) exposure that is not necessary.

There certainly is no justification for exposing patients' throats to the amount of radium that would be necessary to destroy tonsils.

I would also protest against taking the opinion of "people" rather than of your doctor who knows the situation.

In addition, I am interested to know how you came to talk to several people who have had this radium procedure. In my 35 years of experience I cannot recall having seen a person who has had this done. Radium may have been thus administered used years ago, but it is not, to my knowledge, being so used now.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please send me the booklet, Tips on How to Stop Smoking, for which I enclose 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Also, I would like to know why my pulse gets worse each time I have one taken. Of the last five, each has been worse than the one before. — Mrs J H.

You'll have to ask your own doctor, because he has examined you and I haven't. But pulting two and two together, I would suspect that smoking may be one factor. There is every indication that smoking does affect the heart — and the EKG is reacting accordingly.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a girl going on 13 and have a sexiBur problem. I still suck my thumb. I find that I don't rely on that when I am nervous, only when I am asleep. Sometimes I try not to suck my thumb when I am going to sleep, but I wake up with my thumb in my mouth.

I realize this can be bad for my health and my teeth (I have buck teeth). I am afraid to sleep with my girl friends. I try failing asleep without my thumb, but one of my friends told me I was sucking my thumb while I was asleep. I was embarrassed and told her she was crazy, and that I must have been biting my nail. Can you help me? — Wet Thumb.

It sounds like a pretty ingrained habit, and I suppose there was some underlying psychological a rt (fact) that started it, but let's skip that. You don't need your thumb while awake; the trick now is to break the automatic habit when asleep. Have you tried making yourself mittens of some sort, perhaps out of an old towel? Some cotton around your wrists might keep them on at night, and the cloth might make your thumb unappetizing enough so you'll stop wanting to pop it into your mouth.

Johnson Challenges Business To Prove It Can Do Job Alone

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson Monday called on Quebec businessmen to prove that large-scale state intervence in private enterprise is unnecessary.

Speaking to more than 600 members of the Canadian Club of Montreal, the premier said he still believes private enterprise is the mainstay of economic growth.

But he challenged Quebec businessmen to prove it.

Mr. Johnson said that although the economic situation in Quebec last year was healthier than originally predicted and promises to be better than Canada as a whole this year, "the fact still remains that we are experiencing a slowdown in economic growth."

The Quebec government believed that private enterprise provided the main power behind economic growth and that investment and initiative on the part of the business community would go a long way toward solving the problem.

"It is up to you to do your part and to prove that those who think the state should take a much more direct and coercive hand in the various sectors of our economic life are wrong."

The Union Nationale government would "stick to its own job," while doing its full share in increasing investment in the manufacturing sector and promote economic growth, the premier said, speaking alternately in French and English.

Sun-tanned and relaxed after a 10-day vacation, Mr. Johnson said new investment incentives will be introduced early in the next session of the Quebec legislature which resumes today.

The budget speech embodied a measure designed to lighten the tax load on companies investing in the province between now and 1971. It also provided an investments grants system with a maximum of $200,000 that could go to companies building in economically weak regions.

He did not expect these short-term measures would cure all ills but are proof that we are not afraid to innovate."

He also said the economic situation in Quebec is brighter than that outlined in December figures from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Those figures were inaccurate.

A review of the figures for this month showed that "all things considered, we did better in 1967 in relation to Canada than was first predicted."

"Even more important, 1968 projections show we should outperform Canada as a whole."

Equipment Unused

Riot Control Weapons Stayed in Warehouses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Riot control equipment stocked by many cities remained in warehouses during the disorders that swept the U.S. after the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Authorities smiled instead on manpower, administered quickly and in heavy doses.

It is apparent that most cities followed the still fresh recommendations of the commission on civil disorders which said: "There are no all-purpose control tactics . . . the cardinal requirement is to have enough men available to put into effect whatever tactics are used."

Effectiveness of the early show of strength is shown by the relatively light death toll—30 in the more than 100 cities that had disturbances.

An Associated Press survey of nine major cities that experienced disturbances in the period of April 4-12 showed that officials followed the principle enunciated by Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit: "We would rather overreact than underact."

Well in advance of any signs of major violence, Cavanagh affected an 8 p.m.-to-5 a.m. curfew, went on live television to explain it to the city, forbade the sale of guns, ammunition, liquor, and beer, closed theatres and other public meeting places.

In his TV address, Cavanagh stressed the city was "fully mobilized," indicating all 4,200 Detroit policemen were available for duty along with 4000 state police sent to the city by Gov. George Romney. Cavanagh also announced he had requested that 3,000 National Guard troops be deployed in Detroit.

In the aftermath of the July, 1967, riots in Detroit, where seven killed and damage exceeded $44,000,000, there was criticism that the agencies reacted with too little and did it too late that they tried to match their build-up of force with the buildup in violence.

Detroit's counsel only two deaths in disorders this month, had 21 fires and 720 arrests.

The contrast in Chicago between trouble in 1968 and this month was in the nature of the violence and the response. The 1968 riot began July 12 and lasted until July 15 when guardsmen arrived.

Two years ago fire bombing was aimed at police and firemen and large mobs taunted police.

This time, the rioting began April 5 and so did the arrival of the guard—with federal troops arriving the next day. A total of 6,900 guardsmen, 5,000 federal troops poured in to help 11,000 Chicago policemen.

Disorder in Chicago, where 11 were killed, and damage was estimated at $10,000,000, began to taper off with the troops on the scene.

Washington, which had $13-300,000 property damage, also restored order with manpower. Looting and arson began on a Thursday night and continued nearly unchecked for most of the next day until enough troops were brought in to help the city's police enforce a rigid curfew.

SIU Outlines Program Of Tax Aid to Shipping

OTTAWA (CP) — Higher depreciation allowances, tax exemptions, tariff reductions and harbor fee discounts are among recommendations presented to the Canadian Transportation commission by the Seafarers' International Union of Canada.

The brief, which will be read by the commission's water transport committee at public hearings in Ottawa this week, presents a program aimed at assisting Great Lakes and coastal shipping. It also forsees a rebirth of a Canadian deep sea merchant fleet.

The union disagrees with shipping company proposals to restrict the registry of Canadian vessels. The problem was one of fair competition, not registry, the brief stated.

The brief makes three specific proposals for the rebuilding of an ocean fleet:

—Amend regulations to permit any Canadian-owned ocean vessel to obtain Canadian registry.

—Exempt from the 25-per-cent duty all ocean vessels less than 12 years of age applying to return to Canadian registry.

—Give any ocean going vessel an 85-per-cent tax reduction, net taxes, while actively engaged in ocean trade.

For Great Lakes and coastal shipping the union recommends:

—Revision of the Combines Investigation Act and the Criminal Code to permit shipping companies to form conference to set minimum fair rates.

—Elimination of seaway tolls for at least a 75-per-cent discount on tolls for ships of Canadian and U.S. registry.

—A 50-per-cent discount on all classes of harbor fees for Canadian-registered vessels.

—Duty free admission of shipbuilding supplies not produced in Canada.

—Subventions for basic Canadian cargoes breaking into new markets.

—Tax changes to allow 45-per-cent depreciation on a new vessel with a 25-per-cent rate. Depreciation annually thereafter when the ship is built in Canada or 25-per-cent and five-per-cent when built abroad.

Delegates To Hear Minister

The City of Hamilton is to be the education centre of Ontario from 1970 to 1975, during which the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations will be holding its annual meeting and convention.

Delegates will be voting on such problems as the social situation of the Ontario Indian, the treatment of emotionally disturbed children, the increase in juvenile delinquency, and the accosting and solicitation of school children off school property, submitted by Belleville and District Council.

Education Minister George Ignatieff, Canadian Ambassador and Permanent Representative to the United Nations, will give the keynote address, "The Challenge of Human Rights."

The Hon. Wm. G. Davis, Minister of Education for Ontario and many other educators and laymen will be speaking and discussing progress in education and child study.

Experts Disagree on Art

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"I am confused," writes a reader. "Two music critics I have respected just reviewed a concert by a famous string quartet. One of them praised the performance — the other knocked it. How can they both be good critics?"

This sort of thing bothers a lot of people. They feel that the critics must agree about a performance, or else one of them doesn't know his business.

But reviewing a performance isn't like announcing ball scores, where everybody can agree on the score at the end. Art has some objective standards, but there is a large subjective component in all artistic judgments, and experts have room for disagreement.

Nor is it merely the critics who disagree, as the public imagine. I used to attend concerts at the Aspen Summer Music Festival in the company of some of the best musicians in the world. At the end of a performance, the musician at my right might turn to me severely, while the one at my left held his nose in disdain.

If you would listen to a single Mozart concerto played by a dozen different pianists, you would hear a dozen different interpretations — and possibly none of them done exactly the way the composer had intended.

One pianist will stress Mozart's elegance, another his melodic line, another his gaiety, another his sadness, another his complexity or simplicity. Each may be right, the more facets he can find in it — and the more various the aspects of interpretation.

I have seen some 20 different interpretations of the role of Hamlet played (by excellent actors) as a callow youth, as a philosopher, as a madman, as a cynic, as an ideal-ist, as a hero, as a neurotic, as an incest-ridden neurotic, and as a flagrant homosexual.

What we forget — especially in America — is that the critic is voicing only one man's opinion. Despite his often vehement tone. He is expressing what he thinks, and not necessarily what you think you have to think for all mankind. In Europe, critics are paid less attention to, since the public reserves the right to make up its own mind on such matters.

But we are not so unsure of our judgment, so desperate for guides to the arts that we put more value on professional critics than we should — or than they want us to. A couple of poor reviews can kill a new play on Broadway — but not in any of the European capitals, where the theatre-going public is less dependent upon press reaction to a play.

Conflicting reviews should not confuse us. Artists themselves disagree as much as critics do: only privately, but just as pungently.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For April 24

Your birthday today: The coming year brings you many intuitive or psychic phenomena. There is a tendency to seek out the institution of society for shelter or study. Since most of you tend to misunderstand your mate and partners, you "go-it-alone," at least symbolically. Today's natives seldom make a flashy appearance in the pages of history, as their forte is secret or at least confidential organizing work.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Intellectual curiosity upsets the applecart today; once you get an idea, nothing will do until you try it out. It might just work. Be serious and work gently.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Today may bring the decision point in your work. In personal relationships, today may include something like a point of no return. Just be sure you mean what you say today.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Don't blurt out all the thoughts that pass your mind today — your subconscious may make them be correct. Make notes, instead, to remember today's investigations.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Normality is the keyword for today. Get with it early, do what you have to do — in good spirit — then reward yourself with the comforts of your home.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Keep up the good work. Give thought to further earnings, put your money and your plans. Take the time to express your feelings to those you care for.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): You need a change of scene today. Do the errand you've been postponing, or make a technical knowledge to your work. Welcome a new viewpoint.

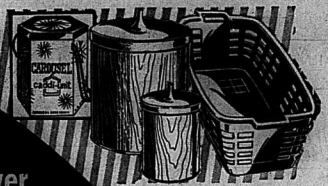
LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Indications are that your work will progress well today. Attend to the financing of your personal projects. Make it a lovely evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Today you manage better than most in meeting people halfway. Put heart and mind together and get solid results. Seek some serious diversion this evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Pay some attention to your health, get a thorough medical check-up if you have not had one recently. Put in a full day's work, plan to stay home this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): The day goes smoothly enough, just keep at it until you've covered your share of the work. Organize some fun for yourself this evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Good humor is quite within your reach today; try hard for it if you don't already have it. People will be more helpful than usual. Put some time into your hobbies.



PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Today is a good day to try for changes in working conditions. Knock out a full day's work, no matter how the change-bid turns out. Be attentive to your mate.

Prime Minister Meets Liberal Caucus

June 25 Election Issues Economic

Vote Timing Is Hit

OTTAWA (CP) — NDP Leader Douglas says the major issue in the June 25 election campaign will be the public's desire to know why Prime Minister Trudeau called the election.

In a prepared statement Tuesday, Mr. Douglas said his party is confident "of making substantial gains" in the election.

"The major issue in the coming campaign will be the Canadian people's desire to know why the prime minister reversed his position of April 7 and called this election."

Mr. Douglas said in an interview that Mr. Trudeau said April 7 he would meet Parliament before any election and put a budget before it.

"Mr. Trudeau has cold feet about meeting Parliament and having to deliver on the major issues of rising prices, rising interest rates, rising unemployment, the rising and still unmet demand for adequate housing and the ever chronic problems of agriculture.

"Before this campaign is over, it will be blatantly obvious to the Canadian people that the Liberal party and its leader are not fit to be elected. In politics to hope with our problems.

"Platitudes about the just society just not suffice." Mr. Douglas said.

McCarthy Heads Poll

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Senator Eugene J. McCarthy, alone on Pennsylvania's presidential preference ballot, was an easy winner in Tuesday's primary over Democratic rivals whose names had to be written in by the voters.

Only about one-third of the 5,300,000 eligible voters went to the polls.

McCarthy racked up a 10-to-1 edge over his chief announced rival, Senator Robert F. Kennedy, and he was 12 to 1 over Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey, who has not announced his candidacy.

In write-ins on the Republican side, Richard Nixon forged nearly 2-to-1 ahead of Governor Nelson B. Rockefeller of New York.

Stanfield Says Cabinet Is Weak

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Stanfield said Tuesday it is absurd for Prime Minister Trudeau to seek a mandate for the cabinet he appointed last Saturday.

At a news conference called shortly after Mr. Trudeau announced a general election for June 25, Mr. Stanfield said the prime minister has put together the weak parts of the former Pearson administration and is asking Canadians to perpetuate them in office.

He said Mr. Trudeau himself has no record, no policies and no proof that he can govern the country.

Mr. Stanfield said his party will force the issues in the campaign. He put high on his list the economic situation.

Canada has suffered from "a lame-duck government" since Lester Pearson announced in December his intention to retire. New solutions to pressing problems were being postponed for the election.

Mr. Stanfield predicted gains for his party in all parts of the country. The Conservatives had 94 seats in the 265-seat Commons when dissolution came.

He said he has visited every province, with the exception of Prince Edward Island, at least once since becoming Conservative leader seven months ago.

He would travel a lot during the coming campaign, as he believed there is no substitute for personal appearances during elections.

E. A. Goodman of Toronto would be national campaign manager for the Conservatives, as he was in the 1962 campaign.

Mr. Stanfield said he sees no advantage for the Liberals in Quebec just because they have a French-Canadian leader.

Quebecers were concerned about the economic conditions in Canada and about the constitutional problems.

While the Union Nationale in Quebec is a provincial party, Mr. Stanfield said he would be surprised if its supporters didn't rally to his side in the federal campaign there.

Told that Mrs. Trudeau said earlier that economic conditions are improving, Mr. Stanfield replied this is a matter of opinion but he hopes Mrs. Trudeau is right.

"Even so, there is a need to reconcile continuous long-term growth with price stability."

What about the inclination of voters to compare personalities of the different leaders?

"I have one advantage," smiled Mr. Stanfield. "I'm such a plain-looking guy that voters will tend to know that I'm not trying to be charming but to tell them the truth."

Medicare May Be Big Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — Timing of the Trudeau-boom election threatens to stake the national medical care program a major campaign issue.

Prime Minister Trudeau disarmed Parliament Tuesday for a vote June 25, a week before the July 1 starting date of the pre-paid, government-sponsored scheme to pay doctors' bills.

In the opening campaign salvoes, Conservative Leader Stanfield re-affirmed his promise to call a federal-provincial conference to revise the plan if he becomes prime minister.

He told a news conference the federal government has no right to impose operating conditions on the provinces, who must meet certain standards to receive their share of federal financial support. Mr. Stanfield would make the plan more acceptable to the provinces.

Only a couple of provinces had been expected to enter the program in the beginning, but that was before the election call. Several provinces objected earlier to the Liberal plan, which laid down high standards of coverage and portability.

The medical care program, a subject of dispute within the Liberal party as well, was the only clear-cut, specific policy difference to emerge in the hours following Mr. Trudeau's tenterhooks decision to go to the people instead of Parliament.

Three Men Rob Train

TORONTO (CP) — Three bandits Tuesday night escaped with $5,417 in a steel strongbox, but abandoned another strongbox minutes after they had robbed a CNR Ontario Northland train at Union Station.

Just before the train was to leave for Capreol in Northern Ontario, two men with stockings over their heads and armed with guns jumped into the baggage car and bound the lone attendant, George Aitchison.

The bandits loaded the boxes on to brewery store carriages, one box was abandoned when a wheel fell off a carriage. Police believe the second box was taken away in a car.

CNR officials said they had not been informed that a special money shipment was aboard the train. Union Station officials said only someone with access to confidential information could have engineered the holdup.

Paul Martin Now Senator

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau announced appointment to the Senate Tuesday of former external affairs minister Paul Martin, 64, and Edward Joseph Theriault, 66, of Digby, N.S.

Mr. Trudeau had said previously that Mr. Martin will be government leader in the Senate, a cabinet post.

Vietnam General Resists Pressure

SAIGON (AP)—South Vietnam's controversial national police chief has told his chief American adviser that withholding of American funds and equipment won't force him to fire police officials whom the Americans consider corrupt or inefficient.

Brig.-Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan wrote U.S. adviser John Manopoli that he will pay no attention to U.S. reports on police personnel "when they threaten to withdraw support as a means of applying pressure."

Manopoli is on leave outside Vietnam and was not available for comment.

Paris Likely Site of Talks

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Paris today emerged as the most likely site for preliminary Vietnam war peace talks.

U.S. officials and diplomats said the consensus appeared to be that the French capital will be the compromise choice by Washington and Hanoi.

They expressed this view at a White House reception given by President Johnson Monday night for heads of missions accredited to the U.S., at which choice of a site was the chief topic of conversation.

But French Ambassador Charles Lucet met all press queries with the statement: "No comment, because I honestly do not know."

On One Thing Grits and Tories Agree, It's Wonderful the Suspense Is Over

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament, talking election since last September, found itself faced with the irreversible fact Tuesday and dissolved in a furious release of tension.

Liberal MPs reared and hurled paper into the air as Prime Minister Trudeau announced a June 25 vote in the Commons and reporters hurried from the galleries to spread the news.

"New Brunswick is terrific in the spring," said Gordon Fairweather (PC—Royal), beaming. No thought of defeat could be found in his mien.

"As far as we are concerned in Western Canada, it is the finest thing that could have happened," said Warner Jorgenson (PC—Provencher). The Manitoba farmer said Westerners won't buy an unknown quantity like Mr. Trudeau.

Opposition Leader Robert L. Stanfield, who said last fall he considered it a duty to defeat the government, rushed over to thank Mr. Trudeau for presenting an opportunity.

Then he went into the corridors and a jungle of telegram cables to say he still feels the same way.

"I am confident the government will be defeated because it deserves to be defeated."

Mr. Trudeau himself called a news conference and said it would be just as hard to face the people in an election campaign as to face Parliament.

He said he called the election to seek support for "a comprehensive program of reform." It was generally agreed an election had to be called soon and an immediate one would dispel an atmosphere of uncertainty.

Constitutional and economic situations shaped up as the issues.

Mr. Trudeau's cabinet apparently was divided about whether the government should seek a spring vote or wait until fall.

External Affairs Minister Sharp, a dove, said he had favored a fall vote because he expected economic conditions to improve by then.

Opposition spokesmen said the Liberals were calling a spring vote because economic conditions will deteriorate by fall.

And that's the way it will go for the next two months.

Kentucky, Ohio Tornadoes Kill Eleven

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes struck small communities in Kentucky and Ohio Tuesday, dealing out death and destruction. Twisters also hit two towns in Michigan causing property damage but not fatalities.

The death count stood at 11 with scores injured and hundreds homeless. There were five victims in the Wheelersburg, Ohio, area, four in Falmouth, Ky., and two near Cincinnati.

A residential area of about six square blocks bore the brunt of the storm in Falmouth, a community of 2,600 in northern Kentucky. The business section of town was largely spared.

The twister, swirling out of thunderstorms Tuesday, struck at mid-afternoon at points near the Ohio river.

Falmouth Mayor Max Goldberg said about one-third of the small farming community was destroyed. He said property damage would run between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

To the east some 125 miles, Wheelersburg reeled under the vicious eye of another twister. The count of injured stood at 75 while rescue workers still crawled over the wreck-ps of more than 40 homes searching for other victims.

The tornado cut a swath through several subdivisions, levelling or damaging houses and busines. places in its path.

Near Cincinnati, tornadoes hit western Clermont County and then dipped again at Ripley in Brown County. The storm occurred shortly after the twister hit Falmouth; 35 miles south of Cincinnati.

Besides the deaths more than 50 persons were injured.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Wet cloudy weather will keep temperatures cooler than they were Tuesday, and still cooler air is rapidly spreading across the province, accompanied by strong winds. Prospects for Thursday are for some clearing in the southern and central portions of the province, but elsewhere there will be a few showers or snowflurries.

Political Partisans Start Quickly to Put Local Machinery in Motion

By HARRY McLEAN
Staff Reporter

Trudeau or not, the new political style must be a fact.

Even for the diehard Quinte district general elections seem to happen so easily anymore.

Less than 36 hours after Prime Minister Trudeau confirmed the June 25 referendum, local party machinery today is purring smoothly as political partisans prepare to challenge each other.

For instance:

(1) Hastings Conservatives already have decided that all ward organizers will meet Friday and map a nomination convention. But —

(2) Hastings Liberals — driving from as far north as Bancroft — last night set their convention date for May 15. And —

(3) Next political door over, Prince Edward - Lennox Conservatives announced a meeting Saturday with their chosen champion George Hees. Then, since Mr. Hees is a national party organizer, were able to rearrange the venue within minutes. Yet —

(4) Opposing Liberals revealed they would meet May 15 to organize a convention. For good measure they went ahead with a meeting of women supporters previously-scheduled which gave them a chance to launch a few initial digs at the enemy. Meantime—

(5) In sprawling Lennox-Addington - Frontenac Conservative incumbent Douglas Alkenbrack promised a nomination convention within a month of the election. And —

(6) Liberals indicated an executive meeting within 10 days to chart a challenge against Tory supremacy.

It was all a matter of breathless contact between local organizers and their men in the capital.

Yet the gifted, home t o w n amateurs, the men and women who feed the grassroots nurturing parliamentary blossoms, today are brushing just as easily around their hometown chores.

At least on the surface, — where much basic spadework has been accomplished in a matter of hours.

Suddenly, for the Quinte district it looks like an election of cerebral significance — where the hard, plowing jobs of political organization have been lightened by the ease of communications.

(Yesterday afternoon, Conservative chairman Ted Parker could confirm his Prince Edward - Hastings organizers would meet with George Hees this weekend. A few hours later Mr. Hees could confirm from Ottawa that the meeting had been switched to next Wednesday, without any problems).

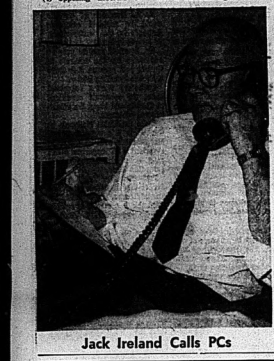
What it all might mean in Quinte constituencies is that modern communications have made political organization so easy the focus now switches back to the candidate.

It's now up to the organization to provide the style. The candidate must provide purposeful content to the political packaging.

And how do the candidates shape up?

In this era of new politics in the Quinte area they shape their platforms with a challenging certainty. The entire electoral district is — as it has mainly been since Confederation — Conservative.

And Lee Grills, MP since 1957, was the first to confirm his re-election bid — minutes after dissolution.



The Tory opponents are Liberals with New Democratic Party members hovering on the sidelines.

So far, there has only been one Liberal candidate to commit himself.

Immediately following dissolution, Robert Temple, city barrister, twice defeated, once victorious, confirmed he would again seek the nomination.

He was also present at a hurriedly-called meeting of riding executives in the Victoria and Grey Trust board room that decided on May 16 as the Liberal convention date at Centennial School.

The meeting was the nearest approach last night in the Quinte district to the old journalistic myth of the smoke-filled room.

Except it was air - conditioned and people drank from iced water c o n t a i n e r s. And few of the farmers, lawyers, women a n d businessmen smoked that much — if at all.

Their Conservative opponents, meantime, are ready to meet within two days.

Hastings riding chairman Jack Ireland yesterday called a meeting of local township party presidents for M a d o c Friday night. The meeting, which begins at 8 p.m., is to decide on a Conservative convention schedule.

In Prince Edward - Hastings the Liberals had a slight stroke of luck against the overwhelming Conservative presence of George Hees.

While Mr. Hees could speak with the weight of national personality, the Liberals still had an out.

Hees ago apparently, with almost clairvoyant perception they had scheduled an organization meeting of Liberals in the town hall.

Guest speaker was Donald Jess, defeated candidate in the 1967 Ontario election.

Mr. Jess immediately seized the opportunity to attack Mr. Hees.

"Our imported member (of parliament) from Montreal, or Toronto or wherever he's from has called our prime minister a socialist," charged Mr. Jess.

But he questioned where Mr. Hees obtained his facts.

Mr. Jess criticized socialists as "dabblers" lecturing Canadians on 19th - century economic theories.

He warned against separatism from "Victorian Tories," "Louis XIV French" and "DeGaulle separatists."

"Liberals," he said, "must sell the 'one-nation' theory, the Canada theory, the maple-leaf flag theory, and no other theory."

However, not all Liberals were feeling so positive last night.

At Picton, Dr. Lionel Dockrill, who quit the Conservative party in 1963 to unsuccessfully contest the local Liberal nomination, believed some sober thinking should be done before political commitments were.

The 47-year-old physician, a man-of-the-year winner and supporter of community activities—from council to sports — confirmed he'd had telephone calls suggesting he run against George Hees.

The calls came in shortly after dissolution was proclaimed.

"I think it would be unwise for any individual in organization to make a decision right now," said Dr. Dockrill.

"We've got a few days left to see what's good for the riding and I don't think anyone should p a n i c about it," he cautioned. Without some constructive thought I would not make an opinion."

Liberal riding president D. R. (Nick) Fraser says a meeting has been called for May 15 in Trenton to organize a convention schedule. At that meeting also he says he will not seek re-election as executive Liberal head for the constituency.

Conservative riding - president Ted Parker, meantime, has the least immediate worries of any political organizer in the country. Nomination before distribution became legal, adopted George Hees as their candidate from neighboring Northumberland.

Of all the Quinte incumbents Mr. Hees is toughest to tackle.

There are some drawbacks though, since the riding must pay the price for his personality.

As a member of the Conservative Parliament for the riding, Mr. Hees will be in constant demand across the country in the party's national interest.

Hence, indicated Mr. Parker there would be a necessity for early organization of the local campaign.

However, Mr. Hees himself is apparently undeterred by the challenges of his position.

"I'm going to spend as much time as possible in my own riding," stressed Mr. Hees from Ottawa last night.

"I'm going to be out of the Where's the Smoke?

Smoke-filled backroom is fading political myth these days — as this businesslike picture shows. It was the hurriedly-convened meeting of Liberal organizers from around Hastings riding, called to Belleville to discuss the election campaign.

PC Rod Webb Ponders Situation As Redistribution Eliminates Seat

Remember Rod Webb MP?

For all politicians, election-time is election-time.

But not in his case.

Certainly not last night, as he pondered his future after Prime Minister Trudeau called his June 25 election.

Not as long ago the Conservative MP for Hastings-Frontenac had momentary national recognition as the small politician who rallied the party around John Diefenbaker in a time of trial.

Last night, Rod Webb was virtually a man without a political country to call his own.

In short, he was a victim of redistribution, perhaps the first politician to feel the real pinch of the realignment of political boundaries processed after the 1965 election.

Both Liberals and Conservatives adjusted to the re-organization of political boundaries with good grace — and good luck.

An outstanding example is George Hees, approved by Conservatives in Prince Edward-Hastings after his Northumberland riding was divided elsewhere.

The 1968 election will see many familiar faces fighting over territory where they were hitherto known as neighborly friends or foes.

Redistribution has made Belleville the residence in a rural riding known as Hastings almost stretching far north as Algonquin Park.

It has robbed Liberals who used to vote Hastings South in the Bay of Quinte hamlets of sympathetic votes in Trenton and the Canadian Forces Base.

For Conservatives, it has added that many more Liberal - vote problems in the new Prince Edward-Hastings riding.

And so on.

But for those who bewail lost votes, contemplate the plight of Rodney Webb.

Once, his riding of Hastings-Frontenac was the domain of the environs of Peterborough to north of Kingston.

Redistribution has quartered his old riding — between Peterborough, Victoria - Haliburton, Hastings and Lennox and Addington - Frontenac.

Now, Mr. Webb was an electrician at Norwood, close to Peterborough, when he was returned in a 1959 by-election to represent Hastings - Frontenac. He won every election since then — and also made something of a name for himself.

He has made front - page news by cornering Prime Minister Pearson over alleged pledges to keep Bancroft's uranium active; he has been a hot contestant of the maple-leaf flag.

His finest flour came when he personally rallied the Conservative caucus around John Diefenbaker after party rebellion had threatened the Tory leader's primacy.

Last night, as he sat alone in his Parliament Hill office it was touch-and-go whether he might contest his fourth election camoaign.

"It took me by surprise," he said of the election dissolution. "I thought it would be at least next year."

He confessed he was uncertain as to where his political future lay.

He ruled out Hastings — the bailiwick with Belleville as its power centre. Virtually, he is a stranger in Belleville.

He didn't even mention Victoria - Haliburton. Lennox-Addington he felt was his strongest hope, although it would mean moving into the riding. It would also mean contesting the nomination from fellow-Conservative Douglas Alkenbrack.

In fact, he admits, "Lennox-Addington looks good."

This contrasts with Peterborough, presently a Liberal stronghold.

Last night, Mr. Webb said the Peterborough riding executive was meeting to decide on a nomination convention — and he was awaiting a call afterward.

"But," he added, "Peterborough looks rough. T h e r e are a lot of good men up there — top notch. There a r e a lot more interested in Peterborough."

Mr. Webb claims his continuance as an MP could financially affect his future. He says when he entered parliament he gave up his electrical appliances repair store in Norwood. In Ottawa, he shares an apartment with his only offspring — 19-year-old Fred Webb, studying for a graduation in law or medicine.

As for his own immediate future, he just repeated: "I really don't know. I have to wait and talk to different people. It took me by surprise..."

PECI Class 12A Wins "Achievement Shield"

PICTON (Staff) — Class 12A which performed the mammoth task of organizing and promoting the Prince Edward Collegiate Institute Model Parliament have been recognized for their efforts.

They were awarded the school Achievement Shield this morning at an assembly that officially got the Parliament in motion.

A special committee made up of five class presidents, and one staff member, Vernon Milligan, made the selection of the basis of group citizenship, scholasticism, and interest and involvement in school activities.

In addition to the model parliament the class has undertaken a number of school projects during the year, Free of charge they washed staff members cars, they induced the Dean of Loyalist College to visit the school and speak there, they undertook a number of decoration programs about the school and organized a series of dances there.

Runner up for the event was 12C, an all girl commercial class. That class organized an Easter gift drive for the Children's Aid association, a drive to provide costumes for the school drama club, and were among the top three classes in a chocolate bar campaign to raise funds for the school.

Class presidents are Brenda Rombeek, 13A and Gloria Fewster, 12C.

A special achievement award was granted this year to 14 most outstanding Grade 9 classes. The winner was 9F; runner up was 9A.

Inexperience, Economy Issues

Administrative inexperience and economical fallacies will be among Canada election issues — as Quinte parliamentarians view the June 25 campaign called by Prime Minister Trudeau.

Lou Grills believes the Prime Minister's decision shows lack of confidence in the Liberal administration.

George Hees cites dissolution of parliament as a parliamentary move.

Douglas Alkenbrack ponders why an election was not called in the fall — after the new Liberal Prime Minister had faced parliament.

All three men are Conservatives and will seek re-election or nomination in newly-distributed areas which still basically represent the same Quinte territory.

Mr. Grills, who has served four terms as Hastings South MP — and will seek one more — confesses surprise that the election was called so early.

Mr. Trudeau, he believes, should have revealed himself through action.

The decision to call an election, "indicates a lack of confidence in himself and his makeshift cabinet."

"He hasn't chosen to face parliament and present the many needs of the Canadian people," he added.

The main election issues forecast by Mr. Grills include the "inexperience, the complete inexperience of the man."

"He's a question mark to everyone outside of Quebec," added Mr. Grills. "The attitude of people I talked to here — and that's outside pollament — is not favorable to the Liberal government."

Increasing unemployment, rising living costs and taxes may develop as campaign issues, predicted Mr. Hees, now representing Northumberland, already nominated as Conservative candidate in Prince Edward - Hastings.

"There's the cost of money, the cost of housing, the difficulty farmers are encountering," said Mr. Hees.

Parliament "very definitely" should have been presented with a budget before another election," agreed Mr. Hees.

Mr. Hees, who predicted to The Intelligencer Mr. Trudeau would win the Liberal leadership a week before the party convention, said of the new prime minister: "I think his whole attitude has been a very irresponsible one. It's simply the approach of a person who has caught the imagination of people on TV but who has proved in no way, he has the ability to run the economy of the country."

Both Mr. Grills and Mr. Alkenbrack harked back to the recent tax - bill crisis debate when the government fought off demands for dissolution.

"There are strange anomalies in politics," pondered Mr. Alkenbrack.

"Last February they said an election would be bad. Now they say an election is necessary. How crazy can he (Trudeau) get? How gullible does he think the Canadian people can get?"

Agreed Mr. Grills: "He hasn't chosen to face parliament and present a budget or debate the many needs of the people.

"A few weeks ago the Liberal government stated Canada had many other pressing problems rather than an election."

"They haven't been consistent."

A member of the Wellington Fire Department chops through the roof of the residence of Ron Canrahan to get the hoses through to the flames. The Bloomfield home suffered heavy damage in the fire last night and most of the family's possessions were lost.

Family of Seven Left Homeless by Fire

Fire and wind joined hands Tuesday night in Bloomfield and their combined efforts left the seven-member family of Ronald Carnahan homeless.

Beginning shortly before seven in the garage of the two storey frame home a call immediately went out to the Bloomfield fire department.

Wellington's fire department was called in shortly afterwards but it was not enough to prevent the fire from spreading.

Chief Ralph Rolson of Bloomfield estimated that damage would exceed $5,000 to the home owned by Mrs. Waring Rabble and rented by the Carnahans. It was the second time in 10 years the home has burned.

Fast acting neighbors were able to salvage almost all of the contents on the lower level of the home — the upstairs wasn't as lucky. The family lost all of the upstairs furnishings as well their clothing, most of which was stored in closets upstairs.

Both fire departments were on the scene almost immediately — the Bloomfield pumper truck went down to an irrigation pond at the home of Wilbur King adjacent to the fire, while the Wellington pumper fought the fire.

The two pumpers and two tank trucks just couldn't beat the combined forces of nature.

According to Wellington's fire chief Jack Ogilvie "the wind got in behind us and it was just right for the fire and completely wrong for us."

After stopping the fire in one place, finding it burning elsewhere, almost running out of water (a tanker from Baxter's Canning Factory saved the day) and having trouble with hose lengths the fire was finally brought under control.

Mrs. Carnahan was alone in the home with her youngest child when the fire broke out in the garage filled with hay.

Chief Rolson said that the home was insured along with his contents but there was no information available as to the amount.

"The house was pretty well gutted," the chief from Bloomfield said, "and damage estimates could go very high."

Chief Ogilvie from Wellington pointed out that although the lower part of the house was not as severely damaged by fire, "the water was almost a foot deep downstairs when we turned off the hoses."

The family spent the night at the home of Mrs. Carnahan's sister, Jill Johns in Bloomfield. The children, who lost all their clothes in the fire, were unable to go to school this morning but a community project underway to aid the family should soon solve the problem of clothes.

Parties Present Platforms

PICTON (Staff) — All the noise and shouting of a fully fledged government election convention was simulated at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, as the school's model parliament got into full stride.

Yesterday the students started campaigning. Elections will take place on April 29.

Each of the four competing parties, New Social Credit, New Democratic, Liberal and Conservative, presented their platforms to the entire school.

Students who couldn't be crowded into the auditorium followed the campaign via closed circuit television.

The surprising aspect of the entire event was the seriousness and the thought which went into each of the platforms.

As organizer of the event, Terry Foley, described it this way, "They have seen the mistakes of the active government, and the farce that is being made in Parliament by all of the parties, and to a large extent have avoided them."

He explained that the event was sponsored and largely organized by 12A, a political science class at the school.

"The class was originally apprehensive about promoting the event," he said. "We were afraid that the students would be too apathetic, and too uninterested to do any serious work."

The class took the chance, and started the program a week before the Easter holidays. Since then events have proved that the original fears were groundless.

Students have worked long and late on the program, often until two or three in the morning," he said.

Last night, as late as 10 o'clock, many students were still wandering up and down the high school hallways providing last minute touches to party platforms, and election posters.

Each of the parties, with the exception of the Liberal Party fits 100 active supporters. The Liberals, the exception, have 136. In the week before the Easter break, the Liberals started their campaigning, signing up workers as quickly as possible.

Immediately after the holidays, a limit of 100 student workers will be given each party, the Liberals being exempt as they already had their members signed.

Each party is officially made up of 30 members.

The four party leaders have contributed the bulk of the work. They are: Rita Lee, Grade XIII; Lindley Baxter, grade 13, Liberal; Bob Murphy, Grade 12, New Social Credit; and Arnold Brown, grade 12, Conservative.

Following the April 29 elections the winning party is a) until May 1 to prepare a 'speech from the throne.' The speech must be given in 12A who will prepare 31 copies of it for distribution.

On May 2, the speech, outlining the party policy will be presented again in the auditorium, after parliament has been officially opened by the acting Governor General John H. McNeil, principal of the school.

Debate with the other parties will ensue, under the auspices of the speaker of the house, Mark Rabuett, a grade 11 student.

A final vote of house members of all parties will be held to consider the validity of the proposals.

Municipalities Ready To Set Annual Budgets

PICTON (Staff) — With the Prince Edward County budget and the Picton budgets set, there will be a short breathing space before the next rash of dollar and cent sims begins.

North Marysburgh will be the next county municipality to set their figures.

George Boles, clerk treasurer, said it is hoped that the issue can be settled by May 1.

He explained that presently the council there is being delayed by slow financial agreements from the township school boards.

The situation there looks hopeful. Mr. Boles said that at this time, it appears as though the mill rate there could be dropped by 2 mills, but stressed that nothing definite could be concluded until the final tabulation figures were in.

Figures from the High School and Public School Boards are still outstanding in Ameliasburg as well. The treasurer there, William Nightingale, said that the budget would be set at the May 14 council meeting if all goes well, and if those statements are received on time.

"A committee meeting will be held prior to the council to work out rates," he said. At this time it is almost impossible to predict what will happen be added.

June Election

So there is going to be an election. Rumors had been strong that Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau would go to the country and when the announcement came it was no surprise.

Canada has had its share of elections in the past decade. The electorate probably is weary of them. Five in ten years — in 1957, 1958, 1962, 1963 and 1965 — have inflicted on the public a vast amount of politicking and cost huge sums of money.

But there it is. This one promises to be more interesting than most. The main protagonists — Pierre Trudeau, leader of the Liberal Government party, and Robert Stanfield, Conservative and Opposition leader, are a study in contrasts.

Mr. Trudeau will be going into this election largely untested in the new role as leader of the country. As Justice Minister, however, he has shown the kind of maturity that he will need as prime minister.

As a stylist Mr. Trudeau has few peers. He has burst on the Canadian scene virtually out of the political blue. He is young but not too young. He is in effect a man for all seasons, appealing to all age groups.

Opposition leader Stanfield on the other hand is a very different kind of personality. If, in his relatively short term as Conservative leader, he has appeared vague and circumspect, this should not be taken for vacillation or weakness. He goes into this election with many years of success in politics. He leads a party of experience.

Essentially, Mr. Trudeau will be taking advantage of a tide of personal popularity, backed by political and academic acumen, and the knowledge that youth is on his side — his own and the growing numbers of young Canadians who have caught the new spirit of nationhood that manifested itself during centennial year.

This is the tide Mr. Stanfield also must ride if he is to win this election. And the campaign will be all the more interesting as Conservative strategy unfolds.

We may be sure this will not be a dull election. Canada as it enters its second century is more alive, more aware of its potential than ever before. Its young people are more vital and interested in the country than ever before. And in this 1968 campaign they are going to play a big part.

Lost Business

At a time when Belleville should be making every possible effort to attract business it is disturbing to learn of the foolish ways in which the city is being cheated of its dollars.

Thefts of money and records from parking meter courtesy boxes are a case in point. But if this were not bad enough city authorities have been compounding the problem by sending out court summonses to persons who had placed their 50 cents in the courtesy box only to have it stolen.

The excuse that the city authorities have no way of knowing who has paid and who has not does not help matters. The Cherry Valley farmer and dairy operator who had been in Belleville shopping for some "thousands of dollars worth of merchandise," and received a summons for five minutes overtime parking, may be a case in point.

"I would welcome customers — you would drive us away," he was quoted as saying recently in a note to the county magistrate's court office.

Then to rub it in, the visitor said he had cancelled his order with Belleville stores and in the future would obtain supplies from Trenton or Kingston.

That the city is planning to remove the existing boxes and replace them with two fine boxes — one at city hall and the other at the city police station — should go far toward eliminating the cause of the problem, pilfering of the boxes.

At the same time, city authorities when confronted with such a situation, should give parking offenders the benefit of the doubt.

London Bridge

A more improbable resting place for historic London Bridge after its purchase by a U.S. oil company could hardly be imagined.

Lake Havasu in Arizona is to be the bridge's new home. And if stones could speak or experience such feelings as nostalgia and homesickness, then they could take comfort in the fact that across the State line, in California, the Queen Mary lies at anchor.

Federal Reserve Chairman Says

U.S. Facing Its Worst Financial Crisis Since 1931

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The slow process of putting the U.S. economic house in order continues with huge international and domestic strains heavy.

Reports persist that Congress, back at work Monday after the Easter recess, is finally working out a program of budget cuts to go with the long-delayed tax increase of 10 cents on every income tax dollar requested last year by President Johnson.

These reports speak of a final acceptable accord about mid-May.

The option, as official U.S. spokesmen have been saying recently, is another round of speculative pressure on the soundness of the U.S. dollar. It is assumed Europe and other areas will decide in the event of much more delay that the U.S. lacks the economic discipline to meet both its heavy domestic commitments as well as those abroad, especially the war in Vietnam.

A day after the U.S. last week raised its prime lending rate to 5½ per cent—for the highest since the Wall Street crash of 1929, Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board said the U.S. is in the midst of "the worst financial crisis we have had since 1931."

Martin has been chided as being far too alarmist.

But Republican Richard Nixon, a likely opponent for the Democrat getting his party's presidential nomination, has picked up the cue with special reference to spending on the poor and particularly the Negro.

This is a painful domestic decision—how to trim the budget without adding fuel to the fire of Negro-ghetto unrest.

Civilian disorders broke out in the Negro sections of more than 100 communities two weeks ago. More is expected before the summer ends.

But there may also exist among Congressmen a heightened resistance to spending more on poverty because of the civilian unrest.

Nixon proposes cutting $8,000,000,000 from the federal budget but gives spending priority to the war in Vietnam. He says he has plans up his sleeve for alleviating city problems without spending.

This contrasts with the programs set out by Democratic candidates Robert Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy.

New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller, a rival Republican choice for president, has suggested spending $150,000,000,000 over 10 years by removing city blight.

The lagging U.S. space program and public works are prime candidates for cutting.

But other spending may well be affected too.

Meanwhile, the conservative weekly news magazine U.S. News and World Report gives high marks to Canada whose economy, it says, "is getting healthy again because the government did what many think the U.S. should have done months ago."

It says price increases have slowed in contrast to the U.S. pattern, expansion has been curbed and experts expect the inflationary cycle has been broken.

"Ottawa is practising what Washington is preaching," says the magazine, citing the tax increase, higher credit and reduced government spending.

"It's being asked when the U.S. will learn a lesson from next door."

Jargon Down The Years

Christian Science Monitor

In 11-century France they called it "preciousness." It got so bad that the affected fandies of the day would not ask for a "chair" but would request the "accoutrement of repose." But this mania for affected language did have one admirable result at that time. It moved one of the world's great playwrights, Moliere, to write "Les Precieuses Ridicules," a masterpiece of humorous social satire.

This fondness for high-flown jargon is apparently universal and ineradicable. It is as strong today as in the France of Louis XIV. It is why the principal of Johnny's grammar school tells anxious Mrs. Brown that her son is an "underachiever" rather than saying that he is "slow." It is why Prof. Norbert Wiener terms his system "cybernetics" rather than "helmsmanship." It is why, all over the country, good old town dumps are now being rechristened "town disposal areas." And it is why the garbagemen of Milwaukee have just demanded that henceforth they be known as "combustible truck loaders."

And who are we to criticize. How often has not this editorial writer, in filling out forms, put himself down as a "journalist" rather than as a down-to-earth "newspaperman"? To each his own, Jargon, that is.

Beards an Old Phenomenon

Kansas City Times

Young men uniformly wore beards on the country's college campuses 80 to 90 years ago. It was the custom of the times, definitely not a way of expressing dissent or being different. But there were also campus rebels in the 1880s. The centennial publication of the University of Illinois records that the collegians who wanted to assert a defiant spirit were those who shaved off their beards.

Sometimes they got scolded for their hairless chins and lips. The college paper, the Illini, singled out a handful of renegades for "using their razors too freely of late" and wondered if they had any regard for their personal appearance. Within 10 or 15 years, however, according to the Illini, long beards on the country's college campuses were 12 inches in length was popular while the bearded condition apparently had become passe.

So it has gone and so, presumably, it will go again. There is something about being 19 or 20 years old that makes a young man in academic surroundings want to do something drastic about his hair, whether it be facial or on top. Anything that was done about hair and whiskers a decade or two ago was old-fashioned and probably reactionary and who wants to be reactionary while the world moves on in exciting change?

Thus a prediction: By 1975 or 1980 at the latest, the last place we can now find a bearded youth will be in the groves of Academe.

Compromise on Divorce in Church Merger Attempt

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

Anglicans and Methodists in Britain are one step closer to merger with the publication of a final report of the joint commission which began work three years ago to lay a basis for union. The first stage of union is expected to be achieved by 1970.

Many differences which were supposed to be barriers to union have been resolved amicably by the joint commission, although, tragically, the theological differences seem to have given very little trouble. Where they got in the way to compare the Methodist and Anglican views of the Scriptures and of the creeds, they found far more common ground than had been anticipated.

The report has helped toward agreement apparently was that there is a wide divergence of views within the Anglican communion. The gap between Methodists and Church Anglicans in the view held of the sacraments, was not as wide as the gap between Methodists and high-church believers among the Anglicans.

The final stage, to be completed within three years, calls for mutual recognition of ministries and intercommunion. The Methodists are to accept bishops and the Anglicans are to accept the laying-on of hands by Methodist dignitaries. Rigidity is avoided simply by not defining too exactly what is meant by priesthood; the commission-

An ingenious compromise has been found for the vexed question of re-marriage of divorced people. The Anglicans now are stiff on this point; they do not allow it. The Methodists leave it to the discretion of the individual minister.

The terms of union meet the point by providing that a divorced Anglican may be married to a Methodist. A Methodist church if the Methodist minister first consults with an Anglican clergyman. The limitation is that a divorced Anglican, in these circumstances, may only be married to a Methodist who has agreed that no Methodist minister will perform a church wedding for a divorced Anglican and, for example, a Baptist or Presbyterian.

Union between Anglicans and Methodists in Britain is, on the whole, more difficult to negotiate than the Nfld union which is now being negotiated in Canada between Anglicans and the United Church. In Britain they must meet the difficulty that the Church of England is established as the official state church, in Canada we have no established church.

If the British can get forward on the strength of compromise and a will to agree, it should be far easier for Canadians to do the same thing.

Death by Drowning

Kingston Whig-Standard

Last year the Canadian Red Cross conducted a survey which showed the trend in deaths by drowning in this country. According to the survey, the total number of drownings during 1966 rose by 14% per cent over 1965 to a total of 1,265. Nevertheless, Red Cross officials are convinced that the trend in public participation in learn-to-swim classes these figures can be reduced.

Recently, special swimming classes at Queen's University were credited with saving the life of a 10-year-old Gananoque girl. The girl tumbled into the St. Lawrence River, but managed to keep her head and swim to shore where she was pulled out of the water. She had taken swimming instruction at Queen's for two years.

Arabian Federation Could Help Stabilize Middle East

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The richest federation in the history of the world was born officially recently. Most people have never heard the names of the nine states, but their junction could be a mildly stabilising influence on the touchy politics of the Middle East.

It also heralds the disentanglement of Britain's last foothold in the Persian Gulf area, an association that goes back to the early 1800s when she moved in to protect her trade routes to India.

The new Federation of Arab Man Emirates is made up of a conglomeration of tongue-twisting states called Bahrain, Qatar, Abu Dhabi, Dubai, Sharjah, Ajman, Umm Qalwain, Ras al Khaimah and Fujairah. They sound exotic but are mainly desert and important only because of geography and the sea of oil that floats some of them.

All told, they have a population of 200,000 living along the south side of the gulf. All except Bahrain and Qatar are called the Trucial States because in the 19th century, first the East India Company and later the British government worked out treaties with their piratical chiefs for the benefit of Britain's commerce.

Though the original intent of the truces was to put down buccaneering and the slave trade, the pax Britannica had the usual effect of saddling Britain with some responsibility— but no great power or inclination — to protect the sheikhs against internal upheavals.

With the passing of years, the archaic nature of the treaties and the ways of life they helped in practice to perpetuate have caused the British government a considerable degree of embarrassment in the Arab world and elsewhere.

In particular, their existence has tended to poison relations between Britain and the independent Arab states. But until recently the view was that a pullout might be more dangerous than remaining, since the pattern of politics in the gulf states always has hung in delicate balance.

Whether it will hang together is another story. Arab federal unions have a habit of falling apart.

There are exterior stresses and strains. Not the least is that Persia has a traditional territorial claim on Bahrain and that Saudi Arabia has an eye on chunks of the neighboring Trucial States.

However, Britain and the United States will be giving economic and technical aid during the emergent period, and presumably keeping a big-brotherly eye on the fledgling federation's territorial integrity.

Albert College Willing to Sell Property to City for Roadway

Executive members of the Albert College Board of Governors are willing to negotiate with the city for the sale of college property to allow construction of a connecting roadway between Wellington and Sidney streets.

The proposal is for the city to acquire a 66-foot road allowance across Albert College property to provide a convenient westerly exit when Highland Ave. becomes a dead-end.

Plans are for Highland Ave. to be cut off at Parker Street when Dundas Street traffic is channelled down the Devil's Elbow Hill on completion of the Dundas bridge and road-way project. The first phase of this project — the CPR overpass — is scheduled to get underway this year.

When it was learned that Highland Ave. was to be cut off, two Parker Street business firms petitioned for a connecting roadway between Wellington and Sidney streets.

Asked if report on the matter, the city planning department suggested that a connecting roadway between Wellington and Sidney streets was not warranted from a traffic standpoint.

However, area residents got up a petition of more than 200 names and returned to council requesting the road-way.

As a result city council directed city officials to negotiate with Albert College with the view of acquiring a right-of-way.

Lorne McDougall, chairman of the Albert College board, said the college had no objection to the roadway although it would actually have no use for such an artery.

He said, however, that the board executive feels the road-way should be at the north end of college property, thus avoiding division of college acreage.

Mr. McDougall said the college would not want to be put in the position of having to pay local improvement, charges for the construction of the roadway.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds said that negotiations looked favorable and he expected something would come out of the discussions with the college board.

He didn't expect, however, that there would be a ny recommendation to go before council at its next meeting on April 29.

The presidents of three area Women's Liberal Associations exchanged conversation with the national federation's vice president Mrs. Aileen Davidson (left) at the founding meeting of the Trenton organization last night. Heads of the local associations shown are Mrs. Pauline Sine, Thurlow township; Mrs. Betty Henley, Trenton and Mrs. Marylea Burrt, Belleville with a pin-up picture of their leader in the background.

Trenton and Area Women Form Liberal Association

TRENTON — Some 50 women from Trenton and area attending the founding meeting of the Trenton Women's Liberal Association last night expressed disappointment when they learned Pauline Jewett had definitely decided not to enter the Hasting and Prince Edward Riding as a candidate against Conservative George Hees.

Liberal candidate in the Quinte Riding in the provincial election Don Joss told the gathering Miss Jewett, talking with him on the telephone the other day, said there was a 50-50 chance she would run in another constituency but the possibility of her returning to her former riding was zero at this time.

On May 15 the Hastings and Prince Edward association hold a convention to choose a candidate to carry the Liberal banner in the June 25 general election.

Elected to office in the newly formed Trenton organization were Betty Henley, president; Gertie Lemoire, first vice president; Millie Sherrard, second vice president; Emma McHenry, third vice president; Ruth Whitney, fourth vice president, Rhoda Rutherford, secretary and Blondina Martin, treasurer.

The elections were conducted by Hastings and Prince Edward Liberal riding association president D. R. Fraser assisted by Mrs. Marylea Burrt of Belleville.

riding sometimes — but we're going to work that out."

The premium on Mr. Hees time as a Quinte district candidate is set by the fact he is a member of the party's national campaign committee.

This week the committee begins its sessions in Ottawa.

At the east end of the Quinte area is the unrulliest electoral built of all — Lennox-Addington-Frontenac. It runs from Napanee nearly 130 miles north to Kilaloe, East, it goes close to Kingston. All of it is the fault of redistribution.

The man who wants it is Douglas Allenbrack, Conservative incumbent since 1962.

"I welcome the election as far as I'm concerned," he admitted last night from Ottawa. "And I expect to be a candidate."

Mr. Allenbrack expected to face a nomination convention about a month previous to election. Already, he said, he had spoken to riding organizers and it looked like a convention would be set about a month ahead of election time.

There are some communication difficulties here. Redistribution ranges the riding from Adolphustown north to Kilaloe.

However, even distance seems not so discouraging anymore.

Liberal riding president Will McCabe, of Napanee says he expects to have gathered his executive together from the four corners of the riding within five days. Then a decision will be taken about a nomination, although he does not expect Lloyd Woolsey, three times defeated, to run. (Mr. Woolsey was unavailable for comment last night).

And that was it for the Quinte area last night.

After a few hours on the phone everybody seemed organized, Liberal and Conservative.

At the Liberal executive meet in Belleville s o m eone suggested a dinner should be held in Madoc as a half-way house for the riding.

It was a woman from Bancroft who protested, pointing out that if you drove 80 miles or so to Madoc you might better continue on another 25 to Belleville, since you could be guaranteed a more - populous convention.

Maybe the Conservatives or the New Democrats will decide otherwise.

However, what's significant is that, suddenly, communications have rendered direct contact between all political levels in the Quinte a r e a a matter of little effort.

In the 1963 election, it could be the politicians who must find means of communicating — and be direct about it.

SA Plans Mercy Rally Thursday

Mrs. Colonel Leslie Pindred will visit Belleville on Thursday to be a guest speaker at a women's rally to be held at 2.15 and 7.30 p.m. in the Victoria Avenue Baptist Church. Delegates from central Ontario will be in attendance.

COLONEL LESLIE PINDRED

Mrs. Pindred serves as director of The League of Mercy operations for the Salvation in Canada. This aspect of Salvation Army work is in nearly every town and city where the Army is found. It is engaged in a crusade of determined friendliness and serves the people and the community by visiting homes where the aged, the lonely, the sick, the bereaved and handicapped need the Army's care.

The evening rally is a public gathering with the Belleville Citadel Band in attendance.

HAROLD LEO GARDNER

Harold Leo Gardner, of 41 Purdy Street, Belleville, died Tuesday, at Belleville General Hospital following a two-month illness.

Born in Foxboro, Mr. Gardner was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gardner. He resided for the last 25 years in Foxboro. In 1962, Mr. Gardner retired after operating his own service garage since 1922. In 1914, he had begun his career in the automobile business by opening a Ford dealership in Foxboro. He opened an Overland agency in Foxboro the following year and operated that business until 1922.

Funeral services for Mr. Gardner will be held Friday, April 26, in the chapel of the John R. Bush Funeral Home, Rev. Abel Parsons officiating. Interment Foxboro Cemetery.

Fraser Joins Loyalist

Donald R. Fraser, leading Trenton businessman and community figure, has joined the administrative staff of Loyalist College.

Mr. Fraser, a former Trenton councillor, has been appointed assistant to college president John G. Bradford.

A lifetime resident of Trenton, he has been active in many phases of local affairs. A councillor for four years, he last year unsuccessfully sought the town's mayoralty.

He has been a member of the college's board of governors, president of Trenton Kiwanis and vice-president of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce.

One of the area's leading businessmen, he founded the real estate brokerage firm of Fraser and O'Neil Ltd., and established Trenton's first real-estate board. In Fraser Insurance Services Ltd. he built one of the area's largest insurance agencies. He recently sold the firm to join the Loyalist staff.

Society Requests $2,974 Budget

The Belleville chapter of The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society (CARS) at the annual election meeting, Tuesday night, voted to submit a $2,974 budget request to the United Community Services.

The funds, according to Dr. J. S. Lopres, president of the local chapter, will be used to support both local activities and national programs of the organization.

"One of our most important projects on the local level," he said, "is obtaining an additional full-time physiotherapist so that treatment service can be extended throughout the Quinte area. This would satisfy a need not previously recognized for some patients and reduce the difficulties of others in obtaining transportation."

Directors for the Belleville chapter appointed at the meeting are Mrs. H. McCabe, P. Hume, Mrs. E. David, Miss S. MacDonald, Mrs. J. Hiest, Bryson Leslie, Dr. I. Lopres, R. Freeman, G. Zemmele, D. Sowden, and A. Miller.

Miss MacDonald will serve as secretary-treasurer.

Tuesday night meeting dramatically emphasized the importance of CARS by a film, "Call Around the Corner," which traced the discovery and treatment of arthritis in an ath-ing young man.

The message of the film was echoed by the evening's speaker, Ross Morrison, CARS Campaign Director for the Ontario Division. "We had requests, honest requests from people needing help, for $740,000 last year. We were only able to supply $413,-000 to aid these people. The film you just saw," he continued, "shows what can be done — what is being done — by your organization and others across Canada." Mr. Morrison emphasized that only through local volunteer chapters can CARS continue and enlarge its vital role in the treatment and research necessary to defeat "the greatest cripplier today."

Speaking of the local chapter's contribution to the area, Dr. Lopres pointed out that during nine months of 1967, Mrs. Katherine Brown, the chapter's physiotherapist, had given 547 patient treatments.

Mr. David, newly elected chairman of the Belleville chapter, expressed confidence in the group's ability to contribute even more to the community.

"We're really getting organized now," he said. "And if we can pull nearly 30 people away from Mr. Trudeau's political announcements and the Stanley Cup Playoffs as we did tonight, there's almost no limit to what we can do."

Stepmother Disagrees on Introduction

Dear Doris: I disagree with you on how a stepmother should be introduced. Saying "my new mother" or "my father's new wife" sounds as if she could have been bought on a bargain counter. I am a stepmother and would much rather be introduced as much than any other. If you are a nice person and have the respect of the children it will show itself in the introduction.

If you are a stepmother, sooner or later they will get tired of the long name and shorten it to "Mother", "Mom" — usually some abbreviation which they never called their mother but it has the same meaning.

This is the same with a foster mother; if they like you they will sooner or later shorten it to Mother. I know. I am both a stepmother and a foster mother and also have children of my own, even if I am only 23 years. — Three Mothers In One.

Dear Three In One: I see your point. A person can say "Stepmother" and make it sound like a curse. Bless you for sharing your experience with us!

Dear Doris: My father makes sure he is the centre of attention when he attends a party. He loiters, tells dirty jokes which I don't think are funny, flirts with every woman around and makes the floor rattle when he dances.

To top it off he usually gets drunk and then is home. I never hear the end of it. That is, my Mom and Dad argue about the dumbest things, like who sat next to Mom. Is there any way to cure him without causing a scene or embarrassing someone? You can't ignore him either. — Attention Wanted.

Dear Attention: Don't try to Bring Up Father.

A shrug of the shoulders and a "that's my Dad" attitude might help. As you get a little easier with people you won't feel quite so much like shrinking into the woodwork.

The life-of-the-party type can be pretty embarrassing to a sensitive soul — but I can think of things that worry me more.

To Nearly Seventeen: You don't have to be sloppy because the rest of your family are. Take pains about the way you look and behave, and people will judge you on your own merits. What's more, what you do may even rub off on your brothers and sisters.

Opening other people's mail is a real breach of privacy. If Mom and Dad won't take a hand in seeing that your letters get to you unopened, try the General Delivery at the post office.

Confidential to Very Desperate: Answering all your questions would take up a whole column. If you really want some answers, as well as that booklet about hair care, then write in again, this time sending me an address.

Raisin Butterscotch Squares

By MARY MOORE

When unexpected drop-ins drop their hats at your place, if there "isn't a thing in the house to eat" you can beat up these bars and bake them and serve with coffee or milk.

Raisin Butterscotch Bars are rich and chewy and verge on being a confection. They are as close to being a bar of butterscotch as a candy bar can get. The children love them. I recommend them for their speedy preparation.

RAISIN BUTTERSCOTCH BARS

1/2 cup butter (or half - and - half butter and shortening or oil)
1 cup light brown sugar
1 egg
¾ cup stirred but unsifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup California raisins
½ cup butterscotch chipits
Into heater bowl: measure butter (or shortening and boiler or oil and butter) and sugar and beat until creamy. Add egg and beat. Measure flour and to it in measuring cup add the salt and baking powder and with small spoon stir them then add to butter mixture along with vanilla. Beat to thoroughly blend. Beat in raisins and butterscotch chipits for about 15 seconds or until uniformly mixed.

Butter an 8¾" x 8¾" pan and turn batter into it, pushing it into corners and smoothing top. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 26 to 30 minutes at about centre of oven. (Note: If these are baked in an 8" x 8" pan they will be thicker and will require 35 minutes.) Be careful not to burn these for they have a high sugar content. While the mark into squares or bars but do not drag your knife — move it up and down to avoid cracking the crust. Later when cool, completely cut through and separate.

Co-ordinator Helps Indians

TORONTO (CP) — Another person going from her home in Sudbury to the nearby Indian reserve might have been disturbed because the Indians had fewer possessions than her self-exiled.

Carol Wabegijik was interested because it seemed to her that the material that made possessions less important than in the city.

Going into a reserve where none of this mattered, life seemed phoney in a society where people felt they had to have a car.

"I was seeing there was something good that the Indian had to give me," she says.

Carol, now 22, was raised in Sudbury. She says she developed her convictions during her growing-up years, seeing the contrast between life in the town and among her relatives on the reserve.

It now is part of her job to put her convictions to work among Indians and non-Indians as co-ordinator of Intercultural projects for the YWCA of Canada. She also does volunteer work that overlaps, as an executive of the Canadian Indian Youth Council, the Indian-Eskimo Association and the International Human Rights Committee of Canada.

For all of them she helps organize workshops, meetings, seminars.

"I would like to see the education of the Indian and the non-Indian to be more aware of one another. There should be more integration of the two groups in Canadian society. They are part of what makes Canada unique."

Carol says she believes Indian culture has something to offer today's tension-ridden, money-conscious society.

"Indian people have always had a high regard for the individual. Therefore we don't judge, and we can relate to one another. We talk about the 'white man', for instance, but don't stereotype."

She says people who are worried about war, about generation gaps, about inability to communicate might find a regard for the individual a useful attitude.

"People are seeing we have to come back to humanity.

"Society is beginning to look at the Indians now and what they have contributed to North America.

Don't Eat Well

MONTREAL (CP) — Elderly people cannot maintain good diet and benefit from early medical care with the continuing rise in the cost of living, says Doris Small, district director of the Victorian Order of Nurses. Fifty-four per cent of all VON visits last year were to people over 65. The most common illness treated is anemia.

Ann Landers

Parrot Imitates Woman's Laugh

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter about the woman with the terrible laugh brought back some 40-year-old memories. I, too, had a laugh that was out of the ordinary, but I never knew until I was tipped off — by a bird.

Several years ago my husband and I went to the Coast to visit my brother and sister-in-law. The first morning we were there I was awakened by the ear-splitting racket of their parrot. He kept screeching, "Ha ha ha he he he ho hee hee hee . . ." I immediately went to my sister-in-law and asked what in the world the screeching was all about.

ANN LANDERS

"Oh," she replied, in her usual low-key manner, "Polly is imitating your laugh." I said, "Do I sound like that?" She answered "Yes. It's a perfect imitation." I couldn't believe it at first, but after a while I had to admit it was true. You can be sure I toned down my laugh considerably after that.

Both my brother and the parrot are gone now but I recall the incident whenever I hear an unusual laugh and I say to myself, "That person should go visit someone who has a parrot." — FORMER SCREECHER.

DEAR FORMER: Blessings on Polly. She did you a great favor. But you still haven't had the last laugh — read on:

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I recently read in your column the letter from the woman who complained because her mother-in-law had a laugh like a rooster. The daughter-in-law found this frightfully embarrassing, especially when they went to the movies.

If she will send me her mother-in-law I will send her mine. My husband's mother has not cracked a smile in the 24 years I have known her. I have often thought if very odd that the woman had not heard anything funny since I came into the family.

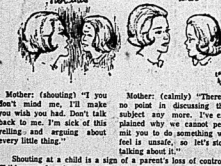
Please print my letter, Ann, and let's hope the complaining lady sees it. That rooster racket should be music to her ears. — GRIMSVILLE.

DEAR GRIM: Thank you — and cockadoodledoo.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 54 and going with a man 69 years of age. We plan to marry this summer. One thing is holding us up. He wants me to sign a prenuptial agreement which leaves 75 per cent of all his holdings to his three children if he dies before I do. I do not think this is fair, especially since I have not asked him to sign any agreement. I have three children also. I am willing to leave everything I have to him.

If I give this man several years of happiness I think I am entitled to whatever he has. After all, his children are all married and they don't need anything. What is your opinion? — NOT GREEDY JUST PRACTICAL.



DEAR N.G.: Your offer to leave everything to your husband-if-you should predecease him is a noble gesture, but an empty one. According to the insurance actuaries, you have another 19 years to go and I'm sorry I can't say the same for him.

State laws vary. I urge you to see a lawyer and learn the facts about a child's legal share of a parent's estate. What concerns me, however, is that you say nothing about your feeling for the man, you speak only of the financial problem.

The whole thing smells like last week's fish.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: (shouting) "I you don't mind me, I'll make you wish you had. Don't talk back to me. I'm sick of this yelling and arguing about every little thing."

Mother: (calmly) "There's no point in discussing the subject any more. I've explained why we cannot permit you to do something we feel is unsafe, so let's stop talking about it."

Shouting at a child is a sign of a parent's loss of control. Children need quiet, firm discipline if they are to learn to control themselves.

VON Reports 288 Visits

The regular monthly meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses, Belleville Branch was held at the YMCA.

Mr. R. L. Porter, executive director of the United Community Services of Belleville and two members of the budget committee attended as observers and were prepared to answer questions.

The president, Mrs. H. H. McLachlan and the assistant nurse Miss Norma Douglas, Reg. N. attended the annual meeting of the V.O.N. Ontario in Toronto on April 2nd. The president gave a most comprehensive account of the proceedings and also announced that it was hoped that the territorial representative of District No. 5 VON Ontario would be arranging to visit the Belleville Branch shortly.

The nurse in charge, Miss Norma Goudal, Reg. N. in her monthly report stated that 288 visits were made by the nursing staff during March.

The Experts Say

Big City Life Upsets Small Town Girl

TORONTO (CP) — The handsome prince turned into a frog may not have felt much worse than the shiny young country girl who looks at the average morning face in a city rush hour and fears her own might turn into that.

The never-ending traffic, the way money talks, the indifference and the competition can all be upsetting.

Josephine Chaisson says the noise from a small town to a big one confronts girls with a barrage of new experiences most find hard to assimilate quickly.

"Girls who were used to feeling most adequate at home suddenly feel unable to cope. They are facing personal problems they never had at home. They need help to understand they are not falling to pieces, that it is part of a normal adjustment."

Mrs. Chaisson is director of housing services for the Metropolitan Toronto YWCA. As such she must sometimes take girls under her care who have severe problems. Most of her temporary charges, though, are girls who come to the city to look for a job or go to school, and who are surprised to find themselves at sea.

"A lot of girls are actually frightened of the traffic. They find its pace terrifying. They will go the most roundabout way to work to avoid busy intersections.

"They ask: 'Why is it that city people are so unhappy compared to country people? They never smile and they get on the subway looking disgruntled.' The girls find this upsetting. They think: 'Is this what the city's going to make of me?'

"The other thing is, they feel so out of it because they don't know anybody and nobody knows them. It's more than a loss of identity. It is almost a sense of not being worth anything."

Mrs. Chaisson says many of them come from communities where people know one another's problems and make allowance, as well as knowing one another's assets. She says they feel in the city as if no one cares because they are not worthwhile enough.

She says most of the girls arrive a day or two before they have to get to work or school, to find their way around, but few of them prepare themselves otherwise.

"Most have had little or no experience in managing money or making decisions. They come from such protective homes. When they get here, with such a mass of choices, so many things seem cheap to them, gadgets and trinkets. If you are on a budget you don't buy very many of those before you are broke."

Girls arrive without a job and without enough money to tide them over until they get one. Their parents may, with difficulty, have supplied them with $15 or $20, expecting it to last two weeks. It will probably only last a few days, even stretched by the Y's least-expensive accommodation.

Some girls misjudge the number of jobs available they are competing to fill. They look at pages of want ads and think there are lots of jobs around.

"In addition to money, there is the psychological damage of going home in defeat to worry them.

"If they have no skills and have only Grade 10, it's a most difficult situation. It's becoming increasingly difficult for these kids to find anything to do that will support them. We have some earning low salaries, and they can just make ends meet. They have a really tough time, and no hope for advancement unless or until they raise their qualifications at night school."

Mrs. Chaisson says that while the girls are in the Y residence, the staff will try to help. She says the girls make friends quickly and try to help one another both practically and socially.

"We are pleased that they do. When they help they are developing a concern for other people that's part of growing up."

Church Groups

ST. THOMAS A.C.W.

MINTO — The Easter meeting of St. Thomas ACW was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ed Colden when Mrs. Preston opened the meeting. The president welcomed all and expressed appreciation to Mrs. Colden. Some business was discussed and the annual thank-offering handed in.

The program followed with each member contributing. Mrs. Ruth Titterson presided at the piano.

Moving Wedding

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Amalia del Ponte, 36, met Paolo Longoni, 36, on streetcar No. 29. She took another ride on the same streetcar recently, this time as Mrs. Longoni, along with a crowd of wedding guests. Longoni, a publicity man, said he paid $48 for a three-hour ride through the city during which the wedding banquet was served.

I SAVED $4.90

"I always knew I could save at Food City-and my shopping test proved it!"

Mrs. Donna McMurray,
17 Bowmen Ave.,
Barrie, Ontario.

Mrs. McMurray, along with over 40 other Ontario housewives has made the Food City comparison shopping test. They bought a weekly order at a regular supermarket and then the identical list at Food City and compared the totals. In every case Food City has shown substantial savings. Mrs. McMurray's shopping totals were $49.92 at the regular supermarket and $45.02 at Food City - a saving of $4.90 or 10.8%. Try Food City this week and prove how you too can save.

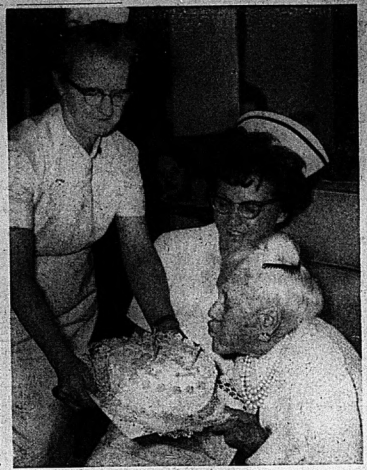
Bridge Club Concludes Year's Events



Another bridge season came to a successful close on Monday evening when the members of the Belleville Ladies' Bridge Club met for their annual dinner and meeting at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Mrs. Clyve Ryan, the president, conducted the meeting and thanked Mrs. W. McCormick who was on hand to present the McCormick Realty Company trophy to the winners of the bridge for the year.

The new slate of officers for the coming year was named as follows: president, Mrs. V. White; vice-pres., Mrs. E. Fahnan; secretary, Mrs. C. Miller; treasurer, Mrs. H. Mott; score-keepers, Mrs. E. Bateman and Mrs. H. Mott; directors, Miss E. Adams, Mrs. J. Cox, Mrs. E. Bateman and Mrs. C. Ryan.

Bridge winners for the year were announced with the first prize winners, Mrs. W. McBride and Mrs. James Gill; second, Mrs. M. Levine and Mrs. F. Vealland; third, Mrs. H. Townsend and Mrs. H. Turley; section winners, Mrs. F. Knudsen and Mrs. H. Kothe; Mrs. E. Smith and Mrs. A. Lewis; Mrs. J. Partridge and Miss E. Gladney; Mrs. R. Smith and Mrs. R. Miller; slam point winners, Mrs. W. McBride and Mrs. J. Gill.

At the close of the meeting an evening of bridge was enjoyed with the following bridge winners, 1st, Mrs. J. Gill; 2nd, Miss Barbara Graham and 3rd, Mrs. A. Walters; lucky door prizes, Mrs. W. McBride, Mrs. E. Pugh, Mrs. R. Ketchem and Mrs. W. McCormick.

100 Plus Three

Mrs. Dora Dodd, Hastings Manor, gives out with a big puff to blow out the candles on her birthday cake. Mrs. Dodd, a native of Germany but living almost all her life in the Bancroft area, celebrated her 103rd birthday. Helping to hold the cake are Mrs. Mildred Rathwell and Mrs. Marion Sproule.

Centenarian Honored at Auxiliary Meet

A 103 - year - old resident of Hastings Manor stole the limelight at the recent meeting of the Auxiliary held in the Manor library.

Following the business portion of the meeting members met with the residents for the usual birthday party at which time centenarian Mrs. Dora Dodd assisted by Frederick Mack who was celebrating his 80th birthday cut the special cake.

Mrs. F. Davidson presided for the meeting when all committee reports were given. Mrs. Kingston reported that there had been seven rose bowls sent to residents who were ill in the Belleville General Hospital during the past month.

Plans were announced for future events and it was noted that Mrs. Parrott and Mrs. Atkins will be showing a film for the residents; also a bingo is to be held for them on May 3. Owing to the next meeting falling on a holiday Monday, members will meet one week previous on May 13.

At the close of the meeting all enjoyed a social half hour at which time Mrs. McLaughlin and Mrs. Jeffery poured tea.

KNOW YOUR SHOES

MONTREAL (CP) — The Leather Bureau of Canada has published a glossary of useful shoe-buying terms. For example: saline refers to a transparent mirrored look; ballet look to flat heels with tiny instep straps and fluffy bows; lilities to tongues and other fringed details for he-she shoes and boots.

"Mr. Reynolds is no longer with us. He sank a long putt on the final hole to beat the manager."

Optimum Is Not Best

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

When you use various expressions, do you know that — "To the nth degree" doesn't mean to the farthest, or largest, or indefinite number?

— "a shambles" is not just any kind of mess, but one that involves bloodiness?

— "a dilemma" is not a mere difficulty or problem but a set of two choices, each of which is equally unsatisfactory?

— "to enhance" means to make or become larger, and thus it is absurd to write an ad about "a girdle that enhances your figure"?

— a French "gendarme" is not the equivalent of a London bobby or a New York cop, and indeed is not a Parisian policeman at all?

— a "theorpriest" is not just a plan or scheme, but (in the engineering industries, which it comes from) it is the final stage of paper design.

— a "bottleneck" is something that impedes the flow because it is too small; thus, to speak of "a bigger bottleneck" is a contradiction in terms.

— a "casualty" is an accident, and not the person to whom it happens, even though the military prefer to ignore this fact?

— "the optimum" is not the best, or the fastest or the most anything, but is the product of conflicting forces; as the optimum speed of a car is not the fastest it can go, but its most satisfactory speed in traffic, which will result in the least gas consumption and the least wear and tear, and yet arriving as quickly as possible?

— "the protagonist" is not the opposite of antagonist, with the one being for and the other being against; a protagonist is a leading character, who can be for, against, or indifferent.

— "begging the question" does not mean evading a straight answer; it is, rather, a precise term in logic, which means assuming the very position which is in need of proof?

— "a leading question" is not one framed to trap or embarrass the person questioned; instead, it is one designed to help him give the answer wanted by the questioner — which is why a lawyer cannot ask such a question of his own witness?

— "the devil's advocate" is not a tempter of the good, or a whitewasher of the bad, but a prosecutor who is assigned to find evidence against the canonization of a candidate for sainthood?

— "coming to fruition" does not mean becoming fruitful or maturing, but the enjoyment that comes from attainment or possession of a goal?

Alex Ricard Gets Post On Board

Alex Ricard of Belleville was named an executive board member of the Ontario Council of Barbers at a meeting in Toronto Monday.

Glenn Henderson of Owen Sound was elected president. Vice presidents are: Elmer Hurtubise, Ottawa, Robert Maguire of London and Frank Kieffer, Kitchener, was named recording secretary.

Other board members are Phillip McGraw of Windsor, E. P. Tracy of Fort William, Bruce McCulloch of Brantford and Wayne Mills of Owen Sound.

Kiwanians Will Sponsor Auction Sale

PICTON (Staff) — Picton Kiwanians won't be throwing away much for the next three months.

The club will hold a "mammoth auction sale" at the end of July, marketing everything from 'soup to nuts' announced Past President William Strachan at the Kiwanis meeting Tuesday.

He called upon members for donations of any size, shape or form.

Proceeds from the production will go towards community work and towards underprivileged children.

The sale is to be held at the County Centre. It will be broken down into at least 15 categories said Mr. Strachan.

As well as general odds and ends it is hoped that cars, hardware, cakes, and even holstein calves will be auctioned.

Mr. Strachan explained that the cars will hopefully be granted by local sales lots at cost prices.

A similar program held here several years ago raised $1,000.

Firefighters And Council To Arbitrate

TRENTON — Councillor Gerald Weaver chairman of persons and property advised council negotiations between the town and Local 1328 of Trenton Firefighters would have to be decided by arbitration. He said the parties involved had failed to agree on amendments of the arrangement in force with the Association since 1966.

The firefighters seeking increased wages and certain other benefits have been negotiating since the first of the year.

The Associations contract continues in effect until the arbitration board rules on the firemen's proposals.

Will Set Mill Rate On Mayor's Return

TRENTON—Councillor Ted Pinker, chairman of finance, said his committee was in a position to strike the mill rate but had postponed the date of the intended decision until Mayor James MacDonald was available. The mayor reported to be visiting in Ottawa was absent from the meeting Tuesday night. There was no confirmation when he was expected to return.

GIRLS REFUSED HIM

NAIROBI (AP) — Kenya's national assembly members laughed when legislator Odero Sar urged Attorney-General Charles Njonjo to introduce a law compelling lawmakers to marry, on grounds that "leaders need wives to understand human problems." Njonjo, a bachelor, pleaded that he had been rebuffed by all the girls to whom he proposed.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League Eastern Ontario Club

MAINE, Speed enforcement— The Maine Automobile Association has requested all motor clubs to inform members of the widespread use of radar in that state. Drivers are warned to watch for radar signs and observe posted speed limits.

QUESTION: When do lower rates go in effect in Florida?

ANSWER: Some motels lowered their rates on March 31st, others did so on April 15.

QUESTION: We are driving to Washington, D.C. the end of the month and would like to drive south along the Skyline Drive in the Blue Ridge Mountains, Virginia. How long is this drive and is this a good time of year to go? Also, is this a good fast route down and a scenic route back.

ANSWER: Spring or fall is the best time of year to make this trip. The Skyline Drive runs 105 miles through one of the most spectacular and scenic highways in the east. At intervals along the drive are parking overlooks, which afford superb views of the Blue Ridge Mountains. A few miles west of the Skyline Drive on U.S. 211 are Luray Caverns, which are outstanding. These are made up of huge connecting rooms rather than tunnels. Massive halls are covered in flowstone, a calcium carbonite that glitters and glows. In some places the walls look like frozen waterfalls, in others like icing spilling over the edge of a cake. In one hall the giant stalactites which hang from the ceiling are struck by rubber hammers to produce eerie music.

Fast route down: Take No. 81 from Ivy Lea Bridge to Allentown Pa., No. 22 to Harrisburg, Pa., by-pass Harrisburg on No. 83 to Baltimore, Maryland, bypass Baltimore on 695 to Baltimore - Washington Parkway, take New York Avenue into the White House in Washington. Leaving Washington take No: 66 and No. 55 to Front Royal, the beginning of the Skyline Drive.

Scenic route back: Take Skyline Drive north to No. 522, No. 340 to Frederick, Maryland, No. 15 to Trout Run, Pa., No. 14 North to New York. Thruway take this east to Syracuse, No. 81 to the Ivy Lea Bridge.

QUESTION: When is the Kentucky Derby this year and which route is the best to take? Also, what are the main places of interest to see in the vicinity, especially the horse farms.

ANSWER: The eyes of horse race fans are focused on Louisville the first Saturday of May each year, as the horses are led to the starting gate and strains of "My Old Kentucky Home" fill the air. It's Derby Day at Churchill Downs and a blanket of roses awaits the winner. The city's racing history dates back to the earliest days but the racing classic, the Kentucky Derby, was not started until 1875. It is copied from Epsoms Downs Derby of England.

The weather is mid-summery and the accent is definitely southern.

The place is bursting at the seams and hotel reservations are made as much as a year ahead. It's also appealing because summer comes to Kentucky about a month before it reaches southern Ontario and it stays a month longer. The bluegrass country around Lexington, where the famed horse breeding farms are located is certainly one of the beauty spots of North America. The parks have camp and trailer sites as they do in most other places, but they also have modern motel u its which rent for about $14. a night for two. They also feature dining halls where chicken and southern fried ham are regular fare. Other features are outstanding golf courses, riding stables, out-door theatres and luxurious lodges in their state parks. Four of these parks have airport facilities. Park accommodation is booked up for July and August early in the year, but June and September and even October, are pleasantly summery in Kentucky. The millionaire owners of farms, where most of North America's top race horses are born, usually welcome visitors all year around. Finding the best farms is a bit tricky, because there are so many of them, but there is now a place in Lexington called Blue Grass Tours, Chamber of Commerce Building, which offers horse farm tours at $3.75 for an adult and $1.25 for children. After one of these tours you'll agree that horses live better than some people and some of the stables housing million-dollar sires are classier looking than your own home. Information and maps are available at the Blue Grass Automobile Association.

Stanfield Demands PM Outline Foreign Policy

Growth Needs Action

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The agenda of problems facing Canadians is growing longer, Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said Wednesday night in a speech launching his campaign for the June 25 federal election.

"There is a stockpile of jobs that we have only half-done as a nation, an accumulation of problems and a backlog of commitments we have only half-met," he told the annual Bluenose Dinner of the London Chamber of Commerce.

No political party could ignore the growing number of Canadians without work, nor the cruel corrosive impact of inflation.

"It is inevitable that this campaign must involve a confrontation between the parties on questions of economic management and growth," he said. "Those are the questions which trouble Canada."

The Conservative leader said he is shocked at the state of Canada's native people.

"They number half a million, and their lives are eroded by depths of poverty and rates of illiteracy and disease unknown to most Canadians.

"Our treatment of our native people represents a continuing condemnation of our conscience and sense of justice."

Mr. Stanfield also criticized the Liberal government's foreign policy and called for an agency independent of government to recommend some foreign policy changes for Canada.

The government has been reluctant to allow a full debate on foreign policy in Parliament or in the Commons' external affairs committee, he said.

NATO Backed By PCs

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday foreign policy will be an issue in the June 25 election campaign.

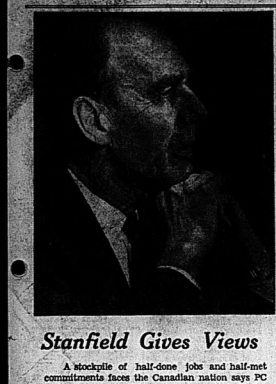
Just 26 hours later, Conservative Leader Stanfield took up the challenge in his opening shot of the campaign at London, Ont.

He demanded an early and explicit statement on foreign policy by Mr. Trudeau.

In the foreign policy field at least, the campaign may be the liveliest since acceptance of American nuclear weapons was an issue in the 1963 contest.

The external affairs issue really began April 7, the day after Mr. Trudeau was chosen Liberal leader, with Mr. Trudeau's call for a complete re-assessment of foreign policy.

He was replying to a question about the possibility of bringing Canadian troops home from Europe.



Mr. Stanfield termed this a casual and incomplete statement on foreign policy which Mr. Trudeau had made "off the top of his head."

On Wednesday night in a speech at London he went further.

"Rhetoric," he said of Mr. Trudeau's statement.

The prime minister had suggested a review of Canada's commitments. But the renewal of the North American Air Defence agreement with the U.S. for five years—signed before Mr. Trudeau became Liberal leader—suggested a foreign policy which would retain Canadian commitments.

Mr. Stanfield said NATO would deteriorate if Canada withdrew from the alliance.

Hanoi Hands U. S. Answer On Talk Site

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — North Vietnam replied today to the latest U.S. proposals on the site for preliminary peace talks but the nature of the reply was not disclosed.

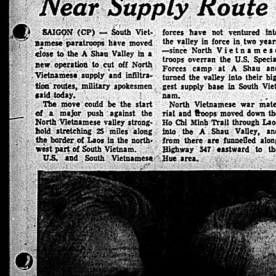
U.S. Ambassador William H. Sullivan was called to the North Vietnamese embassy here to receive a formal note from the Hanoi government.

The North Vietnamese communiqué said the talks are approaching a compromise on Paris as the site for talks.

Sullivan refused all comment on the message from Hanoi.

Sullivan met with the North Vietnam charges d'affaires, Nguyen Chan, and was accompanied by embassy counsellor Robert A. Hurwitch who has personally conducted most of the contacts with the North Vietnamese. They began last month with an exchange of a small group of war prisoners held by both sides.

Sullivan and Chan have met and talked frequently at social occasions.



South Vietnamese Near Supply Route

SAIGON (CP) — South Vietnamese paratroops have moved close to the A Shau Valley in a new operation to cut off North Vietnamese supply and infiltration routes, military spokesmen said today.

The move could be the start of a major push against the North Vietnamese valley stronghold stretching 25 miles along the border of Laos in the northwest part of South Vietnam.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces have not ventured into the valley in force in two years —since North Vietnamese troops overran the U.S. Special Forces camp at A Shau and turned the valley into their biggest supply base in South Vietnam.

North Vietnamese war material and troops moved down the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos into the A Shau Valley, and from there are funnelled along Highway 547 eastward to the Hue area.

No Hurry Is Shown By Chiefs

OTTAWA (CP) — Major party leaders appeared in no hurry to get on the campaign trail Wednesday, the first day following Prime Minister Trudeau's call for a general election Tuesday, June 25.

As usual, Mr. Trudeau's plans were clouded in secrecy. But he has already indicated that he will stay in Ottawa, attending the government business, for most of the time in the early stages.

Although plans are still fluid, Informants say Conservative Leader Stanfield will start heavy personal campaigning in early May. But when the official kickoff will be is uncertain.

NDP Leader T. C. Douglas should be on the road by the second week of May. There are early indications the NDP may take the emphasis of mass rallies.

The emphasis would be on more personal contact by the party leader with the people.

In the Liberal camp, Senator John Nichol, who stepped down earlier this month as president of the Liberal federation, appears to be in on the early planning in a major way.

It was thought he may emerge as the party's campaign chairman. As federation president, he was the chief organizer for the April 46 leadership convention, at which Mr. Trudeau was elected party leader.

Liberal plans may be far enough advanced by Monday to announce a national campaign committee, which would also include provincial campaign chairmen.

Edwin A. Goodman, the Conservative party's national organization chairman, has been named campaign chairman and is supervising campaign operations.

Canadian Woman Dies In Jungle

PORT MORESBY (Reuters) — A 40-year-old Canadian woman, lost in the New Guinea jungle of one of the most hallowed battlegrounds in Australian history, died early today—12 hours after searchers found her.

Her last words to rescuers were: "I have been too much trouble to you . . . I am going."

Seconds later, Sybil Dennis died.

The search, which began last Sunday after she lost contact with two native policemen, was one of the territory's most intensive and saw the Kokoda Trail's biggest troop concentration—250 men—since the Second World War.

It was 13 days since she set out to tramp the rugged wartime trail where 26 years ago Allied troops turned the Japanese advance on Port Moresby.

OTTAWA (CP) — John Diefenbaker, former Conservative prime minister, had this comment on Prime Minister Trudeau's dissolution of Parliament Tuesday for an election.

"The master of osculation called Parliament back so he could kiss it goodbye."

Computer's Taste in Girls Was Strictly for the Churls

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (Reuters) — Engineer Eric Treaster has lost a court battle against a dating computer which he claimed saddled him either with chainsmoking fat girls who drank or tee-totalling women.

Treaster, 22, told a judge Wednesday that "10 compatible" girls introduced by the computer dating firm Compatibility Testing International lived an average of 230 miles from Sacramento.

About one introduction, he complained: "She smoked continually, drank, had just been divorced, had not completed any college and weighed 15 pounds more than I weigh."

The firm's owner called the girls "very fine referals." The judge sympathized with Treaster but said he failed to prove breach of contract and was not entitled to repayment of $175 dating fee.

NDP Top Brass Worried

NDP deputy leader David Lewis (left) and leader T. C. Douglas appear at press conference. Douglas says he fears the federal medicare plan may be ditched. (CP Photo)

Douglas Pleads for Trudeau's Pledge Medicare Plan Will Begin on Schedule

OTTAWA (CP) — NDP Leader T. C. Douglas asked for assurance from Prime Minister Trudeau Wednesday that the national medical care plan will begin on schedule July 1.

Mr. Douglas told a news conference he had an uneasy feeling the plan was in jeopardy since Mr. Trudeau's Tuesday call for an election Tuesday, June 25.

He hoped Mr. Trudeau would make "a categorical statement" that the plan will proceed on schedule. Mr. Douglas also laid the groundwork for the provincial medical care plan in Saskatchewan when he was that province's premier, said he wanted assurance on the national plan's starting date.

"You can take it for granted that the Progressive Conservative position is that medicare should not proceed on schedule," the NDP leader said.

Mr. Douglas' comments followed by one day Conservative Leader Stanfield's reaffirmation that he will take another look at the scheme if he becomes prime minister.

The Stanfield view is that a federal-provincial conference would bring the plan into line with the wishes of provinces that object to operating conditions laid down by the federal government.

Provinces that measure up to federal coverage and portability requirements will receive federal money. Saskatchewan and British Columbia were expected to join the plan at the start, or at least they were before the election was called.

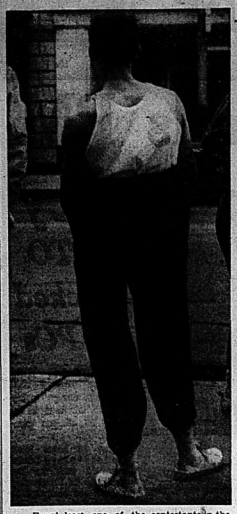
Although the Liberal government formulated the plan and got it through Parliament, there was some high-level reluctance in the party to proceed with it on schedule. The NDP wants the plan and says it can be improved.

David Lewis, MP for York South, with Mr. Douglas at the news conference, said Mr. Trudeau's rigid and inflexible policy on Quebec will seriously weaken the federal government. It would lead to decentralization.

Mr. Trudeau, he said, is prepared to hand all forms of social security and education, including federal financial aid to universities, over to the provinces, including Quebec. This would greatly weaken the prospects of a strong central government.

The federal government must use its spending power to equalize education and other opportunities across Canada, Mr. Lewis said. It is proper and desirable to give Quebec "a particular status" in negotiating shifts of authority between the provinces and the federal government, in order to allow the central government to operate more effectively, he said.

Mr. Douglas said the tendency in English-speaking provinces is to favor shifts in authority to the federal government in fields such as housing, pollution and manpower training.



But if Quebec is to give up any jurisdiction, it must receive other powers in return. That province was fearful of losing its cultural identity. Therefore it must have a "particular position" in Confederation.

Trenton's Relay Team Wins

TRENTON — A four-man relay team retained the title for the Belleville to Trenton run yesterday with a record time of 1.06.34 secs for the distance.

The Trenton quartet led off by Pat Larry with Dale Earl, Ed Martin and Dave Prud'Homme running in that order covered the 12 miles 41 seconds better than the school's representative last year.

The race started off from Belleville at 2.10 p.m. with 14 teams from 11 schools in the district competing.

Dave Prud'Homme carried Trenton's colors across the finish line at the high school sports field, followed by another man from East Northumberland secondary school at Brighton, second; Quinte secondary school at Belleville; third; and Picton Collegiate, fourth.

Acting mayor Duncan McDonald presented each member of the first three teams finishing the race with small trophies symbolic of the endurance test.

Anchor man Dave Prud'Homme of Trenton High School's relay team was winded at the finish of the Belleville to Trenton relay race yesterday — but he still managed a victory smile.

Students Raise $1,200 Selling Chocolate Bars

PICTON (Staff) — There are 120 chocolate bars waiting to be picked up at the Prince Edward Collegiate Institute if anybody still wants one.

It seems hard to imagine than anyone in this area might have gone without chocolate as 7,200 of the bars have already been sold in the Picton area since April 4 by hard driving student salesmen.

The school's share of the proceeds amounted to $1,200, which is to be handled by the student council.

Connie Wight, of the council said that $800 would be donated towards the school library, and that the remainder would be used to sponsor various school activities.

Prizes were granted today to some of the top school salesmen.

Students who sold more than a dozen of the bars were eligible for three prizes of $25, and two for $10.

Draw winners of the $25 prize were Elaine Pearson, Rozanna Brown, and Brian McFaul. $10 winners were Daryl Upton, and Elaine Shannon.

Class 9F students who were the collectors, top salesmen, selling $230.50 worth, will be treated to a free ice cream party.

Accountants Tour Plant

Members of the Bay of Quinte Chapter of the Society of Industrial Accountants recently were given a consolidated plant tour of Mead Johnson Canada Ltd. which included the newly constructed addition which provides for their milk substitute processing section. After the tour, the members met at the Tops Motel for their monthly dinner meeting. Mr. Glyn Harry, B. Comm., R.I.A., Bursar of Loyalist College, Chairman of the Chapter, requested Mr. Ken Wormald, C.A., B. Comm. of Mead Johnson to introduce the speaker, Mr. G. A. Wishart, B. Sc., Vice President, Manufacturing of Mead Johnson Canada Ltd. Mr. Wishart's topic was "Anticipating Popular Demand."

He described the development of "Milk Substitutes" for baby formula and how substitutes for human milk have been developed over the past 50 years. He stated that at present the Canadian Market was approximately two years behind the American one however, the consumer is always looking for more convenience in packaging and the eventual preparation of foods. To this end the development of "Milk Substitutes" is very widespread. Research is also in the preparation of baby formula as well as in hospitals where problems of mass feeding must be overcome.

He also pointed out that industry, in every case, strives to anticipate the desires of today's society.

Mr. Grant Maidment, R.I.A. of Eastern Region Ontario Hydro, thanked Mr. Wishart for his interesting talk.

The Chairman then advised the members that the following student members had become

Obituaries

The bearers were F. Howes, L. Montgomery, W. McInroy, J. Vanderveiter, John White and Lee Ketcheson.

Accused Chooses Jail for Fines

What a way to spend your leave! Jail might be a cheap place to stay but it is not the most comfortable accommodation in the world.

At any rate, Ira Edward Froom, 23, a member of the Canadian Forces, this morning pleaded guilty to three violations of the Highway Traffic Act in county court and chose the jail instead of the fine.

Fines for the three charged amounted to $74.50 (including costs) but when Magistrate T. Y. Wills asked Froom if he would like time to pay the fines, the air force man on leave told the court he did not intend to pay them. Default of payment was 15 days.

The offences occurred March 26 when Froom was accused of failing to produce proof of insurance, a driver's licence and not having current plates.

He was directed by Magistrate Wills to talk to the Air Force officer in attendance for guidance before definitely deciding his course of action.

However, upon returning to the courtroom the officer told the court that Froom had definitely made up his mind and that he was perfectly in order as far as the Air Force was concerned.

After taking Froom to jail arresting provincial police officer E. D. Arthurs just said "I guess he figures it's the cheapest place to spend his vacation."

New Club Head

Officers for the coming year were elected at the meeting of the Belleville Lions Club last Wednesday.

Succeeding past president Floyd Belle will be President John Skurka. The first, second and third vice-presidents, Joe Burchill, Al Parkhurst and John Graham respectively will aid the new president.

Other officers elected at the meeting were Robert Schamerhorn and Jack Lapp as first year directors, Ray Jary and Art Chartrand as second year directors, Bill Cox as secretary and Jack Dybiec as treasurer.

Of course Lions Club has to have a Tail Twister (Al Stoliker for the coming year) and a Lion tamer will be Herb Seames.

Conservatives Prepare Plans For Convention

Progressive Conservatives of the new Federal riding of Hastings have been quietly laying plans in anticipation of a snap election.

In fact since the National Convention last fall, Conservatives of this riding have virtually been on an "Election Standby Alert."

During the past several weeks, many organizational meetings have been held at various centres throughout the riding, including Tweed, Bancroft, Marmora, Thurlow, and Tyendinaga, with a local meeting of the Belleville Association scheduled for Friday evening.

A very important meeting is slated for Wednesday, May 1st in Madoc, when the entire riding executive meets to plan a mid-May nominating Convention and map formal plans for the campaign. Already present Hastings South member Lee Grills has stated that he will be a candidate. Enthusiasm is running high as this history making campaign gets under way.

IAPA Members Tour Plant At Trenton

On Tuesday evening about 30 safety minded people toured the Pyrotenax Plant at Trenton in what was the fourth and final Industrial Plant Safety Tour of the current season sponsored by local industries and the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations of Ontario.

This tour was one of the most successful so far put on and was found to be valuable in the sense of noting the safe practices carried out at the Pyrotenax Plant in the process of making their rather unique electric cable. The tour also proved very valuable to the Pyrotenax people in that some of the safety hazards they may have overlooked were noted and pointed out to them by their guests. The next series of plant tours is to begin again in the fall of this year.

Timbrell's Move To Trenton

PRESTON, Ont. (CP) — The Timbrell family, whose dispute with the Waterloo County Children's Aid Society last September sparked a provincial inquiry, are going back "to God's country."

Mrs. Arthur Timbrell announced today the family is leaving Preston after four years here. "going home to God's country in the Trenton area, where we have literally hundreds of relatives."

Their house has been sold, and the family must vacate it by July 1. It was up for sale before they ran afoul of the children's aid society. Mrs. Timbrell said, and they have been looking for land in the Trenton area since 1966.

A provincial inquiry called after the foster children, aged five and three, were taken from the Timbrells upheld the action of the Children's Aid Society, citing a difference in religion and criminal records in the family.

"I do not bear a grudge against the society in general," Mrs. Timbrell said today. "But I do against the Waterloo County branch because they said things that were not quite true."

The family will drive to Trenton 10 miles west of Belleville Sunday to pick out their new homesite. Of their own nine children, only two who are married will stay behind in the Preston area.

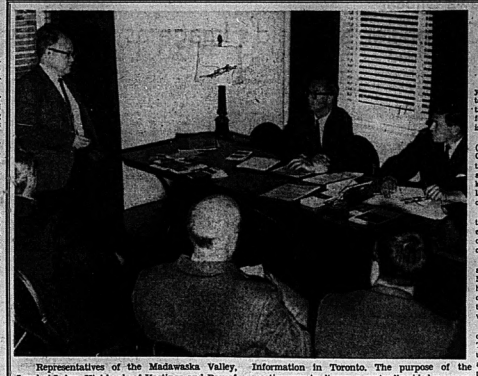
Rod and Gun Club Property Sale Held Up

Disposal of the Hastings Rod and Gun Club property by Elzevir and Grimsthorpe township will be held up pending a reply from the Department of Municipal Affairs regarding certain technicalities involving the assessment act.

Tenders for the purchase of the gun club property were opened at Monday night's council meeting but no decision on the sale was reached.



Belleville lawyer Douglas Bateman, acting for Elzevir and Grimsthorpe townships, said it had become necessary to consult the department on a certain legal technicality. He expected to have an answer in about a week.

Lloyd Price, clerk of Elzevir township, said that three offers had been received for the property. The hunt club property was seized by the township for taxes.

One of the bids received for the property was from a Tweed group interested in developing the area for year round sports activities.

Earlier the Moira River Conservation Authority, along with the Belleville - Public School Board and the Bay of Quinte High School Board expressed interest in the property with the view of operating a conservation school.

However, neither school board had sufficient enrolment to qualify for conservation school grants and the Authority accordingly submitted no bid when the property was advertised for tender.

Representatives of the Madawaska Valley, Land o' Lakes, Highlands of Hastings and Bay of Quinte tourist regions met yesterday with members of the Department of Tourism and Information in Toronto. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss a mutually-aided program to advertise the local tourist regions.

Tourist Councils To Work Together

A special meeting was held yesterday at the Hotel Quinte to discuss the possibility of getting more provincial assistance for promoting the nearby tourist areas.

Secretary-treasurer O. W. (Brad) Bradley of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce called the meeting between the regional tourist councils of Madawaska Valley, Land o' Lakes, Highlands of Hastings and the Bay of Quinte tourist areas.

Mr. Bradley explained that the men had been called together for the purpose of joining forces for advertising and publicity.

He stated, "We are not getting as much coverage as we should. Maybe it is our own fault. We have representatives from the department who have indicated that they may be of assistance whether financial or guidance."

Representing the department of Tourism and Information in Toronto was Fred Boyer, executive director of the Information and Promotion division of the province.

"We got some very good ideas from the meeting," said Mr. Bradley later, "and it looks as if we shall be receiving more assistance from the government.

Mr. Bradley went on to say that it will be sort of "a self-help" deal where the provincial department will aid any efforts made locally.

A good example will be brochures — the department in Toronto would be willing to take the photographs, help with layout and editing which would cut the cost in half to the tourist councils.

Advertising in U.S. newspapers by local tourist councils would also be subsidized by the department.

The local tourism representatives discussed the possibility of putting out a joint brochure but nothing was agreed upon.

All of the members did agree, however, on the benefits derived from a joint meeting and it was decided to hold one at least four times a year to establish a liaison between the various tourist councils.

"The meeting was a big success," according to Mr. Bradley as we found out about a lot of aids from the province that we didn't know were available before."

300 Students Attend School Careers Night

PICTON (Staff) — Students of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute may have a better idea of their future as a result of a careers night held there yesterday.

Approximately 300 students showed up for the program. Although open to parents, very few turned out.

Careers night was organized by Richard Gainer and Russell Perkins, guidance instructors at the school.

Mr. Perkins told The Intelligencer last night that the program had been a success largely through the co-operation of the speakers that arrived. "We had no trouble at all getting people to turn out. They were only too happy to help out."

Several major corporations such as the Bell Telephone and the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company, competed for attention along side of the 'Powderpuff' Division of the Toronto Metropolitan Police Force, Air Canada, and the RCMP.

Student reaction was good, said Mr. Gainer.

He explained that the night was the first chance for many of the students to come into any contact with what might be their future career.

Speakers were chosen to appeal to a middle class of the students. Mr. Gainer explained that the Grade 13 students at the school had all been on field trips to at least one university and the technical students had all visited area industries.

"An entirely different but much broader aspect was presented at the careers night," he said.

Vice-principal Hired for Public School

DESERONTO — A Belleville man, Wallace E. Dever, was hired Tuesday night as vice-principal of the Deseronto Public School. Mr. Dever, 31, is now teaching in Picton. He comes with high recommendation from his inspectors.

Principal Ronald Unna, the only male on the staff, had requested that a male be selected for the position in order to assist him with the physical training.

A second teacher had been advertised for, but none was selected from the applications so far received. A teacher who can assist with physical training and sports is desired.

The board met in special session. The salary question is still not settled in Deseronto but another meeting with the teachers is slated for the near future.

Motorcyclists Injured

Two teenage motorcyclists were injured Tuesday night when their machines collided on Highway 62 at Halloway.

Denton Allen Lewis, 17, of Foxboro, suffered severe lacerations while William Smith, 16, of Belleville, was admitted to Belleville General Hospital with a broken leg.

Provincial police said the youths collided as they turned off the highway, about nine miles north of Belleville.

Scott Bradford Stars

Final Performance of Arts Festival Successful

By FRANK K. MARTIN

The final performance of the Arts Festival 68 series was presented by the Quinte Arts Council to a near capacity audience last evening at Centennial Secondary School.

Featured as guest artist was Scott Bradford, a talented young Belleville pianist. Mr. Bradford's command of his instrument belies his youth. His well chosen but all too brief program ranged from the gentle and familiar Traumerei of Schumann to the fiery and demanding Liszt Hungarian Rhapsody No. 6.

Throughout the performance his dynamic balance was well defined and his execution almost flawless. But for Bach in which the accompaniment was augumented by Ian Docherty on string bass and David Smith on the drums, Mr. Bradford revealed in the treble engagement by the full gift of Rock-a Ma Soul.

At times the trebles overpowered the male voices throughout the program and it is to be hoped that in the future additional male voices may be found in the community to augument those already engaged so rewardingly in this group.

Murray Irwin's firm control was evident throughout as was the sure touch of our duo of local musicians, Alec Gordon at the piano. The colorful costumes and artfully lighted staging completed a memorable evening.

In this era of passive participation the Belleville Choral Society should be commended for its initiative and devotion to music.

Loyalist College Will Have Own Board of Governors

Loyalist College soon will have its own policy - making board of governors.

Preliminary moves already are being processed to separate the Quinte-area community college from the administrative region it shares with Sir Sandford Fleming College in Peterborough.

At present, both institutions operate under a single 12-man board of governors — the original appointees who were charged with establishing a community college in the Quinte-Kawartha zone of Ontario.

Shortly after, the board decided two campus units would be needed to properly meet the demands of the region — a populous geographical sprawl.

The result was community colleges at Peterborough and Belleville.

Now, says board chairman, Rev. H. J. Maloney, the time has come when each campus should have its own administrative board.

The proposal to establish two independent 12-member boards already has been presented to the department of education and approval is expected "in the not too distant future," says the chairman.

Representation on the founding board was divided equally between each campus. The new administrative establishment means six more appointees in both communities.

School Budget Higher

NAPANEE — Napanee District Secondary School budget for 1968 has increased by 13.8 per cent over last year's total.

The cost to the 11 contributing municipal councils has jumped 33 per cent.

The higher school rate, taken from assessment of mill rates in the municipalities, means a 20 per cent increase or taxpayers.

However, the high school board was able to reduce the total by 4.2 per cent by applying $19,925 received from=the county towards the debenture payment.

Last year, the board's budget was $1,150,150. The figure for 1968 is $1,309,205. Last year the municipalities paid $359,905; this year their share will be $478,661.

The New Canada

Politics in Canada — this most election-conscious of lands — are not what they used to be.

No longer are politics here as drab as the countryside in early Spring. Rather life is all color and contrast, and the emphasis is on youth and the future and the creation of a country that is not only more vibrant but holds promise of maintaining the "unity in diversity" so necessary to its survival.

And what contrast there is in Ottawa these days. On its front page the other day The Ottawa Journal showed a section of the 20,000 people who set off on the first of 35 Canadian "Miles for Millions" walks being held this year. More than 5,000 finished the walk, organized to raise funds for underdeveloped countries.

The marchers included many young people, typical of the bright young Canadians who are becoming more than ever involved in the issues of the day. Most of those in the foreground of the picture are too young to vote. And yet not for long . . . in the coming election for instance there will be more than a million new voters.

On the front page of the second section of the newspaper is a picture of the new cabinet of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau. All are in formal attire as befits attendance at the swearing-in ceremony in the presence of Governor-General Roland Michener.

Here too there is youthfulness, but it is tempered by experience. Such a Government will be needed in the days that lie ahead. Whichever party heads the polls in June, in Canada today the emphasis is on change and fresh ideas that are the hallmarks of youth.

At the same time no Government can afford to forget its past. Canada has a great heritage. Its recorded history, going back to the days of the early explorations, is as stirring as any, its earlier origins when populated only by the Indians even more fascinating.

In remembering its past no Government can afford to neglect its older citizens, its retired people and pensioners. They too must remain the concern of whichever party comes to power.

Between young and old then must come much of the stimulus and unifying power that will make Canada even greater. There must be more communication between young and old. Only in such a coming together can this country realize its full potential.

George Brown's Views

Former British foreign secretary George Brown has repeated what any military strategist, politician or psychologist knows regarding American involvement in the war in Vietnam.

It bears repetition, if only to try and convince the doubters that a dispute of this nature cannot be settled by one side — in this case the United States — pulling out and thereby leaving not only South Vietnam but all of Southeast Asia to their fate.

Mr. Brown told a Toronto audience that critics of the United States position in Vietnam should realize that "a simple U.S. pull-out could have a disastrous impact" on a wide scale and over a wide area.

Field Marshal Sir Gerald Templer, whose leadership rid Malaya of the communist guerrilla menace, said recently that Britain and India, and virtually all of southeast Asia and west as far as the Caspian Sea would fall to the Communists — if the United States withdrew. Ultimately, Australia and New Zealand would be menaced.

Or as Mr. Brown put it: "I know that if the Americans had been involved in Europe after their last world war they would not have been a second. All of recent history shows what price we paid for America's isolationism."

Parking and Litter

People who get tickets for overnight parking might take more kindly to it if there was more evidence of the streets being kept clean and free of other unnecessary impedimenta.

Those large piles of bushes, for instance, on Queen Street and John Street. And litter everywhere.

More attention should be paid by city authorities to this problem. Individual citizens must also play their part in keeping litter off the streets and out of the parks.

PCs Ponder Stanfield's Image as Campaign Gets Under Way

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA. — In the psychedelic afterglow of the bilingual charisma of Pierre Elliot Trudeau, the question ringing down the corridors of power is:

"What on earth will Bob Stanfield do now?"

What counter-magic can be conjured forth from the rather fast-frozen exterior of The Quiet Man from Truro?

It was only last September at the Toronto convention when they made him their new leader, the ecstatic Conservatives were convinced they had managed the miracle of plunting an instant prime minister — as instant as the next federal election.

"Beautiful," they cried, as they watched, in awe and wonder, their new hero eat a banana. Here was a character convention-crafted of good old-fashioned integrity, as unperishable as that underwear of trap - door fame.

But now look what's happened — they are confronted and confounded by an even more politically remarkable character with a rose in his teeth and sometimes sandals on his feet.

So you hear some of the Tories talking that maybe their man had better shuck the white woolies for a black leather jacket and a string of beads if he is to cope with "Potent Pierre."

"Honest Bob" hasn't said much, indeed only recently returned from a journey down east to see what kind of a rose crop he can expect from his Halifax garden this season.

Those posies could be coming up soon, oh, Sparky.

Even the hardest-hearted Ottawa observers — and there are some that even Dr. Christian Barnard might have trouble dealing with — are moved almost to sympathetic tears at the sorrowful spectacle of Dalton "Dalty Baby" Camp and Allister ward "Fast Eddie" Goodman, the Conservative king-makers who, having created Diefenbaker, now are faced by the prospect of a young Grit double-for Diefenbaker, now are faced by the prospect of a young Grit double-for Diefenbaker who speaks both languages.

Quel horreur!

The dry stick image of "Honest Bob" was fractured to some extent at a private dinner of the supposed "image makers," when he came rollicking on with an off-the-record Sam Slick performance that simply had to be seen to be believed.

Even he seemed surprised that he had this hard-boiled crew at "Ottawa observers" rolling in the aisles.

Now there are those among what has become known in the fashionable Idiom as "the media" who insist there is more to Bob than meets the eye — that it is only mischievous gossip that he bleeds anti-freeze — and that the Sam Slick character is the REAL Stanfield.

He is not, they say quite unnecessarily, going to panic simply because the pesky Grits have come up with a bi-lingual millionaire, jet-setting, fast - car-wheeling, girl - fascinating, swinging mix of James, Bond and John F. Kennedy in TWO LANGUAGES yet!

The story around Stanfield headquarters is that against the Trudeau explosion in wide screen, stereophonic sound and magicolor, they will pit Bob's brand of old hickory integrity, dry-as-dust humor, matchless durability, country-general-store type of solid dependability.

And let's hear it for "Elegant Elliott" cracks that, eh boys?

They could have something there, too.

For there have been Stanfield-type winners before.

In the good old Yewalted States there was Cal Coolidge who didn't choose to run but made it anyway.

Then there was McKinley who ran a campaign without stirring off his front porch — called, coincidentally, "The Front Porch Campaign" — and, by crackey, won.

Here in Canada we had the charismatic figure of Wilfrid Laurier, the "silver plume" of political legend, whose bilingual reincarnation some seem to see in Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

And he was beaten by a dour, woodeny stiff, weather-worn mixtumer of uncompromising integrity by name of — and get the coincidence — ROBERT Borden.

All those episodes happened before the days of "creative news," as the television personalities call it, and came about, in the good old white-of-printed fact.

Now "Honest Bob" has got to make it against a slack and sports coated "let's have a party"- swinger who stands a trim bow-tied in the full colour glow of the boob-tube, at the doorway of 24 Sussex Drive, conveying the romantic impression of a rejuvenated Cary Grant doing a re-make of Philadelphia Story."

The very contrast, insist his supporters, will make it for Bob Stanfield. They recall the skipper, firm hand on the helm having weathered worse blows.

So the only question now is, have the Tories yet decided whether they'll win this next election together, or be slaughtered singly.

Letter to the Editor

The Trudeau Legend

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

This morning I wrote a letter to you. This afternoon I threw it away. This evening I opened my newspaper and there was my old friend Richard Jackson getting under my skin as usual, so here is the letter written before the Election news.

This is the final instalment of my Trudeau Trilogy and in gratitude for your courtesy I offer you an explanation.

Quite early in the game, before all the ballyhoo, like many Canadians across the land, I felt impelled to urge Mr. Trudeau to become a candidate for the Liberal leadership.

Was it his looks? I am already on record as being unimpressed. Was it the swinging playboy image? I find James Bond boringly immature. Was it his youth? I would have sworn that he was even more than 47.

No—I had been watching this man for a long time. I liked his respect for the individual, the good manners, the humor, the humility, and that beautiful logic, unclouded by emotion or personal prejudice. Yet when the data was fed into this computer-like mind the end always came out 'Compassion'.

Little has been said of the Trudeau address to the delegates, yet few can fail to have been impressed by the tremendous empathy in that Ottawa bull-ring.

Tourists Taxed in U. S.

London Free Press

There might have been a tourist gain for Canada if the proposed U.S. tax of up to 30 per cent. on travel outside the Western Hemisphere had gone through unaltered. There might have been, but this is not certain since the measure might also have inhibited U.S. travel in general.

This would be a difficult measure for Washington to enforce and make effective. Families who have budgeted for years for a trip overseas are complaining of discrimination.

Magistrates, who hear an incredible two million cases a year in Ontario, are in charge of what the recent McRuer commission report suggested as probably the most neglected courts in the province.

The whole Ontario judicial system should be uplifted several notches by the politics recently announced to designate magistrates provincial judges, to establish a committee to advise on appointments and evaluate their performance, and to double their salaries over an undesignated period.

Today in History

The Rebellion Losses Act was signed by Governor-General Lord Elgin 118 years ago today—in 1849. The signing was accompanied by rioting in Montreal and the burning of the Parliament Building. The bill was designed to reimburse innocent parties for damage during the rebellion of 1837 but the English Tories considered it a cash present to rebellious French. Lord Elgin's arriage was stoned but his firmness and tact established the principles of Canadian democracy and the rioting sealed the doom of the Family Compact.

Voice of A'Prophet

Catholic Priest's Twelve Letters That Shook Quebec

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

QUEBEC (CP) — Eight years ago Frere Untel (Brother Anonymous) wrote 12 letters that shook Quebec.

"The axe—we must work with the axe!" was the message of the Roman Catholic teaching brother, demanding revolutionary reforms in education, language, religion, bureaucracy and personal freedom.

A fantastic response from high and low astonished "nobody more than the young brother, who sometimes childically termed himself "the little blue rabbit." His work, expanded into a book, Les Insolences du Frere Untel (The Impertinences of Brother Anonymous), sold 122,000 copies at a record pace.

Then came European exile, but Brother Jean Paul Desbiens— anonymity had long been cast aside—returned as a hero and prophet of Quebec's Quiet Revolution. He took a place as an official in the new educational system he had helped so much to bring about.

Now this passionately articulate son of the French-Canadian soil, doctor of philosophy and "radically common man," is again in another role, danger.

"We're in danger of losing our country—the freest country in the world," he told a reporter in tones of anger and almost unbelief.

The accession to the prime ministry of Pierre Elliott Trudeau is nothing less than Canada's "last test," in the view of Brother Desbiens.

Failure of Mr. Trudeau and his team to stir the imagination of Canadians would plunge him into pessimism but, he emphasized, "I have full confidence in Trudeau and his ability to find new solutions for new problems."

The tall, intense teacher-administrator is no bandwagon-jumper. He made an uncanny observation three years ago when Mr. Trudeau, Jean Marchand and Gerard Pelletier, doubled "the three wise men," left the provincial scene and entered federal politics.

"With you three in Ottawa, our options will become clarified," Brother Desbiens then told his three friends. "We are making the definitive test to see if Canada is viable. If you fail, we can turn squarely down the road to independence, without remorse and with clear conscience."

Brother Desbiens, 41, has spoken mainly to his fellow French-Canadians in his two books and other public statements.

He emerges as a nationalist who is opposed to separatism — ready to fight it—but who at the same time is only too clearly able to see a situation where he would say goodbye to Canada and go along with a breakaway Quebec.

In his interview, Brother Desbiens said he is more than ever convinced that the English-Canadian response has been insufficient to French-Canadian aspirations and devotion to their land.

He referred to the 1930s period of R. B. Bennett, the first prime minister he can recall.

English-speaking people at that time were indifferent to Canadianism.

"So I'm no separatist. I'm still a Canadian. But if I see that the whole nation, my nation, is going to take a separatist option, God, I will go with them. I intend to do all I can to prevent this happening."

Canadianism "is the essential educational and religious revolution" since Brother Desbiens burst anonymously upon the scene in the 1959-60 school year.

In his autobiography, For Pity's Sake, Brother Desbiens derides "the grenade-throwers, who would-be bomb-throwers and the constitution-makers, saying it is time to define "clearly the practical means of reaching our goal."

"I have a kind of intellectual pleasure thinking of this country from coast to coast. It was a challenge to build Canada against geography, you know, east-west, rather than north-south.

"At Montreal Central Station the other day I heard an announcement, 'The train, from Vancouver will arrive at 5:10 on track 20.' Well, I had a kind of thrill to hear that. Perhaps it is not serious, significant.

"But myself, for one, I had this kind of psychological, not very serious pleasure and proudness to hear that—a train from Vancouver, and Vancouver is the same country."

Tricky Operation

Telephone Companies Crack Down on Fraudulent Practices

VANCOUVER (CP) — Telephone companies are cracking down on persons costing them hundreds of thousands of dollars annually through theft and fraud.

Their targets are both the small-time criminal who breaks into pay telephones for the coins and the otherwise law-abiding citizen who has a code worked out to tip his wife he has arrived safely in another city.

The companies, until recently reluctant to prosecute people who bilked them, now are intensifying security measures to curtail the frauds and thefts, say spokesmen.

A group of security chiefs from Canadian telephone companies met here earlier this month to discuss methods of combating the increasing number of crimes. The meeting was part of the companies' new policy of pooling information to catch telephone tricksters.

Even respectable businessmen are not above cheating, said Jim Wilkins, a Bell Telephone Canada Ltd. security official.

A favorite ploy for businessmen flying from one city to another is to call home person-to-person for themselves. This tips their wives they have arrived safely and the call is free of charge.

Mr. Wilkins said his company recently prosecuted an agent of a rental firm in eastern Canada, who had worked out a code system to get long distance calls for nothing.

He would call person-to-person to an airport in a certain city and ask to speak to a Mr. Carr, who was arriving on a certain flight, said Mr. Wilkins. "He would then be told by his airport contact that Mr. Carr had not arrived—so the call was free."

The Bell official said the agent was really making arrangements in code to have a car ready to meet a certain flight.

The professional criminal also costs telephone companies considerable amounts of money, he said.

About two years ago, a gang of criminals in Quebec toured around in a high-speed car breaking into pay telephones. The nicked-and-dime bandits claimed to be making about $1,000 a day before they were caught, he said.

Bob McLackie, head of British Columbia Telephone Co. security division, said his company "tried being nice to people . . . but the number of crimes kept increasing."

B.C. Tel, which spends about $35,000 a year on security, obtained 30 convictions in 1966 and 32 in 1967. Most were for fraudulent long distance calls, illegal credit card calls and robberies from pay phones.

Mr. Wilkins and Mr. McLackie said that with telephone companies across Canada pooling information—in a sort of industry interpol—most of the dodges used by telephone cheats can be detected.

However, they are remaining silent on their methods—too much communication can be too much of a good thing, said the communications men.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market advanced strongly in active mid-morning trading today, continuing a two-day rally.

Steels, pulp and paper issues and oils led the way up.

Analysts thought the upward movement, which followed a sharp correction on Friday and Monday, was still based on expectations that Vietnam peace talks will begin soon.

Ontario Store Fixture was up 2½ to 15¾ on sales of 5,300 shares. The company has announced it will purchase Roberts Realty of the Bahamas Ltd.

Monarch Fine Foods slipped ¼ to 12½ after climbing 3¼ Wednesday following the announcement of a takeover bid from Lever Brothers of Toronto.

In oils, Banff gained ¼ to 12, Canadian Export Gas 30 cents to 7.00 and Asamera 35 cents to 7.15.

Golds and base metals were quiet.

On Index, industrials rose .86 to 158.84, western oils 2.08 to 192.33, golds .47 to 201.32 and base metals .03 to 100.70.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 763,000 shares compared with 771,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Wednesday, the market rallied in light to moderate activity.

Steels again were sharply up. Algoma jumped ⅞ to 18½ and Stelco and Dofasco ½ each to 21¼ and 18¼.

Monarch Fine Foods stood out among industrials. It climbed 2½ to 12¾ on sales of 13,000 shares after Lever Brothers of Toronto offered to buy the company for $14,1365,792. Trading was delayed for about an hour at the opening pending the announcement.

Ontario Store Fixture, trading 17,000 shares, advanced 3 to 13½. The company has agreed to purchase Roberts Realty of the Bahamas Ltd. The stock jumped 2¼ Tuesday.

Massey-Ferguson slipped ¼ to 15¾ and Revenue properties a point to 16¾ in a turnover of 60,000 shares.

Canadian Superior Oil gained 1¼ to 43¼. The company reported first-quarter earnings of $1,900,000 compared with a loss last year.

Imperial Oil considering a stock split and reporting increased first-quarter profits, was off ½ to 63⅝. Home A dropped 1 to 23. The company said it has completed a third potential natural gas producer in Yorkshire, England.

In golds, Dome slipped 2 to 60 in quiet trading.

Base metals were fractionally up. Quebec Lithium and United Asbestos rose 35 cents each to 2.70 and 8.15.

American Subsidiaries Spend Heavily in 1968

WASHINGTON (CP) — American subsidiaries in Canada are expected to spend $2,229,000,000 on new plant and equipment this year, virtually the level last estimated for 1967.

The figure is a preliminary one, based on forecasts last December, from the U.S. commerce department, which reports a general slow-down in all countries where American subsidiaries exist.

Total spending for expansion in all countries is estimated at $10,718,000,000, compared with a figure of $9,495,000,000 for 1967. It would be nine per cent higher than the 1966 total.

In 1967, says the department's estimate, Europe accounted for about 38 per cent of all the new investment. Canada about 21 per cent, Latin America 17 and all other countries 25.

"Plant and equipment expenditures in Canada, which stabilized in 1967 after a rapid rise the year before, are expected to continue unchanged in 1968," says the report. Europe also is expected to hold steady in 1968.

Canadian subsidiaries are expected to spend on expansion in this way: $775,000,000 in mining and smelting, against $305,000,000 last year; $670,000,000 in petroleum, against $625,000,000; $933,000,000 in manufacturing, against $1,064,000,000; and $251,000,000 in "other" industries, against $233,000,000.

Generally, the report anticipates an increase in foreign mining investment of another 20 per cent this year, matching 1967.

The report says the slowing down in foreign investment "may not necessarily be due to the restrictions on capital outflow."

This program to curb the U.S. drain of gold and dollars, by cutting back on foreign investment and speeding repatriation of earnings, was toughened Jan. 1 when the U.S. calculated an international balance-of-payments deficit for 1967 of $3,600,000,000.

But Canada has been excluded in recognition of its unique role as a special dependent on American capital for growth and for carrying its own international payments deficit.

Young Brother May Take Part in Wedding

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My daughter's fiance has a nine - year - old brother whom he would like included in the wedding party but we feel he is too old to be ring bearer. Is there another position he could play?

Bride's Mother.

Dear Mother: With a little imagination you can find a job for Mm.

Then he returned for his next celebrity, the mother of the bride. The dignity and poise with which he set the pace and bowed her into her seat rivalled the processional itself.

Is your young fellow tall enough to be considered for such a spot on the program?

* * *

Dear Doris: We have been assigned a diagnostic report to study the effect of television on children and teenagers.

I would be greatly thankful if you would tell me your views on televidence. — Guns and Sudden Death.

Dear Guns: In a word: The greatest single influence is the habitual attitude of a child's parents. Guns may flounder, volcanoes erupt, characters go berserk. Still a boy or girl look to Mom or Dad for the serene steadiness which keeps his world right-side-up.

But televidence — a new word to me — doesn't make the job any easier. A certain amount of excitement is o.k., but a steady diet of blood and thunder may deliver some powerful suggestions to the not-so-serenely-set young Canadian.

* * *

Dear Doris: I noticed your note to Hairy Carey, who has superfluous hair on his face. I was surprised that you did not mention electrolysis. Is it because you do not recommend it, or are you unaware that it exists?

I am taking treatments by electrolysis. My beard, which would have done justice to any man in his 30's, has been removed; and I have not had to touch a razor for over a week. I am led to believe that I will never have to depend on a razor again. — Very Hairy.

Dear Very: Good news. I have often mentioned electrolysis, and my leaflet "Removing Unwanted Hair" recommends this method when in the hands of an expert. I'm glad you've found one and are reporting cheering results.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Substitute Writer Gives Recipe, While Columnist Answers Letters

By SHIRLEY JANZEN
Via MARY MOORE

Mrs. Moore has often said, if only someone would write a column for me I could answer some of those readers' letters!"

My answer has been, "Well, someday I might just do that!"

Right now, she is busy talking to her insurance man and I am impatient for the next column to type so I think today is the day for me to write one, especially since it was I who tested the recipe.

The recipe is an old standby that we are reviving for several reasons. It is delightful dressed up for a buffet table or for a late evening supper. It utilizes inexpensive chicken backs and necks or the left-over meat from your Sunday dinner. It contains no strong spices, so it is something you can be sure any guest can eat, no matter how strict his dietary rules.

CREAMED CHICKEN
2 pounds chicken backs and necks (see below)
1 bay leaf (optional)
water (see below)
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon M.S.G.
1 cup milk
1 egg yolk
one 14-oz. can drained green peas

Put the chicken backs and necks and bay leaf (if used) on to cook in a large pot with enough water to cover. Bring to boil, then simmer an hour. Remove the bay leaf, drain the chicken (and reserve the broth for soup) and very carefully strip the meat from the bones. This is tedious work, but if you are on a budget (and who isn't these days?) it is well worth it. Be sure no tiny neck bones get into the meat. I had 1¼ cups chicken meat.

Mix together the butter and flour in a medium saucepan, add the M.S.G., salt and milk, and cook, stirring, until thickened. Very quickly stir the egg yolk into this medium white sauce. Add the drained peas and the cooked chicken meat.

When I made this for a late supper one night, my husband did not arrive home at the usual time and I was able to keep it hot in a covered casserole on my hotplate. I served it over hot tea biscuits, but you could use hot buttered toast, or go all out and make or buy puff pastry shells. You might even want to add a few drained canned mushrooms to this to make it even more elegant. But whether you dress it up for company or just keep it plain for a family supper it is delicious. Respectfully submitted by Shirley Janzen.

Respect and submission gratefully approved and acknowledged by Emem.

Points for Parents

MR. AND MRS. HARRY JAMES POOLE

WEDDING

Poole – Burley

Father P. Carty officiated at the wedding ceremony in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville on Saturday, April 20, 1968 at 11 a.m., when Bonnie Lee Burley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Burley, Belleville became the bride of Harry James Poole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Poole, Belleville.

Miss Dorothy Grant organist rendered traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist Miss Marilyn Hurst.

Given in marriage by Mr. F. S. Pope, the bride wore a floor length gown of crystal crepe in lustrous white with the Empire waistline enhanced with a band of scalloped chantilly lace. The back and the sleeve in a cape effect were outlined with matching lace with a detachable train extending from two self bows at back. A four tiered silk illusion veil was caught to a headdress of organza roses encrusted with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white mums, ivy and stephanotis centred with a solitaire mauve orchid.

Miss Linda Whitehead as maid of honor wore a lilac silk chiffon over taffeta Empire styled dress featuring long full sleeves and tight cuffs with a long flowing chiffon coat. She carried a bouquet of yellow Shasta daisies. The bridesmaids Miss Bertha Krugman cousin of the bride and Miss Nancy Poole, sister of the bridegroom were similarly attired in buttercup yellow. Each carried a bouquet of white Shasta daisies.

Miss Letourneau was groomsaman, while the ushers were Bill Poole, cousin of the bridegroom and John Burley.

A reception was held at Club Canara where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a rustic green ensemble with matching accessories and a corsage of deep pink roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing an aqua ensemble with matching hat, white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Leaving on a wedding trip to points west the bride chose a cape suit of beige tweed, bone accessories and a corsage of coral shade Sweetheart roses.

Upon return the couple will reside at 46 Sinclair Street, Belleville.

Rainbow Theme Highlights OES Minerva Chapter Tea and Bazaar

A rainbow brightened yesterday's cloudy skies for patrons of the tea sponsored by Minerva Chapter 126, Order of the Eastern Star at the Masonic Temple.

Mrs. Arlene Asbourg WM and Mrs. Margaret Stalker PM welcomed guests to the hall where a big multi-hued rainbow was poised over the tea table. Another hovered over the home baking table at one end of the hall.

Mrs. Sinclair was convenor of the Rainbow Tea, and her co-convener was Mrs. Ray Bunbell.

A white picket fence and gate, accented with tall standards holding bouquets of white and pastel mums formed the entrance to the tea room. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Margaret Hunt PM, Mrs. Lil Gordon PM, Mrs. Pauline Clare PM, Mrs. Hazel Wilson PM, Mrs. Dorothy Tugnette PM, Mrs. Rhoda Grey PM, Mrs. Ethel Stewart, Mrs. Mae Finkle PM, Mrs. Margie Colbyer PM, and Mrs. Nellie Cooper PM.

Individual tables were covered with pink, blue, green, or yellow cloths, each centered with two tiny dolls under an umbrella on a rustic bench.

The tea table was centred with a bouquet of multi-colored flowers, placed on an orange cloth and flanked with white and rose twisted tapers.

Those pouring tea were Mrs. Edna Dobbs PDDGM; Mrs. Henrietta Huff, DDGM, Picton; Mrs. Frances Marner, PM; Mrs. Ila Sine PM; Mrs. Bessie Marsh PM; Mrs. Elizabeth Kerr, WM, Brighton; Mrs. Ila Leonard, WM, Picton; Mrs. Pearl Frost, WM, Tyendinaga.

Replenishing during the afternoon were Mrs. Margaret Gill and Mrs. Agnes Gray.

Adding to the colorful decor were the sales tables. They were fronted with strips of striped Mexican paper in all the hues of the spectrum and the home baking table was set with streamers of the same paper forming rainbow stripes over the white cloth.

Those in charge of the home baking were Mrs. Pauline Clare, Mrs. Edna Dobbs, Mrs. Mildred Hodgin, Mrs. Irene Crossen, Mrs. Nellie King, Mrs. Nan Cathcart and their groups.

Other tables and their conveners were: delicatessen, Mrs. Alberta Ireland and Mrs. Eva Heath; candy, Mrs. Evelyn Tebworth and Mrs. Gladys Batchelor; miscellaneous, Mrs. Rhoda Grey and Mrs. Dorothy Nichol; aprons, Mrs. Kay Bunbell and Mrs. Dorothy Middleton; touch and take, Mrs. Edith Hanna and Mrs. Ina Robinson and their groups.

At the men's table Archie Jordan, Fred Furnidge and Alf Cooper offered a grocery basket and plant roots.

Mrs. Ray Bunbell was in charge of draw tickets on a hand knitted afghan and Mrs. Viola Grastrix was in charge of the draw on a spring hat.

In the evening the chapter sponsored a dessert bridge and euchre.

Women View Films On History of China

Something new in Belleville was enjoyed by a large number of women on Tuesday evening when they were taken by way of film, demonstrations and displays on a tour of the history of fine china.

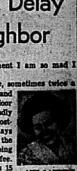
Sponsored jointly by the afternoon branch and the Parish Guild and the A.C.W., of Christ Church, the Royal Doulton China Show began with the viewing of the colored film, Bridging the Centuries.

From early primitive pottery-making to the most up-to-date fine bone and translucent china, the film carried viewers through historical England with its beautiful and simple homes, showing that fine china can play its part in all surroundings.

A new film, shown only a few times in Canada, Focus on Fine China, took the audience on a tour of the Royal Doulton Potteries in Stoke-on-Trent, England, showing the making of this ware in all phases of its manufacture, from the time the artist conceives the pattern until the final touches are completed — a combination of artistry, skill and advanced technology.

Michael B. Hutson, representative of the Doulton Company, gave a most interesting commentary on the making of the figurine called Top o' The Hill. Using a mold, he showed the stages through which the figurine must pass before its completion.

Many patterns of china were arranged throughout the parish hall for the women's inspection, including a bride's table, complete with bride and attendants. A large number of figurines, Toby mugs and other ornaments were eye-catching attractions too. Two lucky people, Mrs. F. Davidson and Miss J. Gazely, were recipients of the figurines, their Lady and The Balloon Lady. These were donated and drawn for by J. A. Blackburn of Stroud's China Shop and Mr. Hutson of the Doulton Company.



Musical interludes were provided through the evening by Mrs. R. Bird, pianist, and spring flowers and plants brought a breath of spring to the occasion. Mrs. Lewis Watson, president of the afternoon branch, A.C.W. and Mrs. D. G. Livingston, president of the Guild, brought greetings and a warm welcome to the many guests who, following the show, enjoyed refreshments served by members of both groups.

Ann Landers

Mail Delivery Delay Annoys Neighbor

DEAR ANN LANDERS: At the moment I am so mad I could chew thumb tacks.

Our son is in Vietnam. He writes once, sometimes twice a week. The mail is important to my husband and me. We live for it. The woman next door is an attractive brunette with a friendly manner. She is especially friendly in the postman. I am so eager to get the mail these days I stand on the front porch waiting. For the past two weeks the postman has been going into this woman's house for a cup of coffee. I have tapped my toe for as long as 15 minutes waiting for him to come out. Yesterday he was there for 20 minutes.

ANN LANDERS

Should I telephone the Post Office and report him? (I hate to be a troublemaker.) Or should I knock on the woman's door and ask the postman for my mail? It is not my business how long he sits there. All I want is a letter from my son. — NEEDLES AND PINS.

DEAR N. AND P.: If you don't want to be a troublemaker, grab the mailman before he goes into the neighbor's house for his cup of coffee.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a boy 16 who thinks you are the greatest. I need your help and I hope you'll come through.

My problem is acne. At first it was just a few pimples but now my face and neck are covered. My mother says it is part of growing up and I shouldn't let it bother me. She keeps telling me time will take care of it. For over a year I have been self-conscious and miserable. How much longer should it take?

I have tried laying off certain foods but it hasn't helped. I bought medicines I saw advertised but they haven't done me any good. We don't have a lot of money for doctors so please don't suggest treatments.

Should I keep trying the medicines in hopes something will help or should I be patient and hope time will take care of it? Do you know any cure? — NEW ORLEANS MISS.

DEAR NEW ORLEANS: There is no sure cure for acne. A treatment that works wonders for one person might prove totally worthless for another.

Go to a doctor. You don't need "a lot of money." You will spend less with a good doctor than if you continue to buy worthless concoctions and treat yourself. Special lamp treatments (in the physician's office of course) have helped thousands of kids just like you. Please make an appointment today.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In a recent column you attributed to St. Paul the statement: "It is not good for man to be alone."

I have heard of robbing Peter to pay Paul, but you, dear lady, are robbing God. The statement was made by Him in Genesis 2:18.

I don't believe God would resent your faulty attribution but I do feel you should keep the record straight in the interest of accuracy. — YOUR FRIENDLY PASTOR, J.J.W. OF K.A.M.

DEAR FRIENDLY PASTOR: Thank you for calling this gross error to my attention. I have before me over 100 letters from other readers who caught the mistake. What a joy to know my column is read by keen observers who are obviously better versed in the Bible than I. Thanks to all of you who wrote. I'll take 10 lashes with an old prayer shawl.

Club Activities

PHI PSI CHAPTER

The regular meeting of Phi Psi Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, was held at the home of Mrs. William Grimson April 22.

The ritual of the badge was held for Miss Marilyn Ellis, Miss June Howe and Miss Kathryn Steeves. Miss Sandra Findlay received her pledge ritual.

The business meeting included plans for a wine and cheese tasting party in June and final arrangement for Founder's Day.

Mrs. Doug Ellis conducted the cultural program entitled, Delightful to Know.

Mrs. Gordon Brown was the co-hostess.

MRS. ALICE TAYLOR

Mrs. Alice Taylor and her husband, grandson of Hudson Taylor, founder of the China Inland Mission, presented the Gospel in Mainland China for 30 years. Since 1953 they have been in Taiwan. Mrs. Taylor will be the speaker on Saturday, April 27th at 8 p.m. at the weekend Missionary Convention at the Free Methodist Church on Avondale Road.

Other speakers will be Rev. N. Cooke of Egypt on Friday at 8 p.m. He will illustrate his message with colored slides.

Rev. R. Collett of Burundi will speak Sunday morning and Miss Virginia Strait on Sunday night.

Last Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Brownson were pleasantly surprised when relatives, friends and neighbors gathered at their home in Madoc to celebrate the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary, April 24. The event was arranged by their daughter and son-in-law, Elaine and Darrel Devolin, Bowmanville and their son Russell Brownson of Peterborough.

Rev. Alex McDowell, minister of Eastminster United Church received word today of the death of his father Mr. John B. McDowell in Fredericton Station, Prince Edward Island. Mr. McDowell left at once to attend the funeral there.

Mexican Police Hold King Assassin Suspect

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Police in the northwest Mexican town of Caborca said today they are holding for questioning a U.S. citizen who, they said, resembles James Earl Ray, wanted on a charge of killing Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Lieut. Roberto Fletcher said the man carried a U.S. passport issued to Daniel David Kenedy.

Fletcher said the man denied any connection with King's assassination.

The officer said the man made a telephone call this week to Baltimore, Md., asking that money be sent him in Caborca. Fletcher added that he did not know the man called in Baltimore.

Agents of the Sonora state police were en route to Caborca to return the man to Hermosillo, the state capital, Fletcher said. He added that FBI agents were on their way to Hermosillo from Arizona, but in Phoenix, John Mohl, in charge of the FBI in Arizona, said he had heard nothing from Mexican authorities and none of his agents was en route to Hermosillo.

The U.S. consulate-general in Hermosillo said it had no information on the matter.

Fletcher said he picked the man up about 6 p.m. Wednesday in a cafe in Caborca, which is about 80 miles southwest of Nogales, Ariz. The officer said he took the man in because of his similarity to published photographs of Ray.

Police in Ciudad Victoria detained another man briefly 10 days ago because he filled the general description of Ray.

The FBI announced April 17 that it was seeking a man identified as Eric Starvo Galt in connection with King's slaying in Memphis, Tenn., April 4.

Two days later, the bureau said a "systematic and exhaustive search" through its fingerprint files revealed that Galt and Ray, a 40-year-old drifter and prison escapee, were the same man.

Ray fled from the Missouri Penitentiary April 23, 1967 while he was serving the seventh year of a 20-year sentence for a market holdup and auto theft in St. Louis.

The FBI said Eric Starvo Galt was one of a string of aliases used by Ray in frequent brushes with the law beginning when he was 21 years old, several years after he dropped out of high school in the 10th grade.

Ray was described as 5-foot-10, 163 to 178 pounds, with brown hair, blue eyes and small scars on his forehead and right palm. He was said to have a habit of tugging on an ear when nervous.

Columbia Students Release Hostages

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia University cancelled evening classes Wednesday and virtually sealed off its campus as militant student demonstrators occupied more buildings in a continuing tumultuous protest.

Tension continued high despite the release of an acting dean and two other administrators from a Hamilton Hall office where they had been held hostage for 24 hours.

But there were no plans announced today's classes.

Demonstrators remained in the hall, and in the ransacked office of President Dr. Grayson Kirk. A group of about 100 students moved into Avery Hall and about 30 settled in Fayerweather Hall.

In a statement, the university said "every effort has been made to avoid force." Officials, however, took the precaution of asking police to enter Columbia's grounds for the first time in three years.

A meeting between President Kirk and a delegation of Negroes from Hamilton Hall broke up at 4 a.m. with no apparent progress in resolving the dispute.

At issue in the Columbia protest—which involved only a few hundred of the 27,500 students enrolled—were the school's plans for a new gym in a nearby Harlem park and its work with the Institute for Defence Analysis.

As the demonstration grew, there were threats of violence.

There were reports, too, that Harlem Negroes planned to join the students.

Accident Victim Is Identified

SHARBOT LAKE — Provincial police here identified the trucker who died Monday when a tractor-trailer caught fire on Highway 7 near here, as the father of two small children.

He was David John Lopa, 31-year-old Toronto man.

Lopa's body was badly burned when his truck, loaded with cardboard, struck a rock cut and burst into flames.

Cowan Faces Opposition

TORONTO (CP) — Ralph Cowan, controversial MP for York-Humber in the last Parliament, faces opposition in his bid for nomination as Liberal candidate in Toronto High Park.

Walter C. Deakon, 43, president of the High Park Liberal Association, said Wednesday he will end his 11 years "behind the scenes" and attempt to win the nomination.

Mr. Cowan, 65, has represented York-Humber since 1962 but the riding disappears under redistribution.

He said in Ottawa Wednesday he will "definitely" run in High Park as a Liberal candidate.

Mr. Cowan, an outspoken critic of his own party's policies, was evicted from the Liberal caucus several weeks ago for voting against a government money bill. He sat as an independent Liberal until dissolution of Parliament Tuesday.

Mr. Deakon, a lawyer and civil engineer, also is vice-president of the Toronto and District Liberal Association.

$152,000 Awarded

NAPANEE — A bankrupt contractor has been awarded a $152,000 settlement in a Supreme Court action against Napanee District Collegiate Institute Board.

K. W. Scott, solicitor for A. Weller Construction Co. Ltd., Toronto, and K. G. M. Ross, a Belleville lawyer working for the high school board, announced the settlement shortly before the case was to be heard here Monday afternoon.

Supreme Court Justice William Henderson gave his consent to the agreement at the spring assizes opening session.

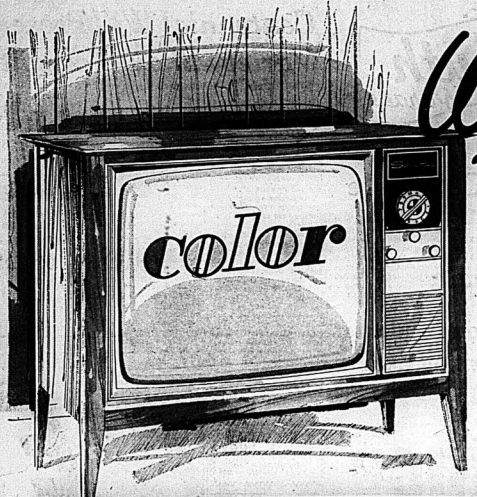
The contractor, in a suit under the Mechanics' Lien Act, walked off the $2.5 million addition project to the secondary school here after a dispute about non-payment. The board claimed the construction firm failed to file a performance bond or proof of insurance and was therefore not eligible for payment.

The board received tentative approval of its required funds from Lennox and Addington county council in October, 1966, and later awarded the contract to the Weller firm. Work began on the school in September, 1966, although final approval for the $650,000 had not been passed by county council.

The money finally was approved Nov. 1, 1966, at a special county council session after the contractor threatened to leave the job. Work ended 10 days later when payment was not made by the board and a supreme court action by both parties began.

The lawsuits halted in February, 1967, when the Toronto contractor was declared bankrupt, but the proceedings started again this spring.

Meanwhile, the board re-tendered the contract and hired a Kingston firm, James Kemp Construction Ltd., to finish the job.



The Weller firm had estimated the board owed $173,-000 but a quality surveyor, hired by the board, estimated the amount at $256,000.

The $152,000 settlement included costs of $2,000 for the Weller solicitor.

Fund Reaches $6,000

Quinte Students Get New Running Track

By STEVE BISHOP

Quinte Secondary School's Centennial project, a new track, is now in sight, and the efforts of the students have largely made it possible.

Original estimates called for a sum of approximately $12,000 to pay for the track, and the 1965-67 Student Parliament, under President Herb Huffman, agreed to a plan whereby the students would raise half the required sum, and the administration would meet the remainder of the cost.

The High School Board approved this plan in principle, and the fund-raising got under way.

The student response was immediate and enthusiastic. A series of projects and contests was initiated to raise money for the fund.

Among the more outstanding projects were a Walk-a-Thon sponsored by Student Parliament, and the school's major production of 1966-67, the operetta H.M.S. Pinafore.

But other efforts were made as well. The various clubs in the school raised money for the fund, and a contest was held in which class could raise the most money. This brought even more students into action.

By the time school was out last spring, $4500 had been raised through the efforts of Student Parliament, the Centennial Committee, and the students themselves.

This year's Student Parliament, under President Henry Kafka, decided that the students had contributed enough of their own pocket money and time to the fund, and that Parliament itself should direct the remainder of the financing.

A large part of the money raised this year came from two productions — Quinte's own Variety Night, and a performance at Quinte of "A Man for All Seasons", by the Clarke Players of Newcastle.

In addition, the Parliament made a contribution of $800 from its own funds.

The $6,000 total is now within $100 of completion, and Quinte principal John Hayman is pleased with the efforts of the students. "This was their goal, and they set their mind to it."

He indicated, too, that the Board was pleased with the work of the Student Parliaments of the past two years in organizing the campaign.

Henry Kafka expressed similar sentiments from the student point of view. "We didn't sit back and wait for somebody to do this for us. We went out and did it ourselves."

Once the goal is reached, the next step will be approval by the Board of a sum to meet that raised by the students. Then tenders and estimates from various companies will be considered, and the contract awarded. Construction might be under way next fall if all goes well.

But the big hurdle, the raising of the money, has been cleared.

New Track for Quinte

Quinte Secondary School's goal of $6,000 for the track fund has been reached. Here student parliament officials Herb Huffman and Henry Kafka talk over the project with staff advisor W. P. Buckley.

Centennial Will Present Variety Show Tonight

By SUE ELLIS

TONIGHT IS a big night for our school. This presentation, our equivalent to other schools' variety nights, is a blend of musical and acting talents.

The drama club is contributing its version of Bernard Shaw's comedy "Poison, Passion and Petrification".

Joan Benjamin will play the lead female role with Steve Badgley and Larry Prell as leading men.

There will be musical selections by our band under Mr. Emmerson and by our own folk singing duet—Ken Snowdon and Donna Hutchinson. It is rumoured that a group from Loyalist college will be singing. We have a seating capacity of 800 and I am proud to say we are "sold out".

LAST WEDNESDAY a committee of senior students was formed to create a new student handbook for the upcoming year. We believe that this is a giant step forward, and hope that such committees will be more plentiful in the future.

ON APRIL 8 grade 11 students went to Toronto on a history trip. Our appreciation and thanks are extended to Mr. Jones for arranging the day.

We had a preview in assembly of our own "James Stewart" (Mr. Valemith) and members of his class in a skit. It was highly entertaining and this class hopes that other classes in the school will get together and bring their talents into the limelight for a change.

I HEAR that Quinte has followed us and had a juke box installed in their cafeteria. I think we do deserve a pat on the back!

A couple of weeks ago Loyalist college folk singers sang for us in assembly. They were fairly good and we would like to hear them again later.

We have a school song now and it goes to the tune of Canada the centennial year song. Congratulations are in order to Kathy Thompson the creator who also received the prize of a school blazer for her efforts.

Hope that all who were able to obtain tickets for our "Evening of Entertainment" enjoy themselves — till next week "Chiao."

Concert Planned at Belleville Collegiate

By ANN McCORQUODALE

THE BCIVS Concert Band is presenting an extremely difficult program on Wednesday May 1. The first and second movements from Beethoven's Fifth Symphony will be performed as well as Finlandia by Sibelius and Rimsky-Korsakoff's Russian Easter Overture.

BCI's talented, pianist Scott Bradford and the Pleiad Bell Ringers will also be featured.

This promises to be the best concert ever. Tickets are only 50 cents and can be obtained from any band member.

Preparations for the annual spring formal are well underway. The theme is "Fiesta de Flores" and for the first time a rock group The Royal Urchin will provide the music. For the small price of $3 you can enjoy an evening of fun on May 3 at BCI's Fiesta de Flores.

FOR THE LAST couple of weeks the Belleville Bowl has generously offered free bowling and refreshments to BCI students on Fridays from 4 to 6. There are only two weeks left to take advantage of this so let's have a good turnout.

On Friday night, the Kin 20 club of Belleville will present a Folk Festival in the BCI auditorium. There are about 16 entries in this competition including BCI's Charivaria. This will be the first folk singing competition held in Belleville and I hope not the last.

* * *

STUDENT COUNCIL Elections are being held this week and the halls of the school are brightened with the campaign posters of the various candidates. Their speeches were heard during Wednesday's assembly and voting will take place on Friday.

Two important issues that next year's executive will have to meet, are the establishment of a Student Parliament to replace Student Council and what role the Student Union will play in high school affairs. Good luck to the candidates and may be best man (or girl) win.

Folk Festival Friday

The lure of folksongs may fill Belleville Collegiate auditorium this Friday.

At least that's what its young organizers are hoping.

The festival, the most ambitious of its kind in the Quinte district to this time, is being sponsored by Kin - 20, the youthful organization affiliated by Belleville Kinsmen.

Dubbed Folk Festival '68, it already has drawn entries from Toronto, Peterborough, Kingston, Oshawa — besides hometown groups.

At least 15 folk groups have so far signified attendance — and the final program may number a score of singers and the musicians.

The increasing number of entries makes the competition that much finer as the groups bid for cash prizes totalling nearly $500.

Profits — if any — go to local service club work and toward a Kinsmen national project in Toronto for retarded children.

The young organizers feel they must have a capacity crowd to show a profit above expenses.

Admission is $1. The show starts at 8 p.m.

Nicholson Students Now Writing Exams

By JUDY SCHREIDER

The freshness of spring evokes a craving for freedom. Unfortunately, the grade 13 students now find themselves immersed in the age - old test of intellectual knowledge — exams. Alas, as I recall, they felt little sympathy for the rest of the school a month ago . . .

Last Thursday, a move toward NCC bilingualism was viewed by the student body when the French club, under the direction of Mrs. Dedier, presented a half-hour play entitled Guignol. The all-girl cast certainly deserves credit for its excellent French pronunciation, as well as its acting.

* * *

Now perhaps, the challenge should be extended to the boys to do as well. After all, the excuse that they're involved in too many extra-curricular activities can't hold strong much longer.

* * *

UNLESS, of course, those sports include the track team. Energetic NCC youths can be seen sprinting confidently around the course, trying to break the coveted COSSA record.

* * *

SO THE THIRD semester need not be boring. This Saturday evening, April 27, student council is holding a dance from 8:30 - 12:00 featuring nonstop music supplied by the super - soul sounds of the Younger Generation from Niagara Falls.

The popular Sands of Time will play side to the Younger Generation. Price is only $1.25 per person and school dress applies. So, if you're looking for a really great evening, don't miss this dance in St. Michael's auditorium.

Dance Planned at Quinte

By SUE BOARDMAN

PLANS ARE being made to hold a Hard Times Day on May first when we will also have a tea dance. Girls will not be allowed to wear shorts, and no bare feet.

Music Night is being held on Thursday, May 2, in Quinte's auditorium, starting at 8:00 p.m. Tickets cost $1 and can be purchased from any member of the band or at the door.

On May 4, all the students at Quinte who take Latin will be able to have the time of their life at the Latin Banquet.

There will be a three course meal, lots of slaves, and lots of entertainment. All of this is under the direction of our Latin teacher, Mr. Cernic.

* * *

STUDENT PARLIAMENT passed a bill to buy a juke-box and have it installed in the cafeteria. Just one reminder—no dancing on the tables.

Last Friday the boys' senior basketball team played against the teachers. The score was 40-35 for the boys, naturally. Mr. Williams, our Art teacher, is helping to dress - up the school a bit by getting frames and putting some of the masterpieces done in his class in the frames. Where are they, you say? Just give him a few more days and you'll be seeing them.

* * *

HERE'S ANOTHER date to keep in mind, Sunday May 12. That's when Quinte's yearbook staff is holding a Walkathon. The route is only five miles long.

Cash prizes will be awarded to the person with the most sponsors. So remember to come out and support Quintessence.

Trenton Group Moira Hosts Singers

By STEPHEN HUNTER

MOIRA had the honor of hosting a young Sing Out group from Trenton at our Wednesday assembly. The group performed last year and with the same enthusiasm and spirit entertained an unusually receptive audience.

Talking to a large number of grade 13's, who do not have to attend assemblies, I found that they wanted to see this assembly because of the terrific job the group did last year.

They weren't disappointed. Thanks from Moira to all the Sing Out crew and best of luck in all future plans.

* * *

THIS FRIDAY the annual semi-formal is to occupy the gym and the decorations are already being prepared to go up. It should be a fun evening.

It is a pleasant change to dress up, formal style, and enjoy an evening of dancing. I enjoy a formal dance because everything is so fancy and the girls are especially beautiful and the atmosphere swallows up your troubles.

You feel like a star making a routine appearance at a social affair. The band playing is the Royal Urchin and they are reported to be a very good group.

* * *

I MUST apologize for the lack of quantity, hopefully not quality, in my last few columns. It is due to an illness known as the last month haul. With several essays to do and so on it is hard to write as much as I would like to. Hold on though.

It'll soon all be over and I can give you a complete report. That's it for this week.

Student Attends . . . Union Conference

A High School Union Conference was held at Ryerson Polytechnic Institute in Toronto on April 19-21, and Peter Brickwood of BCI attended as the delegate from Belleville.

Representatives to the conference came from Toronto, Kingston, London, Ottawa and St. Catharines as well as from Belleville. Several other cities have union connection, but were not represented.

About 100 people attended the conference.

A number of workshops were held, in which such matters as a Union constitution and communication lines between (the various districts were discussed.

There were two guest speakers. The first A. Wright, Research Director from the Education Centre, questioned the necessity for an educational system as regimented and impersonal as that which is currently in use.

The second guest speaker was Robert Davis, editor of This Magazine is About Schools, and director of Everdale Place, a school now in its second year of existence.

Everdale Place, he explained, gives no diplomas, and presents a varied and individual curriculum. All decisions at the school are made at a collective meeting.

Blair, Bowman Bothered By Back-To-Back Games Possibility

PARKER MacDONALD

ST. LOUIS (CP) — Holding to a schedule for the National Hockey League semi-final playoff between St. Louis Blues and Minnesota North Stars is becoming a complicated chore.

The traditional alignment, giving one team four home games and the other three, had to be thrown out because Minnesota's home ice was occupied this week by an ice show.

The North Stars were forced to accept a schedule calling for five games in the best-of-seven series to be played in St. Louis. The third game in the series, tied at 1-1, is here tonight at 8 p.m. CST.

The North Stars won at home Monday to tie the series after losing the opener here Sunday.

Now the teams could play the fourth and fifth games on consecutive days, depending on the outcome of tonight's other semi-final Stanley Cup game between Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks in Chicago at 7:30 p.m. CST.

If the Canadiens eliminate the Black Hawks, then the game scheduled here Saturday night would have to be played at 1 p.m. CST, bucking a CBS television commitment with the Columbia Broadcasting System. The fifth game is scheduled for Monday night.

The NHL contract with CBS demands a game every Sunday afternoon until completion of the Stanley Cup playoffs regardless of previous scheduling.

Coach Scotty Bowman of St. Louis isn't too happy at the prospect of back-to-back games for the second time in a week, but manager-coach Wren Blair of Minnesota isn't dismayed at the thought.

"It may even help us," he said Wednesday night after bringing his team here. "We're not a young club. Older players than us and it could make a big difference if they have to play two games that close."

Blair is happy about the injury-free condition of his players compared with those of St. Louis.

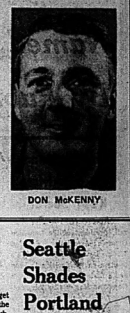
"(Bill) Collins is the only player we won't dress," he said.

Collins suffered a cut elbow ligament in the series opener and is expected to be lost for the season.

"We have some other injuries, but I'm not going to discuss them. I don't want to tell the other team about them.

"I just don't want to hear about injuries, unless they're so serious enough to possibly jeopardize a player's career—a knee or something like that."

Bowman, on the other hand, will be playing without defenceman Al Arbour and Noel Picard and winger Gary Veneruzzo.



Arbour arrived here late Wednesday after being taken to hospital Monday night in Minneapolis suffering a severe charley horse that hemipharged. He, too, could be out for the series.

Picard still was taking antibiotics shots for infection in a wrist broken during the quarter-final series with Philadelphia and, although skating since Monday, goes back to hospital each evening. Veneruzzo suffered a severely bruised right shoulder Monday.

To fill the gaps, Bowman is expected to move Ray Fortin on to defence with Jean-Guy Talbot while Don McKenney will come off the reserve squad on a line with Red Berenson and Gerry Melnyk.

This would allow Bowman to drop Bill McCreary back on to a line with Tim Ecclestone and Craig Cameron, and leave intact the line of Frank St. Marseille, Dickie Moore and Larry Keenan.

The sixth game of the series is scheduled for Minneapolis May 1, and the seventh here May 3, if they are required.

DON McKENNY

Official, SA Is Out

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — South Africa is officially out of the Olympics and the threat of a multi-nation boycott of the Games is over.

Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, confirmed Wednesday that enough votes have been received from 100 members to exclude the segregated country from the Mexico City Games this October.

Brundage said 76 of the 71 IOC members had voted on an executive board recommendation not to invite South Africa to the Games and that 41 were in favor. Only a simple majority, 36, was needed.

Brundage cited "explosive conditions throughout the world" and "actual danger if a South African team appeared at the Games" as reasons for the executive board recommendation, but this was generally viewed as a face-saving device.

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — George Best, Manchester United's ace winger, scored in the 90th minute Wednesday to give his team a 1-0 victory over The Real Madrid of Spain in the first leg of their semi-final in the European Cup soccer tournament. The return match between the two teams will be played in Madrid on May 15.

* * *

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Olympic figure skating champion Wolfgang Schwarz has signed a contract to skate professionally with Ice Capades, the show's president, George W. Eby, announced Wednesday. Schwarz, 30, from Vienna, Austria, will join the group for its May 1-19 stand in Los Angeles.

BERLIN (AP) — Bulgaria qualified for the Mexico City Olympics Wednesday by defeating East German 6-4 on aggregate in soccer match at Leipzig's Central Stadium. The East Germans won the return match of the qualification round 3-2 before a partisan crowd of 25,000, but it was not enough to overcome the 4-1 edge that Bulgaria piled up at home in Stara Zagora.

Oilers Win Away From Title

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Tulsa Oilers came from behind twice to post their third straight victory over Fort Worth Wings, 5-3, in the Central Pro Hockey League final playoff series Wednesday night.

The best-of-seven Adams Cup series will move to Fort Worth for a Saturday night game. The Oilers have a chance to become the second team in league history to sweep the final series.

Andre Hinse scored twice for Tulsa in the final period, including a short tap into the open net after Fort Worth lifted goalie Buddy Bloen in the final minute. Len Hailey, Ron Ward and Mike Byers scored Tulsa goals in the first period.

Blazer Rookie Is Tops

DETROIT (AP) — Jim Lorentz of Oklahoma City Blazers, second leading scorer in the Central Pro Hockey League this season, was named rookie of the year Wednesday.

The 21-year-old centre played all 72 games for the Blazers, scoring 33 goals and 50 assists for 83 points. He finished second behind Ron Ward of Blazers in the scoring race. Ward had 85 points.

Lorentz beat out Andre Hinse and Gerry Meehan of Tulsa in the voting for the top rookie.

With The Trotters

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP) — Three Ontario winners dotted the Batavia Downs card Wednesday night.

Face A Breeze, owned by O. W. J. McArthur of Barrie and driven by his son, Wayne, took the second race in his first start of the year.

Leduke, property of Lawrence Whitelaw, Robert Rogers and Fred Falk of Caledonia, Ont., won the third, his first win in 10 starts this year.

Jack Mehlenbacher Jr. sent Little Joe Hill home in the fifth for his first win in two starts with a $78.20 payoff. Mel and Glen Belore of Hagersville, Ont., own the winner.

Leafs 0-3 Won 4 In Row

Miracle; A 1942 History Repeat

CHICAGO (CP) — Toe Blake sat in the stands at Chicago Stadium and read that daily racing form while Billy Reay discussed the Kentucky Derby as he relaxed in his small office.

There was little hockey talk in the arena Wednesday, although the temperature dropped to 10 degrees outside and a howling wind tossed snowflakes about.

Most of the Montreal Canadien players went through a light skating and shooting drill at 9:30 a.m.

Gump Worsley, the veteran Montreal goaltender, wandered into the stadium to watch the workout and offer off-hand remarks.

"It's the money now and that's what we've after," said Worsley. "Ten grand, that's going to be pretty good for less than two months work."

It was one of the few mentions made during the long dreary day of the National Hockey League's best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series that continues tonight with Montreal leading Chicago Black Hawks 3-0.

A number of fringe Black Hawk players straggled onto the ice about 11 a.m., and pantomimed a light practice.

A win tonight will give Montreal a sweep of the quarter-final and semi-final series in eight straight games.

Only one team has rebounded from a 3-0 deficit to win the Stanley Cup series in more than did it in 1942.

Reay, although anxious to get to the horse races, extolled the greatness of the Montreal club, conceding that his Hawks can't overcome the depth of the Canadiens.

"I'll rate them with any of the great Montreal clubs including the 1946 cup winner and I'll say this one has greater scoring ability," Reay said.

The game is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. CST and will be televised by the CBC national network. A fifth game, if necessary, will be played in Montreal Sunday afternoon.

Rochester Grabs Opener

Many Aces In Discard!

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Rochester Americans exploded for four goals in the final 18 minutes Wednesday night to beat Quebec Aces 4-3 in a wild first game of their Eastern Hockey League Calder Cup best-of-seven finals.

Quebec went through two goalies and four coaches in the exciting game which took three hours to play. Referee Don Wicks whistled four major penalties for fighting, 18 minors, a misconduct on Jim Pappin of Rochester and ejected Quebec coach Vic Stasiuk from the game.

It was a 1-0 hockey game for Quebec going into the final period—the lone goal coming off the stick of Keith Wright at 18:14 of the opening period.

Ted Taylor jammed in a rebound from the corner of the cage to pull Rochester even at 2:14 of the third period. Jim Johnson scored the Aces ahead again at 4:51.

Bob Barlow's rebound at 8:19 made it 3-2 before Jim McKenny, with only 1:59 left, put Rochester ahead for the first time. Taylor added an insurance goal into the empty nets with 33 seconds remaining.

Quebec got starting goalie Fern Rivard at 8:44 of the first period when he suffered a dislocated jaw in a scramble in front of the net. He was replaced by veteran Al Miller who held off the Americans until the finale.

Western Junior 'A'

Bruins Blank Broncos

VERNON, B.C. (CP) — A bristling Scotty Munro ordered early practice for his Estevan Bruins today following their 3-0 victory over Penticton Broncos Wednesday night in the Western Memorial Cup hockey finals.

"We played about a tenth of what we should have," the general manager complained after the game, first in the best-of-seven junior series. "I was very disappointed."

Bruins went into the game as favorites and Munro made it clear he agreed with this indictment of Broncos. "If this is the best hockey club in British Columbia then B.C. is about 90 years behind the times."

Broncos manager George Stoll contended sheer bad luck prevented Broncos showing better. Broncos Dale McBain and Jim Conner both hit goalposts in a fruitless third-period rally.

Jim Harrison, a four-year veteran and most valuable player in the Western Canada Junior Hockey League, scored the winning goal in the first period and another late in the second.

Scotty Bowman Named Top Coach By Publication

ST. LOUIS (CP) — Young men looking ahead are making St. Louis Blues of the National Hockey League tick, but the one the team is most proud of is Scotty Bowman.

It was announced Monday that the 33-year-old bachelor from Montreal has been named NHL Coach-of-the-Year by Hockey News, a weekly sports publication.

"I'm just elated at the choice," said Sid Solomon III, executive vice-president of the club and only 30 himself.

Bowman, just finishing a two-year gentleman's agreement—he has no contract—with the club, came to St. Louis as assistant general manager and assistant coach to Lynn Patrick, who held top spot in both categories.

But with the season 16 games old and the Blues last in the six-team Western Division, Patrick decided it was too big a load to handle both jobs and turned the coaching over to Bowman.

That was Nov. 22 and their won-lost-tied record was 4-10-2.

So with nowhere to go but up, that's where they went.

The Blues and Minnesota North Stars are tied at one game apiece in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-finals with the third game set for 8 p.m. CST here tonight.

Bowman's was a modest reaction to the award.

"It's just been a matter of trying," he said Wednesday.

"First we just hoped to make the playoffs, then we hoped to beat Philadelphia (Flyers), now we're hoping to get into the Stanley Cup finals.

"It took us until the 72nd game (of a 74-game schedule) to make the playoffs and seven games to beat the Flyers in the quarter-finals. But that's the way it's been going.

"The Blues wound up third in the League and had to go against the division-champion Flyers in the first playoff round, blowing a 3-1 lead in games before taking the seventh game of a brawl-filled series that included two overtime contests.

"It's been a gratifying year," he said. "But we've had good goaltending and good breaks.

"Glenn Hall has been outstanding and Dickie Moore gave us the lift when we needed it in December, then came back in February to help us again through the stretch and the playoffs.

(Doug) Harvey became available just at the right time to help us win the quarter-final and through the year we've been able to build some real depth on the club."

Solomon added: "They the team responded to him.

"He makes great moves as a coach and has a real understanding, not only of his own team's abilities, but also those of the other teams.

"Of course we haven't even discussed contracts or next year with him, but I'm sure he'll be back. He's the guy for us."

Canada Stand On S. Africa Kept Secret

TORONTO (CP) — Jim Worrall, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, declined Wednesday to state Canada's position on the decision to keep South Africa out of the Olympic Games in Mexico City this summer.

The International Olympic Committee, which voted to accept South Africa last February, took another vote Tuesday and turned down the country. South Africa was banned in 1964 for racial segregation policies.

Warrall, without indicating Canada's position, said of the Tuesday vote:

"I think you can see the vote was strongly in support of the new recommendation. It's possible that the IOC has been forced to yield to pressure but if this is a precedent, it is a dangerous one. It means that anytime somebody doesn't like something, he can force a change by threatening a boycott.

All Day Sunday Softball Clinic Here!

An opportunity for the district's softball enthusiasts, be they umpire, player, coach or manager, to learn more about the finer points of the game, will be offered free of charge here this weekend.

An Ontario Amateur Softball Association clinic will be held at the Belleville Recreation Centre, beginning at 9 a.m. and running through until late afternoon.

Heading the clinic will be two well-known veterans of the sport on a provincial level.

Max Scheff, one of the best-known umpires in the OASA and now 1st vice-president of the OASA, and past-president of the OASA Andy Davidson, will conduct the clinic.

All phases of softball concerning the rules and regulations, umpire positioning, the handling of various plays and situations, equipment, field measurements, etc., are covered during the day. Questions and answers are also a major part of the clinic and written tests are distributed to all wishing to test their knowledge.

Jim Tebworth, appointed to the OASA executive and to the rules committee at the year's convention, is handling arrangements for the clinic here.

"While it is called an umpires' clinic, we can't stress too urgently that it is open to any interested persons. Coaches and managers always find clinics very educational and we feel they are especially helpful to minor officials, or anyone connected with children's softball. We are expecting a good turnout Sunday and anyone who can't make it early in the day is urged to drop in later," Tebworth concluded.

The time and place, once again: Sunday, April 28, beginning at 9 a.m., at Belleville's Pinnacle Street Recreation Centre.

Major Upset Scored By Amateur

BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP) — Mark Cox, a 24-year-old British amateur, Wednesday scored the first major upset over a professional in an open tennis tournament by beating Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles.

A crowd of 2,000 saw the left-hander break the 40-year-old Gonzales' service in the final game of a 2¼-hour match for a 0-6, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3 victory in the second round of the British hard-court championship.

The tournament is the first permitting amateurs to compete against professionals.

Gonzalez, one of the six stars in George MacCall's troupe competing here, was not the only pro to run into trouble against mediocre opposition.

Australian Fred Stolle had to rally to overcome Britain's Keith Wooldridge 8-6, 5-7, 5-7, 6-2, 6-2. Australian Roy Emerson, a recent addition to the pro ranks, dropped a set to David Lloyd, a 20-year-old Briton, before winning 6-1, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3.

YONKERS, N.Y. (CP) — Cardigan Bay, harness racing's amazing 12-year-old gelding, starts his campaign tonight for the last $50,000 he needs to become the first standardbred ever to win $1,000,000.

Among those disputing his progress is Golden Blend, a five-year-old stallion from Montreal.

Both are entered in the $50,000 International Pace, worth $25,000 to the winner.

"Old CB" is the favorite in the eight-horse field. Golden Blend s one of the outsiders.

Golden Blend is owned by Del Rosa Farm, Montreal, with Claude Pelletier of St. Hyacinthe, Que., as trainer-driver. He has a lifetime win total of $158,102.

Cards Flood Drives In Five Runs; Fails To Score

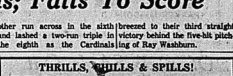
By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Bunning made it home safely after a cold night in Pittsburgh but Curt Flood was turned away at the gate after a hot time in St. Louis.

Bunning posted his first pitching victory at home as a Pirate Wednesday night, subduing Los Angeles Dodgers 7-3 in frigid Forbes Field with late-inning relief help from Elroy Face.

Flood, the National League's hottest hitter, drove in five runs with two singles and a triple as the Cardinals slugged Cincinnati Reds 7-5—but failed to score for the first time in 13 games this year.



Three other scheduled NL games were postponed because of bad weather.

Bunning yielded a three-run homer by Jim Lefebvre in the first inning and then blanked the Dodgers until the eighth, when he aggravated a pulled groin muscle and left the game.

The victory was Bunning's second of the young season against one set-back. He beat the Dodgers 3-0 at Los Angeles then lost to San Francisco 8-2 at home last Saturday before Wednesday night's struggle, which began in 43 degree weather and ended with the thermometer at 38.

Gene Alley reached first on an error by Dodgers shortstop Zoilo Versalles in the sixth inning, moved around on Roberto Clemente's single and a ground out and scored the tie-breaking run on Bill Mazeroski's second sacrifice fly of the game.

Flood stroked a two-run single in the second inning, singled another run across in the sixth and lashed a two-run triple in the eighth as the Cardinals jug of Ray Washburn.

Tribe Hurler Clips Tigers' Win String With One-Hitter

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steve Hargan blanked Detroit Tigers 2-0 Wednesday night with the first one-hitter of the major league season and the first in his baseball career.

But the Cleveland Indian right-hander's joy in the achievement was dilluted by an injury to Tiger left fielder Willie Horton. Horton and shortstop Ray Oyler collided chasing a short fly Hargan hit in the seventh inning.

"You hate to see something like that happen," Hargan said afterward while he soaked in ice water a right elbow that bothered him last season and in spring training. "I sure hope he's all right."

Preliminary diagnosis was that Horton suffered a concussion, but no fractures. At midnight, Shaker medical center hospital said his condition was satisfactory and he was resting comfortably after x-rays that are to be studied today.

"I think I hit him with my shoulder in the back of my head," said Oyler. The ruggedly built, 185-pound Horton appeared to take the impact above his right eye and was carried off the field on a stretcher. semi-conscious. Oyler said the outfielder's eyes were crossed.

"I had the ball and lost it when we collided," Oyler said. "I'm supposed to go out until he calls me off. I didn't hear anything."

The 165-pound shortstop got up and finished the game. Hargan got a triple on the fly and scored the Indians' only earned run on a pinch single by Leon Wagner.

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Steve Hargan was twice as good as Clyde Wright and neither was very good for the hitting averages of Detroit Tigers and Washington Senators.

Hargan hurled a brilliant one-hitter Wednesday night as Cleveland Indians ended Detroit's nine-game winning streak 2-0. A couple of hours later, Wright gave up two hits, pitching California Angels to a 4-1 victory over Washington.

In other American League games, Baltimore Orioles ripped Minnesota Twins 7-3 and Oakland Athletics tripped New York Yankees 4-3 in 11 innings.

Hargan faced only 28 batters, permitting just two walks and Jim Northrup's leadoff single in the third. He struck out seven.

Hargan also scored Cleveland's second run of the game when left fielder Willie Horton and shortstop Ray Oyler collided under his pop fly in the seventh inning and the ball fell for a triple. Leon Wagner's pinch single drove in the run.

Horton was carried off the field on a stretcher and preliminary examination showed he had suffered a concussion. He was taken to Shaker medical centre for further examination.

Wright didn't look like he'd survive the first inning against the Senators. He walked the leadoff batter, surrendered a single to Hank Allen and then walked the next two hitters, forcing in a run.

But then, with the bases still loaded and none out, he struck out the side and allowed just two more runners the rest of the way.

Home runs by Roger Repoz and Paul Schaal gave the Angels the lead and then Schaal and Bob Rodgers each singled home two more runs in the late innings to wrap it up.

Baltimore pitcher Jim Hardin unloaded a two-run triple, tying the game and then Dave May's double drove him in with the lead run as the Orioles battered Dean Chance.

The Athletics ripped the Yankees in the 11th inning when John Donlad's two-out single delivered Bert Campaneris.

Canadian Legion Trenton Fish Derby

The Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 139 of Trenton, has announced plans for its sixth annual fishing derby.

The derby will be held Saturday and Sunday, May 4 and 5, in the Trent River and Bay of Quinte from No. 1 dam to Baker Island on the east and 12 o'clock Point on the west.

Any fish caught in these areas between one minute after midnight of Friday, May 3 to 12 o'clock noon, Sunday, May 5, is eligible for the derby. The final weigh-in is 1 p.m. Sunday.

The Chamber of Commerce Building, Front Street, Trenton, is the place for official weigh-in.

And the prize list is a handsome one. First prize, for the largest pickerel (Walleye, by weight) is a motor valued at $300, plus a trophy and free mounting of the fish. Second prize, for the largest pike, by weight, is $150, worth of fisherman's equipment, a trophy and again, free mounting of the prize-winning fish.

There is also a juvenile class, open to those 14 years and younger. The largest string of pan fish, by weight, will bring a merchandise certificate and fishing equipment valued at $20. Separate prizes will go to the winning boy and the winning girl.

An entry fee of $1 entitles the holder of a receipt to participate in the derby. This receipt must be presented to the official recorder at the time of weigh-in.

Bill Cook is the derby chairman and he has announced that a special fishing movie Friday evening, a giant fish fry and a dance Saturday night, have been arranged to assure an enjoyable derby for all. The awarding of prizes and trophies will be conducted at the Royal Canadian Legion Auditorium, Trenton, at 6 p.m. Saturday.

Uncashed Tickets $10,000 Unclaimed!

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Jim Filburn has some teeth-gnashing news.

A kitty worth at least $10,000 awaits untold hundreds who have never cashed in their winning Kentucky Derby tickets for the last 46 years.

It might be more, says Filburn, director of mutuels at Churchill Downs, but the voluminous track records stop short at 1922.

Uncashed tickets are good forever in Kentucky, even though the track turns over the unclaimed property to the state every two years.

"Late ticket claimers get reimbursed immediately from a small pool we keep on hand for such purposes and, if we need to, we can go to the state for more," Filburn said Wednesday.

Who'd walk away from the famed twin steeples forgetting to claim part of that $1,320,000-plus circulating with abandon on that once-a-year day?

Once-a-year bettors, Filburn says.

The first Saturday in May, Derby Day, always ends with the highest rate of uncashed tickets of any day in all racedom, he says.

Records for 1967 show there's $2,195.40 worth of uncashed tickets still out on Ferby victor Proud Clarion, $2,077.20 on place horse Barbs Delight and $1,231.10 on Damascus, who showed.

Conigliaro Pitching Future Doubtful

BOSTON (AP) — Tony Conigliaro's hopes of a possible baseball comeback as a pitcher are up in the air at the moment.

Conigliaro told reporters Wednesday that doctors have warned him not to undergo any heavy physical activity at this time because it might detach the retina of his injured left eye. He indicated that this put a question mark on his thoughts of trying to return to baseball as a pitcher.

But the Boston Red Sox outfielder's father, Sal, said at his Swampscott home that he didn't believe this necessarily ruled out the possibility for the future.

"Naturally he wasn't thinking of pitching this year anyway," the slider Conigliaro said. "But what constitutes 'heavy physical activity?' He was still able to work out for a good hour just today at Fenway Park throwing to (Red Sox pitching coach) Darrell Johnson."

Tony was injured last Aug. 18 when hit high on the cheekbone by a pitch by Jack Hamilton of California Angels.

Crop Insurance

The wise farmer will not miss this opportunity to purchase this "Bread Insurance" for protection of his crop. Just a few minutes with our representative can insure your crop against the unforeseen and unexpected hazards. Support the seeded acreage.

The Federal and Provincial Governments subsidize the premiums by 50%. Let us help you to get your share. Protect 80% of your normal yield of oats, barley or mixed grains. If your yield is below the guaranteed level, the insurance makes up the difference.

You can also insure your corn, soybeans, sugar beets, potatoes and tobacco against unavoidable hazards. Deadline is May 15 for spring grains and June 15 for corn and crops. Contact our office today for the best in farm insurance.

Riots Main Worry

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 50 U.S. congressmen report in an Associated Press survey that their constituents are mainly concerned with urban rioting rather than war on taxes.

From coast to coast the issue of law and order far overrides other issues, the survey shows.

"The people are scared," said Representative Delbert L. Latta (Rep. Ohio).

"They want law enforcement and not appeasement," said Representative Robert L. F. Sikes (Dem. Fla.).

A New England congressman, who has supported civil rights and urban aid programs—and who asked not to be identified, said: "The red-neck Rotarian crowd in my district shows no little understanding of the racial crisis that I refuse to listen to them."

Representative W. R. Poage (Dem., Tex.) reported on other reaction in his district.

"We're headed right toward lynch law if the people can't get protection from public officials," he said.

"Ninety-five per cent of the people are concerned about the violations of the law and the police's failure to enforce the law," Poage said. "The government will either enforce the law or the people will enforce it through vigilantes, and the people don't enforce the law very exactly or discriminately."

"The liberal community feels impotent about the race crisis," said Representative F. Bradford Morse (Rep. Mass.), a supporter of urban programs and civil rights. "They don't know what to do."

Any Trade With Reds Is Opposed

WASHINGTON (CP) — A militant conservative U.S. youth group has established a formidable barrier to U.S. plans for building trade bridges to Eastern Europe.

Young Americans for Freedom, which calls itself "the nation's most active political youth organization," wants no truck nor trade with Communists.

An affiliate of the Republican party, it claims victories over two major names in American big business.

The Firestone Tire Co. backed away from opening a synthetic rubber company in Romania after the YAF launched a nationsi campaign to stop it.

YAF is also credited with causing American Motors to drop its plan for shipping autos to Russia in exchange for steel.

Now, YAF has taken on IBM which has been selling electronic computers, YAF says, to Czechoslovakia, Hungary, East Germany, Poland and Bulgaria.

YAF's annual meeting in Boston next Monday will discuss the campaign directly with IBM representatives, YAF says.

"We feel its management is progressive and can be convinced that East-West trade is detrimental to American interests," says national chairman Alex MacKay. YAF opposes any U.S. wheat sales to Communist nations.

President Johnson in 1966 began his bridge-building effort to the East with trade expansion in mind. Also involved was the possibility of speeding the splintering of ties between the Soviet Union and its increasingly-restless satellites.

Trade restrictions were eased further in 1965 and 1966.

It was judged good policy to compete with West Germany, France and other nations casting in on rising consumer demand in the Soviet orbit. This has become more important as the U.S. trade surplus shows signs of dwindling, which would increase the already-serious dollar drain.

This doesn't cut any ice with YAF, however, which has threatened domestic boycotts in the past against Firestone and American Motors, and now IBM.

When Firestone canceled its plan in mid-1965, Democratic Senator J. W. Fulbright, Arkansas, accused YAF of being a "minor vigilante group . . . out to alter, dictate or defeat official policies of the U.S. government."

State Secretary Dean Rusk has personally intervened in the IBM situation with a letter to IBM Chairman Arthur K. Watson that says to "yield to such groups is to encourage capricious interference with the orderly processes of our constitutional government."

'Parents Without Partners' Group Now Operating in Belleville

The Belleville chapter of a relatively new organization, Parents Without Partners, held its first election of officers at Tuesday night's meeting at the Family Services Building on Pinnacle Street.

Officers elected are Elinor Wilson, president; Muriel Wilson, vice president; Greta Jakes, secretary, and Robert Lloyd, treasurer.

Parents without Partners, Inc., headquartered in New York City, is described as "a non-profit, non - sectarian, educational organization devoted to the interests of single parents and their children."

The organization was founded in New York in 1958 by persons alone with parental responsibility.

The basic concept of the organization is that persons divorced, widowed, separated, or not married, with children, who still wish to fulfill their position as parents, need help in today's society. And so do their children.

The preamble to the constitution of the Parents Without Partners states this social problem. "The single parent in our society is isolated. The difficulty of providing for ourselves and our children a reasonable equivalent of normal family life is increased by that isolation. The established pattern . . . lacks both means of communication and institutions to enable us to resolve our special problems . . ."

In order to fulfill that purpose Parents Without Partners has established a program designed to offer education to members on their problems and the various readjustments involved. This program includes speakers from both within the community and outside the area — experts in divorce and custody laws, psychologists, sociologists, teachers, and social functions to lessen the isolation of both the parents and teachers involved in the organization.

Parents Without Partners will also investigate and offer its support to legislation on all matters relating to problems unique to its members.

In Belleville, the Parents Without Partners chapter currently has 25 members. The president of the chapter, Mrs. Wilson, however, feels that area membership potential is nearly 300.

"There are many individuals and children in the Quinte area who can both contribute in and be aided by the organization," she said. "We welcome any inquiries, and custody of the children is not necessary to membership. We feel all children need both their parents'," Mrs. Wilson said membership inquiries should be directed to the secretary of the Belleville chapter, Greta Jakes.

Safety Taught to Children

TYENDINAGA TOWNSHIP — Last Friday, the children of Tyendinaga Township Public School received instructions in safety. Constable Ross of the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police has been carrying his message of safety to the schools of Hastings in the area of that detachment.

The teaching varied according to the age of the children. Grades one through four enjoyed his films on general safety rules portrayed by cartoon characters. "Think, and most accidents will not happen," was the safety rule they learned.

Constable Ross afterwards talked to the children stressing such factors as not to handle guns, and how to use knives and handle tools in a proper way.

For grades five, six and seven the emphasis was on school bus safety, the film dealing with that subject. Afterwards the officer spoke about proper bus behavior for safety, and also discussed water safety, now that summer is approaching.

FOR A RESILIENT tile floor to wear well, the surface must be absolutely smooth. Be sure to sandpaper rough spots and fill in holes.

SPREAD adhesive evenly and thinly over about one-quarter of the floor area. Let the adhesive set until it is dry before laying tile.

AROUND pipes or other obstacles make a paper pattern to fit exactly. Then trace the pattern on the tile. Warm tile for easy cutting.

TO FIT the last row place a loose tile over the cemented tile. Slide another tile over it up to wall. Mark the sandwiched tile with pencil and cut.

Simple Tile Floor Installation

Installing a resilient tile floor in the home is simply a matter of following the instructions on the box. But, like setting a dress or making a boat, there are parts of the job that require special care.

First, choose the tile carefully — type, color and design. The family will be living with it a long time.

Vinyl asbestos tile wears well, comes in a wide variety of patterns and colors and is easy to maintain.

Before the floor is installed the subsurface should be carefully checked for any unevenness.

It must be free from wax, paint, oils, grime or cement. Floor covering dealers will be able to advise on the best underlayment for the area.

As many resilient tile designs are now available in 12 x 12 inch squares, it's easy to figure how many will be needed. The number is the same as the square footage of the room. In a 10 x 12 foot room, 120 12 x 12 inch tiles (10 per cent of the total) will be needed, for cutouts and future replacement in case of damage.

If 9 x 9 inch tiles are used, about 200 will be needed for a 10 x 20 foot room.

After the subsurface is smooth and clean, mark the centre point of the room with a taut chalk line.

Begin by marking the centers of the two end walls of the room, snap the string to transfer the chalk to the floor, and repeat on the two side walls. Where the chalk lines meet is the centre of the room.

These two chalk lines must be at an exact right angle. You can check this way: Starting from the centre point where the lines meet, measure exactly four feet toward a side wall and make a mark. Do the same toward the opposite wall.

Starting from the centre once more, measure three feet toward an end wall. Make a third mark. Using a long ruler or tape, lay it between the first and third marks. The distance should be exactly five feet. So should the other side.

Using the chalk lines as a guide, lay two uncemented rows of tile perpendicular to each other, marking off one quarter of the room.

Adjust the test row so that the tile is about six inches from the wall for 12-inch tile, and four and one-half inches for 9-inch tile. This insures an even border around the room.

Remove the rows of test tile and spread the recommended adhesive over that quarter of the room, being careful not to cover the chalk line.

Spread adhesive evenly and not too thickly. Be sure to follow manufacturers instructions.

Adhesive must be dry to the touch before laying tile.

Starting at the centre, carefully place each tile — don't slide — butting each to the adjoining one. Continue for each quarter of the room.

When finished check the floor carefully and remove any adhesive from the face of the tile. Use a putty knife or water and a steel wool pad. Wait a week before washing the new floor.

Check Lighting Requirements Before Purchasing Fixtures

A common mistake in selecting fixtures for a dining room is to shop for the most decoratively correct model, without regard for lighting requirements.

A chandelier may key a romantic mood and help fine silver and dinnerware sparkle like jewels — but there are limitations.

The low level of illumination is unfastering to the appearance of the hostess and her guests. It's hard to see food well, and this annoys some people. Setting the table and tidying up are difficult.

To maintain the glamor of the chandelier along with better lighting install two or more recessed spotlights in the ceiling.

This doesn't interfere with the candlelight effect, but will provide light where it's needed — for table and people.

A new kind of light switch, called a dimmer, can increase or decrease light as desired. Some dimmers are set for two or three light levels. With others, the required amount of light can be dialed.

Skin Experts Suggest Remedies for Hands

Your house may be improved, but your hands won't be when you finish home fix-up chores!

The price of cleaning, repairing or more artistic forms of manual labor is ragged, tough cuticles, broken and stained nails, and sore, rough, chapped skin. Men as well as women complain about the hand-damage problem.

Skin - care experts suggest practical measures: Keep hand cream near the sink, and on the work bench, or wherever you keep tools and supplies. Whether you work outdoors or in, apply hand cream or a lotion first, to moisturize skin while you work.

A medicated hand cream is especially helpful in jobs that involve water, detergents, or outdoor exposure and cream for extra dry skin and for normal skin are also useful, depending on your individual skin type and needs.

Eyes may take a bad beating during home fix-up time. There is a tendency to rub your eyes as you work, a prime source of minor irritations. Fatigue is another factor, and can cause redness and loss of sparkle.

After you complete household repair and cleaning jobs, or gardening tasks, you need a manicure! A clear gel cuticle remover softens ragged cuticle miraculously. In less than three minutes after applying, you wash excess cuticle away while you wash your hands.

The cuticle remover also does a good job of removing nail stains — without scrubbing or rubbing; clears out imbedded dirt and even bleaches nail tips to the whiteness of a professional manicure.

It works just as well for the man of the house, too, whether he does manual jobs all day or just in spare time.

If you are doing any kind of manual or household work, you should have a first-aid kit handy at all times. Beware of infections.

Don't dismiss little cuts or scrapes, but take care of them promptly. Keep a small tube of ointment handy.

Apply as soon as possible to cuts, bruises and burns, to help prevent infection. It can save you a lot of time, trouble and discomfort later on.

Renovating the Basement Can Provide Extra Family Space

After living in a one-storey house for a year, a family of four discovered that limited space was crowding out comfort and enjoyment.

Sound familiar? This family's solution to the problem offers guidelines for homeowners who want extra space — and that includes just about everybody!

Like every family, this one had special needs. A home office for both parents was a must. Piano studies for a teenage girl and trumpet lessons for her older brother demanded space for instruments and privacy for daily practice.

In this case, a design firm was engaged, for a careful study of family and needs and the existing home structure.

They looked into the basement to find room for expansion. The result? A combination library, office and music room were created, without major construction changes. Original storage areas and a laundry room were preserved.

Walls were furred out to accommodate ¼", 4 x 8' sheets of plywood. The choice for the many-purpose room was wormy chestnut panelling. The same prefinished plywood was used, to conceal unsightly ducts and steel beams.

Folding metal doors were skillfully placed to hide laun-

PRESERVE TOWER

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Under a new Iraqi-Italian pact for the maintenance of monuments, Italian archeologists will strengthen and preserve a minaret at Mosul, one of the oldest in Islam. The cost of work on the 1,000-year-old tower and the mosul palace of a former Persian ruler, Iwan Kiara, will come to $840,000.

dry facilities, hot water heater and tank, and heating-cooling equipment. Doors and panelling were combined to form divider walls with a piano niche set in. Folding doors span the home office opening, too.

Door louvers afford ventilation in moisture-prone areas and metal construction protects against warpage.

Still another plywood - panelled divider wall was built to conceal a guest room.

Alongside and under the bookshelves is a staircase, hidden, knock-latch built-ins were constructed to store supplies — music, magazines, home office needs.

For a colorful combination of texture and color, gold and red were used along with the warm wood tones of the panelling. Doors, pegboard office wall and area rug are gold-based, matched by a horizontal gold band in the vinyl flooring. Lipstick red paint trim adds a whimsical note, and there are vinyl-covered chairs in both red and gold.

Renovating the Basement

Design ingenuity and decorative paneling combine to convert wasted basement space into a multi-purpose family room. Hidden built-ins hold magazines, music or home office supplies. Paneled divider wall beyond the stairs conceals a guest room.

Cost of Swimming Pools Starts at $2,700

Suppose that a swimming pool is on the agenda for this year. How much will it cost?

National averages for in-ground pools (as contrasted to the plastic pools that go on top of the ground) run like this:

Small pools (under 15' x 32') — $2,757.

Medium pools (about 18' x 36') — $4,146.

Large pools (over 20' x 40') — $6,727.

These rates, of course, are averages, and are for the "basic" pool with no frills. Diving boards, extra ladders, landscaping, fencing are added costs.

Closets Provide Efficient Method of Safe Storage

Need more closet space? Then, reorganize, redesign and — while you're at it — line closets with aromatic red cedar, for a lifetime of moth protection.

Here's how to carry out a closet-space program.

Inventory closet contents and then design the most efficient method of housing the items.

Be a space miser! The conventional five to five and one-half foot drop to the floor from closet rods really isn't necessary.

Four and one-half will do for most overcoats, and dresses, while most men's suits require only three and one - half feet. Women's blouses and jackets need even less.

By installing rods no higher than needed to serve their purpose, it's often possible to get a second rod almost at ceiling height, or to provide additional wall space for shelving.

Don't overlook the insides of closet doors. They make ideal locations for shoe bags or racks, a full length mirror or hooks for handbag storage.

Mark intended shelf locations on existing closet walls.

Cedar-lining the walls is a job that goes quickly. Installation instructions are included in every package of cedar lining, and the lumber pieces themselves are tongue-and-grooved for fast, tight assembly.

A word of caution: Never paint, shellac or otherwise finish the cedar. Such treatment will close the wood's pores and minimize the desired cedar aroma.

Color Is Important In Any Improvement

On the inside, as well as the exterior, it is important to avoid the feeling that your room addition is an afterthought. Decorative materials for walls, floor and ceiling in the room should be consistent with those of the original house.

Color is especially important. The safest thing is simply to continue the basic color scheme of adjoining rooms unless the function of the new room is totally different. In this case, you may choose to accentuate the difference by doing it in colors that provide a pleasing, compatible contrast.

If your room addition is to be a family room, you can add to the pleasure of it by decorating and furnishing in a friendly, informal atmosphere. Handsome, pre-finished plywood panelling is ideal for the walls. The floor could have colorful, comfortable scatter rugs.

CREATING a cupola for a garage, breezeway or a wing of the house can be a rewarding project for home workshop enthusiasts. Schematic above offers guidance and additional information appears in the accompanying article.

FANCY scrollwork featured in the do it yourself cupola can be cut out with a sabre saw. The cupola provides a great top piece for the addition.

'Cupola' Creative Amateur Project

A project for amateur woodworkers — one that enhances the appearance of the home as well as improves the property — could be the construction of a cupola for garage, breezeway or wing of the house.

The cupola is easy to make with such materials as stock moulding and ready-made louvers obtainable at local lumberyards. The unit may be assembled with nails and water resistant glue.

Roof rafters are screwed for added strength. Using a mitre box facilitates the even cutting of mitred moulding and base.

Aiding the construction are modern power tools, such as a power tool kit that's a complete portable workshop in itself.

Using the schematic accompanying this story as a guide, the following steps are recommended.

1. Cut upright cove moulding same height as louver frames and assemble so edges are flush with front of louvers.

2. Cut and assemble floor and ceiling from three-eighths inch plywood. Dab small amount of glue on posts, then glue together.

3. Cut and assemble base. Angular cut must match pitch of your roof. Use sabre saw to make diagonal cuts. Attach base to plywood floor.

4. Cut and attach rafters. Use F H wood screws and sink heads below the surface. Cut and attach the roof of cupola.

5. Cut and mitre all mouldings. Assemble with glue and brads.

6. Sink all nail heads and fill holes with wood dough. Next prime and paint desired color.

7. If copper roofing is to be used, cut it to size and place over plywood. Carefully solder joints. Or cover roof with shingles to match your roof.

Weathervanes may be obtained at any good hardware store. Building materials, excluding weathervane, average among $25.

Woodworker hobbyists will find the investment a satisfying one all the way around.

Important Job

Pruning Trees Is Necessary

Healthy, beautiful trees spread shade, bear fruit, bring greenery to home scenery. But if they're to keep on doing all these things, they must be pruned.

More and more homeowners are tackling the important job of pruning on a do-it-yourself basis. For their guidance, here are some tips.

Winter and early spring are the best times to prune, giving cutting wounds on the tree a chance to heal during late spring growth.

Exceptions are "bleeders" — notably, maples and birches. They exude much sap when cut during the dormant period, and should be cut during the full growth of summer.

When pruning, make the cuts at a joint and make them clean and even. If a stump or lip is left behind, a callus won't be able to form over the wound and it will remain open to infection.

In severing large limbs, avoid tearing the bark. Try undercutting about a third or a quarter of the way through the bottom of the limb before starting to cut from the top.

It's also helpful to lessen the weight of the branch by removing several sections before making the final cut.

Secure large limbs with a rope before cutting.

For safety's sake, be sure no one is under the tree during pruning, or in position to be struck by a falling limb. If pruning requires climbing high, use a safety rope.

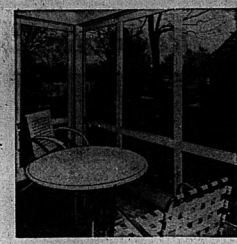
When any limb larger than a 25 cent piece is cut, the wound should be dressed to speed healing.

Asphalt mixtures are popular for this work, because they are easy to apply and weather well, but pine tar is also effective, as well as Bordeaux mixture, or copper sulphate.

To apply mixture, try tying a brush to a pole and working from the ground. Balancing on a limb with a brush in one hand and a can in the other can be dangerous.

PRUNING trees can be fun. The experts claim all cuts should be made cleanly and evenly — preferably with a chain saw.

With lively high speed and light weight, chain saws can ease the work of tree pruning. In fact, pruning is one of the major uses homeowners find for chain saws, according to a recent survey which also showed that one household in 20 now numbers a chain saw among its tools.



Homeowners who have a chain saw soon find their neighbors aren't coming around to borrow the lawn mower any more. They want the chain saw!

Luxury Additions Add to Utility

Luxury additions to a house may or may not add markedly to its resale value, but they add inestimably to its use. Once the second bathroom is added, and the kitchen is improved, it's the swimming pool, the greenhouse, the sauna, the barbecue area or garden living room that make a house a home.

More leisure and more money make all these contributions to the good life a possibility, no longer a dream, to millions of homeowners.

Swimming pools are a dramatic example of the growth of luxurious living in the '60s. Nine years ago there were 87,500 residential pools in the U.S. This year the number has grown to more than half a million.

Porch Creations

A porch for all seasons can be created from a screened-in porch by installation of wide view awning and picture windows. The extra room can be enjoyed all year.

Property Beautification

Cleanup Starts Improvement

From a homeowner's individual efforts to improve his grounds to complete urban renewal, home and community beautification projects are on the increase, for both practical and aesthetic reasons.

Nearly all such projects start in the same way, with one essential step: Cleaning up litter. And there's good cause for this.

Litter prevention is a prerequisite to property beautification.

Just as a woman would not put cosmetics on a dirty face, so must littered property be cleaned up and kept clean, before it can be beautified.

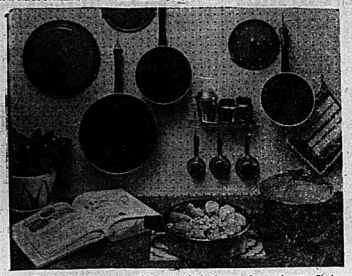
Loss in property values is a big factor, too.

Property owners who permit yards and surrounding neighborhoods to be cluttered with litter are depreciating their investment.

There seems to be mutual agreement that litter-free property will appreciate much faster.

While it is difficult to place an accurate price tag on this loss, real estate men and builders agree that it is considerable. Anti-litter and beautification programs in many sections of the country are actively supported by real estate and builder groups.

How much improvements affect property is strikingly demonstrated by this example: Property values increased 26 times after a clean-up and beautification project in Los Angeles.



A few years ago the street was left littered and unsightly after a street railway was removed. Property was selling for as low as $50 per front foot.

Property owners, in co-operation with the city government, cleaned up the area and planted flowering trees along a centre island that replaced the tracks.

Sparked by the beautification, a fine business and professional district developed along the street. Property values soon rose to $1,200 per front foot.

One of the most encouraging things about litter prevention is that neatness breeds neatness.

When a piece of property has been cleaned up, it tends to remain litter free, and it sets a good example that is likely to be followed by the neighbors.

The pegboard can provide practical storage for cookware. It is decorative as well as practical especially when the utensils are pretty to look at. Hanging them up keeps the cookware handy, yet out of the way.

Pegboard Works Wonders

Need extra space in the kitchen? Your best solution is to take a pegboard and some hooks and make a "hanging garden" of the pots and pans you use most often.

There's only one catch: Hung on display, these cookware items ought to be fairly presentable.

In fact, maybe now's a good time to start replacing some of those blackened old pots and pans, the ones you've had since career days. Treat yourself to a complete set of matching cookware — you'll be in for two bonuses.

First, many cookware items on today's market are sleekly designed and beautifully colored. Aluminum cookware in particular is available in a wide range of shades, ranging from white to oranges, reds, greens and browns.

Furthermore, they have the non-stick interior finishes which not only look smart in their contrasting colors, but also eliminate hours of tedious scrubbing, soaking and scouring.

Secondly, with a matched set of utensils, you'll find that your cooking will improve, too. Different kinds of cookware have markedly different heat distribution characteristics, beginning with aluminum which has the best heat conductivity of any metal commonly used for cookware.

If you know, therefore, that each of your avocado or poppy shaded pots will perform the same way, then cooking time will be at a minimum and you will be assured of better menus.

When you shop for your new utensils, you can pick a co-ordinated matched set to pick up or contrast other colors in your kitchen decor. It's a whole new way of redecorating the kitchen! (By the way, you can paint the pegboard too but do it before hanging.)

THE NAME OF THE GAME IS LIVING

And that's what you do — to the fullest in a Rollins Home — Each year we have added more and more work saving, and comfort making features to our homes so that now, with our latest addition of sodded front lawns, you can move in and really start living — all the work is done.

Expensive? — compared with increases in other products, our houses are one of your most economical purchases. We can still build you a 3 bedroom home with all our exclusive features for as little as $1,200.00 down, to one mortgage. According to all economists your $1,200.00 should be worth $2,500.00 in a years time.

Contrary to a lot of information being circulated, that anyone earning less than $8,500.00 cannot qualify for a new home, we have many models that will permit the lower income families to qualify.

For full particulars on how you can afford a Rollins Home call for an appointment in the convenience and privacy of your own home.

Even the baby will point with pride at Mama's handiwork when you deck out the nursery walls with plaques made of clay concocted of baking soda, corn starch and water. The panels can be highly decorative.

Nurseries Need Color

The nursery is probably the least decorated room in the house. Once it's set up for baby number one, it generally stays "as is" with subsequent arrivals inheriting the hand-me-down decor.

This spring, therefore, when considering what room needs a little refurbishing, take a second look at the nursery. You'd be surprised at how you can spark it up inexpensively and effectively with a little imagination.

A fresh coat of paint for the crib, dresser and chair, the non-toxic variety please, can do wonders particularly if you dare to be adventuresome with your colors. Instead of the traditional pastel baby shades pick a pink with a lot of orange, a bouncy blue, a bonsoienie yellow.

Cover a couple of throw pillows for the chair with an inexpensive fabric in a matching or contrasting color.

If walls look bare, add pictures. And you don't have to go out and buy them. You can make them. All you need is heavy cardboard cut into strips and squares of your preferred dimensions, a pound box of baking soda — the same soda you use for baking, cleaning and brushing your teeth . . . corn starch, animal cookie cutters, paints, shellac and glue. Here's how to go about it.

First you make a clay by mixing together thoroughly in a saucepan 2 cups baking soda (one 1-pound package), 1 cup corn starch.

Add 1¼ cups cold water. Stir until smooth. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Cook a minute long or until mixture resembles moist mashed potatoes.

Transfer to plate, cover with a damp cloth and when cool enough to handle, knead a little. Roll out clay on waxed paper to ¼-inch thickness and cut out your animal shapes with cookie cutters.

Place on wire rack in warm (200 degrees) turned-off oven for a half hour or until clay animals are hard and dry.

Paint in smashing colors using water colors or tempera and dip each animal in a coat of clear shellac for a ceramic-like finish. Using white glue, mount animals on your cardboard strips or squares.

The squares may be 6 or 7 inches; the strips, 6 inches by 12 or 24 inches depending on your design. If you choose, you can give a coat of paint to the cardboard beforehand. Instead of investing in store-bought frames outline the outer edges of your cardboard with a contrasting colored paint or with narrow strips of tape.

Now add glue-on picture hangers to the back side of your cardboards, and up on the nursery walls they go. Not only do the plaques lend a gay, colorful note to the room, but since each costs but a few pennies, you can afford to change your wall decor whenever the mood strikes you.

You might also keep them in mind for contributions to the next baby shower you attend. They make inexpensive gifts that look so professional that no one will believe you made them yourself out of simple household staples.

Cheerful Background

New Paint Adds Touch of Splendor

Color brightens the family environment, adds a touch of splendor to the home, lifts the spirit of the homemaker as she goes about her daily routine.

How to put more color into living? Create a cheerful background with paint.

Light colors reflect more light, make things seem larger but lighter in weight. They are upbeat, cheery.

Dark colors absorb light make things look smaller.

Bright colors make areas seem larger than they are. They attract the eye, and can be used to draw attention from unattractive objects.

Warm colors — reds, oranges, yellows and yellow-greens — are emotionally stimulating, and convey a feeling of warmth.

Cool colors — blues, violets, blue-greens, blue-grays — make things seem cooler.

They are relaxing.

To give the bedroom a start-the-day-right look, try painting the walls a favorite color, then accenting with small quantities of brighter hues in draperies and accessories.

In the kitchen, add light by painting countertops and cabinets white or a light color. For interest, use a bright color inside the cabinets.

Or, choose a tint of a favorite color for walls, using a complementary deeper shade for cabinets.

Provide a glamorous setting for everyday china by painting the insides of cabinets a striking, contrasting color.

To brighten a dark hallway, use light colors on walls and woodwork.

Put sunshine in washdays by painting the laundry room a warm, sunny color. Shades of yellow are stimulating; shade, of pink are flattering and cheerful.

In the living room, use deep-toned hues to accent light wood furniture, light shades to bring out the elegance of dark finishes.

For the bathroom, choose cheery, flattering colors. Walls in delicate pastels can be accented by towels and accessories in brighter hues.

Plan the painting with future relaxation in mind.

Use easy-to-apply latex or water-base paints for the walls an alkyd or oil-base paint for woodwork.

Landscaping Not Formal Affair--Grows in Value

Flowering trees should combine shade and beauty, wherever possible. Home fruit, too, is part of the general picture of abundance. In the fall, of course, one wants foliage colors in areas where they occur most vividly.

The delight of a brilliant foliage tree warms the family's heart and grows in value with the passing years.

Landscaping is not a set affair, like the Japanese Garden, or the English formal garden, but a thing of beauty which pleases the family throughout the year.

People at times have rages for gardens like the Japanese, English, French, Italian, or similar gardens, but this is ridiculous if one has to sacrifice his own idea of beauty for the imported idea which may not fit into the American scheme of beauty in any sense of the word. It's like wearing sandals on a rough and tumble trip into the Rocky Mountains.

"Be yourself," say the professionals, "and tie sky, earth and home together in the lovely natural way that's part of American living.

"Let's capitalize on our own landscape opportunities which are incomparable."

Renovations Add Space

Porch Today--Family Room Tomorrow

Yesterday's old-fashioned sun porch can be tomorrow's modern family room. The necessary ingredients are some imaginative planning and competent handyman work.

A more informal decorating theme can be followed in the renovated sun porch to blend comfort and good looks. A spacious family room, with plenty of natural light, is ideal for informal entertaining throughout the year.

One of the most important points to consider when redecorating a sun porch is easy maintenance, since the area will receive hard wear. To create a handsome, woodgrain decor that can be washed, install plastic - finish planks right over the old wall surfaces.

Highly-resistant to heat and moisture, the planks have a baked plastic that can be damp-wiped clean.

Easy to handle, the planks are usually secured with wall-board adhesive and simple metal clips. The planks usually have tongue-and-groove edges to simplify fitting.

This informal woodgrain decor is extremely versatile, and many types of furnishings will blend well with the theme. Early American furnishings are particularly effective.

If a new ceiling is to be installed, plastic - finish material comes in 16-inch square blocks that can be put up quickly with adhesive. Many of the washable blocks come in colors and one is a striking "gold lace" pattern.

Power Mower Care

Taking good care of the power mower can pay dividends in cutting ease. The blade should be sharpened or replaced once a year. Mowers also require special lubricants.

Home Owners Indicate Power Mowers Popular

Proof of the popularity of gardening today is the fact that there are over 20 million power lawn mowers in use, according to recent industry estimates.

Lined up hub-to-hub, that many machines could mow a swath 7,000 miles wide.

Today's mowers are ruggedly built machines that can last six or seven years with proper maintenance. However, their life can be cut in half if they do not get proper care.

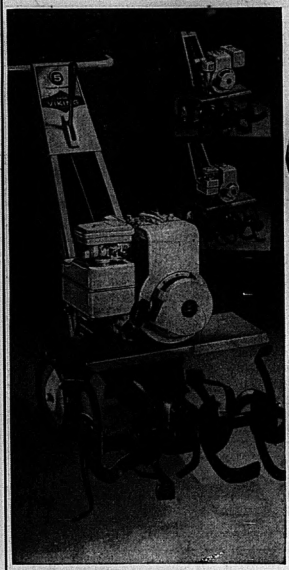
Power garden equipment experts suggest that owners check their mowers each Spring to insure long life and maximum efficiency. Here are their pointers.

Remove rotary mower blades and have them sharpened and balanced. Actually, a new blade costs only a little more. Reels should only be sharpened by a specialist.

Caked, dry grass should be removed from the underside of rotary mowers particularly if the unit's exhaust is under the blade housing. The hot exhaust can ignite the dry grass and start a potentially dangerous fire.

When doing this, or any other work on a power mower, the spark plug wire should be removed to prevent accidental starting.

Oil and gas should be drained if this wasn't done when the mower was put away for the Winter. The crankcase should then be refilled with a special power mower oil. Automotive engine oils should not be used; they are formulated to lubricate engines operating at varying speeds.



Power mower engines operate at relatively constant speeds and, therefore, require special oils. Outboard motor oils should be used only with two-cycle engines.

The mower should be washed down with detergent and a scrub brush and rinsed with a hose. All oil plugs and gas caps should be tightened before doing this. A few drops of mower oil should be applied to wheel bearings and any oil cups.

Mower spark plugs rarely need cleaning. If you do remove the plug and have a unit that requires a copper washer under it, do not re-use the old washer. It will not make a proper seal. A new plug and a washer is the best bet.

With these simple steps out of the way, practically any power mower can be used throughout the entire season with little or no attention.

Glass Provides Scenic View

Does the old family homestead, which may have seemed fine for years, now begin to feel too crowded and confining? After long service as a retreat from the workaday world, are its four walls starting to close in?

It's only human nature to want to replace drab, outmoded interior space with a fresh, new environment which seems more roomy and cheerful.

One way of remodelling an indoor area to give it added sparkle and a feeling of greater spaciousness is to bring the outdoors indoors—to open the living room, kitchen or other area to the light and color of nature.

Make the peacefulness of the back yard, or the scenic view from the front yard, a part of the home, both inside and outside.

In other words, knock out the exterior walls, or at least part of them and replace them with floor-to-ceiling expanses of glass.

The remodelling - with - glass technique not only can make the interior seem larger and more visually pleasing, but also can pay extra dividends by giving the exterior a more modern and appealing appearance.

The key is to make a glass remodelling project fit the pocketbook. Pick out the most attractive view, and bring it into the home with glass.

Renovate with glass first in rooms which are used most often and then, when economics permit, branch out into other portions of the home.

Sliding glass doors are a particularly popular means of uniting the home's natural and manmade space because they serve both as a door and a window.

They provide both visual and physical access to a patio, courtyard or lawn, turning it into another "room" in the home and making it enjoyable year-round.

Using insulating glass in these sliding doors is a practical means of making such a remodelled home work with the weather. Insulating glass is made of two panels of glass, separated by a sealed-in air space for an added margin of protection against inclement weather and for lowering of heating and air-conditioning costs.

The glass panel facing the outdoors can be tinted grey or bronze to soften sky brightness and further reduce sun heat transmission.

Tempered glass, also made with grey or bronze tint, is especially recommended for sliding patio doors. Glass tempered to make it highly resistant to breakage (4 times to five times stronger than regular plate glass of the same area and thickness.

Should breakage occur with tempered glass, it disintegrates into relatively small particles resembling rock salt.

Redecorated Bath

The bathroom can become a showplace with the use of mosaics and colorful accessories. Ceramic tiles are easy to install and olefin fibre carpet won't absorb moisture. It can be installed with scissors and double faced tape.

'Hospitality' Sink Helps

Elegant dinner parties, teen-age record hops or backyard barbecues — almost any kind of entertaining goes easier with a hospitality centre, and a "hospitality sink."

Especially designed for water convenience in limited space, a stainless steel hospitality sink can be set up anywhere in the home.

Usually, it's installed away from the regular sink, to relieve traffic around the food preparation area.

Such sinks are suitable for indoor or outdoor use, since stainless steel is impervious to weather. Tall, goose neck faucets allow glasses and ice trays to be filled with ease.

Bathroom Can Be Showplace

If the bathroom is the step-child when it comes to decorating in your house, maybe it deserves a second look. After all, surveys indicate that the bath gets more public scrutiny than any other room . . . and fewer comments.

Which means you should anticipate its needs before the mildew starts among catty neighbors.

For effective yet easy-to-do decorating, try this:

Bedeck the bath in a medley of mosaics and an array of colorful accessories. The ceramic tiles are available in two inch squares and are easily affixed with mastic. Use a soft and fluffy gold carpet that is perfectly at home in the bathroom, bedroom or backyard.

Since the olefin fibre on both the surface and backing doesn't absorb moisture, there are no worries about mildew — and this washable carpet is a joy to care for. Spots vanish with detergent suds and water.

Installation requires just scissors and double - faced tape. For those who love vivid colors, but are bashful about using them in other parts of the house, the bath is a great place to try out new and exciting color schemes.

It's fun to decorate the bath with bright towels in contrasting color combinations, ratan baskets and tissue holders in tingy colors, add in the fresh look.

Finishing touches to set the mood are indirect lighting and a bit of greenery which thrives in a moist atmosphere.

Here's good news about a wonderful new plastic floor! It will add beauty and convenience anywhere in your home — even in your basement. It's not harmed by grease, moisture, or anything you might spill on it. Cleans easily. Our factory-trained experts will install it for you or you can do it yourself. Let us show you how. Armstrong Excelon Tile is priced amazingly low.

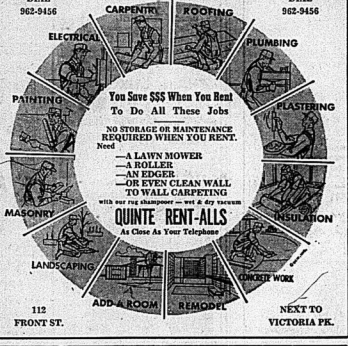
Fencing Gives Privacy



Protection and privacy, two basic reasons for building a fence, now are often joined by a third consideration—beauty.

Traditional types of fencing such as steel chain links continue to serve their purpose of enclosing and protecting the property, but they add another dimension when they're planned as a backdrop for roses or other bushes and vines.

Lumber, one of the earliest fence materials, goes contemporary in attractive designs louvers, wood "bricks", parquet, herring bone, basket-weave and latticework patterns.

Non-made materials such as fibreglass-plastic create unusual patterns in combination with wood framing. Panels of fibre-glass-plastic provide privacy without cutting off light, thus serving many special needs.

Hardboard panels, used as fencing, can make a contrast with the siding of the home, and can be painted for decorative outdoor living

Protection and Beauty

Protection and beauty go hand in hand when exterior improvements spruce up the home. One project might be exterior siding or a roof drainage system. Either makes a great home improvement project.

Teen Room Renovations Should Be Important

Does that teen-ager's room sometimes resemble a village recently sacked by Attila the Hun — walls scratched and marred, clothes on the floor, mementos strewn on every furniture top?

Strategic planning and imaginative remodeling may be the way to end this havoc. Use sturdy materials that can withstand hard daily abuse.

Provide convenient storage space.

Make the room attractive so teens will take pride in it.

Best defense against walls besieged by scuffing, finger marks and stains might be hardboard panelling.

There's a choice of prefinished, plastic-surfaced or ready-to — paint panels, all easy to install over furring strips with nails or special adhesive.

Standard four-by-eight foot panels, which can be worked with ordinary carpentry tools, come in handsome wood grains, colors, patterns and interesting textures. The panels are durable, abrasion resistant, and wipe clean with a damp cloth.

To provide handy storage space and override pleas of "where can I put things?" turn all or part of one wall of the room into a combination storage and display centre, with panels of perforated hardboard.

Brackets and hooks inserted in the perforations will support shelves for books and knick-knacks, or the youngsters can simply put up their favorite keepsakes in sight but out of the way.

Perforated panels installed on the inside of closet doors also provide extra storage space for clothing.

To make the room even more attractive, choose furnishings and accessories that are young-at-heart, casual and comfortable. Teens love to lounge on beds, chairs and floors, so don't restrict them and bedspreads.

Washable — but colorful — fabrics, lots of cushions, and a resilient floor covering are ideal for young rooms.

Sound - proofed ceiling tiles can save wear and tear on older members of the family.

So teens won't think it's all play and no work, do set aside one part of the room for more serious pursuits.

A roomy desk, reading chair and good lighting can provide a simple but effective study centre for their school work.

The final ingredient for a perfect room is privacy — one aspect parents sometimes forget.

Whether they're entertaining friends or cramming for an exam, teen-agers like to have a room that's exclusively theirs, free from the invasion of toddlers and the interruptions of adults.

Given a comfortable, good-looking hide-away, some teens might go so far as to take reasonably good care of it!

Colors Bright or Muted

Wall Coverings Provide New Look

Home improvements can be major or minor, both in effect and amount of time and money involved. Among the most major effects of change with the least amount of time or money spent are those accomplished with new wall-coverings.

New wallcoverings go on easily and can take a lot of abuse, because new manufacturing methods render them washable or scrubbable and fade and stain-proof, as may be required.

Wallpapers go on easier because a higher percentage of papers are pre-pasted at the factory. These just need dipping in water to activate the adhesive and require only measuring, matching and cutting to prepare for installation.

Many papers are pre-trimmed to save time, too.

Patterns in wallpaper and wall-coverings can be purchased for as little as a dollar and a half a roll, although, of course, they can increase in price to as much as the pocketbook can afford.

Colors are bright or muted and can be found in many pattern types. Florals are of every description and reals. Paisley and other middle Eastern pattern patterns are predicted to be fashionable for the next few years.

Traditional patterns such as damasks, toiles, brocades flocks and stripes are in every color imaginable. Plaids, tweeds, casing, woods and bricks are readily available, too.

Look at interesting scenics in both pasted and unpasted sample books. There are some new novelty papers for children's rooms and dens, in particular.

A new wall pattern can set either an exciting or a calm mood in any room. Large, bold patterns can be interesting in a large room, whereas small-scaled patterns are usually more in keeping with the smaller room.

Wallpapered screens at either side of a picture window, with a valance across the top, can create a new look. Or, cover a bookcase or table with wallpaper, for a decorative effect.

Good Investment

It's Spring--And Homes Go Modern

Outdoors, homes are getting a facelift with everything from new roofing and siding to new patio furniture and plantings. Indoors, rooms are responding to the magic of panelling, painting, wallpapering, flooring.

Kitchens go modern; family rooms grow out of attics and basements; bathrooms expand and multiply. Repair and remodelling, expansion and modernization are in the air — it's home improvement time!

What's all this in aid of?

Some proponents of home improvement hold that it's worthwhile to remodel because it's a good investment. Improving a home will increase property value and pay off with a better resale price, they say. True enough — but there's more to home improvement than property value.

Remodelling pays its own dividends. For one thing, it enables families to enjoy a better over-all standard of living.

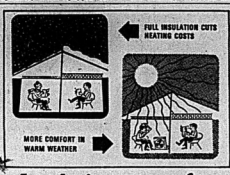
Children stay at home when they have more space to play in. Tensions between parents and children are less, when a second or third bathroom relieves the usual morning congestion, or when there is a basement family room for play or entertaining.

Converting an attic into a bedroom or study can mean less time spent in front of television and better grades in school. It can mean a place for Dad to catch up on office work — or, it can provide guestroom space for overnight — or longer — visits from friends or relatives.

For Mom, of course, a more spacious, better-equipped kitchen or laundry can mean a new lease on life. She will have more time to spend in community activities, or in pursuing the hobby she once dropped to raise a family.

Improvements like these make a house more livable, and they are easy to finance, too.

The monthly payments for the kind of improvements that excite the admiration of the neighborhood are substantially less than the payments on a new house.



There are other factors to consider, too. Inasmuch as mortgage money may be in short supply, it is difficult to buy a new home even for those who can afford the payments. This also means that there are fewer buyers for used homes, making it harder to resell a home.

The alternative, then, may be to improve the present home. Unlike mortgage funds for new homes, financing for remodelling is not hard to come by. Most lending institutions are happy to finance remodelling projects.

With the availability of financing, there is also an increasing number of contractors who are highly qualified to do expert work at fair prices. Contractors and new home builders are entering the remodelling field in large numbers.

The Dining, Family Room Problem

When a combination dining-family room becomes too small for the family an addition may be necessary. With a divider separating the two rooms the areas are still united in design and appearance.

Insulation - - comfort

Full insulation can cut heating costs in winter and reduce cooling costs during the summer months. Complete insulation calls for six inches in ceilings and three inches in side walls.

Basement Renovations

Sump Pump Best Insurance

One of the most popular home improvements this year is converting the basement into a livable area.

Whether the basement becomes a family room, utility room, workshop, extra bedroom, or a combination of these, one thing is sure. It holds a lot of valuable equipment that must be protected against basement flooding.

Best insurance against basement flooding is a sump pump.

Sometimes called a cellar drainer, the pump is installed in a pit or sump. When water in the pit reaches a predetermined level, a float switch automatically starts the pump.

It operates until all the water has been drained out, when shutoff also is automatic.

Basement flooding most frequently results from heavy rains. However, if the home has an overhead sewer, water from plumbed-in appliances can't drain away by gravity, and a sump pump is needed. Plumbing contractors can advise about sump pumps.

Wesleyan Methodist Churches in Belleville, Madoc and Trenton
Christian Reformed Church, Trenton
Standard Church, Crookston
Standard Church, Ivanhoe

That's only a few of the contract installations satisfactorily completed by Wray's skilled installers. Of course, residential carpet installations is a much bigger share of our business but we want to point out that: When tenders are called, when carpet, undercushion and method of installation are all carefully spelled out, then there are no substitutions allowed, and when all major carpet dealers have an equal opportunity to bid — we are so often successful. May we quote on your requirements.

Turning an eyesore into an asset is the landscaping lesson illustrated here. An unsightly tree stump becomes a patio barbecue centre when it's used as a pedestal base for a large clay pot of flowers.

Potted Plants Supplement Garden

Outdoor gardens can be easily supplemented with container plants for those who want to be weedless gardeners this spring and summer.

Even avid green-thumbers appreciate the addition colorful flowering plants or unusual foliage in clay containers make to outdoor landscaping effects.

For maximum decorative mileage, try some of the following suggestions.

Keep the raised planting bed or planter near the entrance of the house in flower- show perfection with the varied array of plants available at nearby nurseries, florist shops or garden centres.

Start with spring-flowering bulbs, then switch to annuals and tender bedding plants. Later, select hardy chrysanthemums. All are grown in porous clay pots that can be plunged right into planter box soil for a continuous seasonal display.

A hot spot on patio or terrace can be converted into a cactus garden.

Cacti grow in all shapes and sizes and make interesting and unusual arrangements. Plunge the clay-potted plants into planter soil, or simply slip them into matching saucers. They love sun and a sandy soil kept on the dry side.

Grow a selection of potted herbs on a kitchen window shelf. Nothing perks up summer meals more than fresh herbs. Parsley, chives, tarragon, basil and mint can all be grown in small three or four-inch clay pots.

Hanging baskets or planter pot rings do wonders for bare stretches of garage wall or fencing.

If it's a bright sun area, try geraniums, lantanas or marigolds; for shade, fuchsias or tuberous begonias will provide the color.

Post lamps look still more decorative when their bases are encircled by pots of flowers.

Bed, pink and white geraniums make a nice combination. To give plants a bit of height, set them on inverted clay pots or saucers.

Line a flight of sunny garden steps with pots of sedums, aloes or other succulents.

The stepped repetition of he clarpotted plants will create a pleasing pattern.

Hanging baskets can be suspended from overhead lathes or rafters, even from tree branches.

Air Conditioning -- Modernization

Planning to modernize a home without including central air conditioning? It's almost a contradiction in terms: We've reached a point where a truly modern home will nearly always be centrally air-conditioned.

Consider these facts: A housing administrator pointed out that it will not be long before homes without air conditioning will be considered obsolete; a survey made for a magazine showed that two out of three Americans now consider air-conditioning a "necessity" in the home and one out of every three new homes built is centrally cooled.

Put all these things together and there's one answer. Home air conditioning is an essential ingredient in a real home modernization program.

It will will make the home more comfortable, and it's an investment, not an expenditure, because a home owner usually recovers the initial cost if and when he sells the home.

Many owners of older homes feel that a central air conditioning system will cost too much.

Until firm bids have been obtained, there's really no way of accurately estimating what the cost will be.

For homeowners interested in air conditioning, specialists recommend asking two or three reputable contractors to visit the home, study the problem, and then submit written bids. Compare proposals to determine a definite price.

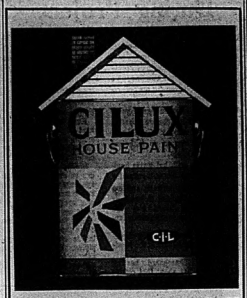
It is possible to centrally air condition almost any home effectively, no matter its age, size, or design. The cost of adding a central cooling system will depend on where you start out from.

For example, if the home already has a warm air heating system, a contractor probably will recommend that heating ducts be used to cool the house in the summer.

This means the only cost will be the cooling equipment and its installation. If there are no ducts, however, getting them installed will add to the costs.

If the home has hydronic or "wet" heat, cooling equipment with its own means of air distribution will have to be installed. Frequently, in hydronically-heated homes the contractor will recommend locating the air-conditioning equipment and ducts in the attic.

Modern air - conditioning equipment is compact, and there's usually no difficulty in finding a spot for it -- in a basement, crawl space, attic, or even a closet.



A "split" cooling system reduces the amount of interior space needed. Evaporator coils are placed inside the home and the condensor-compressor located outside. About 80 per cent of all residential central cooling systems are of the "split" variety.

Proposals from contractors should be checked carefully to make certain they have recommended the same size of equipment.

If any home improvement or modernization program is planned, it's logical and easy to have the home centrally air conditioned at the same time.

GIVE UP SMOKING

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Pupils at Groves high school here are giving up smoking for candy mints in a campaign against cancer. About 150 pupils, with permission from their parents, had permits to smoke in designated areas. J. Rife English, principal, said about 75 candy mints donated by a manufacturer. He said the program has been successful and those who have not quit smoking have cut down.

A MAN'S Den can be a relaxing retreat. This one offers carefree comfort with a reclining chair and easy care, Herculon olefin fibre carpet.

Like shrubbery, flowers and trees exterior lighting is becoming a part of landscaping. Here early American lighting complements a New England style clapboard home.

Lighting, Landscaping Work Hand in Hand

Lighting and landscaping work hand in hand, welcoming visitors to a hospitable home with a cheery "Hello."

Carefully placed lighting helps shrubbery and other plantings around the entrance stand out effectively; in the various landscaping features.

Several types of garden lighting units are available to draw attention to the work of a green thumb in garden and shrubbery areas of the yard.

These units range from various types of walk lights to spot lights. Nearly all of these fixtures are designed to blend inconspicuously with their surroundings.

In most cases, the exterior appearance of a house can be dressed up the entry way.

An easy way to do this is by the addition of a pair of flanking outdoor wall bracket lighting fixtures on both sides of the door. Keep their size in balance with the house.

Post lights, too, add a tremendous amount of personality to a home. Now, many are available in extra high, double lantern models, very reminiscent of the light posts of bygone eras.

These units give the yard and entry way of a home an extra dimension, as well as providing a safe passageway along the walk or driveway to the door.

In situations where a sizeable overhang projects from the house, perhaps above an entry door or perhaps along a wall above a patio, fixtures hung from chains and matching the wall brackets and yard lights are used to add a family look to outdoor lighting, and of course, provide additional illumination.

Many post lanterns, wall brackets and ceiling fixtures for outdoor use are styled traditionally, with a variety of Early American types available.

A good selection of contemporary fixtures are also easily found in the modern manner. Local lighting centres carry a complete line.

Most outdoor lighting effects are further enhanced by the use of an electronic dimmer that varies the light levels from total darkness to full brightness with the turn of a knob.

The nice thing about such home improvements as outdoor lighting is that these projects can be planned totally, well in advance of installation, and then done in stages, depending on flexibility of the budget.

Colored Concrete Popular

Color-conscious homeowners have found a new method for adding a durable carpet of color to patio floors, with easy to apply concrete stains that provide colorful protection for maintaining the textural appeal of concrete.

The new concrete stains, for use on walkways, driveways and pool areas, come in a variety of colors designed to complement and be at home in their natural outdoor setting.

According to a color consultant, the colors were selected for the harmony they have with Nature's color range. Also, any of the colors can be intermixed to obtain a color "original" to set a decorative color pace and mood.

Earthy tones, floral shades, spruce colors — the complete range allows decorative dexterity to please the tastes of many families and home makers who seek as much individuality in the color plan for the patio as they do for a living room.

The new stains roll on easily with a roller, a large paint brush, a push-broom or a spray gun. The surface to be stained should be free of dirt, wax or grease. Depending on the intensity of color desired, one coat of stain may do the job.

The stains penetrate concrete surfaces in depth and do not form a film or surface coating that peels, flakes or scuffs under severe use.

Heating Changes Readily Updated During Project

If heating modernization plans are made at the outset of a home improvement project, the homeowner can probably save, not only on the heating, but on the over-all remodelling job.

That's because many remodelling jobs require heating work of some kind, and it is often easier to do it before other changes.

Homes with hot water heating systems are well-suited for remodelling projects, and the old steam-heated Colonial or Tudor-style house can be readily and inexpensively updated.

The following heating checklist suggests some of the possibilities.

Install baseboard heating units. What about that old-fashioned radiator? Simply replace it with wall - hugging baseboard units.

They provide just as much warmth and comfort but don't interfere with wall-to-wall carpeting, furniture or draperies.

A few minor piping changes may be all that is necessary to install these units.

Convert to forced circulation. Gravity hot water and two-pipe steam heating systems often can be converted to forced circulation hot water heating. This means faster response, with a thermostat calling for heat automatically, and more even heating throughout the house.

For the conversion, some new piping at the boiler, a circulator and a few accessories are installed.

Install a new boiler. A modern, economy boiler can save space and give new life to the heating system. Although today's boiler is often smaller than many home clothes washers, it can heat a house that once needed a large, cumbersome heating plant.

And it doesn't have to be in the basement. Boilers can be installed in a carport, closet, attic, outdoor tool house or even the backyard.

A hydronic (hot water) heating system offers a choice of fuels. Boiler can be powered by gas, oil, electricity or coal.

Heat the garage. Installing heat in the garage can be a simple operation if the house has a hydronic heating system claims the Council.

Hidden finger - size piping can be extended into the garage from the basic system, to create a mud room, workshop, play area and cleaning room all in one location.

Heat the add-on rooms. Because the hot water for heating is carried by finger-size piping. It is comparatively easy to snake these pipes into add-on rooms without major carpentry.

BASEBOARD heating units are slowly replacing the bulky radiator used in many houses. The hot water baseboard radiation makes way for picture windows and wall to wall carpeting.

It's home improvement time

Recess of Legislature During Election Urged

TORONTO (CP) — The leaders of the two opposition parties in the Ontario Legislature favor a recess so they can support candidates in the June 25 federal election, but Premier Robarts is not committing himself.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon said Wednesday he would like to see the house recess about 10 days before the election, while New Democratic Leader Donald MacDonald said he prefers a longer recess, starting before the election lasting about two fall. Both made their remarks in interviews.

Mr. Robarts, asked whether he was agreeable to a recess, replied: "We're here to do the business of the province. We have our program here."

The premier has said Tuesday night that the current session might last until the end of August because of the large volume of unfinished business.

Mr. Robarts said he will campaign for Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield, "but I have nothing mapped out."

In business in the legislature Wednesday, Health Minister Matthew Dymond said salaries, wages and greater use of improved services were responsible for a three-fold increase in the cost of the Ontario Hospital Insurance Plan in nine years.

The plan cost $222,000,000 in 1959, rising to $612,000,000 last year, he told the legislature in opening debate on his department's $398,454,000 estimates.

He estimated the cost of hospital plan for 1968 at $744,000,000.

Dr. Dymond said the average daily cost of hospital care in 1968 is expected to be $37.35 compared to $32.81 in 1967.

Salaries, wages and benefits to hospital employees account for 75 per cent of the commission's costs, he said.

James Trotter (L—Toronto Parkdale), lead-off speaker for the Opposition, blamed the increasing debt on "shockingly wasteful" administration that is "either deliberately or stupidly blind to the obvious inefficiencies in the system."

Mr. Dymond also said in his report that Ontario's air pollution control program is being expanded. Toronto, Hamilton, London and Peel County already have facilities, and regional offices are to be established at Windsor, Sarnia, Welland, Sudbury and the Lakehead.

In other business, Highways Minister George Gomme said the department is studying the possibility of establishing dumping stations for wastes from toilet holding tanks of trailers.

Oshawa Boy Ruled Insane

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — John Edward Ross, 15, of Oshawa, charged with the capital murder of a four-year-old boy, was found not guilty Wednesday by reason of insanity.

He was charged in the death of George McDonald, also of Oshawa, who died during a fire that was found badly beaten in a railway boxcar Nov. 21.

Ross will be held in jail until authorities decide what institution will take care of him.

Pt. Anne

POINT ANNE — Mrs. Peter Green sr. and Mrs. Hannah Hull spent Tuesday in Napanee and visited Mrs. June Marcks who is a patient in Napanee hospital.

On Wednesday afternoon, while on his way from school, Gerald Bowder was struck by a car and knocked from his bicycle to the road. He escaped serious injury.

The Cubs and Scouts had a paper drive Saturday and the Guides and Brownies held their annual cookie sale.

Mrs. Ruth Henderson has returned home after being hospitalized for about some nine weeks.

Legality of Montreal's Civic Lottery Questioned

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Albert Campbell of Scarborough said Wednesday the borough should ask Postmaster-General Cote if use of the mails to run Montreal's civic lottery is legal.

He told Scarborough board of control that the entry forms and which have arrived by mail from Montreal look the same as the borough's tax forms and use language that many residents have interpreted as a demand for $2 or more in taxes.

He and the board agreed to tell Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal that the mailed forms are not wanted in Scarborough.

Mayor Campbell said the language on the forms gives no hint of a lottery and those unfamiliar with the scheme are confused.

The Montreal lottery form, headed by Mr. Drapeau's name and his city hall address, has space for signature, adress and telephone number, and the words: "I request the director of finance to register me on the monthly voluntary tax roll of Montreal for this amount—$2 or a multiple—included and to send me an official receipt.

"I have nothing against intelligent women—I just wouldn't want to be married to one."

Municipalities Will Receive Rebate Funds by September

OAKVILLE (CP) — Municipalities should receive funds for property tax rebates from the province by September, Premier Robarts said Wednesday.

Householders should get their tax credits from the municipalities by the end of the year, he told the Oakville Real Estate Board.

Regulations now being prepared "will spell out the ways in which landlords pass on the reduction," he said. "This could be either in a lump sum or in the form of a reduction in the monthly rent.

"If a landlord does not do this, he is liable to a fine for each individual dwelling for which he has failed to obey the law. . . . The tenant will not be required to hire a lawyer in order to bring the landlord to court. All he has to do is go to a police station or the Crown-attorney and swear out a warrant."

The province is providing tax rebates under the Residential Property Tax Reduction Act, which requires municipalities to allow a credit on 1968 tax bills.

Payments this year will be about $150,000,000, and together with the costs of administration of justice, assumed by the province Jan. 1, constitute about one-third of the financial aid to municipalities recommended late last year by the Ontario committee on taxation.

Mr. Robarts said the tax credit will be equivalent to the taxes on the first $2,000 of assessment on an equalized mill rate basis.

"The tax on the majority of self-contained residential units in Ontario will be reduced this year by approximately $45 and $65. . . .

"This represents the greatest single transfer of funds to municipal taxpayers under any new program in the history of Ontario."

Limit Put On School Proposals

TORONTO (CP) — Delegations who want to appear before the legislature's education committee when it debates a bill setting up county school boards in Ontario will be told ahead of time not to discuss the principle of the bill.

Committee chairman Bert Lawrence (C—Carleton East) agreed with a suggestion by William Newman (PC—Ontario South) that notices be sent to those asked to appear before the committee pointing out that the bill has already been approved in principle by the legislature.

Mr. Newman said that unless the action is taken the committee could deluged with "thousands of delegations."

Mr. Lawrence agreed. He said Education Minister William Davis had a six-inch-thick file on briefs and requests to make submissions concerning the bill.

Mr. Lawrence won committee approval for his proposal to invite education department officials to explain details of the legislation at the committee's next two meetings before inviting any delegations.

Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough) asked whether the committee might be allowed to examine the report of the provincial committee on aims and objectives of education, which is expected to be released shortly.

Mr. Lawrence said he doubted the government would be willing to assign the committee such a role and that at any rate such an examination would have to await processing of legislation by the committee.

PSI Does Not Plan Fee Boost

TORONTO (CP) — Physicians' Service Inc. has no immediate plans to raise premiums even though it had a deficit of more than $2,600,000 in 1967, the organization's annual meeting was told Wednesday.

President Dr. Owen B. Miller of Toronto said the deficit was anticipated because "despite the inflationary trends of the economy the PSI subscription rate has been maintained at its present level for over three years."

Dairy Commission Urges Grass Cheese Promotion

The policy of the Canadian Dairy Commission is to discourage surplus fodder cheese production and promote grass cheese, Central Ontario farmers were told at a Brighton meeting this month.

Mr. L. A. Atkinson, a member of the commission said cheese will be supported at 47 cents per pound this summer and 42 cents per pound next winter.

Mr. Atkinson was addressing a zone rally of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture attended by representatives from Hastings, Peterborough, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Durham and Northumberland and Victoria counties.

At the above prices Mr. Atkinson said it would pay farmers to switch from industrial milk — powder and butter — plants to cheese plants this summer and back again to industrial plants in the winter.

However, he pointed out, a 42-cent support price does not mean that this will be the price for fodder cheese. The price for fodder cheese will be the market price, likely slightly above the 42-cent figure.

All that support means, Mr. Atkinson said, was that the price will not go below 42 cents.

Explained the commissioner: "Cheese should be produced for the markets we have, just as is evaporated milk and other products. It is not easy to store a cheese surplus — it's better the milk go into butter, which is easier to store.

"They say fodder cheese nowadays is almost as good as grass cheese — you can hardly tell the difference. This may be so but there's only one market for our surplus cheese — the United Kingdom, and the U.K. has a prejudice for grass cheese."

Canada can sell surplus grass cheese in Britain, he went on. But there is virtually no export market for fodder cheese. Accordingly, the price for fodder cheese has to be what the market will pay, but the commission can pay an incentive price for grass cheese.

The commission earlier announced it will support cheese at 44 cents, to May 18, 47 cents to November 2 and 42 cents thereafter until the new dairy year begins next April 1.

Mr. Atkinson said industrial milk producers who shipped more than their quota last year will receive higher quotas this year. The quotas will be re-allocated by the commission from farmers who allow their quotas to lapse.

He said all shippers of 50,000 to 100,000 pounds milk will get quotas to cover their last-year level of production, and producers of more than 100,000 pounds also may get small increases. Farmers who shipped between 12,000 and 50,000 pounds of milk will have to re-apply for quotas, and they too will be able to get increases — possibly up to 50,000 pounds.

These increases, Mr. Atkinson explained, will come out of quotas that are lapsing.

He defended the increases on the grounds that many farmers last year went into milk production without knowing of the quota scheme. "We sent the information to all the communications media," he said. "But many farmers apparently didn't read about it."

Farmers who last year shipped less than 12,000 pounds of milk will get no quota for the current year. They will, however, get the same payment as they got for last year's subsidy. This is a "phasing out" payment.

Mr. Atkinson told the group that the commission's policy was aimed at producing a viable Canadian dairy industry. Producers would be enabled to increase operations to an economic size. Farmers who wanted to enter the industry could only do so, henceforth, by buying the herd and getting the quota of an existing producer. Thus total production in Canada will not increase, he said.

The commission looked forward to the day when subsidies would be unnecessary, Mr. Atkinson added. "One of our objects is that some day we can transfer the cost of dairy products to consumers. There should be an increase in price to consumers and a decrease to taxpayers. The people who use the product should be paying for it.

"This involves some controls. There are farmers who don't want controls. Well, one way to be free of controls is to be in a free market. The dairy industry doesn't want that.

U. S. Trade Position Weakens

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration is running into trouble in its efforts to cut the U.S. international dollar drain this year by $3,000,000,000.

Some government officials already have conceded privately the goal in some areas of the program will be extremely difficult, if not impossible, to meet.

But perhaps the sourest note in the entire picture is the deteriorating trade position which officials blame on inflation at home, strikes and the threat of strikes, and what they call, excessive wage settlements.

The net result is a sharp rise in imports and a decline in the trade surplus.

President ohnson unveiled his new balance-of-payments program on New Year's Day in a fresh attempt to lick a perennial problem which produced a $3,570,000,000 deficit in 1967.

Although exact figures won't be available until mid-May, officials now look for substantial improvement in the deficit for the first three months of this year compared with the last three months of 1967.

But the deficit in the prior quarter was $1,850,000,000 and there's little chance it will drop to the quarterly level prevailing before devaluation of the British pound last November.

The quarterly drain during the first three-quarters of last year ranged from $533,000,000 to $638,000,000.

Johnson's new program called for Congressional action on a variety of fronts but Congress has yet to complete work on even one of them.

Passage of the proposed 10-per-cent income tax surcharge is the keystone of the entire program.

The House of Representatives approved extension of the five-per-cent excise tax on airline tickets for international travel but deferred action on the major part of the travel program—a proposed tax on spending by U.S. tourists in other countries.

The government fared better administratively. Effective next week, foreign tourists will be eligible for a wide range of discounts on travel and accommodations—part of an attempt to attract more foreign tourists to help offset American spending abroad.

But trade now is the most worrisome aspect for government officials close to the balance-of-payments question.

Lawrence A. Fox, director of the commerce department's bureau of international commerce, said the threat of a steel strike this year will add as much as $500,000,000 to the dollar outflow through increased steel imports by companies it is building against a possible walkout.

He said the recently settled eight-month copper strike cost the U.S. almost $400,000,000 in increased imports last year and this year.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For April 26th

Your birthday today: You will be forced to disencumber your life this coming year. Material objects which have lost their usefulness should be sold or thrown out before the year is done. Individuals sometimes outgrow relationships with others. The life path ahead is completely new and trackless. Intuition and imagination are more important than ever. Today's natives usually have the knack of a subtle approach to most problems.

ARIES (Mar. 21—Apr. 19): Today your personal responsibility should reward you in terms of cash and human warmth. Younger people may be drawn to you for advice. Today may mark the end of some long drawn-out nuisance.

TAURUS (Apr. 20—May 20): Continue your search for more easy ways of getting results in your work. The outward show of money is balanced by hidden costs. Share with your mate whatever fun there is to be found.

GEMINI (May 21—June 20): Stabilization is the word for today; things come back more to normal. Do the practical chores first, then catch up with the news of your family and friends.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Today should find you in a good productive mood and going well. Get shop and household anxieties repaired. Ad something to your savings.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Stay away from petty details during the day. Give yourself a better perspective by reading views from distant observers. The evening is great for the pursuit of romance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23—Sept. 22): Try to collect all that is coming to you. Hold your reserve, and refrain from casual disclosure of your affairs. Share everything with your mate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 23): Today is for thrifty buying; buy only essentials. Try to present a cheerful face to your friends. Do not neglect any of your work.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Little things count today. If your face reflects personal concerns, you cannot help it. Stay busy and productive. The work you do today should be satisfying.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Your decisions about money today are more important than the actual journeys, as they reflect the values you place on things. Purchasing household shopping are favored.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22—Jan. 19): You should expect to put in a rather solid day, with one matter after another demanding your full attention. Do not neglect your home-life when you get done with the day's work.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 19): Potentially profitable opportunities are all around you. Check them out, accept those which a t i s f y your requirements. Relax early, there is something at home needing your personal attention.

PISCES (Feb. 19—Mar. 20): Trivial matters, routine chores may vex you today. Its almost as if things insist on being done twice. An occasional time - out will help your intuition break through with the corrections needed.

LBJ Selects 'Dove' As UN Ambassador

Big Two Back A-Pact

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United States and the Soviet Union today tell the 124 members of the United Nations why they believe a draft treaty to prevent nuclear proliferation should receive speedy endorsement.

Representatives of the two nuclear superpowers will speak first in this afternoon's debate. The topic is one of the rare ones on which Russia and the U.S. are in complete agreement.

A three-week debate is anticipated on various aspects of the treaty, drafted with the intention of forestalling a costly race to develop nuclear arms and to lead gradually to disarmament.

Canada is a solid backer of the principles of the draft treaty, formulated by the 18-nation UN committee on disarmament. Her representatives, headed by Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, helped hammer out the draft in Geneva during the last 2½ years.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp of Canada will address the UN either Monday or Tuesday. It will be his maiden speech.

He will fly to Washington Tuesday for a meeting with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk.

Objections to the treaty in its present form have come from India, fearful of neighboring China, Israel, Brazil, West Germany and Rumania, among others. Surveys, however, indicate the votes are available for two-thirds approval in the General Assembly.

Mighty A-bomb Shakes Nevada

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The mightiest nuclear bomb ever exploded in the United States shook the Nevada desert about 100 miles northwest of here today.

Residents here said the blast at 10 a.m. EST rocked the city sharply for more than a minute.

The device being tested was an experimental hydrogen bomb in a chamber, 2,800 feet under Pahute Mesa in a lonely desert area.

Its power was rated as equivalent to 1,000,000 tons of TNT. A million tons is 50 times more powerful than the atomic bomb that wiped out Hiroshima in the Second World War.

Vocal Critic Of War Chosen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has chosen George W. Ball, a strong advocate of a negotiated Vietnam war settlement, to succeed Arthur Goldberg as ambassador to the United Nations.

Ball, 58, is a former high state department official. His appointment to the post Goldberg quit was viewed in the capital as fresh evidence that Johnson has decided to make a determined effort during his last nine months in office to negotiate an end to the Vietnam war.

Ball has made his criticisms of U.S. policy known particularly since resigning as undersecretary of state in October, 1966. Thus his willingness to return to government surprised Washington circles as much as did Johnson's decision to ask him back.

Reached Thursday evening by telephone in Mont Tremblant, Que., where he is attending a conference of an independent group concerned with Atlantic community problems, Ball said Johnson asked him to serve during the remaining months of the president's term "and this is what I am going to do."

Johnson announced Thursday at a news conference that Goldberg, 59, had resigned and would be replaced by Ball. The president said the change probably would become effective in early June although nothing has been "certain matters now under way" at the United Nations.

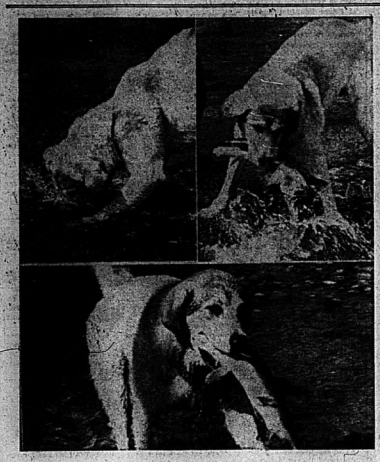
Goldberg will handle the American argument for UN acceptance of a treaty proposed by the U.S., Russia, and Britain to outlaw the spread of nuclear weapons.

At a New York news conference following the president's announcement, Goldberg said he had worked in the cause of Vietnam peace during his 28 months as UN ambassador. He added:

"I have resigned in the belief that I can best further these objectives in private life," he said. While acknowledging there had been Vietnam policy differences within the administration, he said that had not motivated his decision to resign.

There have been reports in Washington that he was disappointed at not being assigned to Johnson's diplomatic team for any Vietnam peace negotiations.

When Ball's appointment was announced he was flying to Montreal to attend a meeting in Mont Tremblant of the Bilderberg Conference, comprised of Western European and American public figures who meet periodically to discuss Atlantic problems.



Change at UN

Arthur J. Goldberg, left, has resigned as the U.S. representative to the United Nations. Goldberg will be replaced by former Undersecretary of State George W. Ball, right.

Cadieux Speaks

Tie With French World Seen as Federal Duty

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government considers it as much its duty as Quebec's to maintain the closest possible ties with the French-speaking world, says Marcel Cadieux, deputy minister of external affairs.

While the dispute between Ottawa, Quebec and Paris continued to simmer, the external affairs department circulated the text of a speech given by Mr. Cadieux at the University of Montreal March 2.

Mr. Cadieux said:

"There is no difference in this area between the goals of Quebec and Ottawa, both of which are seeking closer contacts with the French-speaking community in order to assist in the development of French culture at home and to make our version of this culture known abroad.

"But it makes a difference whether this policy is conducted by Quebec or Ottawa.

"If conducted by Quebec, it will to some extent serve the interests of Quebecers, but only their interests.

"If it is undertaken on a broader base by the Canadian government, it can serve the interests not only of Quebecers but also of the French-speaking people of Ontario, Manitoba and New Brunswick, not to mention those English Canadians who are willing to accept the French fact.

"But there is an even more serious consideration; if that part of Canada's foreign policy which is concerned with our relations with the French-speaking world became the monopoly of Quebec, the tendency people have to identify Quebec with French Canada would become that much stronger, at the very time—and this is the supreme paradox—when the French fact has finally acquired its rights in the other provinces."

He said that during a period when the rest of Canada is discovering it has a real interest in French, Quebec, "by insisting that it is the sole genuine representative of French Canada on the international level," risks losing a 100-year-old objective of Quebec.

"In short, I see a danger that, if we accept the premise that only Quebec is logically entitled to represent French Canada in the world French-speaking community, then we must accept the conclusion that what is not part of Quebec may be excluded from this French-speaking community."

Saigon Finds Arms on Junk

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese police today ordered all boats and vehicles entering Saigon searched for arms and explosives after thwarting a Viet Cong attempt to smuggle guns into the capital on a river junk.

South Vietnam's national police said they found 10 Soviet AK-47 automatic rifles aboard a junk at Saigon's riverfront dock.

The Tet offensive in February showed that the Viet Cong had built up sizeable caches of guns, ammunition and explosives in preparation for the lunar new year attack.

Premier Nguyen Van Loc suggested Thursday that the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese might be planning another attack on Saigon to improve their military position before peace negotiations.

In the continuing small-scale fighting around the capital, 12 U.S. soldiers were killed in actions 12 to 38 miles from Saigon. Twenty-six Viet Cong were killed.

Pope May Attend Montreal Parley

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's Roman Catholic bishops disclosed Thursday they have hopes of a papal visit to Canada next month.

But Most Rev. Alexander Carter, bishop of Sault Ste. Marie, told a news conference that time is running short for an official invitation to Pope Paul to attend a conference on poverty being held in Montreal May 26-29 by Christian churches in Canada.

About 70 bishops have been meeting here all week to discuss church matters.

"Just what is it you people want, Joe?"

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican sources were doubtful today that Pope Paul would accept an invitation to visit Canada next month.

They said that even his reported plans to go to South America in the fall still were tentative and depended partly upon his health.

Pope Paul's aides have said that it is likely the pontiff will go to Colombia Aug. 25 for the closing of the International Eucharistic Congress. He also might go to Medellin, Colombia, for the Latin American Episcopal Conference to be held immediately after the Eucharistic Congress.

But aides have expressed doubt that the Pope would accept the numerous invitations he has received to visit Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Uruguay, Mexico and other countries in the course of that trip.

Quebec May Give Help to Gabon

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson says his government may extend technical aid to Gabon, a small African republic whose actions have aroused difficulties between Quebec, the federal government and France.

Gabon has asked for aid and "discussions have begun to see whether Quebec can come to the aid of Gabon, not like the federal formula of money distributed massively and with a certain discrimination, but with money, technical services, consulting services," the premier said.

Canada broke relations with Gabon after the former French colony invited Quebec to attend an education conference of French-speaking nations in the Gabonese capital of Libreville in February.

Columbia Bows to Students

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia University bowed today to a militant student protest that had disrupted campus life for three days and said it would halt construction of a controversial gymnasium until further notice.

The reversal came in an announcement by university Vice-President David B. Truman before a cheering crowd of 150 white and Negro onlookers gathered on the steps of Low Memorial Library.

Truman also said the entire university would be closed until Monday to permit further talks among the administration, faculty and Mayor John V. Lindsay.

The concession seemed to drain much of the tension that had built up on the Ivy League campus, but student demonstrators continued their sit-in at five campus buildings.

In a separate protest, a group of 10 to 20 Negroes, members of

Most of the centre's 7,000 students had no role in the protest, apparently hoping the university also would yield to their second principal demand—amnesty for all demonstrators.

President Grayson Kirk announced Thursday that no amnesty would be granted.

Roundup Time in Toronto

Cattle lured by the call of the wild lead police and volunteers through a wild and muddy roundup in west Toronto Wednesday. Five animals on the way to the stockyard broke down the back of a truck and escaped. It took some two hours to get the reluctant steers back into the truck where they promptly kicked down the tail gate and escaped a second time.

'Official Plan' Shelved in Picton

PICTON (Staff) — An $8,000 county allotment that would be paid for the beginnings of a $18,000 county 'Official Plan' has been shelved forcing the county planning board to search out new methods to achieve the same results.

It is hoped that the funds will be available by next year. In the meantime the planning board, and several county municipalities have instigated independent actions that move the county towards an overall uniform land development plan.

A $60,000 county budget deficit last year was largely responsible for the setback.

The 'Official Plan' is an assessment of available land in the county, and a forecast of what uses might be made of that land.

Through control bylaws, restrictions can be placed fairly upon the sale or sub-division of land properties, thus ensuring that adequate space is left for future development.

The survey would have been conducted by a private firm of planning consultants.

It is now learned that a shortened form of the Canada Building Code can be put into effect. The code would have some what the same results as an official plan.

A. Ralley said that to date it appears hopeful that the code can be instituted in the county. Amalisburg, South Marysburgh, Athol, Sophiasburgh, and Hillier have already expressed their interest.

No reply has been made to date from Picton, although a possibility of a limited acceptance is good, Mr. Ralley explained that a shortened form of the code would not be altogether applicable to the larger municipality.

It seems likely as well that three county municipalities may adopt sub-division control bylaws, an additional method of controlling land usage on a local scale.

Sophiasburg, Athol, North Marysburgh township council representatives will meet next week with I. M. Anderson, of the Department of Municipal Affairs, Community Planning Branch.

Sophiasburg recently passed the control bylaw but area council members are following up on a proposal made last week by Mr. Anderson.

Mrs. N. VanWyck appears a bit reluctant to proceed further onto old privately owned suspension bridge at Foxboro. Now seldom used, the bridge is being taken down to save the owner public liability insurance.

Old 'Swing Bridge' Over Moira At Foxboro to Be Dismantled

A privately-owned "swing" bridge which has provided a pedestrian crossing over the Moira River at Foxboro for nearly three-quarters of a century has reached the end of its day.

The old suspension bridge at the south end of the village near the former Foxboro cheese factory is to be taken down — because the owner is tired of paying public liability insurance.

The bridge is to come down today and when it is gone another link with the past will have disappeared.

Except for thrill seekers (mostly children) the old bridge doesn't see much use and any more — not even by the owner.

And owner Jim Carruthers considers the bridge not as an asset but as a liability.

"Unfortunately I own the bridge," says Mr. Carruthers. "I don't use it and I can't keep the kids off it so to protect myself I have to carry liability insurance.

As a result the bridge costs Mr. Carruthers money every year and he doesn't care to continue the expense merely as a tourist attraction.

The rickety appearing bridge with its bucking up and down motion has given many people the willies over the years.

Many years ago a Foxboro man was frozen almost into immobility with fright when attempting to cross the structure and is said to have taken more than half an hour to make the short 200 foot trip.

Many others have refused to use the bridge.

Over the years the bridge has passed through a succession of owners, who sort of fell heir to the footbridge with the purchase of property east of the river.

The bridge was built long before days of the automobile, its original purpose being for use as a shortcut to the village by the families living across the river.

The alternative was to hitch bridge doesn't see much use and any more — not even by the owner.

The bridge was built long before days of the automobile, its original purpose being for use as a shortcut to the village by the families living across the river.

The alternative was to hitch and wagons used to ford the river at a shoal just south of the floating bridge.

"I have driven horses across the river there many times," says Mr. Clarke.

But the floating bridge must have proven unsatisfactory somewhere along the line for the owner Albert Loucks eventually erected a swing bridge. And not satisfied with just one swing structure he built a second similar one a short distance upriver opposite the old Foxboro brickyard (now the site of Rollins Lumber).

Eventually the Loucks farm was purchased by the late Everett Sills and shortly afterwards the original swing bridge tumbled into the river.

Mr. Sills had the structure rebuilt with the heavy steel suspension cables being anchored deep into the bedrock.

Over the years the bridge flooring has had to be replaced, but the actual suspension system has withstood the ravages of the elements. Now, however, the wooden pilons at the end of the bridge are showing decay and the safety of the structure is being questioned.

How do you get rid of an unwanted steel suspension bridge?

Mr. Carruthers plans attaching one end to a big bulldozer, then cutting the cables on the opposite bank and hauling the whole thing out of the river.

Then the bridge will be cut into sections and hauled to the Thurlow township dump for disposal.

Motherless Colt Kept Alive By Kindness of Neighbors

The fourth concession of Thurlow has a "Community Colt."

A registered horse belonging to Nancy Allan and kept at the farm of Clare Sills in Thurlow lost her life Wednesday night while foaling.

The colt was still alive in the morning when the stables were checked and from that moment on the community feeding and vigil began.

In an effort to keep the colt alive Miss Allan began feeding her with a baby bottle.

Since the colt's sibling being the bottle all right, there is no problem there. However, keeping the colt alive necessitates bottle feeding her four ounces of milk once every hour, 24 hours a day.

The hourly feeding must be kept up for four days before the formula can be increased and the number of feedings decreased.

To help Nancy keep the colt alive and prevent her from falling over from exhaustion the neighbors have gotten in on the act.

A regular "bottle brigade" has been established at the farm with at least 20 people taking feeding shifts throughout the day and night.

With all that concern and help it's no wonder that the new-born colt is coming along well. She might be motherless, but at least she is the only horse in Canada with 20 foster mothers.

Picton Collegiate Being Used For Educational Television

PICTON (Staff) — The many advances, and applications of educational television at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute will be televised next week to 100 members of the Ontario Teachers Federation in Toronto.

Production of the half hour show has been going on for the last few weeks at the school, largely under the willing hands of students.

Supervisor of the program, John H. Syrett, had a double interest in the production. Now working for Educational Television, Toronto, he was formerly principal of PECI for almost eight years.

He explained that the show was to be partially a promotion of the ETV system, but mostly an educational production in its own right showing teachers of various schools how they might apply speed own closed circuit television systems.

All of the actual filming of the show was done by students.

Each scene depicted demonstrates a use or application of the system. Interviews with personalities are video-taped and are so preserved for future classes. The two interviews shown on the system were with James Plumber, a former Canadian naval commander, who spoke at the school last week of his encounter with Ferdinand Demara, 'the great impostor,' and with Dr. Arthur M. Lower a former professor at Queen's University, and a prominent Canadian historian, who spoke here yesterday.

Mr. Syrett explained that other sequences showed further uses of the system. The opening few minutes of the school produced play Antigone were recorded and preserved for future study by new classes. A diving sequence, being filmed today, provides an ideal method for school physical education instructors to actually show divers what they have done incorrectly.

Mr. Syrett explained that the selection of PECI for the show was almost a foregone conclusion when the project was given to him by ETV because of his experience at the school.

He noted however that the collegiate was also a logical choice because of the six-year experience there with television, longer than most other schools in the province.

World Traveller Brings Home New English Decimal Coinage

A limited run of new "decimal" coinage went into circulation in Great Britain this week and already a few lucky Belleville children have samples for their coin collections.

In fact thanks to the advantages of modern day jet travel, the coins arrived in Belleville the morning after they went into circulation in England.

The "fresh from the mint" decimal coins — new five and ten pence pieces — were brought in the city by ex-alderman Jack Allin as he completed the final leg of a 35-day round the world trip by air.

"I thought I'd bring a handful of the coins home for my grandchildren," Mr. Allin said.

Mr. Allin said that large half page advertisements were appearing in the British press this week explaining that the new five and ten pence coins were exactly the same in value, size and weight as the present one and ten shilling pieces.

When the British coinage goes fully decimal in 1971 there will be 100 pennies to the pound.

Mr. Allin's London visit was the last hot one stop on a round the world vacation trip which started and ended at Toronto's International Airport.

The trip saw stops at San Francisco, Honolulu, Japan, Hong Kong, Singapore, Bangkok, Beirut, Tehran, Greece, and London, England.

Mr. Allin said he was particularly impressed by the beauty of Japan and the evident wealth of Beirut, known as the oil capital of the world.

While he was away a number of Belleville friends received three dimensional colored postcards from Mr. Allin during his stop in Japan.

He says the beautiful three dimensional cards are going over big.

"I wish I had the Canadian rights," he said.

Service Still the Key Key Club Official Says

"Let's put the service back into the services club," urged Bill Gill, international president, Key Club International. Speaking to The Belleville Kiwanis Club this week, Gill reminded the Kiwanians and their sponsors of the terms of their "contract" with the three Key Clubs they sponsor.

"Many of the 15 articles to which you agreed in chartering the BCIVS Key Club 21 years ago are being faithfully carried out," Gill explained. "But there are some responsibilities which have not been maintained over the years."

Summing up the history of key clubbing which began 43 years ago, Gill indicated that the BCIVS Club was the second to be formed in Canada. "It is the fathers-son interest fostered between the two clubs which makes key clubbing unique among school clubs," he emphasized. Further, every autumn, the sponsoring Kiwanis Club has to start almost afresh owing to the turnover of students.

Tom Gill, a grade 12 honor student, and vice-president of the BCIVS Key Club, was elected lieutenant-governor at the Ontario-Quebec-Maritimes convention last March. Division 9, for which he is responsible, extends from Cornwall to Trenton and consists of nine clubs encompassing more than 200 members.

Citizens' Participation in Planning Not Favored by Board Members

Belleville and Suburban Planning Board members last night defeated a motion of one of their fellow members, calling for citizens' participation in planning matters and planning board's participation in zoning priorities in the capital works budget.

Zdenek Kvarda introduced the motion suggesting that the board sponsor conferences "to bring the problems of planning the future of our community to the attention of local government and the general public."

All board members speaking on the motion agreed it had merit. They gave three reasons for voting against it: an already over-worked planning board staff with no time to devote to chairing conferences; lack of funds; and previously determined lack of public interest in planning matters.

The board passed two compromise motions designed to bring planning to the public's attention.

The first, proposed by Ald. N. A. Gay, asked that discussion of planning aims and objectives be included on the agenda of all future board meetings.

"Through press coverage of our meetings, planning philosophy will be presented to the public," he said.

The second motion, made by Carl Thompson of Thurlow, asked that the brief supporting Mr. Kvarda's motion be "edited and submitted under the board's sponsorship to the local newspaper for publication in full."

A compromise proposal of planning director F. J. Beavis was not voted upon. He advised taking elements of the official plan, such as the parks planning and road pattern studies, to public meetings as they are completed.

"It is difficult to get people to talk about planning," he said. "But concrete issues arouse their interest."

He added that meetings of the Community Planning Association of Canada, held several years ago in the city, attracted only about 30 people, "and then you were only preaching to the converted."

CPAC is no longer active in the city.

Mrs. Margaret Orr concurred with the director.

"Most people think those interested in planning are a bit crazy or have been brainwashed by planning staff," she said. "You just can't interest people unless they have been directly affected by a zoning change."

Mr. Kvarda proposed the board members do most of the work in setting up and chairing the conferences, "so as not to bog down the staff."

However the board thought its members' need of assistance in getting background material would overload a staff already burdened with preparations for the official plan.

Labor to be Represented On Commission

The Belleville Industrial Commission is to have representation from Labor on its membership.

Commission chairman George Hume announced yesterday that three representatives from Belleville area labor organizations had been named to the industrial body.

"We felt that it would be beneficial to have the views of labor on the Commission," he said.

The new Labor members are Kenneth Burley, welfare officer for the Distillery Workers Union at Corbyrville; Raymond Bradshaw, president of the Belleville and District Labor Council, and George Elliott, secretary of Local 126 of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Mr. Hume said the new labor representatives would attend the next meeting of the Commission.

Four Page Brief

Kvarda: Public Must Decide

In a four-page brief, circulated to planning board members before last night's meeting, Zdenek Kvarda said no field of government needs public participation more than does planning.

The brief gave his reasons for asking for public conferences on planning matters and for planning board's participation in setting the city's capital works budget.

"Planning is not just a job for professionals," he claimed.

"Ultimately the citizens must decide what kind of city they want. But first they must be aware of the options to their present, unplanned surroundings."

"In the past, most plans have been politically and economically oriented. The assessment race and political boundaries were the guiding factors.

"Future social needs were rarely examined and the result has been confusion and unnecessary cost."

Later, Mr. Kvarda said by "social needs" he meant such things as recreation facilities, parks and a civic centre.

To acquaint the public with the planning process, Mr. Kvarda asked the board to prepare an outline describing planning and giving a rough idea of possible future developments.

Suggestions and criticisms of the outline should then be sought from all municipal service bodies, labor, the Chamber of Commerce, institutions, business and industry, the news media and individuals.

Mr. Kvarda was also concerned about the method of setting the capital works budget.

"A capital works budget without planning is merely fancy and blindfolded bookkeeping, like writing a letter to Santa Claus," he charged.

"The planning department should forecast the financial resources of the community for the next five years, then draw up a list of needs, and the order in which they should be filled.

"The city's responsibility would be to decide whether to spend its money on stimulating the economic base of the area or on providing social improvements.

"Generally speaking, available money should be spent on strengthening the economic base if the potential is there. From this improved economic base will flow the funds for social needs."

Later, at the meeting, Mr. Kvarda listed examples of matters on which the planning board's staff and board's advice should be sought and heeded.

They were: provision of water, location of the fairgrounds and advisability of moving it; acquisition and use of park lands; building of overpasses, underpasses and bridges, and provision of serviced industrial parks.

Planning Board Recommends Walter Street Not Be Changed

Walter St. has been opened and closed, on paper and in debate, several times in the last month.

But in reality, the short street, running north and south through a block of land bounded by Sidney, Yeomans, Catherine and Wilkins streets, will continue in its present state for some time.

The southern 300 feet of the street is now open, the northern half is closed.

Property owners along the street voted 4 to 3 to maintain the status quo at a special meeting of a planning board committee Tuesday night.

Last night, planning board concurred with their decision and sent a recommendation to that effect, and the minutes of the committee meeting, to city council.

The issue began with a petition from some of the residents calling for the closing of the now open southern half of the street by Allen E. H. Black to build an apartment house.

Mr. Black owns two lots facing each other on both sides of the street. Closure of the street would consolidate the lots into one and give him sufficient area for his proposed apartment house.

Other residents sent a second petition to city hall, asking for opening of the unopened northern half of the street.

At its March meeting the planning board recommended to city council that the street remain in its present state. At its last meeting, city council sent the recommendation back to planning board for further consideration and a meeting with the residents.

Tuesday night the residents were told closure of the southern part of the street would leave three properties in the middle of the block landlocked, with no means of access.

If the northern half were opened to give access to the middle lots, the land required for a vehicle turning circle in the cul de sac would make the lots along the northern half of the street too shallow for development.

Local improvement cost for road construction and installation of services were estimated by planning director P. J. Beavis at about $2,580 for a 50-foot frontage.

In recommending that the street remain in its present state, the committee said it regretted it could not make a more constructive proposal.

Benson Denies Rumors Army Camp to Close

PICTON — Rumors that Picton Army camp faced a shutdown by the federal government have been officially quashed.

Source of the denial is Finance Minister Edgar Benson.

Mayor Harvey McFarland today said he discussed the rumor with Mr. Benson in a telephone conversation this morning.

The finance minister said the base — home of the Canadian Guards' first battalion — would not be closed.

Mr. Benson's statement confirmed similar information obtained earlier last week by Lee Grills, MP Hastings South.

Mr. Grills checked out the rumor with defence department officials and reported no slowdown of the camp was contemplated by federal authorities.

It is not the first time closure rumors have circulated about the base. The Guards were planted in the area in 1950 by the Diefenbaker government. None of the alleged reports thus far has been borne out.

Seventeen Guide Posts Broken

PICTON — Seventeen guideposts were swept from the road yesterday when a 1965 Chevrolet was involved in an accident on Highway 33 east of Picton at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

The automobile, driven by James Mercer, 28, of Picton, suffered $556 damage. There were no injuries. The accident was investigated by the O.P.P.

Industrial Commissioner Has New Post

Belleville Industrial Commissioner Ray Brown has a new position.

Commission chairman George Hume said that Mr. Brown has been appointed as executive secretary of the Ontario Industrial Development Council, an association of Ontario industrial commissioners set up to keep different areas informed on what is going on in the industrial development field.

Mr. Brown's position — an extra curricular duty in addition to his role as industrial commissioner in Belleville, will entail his attending meetings at different times during the year.

The first meeting of the new association is taking place in Toronto today.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kempf

'Adopted' Son Accorded Accolades by Associates

TRENTON — One of the town's favorite "adopted" sons may become a citizen of high responsibility by his parent company in the United States was accorded accolades by civic and business leaders too numerous to mention here last night.

A former president of the local Chamber of Commerce George Kempf the general manager of Erie Technological Products in Trenton for the last 10 years was honored at the annual meeting of the Chamber in the Country Club last night. Mr. Kempf a vice president of the international electronics manufacturing firm is returning to the company's home base at Erie, Pennsylvania June 1.

At a parting reminder Mr. Kempf said he could see Trenton continuing to grow and going ahead. "There is much more progress coming your way. You must provide space not for industry alone but in homes for the people who work in the plants." Mr. Kempf during his tour of duty in Canada served Trenton as a valuable member of the municipality's active Industrial and Economic Development committee. He has consented to remain on the committee as an ex-officio member Mayor MacDonald reported.

Speakers including Mayor James MacDonald, Ian Darling, president of the Chamber of Commerce and Douglas Adams president of the Trenton Country Club referred to Mr. Kempf as an outstanding citizen and a great booster for Trenton. A tribute to his ability as a hard worker and conscientious company man one speaker noted had been reflected in the expansion of the Erie operation in Trenton from 40 employees when he arrived to take over to 400 now engaged at the expanded Fraser Ave., premises.

Erie vice president Lewis J. Shioleno arrived by company aircraft at CFB Trenton earlier bringing with him congratulations for Mr. Kempf from the principals of the parent organization. In the message he conveyed to Mr. Kempf he said, "You've done a magnificent job in Trenton." The visiting company official told the gathering the Canadian branch of Erie would continue growing in Trenton.

Local Chamber secretary-manager Jack Wilson acted as master of ceremonies.

A highlight of the ceremonies for Mr. Kempf was the presentation of a bouquet of roses to Mrs. Kempf by Eileen Forchuk, a director of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce.

The Other Canada

While Quebec attracts much of the attention of Canadians in its often unreasonable claims to "special status," we should not forget, as another election looms, that there is a lot more to Canada than just relations between English and French.

Out west for example the aspirations of French Canada seem remote and insignificant beside the agricultural and agrarian culture of the prairies, the oil and cattle wealth of Alberta, and the mining complexes of the northcountry.

Nor does Quebec rate much attention on the two seaboards — amid the economic realities faced by the relatively impoverished Maritimers or around the Pacific never-never land of British Columbia. Out there Premier Bennett and his Social Crediters probably feel closer to Tokyo and more interested in establishing still closer trade and technological ties with Japan than with shaking hands across the continent with Ottawa.

For all the ease of communications in the modern world, it is difficult to perceive what another election campaign means to the wheat grower and the farmer, to the fisherman and the miner, to fellow Canadians living out there in the great vastness and whom most of us here, "down east," have not met and likely never will.

In Belleville we live in or near the industrial heart of the nation. In Ottawa, the ultimate decisions are made, but it is important and that we keep things in perspective. This may be the seat of power but if Canada is to be truly one then we must have regard also for Canadians everywhere.

If after the country's sixth election in 11 years, the centennial year of 1967 and the amazing Expo . . . if after two rousing political conventions and the heightened sense of communication all this means, we are not more tolerant and understanding people then we do not deserve unity and a better life for all.

Air Travel

The crash of a South African Boeing 707 jet with the loss of more than 100 lives is further evidence that air transportation is still short of being completely safe.

The fact that the aircraft was a new one, delivered to the company only recently, makes the disaster all the more disturbing.

Aside from this the 707 jet has proved a highly reliable aircraft. It is in use by many airlines around the world and with the Douglas DC-8 is likely to remain one of the standbys of long distance air travel for some years to come.

Boeing meanwhile expects to have its huge new "jumbo" jet flying later this year. Deliveries to airlines are expected to be made starting next year. The company has orders for 144 of the planes and hopes to sell an additional 200 after initial orders are filled.

Canadian firms are hoping to profit from sub-contracts for components in the U.S. firm's sale of $4,000,000,000 worth of its big aircraft within the next four years. The company is expected to spend about $2,300,000,000 on prime and sub-contracts.

How safe will these giant aircraft be? Will airports be ready to handle planes of such a size? These are pertinent questions, for the aircraft are designed to take nearly 500 passengers at speeds greatly in excess of the contemporary jets. If airline travel is to be even speedier the degree of pilot skill and automation will have to be still higher. As ever safety must be the prime factor in maintaining air travel as a mode of transportation in which the public has confidence.

Keeping Fit

The recent area high school relay race from Belleville to Trenton set a fine example of athletic prowess in a country where too many become enfeebled early in adult life.

Some manage to remain in good trim, but others fall by the wayside as early in life as the forties. Heart attacks claim not a few and much of the blame for this sad state of affairs lies in overwork and lack of physical exercise.

Those of us who retain some semblance of fitness can take heart from a recent event in Germany. Ninety-five grandfathers — aged 55 to 78 — competed in a track race over 5,000 metres. Five countries, Austria, Switzerland, Sweden, Colombia and Germany, according to German Features, sent competitors to the event in the town of Bad Brueckenau. Eighty-nine finished the course.

The 2nd Battalion Volunteer Militia Rifles of Canada was formed 100 years ago today—in Kitchener also independent militia units. Today, as the Queen's Own Rifles, the unit is the oldest regiment in the regular Canadian Army. It was the first in action against the Fenians at Ridgeway, Ont., in 1866, and fought in the Boer War and both world wars. Its militia battalion is still based in Toronto.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—In Belgium—British and German troops fought over Kemmel village and Locre north of the River Lys; Anglo-French forces inflicted heavy losses on German troops in a counter-offensive from Villers-Bretonneux to south of River Lone; Prime Minister William Weir became British air minister.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—French forces took part in the mountains guarding the Tunis plain and approached within three miles of Pont du Fahs; Germans were reported to be retreating on the American sector of the North African front; two Canadians in the U.S. Army 8th Air Force were given medals—Sgt. Kenneth Lundy of Toronto received the Air Medal and Lieut. Charles Jones of Westville, N.S., received the Air Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster; RAF and RCAF hit Duisberg in a night raid losing 17 planes.

Ontario's Scenic Riches

Windsor Star

Southwestern Ontario with its flat terrain, lacks the variety of the contours existing in most of the province. But it has its own particular type of beauty, especially when its rich fields are green with its grain and vegetable crops and its fruit trees.

Hills and valleys, particularly if the hills be wooded, offer a greater variety because everywhere one looks there is a different scene. Those born in such an environment never forget it.

This was brought to our attention in recent conversations with two women, of widely different backgrounds. One was born in a mid-European country, in a valley through which a tributary of the Danube ran. She had come to Canada as a young girl but there was a nostalgic note in her voice as she described the scenery she had known when young.

The other was a younger woman born in the North Bay area in a smaller valley with the hills close by. She described the awesome beauty of the autumn, when the wooded hillsides were in all their glory of color.

It can work the other way also. We know one woman, born on the flat prairies, who took a train trip through the Rockies. She was not impressed by their majesty, indeed was glad when she was through them. She felt hemmed in by the massive surroundings.

Home Tax Cut
A Tiger by the Tail

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

Ontario Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough had not better sit around too long awaiting the unanimous civic claim of his new bill providing basic shelter grants. This is one time when the cities will be speaking in vague generalities for the simple reason that it is so difficult to find specifics.

Mr. McKeough, in short, has a financial tiger by the tail because he hasn't yet been able to find out how to make certain the money will get to the right people.

Private home owners appear to have no great problem. They can exert direct representation on the municipality to get their money. But the speech Mr. McKeough made introducing the somewhat delayed legislation indicates why it has come late.

The provincial grants go to the municipality for distribution and the local treasury is responsible for seeing that it gets to the individual. In the case of persons renting premises, they and not the landlord are to be the recipients, in theory anyway, of the governmental largesse.

The difficulties this presents are obvious. Who can be sure a tenant will stay the full year? This uncertainty of occupancy makes it clear that the rebate cannot be in lump sum. One answer is a reduction in rent. But where does this put a landlord who raises the rent? Who will determine if the rental increase is legitimate or just a way of making sure the landlord retains the grant?

Other provinces and states provide grants to householders and must have some answers. The grant in British Columbia is more than double that proposed in Ontario and is viewed as homesteader aid rather than a basic shelter grant.

Finally, and Mr. McKeough is hardly likely to come up with an answer to this one, what is to prevent a council from spending an extra amount approximating the grand total and getting it back in taxes it would not otherwise demand?

Pondering all these things Mr. McKeough may well wonder at the difficulties he is experiencing in giving away money.

"Status of Women" Hearings

Brantford Expositor

It is already evident from the briefs read at the first public hearings of the royal commission on the status of women that the dominance of the male in society is a major source of female frustration. The commissioners are being swamped with complaints.

One petitioner protested about the formality that requires a woman to be given a name in marriage. From this she concluded that a woman is treated as a chattel. How, she asked, would a bridegroom feel if the marriage ceremony decreed that someone should give him away? She also felt that we men obliterate their identities by taking their husbands' names.

In deference to female objections, or perhaps because there is no way of making it sick, the "obey" part of the requirement to "love, honor and obey" has been dropped from many marriage forms. It is also obsolescent for married couples to use the same surname, though there is nothing to prevent a woman from retaining her maiden name for career purposes. It leads to some confusion and occasionally to embarrassment when she does.

Many of the female complaints seem rather petty-minded and give the impression that the commission is being used as a shoulder to cry on. It may be, however, that if feminine fury continues unabated, men will have to demand the right to reply, turning the royal commission into a battleground of the sexes.

British Try To Curb Noise

Washington Post

The news from London that the British government is going to put noise meters along the highways raises a bit of hope in what is becoming an increasingly loud world. The British have long tried to reduce the use of the horn by motorists but they have been unusually lenient with those drivers who by choice or otherwise raise the noise level via defective cars or outlandish non-mufflers. In fact, one law in England forbids the blowing of automobile horns between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. and another forbids blowing the horn of an auto that is standing still.

If the experiment with noise meters is successful in England it ought to commend itself to American cities. One of the greatest cultural shocks a city dweller can undergo is a day and a night in the country where it is quiet. The sounds that make a city fascinating have nothing to do with automobiles, and anything that can be done to make them less a disturber of the peace ought to be seized upon.

Immigrants From Asia More Working Mothers In Canada of Future

Ottawa Journal

University of Toronto social scientist Albert Rose in a recent Toronto speech gives us a glimpse of Canada's future that might astound even the modern Bytown family.

Despite Canada's declining birth rate (28.7 per thousand in 1967) Dr. Rose says our population could reach 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 by the year 2000, providing we receive 5,000,000 immigrants after 1975. It is now 20,000,000.

Many of these immigrants would come from Asia and West Indies. World population pressure and uneven distribution of natural resources will make it impossible for Canada to persist in a "selective" immigration policy in the last third of this century. Without multi-racial immigration, Dr. Rose feels Canada's population would not reach 30,000,000 by the year 2000.

Where will our doubled population live and what will they do?

Our cities will support population of 6,000,000. Canadian families will be priced out of the single family dwelling and 40 to 60 storey apartments with all the facilities of small towns will serve our needs.

Apartment living will be a further damper on large families and after a brief foray into motherhood most women will work throughout their married lives. Man's traditional dominance in the family will disappear into a partnership with his well-educated and fully-employed wife and with his, very often only child.

Dr. Rose sees the necessity of a guaranteed annual wage or thousands will be left behind—not just the elderly and unskilled — but those who fail to be retrained two or three times during their working lives when they reap the whirlwind of technology's dizzy pace.

Doctors and Medicare

Hamilton Spectator

Dr. H. L. Dalgleish, president-elect of the Canadian Medical Association, did his profession a sad disservice when, at the convention in Toronto earlier this week, he threatened, a nationwide doctors' strike if changes were not made in the federal medical care bill.

Surely it would be the ultimate tragedy to destroy the background and reputation of the ancient and honorable profession for their calling if based, such action must be unthinkable.

The dangers in medicare are well known. Nowhere in the nation has warned of them often. At first everything looks fine, but year by year the costs increase implacably, and so do contributions and taxes. Depersonalization, crowding, red tape, formfilling and all the banes that go with bureaucracy bear down on patient and doctor. In Britain, a good barometer of the general attitude of many physicians and surgeons to national medicare is the steady stream of medical talent that crosses the Atlantic to practise in an atmosphere of greater professional freedom.

In Canada, the ultimate absurdity is that more than 80 per cent of the population has medicare coverage in some form, and it can be put within the reach of those who do not without trying to blanket the nation with a fabulously expensive federal government scheme.

When all this has been acknowledged, and tribute has been paid to the immense debt to many members of the medical profession to have legislation well under way in the United States, one immutable fact remains: Doctors cannot strike. It is the heart of their profession. In their hands is birth, and life, and death. They cannot desert the deep trust of humanity.

Perhaps Dr. Dalgleish did not mean exactly what he said. He may have been trying to exert pressure on our Ottawa legislators. If so, he chose an unhappy way of doing it.

U. S. Buys Instant Antiquity

Ottawa Journal

North Americans have always been self-conscious about their youth in comparison with the rest of the world. Europeans often think of us as culturally and politically naive. Orientals have called us "barbarians" and anyone familiar with Fred Buck's writings knows what it is to be a "foreign devil."

All that's changed now. We are importing instant antiquity. Industrial barons used to have the corner on antiquity, importing European castles stone by stone but now it is only a stone's throw away for every man. Philadelphia got the Queen Elizabeth. Long Beach, California, turned the Queen Mary into a museum and now plans are afoot to plunk London bridge down near the Arizona-California border.

Some poor old remittance man, staggering out of the Great American desert, will probably faint dead away at the sight. Canadians won't notice at all! The Nova Scotia Legislature announces they have bought Hadrian's Wall, brick, stock and stone for the purpose of keeping Canada out.

Bicycles Gain Favor

Peterborough Examiner

The tyranny of the automobile, the spread of the metropolis, and many other factors militate against the cycling citizen. Along with the horse, bicycles fell on hard times when available. Despite this, cycling is becoming increasingly popular and there have been record sales of bicycles recorded over the past few years.

Cycling in Canada does not have the advantages and encouragement cycling enjoys in Europe and the United States. Few clubs are organized and little attention is paid to the safety of the biker, although there are many on the roads once the warm weather arrives and especially during the summer school holidays when the spreading cycling boom in the U.S. has resulted in "bikeways" being opened in large cities (such as Chicago where there are more than 15 miles of lakefront paths and an estimated 10,000 bicyclists make daily use of them. There are 2,000,000 miles of bike path development with the U.S. government actively sponsoring many programs.

However, for the Canadian bicyclist, and certainly those in the Peterborough, it is more a case of pleasurable and healthy recreation with the hazards of traffic. Yet these shortcomings cannot detract from the pleasures of cycling and avid cycling enthusiasts. For the minor irritations of dogs which insist on attacking wheels and tires and the many potholes on the city's roads and sidewalks which become personal. It is hardly surprising that transportation in Canada is again turning full circle back to the bicycle (as an expression). Perhaps there might even be scope for a cycling club in Peterborough for this small outings might be organized for those interested.

Public Taste in Movie Fare

Letter to Montreal Gazette

As head of a motion picture production company I can completely sympathize with reader Christina Chilpalski's desire for films "which do not exploit or degrade but celebrate the dignity of man." These are, indeed the type of films we attempt to produce, but over the years we have discovered certain facts which may be of interest to your reader.

The brutal facts which exasperate us are that those who complain most about "bad" films are usually the last in line for "good" films. We have found through interviews and studies. Most recently we have found that those who have complained bitterly about "I, a Woman" after they saw it did not see "Elvira Madigan" or "Mandrake" from the Disney studios, which they mentioned most often as the type of film they would most like to see more of. Unfortunately these post-screening comments are of little interest to the producers. The fact remains that Miss X bought a ticket to "I, a Woman" but not to "The Happiest Millionaire."

Equally unfortunately, this is all that counts, and one can bet that "I, a Man" will now be made sooner than will a "Happiest Trillionaire."

Until we realize that profits, and not good intentions, will determine what film fare will be offered us, we are likely to remain what we must, vote for the kind of films we want at the box-office by supporting them. We want and ignoring those we do not, by buying or not buying tickets, then we are all in for a much longer struggle.

Record Suit for Canada

Texas Gulf-Leitch Case Ends But Hard Part Still Ahead

TORONTO (CP) — The biggest civil suit ever heard in Canada ended its hearing in Ontario Supreme Court Thursday.

At stake in the claim of Leitch Gold Mines Ltd. to the $2,000,000,000 orebody developed by Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. of New York as the Kidd Creek Mine.

Alternatively, Leitch and its exploration partner, Mastodon-Highland Bell Mines of Vancouver, are seeking $650,000,000 damages from Texas Gulf.

Chief Justice G. A. Gale of Ontario reserved decision, after 164 days in court.

"The easy part of the case is over," he said. "At times during the last 18 months I thought we'd never reach today."!

With so much at issue, however, whoever loses this decision is almost certain to appeal. So the final answer as to who owns the Kidd Creek Mine may not be known for years.

The trial set a Canadian record for length. Leitch, a Toronto mining and investment company with assets of about $2,000,000, brought suit against Texas Gulf—a company 200 times its size—in June, 1964, two months after the Kidd discovery was announced.

The pre-trial examination for discovery started in December, 1965, and the trial in October, 1966. Only the action of Gaspe Copper Mines Ltd. for damages against the United Steelworkers of America, which lasted 120 days in the early 1960s, has come close to it for length. That case is still being appealed.

Conservative estimates put the cost of the Texas Gulf-Leitch trial to date at about $650,000, about half in fees to the two counsels—J. D. Arnup for Texas Gulf and J. J. Robinette for Leitch.

The case revolves around an agreement which Texas Gulf and Leitch signed in May, 1963. Under it, Leitch received geophysical data from a number of aerial surveys flown by Texas Gulf over Northern Ontario and Quebec from 1959 to 1961 for a $5 fee.

The agreement gave Leitch sole exploration rights in those areas for two years.

In return, it agreed to do all necessary work to develop any orebodies indicated from the surveys. Texas Gulf was to have a 10-per-cent interest in any mine Leitch brought into production.

Leitch said the Kidd orebody was in an area covered by the agreement. It claimed Texas Gulf breached the agreement by exploring the area and by not handing over all pertinent data.

Texas Gulf denied the orebody was in an area covered by the agreement. It claimed the agreement concerned areas whose geographic boundaries were set out on a map attached to the agreement.

Both sides agreed that on this basis the orebody was clearly outside an area to which Leitch was entitled to rights southeast of a diagonal boundary line.

Leitch's claim, however, was that the agreement was for aerial survey data, and that this meant data from the actual flying of a survey without regard to geographic boundaries.

Both parties agreed that the orebody was detected in flying which went beyond the area boundary marked on the map.

Whether this flight was part of a survey to which Leitch was entitled to rights is a key issue to be decided by Chief Justice Gale.

Mr. Robinette called a number of witnesses to support his contention that the agreement map was not accurate enough to determine the companies' rights.

He called it a "cartographic disaster," and spent several hours of his summing up discussing it.

Mr. Arnup contended that the map was definitive and—more important—that representatives of both companies intended it to be.

Besides, he argued, if the map was not accepted, there was nothing to show the companies ever agreed on any definition of the surveyed areas. Without such a meeting of minds, he said, no agreement existed.

Texas Gulf did not deny staking some claims in the area it had given to Leitch, even under its interpretation of the agreement. But it said it would be hard to prove that the staking, or any exploration work other than on the Kidd orebody, actually harmed Leitch.

Both sides challenged the credibility of witnesses. Texas Gulf claimed it was the most important part of the defence argument.

The argument over these basic issues, and a mass of technical evidence relating to the mechanics of aerial surveys, mapping, and testing possible orebodies, has taken 800 hours and close to 3,000,000 words of testimony, with 28 witnesses heard and 1,104 exhibits filed.

Chief Justice Gale heard the case alone. He has spent 1½ hours every evening during the trial transcribing his 3,300 pages of handwritten notes.

Otherwise, he says, it would have been a "life job" merely to read through the 11,000 pages of transcript to review the case.

As the trial wore on even the lawyers suffered from visible weariness.

"I can visualize the diagonal boundary line even when I'd rather not," Mr. Arnup noted at one point.

"Only northwest of the orebody, I hope," the chief justice replied. "It's only in nightmares you'd see it anywhere else."

The Kidd orebody has made news ever since it was announced by Texas Gulf four years ago last week.

It sparked hope of a resurgence in the Timmins area, which had begun a slow decline with the gold-mining industry which had brought it to life 50 years ago.

Northern Ontario's base metal boom has yet to develop, however. Timmins' population of about 29,000 has not changed much in 30 years. And neither Texas Gulf nor anyone else has found any other commercial mining property in the area, although scores of drill holes have been sunk.

But the Kidd mine netted $20,000,000 to Texas Gulf in its first year of production last year, equal to one-third of Texas Gulf's net profit.

Its open pit operation, now cleared of muskeg overburden, produces 9,000 tons of copper, zinc and silver ore a day—at least twice as rich as many profitable mines in Canada—from a massive orebody 1,000 feet long and 200 feet wide.

Texas Gulf estimates there is enough ore to last 20 years at present recovery rates, and it has not explored the limits of the reserves.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market edged up in moderately active mid-morning trading today, continuing a modest three-day rally.

Chemicals led the fractional advance among industrials. Steels, up sharply since last week, began to back off. Oils continued to move up, golds and base metals were quiet.

Algoma Steel, which announced its capital spending program would be stretched out, slipped ¾ to 18⅛ in light trading. Dofasco and Steleo both were off ⅛ to 18⅝ and 21¼.

Neon Products, which plans to increase the number of authorized shares, rose ⅛ to 22¼. CIL advanced ¼ to 52¼.

Husky Oil, which expects to double its exploration expenditure this year, gained ⅛ to 24½. Banff, which reported increased annual profits, was up ⅛ to 12¼.

In golds, Dome picked up 1½ to 64.

On index, industrials were up .06 to 158.82, western oils 1.74 to 194.86, base metals .43 to 101.02 and golds 2.20 to 208.12.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 788,000 shares compared with 763,000 at the same time Thursday.

Artists Idea for Landscaped Approach to Trenton

Approaches to Be Beautified

TRENTON — The administration wants to spend money to convey the best impression to strangers coming to town by one of the five highway entrances for the first time.

And as a starter council will be asked to approve the sum of $3,200 in the new budget as the amount set by Project Planners Associates to beautify the approach to Sidney St., from the half cloverleaf off 401. A similar expenditure would be necessary to improve the appearance of each of the other four entrances when funds were made available comptroller O. W. Larry indicated in referring to the undertaking as brought to council's attention by the local planning board.

Mr. Larry pointed out the planning board recognized the urgency of creating a change of image of the town's approaches after so many visitors insisted the main 401 entrances in particular looked like the back door into the place. As a result the town's planning consultants came up with detailed plans for altering all five entrances. Included in the presentation was two sketches in color of the approach to Sidney Street, after the proposed transformation.

The transition in each instance calls for arrangements of tree, deciduous and evergreen trees, flower beds with the name Trenton appearing on a sign at the first point. The display would be floodlighted at night making it all the more eyecatching after dark.

The Trenton Public Utilities is showing interest in the effort to get the project underway and has offered to supply the number of evergreen trees required from the commission's reservoir property without charge as encouragement.

Burning House Saved at Carrying Place

Quick Work Saves Home

TRENTON — An off-duty detective pitched in with local firemen to save a house from burning down near Carrying Place yesterday.

The George Frost family were away from their house on the old Picton road a few minutes when a neighbor Ernie Westlake spotted smoke and flames pouring from the chimney on the outside of the building. He summoned the fire department at Trenton.

Sid Vickers a detective with the police department at Trenton was on his way home to Carrying Place when two fire trucks passed him at the four corners of the village. He turned around and followed them to the scene. He grabbed the nozzle of the hose from the pumper and was playing water on the flames, when volunteers were arriving.

Firemen were able to prevent the fire from breaking into the open although much of the interior was damaged by smoke and water.

The Frost family were taken in by relatives living nearby.

Man Dies of Injuries Sustained in Crash

TRENTON — Kenneth Hartman, 33, of R. R. 2 Trenton, critically injured when his car left the curve at Dead Creek last Saturday, died in the hospital at Kingston Wednesday. Death was attributed to brain damage resulting from the accident. Police will be inquest.

Mr. Hartman, employed at CFB Trenton a number of years, excelled as a softball player and musician.

He is survived by his wife Isobelle living at home and his parents Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hartman of Brighton.

Hair Stylist Predicts "Cameo Look" New Trend for Spring

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

The "Cameo Look" will be the hair styling trend for spring. Roll back the calendar to the fuss and frills of the Victorian era when girls were more interested in teasing their beaus than their hair. As Alma Korva illustrates, they relied on a smooth crown, soft neck curls and wisp-framed face to guarantee that fair and feminine rating. Internationally known hair stylist Leslie Blanchard stresses this return to the demure in the three coiffures shown. Various hair adornments are also favored.

THE CAMEO LOOK — Alma Korva illustrates three hairdoes styled by Leslie Blanchard internationally known stylist, who stresses the return to the demure in the three coiffures shown. Various hair adornments are also favored.

The "Little Girl" coif, with curls nestling over the shoulders, belongs to both the out-door girl and the party-primping belle. To set ringlets, Blanchard begins by combing freshly shampooed hair with an instant conditioner fortified with super set power. In 60 seconds, it makes tresses more manageable and easy to wrap in a turn-under pattern. Use small rollers for ringlets, for large ones leave strands too relaxed. The comb-out is simply a matter of twirling curls around index and third fingers and then threading them with vertical lengths of ribbon or cord.

The gentle look of these neck-cradling hairdos invites experimentation. Blanchard, a favorite of the social and jet set, insists, "Curls can be angled, clustered or dangled for interesting effects." To prove his point, he combed Alma's hair into a series of chubby ringlets. Each row rested against the lower one and was shaped to round out the silhouette. Side strands were brushed back and "woven" into a coronet across the crown. An antique neck-lace was placed, kerchief-fashion, on top of the head for family album authenticity.

Church Groups

GUILD AND W.M.S.

The Easter meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Guild and W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Everett Lyons with a fair attendance.

Mrs. Lyons opened the devotional portion of the meeting by reading an ancient hymn.

Reports of various committees were given and business was discussed. At this time Mrs. Chapelle invited the group to her house for the May meeting.

Rev. Cunningham showed slides of his work in the Congo and views of many other interesting places in Africa were also shown.

Thanks were expressed to the speaker by Mrs. Lyons after which a dainty lunch was served.

Aim of Lifeline Outlined At Women's Study Guild Meet

Members of the Women's Study Guild heard an outline of the operation of Lifeline at their last meeting. Belleville is one of only two accredited Lifeline centres in Canada. The second is in Sudbury.

The basic aim of Lifeline is to help the troubled by operating a 24 - hour telephone service with trained personnel ready to offer assistance to callers. Counsellors know the sources of professional help and refer callers to the agency best able to assist.

A training program for counsellors was begun in the spring of 1967 and the Lifeline office was opened in October 1967.

No fees are charged and the minimal budget is met by interested people or groups. There is no church sponsorship.

Mrs. Roy K. Jeffery outlined the professional services available in the community. The Children's Aid now incorporates a family counselling service, she said. She also mentioned the Welfare Department and the city - operated Day Care Centre. United Community Services operates a furniture exchange and a Christmas exchange and has a credit counselling service in the planning stage.

Mrs. Rose Kincaid gave a devotional on the sin of silence. She emphasized the need for everyone to not only be aware of evil in society, but to speak out against it.

The group decided to write for information concerning dried milk biscuits made in New Zealand and exported to famine areas. It was felt manufacture of these biscuits would provide a market for Canadian milk and at the same time meet the needs of millions of the world's hungry people.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. L. F. Reid and Mrs. A. B. Ragsdale.

WOMEN WORK FREE

VICTORIA (CP) — Five women have banded together to form the "Tuesday Chars," at the Maritime Museum. They clean the museum each Tuesday — and do it free. They also have set a goal of collecting $1,022 to help pay the wages of museum carver Andre Christoffesen.

WEDDINGS

BONDY — STEWART

Archdeacon A. S. McConnell officiated at the recent wedding ceremony in St. Thomas Anglican Church, Belleville when Nancy Cecelia Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Stewart, Belleville, was united in marriage to Bernard Hugh Bondy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bondy also of Belleville. Donald Davenport presided at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length bridal gown of silk peau de sole trimmed with Alencon lace and featuring a scalloped neckline and long lily point sleeves. The back of the dress was highlighted with a watteau train gathered by a bow. A cathedral veil of silk illusion was caught to a headdress of mesh petals adorned with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses centres with a large white mum.

Miss Karen Stewart attended her sister wearing a floor length Empire styled gown of yellow silk organza accented with a full length Valencia lace train. She wore a green velvet band in her hair and carried a large white mum with flowing green velvet streamers.

Jerry Jenkinson attended the bridegroom.

A reception was held at the Sun Valley Motel where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a three-piece brown boucle suit with powder blue accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a navy dress with soft pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Western Ontario and the United States, the bride chose a white lace over taffeta dress with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The couple resides at 34 Bridge Street West.

CONLEY — GODDEN

A quiet wedding ceremony was performed April 11, 1968, at 6.30 p.m. in Frankford United Church when Annis Giles Godden, Dundas, was united in marriage to Albert Henry Conley, Frankford.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lawrence were the attendants. Rev. John Wees officiated.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence. Following a wedding trip to eastern points the couple will live in Dundas.

Reception Concludes Festival '68

Last night a reception was held in the cafeteria of Central Secondary School at the conclusion of the Arts Festival '68. Over 200 workers and performers attended this reception, which was chiefly convened by Dr. Joan Bronskill, assisted by Mrs. E. S. March.

Yellow and white flowers and candles in silver candelabra provided attractive decorations for the tea tables.

The pourers were the wives of the honorary patrons to the Festival, Mrs. R. T. Potter and Mrs. J. Russell Scott. Trays of fancy sandwiches and small cakes were served to those present.

IMPROVES PAPER

EDMONTON (CP) — Broad educational issues are to take precedence over local association news in a new monthly paper published by the Alberta Federation of Home and School Associations. The paper is to be called Focus.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender graceful curves; if ridiculous pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More active, youthful appearing and active.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

BELLEVILLE DIVISION COMMITEE

The Division Committee for the Guides and Brownies met recently at the home of Mrs. T. R. Colden, with the Commissioner in charge.

Mrs. Colden stressed the fact that each Brownie and Guide must pay ten cents fees this meeting so that each pack and company will have enough money to cover its own expenses.

The Guides and Brownies of Belleville Division are planning an outing by bus in June. There is now a new Brownie Pack in Foxboro and there are Brownies from Rossmore meeting at Tobe's.

Home and School Association News

PARK DALE SCHOOL

The annual meeting of Park Dale Home and School Association was a busy and productive one.

The Fun Fair in March showed a profit of over $300, the largest amount yet raised at this annual event. The funds will be used for student activities such as field trips and the annual field day. Mrs. G. Reid, convener, attributed the Fun Fair's success to the co-operation of R. A. Wright, principal, the teachers and the parents.

J. F. Welch, president of the district council, installed the officers for the coming year. They are: B. A. Wright, principal; J. Cox, president; Mrs. Mary Rompen, list vice-president; R. Redner, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. S. Stoneburgh, recording secretary; Mrs. S. Bochnek, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ruth Johnston, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Cavanaugh, district council representative.

Conveners are: membership, Mrs. B. Mott; program, Mrs. Myrtle Bushell; hospitality, Mrs. Kay Gray; social, Mrs. J. Reid.

Mr. Wright showed slides of Park Dale pupils and teachers participating in events held during the year.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

ROSLIN HI - TOPS

The meeting of the Roslin Hi - Tops was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. R. Preston, Roslin, with all members present.

The meeting was opened with the Tops pledge followed by the monthly weigh-in, with all losses and gains being recorded.

A report was given on the TOPS convention in Toronto where many new aids to take off pounds sensibly were learned.

It was decided that meetings would be held the first and third Tuesdays of the month with the next meeting on May 7. Prospective new members and friends are invited and encouraged to attend.

Speaker Says Help Needed For Hippies

OTTAWA (CP) — Women concerned about humanity and able to see when children are "screaming inside" are needed to work with youths damaged by school and society, the landlady of a Toronto hippie house told the Ottawa Women's Canadian Club Thursday.

June Callwood, 43-year-old author and magazine writer, said there are 20,000 hippies in Canada and 500,000 in the United States and they migrate like gypsies.

There was so much anger and outrage in the core of the hippie movement it scared her.

"All these children belong to us and they are dying by almost any interpretation except the most literal," she said. If they were not helped, violence would result.

Miss Callwood—Mrs. Trent Frayne in private life and the mother of four children aged six to 22 years—said hippies are largely children of the poor from broken homes, and were unloved.

Engagement Notice

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoffman, Halloway, announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Louise, to Charles Frederick Armstrong, son of Mrs. A. Armstrong, Belleville, and the late Mr. Armstrong. The marriage will take place May 25, 1968, in Emmanuel United Church, Foxboro.

Money Matters Cause Family Squabbles

By DORIS CLARK

DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: What does a mother do who has two young children and her husband expects her to get by on too little money? Before marriage I was a stenog. I feel I must go back to work again but my husband claims he will sell all his cattle and cash. We have been married ten years now. I worked over two years after marriage and saved all I could. My husband didn't have any security and I paid half of our living costs to help him get ahead.

Now that my husband can see his way clear, he seems resentful whenever I mention extra money needed for children's clothes, etc. The other day was the last straw for me. I know we can see our way clear for extra money for the children.

My husband gave me the silest treatment and after I asked for an explanation he said he felt resentful that I should ask for this money. I feel time is running short for this marriage unless my husband changes his attitude. — Losing Heart.

Dear Heart: Money means different things to different people. To your husband holding the purse strings obviously means running the roost; and he is still living in the long past era when woman's place was forever in the kitchen.

You can't take a job — that was too humiliating for him. But you can't have extra money either. Try handing back the allowance he gives you and tell him to make it stretch if he can. Perhaps he hasn't heard about inflation.

Squabbles over cash account for an important proportion of marriage troubles.

* * *

Dear Doris: I knitted a white bedspread in fine cotton and when I sewed the blocks together, I noticed that by some misfortune I had some blocks that were not white, but off-yellow.

Now I am wondering if there is something I could do to bleach this spread so it shows white instead of this yellow streak deal — Knit-Wit.

Dear Knit-Wit: Was the knitting kept in a plastic bag? Exposure to sunlight might be to blame. My knitting resource suggests a mild solution of bleach, which will not hurt cotton. The alternative is a dry cleaner or laundry.

* * *

Dear Doris: I work in a store where there's a lot of stealing going on. The worst of the matter is that I know the people that steal. They are friends of my families.

Usually they will take a chocolate bar and shove it in their mouth without paying for it. If I say anything to them they get real mad and I'm afraid I will lose customers which would make my boss mad at me. But if I don't say anything to them I feel guilty about it and responsible.

What's the best thing for me to do in this situation? — Not Guilty But.

Dear Not Guilty: That's a tough one. You try to save the boss' money and you lose him a customer. But what if everybody helped themselves to eve. a little bit? Soon there'd be no store. Businesses have indeed failed through pilfering.

Resist the impulse to accuse the thief, and confront the manager with the facts after closing time. Maybe he already knows about the shoplifting and is winking at it.

PC Women Invited to Luncheon

Mrs. Cliff Rendell presided at the regular meeting of the Progressive Conservative Women's Association meeting held at the Kiwanis Centre, recently, with a large attendance.

The Association minutes were read by the secretary Mrs. Jean Ellis, after which the various chairmen gave their reports. Mrs. Mulhall and asked that there had been a splendid response to the membership drive and a busy month was reported by card secretary Mrs. R. Locke with numerous cards having been sent.

A letter was read by Mrs. P. Wing which invited local members to attend a district luncheon in Kingston on April 27, at which time the District 2 president Mrs. Isabel McCaugherty will be the guest speaker. Reservations must be made for anyone wishing to attend it was stated.

Mrs. Saunders convener of the doll project reminded members of this project and requested them to take a doll to dress for this worthy cause.

A bus trip to Ottawa on May 2 is scheduled with 44 seats taken, and it was announced by Mrs. Rendell that another bus trip to Niagara Falls is planned for May 22 and those wishing reservations should look immediately. Members were also reminded of other future events.

A musical program consisting of selections by a girls' choir under the direction of Ian Docherty and accompanied on the piano by Miss Heather Grant was greatly enjoyed. The group was introduced by Mrs. Mac Smith. Mrs. Marjorie Little expressed thanks to the participants and complimented them on their splendid contribution to the program.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Locke assisted by the women of Ward 7 conducted an auction sale.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Jenny took my good coffee spoons out to the sandpile and lost two of them. She really didn't intend to lose them, so I didn't scold her."

Father: "She knows she's not supposed to touch the good silverware."

A child who has misbehaved expects you to be indignant, especially if your reactions are fair. While Janie didn't intend to lose the spoons, she should learn to respect the possessions of others.

Mother: "If feel very cross that you took my spoons without asking. You would not have lost them if you had left them alone. You must stay home from the movie tomorrow so you will remember not to play with things that belong to someone else."

A child who has misbehaved expects you to be indignant, especially if your reactions are fair. While Janie didn't intend to lose the spoons, she should learn to respect the possessions of others.

before you become upset over another messy defrosting job. or tackle another sticking ice tray, or pry apart packs of iced-up frozen food, or become frustrated over the lack of storage space and endless trips to the store, see the new "NO-FROST" refrigerator-freezers now on display at your local appliance dealers. They're bigger, better, never frost-up and never require defrosting . . . ever!!!

Reader Requests Recipe for Lemon Cheese

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: About 4 or 5 years ago you gave a recipe for Vicki's Lemon Squares. Unfortunately I loaned mine and it was lost. Would you mind repeating it? I think your young new readers should have this. It saved my reputation many a time when I was a new bride — Nancy R.

ANSWER: Thanks Nancy. I remember that it was a popular when it was run before.

SQUARES (repeated from VICKI'S LEMON CHEESE August 63)

one "family size" package lemon jello dessert

¼ cup sugar

1 cup boiling water

½ lb. (8-oz. package) white cream cheese

one 1-lb. can evaporated (not condensed) milk, thoroughly chilled

one 20-oz. tin diced peaches (drained)

one pack honey-graham wafers (one wrapped stack-pack within a box), rolled finely

Pour the boiling water over the lemon jello and sugar and stir to dissolve. Beat (with electric beater at medium speed if you have one) the cream cheese until light, then pour in the chilled evaporated milk and beat for 3 or 4 minutes longer. Now add the jello mixture and continue beating until blended and light. Then add the canned, drained, diced peaches and beat with electric beater for an additional 30 seconds. Remove.

Have ready in a buttered 9 x 9" pan the graham cracker crumbs which have been rolled until as fine as possible. You might even go so far as to sift them, for perfect results. Cover bottom of pan to nearly ¼" depth, reserving enough crumbs — at least ½ cup — to sprinkle over top.

Spoon cream mixture over crumbs evenly and carefully. (If you are careless you will disturb the crumb layer.) Sprinkle remaining crumbs over top. Chill at least 2 hours or overnight. Cut into 2 or 2½" squares to serve.

NOTE: If canned drained crushed pineapple may be substituted for the canned drained diced peaches.

A popular dessert for two reasons: its luscious flavor, and advance preparation is a "must".

Ann Landers Housewife Regrets Affair with Other Man

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I almost wrote to you six months ago. I was having an affair and I wanted to tell you and your millions of readers what it felt like to suddenly come alive again — at the age of 35. My lover transformed me from a bored, mousy little housewife into an exciting, thrilling woman.

ANN LANDERS

Today I am writing a different kind of letter. I hope other bored, mousy little housewives will learn from it.

You tell yourself you are in love with the man, although deep down in your heart you know it is not true. You blame the affair on your husband — you tell yourself he doesn't pay enough attention to you and he doesn't understand your emotional needs — that your womanly appetite for love cannot exist on the crumbs he tosses your way.

Finally, the sneaking around and the lies start to gnaw at your conscience. You are afraid you'll say something in your sleep, or slip and call your husband by the other man's name. You find yourself taking foolish chances. You wonder if your children thought that last phone call was a little odd.

You miss your self-respect. You are jolted by your senses. You realize your husband is twice the man you thought he was. You suddenly wake up to the realization that he is struggling with the everyday problems of making a living and meeting his responsibilities — which is a true expression of love. And then you get down on your knees and pray he never finds out what you have done and you do everything in your power to make it up to him. — SADDER BUT WISER.

DEAR WISER: Unfortunately, most people must get their lumps firsthand. They do not learn from the experience of others. For the benefit of the few who can learn, however, here is your letter.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I cannot bring ourselves to talk to our neighbors about this problem, but we want very much to help them. Perhaps if you print this letter they will see it.

This couple next door has four lovely children, two in their teens. They are good-looking, bright and well-behaved kids.

All four of these youngsters need to have their teeth straightened. It isn't just a case of four kids with crooked teeth, Ann. Their teeth protrude in such a way it's the first thing a person sees.

We know that orthodontics is costly, but these people are not desperately hard up for money. Parents should realize that ugly teeth can be a lifetime handicap. Surely they could make arrangements to pay in monthly installments. Will you rephrase this letter so it will not offend them, please get the message across. Thank you. — WASHINGTON.

* * *

DEAR WASH: When parents do not see the need for dental care, although it is apparent to others, I always hope the child's teacher will speak up in behalf of the youngster. It is an act which has to do. Don't remain silent on the hope that the neighbors will see this letter. Tell them. They may interpret your interest as interference but it is worth the gamble if it helps the kids.

Confidential to NEED AN ANSWER: The answer is as follows: A woman who has six children under 11 years of age doesn't have to go out and work. She has plenty of work at home. Your husband must have oatmeal where his brains belong.

Frankford Couple Marks 50 Wedded Years

FRANKFORD — Mr. and Mrs. George F. Miller, 147 Trent St., West, Frankford, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Easter Sunday at a surprise reception at the home of their daughter, Mrs. John Nancarrow, R.R. 1, Trenton.

About 150 relatives and friends were in attendance. Congratulations were received from Lester B. Pearson, Robert Stanfield, George Hees, M.P., for Northumberland in the last House, Lee Grills, M.P. for Hastings South in the last House, and Russell Rowe, M.L.A. for Northumberland.

Dr. R. T. Potter, M.L.A. for Quinte, presented a plaque on behalf of Premier John Roberts.

Gifts were presented from the family, neighbors and the congregation of Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle.

The house was decorated for the occasion with gold and white streamers and bells. A three-tiered wedding cake iced in gold and white centred the dining table.

Mrs. Donald Nancarrow was in charge of the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller were married in Toronto, April 10, 1918, by Rev. A. J. Paul. The only wedding attendant present at the anniversary party was Mr. Miller's sister from Toronto.

Mr. Miller was born and raised in Detior, Ont. During World War 1 he joined the 155th battalion and was transferred to the 6th reserve army. He was employed in Toronto before returning to Detior to farm. Later he moved to Frankford and was employed by the Bata Shoe Company until his retirement.

Mrs. Miller was born in England and came to Canada when she was 10 years old. She lived at Midland and later graduated from Peterborough Normal School. She was teaching at Detior when she met Mr. Miller.

The couple has two daughters, Mrs. John Nancarrow and Mrs. Betty Payne, Wenniger; seven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller are active members of Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle, where Mrs. Miller has been the treasurer and a Sunday School teacher for 14 years. Mr. Miller is a member of Frankford Branch, Royal Canadian Legion.

Thousands Strike

Clergy and Communist Fail to Quiet Dockers

LONDON (AP) — Thousands of London dockers went on strike today and started a march on Parliament in Britain's growing racial storm.

Strikers shouted down a Roman Catholic priest and an Anglican clergyman who were introduced by a Communist union leader in an attempt to persuade them to go back to work. Scores of ships were left idle.

At Tilbury, the port's deep-water section handling liners for the Far East and Australasia, only 65 men reported for work out of the usual 2,000. All work stopped on 12 liners.

Up river at the Royal Group, a dock gate meeting of 2,000 voted to quit work and started assembling at Tower Hill for the march on Westminster.

The men bowled down leftists who led last year's four-month dock strike—from which the port is only now recovering—and chanted "disgusting" at the two clergymen.

Only three men voted against the strike resolution, which affirmed dockers' support for last weekend's speech of Enoch Powell demanding a ban on coloured immigration. Powell's speech earned him immediate dismissal from the inner councils of the Opposition Conservative party.

The strikers said they would take to Parliament a petition signed by 3,000 dockers and ships' crew demanding an immediate immigration ban and protesting the government's Race Relations Bill.

Many individual who claims he has been turned down for a job or as a tenant or house buyer because of color will be able to take his complaint to a tribunal and seek damages.

Opponents of the bill charge that it makes colored immigrants a privileged minority and that the previous act's penalties against incitement conflict with traditional freedom of speech.

Meanwhile, Conservative MP Sir Cyril Osborne said he will ask the government to investigate loopholes in British immigration laws.

The home office already is investigating the situation at London airport where 39 immigration officers signed a "We back Powell" petition drawing attention to colored immigrants who are getting into the country on forged passports and papers.

Powell, 56-year-old former Tory defence spokesman, Thursday night called off a scheduled speaking visit to Cambridge University "to avoid embarrassment."

University authorities feared there would almost certainly have been protest demonstrations for and against Powell which might have got out of hand.

'As Long as I Have Breath I Will Defend Poor'--Dief

MONTREAL (CP) — "As long as I have breath left in me and as humble, poor person is denied justice, I will defend him," former prime minister John Diefenbaker told reporters Thursday.

Mr. Diefenbaker had just emerged from Montreal's Bordeaux jail where he had spent an hour talking with 20-year-old Henry Berube, held in prison for the last five months as a material witness at a non-capital murder trial.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the five-month detention cannot be justified in any way.

Berube was declared a material witness under a rarely-used Criminal Code article which it was brought to the attention of the presiding judge that the witness intended to leave town.

Berube is to testify at the trial of Michael Jenkins, who faces a charge of non-capital murder in the Oct. 12 rifle-slaying of McGill University philosophy professor James Ross.

Berube's bail was set at $5,000.

Mr. Diefenbaker said there was no foundation to the allegation that Berube was planning to leave town, and "there in fact is repulsive detention because he is too poor."

In Quebec, Justice Minister Jean-Jacques Bertrand said he does not intend to intervene in the Berube case.

"Mr. Berube is a witness in a murder case," he said in an interview. "He was detained legally and by an order of the court. The case is before the court."

No More Complaints

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — There were complaints the air force was violating an anti-air pollution ordinance when it burned secret files and other documents at the Aerospace Defence Command headquarters here. A health officer said his investigation showed a gas furnace was being overloaded with classified material.

"Now that the personnel know how to use the equipment, we aren't getting any complaints," he said.

Drug Addiction Spreading

TORONTO (CP) — Addiction to drugs and alcohol is outstripping the provision of services designed to counter existing problems and prevent new ones, the Addiction Research Foundation of Ontario reported Thursday.

The foundation's difficulties are being compounded by the increased use of marijuana, LSD and other drugs both in high schools and among young people generally, H. David Archibald, executive director of the provincial agency, told the legislature's committee on commissions.

The foundation's problems may be compounded by the amount of money breweries spend on advertising, said committee member Gordon Smith (PC—Simcoe East).

"We are being brain-washed by television, and young people are being attracted by the kind of advertising the breweries are doing."

Claude Tice with Late Charles Hardwick – 1951

Arduous Duties Eased

Veterans of Intelligencer Newsroom Recall Highlights Over Past 40 Years

This week writes finis—well almost finis — to the newspaper careers of two Intelligencer editorial staff members who between them have a total of well over three-quarters of a century service to their credit — all with the same newspaper.

Tomorrow, city editor Claude D. Tice steps down from the desk job which he has held for 36 years, while George Carver is retiring as sports editor.

Mr. Tice will continue on as an editorial staff member in a less arduous role than the 6 a.m. to noon stint to which he has been accustomed.

But for Mr. Carver, the break will be a bit more complete. He is bowing out as sport editor after 32 years with The Intelligencer, but after a brief holiday he will continue to write a column for the sports department.

Mr. Tice is the oldest Canadian press correspondent on the Ontario circuit — he has been at the job continuously for three and a half decades. Intelligencer.

Between them, Mr. Tice and Mr. Carver can recall a raft of newspaper experiences ranging all the way from reporting murders to "covering" women's teas and doing box scores for championship sporting events.

Mr. Carver was in the Halifax military hospital, just back from overseas, when in December, 1917, a munitions ship blew up in the harbor, killing more than 1,600 people and levelling a large section of the Maritimes seacoast city.

More than a mile away from the harbor blast, Mr. Carver recalls feeling a tremor throughout the building. He walked to the window to investigate and had just turned his back when the concussion blast tore out the window and slammed him against the wall.

His eyesight was saved by the fact he had momentarily turned from the window. Later doctors picked dozens of pieces of shattered glass from his back.

After World War I, he got his initiation as a cub reporter with the Halifax Herald.

Later he worked for the Picton Gazette and came to The Intelligencer—in June 1936.

A native of Old London, but calling Wellington, Ont. as his "home town", Mr. Carver did general reporting for some years before joining the sports staff under the late Kenneth Colling.

As a reporter on general news assignment in 1936 he covered one of the most bitterly fought Ontario bye-elections in East Hastings which saw Conservative Dr. Harold Welsh of Roslin defeat Liberal Dr. H. E. Boyce of Deseronto.

It was during this bye-election that the Tory premier of the day coined the phrase "as East Hastings goes, so goes Ontario."

Other general reporting highlights of Mr. Carver's career were the Thain murder in Rawdon township and the Mary Bell poison murder trial which saw more than 80,000 words written for his newspaper — all in longhand.

The Thain murder trial resulted in a conviction with Mr. Thain dying on the gallows for the gunshot slaying of a Rawdon township man and his wife.

Mrs. Bell won acquittal on the charge of poisoning her husband.

Mr. Tice also assisted in "covering" the Thain murder, filing copy for the Canadian Press. Earlier in the mid-thirties he covered the Vermilyea murder in Belleville.

During his tenure of duty covering county fairs, Mr. Carver at Shannonville "World's Fair" was once inducted as a member of the Mohawk Indian Orange Lodge — because he was wearing the same color blazer.

On another occasion he was mistaken for a much wanted criminal when riding alone in an OPP cruiser with two constables.

The car was spearheading a Shrine caravan for crippled youngsters going to a Toronto circus and drew the attention of thousands as it was escorted by motorcycle police through downtown Toronto.

Highlights of his career as sports editor include coverage of world championship boxing events, the world series, Harmsworth races at Picton, and world championship amateur hockey games in Prague with the 1950's Belleville McFarlands.

For his interest in sporting activities, he has been honored with memberships from the Belleville Shrine Club, the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, the Bay of Quinte Country Club and local curling and tennis clubs.

He was instrumental in the promotion of minor sports in the city and was the originator of the first city darts league.

During the 1950s he travelled thousands of miles with the city's senior hockey clubs as they played scheduled games throughout Central and Eastern Ontario.

During World War II he took time out from his newspaper duties to again serve his country.

In 1942 he was appointed second in command of the 34th Battery in Belleville and later joined the permanent force with the rank of captain and was named adjutant of the 46th Field Regiment RCA at Gananoque and Petawawa.

Mr. Tice also saw army service in World War I and after returning from overseas duty in 1919 joined The Intelligencer as a part time sports writer.

He worked in this capacity until 1922 when he was offered a full time job with the newspaper — as sports writer and general reporter covering the police beat, writing obituaries, covering fires, and the other news events.

In fact, his duties as general reporter meant just that. They extended even to the social desk and Mr. Tice admits he attended weddings and covered afternoon teas.

As sports writer under his "C.D.T." byline, Mr. Tice travelled with the old Belleville Grand Trunks and Nationals senior baseball team which more than once went to the provincial finals.

He also recalls the thrilling hockey games of the early 1920s played in the old Turnbull Street arena.

In 1932 Mr. Tice was named city editor, the position which after 36 years he is now relinquishing.

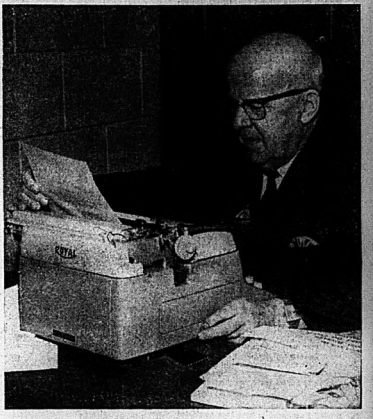
In addition to his role as city editor, Mr. Tice was city hall reporter for many years, covering council and other municipal events. Then, becoming more closely associated with municipal affairs he was elected as member of city council and served as alderman and chairman of the arena committee for a full decade.

Throughout the years he has retained an interest in sports and has continuously covered local curling and lawn bowling events.

What was his biggest "scoop" during his long newspaper career?

It was the death of the late Norman Rogers, wartime defence minister, who was killed in an airplane crash near Bowmanville.

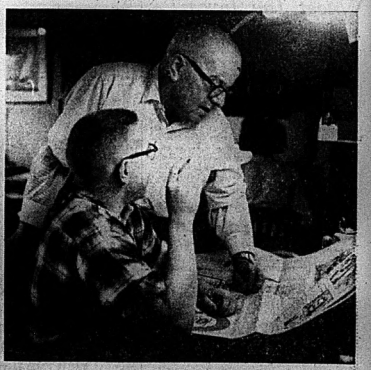
Mr. Tice picked up the lead from the local provincial police headquarters office which district then included the Bowmanville area.



Minutes after the crash was confirmed Mr. Tice fed the news to Canadian Press in Toronto.

Now, "Claude" is stepping down from his role as city editor.

But complete retirement is still far from his mind.



He will continue to work part time writing obituaries, and covering curling and lawn bowling events.

So for the veterans of The Intelligencer's newsroom it may be retirement . . . but it's not quite "20".

Final Column as Sports Editor

Intelligencer Sports Editor George Carver, after 32 years with the newspaper, writes his final column as department head. George is retiring as sports editor but will continue to write three columns a week "to keep his hand in."

Sports Page Check

Sports Editor George Carver and Sports Writer Garry Alexander check sports page make-up. Both Mr. Carver and Garry Alexander are leaving The Intelligencer sports department this week, George into partial retirement and Garry to a new job.

Will Observe Dog After Biting Child

A dog is being kept under close observation for rabies symptoms after it bit a five-year-old boy in West Belleville yesterday.

It was the latest in a series of incidents provoking the anxiety of health authorities — now maintaining an anti-rabies vigil through the Quinte area.

Hastings - Prince Edward health officer, Dr. C. R. Lenk said the dog is being kept under observation by its owners and if it is rabid, the disease could manifest itself within days.

The dog was traced by the mother of the boy after it bit him on the leg near his Yeomans Street home, said the health officer.

The boy also will be under observation by his family physician.

Hail and Farewell!

This is the last column to appear under the writer's byline as sports editor of The Intelligencer.

Later on, all being well, columns will appear twice weekly.

As the guy said when he pushed his mother-in-law over the cliff "Every beginning must have an end."

Today marks the end of a beginning that came into being 32 years ago. Today I join the newspaper warhorses in the pasturefield of retirement.

I leave with no regrets outside of the fact that while age clips the strine of close association with the best people in the world, it does not sever the golden ribbon of memory.

I leave satisfied with the fact that in my tenure of office as reporter, editor and sports columnist, I have given my best to those who made it possible for me so to do.

I leave with the deepest sense of appreciation to management, staff and the many friends — and cold enemy — I have made during my career here.

To the management, Dr. G. A. Morton and Myles Morton I bid a reluctant au revoir. I shall always remember Dr. Morton and his father the late W. H. Morton for giving me, through various assignments, the opportunity to see many part of the world.

I shall never forget the world series in New York; the Harmsworth Trophy races at Picton and Detroit and the most colorful of all, the world hockey championships in Europe ending with the big victory in Prague.

During my career I covered many facets of reporting. I saw a man hanged, I saw a woman acquitted of a poison murder charge. County councillors knew me. Police officers knew me, through a sense of duty that is.

I am grateful for the co-operation given me by the officers and men of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. I am thankful to the officials of the Belleville Shrine Club; the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, the curling and tennis clubs and especially the Bay of Quinte Country Club all of whom honored me with memberships.

And I'm grateful, more than I can say, to the great sports organizations of the city, hockey, baseball, softball, soccer, archery and the minor sports.

Here at home, in the office, so to speak, I leave with deepest regrets. Long-lasting friendships cannot be forgotten with the snip of retirement scissors. These include those grand guys of the composing room, the business offices and all other departments of the newspaper.

And I'm deeply conscious of the friendships made outside the office apart from the newspaper angle.

I have worked with many people inside the news room and they, too, will be sincerely missed. My special appreciation to Garry Alexander my "Man Friday" for the past fifteen years for his grand co-operation.

To another "warhorse" Claude Tice whom I have known for the past 25 years, I say "au revoir." I am proud to have been associated with him for over three decades.

And so.

"THIRTY."

Senior Baseball

Meet The Joyces!

Belleville's senior baseball club has a sponsor and will take to the diamond this weekend.

City sportsman Gerald Joyce will sponsor the club and has been named vice-president. Jack Carson is the club president.

The team has been holding open indoor workouts once a week this month and, according to "Moe" Hunter, about a dozen players have been turning out.

Coach Al Kelleher and assistant Fiori Googan have called the club's initial outdoor workout for the Fairgrounds at two o'clock this Sunday afternoon. It is an open affair with all positions on the team up for grabs.

The setup of the league should be known by the first of next week but right now, Belleville, Kingston, Brockville and Peterborough are expected to form the loop's main stable with a number of other centres playing a partial schedule.

Joyce' are expected to practise nightly between now and the schedule opening, likely on the May 20 holiday.

Bobby Scores Twice — Reay Eyes Record

Hull, Hawks Clip Hab String At 7

CHICAGO (CP) — The doves reverted to hawks Thursday night and today Chicago Black Hawks are looking at a record that has stood in Stanley Cup playoff history since 1942.

The Hawks beat Montreal Canadiens 2-1 Thursday night after three consecutive defeats. The victory kept their chances alive in the best-of-seven series.

Not since Toronto Maple Leafs turned the trick during the Second World War against Detroit Red Wings has a team lost the first three games in the playoffs and taken the next four.

The Canadiens won the first three games by 9-2, 4-1 and 4-2 margins before Thursday's loss. The fifth game of the series is scheduled for Montreal Sunday at 2 p.m. EDT with a sixth game, if necessary, back here next Tuesday.

The biggest Hawk of all—left winger Bobby Hull—scored both Chicago goals although the victory was an all-round team effort. Veteran Montreal centre Henri Richard scored for the losers.

Before the contest, Chicago coach Billy Reay had called for a superlative goaltending job from Denis DeJordy, and he got just that.

However the game could be a costly one for both clubs.

BOBBY HULL

Montreal goaltender Gump Worsley suffered a sprained neck at 8:57 of the first period when Bobby Hull crashed into him when he scored the first goal. Worsley was replaced by rookie Rogatien Vachon.

Worsley was removed from the ice on a stretcher and taken to hospital for x-rays and examination. He was to remain there overnight.

Chicago's veteran right winger Eric Nesterenko, suffered a shoulder separation in the first period.

Hull, who ended up in the net with the injured Worsley on the scoring play, said he and the goaltender "criss-crossed on the play" as Worsley attempted to cut-guess him.

Montreal coach Toe Blake didn't appear to be overly despondent by the loss and the chance to sweep the series.

"You know I said all along that this was too good a hockey club to lose four straight," Blake said. "We were just lucky to make it 3-0 before they got going."

And the Hawks were going Thursday night—right from the opening faceoff.

After appearing docile in the first three games, they backchecked, forechecked and generally outhustled the Canadiens.

"I think we got a few less chances around the net than in the other three games," Blake said. "But they were checking so tight that even when we got a man in the clear he was dragging a Chicago player along."

Strangely enough, Reay wasn't enthused with the victory.

"We got a great team effort," he said. "But we got that last Tuesday night and they beat us.

HENRI RICHARD

We'll just go along playing one game at a time."

Richard said the Montrealers were not shooting as well Thursday night as in previous games.

"We weren't shooting as accurately as before and of course we started out too slow. Maybe we were just too confident."

On Hull's first goal, the powerful left winger took a rink-wide pass from rookie Bob Schmautz. The puck bopped over Montreal defenceman Jacques Laperriere's stick and Hull outraced Terry Harper.

After Hull's goal and his ensuing crash with Worsley, the game was delayed for 10 minutes.

At 3:37 of the second period, Richard drew the Canadiens even as he stepped from the penalty box to take a pass from Gilles Tremblay and go in with Claude Provost.

Richard passed the puck to Provost, watched the right winger's shot bounce off the post, and shoved it into the empty side of the net.

At 6:50 of the period, Hull picked up his second of the night and fourth of the playoffs when Pat Stapleton's lead pass hit him at the Montreal blueline.

He took one step over the line and let go with a blazing drive that went high into the net as Vachon made a desperate glove stab at the puck.

Chicago dressed left winger Wayne Makl, brother of Chico, for the first time in the series and got good mileage out of the youngster.

Veteran Chicago winger Doug Mohns congratulated Wayne after the game and said the Chicago club needed that kind of game from the younger players. The Hawks outshot the Canadiens 34-29.

Playoff Scoring Leaders

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bill Goldsworthy of Minnesota North Stars scored two goals and two assists Thursday night to move into first place in the National Hockey League playoff scoring race.

Goldsworthy, a Waterloo, Ont., native who was in a four-way tie for seventh place before the North Stars 5-1 victory over St. Louis, has six goals and six assists for 12 points and a one-point edge over Jean Beliveau, Stan Mikita and Dave Balon.

Mikita, Chicago Black Hawk centre, and Beliveau, his counterpart for Montreal Canadiens, were both held scoreless Thursday as the Hawks edged the Canadiens 2-1 to stay alive in their Stanley Cup semi-final. Beliveau has seven goals and four assists while Mikita has four markers and seven assists.

Balon, meanwhile, also had a big night for the North Stars, scoring a goal and two assists to boost his points-total to 11 on four goals and seven assists.

Soccer Loop Will Enter Champion

DETROIT (AP) — The North American Soccer League said Thursday it would begin negotiations aimed at entering its 1968 champion in the world soccer team championship tournament.

The league owners also said there will be an NASL all-star team to play national teams from Europe, Asia, Africa and South America beginning in the fall.

"Soccer is an international game and we are anxious to test our mettle against the world's best," said John W. Anderson, league chairman and president of Detroit Cougars.

Winless Chisox Drop 10 In Row

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The White Sox still haven't won any baseball games this season, and the slump is keeping Chicago manager Eddie Stanky in terrific shape.

Stanky spent 20 minutes walking briskly from foul line to foul line in Minnesota's Metropolitan Stadium Thursday, swinging a beaded bat and mulling over his club's latest loss—a 3-2 toughie against the Twins.

He started his post-game stroll routine last Saturday when the Sox dropped their seventh straight. Now the streak is up to 10 for winless Chicago, and Stanky is still walking.

In Thursday's only other game, Chicago Cubs whipped Atlanta Braves 5-3 as Ron Santo poked a pair of home runs. All other major league teams had the day off.

It was the kind off loss that required long meditation. Chicago ace Gary Peters allowed just three hits—but all of them in a row in the third inking when the Twins got all their runs.

And what made it even tougher for Stanky to swallow was that an old team-mate from his New York Giant days was the hero for the Twins.

Robbet-armed Al Worthington came out of the bullpen and saved Jim Perry's victory. Worthington loaded the bases with none out in the seventh on two singles and a walk, then struck out Pete Ward, Tommy Davis and Russ Snyder, retiring the side.

The Twins' three-run rally started with two out when Perry walked on a 3-2 pitch. Cesar Tovar and Tony Oliva followed with doubles and Harmon Killebrew singled.

Chicago left 11 runners on base and one manager in the outfield.

Santo's two homers drove in three runs and supported Ferguson Jenkins's seven-hitter. Jenkins, a native of Chatham, Ont., remains undefeated with his third straight win and gave up his first walk of the year. He's completed three of four games he started.

Atlanta's only runs came on homers by Bob Tillman and Felipe Alou.

Santo connected with the bases empty in the fourth against Ken Johnson and then sparked a three-run rally with his second shot in the eighth.

Jenkins, who won 15 games in Wrigley Field last year, earned his first home victory of the season.

Quarry 7-5 Favorite

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The long training grind over, confidence was the keynote today on the eve of the 15-round World Boxing Association heavyweight title fight between Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., and California's young blaster from Ballifuvet, Jerry Quarry, the 7-to-5 favorite.

The two meet for the championship, final in a series of fights designed to replace Cassius Clay as king of the division.

The main event goes on in the Oakland Arena at 10 p.m. EST, Saturday.

Ellis, 28, and Quarry, 22, spent restless hours Thursday at their respective hotels several miles apart awaiting the weigh-in set for 1 p.m. EST.

"Sure, I know Quarry is a good fighter and can punch, but I know I have the moves. I think I can win," said Ellis, relaxing across a bed at his quarters.

Summer Games Slated For Halifax

OTTAWA (CP) — The formal agreement to stage the 1st Canadian Summer Games in Halifax and Dartmouth, N.S., in 1969 has been signed here, Health Minister MacEachen announced Thursday.

The signing confirmed the federal government's plans to pay the operating expenses up to a maximum of $838,000 and one-third the cost of facilities, to a maximum of $300,000.

The games, a sort of national Olympics, are expected to attract 2,400 athletes from all 10 provinces and the two northern territories to compete in a number of Olympic summer sports. The dates are Aug. 19-30, 1969.

Mr. MacEachen signed the formal agreement for the federal government. Signing on behalf of the 1969 Canada Games Society was its president, Halifax broadcaster Finlay MacDonald.

The 1st Canadian Winter Games were held in Quebec City in February, 1967.

The Chief Hopes To Be Back

NEW GLASGOW (CP) — George Armstrong, captain of the Toronto Maple Leafs and a 17-year veteran of the National Hockey League, said Thursday he hopes to be back in the Leaf uniform next season.

Here to attend a service club sports show, Armstrong said he is looking forward to at least one more year in the NHL "with the Leafs if another club doesn't get me before that."

Armstrong was disappointed at the Leafs' performance this year—the club missed the playoffs after winning the Stanley Cup last year. He said he looks for a Leaf resurgence next winter.

International Pace

Cardinal King Tops Field

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Ben Slutsky has come up with another winner in harness racing.

Cardinal King, a five-year-old from New Zealand, is the latest likely champion for the master of Nevele Acres at Ellenville, N.Y. He already owns Nevele Pride, the Harness Horse-of-the-Year for 1967, for whom he recently turned down an offer of $1,000,000.

Cardinal King won the $50,000 International Pace at Yonkers Raceway in impressive style Thursday night.

Cardinal King, for whom Slutsky paid $40,000 early this year, displayed an explosive finish as he drew out in the stretch and beat the favored First Lee of Australia by 1¾ lengths.

Cardinal King raced as an entry with the aged 12-year-old Cardigan Bay of New Zealand, harness racing's top winner with $950,571. The entry went off the second choice at 6-5 with the crowd of 23,586. First Lee was the 4-5 favorite at post time.

Cardigan Bay finished next to last in the seven-horse field. But Cardigan Bay, who dropped out of contention with one-quarter mile left, played a prominent part in First Lee's defeat.

For virtually one-half mile, the second time around in the 1¼ mile race, Dancer kept Cardigan Bay pushing First Lee virtually neck and neck.

Dancer's driving tactics took a lot out of First Lee as Kevin Robinson, who reined the Australian favorite, acknowledged later.

"That fast first quarter by Golden Blend played its part, too," Robinson said. He referred to the 29 2-5 opening quarter reeled off by the Montreal-area pacer to take the lead from First Lee. Golden Blend wound up last.

Southern Song, made it a 1-2-3 finish for the Anzac horses by finishing third. Honest Story and Song Cycle, the two U.S. entries, came in fourth and fifth.

Cardinal King and First Lee likely will meet again next Thursday in the $50,000 Good Time Pace, second leg of Yonkers' $150,000 International series. The $50,000 National Championship Pace on May 9 is the final leg in the series.

Flyers, Rangers

Move To Eighth Game

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Kitchener Rangers and Niagara Falls Flyers have succeeded in making a long season even longer.

They have added an eighth game to their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Junior A finish.

Kitchener forced the extra game in Niagara Falls tonight by defeating The Flyers 8-4 Thursday night to even their series at three wins each with one game tied.

The winner moves into the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals against Verdun Maple Leafs at Verdun.

But if the teams should tie tonight, a ninth and deciding game will be played until a winner is declared.

Four goals by Ab Demarco, a defenceman from North Bay, sparked the Rangers before 6,601 fans. He scored three in the first period.

Nelson Classic

Gary Player's 66 Tops The Field

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A tough course and difficulty playing conditions don't worry the golf tour half as much as balky putters.

In fact, Gary Player says there's just no need to even talk about high winds that do things with your ball when your putting is on the beam.

He illustrated his point by the four-under-par 66 that showed he was leading the $100,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic by one stroke going into the second round.

He got solid backing in giving putting the major emphasis by four fellows who were just behind him.

Miller Barber, Harold Henning and Jack Montgomery all shot 67 and each had about how their putters put them over the 7,086-yard Preston Trail course, swept by winds ranging up to 30 miles an hour.

Lionel Hebert fired a 68 for fifth place and told about a chip of 60 feet.

Illness and injury took a bigger toll than the tough course and high wind as eight players dropped out, including such fellows as Julius Boros, Johnny Pott, Sam Snead, Art Wall and Steve Reid, who had just won the Azalea Open.

Bob Stanton was disqualified for an incorrect score card—he had the right total but the card failed to list his score on the ninth hole.

So there will be only 147 in the field today as the tournament enters its second round. And those will be cut to low 70 and ties for the final 36 holes.

Ottawa Hall Of Fame

55 Sportsmen Honored

OTTAWA (CP) — Plaques were presented to 55 former sports personalities at a dinner at Ottawa's Civic Centre Thursday, marking the opening of the Greater Ottawa Sports Hall of Fame.

Fred (Cyclone) Taylor, a one-time hockey star for Ottawa and Renfrew, spoke on behalf of the 55 charter members. Now 84 and already recognized in four other sports halls of fame, Taylor said he came from his home in Vancouver for the ceremony.

"Believe me, though, it is a short distance for the chance to be here on this memorable occasion. This may be my last hurrah, but I'm enjoying myself tremendously. I'll never forget this."

Others honored in the Greater Ottawa Sports Hall of Fame include footballers Tony Gobat and Charlie Connell, hockey's Frank Boucher, Harry (Punch) Broadbent and goaltender Clint Benedict and former golf queen Alexa Stirling Fraser.

Toronto, Vancouver, Kingston and Halifax have all recognized Taylor's sportsmanship.

Will Continue Career In Basketball

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Calvin Murphy, the United State's second highest collegiate scorer last season, will continue his basketball career at Niagara University, his new coach said Thursday.

Frank Leyden, who takes over officially July 1 as the Purple Eagles' coach, thus put to rest persistent rumors saying Murphy would leave Niagara.

Murphy had declined to comment on the rumors, although earlier this month he told newsmen, "I never said I wouldn't back."

Leyden, who was chosen to succeed Jim Maloney, said he talked with Murphy Wednesday and that Murphy told him he "wanted to play basketball for me and for Niagara."

Murphy averaged 28.2 points in 24 games for Niagara in the 1967-68 campaign.

North Stars Hot Line Scores Four In 5-1 Win Over Blues

ST. LOUIS (CP) —A veteran minor leaguer, a former Montreal Canadien and a fuzzy-cheeked boy from Kitchener, Ont., have given St. Louis the Blues and manager-coach Wren Blair of Minnesota North Stars a happy man.

Miller Marcetta, a Toronto Maple Leaf reject, centred Dave Balon and Bill Goldsworthy Thursday night, and the line scored four goals to give Minnesota a 5-1 win over St. Louis Blues and a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-finals.

"Millie (Marcetta) has been working hard and there because he realizes he has to push himself to play in the National Hockey League," Blair said. "He was a great minor leaguer and he's working to prove he can be a good NHL player."

Marcetta and Balon each scored a goal, and Goldsworthy had two. Jean-Paul Parise scored the other Minnesota goal.

Dickie Moore, with his fourth goal of the playoffs and his 43rd in Stanley Cup competition, scored for St. Louis in the second period.

Fourth game of the series will be played here Saturday night at 8 p.m. CST with the fifth game in the Blues' arena Monday. The sixth game, if necessary, will be played in Minneapolis May 1, and the seventh here May 3.

"Balon and Goldsworthy clicked at the same time, and they are helping Millie help himself," Blair said.

"We had a bad first period, but came out with three goals on three shots."

The North Stars led 3-0 at the end of the first period and 4-1 after 40 minutes. The Blues might just as well have gone to the dressing room! late in the second period when Goldsworthy scored his second goal at the 16:32 mark.

"This was the big one," Goldsworthy said in the dressing room. "It's time we go back to Minneapolis, but St. Louis is a better club than you saw out there tonight."

Scotty Bowman, coach of the Blues, agreed.

"We didn't deserve to win," he said. "I knew when we arrived at the rink, we weren't ready.

"The guys were not up for the game, they were too carefree."

Balon, the former Montrealer, played his best game of the playoffs. He picked up two assists and when Marcetta and Andre Boudrias took successive penalties in the second, Balon put on a one-man penalty-killing display before 13,334 St. Louis fans.

"I told him (Balon) to go out there and chase the puck wherever it went," said Blair "He worked like hell."

Goaltender Glenn Hall of St. Louis blocked 18 shots in the game behind a lax defence while Cesare Maniago stopped 30 shots in the Minnesota net.

"Maniago was great when we needed him, especially in the third period when we were outshot 15-6," said Blair.

Noel Picard of St. Louis replaced injured defenceman Al Arbour, but had trouble in his own end. Arbour suffered a severe charley horse in Minneapolis Monday night, and is not expected to be back for the rest of the series.

Win Special Monza Race

MONZA, Italy (AP) — Paul Hawkins and David Hobbs of Britain drove a Ford GT-40 to a resounding victory Thursday in the 1,010-kilometre Monza race for prototypes, sport and grand tourism cars.

Taking the lead at the 28th lap of the 100-lap grind of 622 miles after another Ford GT-40 went into the pits, Hawkins and Hobbs won by nearly four miles over a porsche prototype driven by Germans Rolf Stommelen and Jochen Neerpasch.

Jean-Claude Killy, France's triple Olympic ski champion, took 10th place in the second auto race of his new career. He shared the wheel of a porsche 911T with countryman Jean Vuichet, finishing 12 laps behind.

Cokes Gets Title Offer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Promotor Norm Levinson today offered World welterweight champion Curtis Cokes $35,000 to defend his title against the No. 1 contender, Percy Pugh of New Orleans, in Dallas next August.

Levinson, who was co-promoter of the Cokes-Willie Lodick championship fight here April 16 in which Cokes scored a technical knockout in the fifth round, said Cokes would get $35,000 or 40 per cent of all monies, whichever was greater.

Sleepy Party Headquarters Suddenly Alive and Bustling

OTTAWA (CP) — Gene Rheaume slipped a 100 mm. cigarette from a dwindling pack and doodled another and yet more elaborate diamond.

"It can take some pretty rough stripe, can't it—grass and mud!" he asked, ordering a charter aircraft for Robert L. Stanfield.

The airline executive at the other end of the telephone reassured him and asked how long the plane would be needed.

"Would you believe—until June 25?" Mr. Rheaume, the Progressive Conservative executive secretary, said lightly.

Between election campaigns, the five-storey Conservative party headquarters, two blocks from Parliament Hill, is a sleepy place.

The fifth floor has been empty since last September, although the party could easily have rented the valuable downtown space. It occupies the second and third floors all the time.

Now the empty space is being filled with desk and telephones, maps and memo pads as the party prepares for the general election, Tuesday, June 25.

Similar scenes are taking place at Liberal and New Democratic Party headquarters.

"I feel like I've had eight rounds with Archie Moore in the last two days," said national Liberal organizer Allan O'Brien, 36, sipping a milkshake. "When the writs are issued, the switchboard just lights up."

Three blocks away, in a Victorian gingerbread house that the NDP calls home, a young man chatted with a young woman about Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

"He's a bachelor, which makes him suspect right off the bat," his young voice said confidently.

Upstairs, party Secretary Clifford Scotton, 40, paused in his frenzied labors to talk about the campaign.

"I'm only 53 calls behind now," he said, his phone winking silently.

Like the Liberal and Conservative campaign executives, he has been on the job steadily since last Friday, when definite signs of a snap election began to show.

"An election campaign can't be organized until the balloon goes up," Mr. Rheaume said. "We've had the basic structure for two months.

"But it takes 72 hours to shake down the logistical things that can't be firmed up until the announcement is made."

A five-week national campaign beginning about mid-May is being organized for Mr. Stanfield and Mr. Trudeau, while NDP Leader T. C. Douglas will go on the road about one week earlier.

Mr. Douglas will travel by scheduled airline flights while the Liberal and PC leaders will have chartered planes.

Since Tuesday, candidates have been calling the headquarters here to demand appearances in their ridings by the leaders.

"The logistics are monumental," said Mr. O'Brien. "Keeping the same man from being committed to three places at the same date, or three from being in one place when one would do."

A meeting of the Conservative organization, with representatives from all over Canada, takes place today in the Chateau Laurier here. It will decide the basic shape of the campaign.

Similar Liberal and NDP meetings will be held at their headquarters during the weekend.

Friends Hold Shower for Filipino Nurse

NAPANEE — Those who attended the shower for Miss Edna Vergara last Friday evening had an enjoyable time. Mrs. William Clarke, one of the supervisors of the Lennox and Addington County General Hospital opened her home for the event. Miss Vergara is one of the seven Filipino nurses now on the staff of the hospital. The guests were women of the hospital staff, and Mrs. Roy Rourke and Mrs. Oscar Asselstine, with whom the nurses are living until they can establish a home where they can be together.

The bride - elect received many beautiful gifts. All were carried in a gaily decorated basket.

Once the gifts had been opened and admired, the nurses entertained the guests. A friend of the bride - elect described the courtship and wedding customs in their native land. Afterwards there was music, to the accompaniment of a guitar played by one of the Filipino nurses. They sang their native songs, and taught one or two to the other guests.

Miss Vergara will be married in St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church May 4.

Permission To Build Is Withdrawn

NAPANEE — Meeting in special session Friday evening, Napanee Town council rescinded a motion it had made at its regular meeting less than three weeks earlier.

On April 1, council had approved a building permit for the erection of a house on property owned by Orville Dillenbeck on the corner of Dundas and Isabella Streets, where there is already a double house. A letter from a town solicitor pointed out to Council that a neighbor had complained that, according to the town's zoning by-law, there is not area enough in the lot for another dwelling. The town is breaking its own by-law in granting such a building permit. Where this is done, according to the Ontario Municipal Board a public hearing should be called so that citizens could express their opinion. This had not been done.

Council admitted its error, and the motion granting permission to build was rescinded. Mr. Dillenbeck will be informed of the withdrawal of permission.

At the same meeting Council accepted the resignation of Constable Robert J. Moy, who had joined the Napanee police force February 1. Constable Moy, 37, with previous experience in Brampton and Georgetown, had been hired as a second class constable.

Council is advertising for a replacement.

8TH BELLEVILLE FATHER AND SON BANQUET

Over 85 fathers and sons of the 8th Belleville Pack (St. Margaret's) gathered at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Church Hall on Tuesday for their annual Father and Son banquet.

The hall and tables were decorated in a "Scoutic" manner with each adult guest and father having a wood place marker made by the Cubs themselves. Realistic camping scenes portraying the theme "camping season" were in evidence on all the tables.

Grace, pronounced by Cub Gordon Male, started the consumption of some 100 pounds of turkey, heaps of peas and mountains of pies. Needless to say, everyone ate to capacity and with relish for the splendid meal provided by the Ladies Auxiliary. Cub - Greg Vance expressed the thanks of the gathering for the efforts of the ladies in preparing and serving the meal.

Seated at the head table were Mr. Lewis Andrews, President, District Council, Bud Bateman, District Commissioner, Asst. District Commissioner Arnold Welch and Asst. Cubmaster Mrs. Helen Welch, Constable K. McLeod of the R.C.M.P., Messrs. Jim Bateman, Steve Dixon and Murray Coles.

Mr. Peter Murray, chairman of the Group committee, called on District Commissioner Bateman, who introduced the Pack Leaders, Cubmaster (Akela) John-Vance and assistants Mike Hall, Mrs. Helen Welch and Mrs. Zufelt, complimenting them on their splendid leadership of a very active Cub Pack.

Mr. Bateman mentioned the fact that nine Cubs were ready to "go up" to the Scout Troop and was the important task of securing a Scoutmaster. Mention was made of the new Five Point Program. Fathers were urged to help their boys with their program, much of which is carried on at home and outside of meeting periods.

A new Scout program "Scouts '68" will start in September for boys 11 to 14 years, with greater flexibility and scope than the old program. Venturers, a training program for older boys and young men 15 to 17 years and Rovers for young men 17 to 22 years were mentioned.

Mr. Andrews brought greetings from the District Council and commended the Cubs on their fine showing and the excellent work on the "place markers" which were small slabs of wood with name printed thereon, varnished and with a leather thong.

A special feature of the evening was the presentation of one to three-year Cub service stars, presentated by Asst. Cubmaster Mike Hall.

Announcement was made by Chairman Murray that the Cub Camp this year would be held at Vanderwater Park, near Tweed, on June 14, 15 and 16. The paper drive for Group funds was also mentioned.

The special guest of the evening, Constable McLeod, showed a very interesting film entitled "Dogs go to School," which covered the training of police dogs at the RCMP Rockcliffe Barracks, near Ottawa. Dogs are trained to "protect and find." The dogs, mostly German Shepherds, can jump 15 feet, hurdle a 7 foot wall, protect property and track criminals and lost persons. They are also trained in life saving.

The boys had many questions to ask of Constable McLeod, and as the evening passed quickly, it was necessary to close this part of the program in order that Cubs return home at an early hour. Cub — Ken Wooton thanked the Constable for his kindness in showing the film and making the evening a great success.

Everyone expressed their appreciation for the evening's entertainment and the splendid dinner provided by the ladies.

Vatican at Odds With Italian Left

ROME (AP) — Conflict between the Vatican and left-wing Italian Roman Catholics is intensifying.

The Vatican Daily L'Osservatore Romano, criticizing militant Catholics who have turned their backs on the church-supported Christian Democrat party of Premier Aldo Moro, intimated that such persons were not really Roman Catholics any more.

The statement—and a congress of dissenting Roman Catholics which touched it off—added fuel to a controversy that has become one of the major issues in the campaign for the May 19-20 general elections.

About 50 different groups of dissenting Roman Catholics held their second congress Sunday in the Communist-run city of Bologna to protest what they call heavy-handed interference in politics by Italian bishops.

They called for a "new left" inside the realm of the Christian Democrat and Socialist centre-left alliance. They agreed to collaborate in preparation of a "White Book" to document "the meddling and pressure of the ecclesiastical hierarchy . . . in the present electoral moment."

The dissenting Roman Catholics, some of whom have agreed to run as independents on the Communist party ticket, were referring in part to a January statement issued in the name of the Italian bishops' conference calling on Roman Catholics to vote for the Christian Democrats once again.

This drew protests from some liberal bishops, notably Michele Cardinal Pellegrino of Turin and Archbishop Salvatore Baldassarri of Ravenna.

Pope Assails Extremism

VATICAN CITY (AP) — In one of his strongest attacks on extremism in the renewal of the church, Pope Paul Thursday reaffirmed the immutability of Roman Catholic doctrine in the modern world.

The church is experiencing "a great and magnificent reawakening," he told an overflow general audience of 30,000 tourists and Italians.

"But the church also suffered and still suffers for a whirlwind of ideas and facts that do not certainly follow the good spirit . . . and do not promise the vital renewal which the council has promised and promoted," he added.

Stranger Rescues Youth From Prison

MILTON, Ont. (CP) — Magistrate Kenneth Langdon has released Mark Godfrey, 18, to the custody of Mrs. Roy Weaver, a stranger who was seized with a sudden compulsion to help him.

Magistrate Langdon agreed to the unique form of rehabilitation after Mrs. Weaver, who has six children of her own, promised to provide free room and board and help find a job for Mark.

The magistrate warned her Mark had been convicted of breaking and entering a high school to commit an indictable offence.

The youth was before the court for disposition after serving six months of a three-year term in Guelph reformatory.

Mrs. Weaver said she feared Mark would be sent back to complete his term.

"I don't know what it was that made me do it," she said Wednesday after the magistrate had agreed to her offer, "but something deep down inside me compelled me to and I'm glad."

Mrs. Weaver was in court as a Crown witness in an automobile collision trial but was not called.

For a beautiful lawn...

MILORGANITE provides two and one-half times more nitrogen (Green Power).

Based on recommended coverage, naturally organic MILORGANITE provides two and one-half times more nitrogen per thousand square feet than the synthetic "light-weight high potency" fertilizers.

But two and one-half times more Green Power isn't the whole story. Naturally organic MILORGANITE contains ALL of the growth elements essential for healthy plant growth. And it's Nuisance-Free!

- Does not burn.
- Lasts longer.
- Sterilized granules are weed-free.

a $70 value for less than $4.00

If synthetically produced, the plant-food elements contained in every 50 pound package of MILORGANITE would cost approximately $70.00. MILORGANITE can be sold at a fraction of this cost, because it is a natural product.

No synthetically produced fertilizer can compare with MILORGANITE

Ends Year In Black

TRENTON — Chamber of Commerce treasurer Doug Adams reported to the annual meeting last night the Chamber ended the year with $130.06 on hand.

The Chamber collected more than $10,400 from membership dues amounting to $4,503, a grant of $5,000 from the town and a grant of $1,200 from the Mimico bureau, the report showed.

The report also showed the mortgage on the new permanent Chamber headquarters on Front St., had been reduced to $6,507.

Expenditures during the year included $6,500 in salary paid and moves, 2 bedrooms and washroom with toilet and basin, hot and cold running water.

To Head Chamber

TRENTON — Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, meeting this morning, elected a new president.

Robert Carleton, one of the chamber's standing directors, will head the organization with Eric Kalbas as vice-president. Mr. Carleton was chairman of Trenton's centennial committee.

The new directors of the chamber elected at the general meeting last night were Eileen Forchuk, Vern Nutley, Russell Yarrow, D. Ralph Dodd, R. Fraser, Dick Hatch and Bill Norman. Standing directors include Jes Darling, past president; Douglas Adams, treasurer, Jerry Goldberg and Mr. Carleton.

Received Management Certificates

Industrial Certificates Awarded

TRENTON — In a pause in the ceremonies honoring chamber of commerce past-president George Kempf last night, 33 graduates of the chamber sponsored industrial management course received their certificates.

Fred Beebe, a member of the advisory board of Loyalist College, who conducted the classes made the presentations. The successful aspirants included two women, Mrs. Albina M. Pringle of Batawa and Mrs. Deanna M. Speight of Trenton.

Others receiving certificates were David B. Alexander, R. D. Beale, E. A. Bell, Robert A. Cameron, Edgar J. Campion, Donald J. Cole, Glen J. Crawford, John H. Dodds, John H. Foley, Ernest W. Green, Joseph W. Haines, Lawrence H. Hamilton, William Herrington, James D. Lemaire, Olaf P. Meyer, Stanley M. Millard, Malcolm Oates John F. O'Keefe, Clarence Scarlett, James W. Scott, Tushar K. Sengupta, Neil Smith, George B. Spencer, James E. Turrell, George F. White and Charles J. Whitehead.

Council Approves Repairs To Municipal Building

TWEED — The members of Tweed Village Municipal Council awarded contracts to replace the roof and revamp the present heating system at the Tweed Municipal Building at this week's meeting of council.

The roofing contract was awarded to Quinte Roofing of Belleville for the amount of $2,800. There were three tenders submitted in response to the advertisement recently for sealed tenders for these jobs.

A quotation of $3,986.31 was accepted from Crest Hardware of Tweed Village for the revamping and modernization of the heating system.

The resignation of D. E. Spencer from the position of secretary-treasurer of the Parry Island Board was accepted with regret.

County Assessor Jevons met with members of council to explain new methods used in reassessing property. Industrial water rates will be increased slightly.

Council authorized the replacing of a fence at the municipal dump, south of the village off the highway about 800 yards, where the original one was destroyed during a recent fire there.

Earlier in the evening members of council and the Tweed Volunteer Fire Brigade, witnessed the demonstration of new fire-fighting equipment at the Tweed Feed Mill dam, where all practices are held.

Kiwanis Club Plans Trade Fair

TWEED — Members of the Tweed Kiwanis Club are at present making plans for the Club's second annual trade fair, to be held at the Tweed-Hungerford Community Centre and it will be held Friday and Saturday, May 24th and 25th.

The two-day program will feature displays from local manufacturing plants, stores and places of business. It will be a community show window, so Club members explain.

The program will also include, Sunshine Sean and Jack Bailey of Peterborough, who will present a variety show on Friday evening, Saturday afternoon and again on Saturday evening, along with dancing on both Friday and Saturday nights.

These entertainers are seen regularly on TV, from Peterborough, and recently appeared in Napanee, where the show was a complete sell-out.

The complete program will be announced shortly, according to E. J. "Ted" Courneyea, who is a member of the committee making the arrangements for the Trade Fair of 1968.

Authority Decision Tuesday

The Tuesday night meeting at 8 p.m. in the Brighton office of the department of agriculture called by Hon. C. R. Simonett, minister of the department of energy and resources, will decide the fate of the 38th Conservation Authority in Ontario.

Eighteen representatives of 17 municipalities will vote at the upcoming meeting on the establishment of a conservation authority for the Trent watershed. A two-third majority is required to establish the authority.

The proposed authority would include Campbellford, Trenton, Brighton, Colborne, Frankford, Hastings, and Stirling communities and Alnwick, Brighton, Cramahe, Haldimand, Hastings, Murray Percy, Rawdon, Seymour and Sidney townships.

The meeting is open and the public is urged to attend.

Third Annual Canoe Trip Being Planned

The voyageurs from the Belleville YMCA will be making their third annual canoe trip on the weekend of May 17-20.

The excursion will be to the Lake of Bays country, north of Huntsville and the boys will visit Gold Lake, Little Gold Lake, Muskrat River and Lake, Rathburn Creek, Sucker Lake, Bottle Lake, Bottle Creek, Cavendish Lake and Catchoma Lake.

Of course there will be plenty of opportunity to stop at the way for fishing (and paddling).

Forchuk Ends Term As Mayor

TRENTON — Mayor Eileen Forchuk ended her term of office last night with a plea to the new council to keep the town's tax rate down.

Mrs. Forchuk, who was defeated in her bid for re-election by Mayor-elect Jack Wilson, said the town's tax rate has risen 30 per cent in the last two years.

"I hope the new council will keep the tax rate down," she said.

Mrs. Forchuk said the town's industrial development has been "very good" during her two years in office.

She said the town's industrial commission has been "very active" in attracting new industry to the town.

To Your Good Health

Artificial Sweeteners Not Harmful

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: This has bugged me for some time. On bottles of low-calorie soft drinks the label says that they contain "non-nutritive artificial sweeteners which should be used only by persons who must restrict their ordinary sweets." — T.

Does this mean that people who are not required to restrict natural sugar intake are endangering their health by consuming these drinks? — W. F. M.

Sir, I've answered that inquiry more than once, but people keep asking, so, let's get it again.

There is not, to my knowledge, anything harmful in these artificial sweeteners.

There have been rumors, most of them to the effect that artificial sweeteners are produced from a coal tar base. That fact does not, of itself, mean they are harmful.

In any event, the U. S. Food and Drug Administration, having watched for some years for any sign of dangerous, is continuing its study and watchfulness. If, in some future year, sign of anything harmful appear, we can trust the FDA to say so and take appropriate action. But to date we have no such signs.

It would seem to me that some other wording could have been used on the labels, but since it's their job, not mine, perhaps it's not easy as it looks to express just the right amount of warning without causing worry. Come to think of it, I don't know how I could do any better.

The fact remains that these low-calorie drinks are virtually without any nutritional value. They are flavored water, sweetened artificially without sugar, Period.

Anybody who does not need to limit his calories might just as well consume the regular drinks and gain the benefit of the calories represented by the sugar.

I don't know of anything harmful about the artificial sweeteners except that too much, in some young children may tend to cause diarrhea.

People who can use the calories (sugar gives energy) and don't need to avoid calories because of obesity or avoid sugar because of diabetes might as well use the sugar drinks.

That's what the label really says, isn't it?

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: Could a person have an allergy toward wearing metal? I am 15 and, for more years than I care to think about, whenever I wear a watch, rings, or chain around my neck or wrist my skin itches and, whether I scratch it or not, it breaks out. Then it turns into a kind of sore. A ring even left a scar on my finger. What will I do when I get married? — B. L.

People can be allergic to metals, and the answer is to avoid contact with whatever metal or metals cause the trouble. Some people have had rings or other jewelry coated with a thin layer of plastic to prevent direct contact between skin and metal.

• • •

Private note to Mrs. L.: Yes, a diaphragm should be refitted after the birth of a baby.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but because of the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Motorized Travellers Return After Successful Polar Trip

MONTREAL (CP) — A weary team of Arctic adventurers flew into Montreal from Resolute Bay, N.W.T., Thursday night, six days after four of their number last Friday became the first humans to reach the North Pole overland by mechanical means.

"It's beautiful, we made it back and from the North Pole at that," said Jean-Luc Bombardier of Montreal, the one Canadian member of the 13-man Arctic team headed by Ralph Plaisted, a 40-year-old St. Paul, Minn., insurance executive.

Having successfully completed a 44-day, 674-mile trek by motorized sled across the polar ice cap, they also became the first men to complete an over-the-ice approach to the Pole since 1909.

"It's all a little overwhelming," Mr. Plaisted said. "We all feel the great satisfaction of knowing we got to the Pole."

Asked whether the party had any advice for others who might want to make a similar expedition, Mr. Plaisted said:

"I don't know why anyone would want to do it again. Boy, it's cold up there. The tempers are bad, warmed up to 23 degrees below the day we were sitting on the Pole."

He said those who arrived with him at the true geographical north were Mr. Bombardier, 29-year-old president of the company whose snow vehicles carried the ice party; Walter H. Pederson, 40, a St. Cloud, Minn., mechanical engineer, and Gerald R. Pitzl, a 34-year-old St. Paul high school teacher and the party's navigator.

The three men under Mr. Plaisted all were members of the party that was foiled last year amid the spring ice breakup in the Arctic.

Mr. Pitzl, fending off the swarming greeting party at the airport, summed up the general feeling of the group by saying:

"It's absolutely desolate. We saw the first and only sign of life on the ice cap March 29—a grey and white bird I can't identify."

Mr. Pitzl said he never felt better when he learned that a U.S. Air Force plane would fly over the party to validate its claim that it had reached the Pole.

"We are, in fact, the first ever to have such a claim validated by an independent source. It was great to see that plane because we were on the ice all that time and no one had said for sure we'd get an independent confirmation."

The camp was 15 miles from the point off Cape Columbia where Admiral Robert Peary of the United States Navy left on his dogsled expedition to the North Pole in 1909.

It was also 200 miles closer to the pole than the departing point for Plaisted's unsuccessful 38-day attempt last year—Eureka, site of a U.S.-Canadian weather station on Ellesmere Island, about 1,200 miles northwest of Montreal.

Air Pollution Experts Face Windsor Problem

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — When the Ontario air pollution control services move into Windsor they will find themselves faced with an international problem.

Most of the cloying smog that lies over this city is imported. It drifts across the Detroit River from steel mills and heavy industry in Michigan and Windsor, which has had an air-pollution control bylaw for three years, is powerless to do anything about it.

Now the problem has been taken over by the provincial government, and the city fathers, no doubt, are pleased to be rid of it.

Ontario pollution experts will move into the Windsor-Sarnia area this fiscal year—before March 31, 1969 health Minister Symond has said, but the position the provincial government will take on the international aspect of the problem is still in the air.

Presumably Ontario would not try to deal directly with the United States. Ontario will have to ask the federal government to take action over and above surveys now being done by the International Joint Commission.

A precedent for action by the department of external affairs has already been set.

In December the former minister for external affairs, Paul Martin, then a Windsor-area MP, said various possible ways of tackling air pollution were being discussed with the United States.

Earlier this month Ottawa acted in a specific case, saying it was prepared to appeal to the joint commission if studies showed a planned new Detroit incinerator would increase pollution in Windsor, half a mile away.

Davis Is Ready to Accept Regional Separate School Boards

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's separate school system will have the blessings of the province if it wants to set up regional school boards, Education Minister William Davis said Thursday.

Mr. Davis told the opening session of the annual conference of the Ontario Separate School Trustees Association the move was a necessary step toward equality of educational opportunity for the more than 400,000 separate school students.

About 800 delegates from nearly all of Ontario's 482 separate school boards are attending the two-day meeting.

Mr. Davis urged the trustees to debate the regional board issue fully at the conference, so that the province can work out the details with their representatives before taking any steps.

"I may as well say that I am prepared to go ahead with the restructuring of separate school administration in the province," he said. "But we want your advice on how it should be done."

More than a dozen delegates were interviewed following Mr. Davis's statement. None opposed the idea.

A. E. Klein, OSSTA president, noted that the association executive had approved the principle of regional boards in a brief last month to Mr. Davis. The approval was made conditional on an adequate level of provincial support fo. the separate system.

Mr. Klein, who is chairman of the North Bay Separate School Board, said regional separate school boards were "a good idea" in as long as the province did not try to superimpose even larger administrative bodies above them.

He said Mr. Davis had assured him this would not be the case.

Rt. Rev. J. P. Sullivan, of the Belleville Separate School Board said that regional boards would be a good thing. "I can't think of any drawbacks," he said.

Christopher Assetl, OSSTA executive secretary, said there are about 365 English-speaking and 125 French-speaking separate school boards in Ontario, with a total of 379,000 students in kindergarten to Grade 8. An additional 40,000 Catholic students are registered in Grade 9 to 13 courses administered by private boards.

Mr. Davis did not say when the regional boards would be established. He stressed that their establishment would not be easy because of the "historical and legal" factors involved.

One difficulty he cited was that the separate school zones do not fit easily into any existing regional boundaries. Planning for county-size public boards was easier, because the towns and districts which form the base of existing public boards fit readily into the counties.

The province earlier announced its decision to establish county-size boards of education to administer the public primary and secondary schools as of next Jan. 1.

A brief from the OSSTA asked that all separate school boards in a county or union of counties be considered a combined board, but that Metropolitan Toronto, Windsor and Ottawa be left as independent zones.

It also called for "financial adjustments" to meet the new obligations of larger administrative units.

Mr. Davis said the brief still had details to be ironed out.

Mr. Klein told the group separate school boards should get together with public school trustees on joint services and shared use of some of their facilities.

He said the Catholic and public systems could save money if they co-operated and could afford facilities and services together that neither could afford alone.

In an interview later, he said the schools should investigate the possibility of shared swimming pools, cafeterias and gymnasiums. They should also consider joint programs for special education.

He suggested co-ordination could be brought about by a joint committee of the separate and public school boards in an area, with each delegation having a veto on any proposals.

Barry Lowes, chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto school board, said the growing cost and importance of education have brought a "stockholders' revolt," among those who foot the bills.

"The public will not sit quietly by any longer. They want a voice in education. They know too well that the future of their children lies through the door of education and they want in."

He said trustees should encourage the public to channel their drives through school boards, rather than organize as pressure groups.

Right of Two to Debate Health Costs Attacked

TORONTO (CP) — John Brown (NDP—Toronto Beaches-Woodbine) was the central figure in two heated clashes in the Ontario legislature Thursday—one before the debate on health department estimates and one during it.

The efforts of Health Minister Dymond and the chairman of the house were required to maintain order while the legislature pondered the right of Mr. Brown and another New Democratic Party member to participate in the debate on health department estimates.

Eddie Sargent (L—Grey Bruce) questioned the right of Mr. Brown and Stephen Lewis (NDP—Toronto Scarborough West) to participate in the debate.

Mr. Brown, the NDP spokesman in the house on health matters, is president of Medic Camps Ltd., an organization working in the treatment and rehabilitation of mentally disturbed children. Mr. Lewis is connected with Brown Camps.

Mr. Sargent asked Allan Reuter (PC—Waterloo South) to rule whether the two members should be allowed to participate in the debate because there was a question as to whether they received benefit from public funds through Brown Camps.

If they did, there was a conflict of interest under house rules, he said.

This sparked a prolonged discussion with some members defending the right of the two NDP members to participate in the debate and some taking the opposite stand.

Mr. Dymond said the matter should be discussed at the time when a vote is taken on the estimates, since if any conflict existed it would be at that point. He also said there was no money in his estimates that could possibly go to Brown Camps.

During the debate, Mr. Dymond demanded that Mr. Brown tell him how he got a copy of a statement a week before it was made public by the health minister.

Mr. Brown said he did not know the source of a copy he received of the 13,000-word statement the minister had presented to start the debate.

Dr. Dymond said Mr. Brown had cast suspicion on "the reputations of a large number of the members of my staff," and many questions would be asked to find out who had sent the copy to Mr. Brown.

In the debate on health estimates, Mr. Brown said the health department is wasteful because the minister was "against him.

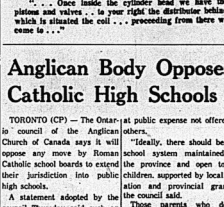
small dictator playing politics . . ."

Mr. Brown drew a protest from Dr. R. T. Potter (PC—Quinte) when he said doctors have failed to show leadership in developing a new understanding of health services.

"Their interests are doctors first, securing the practice of medicine to themselves. They are captives of the medical associations, unable to react with fear of retaliation."

Dr. Potter said Mr. Brown was unfair.

"He should know the association cannot police doctors."



In other legislature business Thursday:

—Attorney General Arthur Wishart said an act to provide compensation for those injured assisting Ontario police officers in law enforcement will be effective from April 1. He said a law enforcement compensation board will deal with claims.

—Labor Minister Dalton Bales said the province's economic advisers feel the province's economy is regaining its momentum, and that special employment-creating measures are not required at this time."

—Speaker Fred Cass gave Mr. Sargent a warning that unless the peppery MPP abandons his "lack of courtesy" during debate, action will be taken against him.

Anglican Body Opposes Catholic High Schools

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario council of the Anglican Church of Canada says it will oppose any move by Roman Catholic school boards to extend their jurisdiction into public high schools.

A statement adopted by the council Thursday said such an extension, if allowed by the Ontario legislature, would allow privileges to one religious group at public expense not offered to others.

"Ideally, there should be one school system maintained by the province and open to all children, supported by local taxation and provincial grants," the council said.

Those parents who desire their children to attend private schools of their choice, denominational or otherwise, have the right.

Kierans Says He Plans To Nag Union Nationale

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lively debate on health department estimates, opposition attacks on a government budget and a warning by Eric Kierans that he would "give much misery" to Quebec's Union Nationale government highlighted sittings of four provincial legislatures Thursday.

Ontario Health Minister Matthew Dymond demanded that John Brown (NDP—Toronto Beaches-Woodbine) disclose how he got a copy of the 13,000-word statement he had prepared on the health department estimates.

Mr. Brown, who acquired a copy of the statement a week in Newfoundland, Thomas Hickey (PC—St. John's East Extern), who returned to the house after being suspended for three days for calling Premier Smallwood a liar, led the tiny Opposition in a blast against the government's economic policies.

He said during the budget debate the province is headed for the type of economic conditions prevalent in 1932 just prior to initiation of a commission of government to restore order.

Conservative Leader Gerald Ottenheimer joined Mr. Hickey in accusing the Liberal government of trying to blame the results of alleged poor planning on Vietnam and international money troubles.

In Quebec, former provincial health and revenue minister Eric Kierans returned to the house and said he would be here "long enough to give much misery to the Union Nationale."

Mr. Kierans, among unsuccessful candidates at the federal Liberal leadership convention in Ottawa earlier this month, was greeted by desk-thumping applause when he resumed his place in the Liberal opposition benches.

Mr. Kierans, sporting a Bermuda sun tan, said he had nothing to regret despite his failure at the national convention and was applauded when he added: "I am a Canadian and I am very proud to be a good Quebecer."

Jake Froese (SC—Rhineland) told the Manitoba government it should seriously consider construction of grain storage facilities in the province.

He said such facilities would allow Manitoba farmers to deliver their grain and receive payment immediately instead of having to hold it in storage on their farms.

F. B. Deacon on Board To Compensate Injured

TORONTO (CP) — An act to provide compensation for those injured assisting Ontario police officers in law enforcement will be effective from April 1, Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said Thursday.

In a statement to the legislature, Mr. Wishwart said a law enforcement compensation board will deal with claims.

Chairman will be Grey County Judge Colin E. Bennett. Other members will be R. P. Milligan, chairman of the Ontario Police Commission; and Fred B. Deacon, a Belleville business man.

Elmer Sopha (L—Sudbury) attempted to interject that the compensation legislation was contrary to the recommendations of the McTuer report on civil rights, but was stopped by Speaker Fred Cass.

Car Impaled!

Roadside guidepost stabbed through a small car carrying five people north on Highway 37 today. Automobile was impaled after it flipped in air near Plainfield. (For second picture see page 2)

Car Impaled, Six Injured

By HARRY MULHALL, Staff Reporter.

PLAINFIELD — Six people — including an infant about a year old — were rushed to hospital today after a small automobile flipped out of control and was impaled on a roadside guard post here.

It took three ambulances to removed the injured after police and first-aid workers pried open the wreckage on Highway 37.

Identities and injuries were still be ascertained by provincial police at Belleville General Hospital this morning.

Five of the injured — including the baby — were believed to be Torontonians. The sixth was the woman driver — believed a local resident — of a second car.

Site of the mishap was the highway junction of Thurlow township's eighth concession.

Police believe the Toronto car was northbound on Highway 37 and may have been involved in a passing accident with the other automobile.

The light, European - made automobile apparently flipped in the air and crashed upside down on highway guide wires.

An upright post supporting the wires stabbed through the roof and into the passenger seats.

The driver and all four passengers — including two women — were scheduled to be admitted to hospital after emergency treatment, a hospital spokesman said before noon.

The driver of the second car apparently was not seriously hurt.

"He wants wage parity!"

Fires, Looting Sweep Capital

HAMILTON, Bermuda (CP) — Bermuda's government declared a state of emergency today after an outbreak of burning and looting by predominantly-Negro gangs in the second straight night of violence in the island's capital.

The executive council sent 300 armed troops of the Bermuda Regiment into Hamilton's poorer section to reinforce nearly 250 riot police.

Police said the rioters had dispersed by 3 a.m. after an 8 p.m.-to-6 a.m. curfew was ordered until peace returns. All fires were reported under control.

Meanwhile, the predominantly white government United Bermuda party—UBP—denounced what it called inflammatory statements in the last few days and the predominantly Negro Progressive Labor party—PLP—accused the UBP and Hamilton police of racism.

The two parties will contest an election in mid-May under new election rules in the British colony given, the PLP greater influence. The PLP wants to restrict immigration of the English, who the party claims keep Negroes out of better jobs. It also wants independence for the island.

Five persons were injured, one seriously, and 13 were arrested, police said. Tourists fled to their hotels and downtown bars and restaurants closed as the rioters, many moving around in cars for hit-and-run raids, set cars and buildings afire.

One of the injured was John Paiton, deputy leader of the UBP, who suffered a broken arm, apparently when he tried to intervene.

An estimated 300 youths gathered near a furniture store which had been set ablaze for the third time within 48 hours.

Carrot, Stick Waved

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Generous helpings of carrot and stick were placed before the 124-member political committee of the UN General Assembly Friday as the United States and the Soviet Union pleaded for approval of a treaty for non-proliferation of nuclear weapons.

"This troubled world needs to be reassured that detente, rather than discord, will be the prevailing atmosphere," said U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg in urging speedy enactment of the treaty, drafted in Geneva.

"Time is not on our side," he said, applying the stick. "Every addition to the number of nuclear-weapon powers will multiply . . . the difficulties of stopping step-by-step proliferation."

Vasily Kuznetsov, Soviet first deputy foreign minister, proferred the carrot—that a Utopian world-enactment of the nuclear non-proliferation treaty might be followed by "international co-operation in the peaceful uses of atomic energy, which promises an unparalleled progress of civilization."

"The Soviet Union," said Kuznetsov, "is prepared to proceed to talks on other measures . . . such as stopping the manufacture of nuclear weapons, reducing their stockpiles and eventually banning completely and scrapping nuclear weapons under the appropriate international controls. . . ."

Cabbie Killed, Fugitive Slain

TORONTO (CP) — A police sergeant shot and killed a man Friday night, 20 minutes after a taxi driver was shot to death outside a north-end service station.

Police also arrested two juveniles, aged 14 and 15.

The cab driver was identified as Larry Botrie, 26, of Toronto. Police identified the other victim as Dennis Robert Boyd, 23, of no fixed address.

Fred Durzi, operator of the service station where the taxi driver was killed, said the cabbie got out of his cab and a youth in the back seat rolled down a window and pointed a rifle at the cab driver's stomach.

Durzi said Botrie grabbed at the rifle, pulled, and it fired. He said the cab driver rolled on the ground and was shot twice more as he lay near the pumps.

Durzi said a youth in the front seat moved to the driver's side of the taxi and drove away, but then the car became stuck in a ditch. The three sat there for a couple of minutes, and then fled on foot.

Twenty minutes later, police spotted three suspects a mile away and gave chase.

Police Chief James Mackey said Patrol Sgt. Charles Fox spotted a suspect coming toward him with a rifle aimed at him. He said the police officer shot first with his service revolver.

Humphrey Launches His Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey, with some backing from business and labor and perhaps President Johnson, is launching his second quest for the Democratic presidential nomination.

His announcement of candidacy, due today at a luncheon for 1,000 supporters at a Washington hotel, pits him against Senator Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Senator Eugene J. McCarthy, a fellow Minnesotan.

Humphrey's 1 p.m. EST speech was to be carried live by the major television and radio networks.

A report from Washington Friday by a leading British commentator that the president's health is failing and that he may quit the presidency before the convention—thus catapulting Humphrey directly into the job—was dismissed as absurd by a White House spokesman.

Without specifying what he thinks the president's ailment is, Henry Fairlie of The Sunday Express said it is serious enough that many politicians close to Johnson think he "is capable of the final act of abdication this summer."

Fairlie said this would make Humphrey, as an incumbent president of a few weeks, a shoo-in to be nominated at the convention

Campaign Plans Laid

Stanfield Plans Early Start, Tradeau Will Wait 3 Weeks

OTTAWA (CP) — Strategists plotting the election gun early to get Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield formally started in the race for the federal election Tuesday, June 25.

The only question remaining is how early.

Indications are strong that the party leader will be off and running by the first weekend in May or shortly after.

Informants said the prime minister will not start campaigning actively for the June 25 election for about three weeks.

The PC national campaign committee, under Edwin A. Goodman of Toronto, is holding meetings here this weekend to nail down final campaign strategy.

An informant said it had not been decided yet just when and where Mr. Stanfield would kick off his campaign but added: "I can tell you we're not going to let it go very late."

The Conservative thinking seemed designed as a counter to the planning of Prime Minister Trudeau, who has said he wants to stick close to Ottawa to tidy up business during the next several weeks before swinging out on a full cross-country campaign.

Mr. Trudeau also said he wants his cabinet ministers to stay close to the capital for a while as well.

Friday Mr. Trudeau appointed Jack Davis of Vancouver a minister without portfolio.

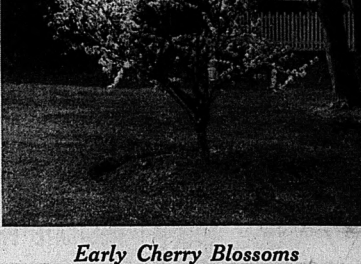
Mr. Davis, whose Coast — Capilano riding north of Vancouver gave him the biggest majority of any western MP in 1963 and 1965, will carry special duties in the trade and commerce department.

He was named in the wake of criticism over the lack of western representation in the cabinet.

The group sworn in with Mr. Trudeau a week ago included only two ministers from west of Ontario—Indian Affairs Minister Laing from British Columbia and Veterans Affairs Minister Teillet from Manitoba.

B-B Gun Kills Kitchener Boy

KITCHENER (CP) — Brian Sullivan, 14, died Friday six days after a shot from a BB-gun struck him near the eye.



He had been playing at home with a 14-year-old friend when the gun discharged.

The shot was removed from the youth's brain after a four-hour operation, but he never regained consciousness.

Early Cherry Blossoms

This Manchu cherry tree at the residence of Dr. John Stock, 174 Bridge Street East, has been an object of admiration for the past week after early season warm weather coaxed it into full blossom. But with this week's cool weather a companion magnolia tree is still struggling into bloom.

Claiming 3,500 Vote Majority

Conservatives Confident of Victory

Redistribution has made Conservatives in the new Hastings riding confident of election victory — if a veteran campaigner is any oracle.

Gerald Joyce, re-elected president of the Belleville Conservative Association last night, predicted the re-alignment of constituency boundaries would markedly increase local Conservative votes.

Whoever was on the redistribution committee sure did us proud," he told the association at the Kiwanis Centre last night.

"We have at least 3,500 votes of a majority — and I'm going to challenge my executive that we have, from Belleville, 2,000 of that 3,500."

Redistribution leaves Belleville as the power centre of the riding, removes Trenton with its large Liberal vote, and adds a cluster of traditionally-Conservative northern townships.

Lee Grills, MP Hastings, who already has confirmed his intention of seeking th re the new riding, indicated the present prime election issue hinged on the contrasting personalities of the major party leaders.

"To me it's Trudeau hysteria versus Robert Stanfield's sober, commonsense," s a i d Mr. Grills. "Trudeau hysteria is sweeping the country — but where is it going?"

The MP charged Mr. Trudeau "is the prisoner of a bunch of leftovers from the Pearson cabinet" which represented "an aging and discredited government clinging to power."

"Canadians want the assurance that the prosperity and security they have earned will be secured and not thrown away. Trudeau—or the others — have not put forward what Canada needs at this time."

Mr. Trudeau played a role in "the Pearson performance and the Pearson policies," Mr. Grills reminded.

"His performance in the House on many occasions was almost nil.

The Liberal leader also "was a member of a government that tried to shove down the throats of the provinces a medicare plan which they neither wanted nor could afford."

On the other hand, Mr. Stanfield does not face the liabilities of hangovers from the Pearson regime, he said.

"Are you going along with this hysteria that's sweeping the land or are you going to get down to solid commonsense?" queried Mr. Grills. Grills. "I think you'll let your conscience be your guide."

The MP also hoped Mr. Stanfield might attend the Hastings-Prince nomination convention — expected in mid-May. However he cautioned, with about 200 conventions scheduled in the next three weeks, there might be difficulty in securing the party leader's attendance.

Mr. Grills suggested a second choice, former Manitoba premier Duff Roblin — runnerup to Mr. Stanfield's party leadership victory.

Dr. R. T. Potter, M L A Quinte, who shared the speaker's spot with Mr. Grills, criticized and dubbed a national election at this time "an expensive luxury."

However, the campaign "this time really and truly (offers) the people of Canada a choice."

Other members of the Belleville Conservative executive elected last night were — Fred Deacon, Harvey Bronson, former mayor Jack Ellis, vice - presidents; E. G. Porter, treasurer and Ralph Jeffrey, secretary.

Honorary presidents are Mr. Stanfield, Mr. Grills, Richard Potter, MLA Quinte; Clarke Rollins, MLA Hastings, and former local MLA's Elmer Saldercock and Richard Arnott.

Potter Objects To Licence Fees

Increased fishing-licence fees may not act as much funds to provincial coffers as intended doubts Dr. R. T. Potter, MLA Quinte.

Administrative costs may offset some of the profit hopefully sought, he told the Belleville Conservative Association annual meeting at Kiwanis Centre last night.

Dr. Potter confessed he has "objected openly" to legislation that would impose new fee structures on fishermen next year.

"I don't think there will be as much realized from it to make it worthwhile," he added.

He also hoped the cabinet would consider exempting pensioners from payment of the new fees.

Confidentially . . .

Lee Grills, MP Hastings South (left) and Dr. R. T. Potter, MLA Quinte, were deep in discussion at Belleville Conservative meet last night. Both men spoke to meeting that heard prediction party may win Hastings federal riding by 3,500 votes in June 25 election.

A fire-hour wave of looting and destruction the previous night began, officials said, when a small gang attacked a lone patrolman trying to control a crowd outside a charity fair. They said they believed Thursday night's violence was spontaneous and did not result from race or politics.

But Friday night, Dr. Stanley Ratteray, UBP chairman, said he had heard statements that "it's going to get real hot this summer and it's going to be PLP heat."

At a PLP meeting, Mansfield Brock claimed that the Bermuda police force deliberately was maintained 70 per cent white as a replacement for the British Army.

Air Cadets Start Early

Next week is National Air Cadet Week in Canada, but members of the 608 Squadron of the Air Cadets in Belleville are starting early.

Last week the members of the squadron went around the community washing windshields of cars and leaving a card telling the owner of the vehicle that his windows were washed courtesy of the squadron.

Now, this weekend, the squadron members are having their tag - day recognizing the national week and raising funds for the cadets.

In past years the Squadron held a Church parade before the national week — this year however the parade is set for May 5.

Maintenance of Standards A Challenge to Dentists

Maintenance of professional standards in the face of a growing population straining existing services is a challenge to modern dentistry, a leading U.S. dentist said yesterday.

Guaranteeing high standards is a prime concern, emphasized Dr. James B. Bush, professor of dentistry at the University of Michigan.

Dr. Bush was the central figure in a day - long seminar called by the Kente branch of the Academy of General Dentistry, at the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club.

The group, dedicated to continuing post - graduate education for dentists, is the first Academy chapter in Canada.

During a lecture break, Dr. Bush indicated the needs of an increasing North American population taxed the number of persons graduating into the profession.

"We're not keeping pace with the ratio of population," he admitted.

However, he emphasized, there was a difference between a "need for dentistry and a demand for dentistry."

"I think the profession's primary cocern is that we are able to provide a continuation of quality control" and to ensure professional competency.

This attitude, he added, leads to accusations that dentists are benefiting from a monopoly.

However, the "real motivation" was concern for quality standards, he said.

March Planned

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

More than 500,000 persons are expected to march in 60 cities across the United States today in one of the largest demonstrations ever scheduled to protest the Vietnam war and racial injustice.

Similar demonstrations also were planned in cities in Canada, Australia, Britain, Italy, Japan, Mexico, India and several African countries.

The biggest turnout was expected in New York, where police anticipated between 100,000 and 150,000 marchers.

Demonstrators planned to form two mammoth columns in a three-hour procession in Central Park for a mass rally to be addressed by Mrs. Martin Luther King, widow of the slain civil rights leader.

Plans for the rally had been drawn before he was assassinated at Memphis, Tenn., and King had been scheduled to address the crowds.

In Canada, marches were expected in cities from coast to coast. A rally in Vancouver and a Montreal demonstration were scheduled. In Ontario, marchers planned to protest the provincial government's disregard of a brief submitted last February calling for Vietnam teach-ins to be held in all Ontario schools.

In a prologue to today's demonstration, more than 200,000 New York college and high school students stayed away from classes Friday to protest the Vietnam war.

Early Planting of Corn Commences Next Week

With a big percentage of the Quinte district grain crop now sown, farmers are already beginning to think in terms of planting corn.

Hastings county agriculturist representative Douglas Tigger said yesterday that planting of corn would commence next week and he didn't think it was too early.

He admitted that grain already sown "hadn't done much in the past few days" because of the cool weather but said farmers had been able to get a lot of spring's work done because of the comparative absence of rain.

Some early sown barley was already an inch or so out of the ground, he said.

Mr. Tigger said early planting of corn would prove if the summer turned out to be dry. Through early planting corn would obtain the benefit of moisture now in the ground, he said.

Job Market Strained

Employment Picture Looks Bleak for Belleville Students

By STEVE BISHOP

With the end of the school year in sight, students are looking around for summer employment. But the picture is not a bright one this year.

Students are already becoming frustrated at the lack of jobs in the Belleville area.

Boys and girls alike are coming up empty-handed after extensive searching. While many girls complain of having nothing to turn to for summer employment except baby-sitting, a number of students, and boys in particular, find they must leave the Quinte area to find summer work.

An interesting comment comes from Ian MacDonald, who came to Moira this year from Nova Scotia. Although many Ontario residents do not think of the Maritimes as an affluent area, Ian claims that the job situation for students in his home province is better than that in Belleville.

The problem is common to all high schools in the Belleville area, but it becomes a little more specialized at Loyalist College.

A. H. McFarland, director of student services at Loyalist, said that he does not expect any special problems in placing the 20 girls whose secretarial course will be completed this spring.

But for the rest of Loyalist's students, summer jobs will be hard to find, despite the fact that they are specializing.

With Loyalist's students all in their first year, Mr. McFarland said, "Few employers will place students at this level in specialized work."

So Loyalist students must join the rest of the city's high school undergraduates in the search for any job they can find.

"The problem is widespread," Mr. McFarland stated. "Over the past 10 years, the number of students has increased at a much greater rate than the number of part-time jobs opening up."

A more detailed explanation of the problem came from Frank Martin, of Manpower Services.

The problem is much larger than just among the student population according to Manpower statistics. Unemployment is high among adults in Belleville, with some 2,740 currently unemployed among the city's work force. This is a percentage of 6.8, considerably higher than either the national or provincial average.

"While we're very much concerned with the student situation," Mr. Martin said, "we must be primarily concerned with those who are the breadwinners."

In a good year, seasonal work loads would be available to students. But, in the current situation, the unemployed adults will be first in line for jobs. In many companies, people have been laid off with seniority rights which further strains the job market.

Mr. Martin estimates that some 800 students in this area will register with his department this year, and letters of inquiry have been sent to all employers in the district.

Although it is still too early to accurately gauge the results, he expected to be poor.

In addition to these problems, university students will be out for the year within the next few weeks, and although many will have found employment elsewhere, a number are sure to join the already swelled ranks of job-seekers in Belleville.

So the high school student is last in line for summer jobs. The best bet for the students, according to Mr. Martin, is to get classes—preferably in search of seasonal employment such as that offered by the various government departments and the tourist industry.

Conservation Dam Tenders Called

The Moira River Conservation Authority has called tenders for the construction of the lower Moira River seasonal dam with a closing date of May 6.

The low seasonal dam is scheduled for construction in North Belleville in the Fry Park area a short distance north of the old Lazier's Dam.

Purpose of the dam will be to raise the river level to allow swimming and other recreational uses.

As indicated the dam will be a seasonal structure, so built to allow it to be removed in the fall.

Don't Forget . . . Change the Clock

Don't forget to move those clocks on an hour before going to bed tonight.

This weekend Daylight Saving Time again goes into effect with the official change-over being 2.00 a.m. Sunday April 28.

But it's a bit inconvenient for everyone to move clocks ahead at two in the morning so residents are advised to change their clocks before going to bed.

Otherwise there could be a few late comers for church Sunday morning.

Daylight Saving Time will remain in effect until Sunday, October 27th.

Strike Vote Called

Monday night will decide the strike.

The 25 members of Trenton's Public Works department will decide then whether or not they favor strike action against the town.

The Canadian Union of Public Employees has been negotiating with town officials for the past five months but as yet no agreement has been reached.

A conciliation officer from the provincial department of labor yesterday ordered a hearing into the dispute.

The strike opinion vote will be held at a meeting of the employees at 7.30 Monday in Trenton Memorial Hall, said Cecil Webb, president of the local.

The union is seeking increased wages, improved pension agreement and assurances that there be no contracting of public work.

Employees at the Community Gardens in Trenton are also to be included in the agreement, says the union.

The present wage scale runs from $1.97 per hour to $2.32 for grader operators.

Question of Law

Mike McLaughlin the barrister cross-examines client George Brickwood in Forum's Dock Brief. Mr. Brickwood also makes original contribution to evening of one-act plays with his own work — Welfare '98.

'The Forum' to Present Original One Act Play

The Forum, probably Belleville's most original artistic group, is ready once more with something original.

This time it's a new play, written by one of its members.

The work, Welfare '98, by George Brickwood, will be featured in a program of three one-act plays presented next week by the Forum.

It's the latest venture for a group which has quietly established a sound reputation for artistic accomplishment in less than a year.

Shying away from ambitiously organized and expensive production programs, it operates with a freedom that has steadily made its mark — evidenced by the growing response of its audiences.

Key to its success is the total involvement of its membership.

Organized in March 1967, its loosely knit organization is composed of people interested in drama, folk-singing and art.

Headquarters of the group is St. Thomas' parish hall where the members trade pieces as actors, stage crew, even publicity-poster painters.

Its theatre ventures have ranged through a wide variety of contemporary authors — from Tennessee Williams to Edward Albee.

There have been poetry readings, an art exhibition, a program of folk-music.

At Christmas, the group joined with St. Thomas' choir — Christopher Fry's A Phoenix Too Frequent.

The informal format of operation lends itself to personal expression, the happiest result to date being Mr. Brickwood's inspiration.

His play, Welfare '98, is a satire on the trend in a future society where machines usurp labor production.

Mr. Brickwood is no newcomer to the stage as a writer, or actor.

In England he penned children's plays, among them a London drama festival winner.

The author, who says he first became interested in the Forum through his daughter, Sue, cites the enthusiasm of its co-workers in the group as encouragement.

"If this play is successful I should certainly attempt more," he promises.

The involvement of Forum members also is stressed by Mr. Brickwood's participation in next week's program.

The author of one play, he acts in a second drama on the program — the well - known English comedy Dock Brief.

To round out the production, the Forum's third choice is a little classic-in modern verse

Area Tourism

Quinte area tourist officials who are concerned about attracting more people to the region and the need for more promotion to this end may take comfort in the fact that even Montreal's successor to Expo — "Man and His World" — will have to work for its audience.

The key in both instances is promotion. And Belleville was the scene the other day of a timely conference of the tourist councils of the Madawaska Valley, Land o' Lakes and Highlands of Hastings as well as Bay of Quinte regions.

Council representatives learned that the provincial government would aid any promotional schemes undertaken by them. Brochures are an example. The Department of Tourism would take photographs and assist with layout and editing. Advertising in U.S. newspapers would also be subsidized.

Meanwhile, "Man and His World," scheduled for opening next month, will never approach the success of Expo 67 unless more money is spent on world promotion. That was the startling prediction of Dan Wallace of the Canadian Travel Bureau in a recent address to the Port Hope-Cobourg Canadian Club.

Expo, according to Mr. Wallace, spent $20 million on publicity to bring in 50 million visitors. Promotional work on Expo also included visits overseas by the then State Secretary, Judy LaMarsh, and regular talks by Expo officials here and abroad. This year Man and His World anticipates some 20 million visitors.

This and neighboring tourist regions cannot match this kind of encouragement. However everything is relative and the moral is the same whether we are expecting 20,000 or 20 million visitors. Simplicity could be the key. For instance where posters are concerned the name "Quinte" on its own could be a drawing card. It may be recalled that some years ago the Department of Immigration made an immediate impact in England by scattering the name "Canada" on the walls of subways, bus stations and other public places.

What was it all about? People started making inquiries and so interest in this country was stirred over a wide area. Visit the Quinte area of Ontario" could be the sort of thing that might engender similar interest overseas. Belleville has an attractive Centennial Queen. Perhaps she would allow her photograph to appear on the cover of such a brochure.

Such publicity should make use of all facets of regional life. Has anyone ever considered that the air base at Trenton could be an attraction for visitors? Also, the youthful "Sing-Out" group of boys and girls from the base who gave another performance there recently. Beaches, sporting facilities, and restaurants should also be included. But at least one should stress the "visit Quinte" theme only.

Science Policy

Dr. Hans Selye's call for a Canadian science policy concentrating talent, money and research facilities in areas in which this country already is in the forefront is of interest.

Widely known for his research into the subject of stress, Dr. Selye told the Senate science committee that Canada should try to develop "a special national excellence" in selected areas of scientific and medical research.

Would such a scheme work however? Who is to decide the areas of research? If there is to be concentration on only a few subjects then others will be neglected. Moreover, it would prevent researchers from studying the subject of their choice with consequent loss of opportunities of making progress in a variety of fields.

When all the freelance research that is being done in every part of the world is considered together it must be formidable indeed. By means of such dedication and study two Canadians discovered insulin, used in the treatment of diabetes, and a Scot stumbled upon the healing properties of a mold that came to be known as penicillin.

Similarly, the many facets of cancer are being studied the world over. One day perhaps they will yield their dread secrets and cures will be developed for one of the last remaining diseases that defy certain cure. There are others which could become more amenable to treatment if research on a wide scale is allowed to continue here and abroad.

More important than any attempt to concentrate on specialization is the need for additional funds and equipment to enable researchers to continue their important work. This is where the suggestion of Dr. Selye would have merit. The establishment of a central body to foster research in general, and so provide money and facilities, is worth considering.

Ottawa Offbeat

Can Trudeau's "Swinger" Image Survive New Role?

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — So how's Pierre Elliott Trudeau going to do?

In public, and in Parliament, now or later, as prime minister or opposition leader?

Well, in public since coming to Ottawa only two years and five months ago, he has lived just a bit dangerously for an MP, especially for a cabinet minister.

The sky blue Mercedes sports job, the casual-is - the - point-of-sandals wardrobe, the new permissive approach as justice minister to the old taboos of abortion, divorce and homosexuality may have endeared him to the go-go gang — but it did tend to make most of the rest of us wonder just a little.

The peril of this sort of non-conformity increases vastly for him now as prime minister.

And this he seemed to sense. For he promised, for the record at his first press conference, to mount, as he himself put it, "some opposition to the old Pierre Elliott Trudeau."

The swinger of old was to take on a new cool.

So what happens?

Among other things, the campus cults crowd starts cutting classes to hang around Parliament Hill doorways waiting for you know-who to emerge.

One gets kissed. So they all want a smacker, and unless the RCMP implement a security patrol runs interference, the new prime minister is in some danger of being trampled to death in the rush. For the "kiss-in" has become routine.

But what's a little old kiss? Nothing really. Except perhaps if you are prime minister.

Then because so many still think you swing, it quickly becomes a happening — and up from the Spadina street mall come the hippies to join the campus cuties hopefully to share the action.

It has all the potential, if not exactly the promise of a riot. For 100,000 hippies are supposed to be headed here this summer to share the hospitality promised by Mayor Jean Reid's incredible "come - and - feel - at-home-committee."

It will take only one scruffy, long - locked hippie grabbing a quick kiss - on - the - run to cremate that new cool image . . . and will Flower Power be in!

So the "perils of PET in public" could be real.

In Parliament, though, the prospects are less perilous.

Although there hasn't been much to go on in assessing the new prime minister as a parliamentary performer.

Save one instance.

And for that the pages of Parliament must be turned back nearly a year when Pierre Elliott Trudeau made his first impact on the Commons.

Interesting to read again what happened then.

As this column recorded it, the incident unfolded this way:

"Hey, hey, just watch that boy Pierre Elliott Trudeau go.

"A man on the move, he's at the very crest of Prime Minister Pearson's 'new wave' of Quebec political youth breaking over the aging heads of the federal cabinet.

"He's the nearly new, comparatively young (49) justice minister who rode like a rocket to this eminence in cabinet on momentum generated as one of the prime minister's two MP parliamentary secretaries.

"Also he's what Parliament Hill regards, a bit askance, as a swinger.

"But he swings sort of deadly.

"Went to work the other day on Reid Scott, one of the covey of New Democrats from Toronto."

What happened was this:

Reid Scott had called for creation of a housing department, to "show the provinces what urban development's all about."

"Show the provinces," asked Pierre Elliott Trudeau, "including Quebec?"

"Quebec's no different from the rest," snorted Scott.

"Then why does the NDP want 'special status' for it?" Trudeau.

"The people of Quebec are Canadians first and Quebecers second — it's just a matter of the federal government playing French Canada off against English," replied Scott, trying to ignore the question.

"If so, then why do you and your party demand 'special status' for it?" persisted Trudeau.

"There are too many interruptions," parried Scott, "and my experience is they come from Union MPs who sit on their brains to keep them warm."

"Just answer the question," insisted Trudeau, "and tell us why, if Quebec is no different, the NDP moved an amendment to the constitution to give it 'special status.'"

"You're trying to divert me," complained Scott, "and that's neither appropriate, reasonable nor fair."

But he didn't answer — he couldn't — and no New Democrat has since.

Which left Pierre Elliott Trudeau the triumphant victor in his first — and just about only — clash in the Commons.

Others, many others, much fiercer, face him now. How will he make out?

First Election Since Redistribution

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP) — Some 500 tons of electoral machinery are poised in a new, streamlined office building and warehouse for the June 25 federal election under direction of Canada's chief electoral officer, Jean-Marc Hamel.

Mr. Hamel and his staff of 21, their move to the new quarters from a scattering of east-end locations just completed in late March, were set to swing into action with Prime Minister Trudeau's announcement Tuesday.

It took the movers six days, to put the final touches to the modernization of the federal election machine by assembling the facilities into the new $2,548,000 building on Coventry Road.

Now the 165,000 special black pencils for marking ballots, the 60 of heavy ballot paper and the bushels of instructions, maps and forms for district officers in 264 ridings are being shipped across the country.

The June 25 election will be Canada's first since a major redistribution of the electoral map in 1966 reduced the over-all total of parliamentary seats from 265 to 264.

It also will be the first for Mr. Hamel as chief electoral officer. He took over in 1966 from Nelson Castonguay, now representation commissioner occupied with a study of a permanent voters list, who had supervised federal elections since 1953.

The move to the new quarters was completed two weeks before the Liberal leadership convention April 4-6.

The late winter and early spring have always been a sensitive period for Mr. Hamel's office since Canadian elections most often have been held in June, with the date set a couple of months before.

The intricate process of preparing for a general election in which 11,264,000 will be eligible to vote means constant readiness. And even before Mr. Trudeau was sworn in last weekend, Mr. Hamel and his office went into a "red alert" stage.

Just before 3 p.m. Tuesday, the suspense ended.

Hospital Decor in Spotlight

Buffalo Evening News

A hospital should be a warm and friendly place, designed with more consideration for patients' emotional needs.

Why, for example, can't windows extend to the floor to afford bed-ridden patients a view of a central garden or terrace?

Why can't cavernous corridors be broken up with courtyards or other vistas? Or why can't interior decorators come up with some paint and design variations that lift the spirit?

Federal Election

Ontario and Quebec Key to Liberal and PC Fortunes

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — For the Conservatives, the key to a workable arithmetic of the June 25 elections adds up to this:

The Liberals need gain only one Commons seat to gain a bare majority.

For the same goal, the Conservatives must gain 37.

Commons standing at dissolution Tuesday was: Liberals 128, Conservatives 94, NDP 22, Creditistes 8, Social Credit 4, Independent 2, Independent-Conservative 1, vacant 6 — total 265.

Four of those vacant seats were held by Liberals, one by a Conservative and one by an independent.

Barring any changes, this would give the Liberals 132 seats and the Conservatives 96, including the Independent Conservative.

The new Commons will have 264 seats. A bare majority would be 133, including the Speaker, leaving 131 for the combined opposition.

Prime Minister Trudeau called the election obviously with the expectation of obtaining a solid majority.

Liberal strategists are not going so far as to predict a sweep such as Conservative Prime Minister Diefenbaker achieved in 1958.

Their claims at the moment are much more modest. They also concede that some unforseen event during the campaign could throw out all their calculations.

Mathematicians in both the major camps see the situation this way as of now:

Few significant shifts can be expected in the east or west, especially if Mr. Diefenbaker helps Mr. Stanfield to hold the prairies.

Thus Ontario and Quebec hold the key to the outcome.

Mr. Trudeau will try to hold his Quebec support and add to it. Mr. Stanfield will do the same in Ontario.

Furthermore when students are preparing themselves to lead an intellectually mature life we may hope to have in fact the freedoms and rights we are gratfied in theory.

Letter to the Editor

The Student in Society

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I feel obliged to reply to the letters of Mr. Rickard and Mr. Williams printed on April 16.

All students are a part of this society because we are subject to its moral and legal code.

Students attending high schools are further affected by a set of written rules restricting self-determination which is the basic right inherent in democracy. When I have to "earn" and am "granted" freedoms affecting this right I cannot be living in democracy.

The Ontario education system gives training which is indispensable when applying for a job. Since a job is necessary for existence, and a privilege consists of that which is unnecessary for existence, therefore the school's training is a right.

However, Mr. Rickard is correct in saying that education is a "privilege" because only rarely is a high school student training the mind and not the memory. Those who are learning to think usually fail.

Furthermore when students are preparing themselves to lead an intellectually mature life we may hope to have in fact the freedoms and rights we are gratfied in theory.

P. G. BRICKWOOD.

It was finally decided that the mayor be authorized to make an offer considered just and equitable in the matter of the purchase of the bridge.

38 Canadian Bishops to Go To Lambeth

TORONTO (CP) — Most Rev. Howard H. Clark, the primate, will head a delegation of 38 bishops of the Anglican Church of Canada to the 10th Lambeth Conference in London this summer. The assembly of bishops of the worldwide Anglican communion, called normally every 10 years by the Archbishop of Canterbury, is expected to be one of the most important in the church's history.

The deliberations of more than 700 prelates representing the communion's 19 national independent churches will come under close scrutiny at a time when the church seeks to provide vital and creative leadership for its mission to the world. The course charted by the hierarchy in July may also spur the drive toward Christian unity as Anglicanism, holding both Catholic and reformed traditions, occupies a central position in the ecumenical movement.

The Lambeth Conference is not a legislative body but a forum for episcopal consideration of matters affecting the 47,000,000-member communion and society in general. Its resolutions have never been regarded as synodical decrees, but they have become increasingly important both inside and outside the communion.

Held in 1867, the first Lambeth Conference was the direct outcome of representations made by Canadian bishops to Most Rev. C. T. Longley, Archbishop of Canterbury. Concerned over a legal decision by the Privy Council which declared heresy proceedings against a South African bishop null and void, the Canadians feared colonial Anglican churches would be allowed to drift into isolation.

Archbishop Longley said they had no desire to "assume the functions of all the churches in full communion with the Church of England," but merely to "discuss matters of practical interest, and pronounce what we deem expedient in resolutions which may serve as guides to future action."

His words formed the pattern of the Anglican communion which emerged on the principle of regional autonomy within a fellowship linked to the See of Canterbury and maintaining the Holy Scriptures, the ancient creeds, the sacraments of baptism and holy communion, and the historic episcopate.

During the century that has elapsed, the Anglican communion has cast aside much of its introspective concern with theological disputes and structural squabbles and expressed its attitude and outlook as a world body. But its policy of spiritual unity in diversity has been criticized in quarters where the need is felt for corporate unity and a planned over-all strategy in mission.

The forthcoming Lambeth assembly has been called a New Look conference by Rt. Rev. Ralph S. Dean, Bishop of Cariboo and executive officer for the Anglican communion, who had a good deal to do with its organization.

Its theme will be The Renewal of the Church. This will be dealt with under three main headings, faith, ministry and unity. The sections will be considered under a variety of sub-titles such as the nature of theological language, the debate about God, the psychology of faith, the technological society, international morality, urbanization and the metropolis, laymen in society, women and the priesthood, the papacy and the episcopate, relations with other churches and the role of the Anglican communion in the families of Christendom.

Because of the increased number of participants—there were 310 in 1958—the conference will be held in Church House, Westminster, instead of Lambeth Palace, the residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury. For the first time coadjutor, suffragan and assistant bishops have been invited. Instead of the normal six-week or three-week session, this year's sessions will be held from July 25 to Aug. 25.

Full-time observers from many denominations including the Roman Catholic Church will attend and they will be present at all plenary sessions. Another innovation will be the presence of consultants whose specialized skills and knowledge will be available to the bishops.

Nuns Quit Convent But Not the Cause

NEW YORK (AP)-Former nuns today make up a widely-spread, diversified corps on the religious fronts of the United States. They've left the convent, but not the cause.

Taking a fresh, freer approach to it, they've formed "new communities" of Christian work outside jurisdiction of their former orders. They still observe basic vows of commitment, but set their own styles for carrying it out.

"We felt that we were too restricted . . . that the rules of the order kept us from being flexible enough," says Brutelle Marie Cirillo, one of three former Glenmary nuns at remote Clairfield, Tenn., working among the poor.

A growing number of these experimental groups—composed of women who have quit officially authorized Roman Catholic communities —have cropped up in areas across the U.S.

Out of them may evolve "a very new form of life of religious dedication" which eventually may get formal church sanction, says a Roman Catholic sociologist, Rev. Andrew M. Greeley of the University of Chicago.

A broadly inclusive, closeup picture of the phenomenon has been put together by an archdiocesan weekly, the St. Louis Review, in a series by Sally Thran, who toured several citing gathering details.

In the last two years, she found, such "new communities" have developed in Illinois, Colorado, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Texas, Wisconsin, the Virginias and elsewhere.

Participants have abandoned their canonical status, shed traditional garb and dropped most personal relations of uniformity in that they're still firmly loyal to the church and maintain close communal ties of devotional life.

Generally, they don't use the "sister" form of address as yore—although folks in their neighborhoods often use it.

"A stress on flexible structure, a concern for individual development, a belief in community life and service to society are convictions common to all the groups," the report sums up.

It says they represent a "counterpart to the reform" now going on to varying degrees in regular orders—but which in many cases was considered too little or too slow by those who let to chart their independent course.

Their new approach to community living and service "is much broader now—it embraces our neighbors, our married friends, our cities," says Fay Sanders, one of 24 former Daughters of the Cross now living in apartments in Milwaukee.

They're pursuing assorted projects—school teaching, handling parish religious classes, working among the poor—and they meet regularly for joint devotions and discussion.

The report describes other lively bands working together in Chicago, Oklahoma City and Pueblo, Colo., and mentions several others functioning elsewhere. Typically, there is close co-operation with the area bishop.

An objective is to develop a way of "religious dedication within the context of the natural rhythm of modern life," says Sister Judith Tait, one of six ex-Benedictine nuns who set up a new group, the "Sisters for Christian Service." Unlike similar groups, they still use the designation "sister."

They do teaching work, four of them living together in a Negro section of Oklahoma City.

The former nuns pray and sing at mealtimes, and meet for weekly liturgical celebrations. Like most of the other groups, they pool earnings to meet expenses.

Judy Opens Sculpture Exhibit

OTTAWA (CP) — All it takes is Judy LaMarsh to cut the ice at those usually ultra-polite National Gallery openings.

In what may have been her last appearance on the Ottawa scene after her resignation as state secretary three weeks ago, she officially opened the mammoth International Sculpture of the Sixties exhibition at the gallery Thursday.

Wearing a gold lame coat and dress with matching shoes and iridescent stockings, she displayed her almost legendary brand of candid comment and down-to-earth humor.

Gallery director, Miss Jean Sutherland Boggs said after a brief introduction in French:

"It is very hard to say even in English how much Miss LaMarsh has meant to the arts in Canada and to the National Gallery."

Stepping up to the microphone, Miss LaMarsh said, "I don't really feel anyone should introduce me with nostalgia—I'm not dead."

Poking fun at her less than sylph-like figure, she said she did not know why she had been invited until she heard that "it was the heaviest show we ever had—about 30 tons."

Her closing remarks were a bit of advice for Miss Boggs. If the attractive director wanted a bigger budget for the gallery she should "spend every afternoon on Parliament Hill and dash for a kiss here and there."

Women's Bowling Group Ends Season with Party

The Wednesday afternoon Rebekah Bowling League concluded the season with a fun party in the afternoon and dinner and banquet in the evening of April 17.

The bowling, compliments of Bill Bateman proprietor of the Bowl-O-Drome was enjoyed and a number of prizes were awarded. At 6.30 in the evening the league reassembled for a roast beef dinner at Holloway Street United Church, with the UCW as caterer.

The tables were decorated with flower arrangements donated by Ellen Anderson. Head table guests were Noble Grand Lillian Summers; vice Grand Nora MacDonald of the Rebekah Lodge; scrutineer, Gladys Brickman; Marguerite Wessels, president of the league; Maud Craig, vice-president; Doris Clark, secretary, and Bettie Anderson, treasurer.

President of the league, Marguerite Wessels awarded the various prizes to the winners as follows: high average, Anna Webb; high triple, Edna Ironside; high single, Edna White; most improved bowler Ethel Short, and low bowler, Tina Philp.

Two teams tied for first place standing and these included the Coasters with Bettie Anderson as captain with Ethel Ostrom, Ila Clark, Martha Norris, Evelyn Elgie, and the other team, the Lucky Five with Anna Webb as captain and others Florence Polmateer, Doris Clark, Jean Kolver.

The new slate of officers was presented as follows: president, Marguerite Wessels; vice - president, Eva Lodge, secretary, Doris Clark and treasurer Bettie Anderson.

Following the election, a number of draw prizes were awarded and the league president expressed appreciation to the executive for their help.

The remainder of the evening was spent playing euchre with winners: first, Jean Fitzgibbon; lone hand, Clara Ironside, and low, Florence Smith.

Couple Marks 25th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wessels, 71 Lewis St., entertained at a surprise 25th wedding anniversary party for Mrs. Wessels' brother, William Bassett and Mrs. Bassett, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Bassett live in Kitchener and have one son, Brian. Mr. Bassett attended Madoc schools until he began work with the Hydro, with whom he is still employed. The couple was married on May 10, 1943.

Malcolm Bassett, Peterborough, was master of ceremonies at the party and the evening was spent in singing, games, and readings. A banquet was served to about 20 guests, relatives of the couple. Mrs. Bassett cut the anniversary cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Bassett spent the weekend with the Wessels and returned to Kitchener Monday.

Report Says Image of Nun Must Change

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Nuns must be allowed to mature as people, a report on priests and the pastoral ministry says.

The report will be presented Saturday at a meeting of Synod II of the Roman Catholic Diocese of London, meeting in Windsor. "Sisters are revered, sheltered, protected, and in general considered the quasi-angelic beings who must not be exposed to the contamination of the world," the report says.

The commission quotes a passage written by Rev. Eugene Kennedy on the common attitude toward nuns:

The sister is prized by a paternalistic and prospering Catholic society as a little girl, innocent and virginal, pious and obedient, sacrificing silently, just human enough for the mindless caricatures of a dozen motion pictures. "...But the subtle admonitions remain: Be a child and do not grow to be a fully grown woman; take care of our children and teach them their prayers; grow weary, grow old, but don't grow up."

Club Activities

GAMMA MU CHAPTER

Two recent meetings of Gamma Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority were held at the home of Mrs. George Wishart and Mrs. Donald Denon, respectively.

Members were reminded of the Area Convention in Sarnia on June 7, 8 and 9.

The annual Founder's Day Banquet convened by all Belleville Chapters will be held at the Shrine Club on April 29th. The guest speaker will be Mr. J. K. Bradford of Loyalist College.

The chapter's gift of an aquarium stocked with fish, plants, etc., is to be delivered to the Geriatric Ward of the Belleville General Hospital in September.

A program entitled "Love's Miracle in Marriage" was presented by Mrs. George Bailey. She introduced the speaker, Rev. Walter Von Boetticher, who gave a thought provoking talk on both the cynical and realistic approaches to marriage, and listed and explained many of the characteristics by which blind marriages together.

At the second meeting the program "Enjoyment of Music" was presented by Mrs. Lorne Schnell and Mrs. Bill Stead. A short history of music illustrated with short portions of recordings was given.

Following this program a successful auction sale was held.

WHITE CANE CLUB

The April meeting of the White Cane Club was held at the recreation centre with 20 in attendance, and the president, Clarence Morris in the chair.

Clarence Morris will be the delegate from Belleville to the Provincial conference in Hamilton April 29.

Mrs. Marjorie McGriffin Wood of Vancouver has been selected to receive the Canadian Council of the Blind award of merit for 1968.

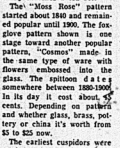
Mrs. Wood, who has been deaf-blind since early childhood, founded Dots and Taps, Canada's first and only magazine for the deaf-blind. She was also responsible for the formation of the Canadian League of the Deaf-Blind.

An accompanying fund of Lake Joseph Holiday Centre, Mactier. About 470 vacationers attended Lake Joe in the 1967 season.

The 320 Lions clubs of district A, Ontario, handed over their final payment on the $350,000 pledge to the building fund for Lake Joseph.

The Belleville Lions Club has been responsible for sending several White Cane members to Lake Joseph for a holiday. They also provide transportation.

SOCIALS



ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lark announce the engagement of their daughter, Donna Margaret, to Lorenzo Guerrera, son of Mr. Antonio Guerrera, Calabria, Italy, and the late Mrs. Guerrera. The marriage will take place May 20, 1968, at 3.30 p.m. in Holloway St. United Church, Belleville.

Milk Glass Cuspidor Decorated with Foxglove

The fragile milk glass, vase-like object decorated with foxglove is a lowly cuspidor. It shows a feminine touch in a wholly masculine habit. The pattern is one of the endless floral variants on that popular Victorian pattern "The Rose". And the spittoon actually matches a tea set!

The "Rose Bowl" pattern started about 1840 and remained popular until 1900. The foxglove pattern shown is one stage toward another popular pattern, "Cosmos" made in the same type of ware with flowers embossed into the glass. The spittoon dates somewhere between 1880-1900. In its day it cost about 75 cents. Depending on pattern and whether glass, brass, pottery or china it's worth from $5 to $25 now.

The earliest cuspidors were used by the Royal Navy. Thomas Forrest, a navigator, first mentions them in 1779, when recounting a trip to New Guinea. The first model was brass, was passed around on a tray and held in the hand. The habit of chewing tobacco, encouraged by the Navy, caught on quickly. "Plugs" were soaked in issue rum, sewn into pieces of tarred canvas and left to mature for a couple of months — or as long as chewer owner, could leave it alone.

One chew of the mixture produced near anaesthesia. For a time it was considered a panacea and used to relieve all sorts of ailments particularly toothache. Sailors settling in Canada after the War of 1812 adopted the Indian habit of growing their own tobacco and using it as an item of trade. Spitkids appeared a squarish, trough - like wooden convenience, not exactly government issue but found in every Post Office or governmental building.

By 1840 the word "spittoon" had entered the language from the United States. In 1841, Dickens has Barnaby Rudge allow that he is "not at all particular on the subject of spittoons." ·

By the end of the century, chewing tobacco in public was not socially acceptable. Most cities passed ordinances which still linger in public buildings and street-cars. Any English-speaking Canadian who ever rode a train can translate "defence de cracher". Spittoons were removed from public places to linger on barrooms and poolhalls till eventually the ashtray took over.

Spittoons were made of every conceivable material. Disposable glass ones, produced by the thousands, have all disappeared. The wooden government variety was treated with lime and if it was a bit thought to be a plasterer's trough. Granite ware or enamel is not a collector's item yet, but Rockingham or Bennington pottery spittoons are valuable. They originally cost about a nickel. Brass, glass and china are now valuable, depending on pattern and the whim of the buyer.

ST. MARK'S A.C.W.

DESERONTO — The rector of St. Mark's Church Rev. A. F. Dowdell, conducted the devotional period of the meeting of the evening branch of the A.C.W. last week. The Easter message was the theme. Mrs. Robert Tucker, the president, was in the chair.

Minutes of the previous meeting, read by Mrs. John Punch, and the financial report, given by Mrs. C. A. Sergeant, were accepted.

Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. Dowdell brought up the question of visiting the Quinte Beach Nursing Home. Not long ago several members had paid a visit at the same time taking treats and singing to entertain the residents. Mrs. Dowdell and Mrs. Tucker reported that they had since made several visits alone, and that they believed these were more satisfactory, as frequent individual visitors would break the monotony more effectively, if the visits were frequent enough. It was agreed to adopt this plan.

Mrs. Tucker drew the attention to the first annual meeting of the Anglican Church Women in the Diocese of Ontario, to be held early in May in Christ Church in Belleville. She outlined the program and mentioned the speakers, Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. William Wather were named as voting delegates. Plans were made for a bake sale to be held the morning of May 18 in the Lucky Strike Bowling Lones. As the lanes are open to bowlers at two o'clock, the sale must be over by then.

A social hour was enjoyed, with Mrs. Charles ray and Mrs. Jack Spence as hostesses.

WOMEN PRAISED

VANCOUVER (CP) — The head that rocks the cradle is also adept at manipulating a stock portfolio, says Jack Van Luven, president of the Vancouver Stock Exchange. Women, he said, hold a major portion of Canadian equities and "many manage their portfolios very well indeed."

UCW Meetings

TABERNACLE UCW

Tabernacle United Church Women held their April meeting in the church auditorium with Mrs. E. Cornish presiding.

It was announced that a speaker would address the next general meeting on the topic of the welfare council and show a film.

Unit 3 under the direction of Mrs. E. Lott presented a play on packing the home missionary bale years ago. Those taking part were Mrs. M. LaRue, Mrs. B. Stenson, Mrs. J. Wannsley, Mrs. D. Pickle, Mrs. E. Grills, Mrs. B. Moreau, Mrs. L. Wright and Mrs. E. Houston.

Mrs. J. Aitcheson described the method of packing bales today and the need for bales.

Mrs. J. Aitcheson, Mrs. G. Stanton and Mrs. E. Fennell gave the devotional. Mrs. C. Templer played the piano for hymns.

ST. ANNE'S CWL

St. Anne's Parish Council held its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Mary Simmons, at Mrs. Agnes Whalen presiding.

The new executive members are: president, Mrs. Agnes Whalen; 1st vice-president, Pearl Geneereaus; 2nd vice-president, Grace Crocker; spiritual advisor, Father Dowd.

Spittoons were removed from public places to linger on barrooms and poolhalls till eventually the ashtray took over.

Spittoons were made of every conceivable material. Disposable glass ones, produced by the thousands, have all disappeared. The wooden government variety was treated with lime and if it was a bit thought to be a plasterer's trough. LETTERS FROM LAOS

"What a beautiful, beautiful place!" — Patty Gibbon.

* * *

"At last I have arrived at Houie Sai. It took me 12 days to get here which I heartily regret. This must be heaven. It is without doubt the most beautiful place I have ever been," enthusiastically writes Patty Gibbon, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Gibbon and the late Mr. Gibbon of 193 MacDonald Avenue. An air hostess for Air Canada Airlines, Patty is on a three-month leave of absence from her air duties, as a volunteer worker with Medico Branch of the Doocy Foundation in Laos.

"Getting here was an experience and a half," continues Patty, writing March 17th. "Someone came rushing into the house at Vientiane at seven in the morning and said, 'We can get you on the flight this morning,' whereupon everyone jumped up, started packing and tearing around.

"There were cartons and cartons of supplies to come with us. Food and medical supplies, and I'm telling you that was one furious half hour. We got to the airfield, rode out to the AC on a truck, and after the cargo was loaded, climbed in. All in all there were about 14 passengers.

We sat on webbing all around the sides of the AC with the cargo loaded up in the middle. There was no room to stretch your legs and we were all hunched up the entire one and a half hours. We were carrying some sort of machine which was right in front of me, and as soon as we gained some altitude, all the gasoline that was laying in the pump hose spewed out the top of the hose, down my dress and all over my legs. It just poured out.

One of the passengers was smoking and I was yelling over the noise of the engines about the gas. I tell you, I had quite a fright. Anyway, they opened the cargo door and we flew with some nice fresh air coming in for a while. After about ten minutes it got quite cold, so they closed the door and I sat breathing the gas fumes the rest of the way.

It was really worth it just to get here, though. What a beautiful, beautiful place. The house is high on a hill and no matter where you look, you look down on a lush valley and to the east is the river drifting lazily by. The house here is just gorgeous! It is brand new, and in fact we are having a house warming tomorrow night. It is much like a cottage in northern Ontario. If you pictured a large cottage entirely constructed of redwood, with a large open verandah overlooking the valley, you would have a good idea of my home for the next three months.

The administrator here is a young Filipino doctor and very nice. The doctor's wife, Josie will be going home soon to have a baby. There is a U.S. nurse, Jennifer, very young, very excitable, but I guess very capable; an American Lab Technician, a quiet girl named Ginger and me. I like them all and feel I will be very content here.

Yesterday, I went for a long walk through the village. It is just lovely, built entirely of little wooden houses with the straw matting for walls and thatched roofs. If they ever had a fire, I would hate to think what would happen, but it is really charming, peaceful and friendly.

As I walked down the dirt road, past every little house all the children down to the ones that can barely walk, come running and call 'heyo' which is the Lao version of 'hello'. They just can't get their tongues around the L.s. They take hold of your hands and then proceed to say 'heyo' 'bye bye' and 'candy'! They just look darling in their little 'sinhs' (skirts) even the tiniest little tot wears them and they wear a perpetual smile. All big dark eyes, bright teeth and gold earrings!"

Tomorrow, I will start my lessons. We have a room in the local school, also some students at the Catholic Mission, and several private students. Sheila, the girl I am living over from, leaves the day after tomorrow, so I'll have to fit all my briefing into two days and just take it from there, I guess."

(To be continued).

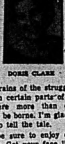
UCW Meetings
CENTENARY UCW

The April meeting of Centenary UCW was held at the home of Mrs. P. Ray with 12 in attendance. The president opened the meeting after which she read a poem on Easter.

Several items of business were discussed, one of these was the election at a banquet.

Mrs. L. Pearson introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Campoy of Trenton, vice-president of the district UCW who gave an inspiring address on the theme "Helping Others." Mrs. R. Ray expressed thanks to the speaker.



An Easter devotional was conducted by Mrs. B. Harder who was assisted by Mrs. A. Hitchon. Mrs. L. Pearson favored with an appropriate solo.

Mrs. P. Sutherland and Mrs. E. Hart assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

Concentration Camp Caused Early Wrinkles

By DORIS CLARK

DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Could you please send me the name and address of a doctor who does plastic surgery? I have so many wrinkles on my face. Ladies 15 years older than me have less wrinkles than I have. I heard that some ladies get their faces lifted.

I went through an awful lot the second world war, so I lost our home; I was one year in concentration camp; and for a few years in Canada I worked hard and had a bad time. Now, when I could enjoy my life, I look old but just in the face. — Not As Old As I Look.

Dear Not Old: Your doctor is the one to tell you about plastic surgery, and where you are and to send you to one if he thinks it is a good idea.

The war added many years to the looks of people like you. The strains of the struggle to exist in certain parts of Europe were more than ought ever to be borne. I'm glad you lived to tell the tale.

Do be sure to enjoy every minute. Get your face lifted? Yes, if you like. Yet remember that a cheery outlook can give youthful contours to any face. Now that your stresses are over think about giving joy where you are.

It will boomerang right back to you, and that's for sure.

Dear Doris: When sending a wedding invitation to a single girl and a boy friend, I would imagine it would be addressed to "Miss Mary Smith" on the outside envelope, and "Miss Mary Smith and escort" on the inside envelope. Is this correct?

What is the correct wording when sent to a single man to include a girl friend? — Uncertain.

Dear Uncertain: Weddings are too important for any casual type wording. To say "and escort" sounds too much as if you are saying "Come and bring a friend" — just any old person. Unless the couple is married, each should get a separate invitation.

In the case of the young man who is to be entertained to bring a girl, it would be better to follow up his engraved invitation with a phone call. Ask him for the name of the young lady and her address, then send her a special invitation through the mail.

Dear Doris: Could you please tell me what to do about a flirt? I have a friend who is constantly tormenting me and will not leave any boys I find alone. She's plain jealous. — Fourteen.

Dear Fourteen: Relax and ask yourself why it jealousy of whom. There are plenty of fish in the sea; and you have loads of time to improve your bait and have a good share of the catch.

Ann Landers
Fellow Wants Info Re His Obligations

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Girls often have asked you this question, but I can't recall that a fellow has ever written in about it. Please help me.

When I was a senior in high school the girl I was going steady with became pregnant. I was in no position to get married, and even if I had been I would not have picked that girl. She knew it and did not try to force the issue.

The girl had her baby and put it up for adoption. Two years later she married a nice young fellow and they are getting along fine so far as I know.

I am a senior in college now and have been going with a wonderful girl. We plan to marry after graduation in June. I have never asked questions about her love life and I am hoping she will not ask questions about mine.

You have always counselled girls to keep their mouths shut about their past indiscretions. Does this go for fellows as well? — NEBRASKA QUESTIONER.

DEAR NEB: There is an important distinction between "indiscretions" and live babies. I have said a girl does not owe her future a sure cure listing the names and numbers of the previous players. The same holds true for the fellow. An out-of-wedlock child, however, is something else and should not be kept a secret.

* * *

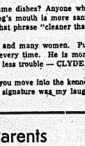
DEAR ANN LANDERS: This may sound like a dumb question but I need an answer.

When a person is served stewed prunes what is he supposed to do with the pits?

I always thought it was proper to spit the pits into the spoon and leave them on the plate. I did this recently at a breakfast and got some very dirty looks. What's the word, Ann? — BAFFLED.

DEAR BAFFLED: I can't imagine what else you'd do with prune pits but put them on the plate. This should be done as quietly as possible. When a pit hits fine china or thin crystal it makes a plinging sound which creates attention. May be that is your problem.

* * *



DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to comment on the letter signed "I'll Be Dogoned." I hope the man doesn't listen to you because if he sacrifices his dog for that crazy girl he will live to regret it. You said, "It shouldn't happen to a dog." I say it shouldn't happen to man.

So what if the dog eats off the same dishes? Anyone who knows anything will tell you that a dog's mouth is more sanitary than a human's. You remember that phrase "cleaner than a hound's tooth?"

I have had many dogs in my life and many women. Put them side by side and the dog wins every time. He is more honest, more faithful, more loving and less trouble — CLYDE.

DEAR CLYDE: So why don't you move into the kennel and call it a day? Your paw-print signature was my laugh for the day. Thanks for writing.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Recipe for Foolproof Cheesecake

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: In the past I have found much help from your column and many of the recipes are now "standard equipment" in my kitchen. Lately I have been trying out recipes for different cheesecakes and found one which the family and I like very much. That is, we like the flavor, but it has the discouraging habit of falling flat when it cools in the oven. I do not think you could tell me what I do wrong or perhaps you have a foolproof recipe similar to this one containing cottage cheese as we find the cream cheese type a bit too rich and expensive. — Mrs. Van. DeW.

ANSWER: Here is a foolproof cheesecake but it is not made in the blender.

CHEESECAKE (using cottage cheese) (repeated from July 59)

Crust:

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

Old-Fashioned Split Pea Soup (see Mon.); Deviled Sweetbreads; Potato - Spinach Nests; Banana Cocoanut Cream; Tea.

5 to 6 oz. package Zwieback
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup melted butter.

Filling:
3 eggs, yolks and whites separated
1 cup sugar
¼ cup all-purpose flour
1½ pounds cottage cheese
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind
½ pint whipping cream
To Make Crust grease an 8" tube pan with soft butter. Roll zwieback into very fine crumbs — there should be 2 cups. Mix crumbs with remaining crust ingredients thoroughly, and with fingers pat uniformly over bottom and up sides of pan to form a thin crust. Chill while mixing filling.

To Make Filling beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Sift sugar and flour together, add to beaten yolks and mix well. Rub cheese through a sieve into yolk mixture, then beat well. Stir in vanilla and lemon rind. Whip cream until stiff and lightly fold into cheese mixture, then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn mixture into crumb-lined pan. Bake 1¼ hours at 300 deg. Farh. Remove to cake rack to cool. Makes 8 generous servings. Keep leftover cheesecake refrigerated. Delicious sliced cold on second day.

Contact Club Honors Pastor Before Leaving for Kingston

Members of the Contact Club of Christ Church met for their regular meeting on Friday evening with president Lillian Middleton in charge.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read by secretary, Laura Stafford, and Edith Pringle, treasurer, gave a financial report.

President Middleton reported that a donation had been received from the WA to assist Contact Club with expenses connected with the Family Life Department. It was at this time brought to the attention of the members that a social evening for Family Life Dept. members will be held some time in May. Plans for this event will be finalized at a late date.

Irene Weatherston gave a favorable report on the progress of the confirmation reception.

Following a brief discussion it was unanimously agreed that casseroles and jellos be served at the luncheon on May 8 for the delegates attending the Annual Anglican Church Women's meeting.

Immediately following the adjournment of the business meeting Canon D. R. Wright and Rev. A. Lauder joined the group. At this time Lillian Middleton on behalf of the Contact Club presented Mr. Lauder with a going away gift, for which he expressed thanks.

Mr. Lauder is leaving soon for Kingston where he will be assistant to the dean at St. George's Cathedral, Kingston and the balance of the evening was in the form of a "gag" shower.

To the surprise of the guest of honor, a gaily decorated hamper overflowing with gaily wrapped parcels was presented to him.

The recipient thanked the members for their thoughtfulness and expressed pleasure for such an enjoyable evening.

Refreshments were served by Betty Guthrie and Iris Foster assisted by Joan Miller and Laura Stafford.

Opposition MLAs Say Tenants Won't Benefit From Rebates

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition members of the legislature Friday predicted that most tenants in the province won't benefit from the government's proposed shelter exemption grants that will reduce homeowners' property tax bills by $45 to $60 a year.

However, legislation providing for the grants was assured unanimous approval in principle when opposition spokesmen agreed the bill is better than nothing.

Vernon Singer (L—Toronto Downsview) and Fred Young (NDP—Toronto Yorkview) both argued that the grants were inferior to an assumption by the province of a greater share of education costs.

Mr. Singer said the "patch-work bill" was simply an attempt by the government to implement an election promise. The bill proposes that the grant be made in the form of a credit equal to the first $2,000 of provincially-equalized assessment on any property.

He said the grants will do little to spread the burden of taxation more equitably. "It's just a surface nibbling at the more serious problem."

He suggested the government will wait until the next provincial election before implementing more fundamental changes in the tax structure recommended by the Smith committee on taxation.

However, he conceded that the government was to spend $150,000,000 on reducing property taxes "and to that extent it's good."

Mr. Singer disputes claims by Premier Robarts and Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough that tenants will be able to force landlords to give them the rebates.

"There is no real way this benefit can be passed on to the tenants," he said. "There is nothing in the act that will prevent a landlord simply raising the rent."

Mr. Young suggested that because of the new grants system municipalities will be encouraged to increase mill rates. "Taxes are bound to go up," he said.

Full Tax Aid Expected For Separate Schools

TORONTO (CP) — A senior official of the Ontario Separate School Trustees' Association predicted Friday full tax support for separate schools will win favor with the provincial government within a year.

Dr. J. W. Fyfe, a member of the Sudbury separate school board and a former OSSTA president, said his experience in the association and talks with the Ontario government has convinced him the province eventually would approve total tax support.

"As a matter of fact, I feel that within a year this problem will receive adequate consideration," he told the association's annual meeting.

At present, Grades 1 to 8 in separate schools get full provincial support, Grades 9 and 10 limited grants and Grades 11, 12 and 13 no support. The taxes paid by Roman Catholic school supporters go to the public system after Grade 8.

B. E. Nelligan, a member of the Toronto separate school board, said full support was a necessary corollary of a proposed consolidation of local separate school boards into regional units.

Such a consolidation already has been approved by the province, Education Minister William Davis told the opening session of the two-day conference Thursday. Mr. Davis said equalization of educational opportunity was a main objective of the consolidation plan.

Michael Parrent, chairman of the Welland separate school board, said it was time to "stop pussyfooting around" on the question of full tax support. He asked J. R. McCarthy, deputy education minister, whether the consolidation plan was not in fact a prelude to the eventual amalgamation of the public and Roman Catholic school systems.

"Absolutely no," Dr. McCarthy replied.

The conference then passed a resolution supporting the consolidation plan, after rejecting a resolution making approval conditional on provincial agreement to full support for a comprehensive Roman Catholic schooling system.

Drapeau Sticks with Lottery Although Legality Questioned

MONTREAL (CP)—Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal, undaunted by mounting attacks from authoritative sources on the legality of his city's voluntary tax plan, says he will go ahead with the controversial lottery-style scheme, first of its kind in Canada to be run by a municipality.

Under the scheme any voluntary contributor of $2 to Montreal's treasury is eligible for a monthly draw with prizes totaling $150,000, of which $100,000 is the first prize.

The city has already mailed 1,770,000 "voluntary tax" letters throughout Ontario and plans to send more. It also expects to solicit contributions through newspaper advertisements in Canada and the United States and is to begin mailing forms to Montrealers themselves at the end of this month.

But the tax system, expected to raise $28,000,000 for the city coffers, appeared Friday to be running into legal snags both in Canada and the U.S.

Justice Minister Jean-Jacques Bertrand, in a statement issued in Quebec City Friday night, described the scheme as illegal and a contravention of the federal Criminal Code.

However, Mayor Drapeau said in Montreal he has "no comment to make on legal opinions relevant to the voluntary tax" and that the city will proceed with the promotion of the scheme "as planned."

Earlier Friday, a U.S. postal official said in Washington any American participants in the scheme would face jail terms of up to five years and fines up to $5,000 because the tax plan, if it started operating in the U.S., would fall into the same category as the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes."

Mr. Bertrand's statement said:

"According to the advice of the department's legal advisers the voluntary tax contributions plan would run counter to the regulations of the Criminal Code which prohibits lotteries."

A justice department spokesman said it has not been decided whether any action will be taken by the department to stop operation of the scheme.

While the Criminal Code is federal law, a justice department spokesman in Ottawa said prosecution under gaming provisions in the code is strictly a provincial responsibility.

A spokesman for the federal post office said no complaints about the scheme have yet been received; if any did come, they would be referred to the justice department.

And Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec, attending a dinner in Levis, Quebec., in honor of Jean-Marie Morin, minister without portfolio in the provincial cabinet, said only "we will see" in answer to reporters asking whether the Quebec government would take action.

The Bertrand statement, first official comment on the legality of the scheme by a member of the Canadian government, came after the justice department was asked for comment on the Washington reaction to the Montreal tax plan.

The U.S. post office official said the voluntary tax plan as proposed by Mayor Drapeau would be in violation of U.S. law, under which court action can be taken to apprehend and to return to Canada or to destroy mail found to be involved in promoting a lottery.

U.S. law would also prevent American newspapers from carrying any advertising about the scheme.

In Toronto, both Prof. Desmond Morton of Osgoode Hall Law School and John J. Robinette, a lawyer and acknowledged expert on newspaper law, have termed the Drapeau plan illegal.

Mr. Robinette, in an opinion written at the request of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association, says: "Section 179 of the Criminal Code everyone is guilty of an indictable offence and is liable to imprisonment of two years who makes, prints, advertises or publishes any proposal, scheme or plan for disposing in any way of any property by any mode of chance whatsoever."

A CDNPA spokesman in Toronto said a number of daily newspapers had rejected advertisements for the Montreal plan. One or two had said they would publish the ads, running almost half-page size and containing an application form for those wishing to participate.

Mr. Robinette in his opinion noted that the 151 monthly draw winners would be required to answer a question based on facts about Montreal either on the reverse side of each tax receipt.

"The sole question here is whether the requirements that a person answer the question introduces any such element of skill that it could be said that the disposal of the prize money is not based on chance alone. . . .

"There are decisions which hold that the selection of contestants by chance in order to entitle them to enter a real contest of skill does not make the scheme illegal. But the basic question is-is there a real element of skill involved or is the so-called requirement of skill a pure sham? In my opinion in the Montreal scheme it is a pure sham. . . ."

Seventeen Canadians Invested in Order

OTTAWA (CP) — Seventeen Canadians, including the top two executives of Expo 67, were invested as companions in the Order of Canada by Governor-General Michener Friday night.

Another 28 received the order's Medal of Service.

After the formal investiture, the new companions and medallists, resplendent in dress suits and evening gowns, were guests of the Governor-General at Mrs. Michener at a reception.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau was unable to get to the investiture, but he popped in for the reception.

Success of many kinds rubbed shoulders and exchanged smiles as the Order of Canada held its second investiture since its institution last July 1.

A large delegation was there to attest to the renown of Expo 67. Commissioner - General Pierre Dupuy, dean of the Canadian diplomatic corps, and his deputy commissioner, engineer Robert Shaw, became companions of the order.

Col. Edward Churchill, Expo's chief of construction and maintenance, Andrew Kniewasser, its general manager, Philippe de Gaspe Beaubien, its operations director, and Pierre de Bellefeuille, exhibits director, all were invested with the medal.

All Parties Support Aid for Crime Victims

TORONTO (CP) — A proposal that the government compensate innocent victims of crime won support from all three parties in the Ontario legislature Friday.

John White (PC—London South) said he hopes Attorney-General Arthur Wishart will "act soon" to extend the government's present plan which permits compensation of persons injured while assisting police.

Mr. Wishart announced Thursday that the partial compensation plan, provided for under legislation passed in 1967, was being implemented retroactive to April 1.

Resolutions by Leonard Braithwaite (L—Etobicoke) and Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough) calling for compensation of innocent victims of crime encountered no opposition, but under house rules did not come to a vote.

One Family Gets Lot of Rent

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Robarts tabled a list in the Ontario legislature Friday which showed more than a quarter of the shares leased in Metropolitan Toronto by the Liquor Control Board of Ontario are owned by one family.

The premier tabled the list of leased properties and their owners in answer to a question from Eddie Sargent (L—Grey-Bruce).

The list showed 11 stores, with a total annual rent of more than $120,000, are owned by four limited companies operated by realtor and builder Harry Davidson who died in March.

The four companies are Fern Holdings Ltd., S and R Holdings Ltd., Willard Developments Ltd., and Lawnview Investments Ltd.

Fern Developments also has a store in Galt, raising to $129,070 the total rent paid to the four companies by the board.

The board, a public corporation that pays profits to the provincial treasury, has 56 stores in Metrop. Thirteen are owned and 41 leased.

Poultice Applies Heat

Dear Dr. Molner: I'm just getting over another large boil on my nose. I am especially prone to infections there, and lucky if two months go by without a boil starting. —

A couple of weeks ago one started and I put hot compresses on but not soon enough to stop it. Then another started about a week later and away. My mother had me put a hot bread-and-milk poultice on it. This struck me as an old-fashioned remedy, but it softened the boil up a bit. Can a poultice really do any good?

I have a terrible habit of picking at anything on my face. Could that have anything to do with it?

Next time I get a boil should I go to a doctor? A few years ago I did, and he advised just hot compresses the minute I felt an infection coming on. It works if you get it in time.

I hope you can help me. I'll try to use an ounce of prevention. It's no fun being called Rudolph at school because of a big fat red cherry-like bulge on the end of your nose. — L. N.

You've asked some very sensible questions. Maybe I can help.

Boils are infections resulting when germs set up a pocket of infection in a part that happens to harbor them.

Boils around the face are potentially dangerous and should be treated carefully, vigorously, and immediately.

You found that your doctor's advice about hot compresses was sound. Keep on using it. The bread-and-milk poultice is messy, and its only advantage is that the bread and milk hold the heat a little longer. There is no magic by which it "draws out" the boil. Hot water compresses, changed often enough to keep them hot, are just as good.

The purpose of the hot compress is to let the heat help bring the boil "to a head." It speeds up nature's battle to surround and overcome the infection.

As a boil points up and begins to drain, be extra careful about keeping the area clean. Swab the surrounding area with cotton dipped in alcohol to prevent stray germs from finding another pore to infect. Crops of boils otherwise can spring up, or even be transferred (via your fingers) to other parts of the body. So keep that in mind — and keep it in mind whenever you are tempted to pick.

I hesitate to tell you to go to your doctor every time a boil sprouts since you have them so often. All the same, when one starts to get out of control antibiotics will help.

Taking a longer range view, your doctor might well advise a culture to see whether certain strains of staphylococcus ("staph") germs are there. These ornery germs are known to favor the nose as a roosting place and hence can start boils any time conditions happen to be suitable.

A course of antibiotics, chosen to suit the particular strain of germ, may end their unwelcome residence, or reduce them in number to an extent that will halt your repeated boils.

Dear Dr. Molner: Recently I had a hysterectomy after a diagnosis of cancer. I had taken birth control pills 2½ years prior to this. In your opinion does the pill have any connection with cancer or would I have developed this problem without the pill? Mrs. N. K.

I doubt that the pill had anything to do with it. With millions now using the pill (many of them for much longer than you took them) there is no sign that the users develop cancer any more frequently than non-users do.

He Hates Losing

Blair Says He's Producer, But He Shines as Actor

By MICHAEL BENNETT

ST. LOUIS (CP) — The middle-aged man in the yellow turtleneck sweater nervously straightened his green blazer and sat toying with his drink.

Wren Blair, coach, manager and resident psychologist of Minnesota North Stars, was undeniably the most colorful man in the room Friday—even before he opened his mouth.

"I've always related hockey to show business," he said.

"The general manager is the producer, the coach the director and the hockey players are the cast."

Blair has directed his team into the Stanley Cup semi-finals and the North Stars have a 2-1 lead over St. Louis Blues in the best-of-seven series.

WREN BLAIR

Blair is a former Oshawa milkman who turned out 13 championship clubs from Senior B to world amateur competition in 19 years and he still wants more.

"I have a chance at the Stanley Cup this year, but I may have to go back to junior hockey to win the Memorial," Blair said.

"We (Oshawa Generals) had a good shot at it in 1965-66, but when Orr (defenceman Bobby Orr now with Boston Bruins got hurt, Edmonton Oil Kings beat us."

Blair is still the same pugnacious competitor he was in 1949 when he operated a team in the Oshawa Mercantile League. He paces relentlessly behind the players' bench, yelling at everyone—players, officials and fans.

But Blair is more of an actor than he is a coach or director.

"I take bench penalties in games we are losing to get my players fired up for the next one," he said. "If they see me getting worked up over the game, maybe they will too."

Blair had five bench penalties this season, including one when a trainer's towel ended up on the ice.

"I alternately whip and pet my players," Blair explained, and his players seem to understand why.

"People see him yelling at us on the bench, but his main objective is to make us mad," said forward Jean-Paul Parise.

"The next time you go out on the ice you produce. Wren can't lose. He's miserable and he hates losing.

"We know what to expect when we don't put out, so we push a little harder. His job is to make us win."

The North Stars say Blair is never satisfied. If the team is ahead by two goals, he wants two more.

"I remember when I coached the Generals, a young defenceman came to see me at the end of the season," Blair recalled.

"This kid said I had given him more abuse than anyone else in his life, but he thanked me for making a hockey player out of him."

"I'll stand behind that bench and blast them when I feel it's needed because no professional wants to lose, I don't care who it is."

Blair's theatrics must work because no one can knock his success. He won the Allan Cup with the Whitby Dunlops senior team and the world amateur title with the same club in 1958. In 1962-63, he coached Kingston Frontenacs to the Eastern Professional Hockey League championship and there were other amateur league titles in between.

But there is another Wren Blair—the man the fans don't see throwing towels on the ice or screaming at the referee.

"Sometimes I go back to my suite after a game and stand looking into the mirror, asking myself if I did the right thing," Blair said.

"Every time we lose, I wonder if I couldn't have done more. I think too much of the players to let them lose if I can help them win."

Rochester Tops Aces By 4-2

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Rochester Americans scored three goals in the first eight minutes Friday night en route to a 4-2 victory over Quebec Aces and a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven American Hockey League Calder Cup final playoff series.

The third and fourth games will be played in Quebec City Sunday and Wednesday.

Defenceman Marc Reaume scored on a 20-footer from straight on at 4:06 of the first period and Ted Taylor followed 30 seconds later. Don Johns, Rochester's defence partner, bounced a shot off a Quebec blueliner at 7:58 for a 3-0 lead. Johns managed only one goal during the entire regular season.

Play slacked off after that, but Quebec began coming on in the second period. Guy Gendron tipped the puck past goalie Bobby Perrault for the only tally in the session.

Bryan Hextall increased it to 4-1 in the finale before Larry McKillop got Quebec's final goal at 12:07.

Worsley Wears Horse Collar After Neck Injury Thursday

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens meet Chicago Black Hawks in the fifth game of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup playoff Sunday afternoon, but chances are slim that goaltender Gump Worsley will be in the nets for the Montrealers.

Worsley, 39-year-old veteran of 19 seasons of pro hockey, suffered a sprained neck Thursday night in Chicago as the Hawks won their first game of the series 2-1.

Canadiens won the first three contests in the series by 9-2, 4-3 and 4-2 scores. Sunday's fifth game will be televised nationally in the United States by the Columbia Broadcasting System starting at 2 p.m. EDT, with the CBC's national network picking up the game 30 minutes later.

Worsley, this year's Vezina Trophy winner along with team-mate Rogatien Vachon, was knocked out at 8:57 of the first period in Thursday's loss.

The injury occurred as he hit the goal post after Bobby Hull crashed into him in counting Chicago's first goal. Hull added a second goal in the middle period to ensure the Chicago victory.

Worsley, removed from the game on a stretcher, was taken to hospital for preliminary examination. But he caught the train to Montreal with the team. There he went to hospital for a further check and wound up with a protective collar around his neck.

"They've put me in a horse collar just to rest the neck for a day," Worsley said. "It's a little sore and stiff, but I'm going for another treatment Saturday morning and maybe I'll be able to skate."

There's nothing broken or anything like that. I hope to play, but it's too soon to tell."

Worsley has enjoyed his best season ever with a 1.96 goals-against average in regular season play and 1.86 in seven playoff wins—four against Boston Bruins and three against Chicago.

However, Montreal coach Toe Blake indicated Vachon is likely to get the starting call Sunday. During the regular schedule Chicago counted only four goals against him in three starts. He shut out the Hawks on one occasion.

Excluding the current series, the Hawks and Canadiens have met in 13 playoff series. During that time the Montrealers won eight and lost five.

In the 59 games involved, Canadiens won 34 and lost 23.

GUMP WORSLEY

with two ending in ties before overtime became mandatory.

Meanwhile the Hawks will be without veteran right winger Eric Nesterenko for Sunday's game. Nesterenko suffered a shoulder separation in the first period of Thursday's contest and could be lost for the series if it goes to a sixth game in Chicago Tuesday and a seventh in Montreal Thursday.

Chicago coach Billy Reay held only a team meeting Friday.

Reay found himself getting fine performances from some of his youngsters Thursday night and is hopeful Dennis Hull and Chico and Wayne Maki will bring their forechecking and backchecking habits to Montreal with them.

Chico Maki did a fine job of shadowing big Jean Beliveau Thursday night to keep Canadiens' most prolific scorer from doing any damage.

"Beliveau is the key to the Montreal attack," Reay said. "Chico takes pride in his checking and did a fine job."

Maki said Beliveau is "very deceptive with that speed."

Canadiens are gunning for their 16th Stanley Cup, while the Hawks have won it only three times. Chicago won in 1934, 1938 and under the guidance of Rudy Pilous in 1961.

If Montreal does it again it will be Blake's eighth cup triumph in 13 seasons as coach.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Roulettable, three-year-old colt who was second choice in the Queen's Plate winter-book odds, swept to a 2¼-length victory Friday in the feature race at Fort Erie race track.

Ridden by Richard Grubb, Roulettable, son of Nearctic, was held in the pack until the far turn and then let loose to take Big Blunder and Poet's Dream in 1:12 flat over a slow six-furlong track.

Jack King in the first race combined with Mace in the second for a $44.30 daily double. The sixth-race exactor paid $6.60 for Willow Twig to Vintage Port while Ithinkiknow and Daddy B. Good yielded $47 in

North Stars at Home Tonight But in Front of Hostile Fans

ST. LOUIS (CP) — "It's our home game so maybe they'll cheer for us tonight," Walter Bush Jr. said Friday on the eve of the fourth game of the National Hockey League semi-finals between St. Louis Blues and Minnesota North Stars.

President of the North Stars, Bush was referring to the fact that tonight's contest is a home game for Minnesota even though it will be played in St. Louis.

Minnesota was forced to schedule one of its home games in the best-of-seven series in St. Louis when the Metropolitan Sports Centre home rink was booked this week by an ice show.

"We'll be wearing our home uniforms, we'll appear last in the lineups, we'll provide the pucks and we'll get the advantage on line changes," Bush explained. "All we need now are the fans to cheer for us."

There wasn't much cheering for the North Stars Thursday night in St. Louis as they whipped the Blues 5-1 to take a 2-1 lead in the series. Most of the 13,000 fans sat glumly as the Blues floundered against a strong Minnesota offence.

Friday, Dick Dillman, press officer for the North Stars, said Minnesota will benefit from a type St. Louis crowd tonight, but a lot of the home game receipts will go in rent.

"St. Louis is taking 42½ per cent for rent and we have to send $30,000 to the league for every playoff game. Also we're still on the road and have team living expenses."

Dillman is also bothered by a few problems when the North Stars finally return home. Attendance has been dropping in 8,000 a game compared to a season average of 11,562. He had some excuses, however.

"We sold tickets for both series at once and that cost a fair amount of money. Figuring two tickets to a set—most men take their wives—that's $12 a game for eight games, figuring on a $6 ticket. It meant an outlay of about $100 and sometimes $100 isn't easy to lay your hands on.

"We got about 100-per-cent preparchase of playoff tickets from companies that held season tickets, but something considerably less than that from private individuals. It's something we won't try again, probably."

Meanwhile Friday, the North Stars still have Bill Collins on the injured list—he suffered a cut right elbow and severed a ligament in an accident in the series opener.

St. Louis is healthier and coach Scotty Bowman is planning a series of lineup shifts in hope of changing the team's fortunes.

Instead of the usual six defencemen, he plans to go with only Doug Harvey, Bob and Barclay Plager and Ray Fortin, dropping Noel Picard and moving Jim Roberts to the forward line, possibly with Red Berenson.

He also will dress Ron Schock for the first time in this series and have Gary Veneruzzo back in action after missing the third game with a badly bruised right shoulder.

Bowman also is considering a line of Berenson, Larry Keenan and Dickie Moore to concentrate his scoring power and forward experience.

"We haven't been hitting," Bowman said Friday after putting his players through a stiff workout, concentrating on back-checking by his wingers against three-man opposition rushes.

"There were too many guys just standing around," he told his players at a centre ice meeting during the practice." "You disgraced yourselves."

One of the big problems the club is trying to overcome is the loss on defence of veteran Al Arbour.

After starting in every game all year, Arbour missed Thursday. He had picked up a massive charley-horse that started hemorrhaging in Monday's game.

"He has great courage," Bowman said. "He's played some games this year with injuries that would have put other guys in hospitals."

Niagara Falls Oust Rangers

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — The upstart Niagara Falls Flyers, newly-crowned kings of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, move into Quebec Sunday to meet Verdun Maple Leafs in the best-of-five Eastern Canada Memorial Cup final.

The Flyers, fourth-place finishers in the regular OHA schedule, eliminated the first-place Kitchener Rangers Friday with a 5-3 win and a 4-3-1 edge in games in the best-of-seven OHA final.

Flyers upset the first-place Rangers before 4,238 fans. The teams each scored in the first period and then went scoreless in the second.

But in the third period, the Flyers' forechecking and diligence paid off when defenceman Brad Sellwood slapped a shot through a maze of players and past Ranger goalie Dave Hainsworth.

Jim Notman made it 3-1 for the Flyers when he lashed a six-footer into an empty net as Hainsworth was protecting against a corner shot by Phil Roberto.

Kitchener's Jack Egers shortened the gap to 3-2 when Flyers goalie Phil Myre let a long shot dribble over his stick.

But the Flyers persisted and scored two goals when defenceman Rick Thompson intercepted passes. Thompson fed Ross Webley the first time and Tom Webster next to make the score 5-2.

Walt Tkaczuk, Kitchener's leading scorer in the series, fired Kitchener's final goal with 45 seconds to go.

In the first period Don Tannahill scored for the Flyers and Jim McCrea tallied for the Rangers.

Myre received a standing ovation when he left the ice. He blocked 16 shots in the second period.

"It was guts, hustle, guts and sheer determination all the way," said Flyer owner Hap Emms after the game.

"I felt especially pleased for Myre and the great way he played after being served a warrant earlier in the day."

Myer was involved in a fracas with a Kitchener fan Thursday in Kitchener when the Rangers won 8-4. The warrant resulted from the scuffle.

Dodger Rookie Waits Until 9th Then Beats Giants With Homer

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Louis Alcaraz wrote a chapter of his biography for the San Francisco Giants, but made them pay dearly. It cost the Giants a victory.

The 26-year-old rookie third baseman accomplished the first chapter Friday night by slamming a three-run homer with two out in the ninth inning giving the Los Angeles Dodgers a 4-1 victory over the Giants.

"We didn't have a book on him," said hard-luck loser Ray Sadecki, who entered the ninth with a one-hitter and a 3-0 lead before Willie McCovey's error opened the gates for four unearned runs.

"That was the first time I've ever faced Alcaraz. I threw him a lot of curves earlier and got him out, but I used a fast ball in the ninth and was surprised he pulled it so well."

Bob Veale also threw two bad pitches and saddled himself with another loss as the St. Louis Cardinals beat him and the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 on Tim McCarver's homer in the seventh inning.

In other National League night games, the Cincinnati Reds took advantage of the New York Mets' loose fielding and Tony Perez' batting for a 3-1 triumph and Sonny Jackson's bat backed Pat Jarvis as Atlanta tripped Philadelphia 2-1.

In the afternoon, the Chicago Cubs sent Houston to its sixth straight loss 3-2 on Lou Johnson's run-scoring single in the ninth and the four-hit pitching of Bill Hands.

The Dodgers mobbed Alcaraz after his first major league homer snatched the victory, but the skinny Puerto Rican was the most excited.

"When I turn first base, Gilliam said I was crazy. I said, Gilliam) said it was gone and I couldn't believe it," Alcaraz said. "I was real crazy."

Instead of trotting around the bases, he ran full speed.

Sadecki got Alcaraz out twice before he slammed his first extra base hit of the season for his first runs batted in.

Two bloop hits and McCovey's ground out in the first inning had given the Giants their lead and Sadecki struck out 11 and gave up only a single to Zoilo Versalles in the fourth inning protecting it until his defense failed.

McCovey dropped Versalles' pop fly to open the ninth and Jim Lefebvre later singled home Versalles with the tying run before an intentional walk set up Alcaraz, ending Sadecki's eight-game winning streak.

Pitching—Mel Stottlemyre, Yankees, hurled a three - hit shutout and struck out seven as New York stopped Detroit 5-0.

Batting—Rookie Luis Alcaraz, Dodgers, slammed his first major league home run with two on and two out in the ninth inning to cap a four-run rally that gave Los Angeles a 4-1 triumph over San Francisco Giants.

With The Trotters

BATAVIA, N.Y. (UP) — Roaring Water, from the H and B Stable of London, Ont., continued his winning ways at Batavia Downs Friday night, capturing the featured, handicap trot for $4,000. He paid $7.60.

Driver Bill Harvey took Roaring Water to the top at the quarter pole and he never looked back in beating Tarport Lou by a length. Hoosier_Diplomat was third. The time was 2:10 1-5 over a sloppy track.

In the sixth win in a row and the eighth in nine Batavia starts for the five-year-old gelding. He now has won nine of 11 this year and his earnings are at $8,045.

Barber's Style Change Pays Off

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Miller Barber changed his style in the $100,000 Byron Nelson golf classic Friday and his adjustment brought him into the lead at 36 holes with 135-five under par.

"I first realized that I had been hitting the ball at a slant and it was going to the right when I drove into the water on 14," said the balding ,7-year-old who is a heavy money-winner on the tour.

"So I started hitting it perpendicular and never had any trouble thereafter."

Barber banged a birdie from six feet on 15 and got two more birdies on the outgoing nine. He was playing the last nine first under a plan being used to better handle the big field.

He fired a two-under par 68 and took a one-stroke lead going into the third round over Jack McGowan, who set a competitive course record of 65 in pulling into a second-place tie with Harold Henning of South Africa.

Henning had a 68, with a fabulous putting job getting him out of trouble. He had only 25 putts for the day, the best exhibition of the tournament thus far and second best on the tour for the year.

McGowan and Henning were tied at 136.

Gary Player, another South African, had led the tournament through the first seven holes, which was the compelitive record over the 7,095-yard Preston Trail course until McGowan cracked it. Player had his troubles Friday, including three putting from six feet on the 14th. He managed only 71 and fell to a tie for fourth with Jack Montgomery, who shot par 70. Each had 137.

Arnold Palmer continued to shoot good golf despite a painful hip injury and his 68 pulled him into a tie for sixth at 139 with Kermit Zarley, who carded a 68.

Bunched at 140 were Bill Casper, Jack Nicklaus, Dale Douglass and Kel Nagle, Casper and Nicklaus fired 67s, Douglass 68 and Nagle 71 Friday.

Wilf Homenuk of Winnipeg had a 70-141.

The cutoff left the field at 73, meaning 74 were trimmed when 147 was necessary to qualify for the final 36 holes.

Penticton Looks Better But Loses

VERNON, B.C. (CP) — Penticton Broncos head to Estevan, Sask., today, two games behind in the best-of-seven Western Canada junior hockey finals — but they're happy.

"I am happy we showed Scotty Munro we can play hockey," said Broncos manager George Stol after Penticton lost 5-4 to Estevan in the second game of the series Friday night.

He was referring to remarks made by Estevan's manager Munro, after Penticton dropped the series opener 3-0 Wednesday, that Broncos played a lower standard of hockey than Prairie teams.

Winner of the series that resumes at Estevan Sunday meets the eastern champion for the Memorial Cup. The fourth and fifth games are scheduled Monday and Tuesday.

After the starting Penticton squad skated to an early 2-1 edge in Friday night's game and kept the tourists on Estevan in a late rally, Munro said:

"I was very pleased to see Penticton play so well. It helps our club by making the players work harder."

Penticton's Bob Mowat sparked the Penticton attack with three goals, sharing in the first period outburst with Reg Cherenko before Estevan got on the scoreboard with a marker from Jim Harrison.

Harrison got his second goal of the night in a second-period Estevan comeback that

Celtics Lead NBA Final

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bill Russell turned in a spectacular defensive performance which, coupled with some Boston sharpshooting, brought the Celtics a 127-119 victory over Los Angeles Lakers Friday night.

The triumph gave Boston a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven series for the National Basketball Association championship.

Argos Get Buchanan In Trade

TORONTO (CP) — Halfback Ed Buchanan, for five years a standout running back with Saskatchewan Roughriders, came to Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Football Conference Friday in a three-for-one unconditional trade.

Buchanan, a Canadian all-star in 1964 with the Western Conference Roughriders, was obtained in return for Canadian defensive tackle John Villanis and imports James Earl Smith, a defensive lineman, and Skippy Spruill, a middle linebacker.

Buchanan, 29, six-foot one-inch 185-pounder, came to Canada from Calgary Stampeders from San Diego Junior College in 1961, moving to the Roughriders in 1963.

He missed much of the 1963 and 1966 seasons with leg injuries.

Villanas, a 240-pound Toronto native who has been with Argonauts four years, also filled in at tackle, end and linebacker.

Smith and Spruill recently reached agreement on their contracts with Toronto—Buchanan was to start the second year of a two-year Saskatchewan contract—although neither figured prominently with the club last year.

Ewing Leads Tyro Golf Tournament

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Jack Ewing, a young California businessman bidding for a shot at golf, fired a five-under-par 67 Friday to move into contention in the Professional Golfers Association' approved tournament playoff for qualifying school.

The 15 top golfers after 144 holes will be qualified to join the nation's 70 top pros at 30 events who began the stiff test, 90 remained Friday.

First day co-leader Lawrence (Bubba) O'Hearn of Dartmouth, N.S., shot a one-under 71 Friday for a total 139, two strokes off the lead pace held for the second day by Bob Dickson of Spokane, Wash.

Dickson had a 68-69—137, seven under par for the two days. Dickson was the 1967 U.S. and British amateur champion.

Philippe Giroux of Montreal was in a five-way tie at 144 while Kenneth Fulton of Trail B.C., had 145. Wayne Vollmer, Van Vancouver, who Thursday shot the tournament's first ever no-under-par round, was in at 147 with rounds of 73-74.

Seattle Wins WHL Title

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Goalie Don Head recorded his second shutout of the championship playoffs Friday night as Seattle defeated Portland 4-0 to win the Western Hockey League's Lester Patrick cup.

It was the second straight year Seattle has won the championship playoffs in the WHL.

Head had superb help from his defensive players as he had to handle only 24 shots during the game. Seattle had 30 shots on the goal.

Marc Boileau scored twice, in the first and second period. Bill Hicke and Chuck Holmes wrapped it up.

The go-go Yankees and their mini-bats still get a lift every now and then from Mickey Mantle, who's not quite ready to forget the long ball fashion of the past.

New York did it both ways Friday night, slamming five extra bases and a light attack to a 5-0 lead over Detroit Tigers and then holding on for a two-run homer to wrap up a 5-0 three-hitter for Mel Stottlemyre.

The four homers was the total of Mantle's career, tying him for fourth place on the all-time list with Ted Williams. Ahead are Jimmy Foxx's 534, Willie Mays' 565 and Babe Ruth's 714.

In other American League games Friday, Chicago White Sox halted its season-opening 10-game losing streak by whipping Minnesota Twins 3-2, Boston Red Sox rapped Baltimore Orioles 6-3, Washington Senators outlasted Cleveland Indians 5-4 in 14 innings and Oakland Athletics outclassed California Angels 8-4.

Mickey, long bothered by bad legs, drove in a run with a single and Max Alvis rapped four hits for Cleveland.

Rick Monday's run-scoring single broke a 3-3 tie in the fourth inning and Oakland went on to score three more times in the frame to beat the Angels.

Jeff Torborg's two-run strike in the first inning. "I decided to swing it but the pitch was too high and it was too late to change my move," Mantle explained.

Tommy Davis homered for Chicago and Minnesota pitcher Dave Boswell's brewing streak set up the other two White Sox runs in the ninth.

Lee Stange pitched six innings of relief allowing just three hits and Mike Andrews' seventh-inning pinch-hit broke a tie helping the Red Sox pair the Orioles.

Run-scoring doubles by Jim Foy and Reggie Smith knocked in the final two Boston runs in the ninth.

Ed Stroud scored Washington's tying run in the ninth and then doubled home the winner in the 14th against Cleveland.

Tony Horton had a two-run

DEAR UNCLE ED —

It is true that researchers are trying to develop a wingless chicken? I hope not because I think chicken wings are great!

Yours Truly,
Worried Wing Ding

DEAR WING DING —

Rest easy! Like it or not, one out of every 4 or 5 pieces of chicken has to be a wing. If ever and unflappable chicken is developed we'll be the first to use them. But, I think we'll both have beards down to our belly button before that happens.

Yours Tenderly

Quarry and Ellis Meet For Heavyweight Title

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Jerry Quarry and Jimmy Ellis, survivors of an eight-man World Boxing Association tournament, battle tonight for the heavyweight title stripped from Cassius Clay.

The undefeated Clay, convicted of draft evasion, is expected to be a ringside spectator at the Oakland Arena.

A capacity crowd of 14,000 is expected for the 15-rounder, to be televised at 10 p.m. EST nationally and to Mexico, Canada, Europe, Japan, South Vietnam and Australia.

Each fighter is guaranteed $125,000.

Quarry, 22, of Bellflower, Calif., reached the final by decisioning former champion Floyd Patterson and knocking out Thad Spencer.

Ellis, who formerly fought as a middleweight and then a light heavyweight, knocked out Leo Sibbs in the ninth round and decisioned Oscar Bonavena.

Quarry, a hard-punching counter, who registered 15 knockouts in recording a 26-1-4, weighed in at 195 Friday. Ellis, a fast, smooth boxer who has 13 knockouts, was 197.

The 28-year-old Louisville boxer, who has a 25-5 record, is half an inch taller than Quarry and has a four-inch reach advantage.

Riders Sign Purdue Grad

OTTAWA (CP) — Bob Sebeck, 21, a six-foot, 245-pound offensive guard from Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., has been signed by Ottawa Rough Riders of the Canadian Football League.

Sebeck was selected an all-star defensive guard in the Big Ten, the U.S. mid-West university football league for the last two seasons.

TAKES EARLY LEAD

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., carded a 69, three under par, to take a two-stroke lead Friday in the opening round of the $15,000, 54-hole Raleigh women's invitational golf tournament. Sandra Post of Oakville, Ont., withdrew from the tournament.

Labor Government Officials Assail Dockers for Racism

LONDON (AP) — One of Britain's hottest political weeks since the 1930s ended today with the unlikely sight of two Labor government officials severely criticising striking dock workers for their racist stand against immigration.

David Ennals, government official responsible for immigration control, said:

"The demonstrations of irrational racial prejudice are reminiscent of the early days of the growth of anti-Semitism in Germany."

Ennals was hitting out in a speech Friday night at 4,000 dockers who walked out in London's port in support of a total ban on colored immigration.

Some of the dockers staged a protest march on Parliament as they and other workers had done earlier in the week.

The man at the centre of the row—right-wing Conservative MP Enoch Powell—flew off to Montreal to attend the Bilderberg Conference at Mont Tremblant, Que., leaving Britain still in uproar from his week-old racist speech that started it all.

Ennals asked: "Who would have believed a week ago that we would see large groups of workers striking in support of an extreme right-wing figure?

"Mr. Powell took the lid off and we have seen what came out. Nothing will be quite the same again."

Ennals' outburst is likely to lead to a repetition of heated exchanges in the House of Commons Monday.

In another bitter Labor attack, Overseas Minister Reginald Prentice said he was "shocked and disgusted" by the dockers' protests over immigration.

"The pioneers of trade unionism in London's dockland must have been turning in their graves this week," he said.

Conservative Leader Edward Heath defended his action in sacking Powell from the Tory "shadow" cabinet over the speech and blamed racial agitators for the "We back Powell" strikes.

The London borough of Ealing revealed in a report that its schools were full up and it could take no more immigrant children.

It urged the government to discourage any further immigrants moving into the area.

Bakery Clean-up Launched by Ottawa

TORONTO (CP) — A campaign has been launched by federal food inspectors to clean up bakeries in the Metropolitan Toronto area.

Herman Blackwood, head of inspections for the food and drug directorate, said Friday inspectors have been told to bring bakery owners before the courts if necessary.

He said the campaign follows a survey of the Metro baking industry. Some bakeries have already been charged with operating under unsanitary conditions.

A loaf of French-style bread from one bakery was found to contain rodent hair.

J. B. Jones, Ontario regional director, said the program is based on an "educational approach to bring the industry into line."

The Ontario branch made such stringent demands on one unidentified flour mill that the owner went out of business because he could not afford to bring the mill up to requirements.

The branch also has prosecuted the Metropolitan Bread Co. and the Dutch Maid Bakery on two counts of unsanitary conditions. Magic Oven Bakeries went out of business after a court hearing.

Mr. Blackwood said charges are being considered against another five bakeries.

He said recommendations are made to each company, and the firms are given a chance to improve their operations before charges are laid.

Mr. Blackwood said the Food and Drug Act allows the directorate one year from the time of an offence to prefer charges.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For April 28th

Your birthday today: A fairly smooth year ahead is promised for you. There will be adjustments to make like settling down recently acquired skills and work places, new connections to make, new avenues to explore, and the like. Personal initiative, particularly in creative effort, remains a key one. Today's natives, like yesterday's are all likely to be stubborn, with an added will to power.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Today is the finest Sunday insofar as the moods of people are concerned for quite a while. Follow your impulses, and share your fun and experience with your friends after church.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Try not to be stubborn today; it is really a good Sunday. Listen carefully if you do choose. Don't take petty provocations seriously. Read the news.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Take your notebook with you today. Today will bring people whose words you will want to note. New ideas are generated for important work later.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Do not fret if your affairs seem to come to an impasse today. Some of it is your own thin skin, and it will pass. Don't make a fuss about things.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Forget your business worries for the day — just go to church and let the devil. Disagreements are there, if that is what you want.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Try to see the other side today. It is likely you will not quite agree with the sermon. Money may be the root of evil, but it also is rather prevalent.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Do all you can to co-operate with your mate. Enjoy your optimistic mood, but keep an attentive ear on the news. You have much to be thankful for this Sunday.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Put your trust and your plans into the care of close friends. Finish your chores, then clear out for a visit somewhere else.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Not such a pleasant day if you have been driving too hard. Avoid haste, impatience. Do the least you can get by with. Rest early.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): The day has a great surprise, but brings you some new slant on the greater scene. Likely to be quite lively. Retire tonight with some serious reading.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Avoid meeting with relatives. Concentrate on matters far enough away that nobody can connect you. The discussion you stir may teach you something.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Expect neighbors to take a hand in today's discussions. Just hold your own and don't commit yourself or give any details. Retire early. Tomorrow is an important day.

For April 29

Your birthday today: This year will be one bring serious years for self - expression, greater creativity. Your mate is not apt to understand quite what is needed, so rely mainly on your own arrangements. Beware of feelings of inconsistency; should come fairly easy. Today's natives are prone to extreme personal ambition, and many are gifted in oratory and singing.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Business as usual today. Work hard. This evening is great for helping social contacts together with interesting new people. Romance is just oft-stage.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Favorable for business. Make it clear to all that there is no score to be settled, no feud to fight. Enjoy simple home pleasures this evening.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Today is one of the better days for people to be good to each other. Get into the act yourself, but don't overdo it. Entertaining tonight should be simple and modest.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Rely on your prestige and keep the deals very simple. Your normal tendency to approach matters sidewise could be troublesome. Travel and business entertaining favored this evening.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Be sure the details are organized early, then enjoy a productive, straightforward day. Pursue romantic interests this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Today money matters are a little more convenient. Add something to your personal invest in home security. Do something with your hobby interests tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Your friends are busy today generating more opportunity for you. Let them know more of what you can do, what you want. Put in a full day, possibly some overtime.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Be efficient today; waste no time with anything but your immediate work. Your reputation will grow a bit today. Share your feelings with your mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): You may be far afield today in your business. Shipments of money, personal gear or other matters may be involved. Be sure all papers are completed. You get the day uninterrupted; no interruptions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Love is where you find it today — be not surprised. Credit arrangements, investment decisions are favored today. Spend the early evening planning the near future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Matters at distances appeal to you today. Your perspective deepens as that some long-standing irritation, being suddenly understood becomes less burdensome. Light entertainment this evening.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): People tend to bring you money today, mostly because you have earned it. Be active in your work, but avoid fatigue by taking your breaks. Straighten out your cheque stubs this evening, and relax.

Cautious Optimism Prevails On Canadian Stock Exchanges

By GERALD CLARKSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prices continued to rise on a pots of cautious optimism on Canada's major stock markets this week. The general upward trend was still firmly linked to hopes for an early start to Vietnam peace talks.

The best gains were posted by steels, golds, oils and banks, while shares in the asbestos group were largely unchanged.

In an attempt to explain recent movements, analysts have been looking back to the Korean war when peace negotiations extended for two years until July, 1953. Records show the market went through wide swings during this period.

But brokers say that whatever emotional upsurge may follow positive news on the peace front, investors still intend to be strongly corrected by adverse developments in the United States and elsewhere.

Compared to Wall Street this week, however, Canadian markets advanced more steadily and without being affected by hourly rumors.

Since Tuesday, the Toronto Stock Exchange industrial index rose more than half a point each day to close at 1,393.90 for a gain of 1.46 on the week.

The surge followed a sharp decline over the weekend caused by an increase in the U.S. bank rate and William McChesney Martin's statement that the U.S. faces the worst financial crisis since 1931.

A feature of the week was revived interest in golds, though volume was modest. The TSE gold index was up almost 8 points after renewed buying Thursday and Friday.

Analysts thought the disclosure of the U.S. trade deficit for March would be a bearish factor —could be responsible. The trade deficit is the amount spent on imports in excess of receipts.

Another factor was the publication of exact figures for the loss in official U.S. gold reserves during the run on gold bullion between November 3rd and mid-March. The loss totalled more than $2,000,000,000.

At Toronto, Campbell Red Lake gained 4¼ to 35, Dome 1¼ to 42¼ and Giant Yellowknife 1¼ to 31¼.

Steels surged ahead in a week that saw three major consolidated mine annual reports. Stelco, which reported record first-quarter profits and considering increasing its dividend rate, rose 1⅝ to 21¾.

Algoma and Dofasco, despite lower profits, were up ¼ to 18¼ and ⅛ to 17¾. All finished below their best after prices slipped Friday.

Ontario Store Fixture, which also reported a 84% jump in first-quarter profits to 15¾ on sales of 47,000 shares. The company, which makes store, restaurant and kitchen fixtures, announced it will buy Roberts Realty of the Bahamas Ltd.

Ford of Canada climbed 6 points to 189 after the company predicted record car and truck sales for the current model year.

Monarch Fine Foods was up 2¾ to 12½ following a takeover bid from Lever Brothers of Toronto.

Among declining issues, Fruehauf railer fell ¾ to 14. First-quarter profits were down. Versatile Manufacturing, also with reduced profits, fell ⅛ to 10.

Both oil refiners and western oils posted strong gains.

Imperial, which reported increased first-quarter profits and was recommended by brokers, rose 2 points to 54. Canadian Superior rose 2¼ to 44¾, reporting first-quarter profits of $2,009,000 with a loss for last year.

No first-quarter profits have been issued, but analysts expected against first-quarter last year.

In the industrial base metal section, United Keno Hill fell cents to 7.45 after announcing sharp drop in earnings. Pine Point was up 2¼ to 42¼ and Lake Dufault 85 cents to 8.90.

On index in Toronto, industrials were up 1.46 to 159.39, golds 7.59 to 210.85, and western oils 6.95 to 194.22. Base metals slipped .18 to 101.60.

Volume was 14,021,000, shares compared with 14,468,000 last week. Advances outnumbered declines 324 to 204.

At Montreal, volume was 5,534,000 compared with 4,987,000 last week. Advances edged declines 190 to 149 and the composite index rose 1.63 to 153.49.

Milk Board Will Boost Sales by Doubling Ads

TORONTO (CP) — The legislature's agriculture committee was told today the Ontario Milk Marketing Board will more than double its current advertising program in an effort to boost consumption of dairy products in the province.

Board Chairman George McLaughlin said that starting in September the board will launch a $1,250,000-a-year advertising campaign. The current program costs $685,000 a year.

Mr. McLaughlin said the stepped-up promotional work will coincide with the first phase of a program aimed at bringing milk producers who wish to join into a pooling arrangement now limited to farmers whose milk goes to dairies for marketing as fluid.

He was replying to Murray Gaunt (L—Huron—Bruce) who asked what promotional activities were planned to increase milk sales once the pool is expanded to include farmers who now can ship only to manufacturers for processing into milk powder.

Mr. Gaunt agreed with William Newman (PC—Ontario South) that expansion of the pool would create a surplus of milk.

Mr. McLaughlin said the surplus would be small as dairy farmers have been warned that if one develops their fluid-milk quotas will be reduced.

He also told the committee that the board:

—Plans to institute milk pickups at farms at least every other day to reduce to a minimum the delay between milk production and retail sales.

—Is studying ways of in-province milk sampling with a view to improving hygiene and increasing returns to the producer.

—Paid 7,000 producers $12,600,000 in March, first month of the milk pool's operation.

—Has "signed up" on a voluntary basis for inclusion in the pool all Quebec milk producers who traditionally have shipped to Ottawa dairies.

—Has informed all industrial milk producers of the terms by which they can qualify for inclusion in the milk pool if they make application by May 15.

The chairman said the board has discontinued its policy of acting as a residual purchaser of Ontario cheese in the face of huge inventories which included cheese made in December, 1966.

He agreed that the board's action plus discontinuation of a subsidy program to encourage cheese factories to divert milk to powder manufacturers means some factories will lose money on cheese produced this month. However, a projected increase in federal floor prices for cheese May 1 would put most if not all cheese factories on a paying basis.

Mr. McLaughlin said he was a little nervous" about the prospect of pressures for "filled" milk—milk with cheap vegetable oils substituted for the butterfat content.

The board felt laws which ban the imitating of dairy and non-dairy products should stand, at least until the competitive position of synthetic milk products can be assessed.

Mr. McLaughlin agreed with Everett Biggs, deputy agriculture minister, that federal and provincial laws might be made more flexible to permit some additives such as chemicals which would make butter more "spreadable."

Penny 'Mining Stock Salesman Convicted

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — In a historic decision, a Windsor magistrate Friday convicted a penny mining stock salesman of two offences under the Ontario Securities Act.

Magistrate F. K. Jasperson fined veteran mining stock promoter Harold Coles, 32, of Oakville, $500 and costs under two sections of the securities act introduced in 1966.

Coles is the first stock salesman to be charged under the two sections. The case was considered a "landmark case" by lawyers here.

The sections bar salesmen from making "undertakings" about future price or dividend prospects.

Mr. Jasperson found that Coles violated both sections of the act when he sold 500 shares of Maxwell Mineral, an unlisted mining stock, to schoolteacher Osborne E. Dubs for $250 in April, 1966.

Dubs, a resident of Windsor, testified that Coles promised the stock would rise to $1,250, that Coles said he had inside information about the company and that he had said it would soon be listed on the exchange.

Dubs said, despite the promises, he found he could not resell the stock. It was worthless.

Noting that there was little in previous legal decisions to define an "understanding," Mr. Jasperson ruled Coles' statements described by Dubs, definite, implied that the stock's future was bright.

Employment News

By J. R. STAVELEY,
Manpower Counsellor

The local demand for additional workers, as represented by either permanent or temporary employment opportunities listed with the Canada Manpower Centre by employers, depicts a slow labor market.

As is normal at this time of year, there is some demand for female help in the service fields, such as waitresses, comprised the largest chen help and housekeepers. The demand from construction proportion of the male help requirement.

It was observed that the labor requirements from existing industrial plants were low being confined mainly to a number of skilled or specialized male job openings.

During the past week the facilities of the Canada Manpower Centre were utilized by the personnel representative of a world known insurance company to interview local young men for insurance administrative work at their Toronto head office. All of these young men possessed a Grade 12 plus education.

Although there are few employment opportunities locally for the professional worker, there are increased opportunities to work overseas in this capacity to assist the economy of underdeveloped countries.

The following jobs are now available at this office.

In the female division locally, capable housekeepers who are willing to live in are still required for regular work at good wages. In the hotel, motel and restaurant business, there is a demand for experienced waitresses. A nursing home is seeking the services of a nurses' aid. A selling position using the telephone as the approach is now available, with salary paid on a commission basis. In demand are reliable nurse maids. There is a position available in a neighboring town for a paymatch operator who has experience in the operation of IBM 629 and 659 machines.

In the male division locally there is an urgent requirement for a tailor to work for a men's clothing business. There is an excellent opportunity for someone wishing to work more or less on his own. An industrial plant has a vacancy for a qualified metal pattern maker, with another plant requiring the services of a qualified wood pattern maker. A large petroleum company is looking for a management trainee and in this case, the company would be interested in a Ryerson or Eastern Ontario Institute of Technology graduate. This position offers excellent career possibilities. There are numerous opportunities for young men who possess a grade 13 or better education in the field of banking, consumer credit and merchandising.

If interested in any of these positions, seeking other employment or thinking of re-entering the labor market, contact the Canada Manpower Centre at 324 Church Street, Belleville.

Ford Omits Bonuses

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co., shut down by strikes for two months last year, disclosed today that it omitted paying bonuses to its top executives in 1967 for the first time in 10 years.

The top salary of $200,000 went to Chairman Henry Ford II, who received $415,000 in bonuses also in 1966.

Semon E. Knudsen, who jumped from an executive vice-presidency at General Motors Corp., to the presidency of Ford early this year, was guaranteed an annual base salary of $200,000 a year for five years and also received 15,000 shares of Ford stock.

Speed Divorces

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature gave unanimous approval in principle Friday to legislation aimed at speeding up dealing with the flood of divorce actions expected when the new federal divorce act comes into effect next month.

The proposed amendments to Ontario's Judicature Act will allow divorce suits to be heard by one judge of the province's Supreme Court instead of a panel of at least three judges, until the next Parliament acts on them.

Dissolution of Parliament Tuesday for the June 25 federal election made action necessary on three sets of tariff changes.

Kennedy Round participants have pledged to get legislative approval for their reductions by July 1, 1968, but a number of nations are expected to miss the deadline.

Government Ratifies Kennedy Round Cuts

OTTAWA (CP) — A government order-in-council has ratified Kennedy Round tariff reductions pending parliamentary approval later this year, Finance Minister Benson announced Friday.

He also announced that a few tariff increases levied on a provisional basis but still awaiting legislative enactment have been suspended effective April 24

Alderman Jeffrey Objects

The city's ratio of representation on the board of the Hastings county welfare unit and recent staff appointments for the unit came under fire at Belleville city council yesterday.

The objection was raised by Alderman Mrs. Robin Jeffrey when the county welfare unit bylaw agreement to include Trenton came up for ratification.

The new county welfare unit taking in the county of Hastings, Belleville and Trenton, will officially go into operation on May 1.

Part of Mrs. Jeffrey's objection appeared to be against the recent appointment of former Thurlow township reeve Carl Thompson, as a welfare unit field worker.

The alderman said Belleville and Trenton should have more representation on the welfare unit board than the county.

She also objected to the fact that the welfare administrator will be responsible to the county clerk-administrator rather than the city man

Rockefeller Enters Race

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller declared himself an active candidate today for the Republican Party's presidential nomination, saying he did so to "give our party a choice of candidates and of programs."

"I have become convinced that the party wishes to have such a choice," Rockefeller said in arraying himself openly against the White House bid of Richard M. Nixon.

The 59-year-old governor thus abandoned the "available" posture he had taken 40 days ago and plunged into an all-out contest for his party's nomination.

He revealed his switch in strategy in a telegram to a group of supporters in Vermont. It became known shortly before Rockefeller was to go before a televised news conference to tell his new political plans.

Rockefeller said he would "campaign as vigorously as I know how on the grave issues facing our country." And he said he would present his candidacy "within a framework of party unity."

This statement indicated what Rockefeller intimates had said before his formal announcement —that he would accentuate the positive aspects of his own credentials and avoid criticism of Nixon, his only major rival for the nomination.

Board Refuses To Alter Quota

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

The Ontario Municipal Board will not agree to increasing the city's 1968 capital works quota to allow the awarding of a contract for a $1,600,000 extension to the local water filtration plant this year.

But the picture is not quite as black as it might seem. This is the feeling of City Manager J. R. Reynolds and members of city council who suggest that engineering and property acquisition could be done this year and a start be made next year on the actual project.

Earlier this year the OMB approved of a city 1968 capital works program of $2,106,300, with the city's five year program calling for expenditure of $1,600,000 over the next four years to provide for the filtration plant extension.

However, two weeks ago it was pointed out by City Manager Reynolds that the entire $1,600,000 would have to be included in this year's works program if a contract was to be let.

The proposal of the Public Utilities Commission is to extend the existing filtration plant, using the Bay of Quinte as the water supply source. The proposed extension would increase the plant's capacity by another seven million gallons daily.

Yesterday city council by a seven to three vote concurred with the commission's expansion plans using Bay of Quinte as a water source and agreed to proceed with financing arrangements, preferably on the basis of spreading out the work of plant expansion.

"It is not as black as it might seem," said City Manager Reynolds. "We already have $1,000 in the capital works for this year for the plant and $400,000 in next year's budget."

This will still leave about $200,000 possibly another $7,000 this year's capital works budget.

The plan is to have the necessary engineering done this year and also acquire property for the plant extension, then wait for tenders next year for the extension.

Utilities Manager E. L. Burnham agrees that little more than this could be done in 1968.

Mr. Burnham said the water intake out into the Bay of Quinte would be large enough and so

Old Couple, Son Perish

MOOSE CREEK, Ont. (CP) — An elderly couple and their 44-year-old son died in a fire early today in this village about 20 miles north of Cornwall.

Dead are Currie Blair, 80, his wife, Janet, 70, and their son, Harold.

The fire, discovered by a neighbor about 4:30 a.m., destroyed the two-story frame house.

Cause of the fire is unknown.

Reds Executed 1,000 at Hue

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces executed more than 1,000 persons during the February offensive in Hue, the U.S. embassy reported today.

The embassy said the report was based on information from U.S. and South Vietnam sources. It said the victims were found in 19 separate mass graves.

"Many had been shot, some beheaded," the report said. "A number of bodies showed signs of mutilation. Most were found with hands bound behind their backs.

"Evidence also was discovered of victims having been clubbed unconscious prior to being buried alive."

The report said one South Vietnamese political warfare officer who helped investigate the executions estimated that almost half of the victims had been buried alive.

Hundred Students Hurt As Police Clear Buildings

NEW YORK (AP) — Police moved in force onto the Columbia University campus at the administration's request today and ended student demonstrators from five barricaded campus buildings to end a week-long sit-in.

Starting around 2:45 a.m., police systematically removed the students—sometimes violently —in about 75 minutes. More than a hundred of the youths were injured, most suffering cuts and bruises about the head and face.

An emergency infirmary set up on campus reported treating about 40 students. A reporter who was injured said 62 youths were treated while he was at St. Luke's Hospital.

Police reported 628 persons arrested, approximately 100 of them women.

'Progress Before Perfection' Sharp's Plea on Nuclear Pact

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp today urged the 124-nation General Assembly to "put progress ahead of perfection" and give speedy approval to the draft treaty on nuclear non-proliferation.

In his first appearance at the UN since becoming Canada's foreign affairs spokesman April 20, Sharp replied to some of the criticisms that have been levelled at the treaty by individual countries and declared:

"We have been given the opportunity of bringing into effect the only arms-control agreement now possible of achievement."

The draft treaty, formulated in Geneva by the 18-country UN disarmament committee, is being debated in the General Assembly's main political committee, to which all UN members belong. Russia and the United States, nuclear superpowers, have urged the UN to vote overwhelming approval.

"Canada's support for the principle of preventing the proliferation of nuclear weapons has never wavered," said Sharp, who also declared it is the intention of the government of Prime Minister Trudeau to carry on Canada's record of support for the United Nations as a whole.

Sharp said the draft treaty, which Canada helped formulate, seeks to achieve two fundamental purposes.

"The first—and perhaps by far the most important—is to reduce the sense of insecurity which aggravates international tensions, accelerates the spiralling arms race and increases the risk of nuclear war.

"The second, he said, is to "serve as an initial but essential step toward the control and reduction of existing stocks of nuclear weapons."

Sharp found significant the pledges given in Geneva by three of the world's five nuclear-weapons countries—the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain—that they will present a Security Council resolution giving assurance of assistance to all signatories to the treaty not possessing such weapons.

The other two nuclear-weapons countries, France and China regarded aloof during the many years of negotiations leading to the draft treaty.

Sharp noted that the U.S.-Soviet-British affirmation of assistance under the UN charter has been belittled in some quarters.

"Yet . . . what stronger assurance could any state without nuclear weapons have, short of becoming an ally of one of the nuclear powers?"

Sharp said Canada is aware of the argument that the treaty could perpetuate the monopoly position of nuclear-weapons states.

"This is an inevitable aspect of non-proliferation treaty," he said.

Massey-Ferguson Will Move To U. S. if Wages Equalized

TORONTO (CP) — Massey-Ferguson Industries Ltd. has told the United Auto Workers Union the company will move its Canadian production to the United States within 18 months if the union continues its demand for wage parity with U.S. workers.

In a statement released Monday, the farm-equipment company said it had offered the UAW a commitment that it would not move away from Canada during the life of an agreement in an effort to settle a strike by about 8,000 workers in Toronto and Brantford that began April 15.

However, the union rejected the company's settlement proposal, which included the formula of wage increases recently granted Massey-Ferguson workers in the U.S. and also additional fringe benefits.

Union officials were not available for comment.

The average hourly rate for Canadian workers is $3.12. They are asking that this be raised to about $4.11 by 1970 to match rates received by the company's Detroit workers.

The last company offer included a 17-cent-an-hour increase for one year from the signing date, with an additional 30 cents for skilled workers retroactive to Jan. 1. No new wage proposals were mentioned in Monday's statement.

In the event of what it described as a "non-competitive wage settlement," the company said it would phase-out the Verity factory in Brantford, employing 900 workers, within 18 months.

"During the term of the agreement further steps, including the phase-out of the Toronto workers, will be announced," the company statement said.

"It must be clear to our employees and the union that plant replacement — most obviously Verity and Toronto work — will be inevitable with or without a competitive wage penalty.

"The decision influenced by the cost of settlement is whether plant replacements will be here or outside Canada."

So Look Who's Being Cautious!

No, it's not a case of careless driving by a driver cautioning otherwise. Aboard the putt-putt is a city employee spraying new barrier-lines on Belleville's East Hill yesterday. It's all part of long-awaited road-building project — although some motorists were briefly bemused to find machine meeting them head on. (Details on Page 5.)

Employees Favor Strike Action

TRENTON — The employees of the town's public works department voted 2-1 in favor of strike action last night.

The final decision to walk off their jobs depends on the results handed down at the conciliation board hearing ordered into the dispute.

Negotiations in progress for five months broke down last week.

No date has been set for the conciliation board hearing but employees will remain on the job until it takes place.

New Additions Planned At Separate Schools

Tenders for the construction of additions to Holy Rosary and St. Joseph's Separate Schools in Belleville have been called with a May 8 closing date.

The addition of a general purpose room is planned for Holy Rosary school on College Street while at St. Joseph's school is general purpose room and kindergarten will be constructed.

School board officials hope the new accommodation at both schools can be ready for school opening in September.

The Belleville separate school board also plans construction this year of a new school in the Tri-Park Dale area, in northwest Belleville.

The school — to be called the George Vanier Separate School — is of entirely new design and will be constructed on Tracey Street.

The original hope was that the new school — like the two additions could be ready for September but, due to delays in plan completion tenders are not expected to be called for at least another month.

This, in turn, is expected to set back the completion date until later in the fall.

Trenton's 'Mix-up'

TRENTON—Last Friday a wire service story reported tracing the whereabouts of lost items in Montreal robbery to Trenton.

The release claimed a large sum of money (more than the amount stolen in the break-in) was recovered stuffed in a thermos bottle in the home of a Trenton resident.

The report unleashed a deluge of phone calls to Trenton police chief R. J. Rutherford.

From the beginning Chief Rutherford maintained he had never heard of the case and while reporters continued to press he admitted the story stimulated his imagination.

His observation is that mail, directed to the police chief at Trenton, Nova Scotia, sometimes reaches him. "This is the likely answer to the mixup," he says.

Revenue Minister: Flexible Federal System Required

TRENTON — Advocating a strong federal government at Ottawa the Minister of National Revenue told an in-fr-fresh meeting here last night the problem of national unity is suffering from over-exposure.

Hon. Jean Chretien spelled out three pressures he considered were at work against Confederation.

The wealthy of western Canada ignore the people of Quebec, the people of Quebec and the Maritimes feel they are left out of the economics of the rest of Canada and the French speaking people of Canada feel left out of the nation's cultural activities.

French Canadians also find they are unable to identify properly with federal institutions", he added.

Calling for the adoption of a flexible federal system the minister termed the recent federal - provincial conference at Ottawa as, an important first step toward the union of two great cultures.

He would like to see legislation which would ensure French Canadians equal language rights across Canada.

Citing a number of instances where French-English relations in the country have been improved, Mr. Chretien declared "the time for federalism has arrived". "I know the majority of the people want to keep Canada together."

Rotary's president Wilf Wilkinson presented mementos of Trenton to the minister.

County Historical Society Head Pays Tribute to Past President

NAPANEE — In her inaugural address as the fourth president of the Lennox and Addington County Historical Society, Mrs. N. W. (Helen) Hutchison paid tribute to Judge Gerald F. Smith, retiring president.

Few people realize the contribution he has made to the county, not only by reviving the dormant, if not dead, historical Society, but also by the material assistance he has given in furthering its needs.

Through his efforts valuable cases were obtained from Queen's University and from the Royal Ontario Museum. These were converted under the late James Moffat's direction, and are now the efficient display cases and bookcases in the County Museum. Also, it was through his efforts that the Public Archives of Ontario were persuaded to microfilm some 40,000 documents relegating to the county, its position as judge of this county had enabled him to contact people who could further the needs of the Society, she added.

Wesley M. Aikenhead, in making a presentation to Judge Smith, produced a wave of chuckles when he said that Johnnie Clarence Warner, founder of the Society, and Walter Herrington, the second president, were shadowy figures, there is nothing vague about Gerald Smith. Warner, he said, had been aware and zealous in founding the Society and has started the collection, of its records; Herrington had written about it; and Judge Smith had turned his attention to restoring some of its landmarks, mentioning the Macpherson House.

In his reply Judge Smith refused to take credit for the restoration of the Macpherson House. "I will take credit for the rejuvenation of the Society," he said. "I will take credit for the restoration of the Fairfield House and Fairfield Park at Bath. But restoration of the Macpherson house is Mrs. Hutchison's project," he said.

The Macpherson house has been open to the public since August 3, 1967, with only three rooms restored, and it will be closed for the winter. The restoration has been proceeding all winter and it will again be opened May 18.

ANAF News

The spring lull is on and there is not too much activity around the club these days. The Westernaires put on a good performance last Saturday evening and a fair number of members turned out but there was room for quite a few more. Guess the warm weather has coaxed everyone out to their summer cottages or spring cleaning their places in town.

Next Saturday evening starting at 8.30 p.m. the big final matches will be played off in the Mrs. Darts' tourney, a tournament for the Harold Dracup Memorial Trophy. This will be the first year it has been played and it is expected that a large crowd will be on hand to support their favorite team. The ladies are asked to bring something for the 11 o'clock lunch. It is hoped to have some good entertainment. This will be May 4th.

On the following Saturday afternoon, May 11th, commencing at 3 p.m., the playoff for the Steve McNeil Trophy, for 21-

(he high three darts of the season, scored in competition in the Unit clubroom. The competitors will be Cdes. Russ Bland and Bob Totten, both tied with 180. This match will be played on a covered board and may the best man win. The ANAF Dukes dart team, playing in the Belleville Darts League won the R. Section Trophy by winning two matches in a row. If any players are interested in a club dart league, let your sports chairman or his committee men know and if enough interest is shown a schedule will be drawn up.

The chairman of the ski committee reports that two comrades are in the Belleville hospital, J. R. Boyle, room 9 and C. Belshaw, room 264. Cde. S. Cherry is slowly recovering at home. All have been visited and looked after.

The children's summer picnic will be held at Cove Beach again and will be held on July 10th.

Friends Honor Octogenarian

DESERONTO — Although Mr. Charles Griffiths of Edmond St. has not fully recovered from an illness last winter and spends much time in bed, he was up and dressed early last Friday to celebrate his 87th birthday. Callers dropped in a few at a time all day to have a chat and enjoy a taste of birthday cake. Many neighbors and friends came, not only to congratulate him, but also because they enjoy a good laugh. Mr. Griffiths has a wonderful sense of humor and it is a joy to visit him.

Alderman Jeffrey Objects to Welfare Staff Appointments

The city's ratio of representation on the board of the Hastings County welfare unit and recent staff appointments for the unit came under fire at Belleville city council yesterday.

The objection was raised by Alderman Mrs. Robin Jeffrey when the county welfare unit bylaw amendment to include Trenton came up for ratification.

The new county welfare unit taking in the county of Hastings, Belleville and Trenton, will officially go into operation on May 1.

Part of Mrs. Jeffrey's objection appeared to be against the recent appointment of former Thurlow township reeve Carl Thompson, as a welfare unit field worker.

The alderman said Belleville and Trenton should have more representation on the welfare unit board than the county.

She also objected to the fact that the welfare administrator will be responsible to the county clerk-administrator rather than the city manager.

Mrs. Jeffrey suggested that the county welfare unit be operated as a separate corporation such as the Children's Aid Society which she said would eliminate any possibility of political implications.

She wanted to know if the positions of three field workers hired recently had been advertised and how many applications had been received.

She said she understood that 24 college graduates applied but none had been hired.

Alderman E. A. Orr, one of the two city representatives on the county welfare board, said the agreement was actually an extension of the existing agreement between the county and Belleville.

He said Trenton had originally been invited to become a member of the unit but had declined. Then a couple of months later the city changed its mind and asked to be included.

Under the original agreement the county had three representatives on the board and Belleville two. When Trenton was included it was decided that in fairness the town should have one member.

Neither of the city representatives had been on the hiring committee, but the entire committee had approved of the recent appointments.

Mayor J. R. Scott commended Alderman Jeffrey for her questions, stating that he had been wondering a bout the same thing.

He said he did not know that the city had been asked to join the welfare unit on the basis it had.

"However," he admitted, "the set-up of the unit was approved by the province."

Noting that the city welfare administrator had spent considerable time in organizing the county unit, Mayor Scott said he had asked that a complete record be kept of time spent on the project.

Belleville will ask that these costs be returned to the city.

Welfare administrator Reginald Tucker said the welfare field positions had been advertised both locally and in the Toronto press.

More than 40 applications had been received but he did not recall any applicant who held a recognized degree in welfare work.

"Some of the applicants had welfare experience and a few had municipal experience," he said.

Mr. Tucker said that one of the terms of the county accepting all city welfare workers on the county unit had been that preferential consideration be given to county residents with welfare experience when hiring additional staff.

The reason I am responsible to the county clerk administrator is that as of May 1, all welfare unit workers become county employees," he said.

Alderman Douglas Boyle said he had been surprised to learn that one of the field workers appointees had been a man who had long been opposed to the county welfare system.

Belleville's Official Plan Expected Later This Year

Belleville's long awaited official plan could be completed some time late this year.

This was the hope expressed yesterday by city planning director P. J. Beavis who said that depending on the completion of the city's urban renewal study, the official plan could be ready for public consideration before the end of 1968.

He emphasized that the official plan would not be approved this year, but could be ready for presentation to council.

The planning director said that parts of the plan would be up for discussion at the next meeting of the planning board.

A letter from Hon. W. Darcy McKeough, Ontario minister for the department of municipal affairs, was before council expressing reservations with respect to the city's application for financial assistance for an urban renewal scheme.

Mr. McKeough said he had reservations regarding the over-all cost of the scheme study and also regarding what he termed the "duality of surveys" — analyses and results expected from the changing economic conditions.

The minister said he did not intend delaying the application but felt his reservations on the overall high cost should be drawn to the attention of the consultant doing the renewal study.

The cost of the urban renewal study approved earlier this year by council is $87,100, of which the federal government would pay 50 per cent and the provincial government 25 per cent leaving $21,755 as the city's share.

However, the city's portion is to be reduced by a further $12,000 through the work of city personnel used in the study.

City Planning Director Beavis said he didn't feel the letter from the minister of municipal affairs was any cause for alarm by council.

He said the consultant's work and progress payments would be reviewed by city staff.

Neither did he feel there was any duality in the services being provide in the survey.

Mr. Beavis claimed he did not feel the minister's letter called for a reply.

But Mayor J. R. Scott took a different view.

"On the contrary," he said, "the minister has written pointing out his reservations and we should get the answers even if only for our own satisfaction."

Alderman Kenneth Soden suggested the appointment of a committee to further investigate the matter and to forward a copy of the minister's letter to the consultants doing the urban renewal study.

Parking By-law May Be Changed

City council may eventually come up with a two way bylaw for the regulation of overnight street parking.

Mayor J. R. Russell Scott says the key words could be "gutter" and "no gutter."

The idea would be that overnight parking would be prohibited on paved streets with gutters — so that operation of the street sweeper and flusher would not be impeded.

The ban on overnight parking drew comsidasts a week ago when about 200 cars were tagged by police.

As result of the complaints it was decided that consideration might be given to revamping the bylaw to make a distinction between the different types of streets.

Hillcrest Ratepayers Complain About Service

The Hillcrest ratepayers' association is unhappy about the city bus service and wants something done about it.

In a recent letter to the Belleville transit commission the association requested a change in the bus route but was told the change wasn't feasible.

A new bus would have to be purchased or one taken off another route, they were told at that time.

But in the meantime a route change was approved for the College Street area and Hillcrest residents want to know why they were refused.

Mayor J. R. Scott suggested yesterday that the transit commission be asked to review other routes as well as the Hillcrest area.

He said the new Superior Electric plant in northeast Belleville will soon be in operation and workers would need transportation.

"Also Ports" ward residents and industrial workers in that area required public transportation," he claimed.

Police, Public Works Officials To Report on Problem

The city police department and public works' officials will be asked to investigate roadside conditions on Haig Road between Bridge Street East and the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks.

They will make recommendations to city council.

A motion by Alderman Arthur Keegan asks that no parking on both sides of Haig Road be put into effect.

The alderman said that a car wrecker in the area was using the road allowance for the purpose of wrecking cars and a dangerous traffic hazard resulted from the action.

Council was told that the wrecking yard was a "nonconforming use for the area" and also that the operator had failed to conform to regulations calling for the erection of board fences around the property.

Baxter Tops Polls In School Election

PICTON (Staff) — The new Prince Edward Collegiate prime minister is Liberal, Lindley Baxter.

The party bold-the majority after the model parliament elections held yesterday at the school. The liberals go to parliament Wednesday holding 23 cabinet seats.

Progressive conservatives rank second with 16 seats, followed by the New Democrats, five seats, and the new social credit, six seats, and the New Democrats five seats.

Meanwhile skulduggery is being conducted up and down the school halls. The progressive conservatives at the school can still grab a minority government if they can shepherd in the support of the New Democrats and Social Credits.

Both major parties seem aware of the facts, and both have set out to woo and cajole the smaller parties into line.

Student support for the elected was poorer than expected.

Keegan Requests Lights

Provision of money in the 1968 current city budget for the installation of traffic lights at the corner of Bridge and Church streets has been requested by Alderman Arthur Keegan.

Declaring that the intersection is extremely dangerous and that Dundas Street is being used as a speedway, Ald. Keegan asked that the lights be installed as soon as possible.

"During certain periods of the day", the alderman said, "it is almost impossible for factory and industrial workers in Foster Ward to get out onto Dundas Street."

Council amended the alderman's motion and voted to ask for a complete study of all intersections.

Waterworks Expansion Project Cannot Be Started Until '69

stimated that it could be used to pipe in Lake Ontario water if this was deemed necessary some time in the future.

Mr. Reynolds felt confident that the Municipal Board would approve the slightly revised plans. He said he would write to the OMB explaining the new proposal and stressing both its urgency and importance.

But the council proposal to delay calling tenders for the filtration plant extension until next year was not approved without the whole city water supply question being brought in for discussion.

Alderman Gerald Joyce said in his opinion the source of water supply had not been satisfactorily determined.

He said that cold Lake Ontario water was required for certain types of industry and he was not convinced Bay of Quinte water was the answer.

He doubted also that the Ontario Municipal Board would approve the extra amount needed to get the water filtration plant expansion underway next year.

Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott said he was not an apologist for the Utilities Commission, but the city must have additional water. He stressed the plant extension must be built unless it was decided to take treated water from Lake Ontario.

Replying to Alderman Joyce's contention that cold Lake Ontario water was required for certain industry, he said the city's resources should not be based on the possibility that one industry "may" come to the city.

Earlier in the meeting the city manager said that apparently the municipal board had misinterpreted his letter asking approval for an increased capital works budget this year and had understood the plant expansion was needed to provide water to neighboring townships.

Mayor Scott emphasized the extension was needed to provide water for the city.

Mr. Burnham said planning for the water plant extension had actually started back in 1963.

He said it was quite possible that the necessary planning detail could be done this year and the intake pipe be installed next year, but pipe would be large enough to take Lake Ontario water if necessary.

Alderman Joyce wanted to know what the difference in dollar cost per family for the three different sources of water that were possible.

Mr. Burnham said the present minimum rate for domestic water was $2.25 per month.

If treated water were brought from Lake Ontario to a one-side reservoir the net rate would be about $6 per month; while extension of the plant for use of raw Lake Ontario water would result in a net rate of about $5 per month. This compared with a $3.50 net rate for the planned expansion using Bay of Quinte water.

Mr. Burnham said that due to the costs involved for lake water, the engineers had advised plant extension using bay water.

Public Utilities Commission chairman Duncan Cameron urged that council stress to the Municipal Board that the proposed water plant extension was both urgent and essential.

United Services Request $10,000

The Belleville United Community Services has asked for consideration of a $10,000 grant from the city to assist that body in carrying out its 1968 operations.

Magr. J. P. Sullivan made the request yesterday to council, as spokesman for a delegation from the community services organization.

The delegation immediately brought a question from Alderman Paul Russell who asked if council hadn't already given $5,000 to the services organization this year.

Alderman Williams said the $5,000 already paid was for last year, while the $10,000 request was for 1968.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds pointed out that if the $10,000 grant was paid, the year's budget would show a sum of $15,000 for the community services this year.

Fred Symons, speaking on behalf of the Salvation Army, asked for consideration of a grant to the Red Shield campaign.

H. A. Messacar asked Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott and council to proclaim May 1-7 as Mental Health Week in Belleville.

Later in the meeting council voted to proclaim Mental Health Week while the grant requests were referred to the council budget meeting.

Highway Speeders

Highway 401 is busy enough these days, particularly at weekends.

The same highway has a speed limit of 60 m.p.h., which comparatively few drivers obey. There are police patrols, of course, and east of Kingston on Tuesday they were using radar to check cars.

It seems a close watch is kept on cars from Quebec — at least one of those flagged down by police on Tuesday was from that province — but if the French Canadian is a fast driver those from Ontario are not holding back either.

Speeds of 80 m.p.h. and more are commonplace on Highway 401. And mute testimony to the danger in which drivers of such vehicles are placing themselves are the numerous skid marks along the highway.

Nor are these skids minor affairs. Rather they extend from 300 to 500 feet and usually finish up on the shoulder.

All of them are evidence of one flaw or other in driving. Next month, Man and His World Exposition in Expo 67) opens in Montreal. So too does Upper Canada Village and the other attractions along the Seaway. Traffic then will be very heavy on the weekends and motorists will have to drive with a great deal more care than skid marks on the highway at present indicate.

Vietnam to Nevada

A report of Soviet-made arms being found in Viet Cong river junks in Saigon is scarcely surprising. It is part of the continuing campaign to infiltrate the South Vietnamese capital.

However, if the Soviets are indulging in direct warfare with the United States and their allies in Vietnam, the Americans are rattling their sabres in even more formidable fashion.

Indeed, it is a little incongruous to learn at this stage of the game in east-west relations, when things are relatively quiet, that the mightiest nuclear bomb ever exploded in the United States, shook the Nevada desert the other day.

It seems a far cry from the regular test explosions by both the U.S. and Russia a few years ago. Yet there it was — an experimental hydrogen bomb set off in a chamber 2,800 feet beneath a lonely desert area 100 miles north-west of Las Vegas. Weighing in at a million tons of TNT, the device was 50 times more powerful than the Hiroshima bomb of the last war.

Are these explosions really necessary? The "overkill" level has long since been reached by both sides. Perhaps the explosion was designed to impress not the Russians but the Chinese, who presumably are still working to develop their own nuclear arsenal and may still be harboring ideas about going to war with the United States some time in the future.

Color Talks

Color is one of the absolutely vital attributes of human life. Of course it has always been thus. Use of color as personal adornment for instance goes back to early times. Makeup of varying hues has titillated the fancy of male and female all the way from Roman society to the primitive tribes of Africa.

Today it also manifests itself in the fresh dimension of the psychedelic world, in exotic jewelry and painting of the body as well as the face. Combined, the garish phenomenon of the latter as pleasant companions for a day's outing or as models to help sell a new auto. Thus it seems appropriate that a car showroom in Toronto recently was the scene of an unusual beauty contest. Six British-born girls competing for the title British Miss Canada were judged not only for their beauty but for the originality of their "body psychedelia." The girls showed off quite a variety of interesting styles in this modern adaptation of the cosmetic art.

One of the more bizarre creations in this sphere of late shows a model decorated in the manner envisaged by a person living in an urban environment in the year 2,000. The young woman combines heavy eye makeup and pale lip coloring with what is described as "body paint" for insulation against weather and pollutants, including radioactivity.

Another accessory of this strange young woman of tomorrow (she looks like one of those tribal females from the National Geographic) is a computer necklace that programs her day, governing the temperature of her oven, warning when her children will be home, and monitoring the guidance of her car.

If one needs any proof of how fashion change with the times this kind of imaginative peering into the future furnishes it. Perhaps the women of the year 2000 will be quite "square," and ordinary in appearance. One thing is certain, color will play as much part in their lives as it has since time immemorial.

Instant Power Swallows Up Pierre Trudeau's Privacy

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Like so many people were asking only yesterday . . . does Pierre Elliott Trudeau know what hit him . . . and what it means to him as a private person?

He is getting a rough — very rough, in the hard-to-take sense — idea, and doesn't seem to like it at all.

What has hit him so suddenly and unexpectedly is responsibility — the nation's heaviest load of it — and it has knocked him as a private person into a very public fish bowl.

He displayed instant alarm when he rose to thoughtlessly thanked his initial press conferences for services-yet-to-come of "recording for a fruitful posterity my every yawn and ageratch."

Obviously, he felt the prospect of being forever on public inspection quite repulsive.

He continued showing distaste when he first like a scared rabbit his Easter holiday Florida hide-out at the sight of a single newshound.

And he persists in his belief that holding the most public office in Canada, he can still be his own private man, making himself as inaccessible as possible.

At the moment he demonstrates all the tell-tale signs of feeling overwhelmed by a clamoring world crowding in on him.

Which perhaps is not at all surprising since it was less than four months ago he first thought of making it as prime minister — and then, at the opening of what seems to be perhaps turning into a personal ordeal for him, only as something of a "joke."

In truth, he is being overwhelmed. But he had better get used to it.

For it goes with the job, that haunted feeling of never being able to be quite alone.

It is the penalty of power.

Everybody in this acquisitive Ottawa establishment wants something, and he of all men can give the most.

His is the exclusive gift of instant - authority, his say-so the password to sudden-security, his hand the magic wand of immediate-prosperity.

He appoints $32,000 - a-year departmental deputies, makes or breaks the Civil Service mandarins. He decides the big contracts running into their multi-millions. He names the $100-a-day - and - all - expenses - paid royal commissioners. His is the final word on the taxing and spending of an annual $12,000,000,000.

But most of all — and this perhaps is the single greatest pressure point on a prime minister — he causes that most-wonderful-of-all phone calls to be made: "The prime minister has instructed me to ask if you could spare him tomorrow, and please be in a dark suit."

You have won the richest political prize of them all — you are in the Senate with an annuity worth better than a half million dollars it "life"begins at 40" as it has for some senatorial jackpot-winners.

While the new prime minister is showing unmistakable signs of finding it fat too big for comfort in his new power kitchen, there are amenities.

And not just the $150,000 old greystone mansion at 24 Sussex Drive high on the bluffs above the Ottawa River, nor the $100,000 "cottage" at Harrington Lake sparkling jewel-like between pine-clad Gatineau hills.

Although the Harrington lodge should have a very special appeal as a sort of weekend clubhouse for go-go executives, high divers, speed boaters, swim stylists and practitioners of the art of the frug.

It could not be the chauffeured limousines, either, nor the staff of servants.

For as a millionaire bachelor, Pierre Elliott Trudeau of Westmount seems to would have had all this and more.

Rather it has to be the heady experience of being pretty much of a parliamentary nonentity, a political dilettante — you made speeches in the Commons and who listens — then suddenly being king of The Hill.

Instantly, there is heading response to your every whim and recoil in terror from your slightest frown.

You find that you alone can put the chosen few above all others. And you can just as easily brush them into the discard.

You are fawned on — and probably despise it. And you are mortally feared — despising it even more.

You are the beginning and the end of hope and ambition for so many.

You are prime minister, and never for a moment, perhaps not even in your dreams, are you allowed to forget it. Too many people want too many things, and so you are never alone.

You have become the most public person in all the land. You are master and slave.

"Daddy was only fooling dear —of course he'll vote for Mr. Trudeau"

Niagara Escarpment Plan

Hamilton Spectator

The Ontario government's pledges to preserve the Niagara escarpment and to build new recreational resources soon will face a $36 million test.

Development of a 46-mile drive has been proposed by consultants hired by the province and Wentworth, Lincoln and Welland Counties. The drive would wind through scenery augmented by nine courses, ski slopes, campsites, hiking and riding trails, historical restorations, artificial lakes and nature study centres.

It is the latest in a series of scenic drive proposals. All previous efforts have been futile.

Now, however, Queen's Park has committed itself, in policy at least. If Ontario intends to keep its promises, it will initiate public acquisition of escarpment land this year — before prices are any higher.

The new plan may have to be altered in detail but the general concept is wholly justifiable in a densely populated region that can't meet its own recreational requirements or capitalize fully on its tourism potential.

The pros and cons of riding stables and golf course layouts can be decided at leisure. But scenic drive and recreational land should be brought under public ownership immediately.

Basic Shelter Grant

Kingston Whig-Standard

The Ontario Government seems to be badgered these days by a marked inclination to produce defective legislation. Just a few days ago, for instance, the Government had to back down on the new legislation calling for the eventual compulsory use of holding 'tanks for the toilets of privately-owned boats. The legislation demanded that the tanks be mandatory but did not at the same time insist that all marinas and docking systems (including Government systems) have the pumping out facilities which such tanks would be useless.

The latest example is the basic shelter exemption grant. The measure was introduced 1 n the Legislature by the Minister of Municipal Affairs, Darcy McKeough. He was forced to admit that the legislation was so badly drawn up that tenants with no leases or with leases expiring before December 31, have no guarantee that they will be able to share in the grants.

The legislation provides that the grants will not be paid directly to home-owners and tenants but to municipalities and landlords. As the Opposition was quick to point out, this begs the question of how to insure that landlords pass the saving on to tenants and also to prevent municipalities from spending money they might not otherwise have spent, in the knowledge that the tax bills sent to individuals would be reduced by the grant.

Letter to the Editor

Air Travel in the Future

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Your editorial titled Air Travel of April 26 makes little sense.

Obviously air transportation is short of being completely safe. It does not take the loss of 100 lives to prove this point — even walking will never be completely safe.

Secondly the fact that the aircraft in question was virtually brand new has no bearing on the matter — mechanical failure can occur unexpectedly at any point in the life of a machine.

Thirdly, the jumbo-jets will not be flying at speeds greatly in excess of the contemporary jets. (Unless you consider 20 mph, a mere 3 per cent increase as being step forward, that is.) It will be many years before the supersonic transports are carrying more-passengers than the Boeing 707, VC 10 and DC8.

Finally, with the present attitude of the public, safety and defence are completely unrelated. Witness the daily carnage on our highways, much the result of unsafe vehicles, and yet how many people refuse to drive? Very few.

E. A. JOHNSON
Ottawa.

EDITOR'S NOTE: If Mr. Johnson wants to split hairs on the subject of air safety, that is his business. However, with regard to the new supersonic transport, a recent report from Seattle by Canadian Press writer Jack Morris made reference to delivery dates, carrying capacity and Canadian participation in its manufacture, as follows. "Current Boeing passenger jets — the 'jumbo' will be flown late this year and delivered to the airlines starting next year — contain Canadian components that range from small valves to portions of the main landing gear. All of the prime contracts for the 490-passenger multi - decked jumbo have been let to American firms but there is still room for subcontracts. ...Boeing says it hopes to sell an additional 200 jumbos after initial orders are filled by 1972. The company already has orders for 144 planes.

Bachelor Leader

Trudeau Third in 100 Years

Windsor Star

It's a commentary of some sort on the Canadian character that Pierre Elliott Trudeau will be the third prime minister of this century who is unmarried.

If Mr. Trudeau is a swinger, the same term could by no means be applied to the two bachelors who preceded him into this century, W. L. Mackenzie King and R. B. Bennett. Neither was addicted to fast sports cars, casual clothing, or wisecracking banter. But then they lived in different times.

The very fact that a bachelor could become prime minister is important, however. It is difficult to imagine an unmarried man running for the presidency of the United States. The White House's happy family gathered around the home fireside is now an important a public relations gimmick as the log cabin once was. Of the 35 men who have been president, only one was a bachelor. He was James Buchanan, president from 1857 to 1861.

What to conclude? Are Canadians more tolerant? Or less interested in family life? Or not very prey to the public relations manufacturers? Or do they simply not care about politics?

The Intelligencer welcome letters to the editor. No letter will be published that does not bear the hand-written signature and the address of the sender. For publication purposes, however, a pseudonym or pen-name may be used if the writer so desires.

Non-White Immigrants Issue

Racism Reveals Itself Among Britain's Working Class

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

On Tuesday, April 23, the feast day of St. George, a London newspaper gently reminded its readers that England's patron saint was an immigrant, a Palestinian Arab who arrived at about the time of the Crusades. And there is doubt that he ever slew the dragon.

On that same feast day more than 1,000 tough East London dock workers quit work and marched to Parliament in support of their new champion booted from his job for trying to overcome what, in the eyes of many whites, was a new dragon, the non-white immigrant swelling the British working classes.

Enoch Powell, the right-wing Tory MP, has suddenly become a new idol with thousands of letters flowing in his home in support of his stand that Britain should bar dark-skinned immigrants and start encouraging some of the 1,000,000 already in Britain to leave.

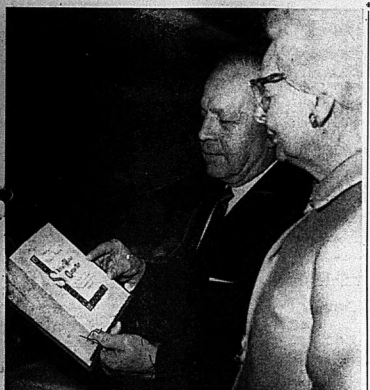
Britons are generally known as tolerant persons and the emotional response that followed Powell's weekend statements surprised many observers. A survey by Britain's Institute of Race Relations concluded that Britons generally are more tolerant toward colored persons than political leaders would suggest.

But the dockers' rush to Powell's support seemed to be more in line with the views of another Tory MP, Sir Gerald Nabarro, who said Powell reflected the views of 80 per cent of the British population.

The dockers carried such placards as: "65,000 Dockers Support Powell," "Keep Britain White," "Enoch Powell Says What Everyone Thinks."

Even Home Secretary James Callaghan conceded that racism is a "live force" in Britain though he does not believe it is as yet deep-rooted.

Nevertheless the emotional impact of Powell's position may indicate the difficulties the government will face in trying to enforce its new bill to widen the law against racial discrimination.



Critics of the bill now under hot debate maintain the legislation lacks strong teeth.

But it is questionable whether the government would bow to their demands. In the current electrified atmosphere the Labor administration may consider itself fortunate if the bill can move through the legislative mill without being badly-mauled.

Ingoing and Outgoing Presidents

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Hagerman are congratulated by Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Ethier on the eve of Mr. Hagerman's retirement from the presidency of Stewart-Warner Canada Ltd. last night. Mr. Ethier will be taking over the office.

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. "Stan" Hagerman look over the leather bound commemorative book Mr. Hagerman was awarded by the board of directors of Stewart-Warner for his service. The pages are gilt inlaid and each letter was done individually by an artist's brush. The words were also permanently inscribed into the company records.

40 Years Service

S. D. Hagerman Retires

After 40 years of service with the Stewart-Warner corporation, in capacities ranging from bookkeeper (40 years ago) to president of the Canadian company (today), S. D. "Stan" Hagerman, has retired.

The retirement reception held last night at the Sun Valley for Mr. Hagerman followed a retirement party last Friday in Chicago, location of the company's head office.

The gathering in Chicago saw Mr. Hagerman being awarded a commemorative color television set by the board of directors who also voted unanimously to have a citation honoring Mr. Hagerman and his service to the corporation permanently inscribed into the company records.

Nevertheless, last night's reception was not anti-climactic.

Chairman for the evening was F. C. Ethier, who will be taking over Mr. Hagerman's position.

Perhaps the story of Mr. Hagerman's life, presented on the group with slides, did better to honor his achievements than any comments made by last night's speakers.

Born and raised in Belleville Mr. Hagerman was an outstanding athlete excelling in both baseball and hockey. He was a member of the Nationals, the 1928 senior baseball championship team and was just as outstanding in hockey, having played both Junior and Intermediate hockey for the late Ed. Thomas.

After giving up the active side of sports he went on to coach the championship Belleville Bantam hockey team. Making his debut in the hockey world as one of Mr. Hagerman's players was Bobby Hull.

Joining the Alemite Corporation in 1928 Mr. Hagerman rose quickly in the company and in 1954 he was sent to England as managing director of Stewart - Warner in that country.

After building and setting in operation a new plant at Harlow, England, Mr. Hagerman was transferred to headquarters in Chicago with the export department in 1960.

It didn't take long before he was appointed director of export sales for the entire corporation.

Finally in 1964 Mr. Hagerman came back to Belleville as manager and president of Stewart - Warner Corporation, Canada Ltd.

"Under Stan's leadership our Canadian company has had much success," said Bennett Archambault board chairman of Stewart-Warner, "and in 1967 achieved a new high in peacetime earnings."

In addition, Mr. Hagerman was the only executive of the company who has served in three countries.

His contributions to the corporation were recognized at head office as well as locally.

At the reception last night, the heads of all plant departments extended their appreciation for Mr. Hagerman's guidance and wished him the best successes in the future.

He was presented with a stereo tape player for his car and Mrs. Hagerman was given flowers.

Perhaps the most lasting and meaningful reward for his long years of service was the citation inscribed into the company records.

A copy of the inscription was presented to Mr. Hagerman in Chicago by the board of directors. A leather bound book, with gilt inlaid introductions and every letter carefully painted with an artist's brush it expressed the corporation's sincere thanks to the retiring executive.

After accepting the gifts and well wishes from his friends and associates, Mr. Hagerman made his closing remarks filled with emotion. He especially thanked his wife, "without whose tolerance and understanding," he said, he could not have done it.

Mr. Hagerman, who has always had a keen interest in civic affairs, is an active supporter of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of this organization.

Mr. Hagerman is also member of the Belleville Rotary Club, on the board of the Belleville Cemetery and on the executive board of the Canadian Manufacturing Association.

The Hagermans are retiring to their farm on the Rednersville road.

West Bridge Street

Construction Project Under Way

That long awaited reconstruction job on West Bridge Street — from the Lower Bridge to Highland Ave. — has started at last.

City engineer Wilbur Purcell said that installation of the storm sewers, preliminary to the actual reconstruction job, was started yesterday afternoon by the Tatham Company of Belleville.

So far the next few months traffic will be disrupted in the Bridge Street hill area.

However, two single lanes of traffic — one for eastbound and the other for westbound vehicles — will be maintained throughout the sewer installation project.

The traffic lanes, clearly marked by white lines, will be on the north side of the street allowing the opposite side to be fenced to protect the sewer excavation.

However, to allow for sewer installation along James Street, this artery will be closed except for local traffic.

Rush hour traffic for across the bay — between four and six o'clock in the afternoon — which would normally turn down James Street will be re-routed up Bridge Street hill along Highland Ave., and down the Dundas Street hill.

This re-routing is necessary because left turns south on Coleman Street from Bridge Street are ruled out during the rush hour period. No. 14 highway signs will be changed to comply with the re-routing.

Mr. Purcell said the sewer contractor has commenced work at three different locations. They are at the Moira River and West Dundas Street, at the corner of James and West Bridge Streets and at the south end of James Street, where it was necessary to remove an old storm sewer to make way for the installation of the new pipe.

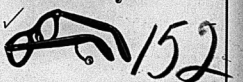
Farmers Union

County Refuses Grants

PICTON (Staff) — Both the Prince Edward County farmers' union, and the federation of farmers, have been refused county grants amounting to $500.

Daniel Nielson, president of the farmers' union, speaking at a meeting yesterday said that the two groups would solicit funds from each of the county townships.

He said that he expected that most of the funds could be raised in that manner although certain townships refused funds to the groups, last year.



The organizations were forced to take the same action last year when council turned down similar requests.

"The funds are required to help defray costs of the group meetings, hall rentals, transportation costs for guest speakers, and travel costs for area representatives to various conventions," said Mr. Nielson.

Columnist Recommends Positive Approach for Longevity

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: What is your formula for a long life? — About to Retire.

Dear About: Have I got one? More than anything, I might recommend the positive approach. It is all very well to be one of those who say "Let's face it!" and then launch into a pessimistic and discouraging cataloging of untoward events. They think they are being brave and astute.

Give me the guy or gal who sees the happy side of things. A recent survey of three hundred men and women over 90 revealed that for the most part:

1. They were somewhat underweight.

2. They were physically active, spending a good deal of time out of doors.

3. They were not smokers.

4. Dispositions were calm; they were not easily upset. They "would as soon sing as speak". (Quoted from Martin M. Gronsack, outstanding psychologist. Want the name and publisher of his fine new book?)

* * *

Dear Doris: Our children have all flown the nest. Three of them are married, but one son is still searching for the girl of his dreams. Can a mother help her son make a choice, or should she keep out of it? He is 27 years of age, and has a good position.

I think it is just wonderful the way you answer these weighty questions. —Author-ess Mom.

Dear Mom: She can help — but not too obviously. In Canadian society a man chooses his own mate.

What you can do is create a little helpful atmosphere. A refrigerator stocked with the makings for snacks, a record player with dance records, some tossed out invitations to friends to drop in; these might start something.

Always be available for an off-the-record chat. A young man would sometimes give his eye-teeth for a devoted older person's ear — and her gently offered point of view.

* * *

Dear Doris: The little bits of old poetry discovered by your readers fascinate me and each time I wonder if by chance someone somewhere would recall the one I read as a child.

This one phrase haunts me and has me curious as to the rest of it: "With trembling hands I built a castle on shifting sands. . ."

Your column is a delight. Never miss reading it. — Many Years Ago.

Dear Years Ago: Intrigued? Anybody?

Brockville Woman Heads Club

LONDON, Ont. CP — Mrs. Ian M. Alexander of Brockville was elected president of the Association of May Court Clubs of Canada at the conclusion of the association's annual meeting Thursday.

Mrs. Alexander predicted the clubs are "going to grow tremendously in the next ten years, because there is a great need for the kind of service we give. Men just don't have the time to do the social service work with other citizens and children that we do."

Mrs. F. R. Buskard of London was elected first vice-president of the association and Mrs. Donald Armstrong of Brockville is new field secretary.

During the business session Mrs. Buskard suggested the association look into the possibility of forming junior auxiliaries.

Guest speaker Marney Roe, women's editor of the London Free Press, said the job of the status of women commission is to search out areas where women are having difficulties getting ahead, not because of lack of skill, but because they are women.

"It will be a tremendous relief when we reach some kind of independent maturity and stop analyzing ourselves."

Miss Roe said she hoped the commission would sort out the inequities which hamper some women.

"But, to expect a sudden, overwhelming upsurge of importance of women would be foolish. It is reasonable to suspect there are proportionately as many ambitious women as men. Not every man runs for political office — not every man reaches the top of the business heap."

Ann Landers

Reversed Procedure: Secretary Bothers Boss

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had to smile when I read the letter from the secretary whose boss couldn't keep his hands to himself. She said his "fatherly" pats had become bold pinches and squeezes and she wanted your honest advice on how to keep him in line without jeopardizing her job.

ANN LANDERS

It so happens that I am a boss and my problem is a secretary who won't keep her hands off me. I am 39 and no handsome lover type. My secretary is 23 and very attractive. She is also very competent and knows this office from top to bottom. If I fired her it would take months to break in a new girl. This pawing has been going on for nine years. Please tell me what to do. I am in urgent need of an answer. — ALSO UPPACRICK.

DEAR ALSO: If you have been "suffering" with the problem for nine years it can't be very urgent. I will give you the same advice I gave the secretary who wrote, Kvetcherkiddin'.

* * *

This letter may sound terribly stupid but it is a problem that bothers not only me, but some of my friends. Maybe you can help.

I am a girl, 16, and have been dating for over a year. I go with nice fellows and my folks have met and approved of them all. The problem is that whenever I leave the house my mother and father both kiss me good-bye as if I am going to Europe or something.

The other evening my dad was in the back of the house and my sister shouted to them, "Come kiss Ellie, good-bye — she's leaving." I felt like a fool.

Please tell me what to do about this? — KISSING KIN.

* * *

DEAR KIN: Stop complaining. Your parents sound like warm-hearted people who love you and aren't ashamed to show it. If you could read the letters I get from teen-agers whose parents give them the deep-freeze you'd appreciate yours.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you printed a letter dealing with parents, children, and money. You gave the impression that you are opposed to parents giving adult children money. Have you considered the age of the parent and the amount of money involved?

Giving money does not necessarily result in loss of income or security. It might merely require an investment that would yield more tax-free dollars. A small gift of $2,000 would not only endear the parent to the child, but yield greater net results after estate taxes. And no gift tax would be involved either.

Since you generously consult experts why didn't you consult an estate planner before you answered the mother's letter? — GREAT NECK ATTORNEY.

DEAR GREAT NECK: I didn't need to consult an expert on that one. I know the answer. And it has nothing to do with estate planning or gift tax.

Your notion that an annual present of $3,000 will "endear" a parent to a child is rubbish. Too many confused parents have the notion that money and gifts are appropriate substitutes for time and attention. Irrevocable trust funds are appealing because "it's cheaper than giving the money to the government." Granted, some trusts make a great deal of sense, especially where there is an incompetent or foolish wife who would blow an estate if she had the chance. But the other side of the coin should not be ignored. If a kid knows he is due to inherit a staggering sum at 21 it may kill his incentive to stay in school or go to work (heaven forbid). And then you have him on your hands.

Orange Meringue Pie for A Change

By MARY MOORE

The questions were mine — besides I had gorgeous oranges on hand and only one lemon!

The result was a beauty and served seven people.

ORANGE MERINGUE PIE
(Deep 10")

PASTRY:
1¼ cups stirred but not sifted pastry flour
½ tsp. salt
½ cup best quality shortening
¼ cup butter
2 tbsps. cold water

FILLING:
Grated rind 1 large orange
2 cups fresh orange juice—unstrained if desired
½ cup sugar
3½ tbsps. corn starch
¼ tsp. salt
4 large eggs — yolks and whites separated
½ cup butter
¼ cup water
2 tbsps. lemon juice

MERINGUE:
4 egg whites
½ cup sugar
½ tsp. vanilla

To make Pastry cut shortening and butter into flour and salt until size of peas with pastry blender. Drizzle in water, tossing with a fork. Pack into ball between palms. Roll out on generously floured board to fit deep 10" pie plate. Line pie plate and smooth and flute edges — making fluting stand up high as you can. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. about 10 min. — but watch it! Remove as soon as it begins to tinge with gold. Cool.

To make Filling grate the rind from one of your oranges before cutting them in halves to squeeze. Heat the 2 cups orange juice over very low heat — but do not boil. In heavy saucepan mix well together dry, the sugar, corn starch, orange rind and salt. Stir in heated orange juice until thick and stir 2 or 3 minutes longer over low heat. Remove from heat. In a small bowl beat egg yolks a little and stir some of the hot mixture into them and return to hot mixture and stir over low heat 1 min. Remove from heat and add butter and water mixed with lemon juice and stir well. Pour into baked pie shell.

To make Meringue beat ½ cup sugar with the egg whites until stiff. Beat in vanilla and spoon meringue over warm filling, sealing it to edge of crust. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until pale gold — about 15 min.

NOTE: This orange meringue pie (or a lemon meringue pie) should be finished baking at least three hours before serving time to allow it to cool and set for neat slicing.

Beach Buggies Popular

By DON MacKENZIE

Gangway beachcombers! Here come the hellrivers of the shoreline — The Rat Patrol of West Lake.

Headquarters for the "sand buggie" hobby in the Quinte area is the village of Wellington where already six of the modified Volkswagens are in production, four of them road, or rather sand worthy.

The sport first hit big in California and "buggie" kits were put on the market by various fiberglass companies. However, Reg Gallagher, a former member of the Canadian Forces asked, "Why spend the money", and built his own buggie out of a shortened "Volks" chassis, tubing and sheet metal.

It didn't take long to catch on with others.

As Robert Quick of Wellington, who is building two of the machines, put it, "We have snowmobiles in the winter, why not sandmobiles in the summer."

The operation begins with picking up an old or wrecked Volkswagen with a usable engine.

There is no real problem getting the body off the frame, according to the pioneers, and from there on it is a relatively simple operation.

After the chassis is shortened along with the clutch and brake lines, a body frame is made out of tubing and then covered with 12 guage sheet metal — les voila — your "dune buggie" is ready for the beach.

Total cost of the enterprise shouldn't amount to more than $300 and it only takes a month of part-time work for the physical end of it.

Speaking of beaches, the only place the "buggies" are practical, the builders have come up against their biggest problem.

Us to this time the stretch of beach extending from the sandbanks to the channel entering into West Lake (at Wellington) has been the course.

However, getting the "sand buggies" to the beach presents a problem — one either has to cross the channel at Wellington or drive 12 miles to the Outlet, drive through the provincial park and then back up the beach.

How long the Department of Lands and Forests is going to put up with this is doubtful.

"We're hoping some arrangements will be able to be worked out since the stretch of beach east of Wellington is desolated," said one driver.

In the meantime though, the sand-buggies are going strong, with six ready now and more on the way it looks as if another trend has started.

The Desert Fox himself would be surprised at the mobility and speed (up to 100 mph) of the self-made dune buggies.

For sportamen, creating the wildlife sanctuary has meant years of putting hard work where their ideals are. Above, in typical scene, members of Lower Trent Valley Protective Association, aided by senior Frankford Scouts, labor at creating water-controlled pond for birds.

Conservation Area Shows Way

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

FRANKFORD — How long for a dream to become reality?

With a little bit of luck, plus lots of patience and hard work, it can be done in eight to nine years.

At least, that's the formula evolved by the Lower Trent Valley Fish and Game Protective Association.

The curious get a close up of the dream near completion this summer when the association once more opens its 85-acre holding near here to the public.

Admission to the area, its picnic grounds, its wildlife, its ponds, creeks and woodland — is free.

But the area, sprawling gently on the east bank of the Trent River about a mile north of here, has a serious significance.

"The idea of the whole project is to bring to the attention of our members and the general public, a continuing reminder for the need of wildlife conservation," says founding member Chuck Lawson. "Already we've started to achieve that purpose, we think."

Public school students regularly browse through the area during nature-study classes. Scouts use it for camp training. Sportsmen galore attend in its big club house for regular lectures on conservation and wildlife protection.

It all began over coffee cups in Frankford.

"The idea grew out of a bunch of guys — maybe a dozen — who used to hunt together.

"They met one day for coffee," recalls Chuck Lawson. "Some of them already had been practising conservation by building duck nests and feeding stations along the Trent River.

"They decided they should raise pheasants and wildlife and do something for conservation in the area."

That was in 1960.

The idea was its own impetus. Other sportsmen reacted favorably and without further ado they sought a suitable site.

Their present site was the first and last land parcel the founding members viewed.

They set to work to shape their plans into reality — and eight years later they're putting the finishing touches to the pet project.

Now in the final stages of completion is a big pond complete with a doughnut-shaped island to give bird life a sanctuary from predators.

The big club-house with its 60-foot frontage and an unrolling view of the Murray Hills should be finished by fall.

Its stock of wildlife also has grown. Ducks, geese, pheasants and swans now spread their wings over the area.

There's even a herd of seven deer which wandered onto the property and — encouraged by its feeding resources—likely will make it their running ground.

The wildlife is flourishing—often despite natural vicissitude.

Predators have been a problem in the sanctuary as they are in the surrounding countryside.

Foxes and skunks from time to time have preyed on the birds.

Once, seven pheasants fell victim to a mysterious enemy before club members finally trapped the predator.

It was a huge owl, no less menacing for its gently-ruffled appearance. The predator is now a prime exhibit in the display of mounted animals in the club house basement.

Association membership also has soared since those early days. It numbers up to 600 paying supporters throughout the Quinte district.

U.S. holidaymakers with cottages along the Trent River also have caught the local enthusiasm through the years. Now annual dues are paid from such far away places as Cleveland and Buffalo.

Neither has the general public in the area been unaware of the project. In recent summers they flocked to its picnic grounds and special events.

"Sometimes on a Sunday we get between 50 and 100 cars in here," estimates Hermant Beard, another of the original members.

But, with full-scale realisation of their plans and the expected increase in public response, the project may need full-time attention.

"The day may inevitably come when admission to the area will not be totally free," admits Chuck Lawson.

"The sad part is it takes money and labor to look after a place like this. In order to keep it up it may mean we will have to pay someone."

But, there's still much to tackle in the immediate future. There's that big club house to finish — and lanscape. A water control system for the new pond must be completed. There's much to be done — and, if present accomplishments are any criterian — lots of enthusiasm to do it with. In the district you can go to now."

And, with the increase in provincial park fees this year, the association expects a even greater influx.

This poses a new problem.

The area was born of members' herculean enthusiasm — in hard labor and cash. Spare time and spare funds in the past eight years have nearly all been channelled into the conservation project.

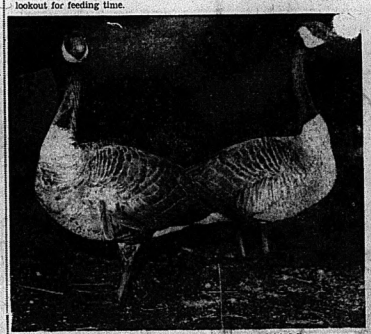
There have also been secondary distractions. Members helped the department of lands and forests patrol local streams against poachers during spawning time.

... Crash Into The Bush

The aftermath of Reg Gallagher's flying drive over the sand dune happened when he failed to negotiate the corner at the bottom of the gully. The bush was in poor shape but the "sand buggie" didn't suffer a scratch.

Zoom Over The Hill And...

Over the hill and into the gully come Reg Gallagher, who built the first "dune buggie" in Wellington, and his co-pilot Paul Young. If only they knew then what awaited them at the bottom of the gully.



A Sandy Problem

Even the well-made, hard to break "dune buggies" have their problems when sand and [illegible] Luckily, a friend in need is a friend in "deed" and Reg Gallagher hooked up a rope to try and get fellow driver Floyd Poff's "buggy" going again.

Although Lower Trent Protective Association area needs nothing startling to attract public, Wildlife specimens find many fond admirers to watch over them — like this brace of geese who keep a two-way lookout for feeding time.

Graceful swans add classic touch to setting as night falls on conservation area. The birds are among wide variety of species protected by local sportsmen at Frankford - district project.

Keeping Pace

By Maurice Switzer

If we're going to give awards, let's do it up right.

I mean, Gordie Howe has a closet full of Hart Trophies, and Sandy Koufax collected a bevy of baseball accolades before hanging up his cleats. But what about those, memorable slips of the tongue, slick, or glove that earn sports personalities equally conspicuous headlines?

In their time, the wrong-way touchdown, the missed base, and the heated word have cost errant athletes plenty of unwanted publicity. Why not take the positive approach and lend some dignity to the goofs when they crop up?

With this in mind, we institute the "Dubious Distinction" awards, for those associated with the sporting world who have demonstrated, beyond a doubt, that some individual word or deed classes them among the greats of the ranked.

Some current "Tristancers":

— We award golfer Tommy Aaron the April Willie Cane Citation for costing playing partner Robert DeVincenzo the Masters Golf tourney and the estimated million dollars in prestige money associated with winning this event by marking one too many on the score card.

— To Chicago Black Hawk coach Billy Reay — the Golden Shoehorn for putting his foot in his mouth beyond the call of duty with his claim that Canadian referees were hurting his U.S.-based team's chances in their series with Montreal Canadiens .

— At this early stage in the season, the Consistency Medal (with cluster) goes to the nameless New York Met infielder who bobbled a fiind-inning grounder to cost his mates victory in the longest night baseball game.

— Ontario Lands and Forests Minister Rene Brunelle is enrolled in the Order of Intestinal Fortitude for initiating resident fishing fees for provincial anglers in 1969.

— We nominate all U.S. television network sportscasters for hockey scholarships at the Canadian universities of their choice . . . and to play, but to learn that a beer commercial does not constitute a "time out down on the ice."

— The Emily Post plaque competition is currently dominated by Montreal Canadiens coach Hector "Toe" Blake, for providing coast-to-coast television audiences with hours of masterfully-executed nail-biting and gum-chewing.

— This year's "good sports" will probably be Brazilian fans, who worship soccer star "Pele" into a quarter-million-dollar annual salary — about a thousand times the average yearly income in that South American country.

— And finally, the "Might-Have-Been Mug" to the scholar who observed last week: "If Belgium hadn't baptized the Tea Tax in the Thirteen Colonies two centuries back, Willie Mays could now be the highest-paid cricket player in the world."

Sports In Brief

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Olympic Committee will send an application for Soviet athletes to participate in the 1968 Mexico Olympics now that South Africa has been excluded, an official announcement said Monday. The announcement said the decision was taken by the ruling presidium of the Soviet Olympic Committee. Earlier the Soviet Union had strongly suggested — without saying so directly — that it might boycott the Olympics if segregationist South Africa was permitted to send a team.

Ploen Quits After Four Grey Cups

WINNIPEG (CP) — Kenny Ploen and Winnipeg Blue Bombers football fans have been through thick and thin together for 11 years.

The 33-year-old quarterback, who led Bombers to six Western Football Conference titles and Four Grey Cups, announced his retirement Monday.

With him went tackle Frank Rigney, also 33, who followed Ploen from the University of Iowa 10 years ago. They are leaving the game to concentrate on business careers.

They each leave, as coach Joe Zaleski puts it, "a helluva pair of shoes to fill."

Ploen, fresh from a Rose Bowl victory, was named all-star Western quarterback in 1957. He was all-star defensive back in 1958 when he yielded the quarterback slot to Jim Van Pelt for a year. In 1965 he was a national all-star.

He said quitting now was the "logical choice." He has an elbow problem and missed some of last season with a shoulder injury.

Rigney, who admitted to a back problem, said continuing to combine two careers "would be unfair to the company I represent as well as to the football club."

He is an insurance company executive and Ploen is sales manager for the corrugated box division of a major paper firm.

Both are married with three children.

Rigney, at 6-foot-4 and 248 pounds, was seven times an all-star. He was voted Canada's outstanding lineman in 1961.

Coach Zaleski said the retirements "are going to hurt" the Bombers.

So far his only hope for quarterback is a Toledo University import, John Schneider, who lacks professional experience.

Ploen holds the club passing record with 16,676 yards gained on 1,094 completions in 1,916 attempts. His 56.8 per cent completion record resulted in 119 touchdowns.

His rushing average places him fourth on Bombers' records with an average of five yards a carry, or 2,931 yards in 6..0 carries.

In his Winnipeg career he scored 32 touchdowns and 25 converts.

Allan Cup

Four Straight? ...Better Wait

WINNIPEG (CP) — "We'll take it four straight," said high-scoring Clement Tremblay of Victoriaville Tigers in the dressing room after his club bounced St. Boniface Mohawks 6-2 in the first game of a best-of-seven Allan Cup final Monday.

"Don't say that," warned Tigers coach Lou Polliquin who felt that his club had played worse game then in its 6-1 loss to Corner Brook, Nfld., on the eastern playoff trail.

The Tiger coach, unhappy with his team's performance, looked at the win cautiously.

"Maybe they (Mohawks) were like us and didn't play too well tonight. I don't know. We didn't play hockey tonight. The only one who played good was the goalie."

Goalie Claude Hardy handled 47 shots and broke almost every drive Mohawks managed to get going, particularly in the second period when St. Boniface held a two-man advantage for almost a full minute.

Brian Elwell clicked on two goals and an assist for Victoriaville in the sometimes-rough game which drew seven penalties, equally in the latter stages. Adding singles were Tremblay, the 20th of the long playoff trail, John Mentis, Jocelyn Hardy, and Larry Drouin.

Beating goalie Hardy for singles were Lorne Bodanski and defenceman Tom Marshall, who also assisted on Bodanski's goal.

Aime Allaire, Mohawks manager, conceded that "it was a bad game for us. But they aren't as good as I had thought they were."

Gerry Kell, centre on the line with NHL-veteran Gary Aldcorn and Bodanski, reflected: "They're two good clubs . . . it's a matter of who makes the least mistakes."

Allaire thought the loss "did us more good than harm. I think we learn the team now."

Mistakes allowed Tigers to jump to a 3-0 first-period lead and a 5-1 command after two.

Victoriaville hit the scoreboard at the 43-second mark when Montreal goalie Henry Goy waited too long before deciding to leave his net to clear the puck about 10 feet inside his blueline.

Tremblay, in a burst of speed, caught Goy with the puck, steered it around the defenceless Goy and slid it into an open net.

The second Tiger goal resulted from sloppy clearing and the third was scored by Elwell on a two-man break.

The play slowed for most of the second period. Bodanski stickhandled through the Tiger defence to flash Hardy's decision, beating the little goalie with a short, wrist shot for Mohawks' first counter.

They got their second on a strong individual effort by Bill Poddoldy who beat off two Tiger defencemen and passed to Marshall, standing alone in front of the net. Marshall drove the puck under Hardy.

Referee Serge Sammartino of Kamloops called 14 penalties, nine to Victoriaville.

The second game is scheduled for tonight, with the third game Thursday.

At Least Fifty Run for Ken Colling Memorial Cup

The 24th annual running of the Ken Colling Memorial Trophy race at 2:45 Wednesday afternoon will see more than 50 high school entrants from Belleville, Trenton, Picton, Stirling and the OSD competing in the four and one - half mile run.

The man to beat in this year's competition is Robby Ostrander of Prince Edward Collegiate, Picton, last year's winner and an early entrant in this year's race.

The course laid out for the race traditionally takes the runners throughout east Belleville from the start at BCI high school. Residents along Queen Street, Bridge Street, Parrott Drive, and Victoria Avenue will be able to watch the competition from their homes.

Winner of tomorrow's competition will be awarded the Ken Colling Memorial trophy.

Blues Again

"Nearer My Habs To Thee"

ST. LOUIS (CP) — A 33-year-old left winger who has played in every professional hockey league in North America has put St. Louis Blues within one game of the Stanley Cup finals.

But coach Wren Blair of Minnesota North Stars says his club isn't finished yet.

Bill McCreary, who bounced around in the minors for 12 seasons after two years with New York Rangers between 1953 and 1955, batted in a pass from Gerry Melnyk at 11:27 of sudden-death overtime Monday night to give the Blues a 3-2 verdict and a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven National Hockey League finals.

"I had the whole side of the net to shoot at and I just popped it in," McCreary said in the dressing room after St. Louis won its second consecutive overtime victory.

"I sat on the bench for most of the first two periods, so maybe I was a little fresher."

The Blues rallied from a 3-0 deficit in the third period Saturday to win 4-3 in overtime on Gary Sabourin's goal at 1:32, but Blair doesn't believe it is the end of the season for the North Stars.

"The balance of the ice is the big thing now," Blair said. "St. Louis needs to win Wednesday in Minnesota and we need to win here Friday. It's as simple as that."

The sixth game of the series will be played in Minneapolis Wednesday at 8 p.m. CDT. The seventh, if necessary, will be here Friday.

The Wednesday night game will be shown on the CBC national television network starting at 9:30 p.m. EDT.

The winner moves into the finals against Montreal Canadiens, who have eliminated Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks.

McCreary also had praise for Cesare Maniago, the Minnesota goalie who stopped 52 shots—15 in overtime.

Sabourin and defenceman Bob Plager scored the other St. Louis goals. Walt McKechnie and defenceman Bob McCord scored for Minnesota.

Blairs' most effective line in the series—Milan Marcetta, Dave Balon, and Bob Goldsworthy—was on the ice for all three St. Louis goals.

The Blues led 2-1 at the end of the first period, but McCord tied it up in the second with a lazy flip shot from the blueline.

The Blues, who outshot Minnesota 11-5 in the scoreless third period, came out in the overtime as if they had taken pep pills in the intermission.

Maniago drew applause from the 11,391 fans for his spectacular performance. He was shaken up a bit in a second-round scramble at 5:47 of the overtime, but came back to make tremendous saves as his fence melted in the humid atmosphere.

Dodgers Halt Cards; Alston Back

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Los Angeles Dodgers gave Walter Alston a warm welcome but Cincinnati Reds turned Grady Hatton's homecoming into a holocaust.

With manager Alston in uniform for the first time in the National League season, the Dodgers snapped St. Louis' six-game winning string Monday night by edging the Cardinals 3-2 at Los Angeles.

At Houston, meanwhile, Cincinnati Reds went on a 22-hit rampage that crushed Hatton's Houston Astros 17-2 in their first home game in two weeks.

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh Pirates whipped Chicago Cubs 7-4 under the lights and Atlanta downed San Francisco Giants 7-2 in an afternoon game.

Don Sutton, making his first start for the Dodgers after being recalled from the minors, stalled the Cardinals with relief help from Jim Brewer and made Alston's homecoming a happy occasion. The 56-year-old pilot had missed the Dodgers' first 16 games while recovering from surgery for the removal of kidney stones.

Sutton scored one run, drove in another and blanked the Cards on three hits until the seventh inning, when two singles and Curt Flood's two run double closed the gap.

While the Cardinals' feathers were being ruffled after their six-game streak, the Astros returned to Houston to find their usually friendly Astrodome transformed into a chamber of horrors.

Houston played its first six games in the Dome, winning five and completing the home stand with a 10-4 victory over New York Mets on April 15. Then the Astros went on the road and lost eight of nine.

The Reds wasted little time in making it nine of 10 and relegating Houston to the league cellar.

They scored in every inning but the eighth, building a 4-1 early lead before exploding for six runs in the fourth.

Tony Perez led the onslaught with his fourth homer and five runs batted in. Pete Rose stroked four hits, scored four runs and knocked in three. Vada Pinson, Leo May, Leo Cardenas and Johnny Bench had three hits apiece, including Bench's first homer.

Willie Stargell's two-run single and a two-run homer by Bill Mazeroski carried the Pirates past the Cubs, ending a three-game Pittsburgh losing string. Steve Blass, making his first start, picked up the victory with relief help after Ernie Banks' seventh inning homer.

Ron Reed of Atlanta held the Giants to three hits in his first 1968 start. The Braves tagged loser Juan Marichal for 12 hits, including a homer and three singles by Tito Francona.

When Don Wert, who homered in the eighth, singled to centre field, Cash raced for home, but Rick Monday's throw had him beat. However, Lachemann dropped the peg and Cash barrelled into him and his knee struck Lachemann's head, flattening the catcher.

Lachemann was not seriously hurt, but Cash suffered a severe bruise and probably will sit out today's game.

The play made a winner of Mickey Lolich, who yielded only four hits after an eight-day layoff because of National Guard duty.

Reichardt bounced his bit up the middle in the seventh inning with the bases loaded and none out, putting the Angels ahead 3-1. The winning run scored later in the inning on a force out.

Reichardt, however, pulled a muscle running the bases and might not play today.

Roseboro Balloons Average

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Roseboro found a perfect way to ruin a day off. With a little extra effort, he hit his way out of it.

The 34-year-old catcher broke out of an 0-for-29 slump by cracking five hits in five at bats Monday night, setting off Minnesota's 11-2 rout over the Boston Red Sox.

"It was just a matter of time," said his manager, Cal Ermer. "However, we planned to give him a rest Tuesday. Now we'll wait and see how he feels."

After his first five-hit game in 12 seasons in the major leagues, Roseboro should be feeling just fine.

Norm Cash probably won't play today, but he must be feeling okay, too, after scoring the winning run in a bunt play collision that brought the Detroit Tigers a 2-1 victory over the Oakland As.

Another happy hitter who became a doubtful starter today is Rick Reichardt, who limped off the field after belting a two-run single that keyed California's 3-2 triumph over Cleveland in the only other American League game.

Roseboro, playing his first season in the American League after his acquisition from the Los Angeles Dodgers last winter, entered the Boston game with only three hits in 49 at bats for a .061 average.

By the end of the night, he had raised his average to .146 with three singles, a double and his first All Star homer off four of the six Red Sox pitchers. He drove in two runs and scored three.

Roseboro's hitting and three runs batted in by Ted Uhlaender made Jim Perry's third victory in four decisions easy. Given a 9-1 lead in three innings, he breezed with a six-hitter.

Cash's big hit came against Oakland catcher Rene Lachemann with two out in the ninth inning. He had forced Bill Freehan who had been hit by a pitch, and then reached second when reliever Jack Aker walked Jim Northrup.

Estevan Settles Western Affair

ESTEVAN, Sask. (CP) — The Abbott Cup, emblematic of junior hockey supremacy in Western Canada, went to the Estevan Bruins Monday night after a 12-1 verdict over the Penticton Broncos.

Some 1,200 fans watched the Bruins end 10 years of trying by taking the best-of-seven series in four straight games.

The Bruins were prodded by the single Penticton goal, the first of the game, scored by Adrian Blais at 2:45 of the first period. Then Estevan exploded, making it 3-1 at the end of the period, doubled their score by the end of the second and then doubled it again in the third.

Jim Harrison led the Bruins with four goals while Tommy Mitchell and Ernie Moser each scored twice. Brent Taylor, Danny Schock, Bob Picke and Dale Hogarnon added singles.

The Bruins picked up four of the six minor penalties.

Estevan didn't wait long after Blais came up with the game opener. Tommy Mitchell tied the game at 9:03. A minute later Jim Harrison put the Bruins ahead for the first time in the game. Harrison came through again with just nine seconds left in the period with a power-play goal while Len Barrie was off for interference.

Mitchell added his second of the game at 6:39 of the second period when he snapped a quick shot past Penticton goalie Doug Thompson.

Ernie Moser scored two minutes later and then Harrison racked up number three when Dale Hogarnon picked up a loose puck at centre ice. Hogarnon gave a short lead pass to Dan Schock who relayed it to Harrison, who in turn sidestepped the lone Penticton defender in his way.

Thompson was given no rest in the final period as the Bruins stretched the margin.

Brent Taylor opened the floodgates at 5:38 and Harrison came three minutes after with his fourth goal. Then, in rapid succession, Picke, Hogarnon and Moser added the string to the wrapping.

The win was the 20th for the Bruins in 23 playoff games this season. They have two ties—both with other Western Canada Junior Hockey League clubs—and one defeat at the hands of the Weyburn Hurricanes.

Despite the one-sided scoring, the Broncos didn't relax during the game. Tom Selvius, who scored the only Penticton goal in the third game Sunday, turned in a tireless performance on the right wing.

The Bruins won the third game 6-1, the second game 5-4 and the opener 3-0.

"They've got a great hockey team," said Penticton coach Jack Taggart. "We tried and the guys worked their hearts out. It would have been a tremendous shot in the arm for hockey in the Okanagan if we could have won just one game."

Estevan now meets the winner of the Verdun-Niagara Falls series for the Memorial Cup.

Three Players Named on All Ballots

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Barlow of Rochester Americans, Providence Reds' Eddie Kachur and Bill Needham of Cleveland Barons were named on every ballot in voting for the American Hockey League all-star team announced Monday.

Barlow, a left winger, led with 34 out of a possible 40 points. Kachur won the right wing spot with 33 points and Needham, a defenceman, had 32.

The rest of the all-star team has Gerry DesJardins of Cleveland in goal, Ron Ingram of Buffalo Bisons at defence and Mike Nykoluk of Hershey Bears at centre.

Each member of the first team receives a $300 bonus from the league. Second-team members receive $200.

Voted to the second team were goalie Bob Perreault of Rochester, defenceman Marc Reaume of Rochester and Jim Morrison of Quebec Aces, centre Dave Creighton of Providence and wings Simon Nolet of Quebec and Roger DeJordy of Hershey.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The fourth game of the Calder Cup final between Rochester Americans and Quebec Aces will be played at Quebec tonight, the American Hockey League announced Monday.

The game originally had been scheduled for Wednesday night. Rochester leads the best-of-seven set 2-1.

Quinte League Windup

Individual awards to team members in the Quinte Hockey League were presented at the league's annual banquet Friday evening.

The Most Valuable Player award went to Bill Lastimer of Grant's; Most Imprived Player was announced as Jack Lucas of Belvedere; High Scorer was Doug Hallam, also Belvedere; goalkeeping honors were shared by Claude Carr and Ken Genereaux of Belvedere; and Leroy McBrien of Stinson's was named as Most Gentlemanly Player. Best defenceman was Larry Potter of Belvedere.

Coach Paul Zakos of the Aluminum Stars, league champions, was awarded a special plaque for his contribution to his team and the league.

Ex-U.S. Coach Brings Skills To Canada

TORONTO (CP) — Bill Smith, coach of the Canadian Olympic wrestling team, is the first one to admit he has a problem on his hands.

Smith quit his job as coach of the U.S. Olympic wrestling team earlier this year to accept the difficult task of building a successful Canadian team.

He remembers that his U.S. wrestlers always had an easy time of it when Canadian wrestlers travelled south of the border.

The 39-year-old father of five said he accepted the offer and began a 10-month tour of Canada March 1 for purely economic reasons.

"I wasn't getting paid to coach the U.S. team," he said. "I'm getting paid here."

One of Smith's main jobs will be to tour high schools through Canada and develop young wrestlers.

He will hold a two-week training session for Canada's Olympic wrestlers Sept. 14 at the University of Guelph.

Calumet Farms Ready for Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Trainers Lou Cavalaris and Bill Stevens are looking ahead, while Calumet Farm is hoping to recapture the past.

Cavalaris and Stevens would like to see Saturday bring something new to them. Calumet would like it to be a day when memory once again is reality.

Cavalaris will be looking for his first Derby victory with Peter Fuller's Dancer's Image and Stevens will be trying for his first with Cain Hoy Stable's Captain's Gig.

Calumet, the owner of the most Derby winners, is pinning its hopes for a return to glory on Forward Pass, the silks of Calumet, now owned by Mrs. Gene Markey, last appeared in the Churchill Downs winner's circle in 1958 when Tim Tam carried them there for the seventh time.

Forward Pass is trained by Henry Forrest, who saddled 1956 winner Kauai King for Mike Ford.

The three colts rate as the early favorites for the 94th running of the Derby. Post time is about 4:30 p.m. EDT.

The list of probables was cut to 16 Monday when trainer Stanley Rieser withdrew Clifford Lussky's Blarney Kiss from any further consideration for the 1¼-mile Derby.

Owner Mary Keim said the horse suffered an eye injury when he banged his head against a fence in the stable area.

One Weekend Puts Barber In Top 10

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Miller Barber's $20,000 first prize in the Byron Nelson Golf Classic moved him into the list of the game's top 10 money winners this year with a total purse of $53,918, the U.S. PGA announced Monday.

Barber had $47,587 in official PGA tournament winnings and took over the American League lead in this category with six. Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota and Frank Howard of Washington Senators remained deadlocked for the runs batted in lead with 12. Each had three RBI last week.

Others on the list with official winnings: 3. George Archer, $33,714, $56,537; 4. Don Jamary $48,428, $50,288; 5. George Knudson, Toronto $48,382; $53,030; 7. Kermit Zarley, $46,200, $49,782; 8. Tony Jacklin, $45,690, $48,052; 9. Gardner Dickinson, $45,369, $47,277; 10. Al Geiberger, $46,595, $41,726.

Batters Having Ups and Downs

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Kessinger is leading the National League in batting. That's a switch.

The 27-year-old Chicago Cubs shortstop became a switch hitter last year and hit only .233 in 145 games. He previously had batted only right-handed.

This year, Kessinger is rapping the ball from both sides of the plate. In last week's games, he had 12 hits in 23 times at bat, a .522 pace. The surge enabled him to lift his average 77 points to .283, highest in both major leagues.

Curt Flood of St. Louis cardinals, last week's NL pace setter, dropped 29 points to .281 and second place.

Pete Rose of Cincinnati Reds advanced from sixth place to third on a six-point pickup to .307. He had eight hits in 20 attempts last week.

In the American League, Roy White of New York Yankees held on to the No. 1 spot although his average dropped from .500 to .366. The young outfielder had seven hits in 25 tries last week.

Bob Allison of Minnesota Twins slipped from .471 to .352 and is tied for second with Max Alvis of Cleveland Indians. Pete Ward of Chicago White Sox rushed up to fourth place at .340.

The figures include Sunday's games.

Roger Repoz of California Angels slammed three homers and took over the American League lead in this category with six. Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota and Frank Howard of Washington Senators remained deadlocked for the runs batted in lead with 12. Each had three RBI last week.

After Crash

Argentina Ponders Race Ban

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The Argentine national government Monday was reported considering a ban on auto road racing in the wake of a Sunday race in which seven persons were killed and 26 injured in a series of accidents.

Jorge Kissling and his assistant driver were killed when his car broke an axle, spun into a crash and burned on a dirt road near Balcarce.

A car driven by Raul Salerno went out of control and plunged into a group of spectators, killing one and injuring several others.

Segundo Taraborelli lost control of his, smashed over a wire fence, hit a standing truck and exploded in flames. He and his assistant driver and two spectators were burned to death.

Scouting activities

10th (Holloway United) Pack

On Wednesday, 24 boys of the Pack, accompanied by their Cubmaster Ross Taylor, and Assistants Bruce Foote and Wessels, paid a visit to the Belleville Police Station.

Inspector Don Yearwood, who was off duty at the time, showed the boys around the Police headquarters. Of particular interest to the Cubs was the shooting range and detention cells. Police motorcycles and cars came next and the Inspector explained each item as they passed.

The finger print department came in for a close scrutiny, as did the traffic control room, where a two way radio system keeps in touch with city police cars and motorcycles as well as other police services, if required.

The Cubs thanked Inspector Yearwood for his kindness in showing them the ins and outs of policing. More such hikes are planned and take place from time to time as part of the Cub training program.

"Scouts '68", the training film released by National Council, Boy Scouts of Canada was shown to a very enthusiastic Group of Scouters and Group Committee and Council Members of the Belleville District on Saturday, April 27th.

Under the sponsorship of the District Council and lead by District Commissioner Bod Bateman, the film was shown through, twice and each time a discussion, in Groups, took place.

New items were found to be discussed each time and there was a general consensus that the day was well spent with a better than general knowledge of the new Boy Scout Program, to become effective next September.

An effort will be made to secure the film again for the meeting of the District Council on May 13th.

A number of special events will take place during the month of May, the most important, without any doubt, will be the Honour and Awards night to be held on May 11th in St. Thomas Pirtle House.

A special Queen's Scout Presentation Ceremony will be held for Queen's Scout David Lotz of 6th Belleville (Tabernacle) Troop. There will also be presentations of 22 long service awards, '24 Hasle Training Certificates to Pack Scouters.

Another special feature of the ceremony will be the presentation of Special Award Certificates to "Friends of Scouting", who have assisted Scouting Groups for periods ranging from 11 to 28 consecutive years.

Special guests invited to take part in the program are Dr. R. T. Foster, M.P.P., Mr. Lee Grille, M.P., Mayor Dr. E. Russell Scott, Lt. Col. Angus Duffy, District Commissioner of Boy Scouts in Belleville twenty years ago will have a prominent place on the program.

Former District Council Presidents and District Commissioners and several other persons prominent in Scouting twenty to thirty years ago are expected to be present. It has been many years since so large a number of awards have been presented in one evening.

Britain Ready to Repatriate Any Immigrants on Welfare

LONDON (CP) — Home Secretary James Callaghan, commenting on the current skewed immigration furor, said Monday night the government will repatriate any immigrant families that can't pay their own way in Britain and want to go to their homeland.

A government spokesman said the policy of repatriation both white and non-white immigrants has been in effect for several years and was not related to the present controversy on race relations in Britain.

Callaghan, who has recently assumed over-all responsibility for immigration matters, made his statement during a BBC-television interview on the controversy.

A social security ministry spokesman said Tuesday 72 families were sent back to their countries of origin last year at their own request. In 1966, the figure was 75 families.

"It is immigrants appearing to have no prospect of becoming self-supporting in the long run to whom we would consider advancing the fare," the spokesman said.

"This is always providing it cannot be met from any other source. We are not interested in whether they are colored or not."

In the interview, Callaghan said there is no possibility of Britain's rejecting immigrants.

Callaghan was being interviewed about government efforts to integrate the country's 1,000,000 colored immigrants.

He also announced that a cabinet-level committee had been set up to co-ordinate immigration questions.

In a controversial speech April 20, MP Enoch Powell, a right-wing member of the Opposition Conservative party, said cash grants should be provided for the repatriation of colored immigrants.

Asked about Powell's speech, the home secretary said: "The family security ministry now will repatriate any immigrant family that is unable to pay for itself and wants to go back."

The interviewer commented that this information was not generally known, but Callaghan did not give further details.

Negro Welders Get $28,600

TORONTO (CP) — Six Negro welders today received $28,600 from an American company and a Toronto union local because they were denied work at a Clinton, Iowa, construction project.

The company, M. W. Kellogg Co. of New York, and the union will send letters of apology to the six Toronto men.

The settlement was made shortly before opening of an inquiry by the Ontario Human Rights Commission into the welders' complaints of racial discrimination.

Prof. Harry Arthurs of Osgoode Hall law school adjourned the inquiry after the settlement was read.

The welders said earlier they tried to sign for a construction project in response to a recruitment effort by the company.

The company had arranged with representatives of Local 46, United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe Fitting Industry, to recruit members of Local 46.

The men said they were told by union officials that Negroes would not be accepted for the Iowa project.

The $28,600 is the difference between what the men earned between Nov. 1, 1967, and April 30 this year and the amount they would have earned if they had worked on the construction job.

Similar charges of discrimination on basis of race and color against company representatives were withdrawn.

Prof. Arthurs said the settlement reflected an honest desire by the union and the company to prevent a recurrence of such discrimination.

The union agreed to inform the six welders of available jobs on a fair basis without regard to race, creed, color, nationality, ancestry, place of origin or age, as laid out in the Ontario Human Rights Code.

The company and union will send an account of the complaints and settlement to the New York and Iowa state commissions for human rights, the international office of the union, the Clinton local and the Jamaica-Canadian Association.

Owen Bares received $6,158, Arnold Blair $4,022, Joseph Neblett $4,122, Herbert Telphia $6,156, Gilford Walker $4,122 and Stanley Williams $4,022.

Behind The Glass

TWEED — Presentation of awards won during the season was a highlight of the recent meeting of the Tweed Curling Club which concluded a most successful season.

In the mixed draw The Corby Trophy was won by a rink of Dorothy Fargey, Ted Ray, Irene Chisholm with Gainsford Wilson as skip and the runner-up was a rink of Eileen Marsin, Douglas Rupert, Christine Sinclair with Harold Gall as skip.

The LeSage trophy was won by Lois Rollins, Jack Guay, Ruth Cantelon headed by Keith Hartsen and the runner-up in this competition was a rink of Dorothy Quinn, Robert Cruise, Kathy Moffatt with Frank Countryman as skip.

The Wellwood trophy was won by a rink of Joan Simpson, Gerald Bailey, Jean Chisholm with Hugh Dornan as skip, and the runner-up was a rink of Jack Hall, Kenneth Fisher, Dorothy Sills, and headed by Ronald Way.

In the men's draw the Chisholm trophy was won by a rink of Ray Sullivan, Wesley Hamilton, Don Sills with Bert Dunne as skip and the runner-up was a rink of Frank Tagg, Grant Elliott, Dick Simon with Ev English as skip.

A rink of Marion Little, Dorothy Fargey, Jean Chisholm with Christina Sinclair as skip won the L.C.A. trophy in the women's draw while the runner-up was a rink of Hilda Sexsmith, Marion Gail Betty Sullivan with Edna Wilson as skip.

Publication of Brochure Could Help Industry

TWEED — The Hastings County Industrial committee feels that a study of the county's assets and publication of an industrial brochure, could help in attracting industry.

Committee chairman, Hunderford Reve R.I. Clarence Grantham told the council recently that his committee felt such a survey was important if the county was to attract industry.

"We have to be in a position to tell industry what we have to offer," he said.

Mr. Graham was unable to say what such a study might cost, but urged provision be made in the budget in case a professional firm was hired to do the work. He said ARDA had been approached in an attempt to solicit financial assistance for such a study.

Industrial Survey

Chamber Plans Projects

TWEED — The local Chamber of Commerce held their annual dinner in the form of ladies' night at the Hotel Tweedsmuir on Tuesday evening, with an attendance of approximately 50 persons. The attendance was a bit smaller than a year ago but there were many counter-attractions that same evening.

Kenneth Little, president of the local Chamber introduced the directors and also Mr. Dalton Lindsay ,the newly-appointed manager of the Tweed branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Mr. Clarence Graham, Reeve of the Township of Hungerford, and chairman of the Hastings County Council Industrial Committee, outlined the projects planned by this committee. These included a survey of the industrial potential of the County, and a publicity campaign to acquaint industry with what was available in this particular district.

Mr. Graham referred to meet with any organization in the County of Hastings that was interested in promoting industrial expansion and employment opportunity. Keith Cotton, chairman of the membership committee for the C. of C. in Tweed, invited interested persons to join the. Tweed Chamber of Commerce for the year 1968.

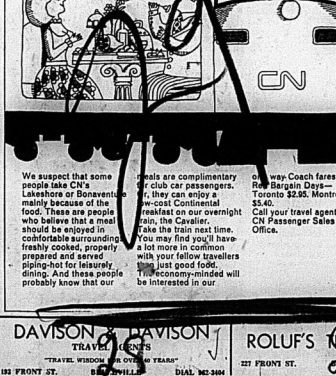
The guest speaker for the evening was William Bittle of the Ontario Lands and Forests, Tweed, who told the members and guests something of the work done by the Department.

Beginning next year fishermen over the age of 19 years will be required to pay a resident fishing license fee of $2, per year. The money from the license fee will be used to enlarge the fishing program and improve fishing conditions in general.

During the past year, Mr. Bittle told the gathering, some 25,000 hunters visited the Tweed Forest District.

Each year the Department stocks from 300 to 350 lakes, and conducts a lake inventory covering from 60 to 80 lakes in the district.

Other projects conducted by the department included timber management and deer range improvement. Water fowl are handed to keep track of their movement and wild life health projects are under-way at all times.



Mr. Bittle concluded his address with the showing of pictures dealing with both hunting and fishing.

Store Hours Adjusted To Meet Tourist Trade

TWEED — From approximately July 1st, 1968 until Labor Day, the stores in Tweed Village will remain open six days a week as a service to the many hundreds of tourists who visit this area during the summer months.

At a meeting of the Retail Merchants Association of Tweed earlier this week, they decided the above and also with the twenty-one members that were in attendance, they decided also that beginning in September 1968 Tweed stores will remain closed all day Monday, and thus remain open on Wednesday afternoons from September until the end of June the following year.

Special arrangements will at so govern store hours during the Christmas season and proceed ing holidays.

A committee made up of Anthony Quinn, Ray Wood, Leslie Jardine and Claude Leclair was appointed to arrange with the municipal council for the passing of a by-law governing store hours in Tweed Village, to become effective in September of this year.

The Brewers' Warehouse, the Liquor Control Board of Ontario Store and the Post Office will be approached subsequently to have their hours adjusted to meet with the proposed store hours. At the present time, the Brewers' Warehouse and the L.C.B.O. Store are closed on Thursdays from September 1st to June 15th, and the Post Office is closed every Wednesday afternoon. So far as the members of the Retail Merchants would learn, the stores in Perth, Carleton Place, Lanark, Marmora, Havelock and Stirling are remaining closed all day Monday for the entire year.

A by-law governing the closing of the Smiths Falls stores on Monday is now before the council of that town. Many other Ontario towns are now observing Monday closing, rather than closing on Wednesday afternoons. In the larger cities many of the shopping centres are now open six days a week and remain open until 10 p.m. several nights during the week. The larger malls in these stores make it possible to arrange the working hours in accordance with the 40-hour week, but this is not convenient in the smaller centres. Anthony Quinn, chairman of the Retail Merchants Association, was chairman for the recent meeting.

The proposed Monday closing does not affect the Banks, manufacturing companies, such as service industries or restaurants.

Advertisers Must Meet Criticism Head On

TORONTO (CP) — James William Baldwin, new president of the 300-member Association of Canadian Advertisers, says Canadian advertisers can no longer hide their heads in the sand and ignore criticisms of their industry.

Mr. Baldwin, a 40-year-old marketing executive, said it is vital to scrap some of the "non-necessities" from the organization's work and get down to the hard-rock task of talking face-to-face with government, consumers and labor unions.

"For years our main role was advertising research," he said in an interview Monday.

"We set up such valuable organizations as the Canadian Advertising Research Foundation and the Bureau of Broadcast Measurement, to see how effective our advertising was, and try to improve it. But these organizations are on their own now, and we've got to have a new role."

One of the few functions of the 53-year-old association he believes, will be talking to the new federal consumer affairs' department to determine consumers' needs, and look into their complaints about advertising.

"We can find out from the government now, instead of talking to the St. Catharines Lies Aid," he said.

Another role he sees for the association—which spends about $400,000,000 annually in advertising—is to replace its previously voluntary-help plan with paid professional staff.

"This is an age of specialization. We'll have to hire specialists to do the important communications jobs ahead."

Another is to increase the voice and effectiveness of the 27 French companies which form part of the association.

"It simply isn't good enough to wait for them to come forward on their own," he said.

Mr. Baldwin studied psychology as part of an arts course at the University of Saskatchewan in the '40s. But he does not consider himself a psychologist.

"I suppose you'd say I'm primarily communications-oriented. We've got one awfully big job to do in this field in Canada, and I hope to continue to be part of it. After all, if you can't meet people head - on, what other contact do you have?"

Mr. Baldwin did post-graduate work in industrial relations at Queen's University and later worked briefly with Canadian General-Electric before joining Imperial Tobacco as a window-dresser in Montreal 17 years ago. Since then he has had various marketing jobs with the firm. He was named marketing co-ordinator at the start of the year.

W. I. Donates $50 to Retarded Association

NAPANEE — The Lennox and Addington Association for the Mentally Retarded had a pleasant surprise last week when, at its monthly fund-raising euchre party at the Happy Day School, a cheque for $50 was presented by Mrs. Blake Gilbert, the gift of the Napanee branch of the Women's Institute. Half of the amount had been raised through the efforts of two members, Mrs. Ira Ford and Mrs. Elsie Andrews, who had solicited grocery items from the merchants sufficient to fill a basket, and had then raffled it off. The money will be applied to the building fund.

Paul Kirkham was the lucky test of the players that evening, winning both men's high, and the prize for lone hand. Men's low was won by Hugh Perry.

Mrs. Hazel Wright took home the prize for ladies' high, and Mrs. Jack Duff won the ladies' low.

Fire Damages Reach $17,000

About $17,000 damage resulted from a fire of undetermined origin which destroyed a barn and contents belonging to Burton White, of the 7th concession in Rawdon on Sunday.

The alarm was given by a neighbor but the Rawdon fire department was unable to do anything to save the 12 head of yearling cattle. The roof of the barn had already fallen when the firefighters arrived.

About 1,000 bales of hay were also lost in the fire.

A portion of the loss was covered by insurance.

And the Keys Go Back...

After being associated with Glen Roy Creameries for the past 23 years, Claude Mitchell hands over the keys to Donald McNevin, on his retirement Monday. Mr. Mitchell, who cuts meat at the creamery, is "just going to fish from now on," he said.

Farmers Union Plans Meeting with Candidates

PICTON (Staff) — Local candidates in the June 25 Federal election will speak to area farmers, and the general public in May.

The meeting will be sponsored by the Prince Edward County farmers union.

The decision was made yesterday, at a meeting of the union executive, to extend the invitation to the general public.

It seems likely that the meeting will be held in Bloomfield, at the earliest possible date following the nomination of all candidates in the area.

To date only one party is officially represented.

Daniel Nielson, president, said the meeting, which has been customary in past elections, is the only one of its kind that is open to the general public.

It will consist largely of a question and answer session directed from the floor," he claimed.

Mr. Nielson said that service clubs have sponsored such meetings in the past but that they had been closed to the general public.

Bishop Visits Anglican Parish

The Rt. Rev. K. C. Evans, Bishop of Ontario, was on hand Sunday to dedicate service - plaques and memorials at Christ Church. Bishop Evans was making his annual episcopal visitation to the parish.

Service - plaques and memorials were dedicated in memory of James Oliver Cooke, Rev. E. P. Smith, Dr. Lily Mathieson, George Stanley Vandervoort, and Ernest Charles Eatley.

A memorial lavabowl was also dedicated in memory of Rev. E. P. Smith, once a Curate at Christ Church.

During the confirmation of 85 candidates for the "episcopal laying on of hands", Bishop Evans spoke to them of "fear".

Fall Schedules Undergo Revision

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. television networks, as usual about this time, are having some second thoughts about their fall schedules.

ABC, for one, has decided to reprieve N.Y.P.D. the police action series shot mostly on location in New York.

The half-hour program co-starring Frank Converse and Robert Hooks was cancelled, but later started to pick up some extra Nielsen steam when It Takes a Thief was placed in the Tuesday night schedules ahead of it.

The pink slip has now been withdrawn, and the show will return to the same Tuesday night spot next September. Meanwhile, Felony Squad, which squeaked through to a renewal for a third season will be moved to Friday night—and Dream House, an audience participation show, will be dropped as evening entertainment although the daytime version will continue.

There may be some changes at CBS, too. Although the network originally decided to drop He and She after one season, its stars, Dick Benjamin and Paula Prentiss are still under option by the network, and the show may get another chance.

Peyton Place on ABC is one series that will not be rerunning old episodes during the summer season, but the viewer is advised to give himself two or three weeks to understand what all the suffering is about.

If one has been inattentive for a short period, it is difficult to pick up all the tangled threads. For instance, there's a nice young minister in town, and he has an alcoholic wife. Constance and Eliot Carson have acquired an infant, but it seems to be on loan. Dr. Rossi now has a young brother around and he looks like a bad 'un.

Betty Anderson, who last time this viewer looked was married to Steven Cord, now is getting engaged to Rodney Harrington — but wasn't she married to him when the series began?

CBS's Carol Burnett Show will depart—after a series of reruns—during July and August when the network will fill the hour with pilot programs of series not never found a network niche.

McKibbon New Vice President

American Optical Company Ltd. announced today that J. N. McKibbon, general manager of manufacturing, has been appointed a vice president of the company.

A graduate of Queen's University and a member of the association of professional engineers, he is also a member of the Advisory Committee to the department of education with reference to the Optical Technician's Course.

He also represents the Belleville Public School Board on the Bay of Quinte High School Board.

Mr. McKibbon was appointed general manufacturing manager in 1966.

Heart Transplant Patient Dies Without Becoming Conscious

PARIS (AP) — Clovis Roblain, Europe's first heart transplant patient, died today.

The announcement was made by Dr. Maurice Mercadier at a special news conference.

Roblain, 55-year-old retired truck driver, never recovered consciousness following the transplant.

"We expected it since this morning," Mercadier said, adding that the cause of death is "an insufficient irrigation of blood in the brain."

Roblain's death leaves only one survivor from the seven human heart transplants which have been reported. He is Dr. Philip Blaiberg, a 58-year-old South African dentist who was given a new heart on Jan. 2. He was discharged from a Cape Town hospital more than six weeks ago and is reported in excellent condition.

Several hours before the death was announced, Mercadier had told a news conference the retired truckdriver was in poor condition and prospects for his recovery were "very bad."

The doctor reported then that while the transplanted heart was working and it had not been necessary to stimulate it artificially, Roblain had developed urinary problems and his respiration still required artificial assistance, "a bad sign."

Earlier the doctors had reported that Roblain suffered a sudden drop in blood pressure during the operation and they feared brain damage.

Roblain lived 31½ hours after he received the heart of a 23-year-old man who had been fatally injured in an automobile accident Friday.

"We will attempt a new transplant," said Mercadier.

"My feeling as a man is one of charging. My feeling as a surgeon is that one must overcome this chagrin and work hard to renew what we have done."

The nine-hour transplant operation was performed by a team of 10 doctors, headed by Drs. Christian Cabrol and Gerard Guiraudon.

Mercadier at an earlier news conference said that in the world's seventh heart transplant operation Cabrol and Guiraudon used a new technique in which the donor heart, no longer beating when it was removed from the auto crash victim, was preserved by constant injection of liquid.

The team's immunologist, Dr. Leon Schwartzenberg, said the operation went smoothly, and the transplanted heart was started in Roblain's body by an external apparatus early in the operation.

The way for the operation was cleared last week when the French government amended the regulations on declaring death. The basis now is electroencephalogram readings by two doctors with no connection with any doctors preparing heart transplant surgery.

Friday night Michel Gyppaz, a newlywed of seven months, was driving home from work to his pregnant wife when his sports car collided with a sedan. He was given no chance to live and his family was called to the hospital Saturday. It is decided whether his heart should be donated for transplant.

"We knew how much Michel had admired the heart graft successfully performed at Cape Town by Dr. Christian Barnard," said his mother. "He would certainly have approved of this sacrifice for science had he been in a condition to answer."

Roblain was informed of the operation an hour before it began. He had been a heart patient for 20 years and the doctors said his condition had been desperate since a heart attack last July.

Things to Know at Eighteen

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What I wish I had known at Eighteen:

— That every day marks a fork in the road, in some little way; and that by the time the big fork comes along we have already made so many little decisions that we have no real choice left in the crucial turnings.

— That it is easier to feel hate than to feel love, and easier to act on hate than to act on love; and that we must resist the easier path every inch of the way every day of our lives.

— That we should be firmly resistant toward ideas we believe to be wrong, but immensely tolerant toward the people who hold such ideas, never for a moment confusing the person with the idea, which is the besetting sin of bigotry in all of its manifold forms.

— That every time we use a person for our own purposes, ignoring his needs, we diminish ourselves more than we diminish him; for his is a wound that can heal, while ours is an amputation that cannot grow back.

— That our differences are superficial, and our similarities are permanent; and those who are afraid to acknowledge the similarities are forced to live — and die — by the differences.

— That most of what we call "love" is a form of vanity, and that the genuine thing is the beautiful

Dymond Will Not Give Reason Patients Removed From Home

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Matthew Dymond told the legislature Monday night his department had a "good and sufficient reason" for removing 20 patients from a Collingwood nursing home for discharged mental patients last month.

The minister declined to say what the reason was but provoked a storm of opposition criticism when he said it wasn't connected with cleanliness, food or staff but "had to do with the operator of the home herself."

Vernon Singer (L—Toronto Dovercliffe), who said he learned of the matter only when he read newspaper reports of it Monday afternoon, told the House that if the minister didn't give needed information he would propose reducing the department's budget for aid to nursing homes as an indication of the opposition's displeasure.

The matter was raised in the House by Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) who said the episode showed that "this is an evil department and the minister should resign."

Dr. Dymond said the patients' removal had been decided upon "because the quality of care offered did not meet the minimum standards."

Dr. Shulman asked how the removal could be justified when the health department hadn't previously recommended any improvements in the home's operation.

He said he had received telephone calls Monday from relatives of two former patients at the home who praised its cleanliness and quality of care.

Dr. Dymond said he didn't want to give any details of the department's reasons because the matter was being discussed by lawyers for the operator of the home and his department.

Liberal leader Robert Nixon objected that the legislature "has all the authority of a court" and important charges had been made in the newspaper stories on the removals.

Dr. Dymond remarked that of 500 such homes in the province only two had operations which prompted removal of all patients in them.

Dr. Shulman said he had information that the "trouble" at the home began Jan. 19 when a staff member had been fired for smoking while on duty. He asked whether the decision to remove the patients was prompted by a "statement to the department from a disaffected nurse."

"No sir," Dr. Dymond snapped.

Dr. Dymond said there were certain occasions, and this was one of them, when he could only ask the members of the house to have faith in his department.

John Brown (NDP—Toronto Beaches-Woodbine) said that apart from the right of the department to intervene he was most concerned at the methods that had been employed. Why hadn't the department acted in "a decent and humane way?"

The minister replied that the department hadn't acted in an inhumane way. "The comforts of the patients were looked after."

Mr. Singer then asked Dr. Dymond to give the house precise details on the statutory authority employed in making the removals and to tell the house exactly what had happened.

House leader Leslie Rowntree, financial and commercial affairs minister, said the details requested would take time to acquire and moved adjournment of the debate.

The operator of the home, Jeanette Gurman, told newspaper reporters Monday the 20 patients had been whisked away by health department officials without "a word of explanation."

"This was seven weeks ago and I still haven't been told why the patients were taken away."

CBC News Coverage in North Assailed

TORONTO (CP) — Northern members of the legislature belabored the CBC Monday, claiming the publicly-owned corporation regards northwestern Ontario as part of Manitoba in its television news coverage.

Members gave overwhelming support to a resolution by Leo Bernier (PC—Kenora) asking the provincial government to make representations to Ottawa seeking either Kenora or the Lakehead as point of origin for news telecasts shown in northwestern Ontario.

Mr. Bernier said the Kenora area is served by six television outlets, all satellites of Winnipeg's CBWT. The six carry news telecasts originating in Winnipeg which pay little or no attention to Ontario news.

"At the present time the riding of Kenora and portions of the Lakehead region live in a television news vacuum," he said.

"Nothing short of a major catastrophe can induce CBC reporters and cameramen to the area to give adequate coverage to local news happenings."

In other business Monday:

—Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) criticized Health Minister Matthew Dymond for not advertising a discovery by his department that smoking by pregnant women increases the likelihood of premature births and infant mortality.

Dr. Shulman told the house that a health department study showed the rate of premature babies among women who smoke is 2½ times as high as that among non-smokers. Rate of mortalities is 50-per-cent higher.

Dr. Dymond said doctors have been informed through medical journals and 750 copies of the report have been circulated. Doctors are also including the study in pamphlets for expectant mothers.

—Darcy McKeough, minister of municipal affairs, said a task force to solve problems in the provincial rebates of property taxes will be department employees and not a permanent new force of civil servants.

He was speaking as the house gave second reading—approval in principle—to an act to provide for a reduction in municipal taxes on residential property.

—The government introduced amendments to the Corporations Act increasing the authorized capital of joint stock insurance companies selling other than life insurance to $500,000 from $300,000.

—In a statement, Agriculture Minister William Stewart said his department has set up a special committee to investigate costs and availability of large-animal veterinary services in the province.

—Dr. Dymond said his department is considering a scheme under which medical students would get a free education in exchange for agreeing to spend a specified time after graduation in remote areas of the province.

Drapeau Denies 'Tax' Illegal

MONTREAL (CP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau said Monday night that as far as he is concerned, his "voluntary tax" scheme to raise $28,000,000 for city coffers is not illegal as suggested by some authoritative critics.

The scheme, intended to offset an anticipated deficit in the city's 1968-69 budget, has been labelled illegal by Justice Minister Jean-Jacques Bertrand of Quebec and by the Justice department in the U.S.

Persons making voluntary $2 contributions to the city treasury are eligible to win monthly cash prizes of up to $100,000.

Mayor Drapeau said in a statement to city council that "nothing to this day has arisen" to indicate the "voluntary tax" is illegal.

"Nothing in the procedures and formalities which will precede the awarding of $150,000 in prizes each month will impair the legality" of the tax, he said.

City council was "bound to reaffirm" the legality of the tax, which could only "be impugned" by a court judgment.

The matter of legality should also be settled "as soon as possible" to dispel any confusion following Mr. Bertrand's statement, which said the scheme contravened the Criminal Code.

Indians Have New Religion

TORONTO (CP) — One of the sponsors of an Indian protest march two years ago in Kenora, Ont., says Indians in Northern Ontario are rejecting the white man's religion for a "new and beautiful" faith of their own.

Jack Doner, a Kenora lawyer, said the new religion is Christian atheism—a type of worship excellently suited to the Indians', attempt to regain his identity.

"To an Indian, the white man's Christian religion is sterile," Mr. Doner writes in the current issue of Ferment, an inter-faith journal. "It depreciates the goodness in man; it holds that all men are sinners.

"But Christian atheism is fertile and dynamic: it recognizes and advocates the goodness in man; it is concerned about the problems of people."

Mr. Doner also says the white man's religion makes the Indian feel guilty, sinful and inferior.

In an interview Monday, Mr. Doner said his criticism was aimed at Christian churches in general but particularly at those in Kenora.

The protestant clergymen in that particular area are "the gutless wonders of the 20th century," he said.

A 50-year-old white man, Mr. Doner is consultant to the Islington band of Ojibway Indians and spends one day a week in their reserve on a voluntary basis.

He said they reject all concepts of God and Christ, but recognize the goodness in man and concern themselves with the concrete problems of people.

H-C Group Organizes Ball Team

DESERONTO — The Hi-C group of the United Church are planning to play softball this summer, with the first practice next Wednesday. Everybody will be on the team, girls and boys alike, and they hope to play against other Hi-C's of neighboring communities. Captain is Dorothy Rinnett, and Jeff Barclay is manager and coach.

These young people met weekly all winter in the United Church and have been most active. There have been serious discussions of problems facing today's teenagers; and there have been community projects such as spending all one Saturday cleaning every inch of the United Church; they could reach without scaffolding. The work was their own idea, an was organized by the young folk themselves. Not long ago they put on a dessert party to which all members of the congregation were invited.

One team they are almost sure to play is Melrose, where a softball team was organized early this week. Melrose and Deseronto United churches together make up the Quinte charge, under the ministry of Rev. William Hendry.

The Melrose Hi-C members are already making plans for a strawberry festival, probably in June.

Ontario Births Continue to Fall

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's birth rate continued to decline in 1967, but the decline was slower than in 1966 and below that of Canada as a whole, figures tabled in the legislature Monday showed.

The annual report of Registrar-General Robert Welch for 1967 said the 128,675 births reported in 1967 compared with 132,585 in 1966 and 143,978 in 1965.

The decline in 1967 was 2.9 per cent, compared with a drop of 7.9 per cent in 1966 and a national decline of 4.6 per cent.

Admiring MacDonald Painting

Convener of the University Women's Club spring fair, Mrs. Richard Barrett shows Mrs. R. G. Walsh and Mrs. B. R. Collins a painting to be raffled at the fair.

University Women's Club Plans Spring Fair

The exhibition and sale of paintings by artist Manly MacDonald, R.C.A., will highlight the Annual Spring Fair of the University Women's Club of Belleville and District which will take place Saturday, May 4 from 2.30 to 5.30 p.m. at St. Michael's Academy auditorium.

The purpose of this spring tea is the raising of scholarship funds available to young women of Belleville and district who are proceeding on to University. Originally only one $50 scholarship was offered. But now, thanks to the popularity of Mr. MacDonald's work, the exhibition has become widely known and visitors come from many miles to view it. This success has enabled the club to add to its scholarships, and now three are offered each year. These are known as the University Women's Club of Belleville and District, the Manly MacDonald, and the Beverley MacDonald Scholarships.

Mr. MacDonald is a native of Point Anne and spends several months in this area each year. Local scenes are often depicted on his canvas. Several of Mr. MacDonald's paintings hang in the National Art Gallery in Ottawa, and one was presented to the Queen by the Canadian Government. The artist has studied at the Albright Art School, Boston, the Boston Museum School of Fine Arts, and the Ontario College of Art.

Mr. MacDonald and his wife, Beverley, also a noted artist, expect to attend the tea to meet visitors and to discuss his work with them.

A beautiful Autumn scene "The Ledge Reach" is the raffle painting donated to the club by Mr. MacDonald for its scholarship funds. Tickets may be purchased from any club member or at the fair itself. The draw will be made at the close of the tea.

An added attraction of the tea is a bake sale where many delicacies may be purchased.

The members of the University Women's Club look forward to greeting many old friends and hope to welcome many new ones at their Fair on Saturday, May 4 at St. Michael's Academy Auditorium.

Many Representatives Visit Rideau House

OTTAWA (CP) — About 275 representatives of 54 different countries found Canada's official guest house, 7 Rideau Gate near Government House, a home away from home last summer.

They also gave its mother-ly, grey-haired hostess an unforgettable experience.

"We had guests from every country because even when a head of state was staying at the Governor-General's residence, we had part of the retinue," Mrs. Gwendolyn Blair told delegates to the 22nd Canadian Consumer Credit Conference Monday.

Mrs. Blair dipped into a store of memories about state visitors during Centennial Year.

The Grey stone guest house was built in 1862, she said, and bought by the federal government in 1956.

Redecorated in a formal, traditional manner, it includes several bedrooms and two large reception rooms. When there was a "full house" of guests, it was staffed by herself, a steward, housekeeper, chef, houseman and four maids.

Governor-General and Mrs. Michener were the first guests, spending a weekend last April before moving into Rideau Hall.

"I think they walked in the front door as the painters walked out the back," Mrs. Blair recalled.

As things turned out, everything was fine, Mrs. Blair said.

"Except we didn't have a drop of hot water the whole time. The Micheners were very kind. They said they liked cold showers."

For the state visitors who followed, detailed planning — including information on dietary habits and allergies — was necessary.

However keeping house at 7 Rideau Gate was "a quick mix job," demanding unusual emergency equipment such as toothbrushes, razors, extra black ties and even white gloves.

Congregational Meeting

FOXBORO U.C.W.

FOXBORO — The general meeting of Foxboro U.C.W. was held in the church hall on April 22 with the president Mrs. Lillian Jamieson presiding. She opened the meeting by reading an appropriate poem.

Mrs. Clare was convener of the program and based her theme on stewardship. She was assisted in this portion by Mrs. M. Sine and by F. A. Havergal who rendered a vocal selection.

It was announced that a school for United Church Women will be held at Albert College, Belleville on June 21, 22 and 23; also that a Belleville Presbyterial executive meeting will be held in Wellington May 6 commencing at 10 a.m.

A committee consisting of Mrs. Bean, Mrs. Sine and Irene Wellman was formed to make plans for the catering of a wedding on June 1. Plans were also discussed for a bazaar and fowl supper; also the catering at the Shannonville Fair, to be held in the fall.

The meeting was closed with the devotional led by Anne Rombough assisted by Marion Dafoe.

Light Make-up Right For Wedding Portraits

Are you one of those fortunate women whose wedding date is approaching soon? Then you'll soon be facing the camera for your engagement or wedding portraits.

To make sure that your pictures are the prettiest possible, here are helpful recommendations.

Don't wear heavy make-up! It has a harsh and aging effect. Since an engaged girl or the bride should look fresh and natural, be careful about using exaggerated cosmetic techniques. It is the fastest way to date the photograph.

For a smooth, soft, dewy look, apply a rinse-off cold cream before making up for a lightly emollient base.

Then specialists suggest you wear medium-tone foundation and powder, and a medium shade of lipstick, accented with lip gloss for sheen. Don't apply very pale lipstick for a picture. It won't show up.

To remove any make - up mistakes quickly, the rinse-off cream dissolves even stubborn eye make-up easily.

Little tricks can fool the camera. For instance, you can camouflage laugh and frown lines and blemishes by covering them with white liner or shadow stick. Then blend with fingertips, and powder as usual.

To give a broad nose an aquiline appearance, apply a darker foundation on each side blending thoroughly to avoid too strong a shadow.

To shorten a long nose, blend in a bit of darker foundation at the nose tip. And if features are less-than-perfect, try posing with your face at a slight angle to the camera, with head up and chin lifted.

Eyes laden with false lashes and over-stated styling are not suitable for a bridal portrait. Instead, begin by emphasizing natural sparkle. Many professional models achieve this look (and refresh tired eyes) with decongestant eye drops before applying make-up. The drops are said to work visibly while you watch and restore whiteness in less than a minute.

Be especially artful in applying eye make-up if you wear glasses. The lenses of your glasses enlarge the eye area, so you need the barest minimum of definition. In most cases, the frames of your glasses will provide enough emphasis.

For relaxed, graceful hands, try a trick that the models use. Before the picture is snapped, lift both hands high into the air to ease tension and minimize prominent veins.

Then return hands to position and clasp them lightly, slightly angled for a slender look. Repeat this procedure often.

Classic clothing, coiffure, and accessories are preferable. An elaborate hairstyle, a "busy" outfit or too much jewelry are all distracting.

In engagement photos, the most flattering effect is achieved by a dark dress with a simple neckline that frames the face and throat. Extreme or low necklines are considered poor taste.

Bridal photos are often taken in profile. And everyone has a "best" side. To determine yours, study your face carefully from all angles in a mirror beforehand, wearing your bridal veil.

It's Leap Year - - - Catch That Man

If you're an unmarried gal you've probably already noted that it's leap year again. And it's probable that a certain number of men would have no objection to being won by a lovely and desirable female.

We are inclined to offer these men some advice on improving their chances. Almost every girl likes a man to be neat, orderly, tasteful, attentive to details, immaculate, attractive and well-groomed.

And how can each and every one of the foregoing be achieved, and quickly demonstrated to interested females? By merely being well-dressed — which is synonymous to every adjective listed above.

Ready for Portrait

A bride to remember is the one with flawless skin, lovely hands and simplicity of make-up. The romantic hair styling, with petals or organza entwined, is very much the "now" look.

The Medicine Cabinet

Little things mean a lot to the new bride. Besides picking exactly the right color for the living room draperies and choosing the correct place mats to go with her silverware, she should remember to take stock of an important item: the new family medicine cabinet.

A new bride cannot take all those vitamins, lotions and pills for granted. She has to fill the medicine cabinet in her new home and fill it wisely.

Aspirin tablets, iodine and cold pills are essentials along with a proper supply of bandages, cotton and gauze for use in case of emergency.

Since the young lady will most likely be just getting to know her way around the kitchen, an ointment for burns and petroleum jelly for chapped hands might be wise additions. And don't forget something for an upset stomach in case dinner doesn't turn out exactly the way Mother used to make!

Dental health is important to a young couple, too. Choosing a family toothpaste can be a big decision — one likely to have a lasting effect on them and their children in the future.

In fact, keeping all cosmetics and other personal grooming items on separate "his and her" shelves in the medicine cabinet might be the best way to organize the bathroom.

Tips for the Bride

Sit Down Dining Makes Welcome Return

Sit-down dining has been making a welcome return. With all the world of difference between dining and just plain eating, it is important to create an atmosphere that aids the appetite and pleasant conversation at the same way into the living room or enjoys the luxury of a room of its own, it can restore social dignity to the family scene.

The dining room used to be the easiest room in the house to decorate. It was also often the dullest. Happily this is far from the case today; now the dining room can often be one of the most exciting, most individualized areas in the home.

Even if your dining room is only an L-shaped extension of the living room or a windowless entrance foyer, it can be enlivened by imaginative backgrounds, cheerful color schemes and interesting accessories.

Certain elements such as mirrors, chandeliers and sconces remain delightful in any dining room; inexpensive but authentic reproductions such as the dramatic new sconce with nine candles to set its crystal beads a shimmer, are certainly within even a modest budget.

A handsome area rug or a distinctive wallpaper will go a long way to transform the stuffy and starched look typical of formal treatments of the past.

After-creating any style you want from a banquet hall to an indoor gazebo by attention to the details of comfort, color, lighting and accessories, the focal point still remains the basic elements of the table and chairs.

House-owners with real dining rooms can indulge in the grander styles of tables, a slick slab of modern teak or styles with curving cabriole legs.

Apartment-dwellers without a room reserved only for dining, can have the same feeling of luxury in the grand manner with a table planned for two, but which can be expanded with extra leaves for party situations. The versatile drop-leaf table which can be pushed against a wall when not in use, is an old idea but wonderfully suited to modern space problems.

Round tables are naturally gregarious; when they have pedestals instead of legs they can help still further to uncluster a small area.

Chairs must be comfortable especially if your family and guests like to dawdle over dessert and coffee.

When you buy, there is no need to match the chairs to the table. Just make sure that the cushioning is comfortable and the back provides the right support. One of the best choices is a chair with a foam-filled seat and an upholstered back that reaches to the shoulders.

Lags and counters are fine for eating. But for dining, put your feet under a table!

Clothes Should Retain Attractive Appearance

Travel figures into most honeymoon plans so it's a smart bride who selects clothes for her trousseau that retain their attractive appearance under travel conditions.

But that doesn't mean she's stuck with fashions that about wash and wear.

She'll be happy to know that some of Spring's most romantic embroidered dresses, blouses and sportswear also make the best travellers.

Did you know? All-over embroidery makes any fabric wrinkle-resistant, keeps ruffles unruffled, defies soiling in even tropical climates such as Jamaica.

Dining Can Be Fun

Dining in a grand manner can be accomplished by a few elegant touches and a lot of simple ingenuity. Here the new bride has taken a traditional nine arm sconce flanked with simple white draperies with white trimming.

"YOU DON'T PAY EXTRA FOR QUALITY—BECAUSE QUALITY PAYS FOR ITSELF"

The groom should pay as much attention to his wardrobe as the bride does to her trousseau. Nothing should be forgotten including underwear, T-shirts, athletic shirts and briefs.

Men's Trousseau Also Important

A trousseau might not mean the massive collection of clothes it once did, but it's a good enough reason for the bride-to-be to indulge her fashion whims with a new wardrobe.

But what about the bridegroom? He has every right to start marriage looking his best, too. Besides, it may be the last opportunity he has to spend his money exactly the way he wants to.

That boldly printed sport shirt, a few too many ties, the snappy blazer that might seem too costly once the expenses of setting up a home descend . . . now's the time.

Now's the time, also, to attend to the fundamentals of a wardrobe — the socks, the pajamas, the underwear. Just as a bride's trousseau usually begins with lingerie, he might start with underwear. Since his first considerations will be fit, comfort, and long wear, a good choice might be a complete wardrobe of knitted T-shirts, athletic shirts and briefs.

A new blend of polyester and fine combed cotton assures a neat look, plus no-iron ease of care — two qualities sure to be appreciated by a wife.

Pretty Hands A Must

At a wedding, everyone notices hands. Since the wedding guests are gazing at the new ring on the bride's finger, they are also gazing at other pretty hands which are yet to have rings slipped upon them.

For this reason hand care experts recommend that bride and bridesmaids use lots of hand and body lotion to make arms, elbows and necks petal smooth.

They also recommend a liberal application of hand cream for extra dry skin every night for a week before the wedding — as well as a good application just before the ceremony starts.

Smooth hands are not only essential for smooth looks, but there are constant introductions and hand-shaking at a wedding reception.

James W. Jenkins, an expert on the subject says that women of all ages should use hand creams and lotions to help preserve moisture in their skin.

So mothers of the bride (and groom) should also start grooming for the wedding day. All eyes will be on them, too!

Photograph Album Truly Memorable

One of the truly memorable souvenirs of a wedding is the album of photographs which is a traditional part of the Day.

But camera experts suggest that you supplement this with a happy, "new" gift — a second album of photographs taken by family and friends.

This takes a bit of organization and teamwork: an executive producer and staff of cameramen and women.

Because this album covers more than just the wedding day, it starts with the engagement party and goes right through the reception.

Obviously, not any one person (not even the bride or groom!) attends every party. So a close friend or bridesmaid must be in charge of photographing showers.

The best man or an usher takes over at the groom's stag party. Someone else does the rehearsal and the party that follows it. A sister can catch the gifts in all their glory. With his carefree camera and his access to the premises, Junior can provide amusing pictures of family confusion. And everyone can click away at the reception. There are almost limitless possibilities, beyond the traditional.

The camera people point out that anyone can produce excellent candid shots these days. No need for elaborate focusing with new instant-load cameras. Flash cubes are simple and effective. And every eye sees something different and can catch it on film.

The executive producer must hand out assignments and make sure they are followed. The picture won't let you forget; but you have to get it on schedule. And then it must be developed promptly and inserted in the gift album by the time the couple return from their honeymoon.

What a book this is, dedicated to the newlyweds by a large staff of camera-happy friends! It's one gift that will never be returned or duplicated.

Dictionary Popular

How many saucepans can a couple use? For the much-gifted bride and groom, a more imaginative and welcome wedding gift is an unabridged dictionary.

Consider the handsome dictionary of the English language. Priced under $25, this dictionary defines all the new words and meanings that make up today's vocabulary.

Among its 260,000 entries, a bride can find explanations for unusual gourmet cooking terms. She can also check on furniture styles; descriptions are illustrated with precise line-drawings.

Both she and her groom will refer to the 400 pages of supplementary material, including a world atlas, a list of major dates in world history and complete bilingual dictionaries for French, Spanish, Italian and German.

Long Veils Graceful

Victorian Gowns Return for 1968 Season

Leading stylists predict that the 1968 bride will feature a Victorian look of innocence with ruffles, batiste, "a feeling of lightness and delicacy. There are many long veils blending in with the graceful sweep of a modified train.

Shaping is in, slimmer and showing the body with some belts either on a raised waist or at the natural waistline with a soft belt."

The short gown won't dominate; neither will the midlength, sometimes still referred to as the ballerina. With traditional formal weddings scheduled in June, when weather gets hot in many parts of the nation the bulk of orders remains in the long length category.

Many bridal houses are getting more and more into the ensemble, designing and making both veils and gowns for the total look.

While the detachable train is still seen, it seems to be losing ground in favor of the short sweep and the encircling headpiece trailing to the floor.

One leading designer shows a blue flowered gown and veil, pointing up the color trend reinforced with ivory and pale beige shades. Bonnets and lace on veils is another bridal translation of the new fashions highlighting fit and flare.

Even with emergencies and hurry-up ceremonies, brides are choosing gowns with care and getting them on time.

As one maker put it, "We'll work night and day to make sure the bride has her gown for the walk down the aisle.

"The young people will either get married ahead of time, or they have plenty of notice so the scheduled formal wedding can still take place."

A buyer for a large New York department store mentioned satin organza as a new look for spring, "giving sheer and sheen. And the shaped cages and caftan silhouettes blend so beautifully.

"The molding of the bosom is so much more flattering and answers requests from my customers. High on my list of exciting touches this season is the Venise lace, a fine change from alencon."

Victorian Femininity

The romantic heritage of Victorian femininity is new for young brides this year. Clusters of embroidered flowers on Irish linen make the lure of long ago new today. The choice of linen is a tradition that marks the most elegant weddings.

House Keeping
A Full Time Job

As she walks down the aisle that starry-eyed bride is the envy of her friends. But all too soon that same gal will be faced with problems. She will probably "keep house" along with a full-time job.

She must be a companion to her husband and develop an interest in his hobbies . . . be a part of his working life and stay young and sparkling in looks, dress and thinking.

She needs help.

Why not help her before she gets married. For one of the showers for the bride-to-be: give her a book full of helpful household work - savers collected from her friends and from women's pages of newspapers.

Buy a spiral - bound book and ask each friend for one or more suggestions for saving work. Type them on pieces of paper a size that can be pasted in the book and then ask the friend to autograph her page or pages.

The collection will be a nice momento as well as a great help.

Here are some suggestions as a start. A pad and a pencil are a girl's best friend. Keep them handy in the kitchen and as food or household supplies run low, jot it for hot and cold beverages, trip to the grocery.

Use paper service for breakfast. Plastic - coated paper plates and cups for hot food and beverages are so pretty and china-like that a new husband will think the bride is very smart to latch on to these time savers.

Cold drink cups are perfect for juice and the whole service goes into the wastebasket after breakfast.

Get a little basket to keep items like furniture polish dust cloths, window cleaner, paper cleaning cloths, and any other cleaning favorites.

Along with the book, full of helps the other gifts can include some necessary to carry out some of the suggestions.

For example, with the ideas given here, gifts would be a set of pads and pencil, paper service including plates, cups for hot and cold beverages, and bowls for cereal and a basket for carrying cleaning equipment.

Pretty and Packable...

Make the clothing you take along on the honeymoon pretty and packable. An ideal choice for the trousseau is a selection of the wrinkle free fabrics now available. The cloth keeps ruffles unruffled and defies wilting — even in the tropics.

New Brides Should Learn the Labels

On becoming a bride: learn your labels. And know what they mean. No one ruins clothes faster than a bride who doesn't follow the washing and ironing instructions on garment tags.

It's true that tags may seem confusing. Durable-press fabrics, for example, are identified by a variety of labels — including Never-Press, Super-crease and Primalized.

Whatever name your durable press fabric carries, chances are the fabric will benefit from a touch-up with an iron after laundering.

This year the majority of men's shirts will be durable-press. With proper washing care, these shirts should require ironing only around seams where slight puckering may occur.

Remove the shirt just after the washing machine's rinse cycle and before the spin cycle. The shirt can then be tumble-dried, but it must be removed immediately after the drying process.

It's important to remember that the durable - press process bakes out wrinkles by using high temperatures. Conversely, if shirts are not removed immediately after being dried, wrinkles will be baked in.

For the body of the shirt, a cool iron and a lightning-fast pressing will do the job.

When ironing, try using spray sizing instead of dampening the shirt. Magic spray "body" which tends to wash out in the laundry.

Packing Reminders For Brides

Whether you are headed for an exotic honeymoon paradise, or for a weekend in a cozy country cottage, a few packing reminders always come in handy.

Heavier articles such as shoes should be packed against the bottom end of your suitcase so when the porter clunks your bags down hard (and he will) the heavies won't slide down and crush all in their path.

Since air travel puts every stop brief hours apart, pack your dresses last on top of everything else. The moment you arrive, the dresses come out first to go busily about shedding wrinkles as the rest of the bag need not be unpacked at all.

And another quick tip — color co-ordinate sunglasses to each outfit as you pack, so there is no fumbling about for the right eye excitement when you are ready to go.

The really smart bride knows that a clutch of colorful sunglasses adds weightless chic to a travel trousseau. They also offer the important bonus of rested eyes while soaking up the sun and sights.

The first pair to tuck into the light end of your bag could be sunglasses that are dramatic, dashing and afford maximum eye protection in deep wrapped sides and shatter resistant lenses that eliminate reflected glare.

And how about a surprise for that all-important man of yours, a matching pair of "shades" so that he'll enjoy the sights as much as you. His delight at your thoughtfulness (he's sure to have forgotten his sunglasses) may leave him with eyes for nothing but you.

All great time savers to get you on your way to a glorious honeymoon.

Those Family Photos

Wedding and family photographs make ideal wall decor in the brides new apartment or home. Experts suggest framing them in different style frames, available from department or variety stores. Start from a small grouping and the family gathering will grow as the family does.

Cute Idea ---

After all her fears, she did not trip on her train, Dad remembered his one line and the groom showed up! The bridal bouquet landed in happy hands and rose petal "confetti" accompanied the new Mr. and Mrs. to their honeymoon car.

The rules of etiquette claim the bride has six months to acknowledge her wedding gifts.

The girl with foresight, however can send special, personalized thank-yous well in advance — without cataloging her presents while sitting on the banks of Niagara Falls.

While the bride - to - be is discussing church and reception arrangements with her florist expert, she can also order post-wedding bouquets. The thoughtful gesture is an unusual way to thank friends for throwing showers, buttering gowns and calming nerves before the ceremony.

Send Flowers

Only one girl catches the good-luck flowers tossed at the reception; imagine how thrilled other close friends will be to receive miniature bouquets the next day!

Inexpensive Idea

Pictures Prove Decorative

Whether your first home is a tickle in a little apartment, a small house in need of paint or a dream home, the problems of decorating it move right in with you.

The "big" items, such as furniture, frequently present the least difficulty. If new furnishings aren't possible on your newly-married budget, "early attic" or the latest in "rummage sale provincial" can make a charming home with a little paint and imagination.

One quick, easy, and relatively inexpensive decorating trick can be accomplished largely with things you're sure to have on hand. Experts suggest using wedding and family photos to decorate a secondary wall — that is, any bedroom, hall or stairway wall where personal accessories are as appropriate as framed reproductions of paintings.

Living and dining area walls should be reserved for more universally enjoyed art and decorating accessories.

You can begin with one photo of the wedding party or several and add to your family wall as new photos are taken or new family members add-

Alderman Jeffrey Objects

The city's ratio of representation on the board of the Hastings county welfare unit and recent staff appointments for the unit came under fire at Belleville city council yesterday.

The objection was raised by Aldermen Mrs. Robin Jeffrey when the county welfare unit bylaw agreement to include Trenton came up for ratification.

The new county welfare unit bylaw is the county of Hastings, Belleville and Trenton, officially go into operation

Mrs. Jeffrey's objection appeared to be against the recent appointment of former Thurlow township reeve Carl Thompson as a welfare unit field worker.

The alderman said Belleville and Trenton should have more representation on the welfare unit board than the county.

She also objected to the fact that the welfare administrator will be responsible to the county clerk-administrator rather than the city manager.

Mrs. Jeffrey suggested that the county welfare unit be created as a separate corporation such as the Children's Aid Society which she said would eliminate any possibility of political implications.

She wanted to know if the positions of three field workers hired recently had been advertised and how many applications had been received.

She said she understood that 24 colleges graduates applied but none had been hired.

Alderman E. A. Dew, one of the two city representatives on the welfare unit board, said the agreement was accepted

Reds Executed 1,000 at Hue

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces executed "more than 1,000 persons during the February offensive in Hue, the Ca, Vietnam, reported today.

The embassy said its report was based on information from U.S. and South Vietnam sources. It said the victims were found in 19 separate mass graves.

"Many had been shot, some beheaded," the report said. "A number of bodies showed signs of mutilation. Most were found with hands bound behind their backs.

"Evidence also was discovered of victims having been clubbed unconscious prior to being buried alive."

The report said one South Vietnamese political warfare officer who helped investigate the executions estimated that almost half of the victims had been buried alive.

Waterworks Project Must Wait Until '69

Board Refuses To Alter Quota

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

The Ontario Municipal Board will not agree to increasing the city's 1968 capital works quota to allow the awarding of a contract for a $1,600,000 extension to the local water filtration plant this year.

But the picture is not quite as black as it might seem. This is the feeling of City Manager J. R. Reynolds and members of city council who suggest that engineering and property acquisition could be done this year and a start be made next year on the actual project.

Earlier this year the OMB approved a city 1968 capital works program of $2,139,300, with the city's five year program calling for expenditure of $1,600,000 over the next four years to provide for the filtration plant extension.

However, two weeks ago it was pointed out by City Manager Reynolds that the entire $1,600,000 would have to be included in this year's works program if a contract was to be let.

The proposal of the Public Utilities Commission is to extend the existing filtration plant, using the Bay of Quinte as the water supply source. The proposed extension would increase the plant's capacity by another seven million gallons daily.

Yesterday, council by a seven to three vote concurred with the commission's expansion plans using Bay of Quinte as a water source and agreed to proceed with financial arrangements, preferably on the basis of spreading out the work of plant expansion.

"It is not as black as it might seem," said City Manager Reynolds. "We already have $400,000 in the capital works budget this year for the plant expansion and $400,000 in next year's budget."

"So we are only talking about providing another $800,000 in this year's capital works budget."

The plan is to have the property, engineering done this year and also acquire property for the plant extension, then call tenders next year for the extension.

Utilities Manager E. L. Burnham agrees that little more than this could be done in 1968.

Mr. Burnham said the water intake out into the Bay of Quinte would be large enough and so

Rockefeller Enters Race

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller declared himself an active candidate today for the Republican Party's presidential nomination, saying he did so to "give our party a choice of candidates and of programs."

"I have become convinced that the party wishes to have such a choice," Rockefeller said in "straying himself openly against the White House bid of Richard M. Nixon.

The 59-year-old governor thus abandoned the "available" posture he had taken 40 days ago and plunged into an all-out contest for his party's nomination.

He revealed his switch in strategy in a telegram to a group of supporters in Vermont. It became known shortly before Rockefeller was to go before a televised news conference to tell his new political plans.

Rockefeller said he would "campaign as vigorously as I know how on the grave issues facing our country." And he said he would present his candidacy "within a framework of party unity."

This statement indicated what Rockefeller intimates had said before his formal announcement —that he would accentuate the positive aspects of his own credentials and avoid criticism of Nixon, his only major rival for the nomination.

His aide issued a statement hour later saying:

"Some chest discomfort was noted earlier today. The doctors think it all in best for a period of medical observation and bed rest."

The aide emphasized: "We are not calling this a heart attack."

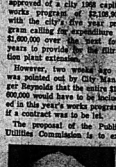
MOOSE CREEK, Ont. (CP) — An elderly couple and their 40-year-old son died in a fire early today in this village about 30 miles north of Cornwall.

Dead are Corrie Blair, 80, his wife, Janet, 70, and their son, Harold.

The fire, discovered by a neighbor about 4:30 a.m., destroyed the two-storey frame house.

Cause of the fire is unknown.



Hundred Students Hurt As Police Clear Buildings

NEW YORK (AP) — Police moved in force onto the Columbia University campus at the administration's request today and, touched off violent demonstrations from five barricaded campus buildings to end a week-long sit-in.

Starting around 2:45 a.m., police systematically removed the students—sometimes violently —in about 75 minutes. More than a hundred of the youths were injured, most suffering cuts and bruises about the head and face.

An emergency infirmary set up on campus reported treating about 50 students. A reporter who was injured said 48 youths were treated while he was at St. Luke's Hospital.

Police reported 628 persons arrested, approximately 100 of them women.

'Progress Before Perfection' Sharp's Plea on Nuclear Pact

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp today urged the 124-nation General Assembly to "put progress ahead of perfection" and give speedy approval to the draft treaty on nuclear non-proliferation.

In his first appearance at the UN since becoming Canada's foreign affairs spokesman April 20, Sharp replied to some of the criticisms that have been levelled at the treaty by individual countries and declared:

"We have been given the opportunity of bringing into effect the only arms-control agreement now possible of achievement."

The draft treaty, formulated in Geneva by the 18-country UN disarmament committee, is being debated in the General Assembly's main political committee, to which all UN members belong. Russia and the United States, nuclear superpowers, have urged the UN to vote overwhelming approval.

Canada's support for the principle of preventing the proliferation of nuclear weapons has never wavered," said Sharp, who described it today as the intention of the government of Prime Minister Trudeau to carry on Canada's record of support for the United Nations as a whole.

Sharp said the draft treaty, which Canada helped formulate, seeks to achieve two fundamental purposes.

"The first—and perhaps by far the most important—is to reduce the present risk, implicitly which aggravates international tensions, accelerates the spiralling arms race and increases the risk of nuclear war."

The second, he said, is to "serve as an initial but essential step toward the control and reduction of existing stocks of nuclear weapons."

Sharp found significant the pledges given in Geneva by three of the world's five nuclear-weapons countries—the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain—that they will present a Security Council resolution giving assurance of assistance to all signatories to the treaty not possessing such weapons.

The other two nuclear-weapons countries, France and China, remained aloof during the many years of negotiations leading to the draft treaty.

Sharp noted that the U.S.-Soviet-British affirmation of assistance under the UN charter has been belittled in some quarters.

"Yet . . . what stronger assurance could any state without nuclear weapons have, short of becoming an ally of one of the nuclear powers?"

Sharp said Canada is aware of the argument that the treaty could perpetuate the monopoly position of nuclear-weapon states.

"This is an inescapable aspect of non-proliferation treaty," he said.

Massey-Ferguson Will Move To U. S. if Wages Equalized

TORONTO (CP) — Massey-Ferguson Industries Ltd. has told the United Auto Workers Union the company will move its Canadian production to the United States within 18 months if the union continues its demand for wages parity with U.S. workers.

In a statement released Monday, the farm-equipment company said it had offered the UAW a commitment that it would not move away from Canada during the life of an agreement in an effort to settle a strike by about 6,000 workers in Toronto and Brantford that began April 28.

However, the union rejected the company's settlement proposal, which included the formula of wage increases recently granted Massey-Ferguson workers in the U.S. and also additional fringe benefits.

Union officials were not available for comment.

The average hourly rate for Canadian workers is $3.12. They are asking that this be raised to about $4.11 by 1970 to match rates received by the company's Detroit workers.

The last company offer included a 17-cent-an-hour increase for one year from the signing date, with an additional 30 cents for skilled workers retroactive to Jan. 1. No new wage proposals were mentioned in Monday's statement.

In the event of what it described as a "non-competitive wage settlement," the company said it would phase-out the Verjty factory in Brantford, employing 900 workers, within 18 months.

"During the term of the agreement further steps, including the phase-out of Toronto workers, might be announced, the company statement said.

It must be clear to our employees and the union that plant replacement — most obviously Verjty and Toronto works — will be favorable soon with or without a competitive wage penalty.

"The decision influenced by the cost of settlement is whether plant replacements will be here or outside Canada."

So Look Who's Being Cautious!

No, it's not a case of careless driving by a driver cautioning otherwise. Above, an employee spraying new traffic-lines on Belleville's East Hill yesterday. It's a part of long-awaited road-building project — although some motorists were briefly bemused to find machine meeting them head-on. (Details on Page 2.)

Employees Favor Strike Action

TRENTON — The employees of the town's public works department voted 3-1 in favor of strike action last night.

They left final decision to walk off their jobs dependent on the results handed down at the conciliation board hearing ordered into the dispute.

Negotiations in progress for five months broke down last week.

No date has been set for the conciliation board hearing but employees will remain on the job until it takes place.

New Additions Planned At Separate Schools

Tenders for the construction of additions to Holy Rosary and St. Joseph's Separate Schools in Belleville have been called with a May 8 closing date.

The addition of a general purpose room is planned for Holy Rosary school on College Street while at St. Joseph's school a general purpose room and kindergarten will be constructed.

School board officials hope the new accomodation at both schools can be ready for school opening in September.

The Belleville Separate school board also plans construction this year of a new school in the Park Dale area in northwest Belleville.

The school — to be called the George Vanier Separate School — is of entirely new design and will be constructed on Tracey Street. —

The original hope was that the new school — like the two additions — could be ready for September but, due to delays in plan completion tenders are not expected to be issued for at least another month.

This, in turn, is expected to set back the completion date until later in the fall.

Obituaries

JAMES VINCENT McKENNY (Read)

In ill health for some time, James Vincent McKenny, well known and lifelong resident of the Read district, died in the Belleville General Hospital early this morning.

He was born near Read, 75 years ago, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McKenny and had lived and farmed in the Ritchie for many years.

He was a member of St. Charles' Church at Read and a member of the Holy Name Society. He is survived by his wife, the former Charlotte Freeman, five sons, Donald McKenny of Erinsville, Lorne of Oshawa, Leo of Belleville, James of Read and Vincent of Newburgh.

Also five daughters, Mrs. Edward (Margaret) McGahey (Mrs. Bernard (Anne) of Oshawa, Mrs. Patrick (Mary) Corrigan of Oshawa, Mrs. Basil (Helen) Hanley of Harrowsmith and Mrs. Frank (Bernice) Corrigan of Oshawa.

Mr. McKenny is resting at the O'Brien Funeral Residence. The funeral will be held at St. Charles' Church in Read on Thursday with Requiem Mass at 10 a.m.

Interment will be in St. Charles' Cemetery.

MRS. ALBERT E. WRIGHT (Stirling)

Following an illness of three days, Mrs. Clara Teresa Wright of 132 Front Street West in Stirling died in the Belleville General Hospital early this morning.

Mrs. Wright was born in Ontario, 91 years ago, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Berridge and had been a resident of Stirling for the past 32 years.

She was well known and highly respected in her community.

Mrs. Wright was fraternally identified with LOBA No. 634 of Stirling and when health permitted was active in the society.

She is survived by two sons, Clarence Wright of Stirling and Knowlton of R. R. 2, Belleville.

Also six daughters, Mrs. Lucy Brown of Toronto, Mrs. Maude (Nettie) Heath of Belleville, Mrs. Frederick (Genevieve) Wannamaker of Frankford, Mrs. Gerald (Jessie) McInroy of Peterborough, Mrs. Maxwell (Jean) Richardson of Milton and Mrs. Ross (Aleatha) Storring of Tweed.

Another daughter Mrs. Elizabeth Hawley predeceased her.

Mrs. Wright is resting at the Duffin - Hegle Funeral Home, Stirling. Service will be held in the chapel on Thursday, May 2nd at 1.30 p.m. Rev. Bruce Snell will officiate.

Interment will be in St. Michael's Anglican cemetery, Coe Hill with Rev. Peter Teet officiating.

MRS. ANNIE ATLANTA (Wilkes)

The funeral for Mrs. Annie Atlanta Wilkes was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Monday afternoon.

Rev. William Lamb, of Holloway Street United Church, conducted the service in the chapel. Interment was in Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were James Barton, Keith Chambers, James Jeff, Fred Beeby, Ron Wassels and Douglas Richardson.

THOMAS BELLIS

The funeral for Thomas Bellis was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. Rev. Wright conducted the service in the chapel and also the committal rites at Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were Jerry and George Clement, Barney Symons, Godfrey Morris, Jack Murray and Alfred Rowbotham.

Besides the immediate family, there are 16 grandchildren surviving and four great grandchildren.

RAYMOND HAMILTON

The funeral for Raymond Hamilton was held from the O'Brien Funeral Home to St. Michael's Church this morning.

Rev. P. Carty celebrated the Requiem Mass and Rev. D. Cummings officiated for graveside prayers at St. James' cemetery.

The bearers were Ray and John Hamilton, Lawrence Hamilton, Gerald Langman, Barney Parsons and Alton Boyd.

Alderman Jeffrey Objects to Welfare Staff Appointments

The city's ratio of representation on the board of the Hastings county welfare unit and recent staff appointments for the unit came under fire at Belleville city council yesterday.

The objection was raised by Alderman Mrs. Robin Jeffrey when the county welfare unit bylaw agreement to include Trenton came up for ratification.

The new county welfare unit taking in the county of Hastings, Belleville and Trenton, will officially go into operation on May 1.

Part of Mrs. Jeffrey's objection appeared to be against the recent appointment of former Thurlow township reeve Carl Thompson, as a welfare unit field worker.

The alderman said Belleville and Trenton should have more representation on the welfare unit board than the county.

She also objected to the fact that the welfare administrator will be responsible to the county clerk-administrator rather than the city manager.

Mrs. Jeffrey suggested that the county welfare unit be operated as a separate corporation such as the Children's Aid Society which she said would eliminate any possibility of political implications.

She wanted to know if the positions of three field workers hired recently had been advertised and how many applications had been received.

She said she understood that 24 college graduates applied but none had been hired.

Alderman E. A. Orr, one of the two city representatives on the county welfare board, said the agreement was actually an extension of the existing agreement between the county and Belleville.

He said Trenton had originally been invited to become a member of the unit but had declined. Then a couple of months later the city changed its mind and asked to be included.

Under the original agreement the county had three representatives on the board and Belleville two. When Trenton was included it was decided that in fairness the town should have one member.

Neither of the city representatives had been on the hiring committee, but the entire committee had approved of the recent appointments.

Mayor J. R. Scott commended Alderman Jeffrey for her questions, stating that he had been wondering about the same thing.

He said he did not know that the county had been asked to join the welfare unit on the basis it had.

"However," he admitted, "the set-up of the unit was approved by the province."

Noting that the city welfare administrator had spent considerable time in organizing the county unit, Mayor Scott said he had asked that a complete record be kept of time spent on the project.

Belleville will ask that these costs be returned to the city.

Welfare administrator Reginald Tucker said the three welfare field positions had been advertised both locally and in the Toronto press.

More than 40 applications had been received, he said, but not recall any applicant who held a recognized degree in welfare work.

"Some of the applicants had welfare experience and a few had municipal experience," he said.

Mr. Tucker said that one of the terms of the county accepting all city welfare workers on the county unit had been that preferential consideration be given to county residents with welfare experience when hiring additional staff.

"The reason I am responsible to the county clerk administrator is that as of May 1, all welfare unit workers become county employees," he said.

Alderman Douglas Boyle said he had been surprised to learn that one of the field worker appointees had been a man who had long been opposed to the county welfare system.

Belleville's Official Plan Expected Later This Year

Belleville's long awaited official plan could be completed some time late this year.

This was the hope expressed yesterday by city planning director P. J. Beavis who said he was optimistic on the completion of the city's urban renewal study, the official plan could be ready for public consideration before the end of 1968.

He emphasized that the official plan would not be approved this year, but could be ready for presentation to council.

The planning director said that parts of the plan would be up for discussion at the next meeting of the planning board.

A letter from Hon. W. Darcy McKeough, Ontario minister for the department of municipal affairs, was before council expressing reservations with respect to the city's application for financial assistance for an urban renewal scheme.

Mr. McKeough said he had reservations regarding the over-all cost of the scheme study and also regarding what he termed the "duality of surveys" — analyses and results expected from the changing economic conditions.

The minister said he did not intend delaying the application but felt his reservation on the overall high cost should be drawn to the attention of the consultant doing the renewal study.

The cost of the urban renewal study approved earlier this year by council is $87,100, of which the federal government would pay 50 per cent and the provincial government 25 per cent leaving $21,755 as the city's share.

However, the city's portion is to be reduced by a further $12,000 through the use of city personnel used in the study.

City Planning Director Beavis said he didn't feel the letter from the minister of municipal affairs was any cause for alarm by council.

He said the consultant's work and progress statements would be reviewed by city staff.

Neither did he feel there was any duality in the services being provide in the survey.

Mr. Beavis claimed he did not feel the minister's letter called for a reply.

But Mayor J. R. Scott took a different view.

"On the contrary," he said, "the minister has written pointing out his reservations and we should get the answers even if only for our own satisfaction."

Alderman Kenneth Soden suggested the appointment of a committee to further investigate the matter and to forward a copy of the minister's letter to the consultants doing the urban renewal study.

Parking By-law May Be Changed

City council may eventually come up with a two way bylaw for the regulation of overnight street parking.

Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott says the key words could be "gutter" and "no gutter."

The idea would be that overnight parking would be prohibited on paved streets with gutters — so that operation of the street sweeper and flusher would not be impeded.

The ban on overnight parking drew complaints a week ago when about 200 cars were tagged by police.

As a result of the complaints it was decided that consideration might be given to revamping the bylaw to make a distinction between the different types of streets.

Hillcrest Ratepayers Complain About Service

The Hillcrest ratepayers' association is unhappy about the city Transit service and wants something done about it.

In a recent letter to the Belleville transit commission the association requested a change in bus route and was told the change wasn't feasible.

A new bus would have to be purchased or one taken off another route, they were told at that time.

But in the meantime a route change was approved for the College Street area and Hillcrest residents want to know why they were refused.

Mayor J. R. Scott suggested yesterday that the transit commission be asked to review other routes as well as that in Hillcrest.

He said the new Superior Electric plant in northeast Belleville would soon be in operation and workers would need transportation.

"Also Foster ward residents and industrial workers in that area required public transportation," he claimed.

Police, Public Works Officials To Report on Problem

The city police department and public works' officials will be asked to investigate roadside conditions on Haig Road between Bridge Street and the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks.

They will make recommendations to city council.

A motion by Alderman Arthur Keegan asks that no parking on both sides of Haig Road be put into effect.

The alderman said that a number of cars in the area were using the road allowance for the purpose of wrecking cars and a dangerous traffic hazard resulted from the action.

Council was told that the wrecking yard was "nonconforming use for the area" and also that the operation had failed to conform to regulations calling for the erection of board fences around the property.

Baxter Tops Polls In School Election

PICTON (Staff) — The new Prince Edward Collegiate prime minister is Liberal, Lindley Baxter.

The party held the majority after the model parliament elections held yesterday at the school. The liberals go to parliament Wednesday holding 23 cabinet seats.

Progressive conservatives rank second with 16 seats, followed by the New Democrats, five seats, and the new social credit, six seats, and the New Democrats five seats.

Meanwhile skulduggery is being conducted up and down the school halls. The progressive conservatives at the school can still grab a minority government. If they can shepherd in the support of the New Democrats and Social Credits.

Both major parties seem aware of the facts, and both have set out to woo and cajole the smaller parties into line.

Student support for the elections was poorer than expected.

Keegan Requests Lights

Provision of money in the 1968 current city budget for the installation of traffic lights at the corner of Dundas and Church streets has been requested by Alderman Arthur Keegan.

Declaring that the intersection is extremely dangerous and that Dundas Street is being used as a speedway, Ald. Keegan asked that the lights be installed as soon as possible.

"During certain periods of the day", the alderman said, "it is almost impossible for factory and industrial workers in Foster Ward to get out onto Dundas Street."

Council amended the alderman's motion and voted to ask for a complete study of all intersections.

Waterworks Expansion Project Cannot Be Started Until '69

situated that it could be used to pipe in Lake Ontario water if this was deemed necessary some time in the future.

Mr. Reynolds felt confident that the Municipal Board would approve the slightly revised plans. He said he would write to the board explaining the new proposal and stressing both its urgency and importance.

But the council proposal to delay calling tenders for the filtration plant extension until next year was not approved without the whole city water supply question being brought in for discussion.

Alderman Gerald Joyce said in his opinion the source of water supply had not been satisfactorily determined.

He said that cold Lake Ontario water was required for certain types of industry and he was not convinced Bay of Quinte water was the answer.

He doubted also that the Ontario Municipal Board would approve the extra amount needed to get the water filtration plant expansion underway next year.

Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott said he was not an apologist for the Utilities Commission, but the city must have additional water. He stressed the plant extension must be built unless it was decided to take treated water from Lake Ontario.

Replying to Alderman Joyce's contention that cold Lake Ontario water was required for a certain industry, he said the city's resources should not be based on the possibility that one industry "may" come to the city.

Earlier in the meeting the city manager said that apparently the municipal board had misinterpreted his letter asking approval for an increased capital works budget this year and had understood the plant expansion was needed to provide water to neighboring townships.

Mayor Scott emphasized the extension was needed to provide water for the city.

Mr. Burnham said planning for the water plant extension had actually started back in 1963.

He said it was quite possible that the necessary planning details could be done this year and the intake pipe be installed next year. The pipe would be large enough to take Lake Ontario water if necessary.

Alderman Joyce wanted to know what the difference in dollar cost per family for the three different sources of water that were possible.

Mr. Burnham said the present minimum rate for domestic water was $2.25 per month.

If treated water were brought from Lake Ontario to an outside reservoir the net rate would be about $6 per month; while extension of the plant for use of raw Lake Ontario water would result in a net rate of about $5 per month. This compared with a $3.50 net rate for the planned extension from Bay of Quinte water.

Mr. Burnham said that due to the cost involved for lake water, the engineers had advised water was the cheapest bay water.

Public Utilities Commission Chairman John Deacon urged that council stress to the Municipal Board that the proposed water plant extension was both urgent and essential.

United Services Request $10,000

The Belleville United Community Services has asked for consideration of a $10,000 grant from the city to assist that body in carrying out its 1968 operations.

Msgr. J. P. Sullivan made the request yesterday to city council, as spokesman for a delegation from the community services organization.

The request immediately brought a question from Alderman Paul Russell who asked if council hadn't already given $5,000 to the services organization this year.

Alderman Williams said the $5,000 already paid was for last year, while the $10,000 request was for 1968.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds pointed out that if the $10,000 grant was paid, the year's budget would show a sign. of $10,000 for the community services this year.

Fred Symons, speaking on behalf of the Salvation Army, asked for consideration of a grant to the Red Shield campaign.

H. A. Messacar asked Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott and council to proclaim May 1-7 as Mental Health Week in Belleville.

Later in the meeting council voted to proclaim Mental Health Week while the grant requests were referred to the council budget meeting.

Highway Speeders

Highway 401 is busy enough these days, particularly at weekends.

This same highway has a speed limit of 60 m.p.h., which comparatively few drivers obey. There are police patrols, of course, and east of Kingston on Sunday they were using radar to check cars.

It seems a close watch is kept on cars from Quebec — at least one of those flagged down by police on Sunday was from that province — but if the French Canadian is a fast driver those from Ontario are not holding back either.

Speeds of 80 m.p.h. and more are commonplace on Highway 401. And that is testimony to the danger in which drivers of such vehicles are placing themselves are the numerous skid marks along the highway.

Nor are these skids minor affairs. Rather they extend from 300 to 500 feet and usually finish up on the shoulder.

All of them are evidence of one flaw or other in driving. Next month, Man and His World (successor to Expo 67) opens in Montreal. So too does Upper Canada Village and the other attractions along the Seaway. Traffic then will be very heavy on the weekends and motorists will have to drive with a great deal more care than skid marks on the highway at present indicate.

Vietnam to Nevada

A report of Soviet-made arms being found in Viet Cong river junks in Saigon is scarcely surprising. It is part of the continuing campaign to infiltrate the South Vietnamese capital.

However, if the Soviets are indulging in direct warfare with the United States and their allies in Vietnam, the Americans are rattling their sabres in even more formidable fashion.

Indeed, it is a little incongruous to learn at this stage of the game in east-west relations, when things are relatively quiet, that the mightiest nuclear bomb ever exploded in the United States, shook the Nevada desert the other day.

It seems a far cry from the regular test explosions by both the U.S. and Russia a few years ago. Yet there it was — an experimental hydrogen bomb set off in a shaft 1,800 feet beneath a lonely desert area 100 miles northwest of Las Vegas. Weighing in at a million tons of TNT, the device was 50 times more powerful than the Hiroshima bomb of the last war.

Are these explosions really necessary? The "overkill" level has long since been reached by both sides. Perhaps the explosion was designed to impress not the Russians but the Chinese, who presumably are still working at developing their own nuclear arsenal and may still be harboring ideas about going to war with the United States some time in the future.

Color Talks

Color is one of the absolutely vital attributes of modern life. Of course it has always been so. The use of color as personal adornment for instance goes back to early times. Makeup of varying hues has titillated the fancy of male and female all the way from Roman society to the primitive tribes of Africa.

Today it also has entered itself in the fresh dimension of the psychedelic world, in exotic jewelry and painting of the body as well as the face. Consider the car-girl phenomenon — the latter as pleasant companionship for a day's outing or as models to help sell a new auto. Thus it seems appropriate that a car showroom in Toronto recently was the scene of an unusual beauty contest. Six British-born girls competing for the title British Miss Canada were judged not only for their beauty but for the originality of their "body psychedelia." The girls showed off quite a variety of interesting styles in this modern adaptation of the cosmetic art.

One of the more bizarre creations in this sphere of late shows a model decorated in the manner envisaged for the woman living in an urban environment in the year 2,000. The young woman combines heavy eye makeup and pale lip coloring with what is described as "body paint" for insulation against weather and pollutants, including radioactivity.

Another conception of this strange young woman of tomorrow (she looks like one of those tribal females from the National Geographic) is a computer necklace that programs the baby governing the temperature of her oven, warning when her children will be home, and monitoring the guidance of her car.

If one needs any proof of how fashions change with the times this kind of imaginative peering into the future furnishes it. Perhaps the women of the year 2000 will be quite "square," and ordinary in appearance. One thing is certain, color will play as much part in their lives as it has since time immemorial.

Instant Power Swallows Up Pierre Trudeau's Privacy

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Like so many people were asking only yesterday ... does Pierre Elliott Trudeau know what hit him . . . and what it means to him as a private person?

He is getting a rough — very rough, in the hard-to-take sense — idea, and doesn't seem to like it at all.

What has hit him so suddenly and unexpectedly is responsibility — the nation's heaviest load of it — and it has knocked him as a private person into a very public fish flop.

He displayed instant alarm when he took — so laughingly thanked his initial press conferences for services yet to come — recording for a grateful posterity my every yawn and scratch."

Obviously, he felt the prospect of being forever on public inspection quite repulsive.

He continued showing distaste when he fled like a scared rabbit his Easter holiday Florida hide-out at the sight of a single newshound.

And he persists in his belief that holding the most public office in Canada, he can still be his own private man, making himself as inaccessible as possible.

At the moment he demonstrates all the tell-tale signs of feeling overwhelmed by a clamoring world crowding in on him.

Which perhaps is not at all surprising since it was less than four months ago he first thought of making it as prime minister — and then, at the opening of what seems to be perhaps turning into a personal ordeal. For him, only as something of a "joke."

In truth, he is being overwhelmed. But he had better get used to it.

For it goes with the job, that haunted feeling of never being able to be quite alone.

It is the penalty of power.

Everybody in this acquisitive Ottawa establishment wants something, and he of all men can give the most.

His is the exclusive gift of instant - authority, his say-so the password to sudden-security, his hand the magic wand of immediate-prosperity.

He appoints $2,000 - a-year departmental deputies, makes or breaks the Civil Service mandarins. He decides the big contracts running to their multi-millions. He names the $100-a-day - and - all - expenses - paid royal commissioners. His is the final word on the taxing and spending of an annual $12,000,000,000.

But most of all — and this perhaps is the single greatest pressure point on a prime minister — he causes that most-wonderful-of-all 'phone calls to be made: "The prime minister has instructed me to ask if you could meet him tomorrow, and please be in a dark suit."

You have won the richest political prize of them all — you are in the Senate with an annuity worth better than a half million dollars if "life begins at 40" as it has for some senatorial jackpot winners.

While the new prime minister is showing unmistakable signs of finding it far too hot for comfort in his new power kitchen, there are amenities.

And not just the $150,000 old greystone mansion at 24 Sussex Drive high on the escarpment above the Ottawa River, nor the $100,000 "cottage" at Harrington Lake gently wooded like between pine-clad Gatineau hills.

Although the Harrington lodge should have a very special appeal as a sort of weekend clubhouse for go - water - skiers, high divers, speed boaters, swim stylists and practitioners of the art of the frug.

It could not be the chauffeured limousines, either, nor the staff of servants.

For as a millionaire bachelor, Pierre Elliott Trudeau of Westmount really would have had all this and more.

Rather it has to be the heady experience of being pretty much of a parliamentary nonentity, a political dilettante — you make speeches in the Commons and who listens — then suddenly being king of The Hill.

Instantly, there is heckling response to your every whim and recoil is terror from your slightest frown.

You find that you alone can put big chunks of time into all others. And you can just as easily brush them into the discard.

You are fawned on and probably despise it. And you are mortally feared — despising it even more.

You are the beginning and the end of hope and ambition for so many.

You are prime minister, and never for a moment, even when not even in your dreams, are you allowed to forget it. You may possibly want too in many things, and so you are never alone.

You have become the most public person in all the land. You are master and slave.

Letter to the Editor

Air Travel in the Future

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Your editorial titled Air Travel of April 26 makes little sense.

Obviously air transportation is short of being completely safe. It does not take the loss of 100 lives to prove this point — even walking will never be completely safe.

Secondly the fact that the aircraft in question was virtually brand new has no bearing on the matter — mechanical failure can occur unexpectedly at any point in the life of a machine.

Thirdly, the jumbo-jets will not be flying at speeds greatly in excess of the contemporary jets. (Unless you consider 20 mph. a mere 3 per cent increase as a big step forward, that is.) It will be many years before the supersonic transports are carrying more passengers than the Boeing 707, VC 10 and DC8.

Finally, with the present attitude of the public, safety and confidence are completely unrelated. Witness the daily carnage on our highways, much the result of unsafe vehicles, and not how many people refuse to drive? Very few.

E. A. JOHNSON
Ottawa.

EDITOR'S NOTE: If Mr. Johnson wants to split hairs on the subject of air safety, that is his business. However, with regard to the new supersonic transport, a recent report from Seattle by Canadian Press writer Jack Morris made reference to delivery dates, carrying capacity and Canadian participation in its manufacture, as follows. "Current Boeing passenger jets — the Jumbo" will be flown late this year and delivered to the airlines starting next year — contain Canadian components that range from small valves to portions of the main landing gear. ... All of the prime contracts for the 490-passenger multi - decked Jumbo have been let to American firms but there is still room for subcontracts. Boeing says it hopes to sell an additional 200 jumbos after initial orders are filled by 1972. The company already has orders for 144 planes.

Niagara Escarpment Plan

Hamilton Spectator

The Ontario government's pledges to preserve the Niagara escarpment and to build new recreational resources soon will face a $26 million test.

Development is 6 - mile drive has been proposed by consultants hired by the province and Wentworth, Lincoln and Welland Counties. The drive would wind through scenery augmented by golf courses, ski slopes, campsites, hiking and riding trails, historical restorations, artificial lakes and nature study centres.

It is the latest in a series of scenic drive proposals. All previous efforts have been futile.

Now, however, Queen's Park has committed itself, in policy at least, if Ontario intends to keep its promises, it will initiate public acquisition of escarpment land this year — before costs rise any higher — soon.

The new plan may have to be altered in detail but the general concept is sadly justifiable for a densely populated region that can't meet its own recreational requirements or capitalize fully on its tourism potential.

The pros and cons of riding stables and golf course layouts can be decided at leisure. But scenic drive and recreational land should be bought under public ownership immediately.

Basic Shelter Grant

Kingston Whig-Standard

The Ontario Government seems to be badgered these days by a marked inclination to produce shotgun legislation. Just a few days ago, for instance, the Government had to back down on the new legislation calling for the eventual compulsory use of holding 'tanks for the toilets of private pleasure boats. The legislation demanded that the tanks be mandatory but did not at the same time insist that all marinas and docking systems (including Government systems) have the pumping gear without which such tanks would be useless.

The latest example is the basic shelter exemption grant. The measure was introduced into the Legislature by the Minister of Municipal Affairs, Darcy McKeough. He was forced to admit that the legislation was so badly drawn up that tenants with no leases or with leases expiring before December 31, have no guarantee that they will be able to share in the grants.

The legislation provides that the grants will not be paid directly to home-owners and tenants but to municipalities and landlords. As the Opposition was quick to point out, this begs the question of how to insure that landlords pass the saving on to tenants and also to prevent municipalities from spending money it might not otherwise be forced to spend, in the knowledge that the tax bills sent to individuals would be reduced by the grant.

Bachelor Leader

Trudeau Third in 100 Years

Windsor Star

It's a commentary of some sort on the Canadian character that Pierre Elliott Trudeau will be the third prime minister within this century who is unmarried.

If Mr. Trudeau is a swinger, the same term could be used to mean be applied to the two other bachelor prime ministers of this century — Mackenzie King and R. B. Bennett. Neither was addicted to fast sports cars, casual clothing, or wisecracking banter. But then they lived in different times.

The fact that a bachelor could become prime minister is important, however. It is difficult to imagine an unmarried man running for the presidency of the United States, where the happy family gathered around the home fireside is now as important a part of political gimmickmick as the log cabin once was. Of the 35 men who have been president, only one was a bachelor. He was James Buchanan, president from 1857 to 1861.

What to conclude? Are Canadians more tolerant, Or less interested in family life? Or not so easy prey to the image - makers of this century? Or simply not care about politics?

Non-White Immigrants Issue

Racism Reveals Itself Among Britain's Working Class

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

On Tuesday, April 23, the feast day of St. George, a London newspaper gently reminded its readers that England's patron saint was an immigrant, a Palestinian Arab who arrived at the time of the Crusades. And there is doubt that he ever slew the dragon.

On that same feast day more than 2,000 tough East London dock workers quit work and marched to Parliament in support of their new champion booted from his job for trying to overcome what, in the eyes of many whites, was a new dragon, the non-white immigrant swelling the British working classes.

Enoch Powell, the right-wing Tory MP, has suddenly become a new idol with thousands of letters flowing to his home in support of his stand that Britain should bar dark-skinned immigrants and start encouraging some of the 1,000,000 already in Britain to leave.

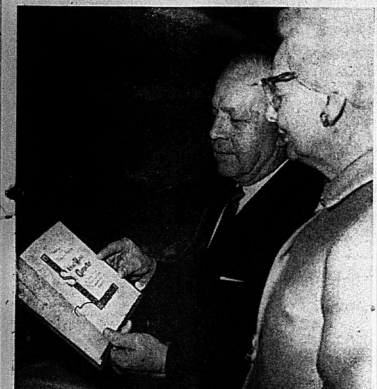
Britons are generally known as tolerant persons and the emotional response that followed Powell's weekend statements surprised many observers. A survey by Britain's Institute of Race Relations concluded that Britons generally are more tolerant toward colored persons than political leaders would suggest.

But the dockers' rush to Powell's support seemed to be more in line with the views of another Tory MP, Sir Gerald Nabarro, who said Powell reflected the views of 80 per cent of the British population.

The dockers carried such placards as: "65,000 Dockers Support Powell"; "Back Britain, not Black Spain"; "Enoch Powell Says What Everyone Thinks."

Even Home Secretary James Callaghan conceded that racism is a "live force" in Britain though he does not believe it is as yet deep-rooted.

Nevertheless the emotional impact of Powell's position may indicate the difficulties the government will face in trying to enforce its new bill to widen the law against racial discrimination.



Critics of the bill now under debate maintain the legislation lacks strong teeth.

But it is questionable whether the government would bow to their demands. In the current electrified atmosphere the Labor administration may consider itself fortunate if the bill can move through the legislative mill without being badly mauled.

Ingoing and Outgoing Presidents

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Hagerman are congratulated by Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Ithier on the eve of Mr. Hagerman's retirement from the presidency of Stewart-Warner Canada Ltd. last night. Mr. Ithier will be taking over the office.

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. "Stan" Hagerman look over the leather bound commemorative book Mr. Hagerman was awarded by the board of directors of Stewart-Warner for his service. The pages are gilt inlaid and each letter was done individually by an artist's brush. The words were also permanently inscribed into the company records.

40 Years Service

S. D. Hagerman Retires

After 40 years of service with the Stewart-Warner corporation, in capacities ranging from bookkeeper (40 years ago) to president of the Canadian company (today), S. D. "Stan" Hagerman, has retired.

The retirement reception held last night at the Sun Valley for Mr. Hagerman followed a retirement party last Friday in Chicago, location of the company's head office.

The gathering in Chicago saw Mr. Hagerman being awarded a commemorative color television set by the board of directors who also voted unanimously to have a citation honoring Mr. Hagerman and his service to the corporation permanently inscribed into the company records.

Nevertheless, last night's reception was not anti-climactic.

Chairman for the evening was F. C. Ithier, who will be taking over Mr. Hagerman's position.

Perhaps the story of Mr. Hagerman's life, presented to the group with slides, did better to honor his achievements than any comments made by last night's speakers.

Born and raised in Belleville Mr. Hagerman was an outstanding athlete excelling in both baseball and hockey. He was a member of the Nationals, the 1928 senior baseball championship team and was just as outstanding in hockey, having played both Junior and Intermediate hockey for the late Ed. Thomas.

After giving up the active side of sports he went on to coach the championship Belleville Bantam hockey team. Making his debut in the hockey world as one of Mr. Hagerman's players was Bobby Hull.

Joining the Alemite Corporation in 1928 Mr. Hagerman rose quickly in the company and in 1954 he was sent to England as managing director of Stewart - Warner in that country.

After building and setting in operation a new plant at Harlow, England, Mr. Hagerman was transferred to headquarters in Chicago with the export department in 1960.

It didn't take long before he was appointed director of export sales for the entire corporation.

Finally in 1964 Mr. Hagerman came back to Belleville as manager and president of Stewart - Warner Corporation, Canada Ltd.

"Under Stan's leadership our Canadian company has had much success," said Bennett Archambault board chairman of Stewart-Warner, "and in 1967 achieved a new high in peacetime earnings."

In addition, Mr. Hagerman was the only executive of the company who has served in three countries.

His contributions to the corporation were recognized at head office as well as locally.

At the reception last night, the heads of all plant departments extended their appreciation for Mr. Hagerman's guidance and wished him the best successes in the future.

He was presented with a stereo tape player for his car and Mrs. Hagerman was given flowers.

Perhaps the most lasting and meaningful reward for his long years of service was the citation inscribed into the company records.

A copy of the inscription was presented to Mr. Hagerman in Chicago by the board of directors. A leather bound book, with gilt inlaid introductions and every letter carefully painted with an artist's brush it expressed the corporation's sincere thanks to the retiring executive.

After accepting the gifts and well wishes from his friends and associates, Mr. Hagerman made his closing remarks filled with emotion. He especially thanked his wife, "without whose tolerance and understanding," he said, he could not have done it.

Mr. Hagerman, who has always had a keen interest in civic affairs, is an active supporter of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of this organization.

Mr. Hagerman is also member of the Belleville Rotary Club, on the board of the Belleville Cemetery and on the executive board of the Canadian Manufacturing Association.

The Hagermans are retiring to their farm on the Rednerswille road.

Drive Successful

PICTON (Staff) — Nobody bothered to count the bottles but the 1st Picton cub and scout group must have gathered close to 10,000 of them.

In a one day bottle drive, last week, a group of 25 scouters collected $115 worth of assorted bottles said assistant scout master Gary McMamee.

"It has taken a week to dispose of them all. The last bottles went in yesterday."

The collection consisted of assorted containers for soft drinks, liquor, beer and milk. A number of jars were also turned in.

West Bridge Street

Construction Project Under Way

That long awaited reconstruction job on West Bridge Street — from the Lower Bridge to Highland Ave. — has started at last.

City engineer Wilbur Purcell said that installation of the storm sewers, preliminary to the actual reconstruction job, was started yesterday afternoon by the Tatham Company of Belleville.

So far the next few months traffic will be disrupted in the Bridge Street hill area.

However, two single lanes of traffic — one for eastbound and the other for westbound vehicles — will be maintained throughout the sewer installation project.

The traffic lanes, clearly marked by white lines, will be on the north side of the street allowing the opposite side to be fenced to protect the sewer excavation.

However, to allow for sewer installation along James Street, this artery will be closed except for local traffic.

Rush hour traffic for across the bay — between four and six o'clock in the afternoon — which would normally turn down James Street will be re-routed up Bridge Street hill along Highland Ave., and down the Dundas Street hill.

This re-routing is necessary because left turns south on Coleman Street from Bridge Street are ruled out during the rush hour period. No. 14 highway signs will be changed to comply with the re-routing.

Mr. Purcell said the sewer contractor has commenced work at three different locations. They are at the Moira River and West Dundas Street, at the corner of James and West Bridge Streets and at the south end of James Street, where it was necessary to remove an old storm sewer to make way for the installation of the new pipe.

Farmers Union

County Refuses Grants

PICTON (Staff) — Both the Prince Edward County farmers' union, and the federation of farmers, have been refused county grants amounting to $500.

Daniel Nielson, president of the farmers' union, speaking at a meeting yesterday said that the two groups would solicit funds from each of the county townships.

He said that he expected that most of the funds could be raised in that manner although certain townships refused funds to the groups, last year.

The organizations were forced to take the same action last year when council turned down similar requests.

"The funds are required to help defray costs of the group meetings, hall rentals, transportation costs for guest speakers, and travel costs for area representatives to various conventions," said Mr. Nielson.

Columnist Recommends Positive Approach for Longevity

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: What is your formula for a long life? — About to Retire.

Dear About: Have I got one? More than anything, I might recommend the positive approach. It is all very well to be one of those who say "Let's face it!" and launch into a pessimistic and discouraging cataloguing of unhyped events. They think they are being brave and astute.

Give me the guy or gal who sees the happy side of things. A recent survey of three hundred men and women over 90 revealed that for the most part:

1. They were somewhat underweight.

2. They were physically active, spending a good deal of time out of doors.

3. They were not smokers.

4. Dispositions were calm; they were not easily upset. They "would as soon sing as speak". (Quoted from Martin M. Grossack, outstanding psychologist. Want the name and publisher of his (fine new book?)

* * *

Dear Doris: Our children have all flown the nest. Three of them are married, but one son is still searching for the girl of his dreams. Can a mother help her son to make a choice, or should she keep out of it? He is 27 years of age, and has a good position.

I think it is just wonderful the way you answer these weighty questions. — Authoress Mom.

Dear Mom: She can help — but not too obviously. In Canadian society a man chooses his own mate.

What you can do is create a little helpful atmosphere. A refrigerator absolutely with the makings for snacks, a record player with dance records, some tossed out invitations to friends to drop in; these might start something.

Always be available for an off-the-record chat. A young man would sometimes give his eye-teeth for a devoted older person's ear — and her gently offered point of view.

* * *

Dear Doris: The little bits of old poetry discovered by your readers fascinate me and each time I wonder if by chance someone somewhere would recall the one I read as a child. After one phrase haunts me and has me curious as to the rest of it: "With trembling hands I built a castle on shifting sands. . ."

Your column is a delight. Never miss reading it. — Many Years Ago.

Dear Years Ago: Intrigued? Anybody?

Brockville

LONDON, Ont. CP — Mrs. Ian M. Alexander of Brockville was elected president of the Association of May Court Clubs of Canada at the conclusion of the association's annual meeting Thursday.

Mrs. Alexander predicted the clubs are "going to grow tremendously in the next ten years, because there is a great need for the kind of service we give. Men just don't have the time to do the social service work with senior citizens and children that we do."

Mrs. F. R. Buskard of London was elected first vice-president of the association and Mrs. Donald Armstrong of Brockville is the new field secretary.

During the business session Mrs. Buskard suggested the association look into the possibility of forming junior auxiliaries.

Guest speaker Marney Roe, women's editor of the London Free Press, said the job of the status of women commission is to search out areas where women are having difficulties getting ahead, not because of lack of skill, but because they are women.

Woman Heads Club

"It will be a tremendous relief when we reach some kind of independent maturity and stop analyzing ourselves," Miss Roe said she hoped the commission would sort out the inequities which hamper some women.

"But, to expect a sudden, overwhelming upsurge of importance of women would be foolish. It is reasonable to anticipate there are proportionately as many ambitious women as men. Not every man runs for political office — not every man reaches the top of the business heap."

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Father: "I wish we could go bowling again the way we used to."

Mother: "I would feel guilty leaving Jimmy every week but to have fun."

Give your child the attention he needs — but this does not mean you must have no life beyond him. It will do him no harm if you pick up some of the interests and pleasures you had before you became a parent.

Mother: "We used to enjoy bowling so much Jimmy is big enough now that we can go out once a week, so we're going to join our old team."

Reversed Procedure: Secretary Bothers Boss

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had to smile when I read the letter from the secretary whose boss couldn't keep his hands to himself. She said his "fatherly" pats had become bold pinches and squeezes and she wanted your advice on how to keep him in line without jeopardizing her job.

ANN LANDERS

It so happens that I am a boss and my problem is a secretary who won't keep her hands off me. I am 39 and no handsome lover type. My secretary is 29 and extremely attractive. She is also very competent and knows this office from top to bottom. If I fired her it would take months to break in a new girl. This pawing has been going on for nine years. Please tell me what to do. I am in urgent need of an answer. — ALSO UPPACHICK.

DEAR ALSO: If you have been "suffering" with the problem for nine years it can't be very urgent. I will give you the same advice I gave the secretary who wrote, Kwitcherkiddin'.

* * *

This letter may sound terribly stupid but it is a problem that bothers not only me, but some of my friends. Maybe you can help.

I am a girl, 16, and have been dating for over a year. I go with nice fellows and my folks have met and approved of them all. The problem is that whenever I leave the house my mother and father both kiss me good-bye as if I am going to Europe or something.

The other evening my dad was in the back of the house and my mother shouted to him, "Come kiss Ellie good-bye — she's leaving." I felt like a fool.

Please tell me what to do about this? — KISSING KIN.

* * *

DEAR KIN: Stop complaining. Your parents sound like warm-hearted people who love you and aren't ashamed to show it. If you could read the letters I get from teen-agers whose parents give them the drop-freeze you'd appreciate yours.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you printed a letter dealing with parents, children, and money. You gave the impression that you are opposed to parents giving adult children money. Have you considered the age of the parent and the amount of money involved?

Giving money does not necessarily result in loss of income or security. It might merely require an investment that would yield more tax-free dollars. An annual gift of $3,000 would not only endear the parent to the child, but yield greater net results after estate taxes. And no gift tax would be involved either.

Since you generally consult experts why didn't you consult an estate planner before you answered the mother's letter? — GREAT NECK ATTORNEY.

DEAR GREAT NECK: I didn't need to consult an expert on that one. I knew the answer. And it has nothing to do with estate planning or gift tax.

Your notion that an annual present of $3,000 will "endear" a parent to a child is rubbish. Too many confused parents have the notion that money and gifts are appropriate substitutes for time and attention. Irrevocable trust funds are appealing because "it's cheaper than giving the money to the government." Granted, some trusts make a great deal of sense, especially where there is an incompetent or foolish wife who would blow an estate if she had the chance. But the other side of the coin should not be ignored. If a kid knows he is due to inherit a staggering sum at 21 it may kill his incentive to stay in school or go to work (heaven forbid). And then you have him on your hands.

Orange Meringue Pie for A Change

By MARY MOORE

The questions were mine — besides I had gorgeous oranges on hand and only one lemon!

The result was a beauty and served seven people.

ORANGE MERINGUE PIE
(Deep 10")

PASTRY:
1½ cups sifted but not sifted pastry flour
½ tsp. salt
½ cup best quality shortening
¼ cup butter
2 tbsps. cold water

FILLING:
Grated rind 1 large orange
2 cups fresh orange juice— unstrained if desired
¾ cup sugar
5½ tbsps. corn starch
½ tsp. salt
4 large eggs — yolks and whites separated
½ cup butter
½ cup water
2 tbsps. lemon juice

MERINGUE:
4 egg whites — see above
½ cup sugar
½ tsp. vanilla

To make Pastry cut shortening and butter into flour and salt until size of peas with pastry blender. Drizzle in water, tossing with a fork. Pack into ball between palms. Roll out on generously floured board to fit deep 10"" pie plate. Line pie plate and smooth and flute edges making fluting stand up high as you can. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. about 10 min. — but watch it! Remove as soon as it begins to tinge with gold. Cool.

To make Filling grate the rind from one of your oranges before cutting them in halves to squeeze. Heat the 2 cups orange juice over very low heat — but do not boil. In heavy saucepan mix well together dry, the sugar, corn starch, orange rind and salt. Stir in heated orange juice until thick and slir 2 or 3 minutes longer over low heat. Remove from heat. In a small bowl beat egg yolks a little and stir some of the hot mixture into them and return to hot mixture and stir over low heat 1 min. Remove from heat and add butter and water mixed with lemon juice and stir well. Pour into baked pie shell.

To make Meringue beat ¼ cup sugar with the egg whites until stiff. Beat in vanilla and spoon meringue over warm filling, sealing it to edge of crust. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until pale gold — about 15 min.

NOTE: This orange meringue pie (or a lemon meringue pie) should be finished baking at least three hours before serving time to allow it to cool and set for neat slicing.

University Women's Club Plans Spring Fair

Admiring MacDonald Painting

Convener of the University Women's Club spring fair, Mrs. Richard Barrett shows Mrs. R. G. Walsh and Mrs. B. R. Collins a painting to be raffled at the fair.

The exhibition and sale of paintings by artist, Manly MacDonald, R.C.A., will highlight the Annual Spring Fair of the University Women's Club of Belleville and District which will take place Saturday, May 4 from 2.30 to 5.30 p.m. at St. Michael's Academy auditorium.

The purpose of this spring tea is the raising of scholarship funds available to young women of Belleville and district who are proceeding on to University. Originally only one $50 scholarship was offered. But now, thanks to the popularity of Mr. MacDonald's work, the exhibition has become widely known and visitors come from many miles to view it. This success has enabled the club to add to its scholarships, and now three are offered each year. These are known as the University Women's Club of Belleville and District, the Manly MacDonald, and the Beverley MacDonald Scholarships.

Mr. MacDonald is a native of Point Anne and spends several months in this area each year. Local scenes are often depicted on his canvas. Several of Mr. MacDonald's paintings hang in the National Art Gallery in Ottawa, and one was presented to the Queen by the Canadian Government. The artist has studied at the Albright Art School, Boston, the Boston Museum School of Fine Arts, and the Ontario College of Art.

Mr. MacDonald and his wife, Beverley, also a noted artist, expect to attend the tea to meet visitors and to discuss his work with them.

A beautiful Autumn scene "The Long Reach" is the raffle painting donated to the club by Mr. MacDonald for its scholarship funds. Tickets may be purchased from any club member or at the fair itself. The draw will be made at the close of the tea.

An added attraction of the tea is a bake sale where many delicacies may be purchased.

The members of the University Women's Club look forward to greeting many old friends and hope to welcome many new ones at their Fair on Saturday, May 4 at St. Michael's Academy Auditorium.

OTTAWA (CP) — About 275 representatives of 54 different countries found Canada's official guest house, 7 Rideau Gate near Government House, a home away from home last summer.

They also gave its mother-ly, grey-haired hostess an unforgettable experience.

"We had guests from every country because even when a head of state was staying at the Governor-General's residence, we had part of the retinue," Mrs. Gwendolyn Blair told delegates to the 22nd Canadian Consumer Credit Conference Monday.

Mrs. Blair dipped into a store of memories about state visitors during Centennial Year.

The Grey stone guest house was built in 1882, she said, and bought by the federal government in 1956.

Redecorated in a formal, traditional manner, it includes several bedrooms and two large reception rooms. When there was a "full house" of guests, it was staffed by herself, a steward, housekeeper, chef, houseman and four maids.

Governor-General and Mrs. Michener were the first guests, spending a weekend last April before moving into Rideau Hall.

"I think they walked in the front door as the painters walked out the back," Mrs. Blair recalled.

As things turned out, everything was fine, Mrs. Blair said.

"Except we didn't have a drop of hot water the whole time. The Micheners were very kind. They said they liked cold showers."

For the state visitors who followed, detailed planning — including information on dietary habits and allergies — was necessary.

However keeping house at 7 Rideau Gate was "a quick mix job," demanding unusual emergency equipment such as toothbrushes, razors, extra black ties and even white gloves.

Congregational Meeting

FOXBORO U.C.W.

FOXBORO — The general meeting of Foxboro U.C.W. was held in the church hall on April 25 with the president Mrs. Lillian Jamieson presiding. She opened the meeting by reading an appropriate poem.

Mrs. Clare was convener of the program and based her theme on stewardship. She was assisted in this portion by Mrs. M. Sine and by F. R. Havergal who rendered a vocal selection.

It was announced that a school for United Church Women will be held at Albert College, Belleville on June 21, 22 and 23; also that a Belleville Presbyterial executive meeting will be held in Wellington May 6 commencing at 10 a.m.

A committee consisting of Mrs. Bean, Mrs. Sine and Irene Wellman was formed to make plans for the catering of a wedding on June 1. Plans were also discussed for a bazaar and food supper; also the catering at the Shannonville Fair, to be held in the fall.

The meeting was closed with the devotional led by Anne Rombough assisted by Marion Dafoe.

Ready for Portrait

A bride to remember is the one with flawless skin, lovely hands and simplicity of make-up. The romantic hair styling, with petals or organza entwined, is very much the "now" look.

Light Make-up Right For Wedding Portraits

Are you one of those fortunate women whose wedding date is approaching soon? Then you'll soon be facing the camera for your engagement or wedding portraits.

To make sure that your pictures are the prettiest possible hers are helpful recommendations.

Don't wear heavy make-up! It has a harsh and aging effect. Since an engaged girl or the bride should look fresh and natural, be careful about using exaggerated cosmetic techniques. It is the fastest way to date the photograph.

For a smooth, soft, dewy look, apply a rinse-off cold cream before making up for a lightly emollient base.

Then specialists suggest you wear medium-tone foundation and powder, and a medium shade of lipstick, accented with lip gloss for sheen. Don't apply very pale lipstick for a picture. It won't show up.

To remove any make - up mistakes quickly, the rinse-off cream dissolves even stubborn eye make-up easily.

Little tricks can fool the camera. For instance, you can camouflage laugh and frown lines and blemishes by covering them with white liner or shadow stick. Then blend with fingertips, and powder as usual.

To give a broad nose an aquiline appearance, apply a darker foundation on each side blending thoroughly to avoid too strong a shadow.

To shorten a long nose, blend in a bit of darker foundation at the nose tip. And if features are less-than-perfect, try posing with your face at a slight angle to the camera, with head up and chin lifted.

Eyes laden with false lashes and over-stated styling are not suitable for a bridal portrait. Instead, begin by emphasizing natural sparkle. Many professional models achieve this look (and refresh tired eyes) with decongestant eye drops before applying make-up. The drops are said to work visibly while you watch and restore whiteness in less than a minute.

Be especially artful in applying eye make-up if you wear glasses. The lenses of your glasses enlarge the eye area, so you need the barest minimum of definition. In most cases, the frames of your glasses will provide enough emphasis.

For relaxed, graceful hands, try a trick that the models use. Before the picture is snapped, lift both hands high into the air to ease tension and minimize prominent veins.

Then return hands to position and clasp them lightly, slightly angled for a slender look. Repeat this procedure often.

Classic clothing, coiffure, and accessories are preferable. An elaborate hairstyle, a "bbay" outfit or too much jewelry are all detracting.

In engagement photos, the most flattering effect is achieved by a dark dress with a simple neckline that frames the face and throat. Extreme or low necklines are considered poor taste.

Bridal photos are often taken in profile. And everyone has a "best" side. To determine yours, study your face carefully from all angles in a mirror beforehand, wearing your bridal veil.

It's Leap Year - - - Catch That Man

If you're an unmarried gal you've probably already noted that it's leap year again. And it's probable that a certain number of men would have no objection to being won by a lovely and desirable female.

We are inclined to offer these men some advice on improving their chances. Almost every girl likes a man to be neat, orderly, tasteful, attentive to details, immaculate, attractive and well-groomed.

And how can each and every one of the foregoing be achieved, and quickly demonstrated to interested females? By merely being well-dressed — which is synonymous to every adjective listed above.

The Medicine Cabinet

Little things mean a lot to the new bride. Besides picking exactly the right color for the living room draperies and choosing the correct place mats to go with her silverware, she should remember to take stock of an important item: the new family medicine cabinet.

A new bride cannot take all those vitamins, lotions and pills for granted. She has to fill the medicine cabinet in her new home and fill it wisely.

Aspirin tablets, iodine and cold pills are essentials along with a proper supply of bandages, cotton and gauze for use in case of emergency.

Since the young lady will most likely be just getting to know her way around the kitchen, an ointment for burns and petroleum jelly for chapped hands might be wise additions. And don't forget something for an upset stomach in case dinner doesn't turn out exactly the way Mother used to make!

Dental health is important to a young couple, too. Choosing a family toothpaste can be a big decision — one likely to have a lasting effect on them and their children in the future.

In fact, keeping all cosmetics and other personal grooming items on separate "his and her" shelves in the medicine cabinet might be the best way to organize the bathroom

Dining Can Be Fun

Dining in a grand manner can be accomplished by a few elegant touches and a lot of simple ingenuity. Here the new bride has taken a traditional nine arm sconce flanked with simple white draperies with white trimming.

Tips for the Bride

Sit Down Dining Makes Welcome Return

Sit-down dining has been making a welcome return. With all the world of difference between dining and just plain eating, it is important to create an atmosphere that aids the appetite and pleasant conversation at the same time.

Whether your table finds its way into the living room or enjoys the luxury of a room of its own, it can restore social dignity to the family scene.

The dining room used to be the easiest room in the house to decorate. It was also often the dullest. Happily this is far from the case today; now the dining room can often be one of the most exciting, most individualized areas in the home.

Even if your dining room is only an L-shaped extension of the living room or a windowless entrance foyer, it can be enlivened by imaginative backgrounds, cheerful color schemes and interesting accessories.

Certain elements such as mirrors, chandeliers and sconces remain delightful in any dining room; inexpensive but authentic reproductions such as the dramatic new sconce with nine candles to set its crystal beads a shimmer, are certainly within even a modest budget.

A handsome area rug or a distinctive wallpaper will go a long way to transform the stuffy and starched look typical of formal treatments of the past.

After creating any style you want from a banquet hall to an indoor gazebo by attention to the details of comfort, color, lighting and accessories, the focal point still remains the basic elements of the table and chairs.

House-owners with real dining rooms can indulge in the grander styles of tables, a slick slab of modern teak or styles with curving cabriole legs.

Apartment-dwellers without a room reserved only for dining, can have the same feeling of luxury in the grand manner with a table planned for two, but which can be expanded with extra leaves for party situations. The versatile drop-leaf table which can be pushed against a wall when not in use, is an old idea but wonderfully suited to modern space problems.

Round tables are naturally gregarious; when they have pedestals instead of legs they can help still further to uncluttter a small area.

Chairs must be comfortable especially if your family and guests like to dawdle over dessert and coffee.

When you buy, there is no need to match the chairs to the table. Just make sure that the cushioning is comfortable and the back provides the rig support. One of the best choices is a chair with a beautified seat and an upholstered back that reaches to the shoulders.

Lags and counters are fine for eating. But for dining, put your feet under a table!

Clothes Should Retain Attractive Appearance

Travel figures into most honeymoon plans so it's a smart bride who selects clothes for her trousseau that retain their attractive appearance under travel conditions.

But that doesn't mean she's stuck with fashions that shout wash and wear.

She'll be happy to know that some of Spring's most romantic embroidered dresses, blouses and sportswear also make the best travellers.

Did you know? All-over embroidery makes any fabric wrinkle-resistant, keeps ruffles unruffled, defies wilting in even tropical climates such as Jamaica.

Photograph Album Truly Memorable

One of the truly memorable souvenirs of a wedding is the album of photographs which is a traditional part of the Day.

But camera experts suggest that you supplement this with a happy, 'new' gift — a second album of photographs taken by family and friends.

This takes a bit of organization and teamwork: an executive producer and staff of cameramen and women.

Because this album covers more than just the wedding day, it starts with the engagement party and goes right through the reception.

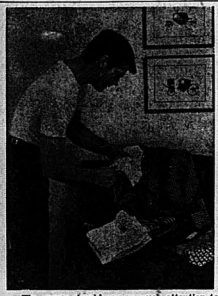
Obviously, not any one person (not even the bride or groom!) attends every party. So a close friend or bridesmaid must be in charge of photographing showers.

The best man or an usher takes over at the groom's stag party. Someone else does the rehearsal and the party that follows it. A sister can catch the gifts in all their glory. With his carefree camera and his access to the premises, Junior can provide amusing pictures of family confusion. And everyone can click away at the reception. There are almost limitless possibilities, beyond the traditional.

The camera people point out that anyone can produce excellent candid shots these days. No need for elaborate focusing with new instant-load cameras. Flash cubes are simple and effective. And every eye sees something different and can catch it on film.

The executive producer must hand out assignments and make sure they are followed. The picture won't let you forget; but you have to get it on schedule. And then it must be developed promptly and inserted in the gift album by the time the couple return from their honeymoon.

What a book this is, dedicated to the newlyweds by a large staff of camera-happy friends! It's one gift that will never be returned or duplicated.



Dictionary Popular

How many saucepans can a couple use? For the much-gifted bride and groom, a more imaginative and welcome wedding gift is an unabridged dictionary.

Consider the handsome dictionary of the English language. Priced under $25, this dictionary defines all the new words and meanings that make up today's vocabulary.

Among its 260,000 entries, a bride can find explanations for unusual gourmet cooking terms. She can also check on furniture styles; descriptions are illustrated with precise line-drawings.

Both she and her groom will refer to the 400 pages of supplementary material, including a world atlas, a list of major dates in world history and complete bilingual dictionaries for French, Spanish, Italian and German.

The groom should pay as much attention to his wardrobe as the bride does to her trousseau. Nothing should be forgotten including underwear, T-shirts, athletic shirts and briefs.

Men's Trousseau Also Important

A trousseau might not mean the massive collection of clothes it once did, but it's good enough reason for the bride-to-be to indulge her fashion whims with a new wardrobe.

But what about the bridegroom? He has every right to start marriage looking his best, too. Besides, it may be the last opportunity he has to spend his money exactly the way he wants to.

That boldly printed sport shirt, a few too many ties, the snappy blazer that might seem too costly once the expenses of setting up a home descend . . . now's the time.

Now's the time, also, to attend to the fundamentals of a wardrobe — the socks, the pajamas, the underwear. Just as a bride's trousseau usually begins with lingerie, he might start with underwear. Since his first considerations will be fit, comfort, and long wear, a good choice might be a complete wardrobe of knitted T-shirts, athletic shirts and briefs.

A new blend of polyester and fine combed cotton assures a neat look, plus no-iron ease of care — two qualities sure to be appreciated by a wife.

Pretty Hands A Must

At a wedding, everyone notices hands. Since the wedding guests are gazing at the new ring on the bride's finger, they are also gazing at other pretty hands which are yet to have rings slipped upon them.

For this reason hand care experts recommend that bride and bridesmaids use lots of hand and body lotion to make arms, elbows and necks petal smooth.

They also recommend a liberal application of hand cream for extra-dry skin every night for a week before the wedding — as well as a good application just before the ceremony starts.

Smooth hands are not only essential for smooth looks, but there are constant introductions and hand-shaking at a wedding reception.

James W. Jenking, an expert on the subject says that women of all ages should use hand creams and lotions to help preserve moisture in their skin.

So mothers of the bride (and groom) should also start grooming for the wedding day. All eyes will be on them, too!

Long Veils Graceful

Victorian Gowns Return for 1968 Season

Leading stylists predict that the 1968 bride will feature a Victorian look of innocence with ruffles, lattice, "a feeling of lightness and delicacy. There are many long veils blending in with the graceful sweep of a modified train.

Shaping is in, slimmer and showing the body with some bells either on a raised waist or at the natural waistline with a soft belt."

The short gown won't dominate; neither will the mid-length, sometimes still referred to as the ballerina. With traditional formal weddings scheduled in June, when weather gets hot in many parts of the nation the bulk of orders remains in the long length category.

Many bridal houses are getting more and more into the ensemble, designing and making both veils and gowns for the total look.

While the detachable train is still seen, it seems to be losing ground in favor of the short sweep and the encircling headpiece trailing to the floor.

One leading designer shown a blue flowered gown and veil, pointing up the color trend reinforced with ivory and pale beige shades. Bonnets and lace on veils is another bridal translation of the new fashions highlighting fit and flare.

Even with emergencies and hurry-up ceremonies, brides are choosing gowns with care and getting them on time.

As one maker put it, "We'll work night and day to make sure the bride has her gown for the walk down the aisle.

"The young people will either get married ahead of time, or they have plenty of notice so the scheduled formal wedding can still take place."

A buyer for a large New York department store mentioned satin organza as a new look for spring, "giving sheer and sheen. And the shaped cages and caftan silhouettes blend so beautifully.

"The molding of the bosom is so much more flattering and answers requests from my customers. High on my list of exciting touches this season is the Venise lace, a fine change from alencon."

Victorian Femininity

The romantic heritage of Victorian femininity is new for young brides this year. Clusters of embroidered flowers on Irish linen make the lure of long ago new today. The choice of linen is a tradition that marks the most elegant weddings.

House Keeping A Full Time Job

As she walks down the aisle that starry-eyed bride is the envy of her friends. But all too soon that same gal will be faced with problems. She will probably "keep house" along with a full-time job.

She must be a companion to her husband and develop an interest in his hobbies . . . be a part of his working life and stay young and sparkling in looks, dress and thinking.

She needs help.

Why not help her before she gets married. For one of the showers for the bride-to-be give her a book full of helpful household work - savers collected from her friends and from women's pages of newspapers.

Buy a spiral - bound book and ask each friend for one or more suggestions for saving work. Type them on pieces of paper a size that can be pasted in the book and then ask the friend to autograph her page or pages.

The collection will be a nice memento as well as a great help.

Here are some suggestions as a start. A pad and a pencil are a girl's best friend. Keep them handy in the kitchen and as food or household supplies run low, jot it for hot and cold beverages, trip to the grocery.

Use paper service for breakfast. Plastic - coated paper plates and cups for hot food and beverages are so pretty and china-like that a new husband will think the bride is very smart to latch on to these time savers.

Cold drink cups are perfect for juice and the whole service goes into the wastebasket after breakfast.

Get a little basket to keep items like furniture polish dust cloths, window cleaner, paper cleaning cloths, and any other cleaning favorites.

Along with the book full of helps the other gifts can include some necessaries to carry out some of the suggestions.

For example, with the ideas given here, gifts would be a set of pads and pencil, paper service including plates, cups for hot and cold beverages, and bowls for cereal and a basket for carrying cleaning equipment.

Packing Reminders For Brides

Whether you are headed for an exotic honeymoon paradise, or for a weekend in a cozy, country cottage, a few packing reminders always come in handy.

Heavier articles such as shoes should be packed against the bottom end of your suitcase so when the porter thunks your bags down hard (and he will!) the heavies won't slide down and crush all in their path.

Since air travel puts every stop brief hours apart, pack your dresses last on top of everything else. The moment you arrive, the dresses come out first to go busily about shedding wrinkles as the rest of the bag need not be unpacked at all.

And another quick tip — color co-ordinate sunglasses to each outfit as you pack, so there is no fumbling about for the right eye excitement when you are ready to go.

The really smart bride knows that a clutch of colorful sunglasses adds weightless chic to a travel trousseau. They also offer the important bonus of rested eyes while soaking up the sun and sights.

The first pair to tuck into the light end of your bag could be sunglasses that are dramatic, dashing and afford maximum eye protection in deep wrapped shape and shatter resistant lenses that eliminate reflected glare.

And how about a surprise for that all-important man of yours, a matching pair of "shades" so that he'll enjoy the sights as much as you. His delight at your thoughtfulness (he's sure to have forgotten his sunglasses) may leave him with eyes for nothing but you.

All great time savers to get you on your way to a glorious honeymoon.

Those Family Photos

Wedding and family photographs make ideal wall decor in the brides new apartment or home. Experts suggest framing them in different style frames, available from department or variety stores. Start from a small grouping and the family gathering will grow as the family does.

Cute Idea ---

After all her fears, she did not trip on her train, Dad remembered his one line and the groom showed up! The bridal bouquet landed in happy hands and rose petal "confetti" accompanied the new Mr. and Mrs. to their honeymoon car.

The rules of etiquette claim the bride has six months to acknowledge her wedding gifts.

The girl with foresight, however can send special, personalized thank-yous well in advance — without cataloging her presents while sitting on the banks of Niagara Falls.

While the bride - to - be is discussing church and reception arrangements with her florist expert, she can also order post-wedding bouquets. The thoughtful gesture is an unusual way to thank friends for throwing showers, buttoning gowns and calming nerves before the ceremony.

Send Flowers

Only one girl catches the good-luck flowers tossed at the reception! Imagine how thrilled other close friends will be to receive miniature bouquets the next day!

Inexpensive Idea

Pictures Prove Decorative

Whether your first home as a bride is a little apartment, a small house in need of paint or a dream home, the problems of decorating it move right in with you.

The "big" items, such as furniture, frequently present the least difficulty. If new furnishings aren't possible on your newly-married budget, "early attic" or the latest in "rummage sale provincial" can make a charming home with a little paint and imagination.

One quick, easy, and relatively inexpensive decorating trick can be accomplished largely with things you're sure to have on hand. Experts suggest using wedding and family photos to decorate a secondary wall — that is, any bedroom, hall or stairway wall where personal accessories are as appropriate as framed reproductions of paintings.

Living and dining area walls should be reserved for more universally enjoyed art and decorating accessories.

You can begin with one photo of the wedding party or several and add to your family wall as new photos are taken or new family members added.

Pretty and Packable...

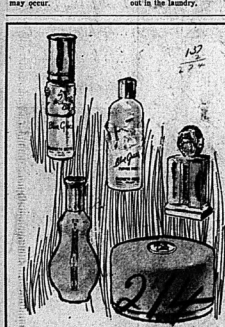
Make the clothing you take along on the honeymoon pretty and packable. An ideal choice for the trousseau is a selection of the wrinkle free fabrics now available. The cloth keeps ruffles unruffled and defies wilting — even in the tropics.

New Brides Should Learn the Labels

On becoming a bride: learn your labels. And know what they mean. No one ruins clothes faster than a bride who doesn't follow the washing and ironing instructions on garment tags.

It's true that tags may seem confusing. Durable-press fabrics, for example, are identified by a variety of labels — including Never-Press, Super-crease and Primalized.

Whatever name your durable press fabric carries, chances are the fabric will benefit from a touch-up with an iron after laundering.



This year the majority of men's shirts will be durable-press. With proper washing care, these shirts should require ironing only around seams where slight puckering may occur.

Remove the shirt just after the washing machine's rinse cycle and before the spin cycle. The shirt can then be tumble-dried, but it must be removed immediately after the drying process.

It's important to remember that the durable - press process shakes out wrinkles by using high temperatures. Conversely, if shirts are not removed immediately after being dried, wrinkles will be baked in.

For the body of the shirt, a cool iron and a lightning-fast pressing will do the job.

When ironing, try using spray sizing instead of dampening the shirt. Magic spray "body" which tends to wash out in the laundry.

Beach Buggies Popular

By DON MacKENZIE

Gangway beachcombers! Here come the bellefivers of the shoreline — The Rat Patrol of West Lake.

Headquarters for the "sand buggie" hobby in the Quinte area is the village of Wellington where already six of the modified Volkswagens are in production, four of them road, or rather sand worthy.

The sport first bit big in California and "buggie" kits were put on the market by various fiberglass companies. However, Reg Gallagher, a former member of the Canadian Forces asked, "Why spend the money", and built his own buggie out of a shortened "Volks" chassis, tubing and sheet metal.

It didn't take long to catch on with others.

As Robert Quick of Wellington, who is building two of the machines, put it, "We have snowmobiles in the winter, why not sandmobiles in the summer."

The operation begins with picking up an old or wrecked Volkswagen with a usable engine.

There is no real problem getting the body off the frame, according to the pioneers, and from there on it is a relatively simple operation.

After the chassis is shortened along with the clutch and brake lines, a body frame is made out of tubing and then covered with 12 guage sheet metal — les voila — your your "dune buggie" is ready for the beach.

Total cost of the enterprise shouldn't amount to more than $300 and it only takes a month of part-time work for the physical end of it.

"Speaking of beaches, the only place the "buggies" are practical, the builders have come up against their biggest problem.

Us to this time the stretch of beach extending from the sandbanks to the channel entering into West Lake (at Wellington) has been the course.

However, getting the "sand buggies" to the beach presents a problem — one either has to cross the channel at Wellington or drive 12 miles to the Outlet, drive through the provincial park and then back up the beach.

How long the Department of Lands and Forests is going to put up with this is doubtful.

"We're hoping some arrangements will be able to be worked out since the stretch of beach east of Wellington is desolated," said one driver.

In the meantime though, the sand-buggies are going strong, with six ready now and more on the way it looks as if another trend has started.

The Desert Fox himself would be surprised at the mobility and speed (up to 100 mph) of the self-made dune buggies.

Zoom Over The Hill And...

Over the hill and into the gully come Reg Gallagher, who built the first "dune buggie" in Wellington, and his co-pilot Paul Young. If only they knew then what awaited them at the bottom of the gully.

... Crash Into The Bush

The aftermath of Reg Gallagher's flying drive over the sand dune happened when he failed to negotiate the corner at the bottom of the gully. The bush was in poor shape but the "sand buggie" didn't suffer a scratch.

A Sandy Problem

Even the well-made, hard to break "dune buggies" have their problems when sand and water [illegible] Luckily, a friend in need is a friend in "deed" and Reg Gallagher hooked up a rope to try and get fellow driver Floyd Poff's "buggy" going again.

For sportsmen, creating the wildlife sanctuary has meant years of putting hard work where their ideals are. Above, in typical scene, members of Lower Trent Valley Protective Association, aided by senior Frankford Scouts, labor at creating water-controlled pond for birds.

Conservation Area Shows Way

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

FRANKFORD — How long for a dream to become reality?

With a little bit of luck, plus lots of patience and hard work, it can be done in eight to nine years.

At least, that's the formula evolved by the Lower Trent Valley Fish and Game Protective Association.

The curious get a close up of the "dream near" completion this summer when the association once more opens its 85-acre holding near here to the public.

Admission to the area, its picnic grounds, its wildlife, its ponds, creeks and woodland — is free.

But the area, sprawling gently on the east bank of the Trent River about a mile north of here, has a serious significance.

"The idea of the whole project is to bring to the attention of our members and the general public, a continuing reminder for the need of wildlife conservation," says founding member Chuck Lawson. "Already we've started to achieve that purpose, we think."

Public school students regularly browse through the area during nature-study classes. Scouts use it for camp training. Sportsmen galore attend in its big club house for regular lectures on conservation and wildlife protection.

It all began over coffee cups in Frankford.

"The idea grew out of a bunch of guys — maybe a dozen — who used to hunt together.

"They met one day for coffee," recalls Chuck Lawson. "Some of them already had been practising conservation by building duck nests and feeding stations along the Trent River.

"They decided they should raise pheasants and wildlife and do something for conservation in the area."

That was in 1960.

The idea was its own impetus. Other sportsmen reacted favorably and without further ado they sought a suitable site.

Their present site was the first and last land parcel the founding members viewed.

They set to work to shape their plans into reality — and eight years later they're putting the finishing touches to the pet project.

Now in the final stages of completion is a big pond complete with a doughnut-shaped island to give bird life a sanctuary from predators.

The big club-house with its 60-foot frontage and an unrolling view of the Murray Hills should be finished by fall.

Its stock of wildlife also has grown. Ducks, geese, pheasants and swans now spread their wings over the area.

There's even a herd of seven deer which wandered onto the property and — encouraged by its feeding resources—likely will make it their running ground.

The wildlife is flourishing—often despite natural vicissitude.

Predators have been a problem in the sanctuary as they are in the surrounding countryside.

Foxes and skunks from time to time have preyed on the birds.

Once, seven pheasants fell victim to a mysterious enemy before club members finally trapped the predator.

It was a huge owl, no less menacing for its gently-ruffled appearance. The predator is now a prime exhibit in the display of mounted animals in the club house basement.

Association membership also has soared since those early days. It numbers up to 600 paying supporters throughout the Quinte district.

U.S. holidaymakers with cottages along the Trent River also have caught the local enthusiasm through the years. Now annual dues are paid from such far away places as Cleveland and Buffalo.

Neither has the general public in the area been unaware of the project. In recent summers they flocked to its picnic grounds and special events.

"Sometimes on a Sunday we get between 50 and 100 cars in here," estimates Hernand Chard, another of the original members.

But, with full-scale realization of their plans and the expected increase in public response, the project may need full-time attention.

"The day may inevitably come when admission to the area will not be totally free," admits Chuck Lawson.

"The sad part is it takes money and labor to look after a place like this. In order to keep it up it may mean we will have to pay someone."

But, there's still much to tackle in the immediate future. There's that big club house to finish — and lanscape. A water-control system for the new pond must be completed.

There's much to be done — and, if present accomplishments are any criterian — lots of enthusiasm to do it with, the district you can go by now".

And, with the increase in provincial park fees this year, the association expects an even greater influx.

This poses a new problem.

The area was born of membership enthusiasm — in hard labor and cash. Spare time and spare funds in the past eight years have nearly all been channelled into the conservation project.

There have also been secondary distractions. Members helped the department of lands and forests patrol local streams against poachers in spawning time.

Although Lower Trent Protective Association area needs nothing startling to attract public, Wildlife specimens find many fond admirers to watch over them — like this brace of geese who keep a two-way lookout for feeding time.

Graceful swans add classic touch to setting as night falls on conservation area. The birds are among wide variety of species protected by local sportsmen at Frankford - district project.

Keeping Pace

If we're going to give awards, let's do it up right.

I mean, Gordie Howe has a closet full of Hart trophies, and Sandy Koufax collected a bevy of bronzed baseballs before hanging up his cleats. But what about those mouth-wide slips of the tongue, slicks, or glove that earn sports personalities equally conspicuous headlines?

In their time, the wrong-way touchdown, the missed base, and the loaded word have cost errant athletes plenty of moonlight publicity. Why not take the positive approach and lend some dignity to the goofs when they crop up?

With this in mind, we institute the "Dubious Distinction" awards, for those associated with the sporting world who have demonstrated, beyond a doubt, that some individual word or deed classes them among the greats of the rankest.

Some current "Tristancers":

— We award golfer Tommy Aaron the April White Cane Citation for costing playing partner Robert DeVicenzo the Masters Golf tourney and the estimated million dollars in prestige money associated with winning this event by marking one too many on the score card.

— To Chicago Black Hawk coach Billy Reay — the Golden Shoehorn for putting his foot in his mouth beyond the call of duty with his claim that Canadian referees were hurting his U.S.-based team's chances in their series with Montreal Canadiens.

— At this early stage in the season, the Consistency Medal (with cluster) goes to the nameless New York Met infielder who bobbled a fast-moving grounder to cost his mates victory in the longest night baseball game.

— Ontario Lands and Forests Minister Rene Brunelle is awarded in the Order of Intestinal Fortitude for initiating controversial fishing fees for provincial anglers 19 and over.

— We nominate all U.S. television network sportscasters for hockey scholarships at the Canadian universities in their choice . . . not to play, but to learn that a beer commercial does not constitute a "time out down on the ice."

— The Emily Post plaque competition is currently dominated by Montreal Canadien coach Hector "Toe" Blake, for providing coast-to-coast television audiences with hours of masterfully-executed nail-biting and gum-chewing.

— This year's "good sports" will probably be Brazilian fans, who wrestle with soccer star "Pele" into a quarter-million-dollar annual salary — about a thousand times the average yearly income in that South American country.

— And finally, the "Might-Have-Been Mug" to the scholar who observed last week: "If Britain hadn't imposed the Tea Tax in the Thirteen Colonies two centuries back, Willie Mays could now be the highest-paid cricket player in the world."

Ploen Quits After Four Grey Cups

WINNIPEG (CP) — Kenny Ploen and Winnipeg Blue Bombers football fans have been through thick and thin together for 11 years.

The 32-year-old quarterback, who led Bombers to six Western Football Conference titles and Four Grey Cups, announced his retirement Monday.

With him went tackle Frank Rigney, also 32, who followed Ploen from the University of Iowa 10 years ago. They are leaving the game to concentrate on business careers.

They each leave, as coach Joe Zaleski puts it, "a helluva pair of shoes to fill."

Ploen, fresh from a Rose Bowl victory, was named all-star Western quarterback in 1957. He was all-star defensive back in 1959 when he yielded the quarterback slot to Jim Van Pelt for a year. In 1960 he was a national all-star.

He said quitting now was the "logical choice." He has an elbow problem and missed some of last season with a shoulder injury.

Rigney, who admitted to a back problem, said continuing to combine two careers "would be unfair to the company I represent as well as to the football club."

He is an insurance company executive and Ploen is sales manager for the corrugated box division of a major paper firm.

Both are married with three children.

Rigney, at 6-foot-4 and 248 pounds, was seven times an all-star. He was voted Canada's outstanding lineman in 1961.

Coach Zaleski said the retirements "are going to hurt" the Bombers.

So far his only hope for quarterback is a Toledo University import, John Schneider, who lacks professional experience.

Ploen holds the club passing record with 16,670 yards gained on 1,084 completions in 1,916 attempts. His 56.8 per cent completion record resulted in 119 touchdowns.

His rushing average places him fourth on Bombers' records with an average of five yards a carry, or 2,931 yards in 6.0 carries.

In his Winnipeg career he scored 30 touchdowns and 25 converts.

Allan Cup

Four Straight? ...Better Wait

WINNIPEG (CP) — "We'll take it four straight," said high-scoring Clement Tremblay of Victoriaville Tigers in the dressing room after his club bounced St. Boniface Mohawks 6-2 in the first game of a best-of-seven Allan Cup final Monday.

"Don't say that," warned Tigers coach Lou Pelligrin who felt that his club had played a worse game then in its 6-1 loss to Corner Brook, Nfld., on the eastern playoff trail.

The Tiger coach, unhappy with his team's performance, looked at the win cautiously:

"Maybe they (Mohawks) were like us and didn't play too well tonight. I don't know. I also didn't play hockey tonight. The only one who played good was the goalie."

Goalie Claude Hardy handled 47 shots and broke almost every drive Mohawks managed to get going, particularly in the second period when St. Boniface held a two-man advantage for almost a full minute.

Brian Elwell clicked on two goals and an assist for Victoriaville in the sometimes-rough game which slowed down perceptibly in the latter stages. Adding singles were Tremblay, his 20th of the long playoff trail, John Mentis, Jocelyn Hardy, and Larry Drouin.

Beating goalie Hardy for singles were Lorne Bodanski and defenceman Tom Marshall, who also assisted on Bodanski's goal.

Aime Allaire, Mohawks manager, conceded that "it was a bad game for us. But they aren't as good as I had thought they were."

Gerry Kell, centre on the line with NHL-veteran Gary Aldcorn and Bodanski, refused to add: "They're two good clubs . . . . It's a matter of who makes the least mistakes."

Allaire thought the loss "did us more good than harm. I think we know the team now."

Mistakes allowed Tigers to jump to a 3-0 first-period lead and a 5-1 command after two.

Victoriaville hit the scoreboard at the 43-second mark when Mohawk goalie Henry Gervais waited too long before deciding to leave his net to clear the puck about 10 feet inside his blueline.

Tremblay, in a burst of speed, caught up with the puck, steered it around the defenceless Guy and slid it into an open net.

The second Tiger goal resulted from sloppy clearing and the third was scored by Elwell on a two-man break.

The play slowed for most of the second period. Bodanski shellshocked through the Tiger defence to Hardy's doorstep, beating the little goalie with a short, wrist shot for Mohawks' first counter.

They got their second on a strong individual effort by Bill Podolsky 40 feet off two Tiger defencemen and passed to Marshall, standing alone in front of the net. Marshall drove the puck under Hardy.

Referee Sacha Sammartine of Kamloops called 15 penalties, nine to Victoriaville.

The second game is scheduled for tonight, with the third game Thursday.

At Least Fifty Run for Ken Colling Memorial Cup

The 34th annual running of the Ken Colling Memorial Trophy race at 2:45 Wednesday afternoon will see more than 50 high school entrants from Belleville, Trenton, Picton, Stirling and the OSD competing in the four and one-half mile run.

The man to beat in this year's competition is Robby Ostrander of Prince Edward Collegiate, Picton, last year's winner and an early entrant in this year's race.

The course laid out for the race traditionally takes the runners throughout east Belleville from the start at Bayhigh school. Residents along Queen Street, Bridge Street, Parrott Drive, and Victoria Avenue will be able to watch the competition from their homes.

Winner of tomorrow's competition will be awarded the Ken Colling Memorial trophy.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Olympic Committee will send an application for Soviet athletes to participate in the 1968 Mexico Olympics now that South Africa has been excluded, an official announcement said Monday. The announcement said the decision was taken by the ruling presidium of the Soviet Olympic Committee. Earlier the Soviet Union had strongly suggested — without saying so directly — that it might boycott the Olympics if segregationist South Africa was permitted to send a team.

TORONTO (CP) — Norbert (Nobby) Wirkowski, director of player personnel for Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Football Conference, will take over as co-ordinator of men's athletics and football coach at York University here July 1.

Blues Again

"Nearer My Habs To Thee"

ST. LOUIS (CP) — A 33-year-old left winger who has played in every professional hockey league in North America has left St. Louis Blues within one game of the Stanley Cup finals.

But coach Wren Blair of Minnesota North Stars says his club isn't finished yet.

Bill McCreary, who bounced around in the minors for 12 seasons after two years with New York Rangers between 1953 and 1955, batted in a pair of goals Gerry Melnyk at 17:27 of sudden-death overtime Monday night to give the Blues a 3-2 verdict and a 3-3 lead in the best-of-seven, National Hockey League finals.

"I had the whole side of the net to shoot at and I just popped it in," McCreary said in the dressing room after St. Louis won its second consecutive overtime victory.

"I sat on the bench for most of the first two periods, so maybe I was a little fresher."

The Blues rallied from a 3-0 deficit in the third period Saturday to win 4-3 in overtime on Garry Sabourin's goal at 1:32, but Blair doesn't believe it is the end of the season for the North Stars.

"The balance of the ice is the big thing now," Blair said. "St. Louis travels to Minnesota on Wednesday and we need to win here Friday. It's as simple as that."

The sixth game of the series will be played in Minneapolis Wednesday at 8 p.m. CDT. The seventh, if necessary, will be here Friday.

The Wednesday night game will be shown on the CBC national television network starting at 9:30 p.m. EDT.

The winner moves into the finals against Montreal Canadiens, who have eliminated Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks.

McCreary also had praise for Cesare Maniago, the Minnesota goalie who stopped 55 shots—16 in overtime.

Sabourin and defenceman Bob Plager scored the other St. Louis goals. Walt McKechnie and defenceman Bob McCord scored for Minnesota.

Blairs' most effective line in the series—Milan Marcetta, Dave Balon, and Bob Goldswerthy—was on the ice for all three St. Louis goals.

The Blues led 2-1 at the end of the first period, but McCord tied it up in the second with a lazy flip shot from the blueline.

The Blues, who outshot Minnesota 13-5 in the scoreless third period, came out hot in the overtime as if they had taken two pills in the intermission.

Maniago drew applause from the 11,321 fans for his spectacular performance at 2. He was shaken up in a goal-mouth scramble at 5:47 of the overtime, but came back to make tremendous saves as his defence melted in the humid atmosphere.

Dodgers Halt Cards; Alston Back

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Los Angeles Dodgers gave Walter Alston a warm welcome but Cincinnati Reds turned Grady Hatton's homecoming into a holocaust.

With manager Alston in uniform for the first time in the National League season, the Dodgers snapped St. Louis' six-game winning string Monday night by edging the Cardinals 3-2 at Los Angeles.

At Houston, meanwhile, Cincinnati Reds went on a 22-hit rampage that crushed Hatton's Houston Astros 17-2 in their first home game in two weeks.

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh Pirates whipped Chicago Cubs 7-4 under the lights and Atlanta downed San Francisco Giants 7-3 in an afternoon game.

Don Sutton, making his first start for the Dodgers after being recalled from the minors, stalled the Cardinals with relief help from Jim Brewer and made Alston's homecoming a happy occasion. The 36-year-old pilot had missed the Dodgers' first 18 games while recovering from surgery for the removal of kidney stones.

Sutton scored one run, drove in another and blanked the Cards on three hits until the seventh inning, when two singles and Curt Flood's two run double closed the gap.

While the Cardinals' feathers were being ruffled after their six-game streak, the Astros returned to Houston to find their usually friendly Astrodome transformed into a chamber of horrors.

Houston played its first six games in the Dome, winning five and completing the home stand with a 1-0, 24-inning victory over New York Mets on April 15. Then the Astros went on the road and lost eight of nine.

The Reds wasted little time in making it nine of 10 and releasing Houston to the league cellar.

They scored in every inning but the eighth, building a six-run early lead before exploding for six runs in the fourth.

Tony Perez led the onslaught with his fourth homer and five runs batted in. Pete Rose stroked four hits, scored four runs and knocked in three. Vada Pinson, Lee May, Leo Cardenas and Johnny Bench had three hits apiece, including Bench's first homer.

Willie Stargell's two-run single and a two-run homer by Bill Mazeroski carried the Pirates past the Cubs, ending a three-game Pittsburgh losing string. Steve Blass, making his first start, picked up the victory with relief help after Ernie Banks' seventh inning homer.

Ron Reed of Atlanta held the Giants to three hits in his first 1968 start. The Braves tagged loser Juan Marichal for 12 hits, including a homer and three singles by Tito Francona.

Roseboro Belboros Average

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Roseboro found a perfect way to ruin a day off. With a little extra effort, he hit his way out of it.

The 34-year-old catcher broke out of an 0-for-29 slump by cracking five hits in five at bats Monday night, setting off Minnesota's 11-2 rout over the Boston Red Sox.

"It was just a matter of time," said his manager, Cal Ermer, "However, we planned to give him a rest Tuesday. Now we'll wait and see how he feels."

After his first five-hit game in 12 seasons in the major leagues, Roseboro should be feeling just fine.

Norm Cash probably won't play today, but he must be feeling okay, too, after scoring the winning run in a home plate collision that brought the Detroit Tigers a 2-1 victory over the Oakland As.

Another happy hitter who became a doubtful starter today is Rick Reichardt, who limped off the field after belting a two-run single that keyed California's 3-2 triumph over Cleveland in the only other American League game.

Roseboro, playing his first season in the American League after his acquisition from the Los Angeles Dodgers last winter, entered the Boston game with only three hits in 49 at bats for a .061 average.

By the end of the night, he had raised his average to .148 with three singles, a double and his first AL homer off four of the six Red Sox pitchers. He drove in two runs and scored two.

Roseboro's hitting and three runs batted in by Ted Uhlaender made Jim Perry's third victory in four decisions easy. Given a 9-1 lead in three innings, he breezed with a six-hitter.

Cash's big hit came against Oakland catcher Rene Lachemann with two out in the ninth inning. He had forced Bill Freehan, who had been hit by a pitch, and then reached second when reliever Jack Aker walked Jim Northrup.

When Don Wert, who homered in the eighth, singled to centre field, Cash raced for home, but Rick Monday's throw had him beat. However, Lachemann dropped the peg and Cash barreled into him and his knee struck Lachemann's head, flattening the catcher.

Lachemann was not seriously hurt, but Cash suffered a severe bruise and probably will sit out today's game.

The play made a winner of Mickey Lolich, who pitched only four hits after an eight-day layoff because of National Guard duty.

Reichardt bounced his bit up the middle in the seventh inning with the bases loaded and none out, putting the Angels ahead 3-1. The winning run scored later in the inning on a force out.

Reichardt, however, pulled a muscle running the bases and might not play today.

Estevan Settles Western Affair

ESTEVAN, Sask. (CP) — The Abbott Cup, emblematic of junior hockey supremacy in Western Canada, went to the Estevan Bruins Monday night after a 12-1 verdict over the Penticton Broncos.

Some 1,200 fans watched the Bruins end 15 years of trying by taking the best-of-seven series in four straight games.

The Bruins were prodded by the single Penticton goal, the first of the game, scored by Adrian Blais at 2:45 of the first period. Then Estevan exploded, making it 3-1 at the end of the period, doubled their score by the end of the second and then doubled it again in the third.

Jim Harrison led the Bruins with four goals while Tommy Mitchell and Ernie Moser each scored twice. Brent Taylor, Danny Schock, Bob Piche and Dale Hoganson added singles.

The Bruins picked up four of the six minor penalties.

Estevan didn't wait long after Blais came up with the game opener. Tommy Mitchell tied the game at 6:30. A minute later Jim Harrison put the Bruins ahead for the first time in the game. Harrison came through again with just nine seconds left in the period with a power-play goal while Les Barrie was off for interference.

Mitchell added his second of the game at 6:39 of the second period when he snapped a quick shot past Penticton goalie Doug Thompson.

Ernie Moser scored two minutes later and then Harrison racked up number three when Dale Hoganson picked up a loose puck at centre ice. Hoganson gave a short lead pass to Dan Schock who relayed it to Harrison, who in turn slide-tapped the lone Penticton defender in his way.

Thompson was given no rest in the final period as the Bruins stretched the margin.

Brent Taylor opened the floodgates at 5:38 and Harrison came three minutes after with his fourth goal. Then, in rapid succession, Piche, Hoganson and Moser added the string to the wrapping.

The win was the 30th for the Bruins in 33 playoff games this season. They have two ties—both with other Western Canada Junior Hockey League clubs—and one defeat at the hands of the Western Hurricanes.

Despite the one-sided scoring, the Broncos didn't relax during the game. Tom Servais, who scored the only Penticton goal in the third game Sunday, turned in a tireless performance on the right wing.

The Bruins won the third game 6-1, the second game 5-4 and the opener 3-0.

"They've got a great hockey team," said Penticton coach Jack Taggart. "We tried and the guys worked their hearts out. It would have been a tremendous shot in the arm for hockey in the Okanagan if we could have won just one game."

Estevan now meets the winner of the Verdun-Niagara Falls series for the Memorial Cup.

Three Players Named on All Ballots

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Barlow of Rochester Americans, Providence Reds' Eddie Kachur and Bill Needham of Cleveland Barons were named on every ballot in voting for the American Hockey League all-star team announced Monday.

Barlow, a left winger, led with 34 out of a possible 40 points. Kachur won the right-wing spot with 33 points and Needham, a defenceman, had 32.

The rest of the all-star team has Gerry DesJardins of Cleveland in goal, Ron Ingram of Buffalo Bisons at defence and Mike Nykoluk of Hershey Bears at centre.

Each member of the first team receives a $300 bonus from the league. Second-team members receive $200.

Voted to the second team were goalie Bob Perreault of Rochester, defencemen Marc Reaume of Rochester and Jim Morrison of Quebec Aces, centre Dave Creighton of Providence and wings Simon Nolet of Quebec and Roger DeJordy of Hershey.

Ex-U.S. Coach Brings Skills To Canada

TORONTO (CP) — Bill Smith, coach of the Canadian Olympic wrestling team, is the first one to admit he has a problem on his hands.

Smith quit his job as coach of the U.S. Olympic wrestling team earlier this year to accept the difficult task of building a successful Canadian team.

He remembers that his U.S. wrestlers always had an easy time of it when Canadian wrestlers travelled south of the border.

The 39-year-old father of five said he accepted the offer and began a 10-month tour of Canada March 1 for purely economic reasons.

"I wasn't getting paid to coach the U.S. team," he said. "I'm getting paid here."

One of Smith's main jobs will be to tour high schools through Canada and develop young wrestlers.

He will hold a two-week training session for Canada's Olympic wrestlers Sept. 14 at the University of Guelph.

Calumet Farms Ready for Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Trainers Lou Cavalaris and Bill Stevens are looking ahead, while Calumet Farm is hoping to recapture the past.

Cavalaris and Stevens would like to see Saturday bring something new to them. Calumet would like it to be a day when memory once again is reality.

Cavalaris will be looking for his first Derby victory with Peter Fuller's Dancer's Image and Stevens will be trying for his first with Cain Hoy Stable's Captain's Gig.

Calumet, the owner of the most Derby winners, is pinning its hopes for a return to glory on Forward Pass. The silks of Calumet, now owned by Mrs. Gene Markey, last appeared in the Churchill Downs winner's circle in 1958 when Tim Tam carried them there for the seventh time.

Forward Pass is trained by Henry Forrest, who saddled 1956 winner Kauai King for Mike Ford.

The three colts rate as the early favorites for the 94th running of the Derby, Post time is about 4:30 p.m. EDT.

The list of probables was cut to 16 Monday when trainer Stanley Riener withdrew Clifford Lussky's Blarney Kiss from any further consideration for the 1¼-mile Derby.

Owner Mary Keim said the horse suffered an eye injury when he banged his head against a fence in the stable area.

One Weekend Puts Barber In Top 10

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Miller Barber's $20,000 first prize in the Byron Nelson Golf Classic moved him into the list of the game's top 10 money winners this year with a total purse of $33,018, the U.S. PGA announced Monday.

Barber had $47,587 in official PGA tournament winnings and $6,330 in unofficial prize money to place sixth on the list.

It is still headed by Tom Weiskopf with official winnings of $71,122 and a total of $77,677.

Billy Casper was second with $59,019 in official winnings and a $78,962 total.

Others on the list with offcial winnings: 3. George Archer $53,714, $56,537; 4. Don January $48,428, $50,398; 5. George Knudson, Toronto $48,382; $55,698; 7. Kermit Zarley, $46,200, $49,798; 8. Tony Jacklin, $45,690, $49,852; 9. Gardner Dickinson, $45,369 $47,227; 10. Al Geiberger, $46,395, $41,726.

Batters Having Ups and Downs

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Kessinger is leading the National League in batting. That's a switch.

The 27-year-old Chicago Cubs shortstop became a switch hitter last year and hit only .225 in 145 games. He previously had batted only right-handed.

This year, Kessinger is rapping the ball from both sides of the plate. In last week's games, he had 12 hits in 23 times at bat, a .522 pace. The scrape enabled him to lift his average 77 points to .393, highest in both major leagues.

Curt Flood of St. Louis cardinals, last week's NL pace setter, dropped 29 points to .381 and second place.

Pete Rose of Cincinnati Reds advanced from sixth place to third on a six-point pickup to .397. He had eight hits in 20 attempts last week.

In the American League, Roy White of New York Yankees held on to the No. 1 spot although his average dropped from .500 to .366. The young outfielder had seven hits in 25 tries last week.

Bob Allison of Minnesota Twins slipped from .471 to .353 and is tied for second with Max Alvis of Cleveland Indians. Pete Ward of Chicago White Sox rushed up to fourth place at .340.

The figures include Sunday's games.

Roger Repoz of California Angels slammed three homers and took over the American League lead in this category with six. Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota and Frank Howard of Washington Senators remained deadlocked for the runs batted in lead with 12. Each had three RBI last week.

Argentina Ponders Race Ban

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The Argentine national government Monday was reported considering a ban on auto road racing in the wake of a Sunday race in which seven persons were killed and 26 injured in a series of accidents.

Jorge Kissling and his assistant driver were killed when his car broke an axle, spun into a crash and burned on a dirt road near Balcarce.

A car driven by Raul Salerno went out of control and plunged into a group of spectators, killing one and injuring several others.

Segundo Taraborelli lost control of his, smashed over a wire fence, hit a standing truck and exploded in flames. He and his assistant driver and two spectators were burned to death.

Scouting activities

10th (Holloway United) Pack

On Wednesday, 24 boys of the Pack, accompanied by their Cubmaster Ross Taylor, and Assistants Bruce Poste and Wessels, paid a visit to the Belleville Police Station.

Inspector Don Yearwood, who was off duty at the time, showed the boys around the Police headquarters. Of particular interest to the Cubs was the shooting range and detention cells. Police motorcycles and cars came next and the Inspector explained each item as they passed.

The finger print department came in for a close scrutiny, as did the traffic control room and also a two way radio system kept in touch with city police cars and motorcycles as well as other police services, if required.

The Cubs thanked Inspector Yearwood for his kindness in showing them the in and outs of policing. More such hikes are planned to take place from time to time as part of the Cub training program.

"Scouts "68", the training film released by National Cowthil, Boy Scouts of Canada was shown in a very enthusiastic Group of Scooters and Group Committee and Council Members of the Belleville District on Saturday, April 27th.

Under the sponsorship of the District Council and lead by District Commissioner — Rod Bateman, the film was shown through twice and each time a discussion, in Groups, took place.

New items were found to be discussed each time and there was a general consensus that the day was well spent with a better than general knowledge of the new Boy Scout Program to become effective next September.

An effort will be made to secure the film again for the meeting of the District Council on May 13th.

A number of special events will take place during the month of May, the most important, without any doubt, will be the Honors and Awards night to be held on May 11th in St. Thomas Parish House.

A special Queen's Scout Presentation Ceremony will be held for Queen's Scout David Ash of the Belleville (Tabernacle) Troop. There will also be presentations of 22 long service awards, 11 Basic Training Certificates to Pack Scouters.

Another special feature of the evening will be the presentation of Special Award Certificates to "Friends of Scouting," who have sponsored Scouting for a number of periods ranging from 11 to 28 consecutive years.

Special guests invited to take part in the program are Dr. R. T. Potter, M.P.P., Mr. Lee Grills, M.P., Mayor Dr. E. Russell Scott, Lt. Col. Angus Duffy, District Commissioner of Boy Scouts in Belleville twenty years ago will, have a prominent place on the program.

Former District Council Presidents and District Commissioners and several other persons prominent in Scouting over the last thirty years ago are expected to be present. It has been many years since so large a number of awards have been presented in one evening.

Britain Ready to Repatriate Any Immigrants on Welfare

LONDON (CP) — Home Secretary James Callaghan, commenting on the current colored immigration furor, said Monday night the government will repatriate any immigrant families that can't pay their own way in Britain and want to go to their homeland.

A government spokesman said the policy of repatriating both white and non-white immigrants has been in effect for several years and was not related to the present controversy on race relations in Britain.

Callaghan, who has recently assumed over-all responsibility for immigration matters, made his statement during a BBC television interview on the controversy.

A social security ministry spokesman said Tuesday 72 families were sent back to their countries of origin last year at their own request. In 1966, the figure was 75 families.

"It is immigrants appearing to have no prospect of becoming self-supporting in the future to whom we would consider advancing the fare," the spokesman said.

"This is always providing it cannot be met from any other source. We are not interested in whether they are colored or not."

In the interview, Callaghan said there is no possibility of Britain's ejecting immigrants.

Callaghan was being interviewed about government efforts to integrate the country's 1,000,000 colored immigrants.

He also announced that a cabinet-level committee had been set up to co-ordinate immigration questions.

In a controversial speech April 20, MP Enoch Powell, a right-wing member of the Opposition Conservative party, said cash grants should be provided for the repatriation of colored immigrants.

Asked about Powell's speech, his home secretary said: "The family security ministry now will repatriate any immigrant family that is unable to pay for itself and wants to go back."

The interviewer commented that this information was not generally known, but Callaghan did not give further details.

Negro Welders Get $28,600

TORONTO (CP) — Six Negro welders today received $28,600 from an American company and a Toronto union local because they were denied work at a Clinton, Ont., construction project.

The company, M. W. Kellogg Co. of New York, and the union will send letters of apology to the six Toronto men.

The settlement was made shortly before opening of an inquiry by the Ontario Human Rights Commission into the welders' complaints of racial discrimination.

Prof. Harry Arthurs of Osgoode Hall law school adjourned the inquiry after the settlement was read.

The welders said earlier they tried to sign for a construction project in response to a recruitment effort by the company.

The company had arranged with representatives of Local 46, United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe Fitting Industry, to recruit members of Local 46.

The men said they were told by union officials that Negroes would not be accepted for the Iowa project.

The $28,600 is the difference between what the men earned between Nov. 1, 1967, and April 30 this year and the amount they would have earned if they had worked on the construction job.

Similar charges of discrimination on basis of race and color against company representatives were withdrawn.

Prof. Arthurs said the settlement reflected an honest desire by the union and the company to prevent a recurrence of such discrimination.

The union agreed to inform the six welders of available jobs on a fair basis without regard to race, creed, color, nationality, ancestry, place of origin or age, as laid out in the Ontario Human Rights Code.

The company and union will send an account of the complaints and settlement to the New York and Iowa state commissions for human rights, the international office of the union, the Clinton local and the Jamaica-Canadian Association.

Owen Bares received $6,156, Arnold Blair $4,022, Joseph Neblett $4,122, Herbert Teipola $6,156, Gifford Walker $4,122 and Stanley Williams $4,022.

Behind The Glass

TWEED — Presentation of awards won during the season was a highlight of the recent meeting of the Tweed Curling Club which concluded a most successful season.

In the mixed draw The Corby Trophy was won by a rink of Dorothy Fargey, Ted Fargey, Irene Chisholm with Sandford Wilson as skip said the runner-up was a rink of Eileen Martin, Douglas Rupert, Christina Sinclair with Harold Gall as skip.

The LeSage trophy was won by Lois Rollins, Jack Guay, Ruth Carleton Mabee, Robert Cruise, Kathy Moffatt with Frank Countryman as skip.

The Wellwood trophy was won by a rink of Joan Simpson, Gerald Bailey, Jean Chisholm with Hugh Dorman as skip, and the runner-up was a rink of Jack Hall, Kenneth Fisher, Dorothy Sills, and headed by Ronald Way.

In the men's draw the Chisholm trophy was won by a rink of Ray Sullivan, Wesley Hamilton, Don Sills with Bert Dunne as skip and the runner-up was a rink of Frank Tate, Grant Elliott, Dick Simon with Ev English as skip.

A rink of Marion Little, Dorothy Fargey, Jean Chisholm with Christina Sinclair as skip won the L.G.A. trophy in the women's draw while the runner-up was a rink of Hilda Sexsmith, Maureen Gaul Betty Sullivan with Edna Wilson as skip.

Publication of Brochure Could Help Industry

TWEED — The Hastings county industrial committee feels that a study of the county's assets and publication of an industrial brochure, could help in attracting industry.

Committee chairman, Hunderford Reeve R. Clarence Graham told the council recently that his committee felt such a survey was important if the county was to attract industry.

"We have to be in a position to tell industry what we have to offer," he said.

Mr. Graham was unable to say what such a study might cost, but urged provision be made in the budget in case a professional firm was hired to do the work. He said ARDA had been approached in an attempt to solicit financial assistance for such a study.

Store Hours Adjusted To Meet Tourist Trade

TWEED — From approximately July 1st, 1968 until Labor Day, the stores in Tweed Village will remain open six days a week as a service to the many hundreds of tourists who visit this area during the summer months.

At a meeting of the Retail Merchants Association in Tweed earlier this week, they decided the above and also with the twenty-one merchants that were in attendance, they decided also that beginning in September 1968 Tweed stores will remain closed all day Monday and that remain open on Wednesday afternoon, from September until the end of June for following year.

Special arrangements will also govern store hours during the Christmas season and preceding holidays.

A committee made up of Anthony Quinn, Ray Woolfrey, Leslie Jardine and Claude, Leclair was appointed to arrange with the municipal council for the passing of a by-law governing store hours in Tweed Village, to become effective in September of this year.

The Brewers' Warehouse, the Liquor Control Board of Ontario Store and the Post Office will be approached subsequently to have their hours adjusted to meet with the proposed store hours. At the present time, the Brewers' Warehouse and the L.C.B.O. Store are closed on Thursdays from September 1st to June 30th, and the Post Office is closed every Wednesday afternoon. So far as the members of the Retail Merchants could learn, the stores in Perth, Carleton Place, Lanark, Marmora, Havelock and Stirling are remaining closed all day Monday for the entire year.

A by-law governing the closing of the Smiths Falls stores on Monday was now before the council of that town. Many other Ontario towns are now observing Monday closing, rather than closing on Wednesday afternoons, as the larger cities many of the shopping centres are now open six days a week and remain open until 10 p.m. several nights during the week.

The larger staffs in these stores make it possible to arrange the working hours in accordance with the 40-hour week, but this is not convenient in the smaller centres. Anthony Quinn, chairman of the Retail Merchants Association, was chairman for the recent meeting.

The proposed Monday closing does not affect the Banks, manufacturing companies, such as service industries or restaurants.

Chamber Plans Projects

TWEED — The local Chamber of Commerce held their annual dinner in the form of ladies' night at the Hotel Tweedsmuir on Tuesday evening, with an attendance of approximately 50 persons. The attendance was a bit smaller than a year ago but there were many counter-attractions that same evening.

Kenneth Little, president of the local Chamber, introduced the directors and also Mr. Dalton Lindsay (the newly-appointed manager of the Tweed branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Mr. Clarence Graham, Reeve of the Township of Hungerford, and chairman of the Hastings County Council Industrial Committee, outlined the projects planned by this committee. These included a survey of the industrial potential of the County, and a publicity campaign to acquaint industry with what was available in this particular district.

Mr. Graham offered to meet with any organization in the County of Hastings that was interested in promoting industrial expansion and employment opportunity. Keith Cotton, chairman of the membership committee for the C. of C. in Tweed, invited interested persons to join the Tweed Chamber of Commerce for the year 1968.

The guest speaker for the evening was William Bittle of the Ontario Lands and Forests, Tweed, who told the members and guests something of the work done by the Department.

Beginning next year fishermen over the age of 19 years will be required to pay a resident fishing licence fee of $3, per year. The money from the license fee will be used to enlarge the fishing program and improve fishing conditions in general.

During the past year, Mr. Bittle told the gathering, some 25,000 hunters visited the Tweed Forest District.

Each year the Department stocks from 300 to 350 lakes, and conducts a lake inventory covering from 60 to 80 lakes in the district.

Other projects conducted by the department included timber management and deer range improvement. Water fowl are banded to keep track of their movement and wild life health projects are under way at all times.

Mr. Bittle concluded his address with the showing of pictures dealing with both hunting and fishing.

Advertisers Must Meet Criticism Head On

TORONTO (CP) — James William Baldwin, new president of the 370-member Association of Canadian Advertisers, says Canadian advertisers can no longer hide their heads in the sand and ignore criticisms of their industry.

Mr. Baldwin, a 42-year-old marketing executive, said it is vital to scrap some of the "nonnecessities" from the organization's work and get down to the bed-rock task of talking face-to-face with governments, consumers and labor unions.

"For years our main role was advertising research," he said in an interview Monday.

"We set up such valuable organizations as the Canadian Advertising Research Foundation and the Bureau of Broadcast Measurement, to see how effective our advertising was, and try to improve it. But these organizations are on their own now, and we've got to have a new role."

One of the few functions of the 53-year-old association he believes, will be talking to the new federal consumer affairs' department to determine consumers' needs, and look into their complaints about advertising.

"We can find out from the government now, instead of talking to the St. Catharines Ladies Aid," he said.

Another role he sees for the association—which spends about $490,000,000 annually in advertising—is to replace its previous voluntary-help plan with paid professional staff.

"This is an age of specialization. We'll have to hire specialists to do the important communications jobs ahead."

Another is to increase the voice and effectiveness of the 27 French companies which form part of the association.

"It simply isn't good enough to wait for them to come forward on their own," he said.

Mr. Baldwin studied psychology as part of an arts course at the University of Saskatchewan in the '40s. But he does not consider himself a psychologist.

"I suppose you'd say I'm primarily communications-oriented. We've got one awfully big job to do in this field in Canada, and I hope to continue to be part of it. After all, if you can't meet people head on, then what other contact do you have?"

Mr. Baldwin did post-graduate work in industrial relations at Queen's University, and later worked briefly with Canadian General Electric before joining Imperial Tobacco as a windowdresser in Montreal 17 years ago. Since then he has had various marketing jobs with the firm. He was named marketing co-ordinator at the start of the year.

W. I. Donates $50 to Retarded Association

NAPANEE — The Lennox and Addington Association for the Mentally Retarded had a pleasant surprise last week when, at its monthly fund-raising euchre party at the Happy Day School, a cheque for $50 was presented by Mrs. Blake Gilbert, the gift of the Napanee branch of the Women's Institute. Half of the amount had been raised through the efforts of two members, Mrs. Iva Ford and Mrs. Elsie Andrews, who had solicited grocery items from the merchants sufficient to fill a basket, and had then raffled it off. The money will be applied to the building fund.

Paul Kirkham was the luckiest of the players that evening, winning both men's high, and the prize for lone hand. Men's low was won by Hugh Perry.

Mrs. Hazel Wright took home the prize for ladies' high, and Mrs. Jack Duff won the ladies' low.

And the Keys Go Back...

Fire Damages Reach $17,000

About $17,000 damage resulted from a fire of undetermined origin which destroyed a barn and contents belonging to Burton White, of the 7th concession in Rawdon on Sunday.

The alarm was given by a neighbor but the Rawdon fire department was unable to do anything to save the 32 head of yearling cattle. The roof of the barn had already fallen when the firefighters arrived.

About 1,000 bales of hay were also lost in the fire.

A portion of the loss was covered by insurance.

Farmers Union Plans Meeting with Candidates

PICTON (Staff) — Local candidates in the June 25 Federal election will speak to area farmers, and the general public in May.

The meeting will be sponsored by the Prince Edward County farmers union.

The decision was made yesterday, at a meeting of the union executive, to extend the invitation to the general public.

It seems likely that the meeting will be held in Bloomfield, at the earliest possible date following the nomination of all candidates in the area.

To date only one party is officially represented.

Daniel Nielson, president, said the meeting, which has been customary in past elections, is the only one of its kind that is open to the general public.

It will consist largely of a question and answer session directed from the floor," he claimed.

Mr. Nielson said that service clubs have sponsored such meetings in the past but that they had been closed to the general public.

Bishop Visits Anglican Parish

The Rt. Rev. K. C. Evans, Bishop of Ontario, was on hand Sunday to dedicate service - plaques and memorials at Christ Church. Bishop Evans was making his annual episcopal visitation to the parish.

Service - plaques and memorials were dedicated in memory of James Oliver Cooke, Rev. E. P. Smith, Dr. Lily Mathieson, George Stanley Vanderwater, and Ernest Charles Easley.

A memorial lavabowl was also dedicated in memory of Rev. E. P. Smith, once a Curate at Christ Church.

During the confirmation of 85 candidates for the "episcopal laying on of hands", Bishop Evans spoke to them of "fear".

Fall Schedules Undergo Revision

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. television networks, at present this time, are having some second thoughts about their fall schedules.

ABC, for one, has decided to reprieve N.Y.P.D. the police-action series shot mostly on location in New York.

The half-hour program co-starring Frank Converse and Robert Hooks was cancelled, but later started to pick up some extra Nielsen steam when It Takes a Thief was placed in the Tuesday night schedules ahead of it.

The pink slip has now been withdrawn, and the show will return to the same Tuesday night spot next September. Meanwhile, Felony Squad, which squeaked through to a renewal for a third season will be moved to Friday night—and Dream House, an audience participation show, will be dropped as evening entertainment although the daytime version will continue.

There may be some changes at CBS, too. Although the network originally decided to drop He and She after one season, its stars, Dick Benjamin and Paula Prentiss are still under option by the network, and the show may get another chance.

Peyton Place on ABC is one series that will not be rerunning old episodes during the summer season, but the viewer is advised to give himself two or three weeks to understand what all the suffering is about.

If one has been inattentive for a short period, it is difficult to pick up all the tangled threads. For instance, there's a nice young minister in town, and he has an alcoholic wife. Constance and Eliot Carson have acquired an infant, but it seems to be on loan. Dr. Rossi now has a young brother around and he looks like a bad un.

Betty Anderson, who last time this viewer looked was married to Steven Cord, now is getting engaged to Rodney Harrington — but wasn't she married to him when the series began?

CBS's Carol Burnett Show will depart—after a series of reruns during July and August when the network will fill the hour niche with pilot programs of series that never found a network niche.

Film Prepared

The CBC prepared a special film portrait of Pierre Elliot Trudeau, screened just before the Liberal leadership convention, for the BBC.

Heart Transplant Patient Dies Without Becoming Conscious

PARIS (AP) — Clovic Roblain, Europe's first heart transplant patient, died today.

The announcement was made by Dr. Maurice Mercadier at a special news conference.

Roblain, 68-year-old retired truck driver, never recovered consciousness following the transplant.

"We expected it since this morning," Mercadier said, adding that the cause of death of "an insufficient irrigation of blood in the brain."

Roblain's death leaves only one survivor from the seven human heart transplants which have been reported. He is Dr. Philip Blaiberg, a 58-year-old South African dentist who was given a new heart on Jan. 2. He was discharged from a Cape Town hospital more than six weeks ago and is reported in excellent condition.

Several hours before the death was announced, Mercadier had held a news conference the retired truckdriver was in poor condition and prospects for his recovery were "very bad."

The doctor reported then that while the transplanted heart was functioning and it had not been necessary to stimulate it artificially, Roblain had developed urinary problems and his respiration still required artificial assistance, "a bad sign."

Earlier the doctors had reported that Roblain suffered a sudden drop in blood pressure during the operation and they feared brain damage.

Roblain lived 5½ hours after he received the heart of a 23-year-old man who had been fatally injured in an automobile accident Friday.

"We will attempt a new transplant," said Mercadier.

"My feeling as a man is one of chagrin. My feeling as a surgeon is that one must overcome this chagrin and work hard to renew what we have done."

The nine-hour transplant operation was performed by a team of 10 doctors, headed by Drs. Christian Cabrol and Gerard Guiraudon.

Mercadier at an earlier news conference said that in the world's seventh heart transplant operation Cabrol and Guiraudon used a new technique in which the donor heart, no longer beating when it was removed from the auto crash victim, was preserved by constant injection of liquid.

The team's immunologist, Dr. Leon Schwartzenberg, said the operation went smoothly, and the transplanted heart was started in Roblain's body by an external apparatus early in the operation.

The way for the operation was cleared last week when the French government amended the regulations on declaring death. The basis now is electroencephalogram readings by two doctors with no connection with any doctors preparing heart transplant surgery.

Friday night Michel Gyppaz, a newspaper of seven months, was driving home from work to his pregnant wife when his sports car collided with a sedan. He was given no chance to live and his family was called to the hospital Saturday to decide whether his heart should be donated for transplant.

We knew how much Michel had admired the heart graft operation performed at Cape Town by Dr. Christiaan Barnard," said his mother. "He would certainly have approved of this sacrifice for science had he been in a condition to answer."

Roblain was informed of the operation an hour before it began. He had been a heart patient for 20 years and the doctors said his condition had been desperate since a heart attack last July.

Montreal Firm Fined

RENFREW, Ont. (CP) — Beaver Foundation Ltd., a Montreal construction firm, was fined $1,000 Monday for a breach of the Ontario Construction Safety Act.

The charge was brought by the provincial labor department last July during construction by the company of a bridge across the Ottawa River linking Chenaux, Ont., and Portage du Fort, Que.

Things to Know at Eighteen

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What I wish I had Known at Eighteen:

— That every day marks a fork in the road, in some little way; and that by the time the big fork comes along we have already made so many little decisions that we have no real choice left in the crucial turnings.

— That it is easier to feel hate than to feel love, and easier to act on hate than to act on love— and we must resist the easier path every each of the way every day of our lives.

— That we should be firmly resistant toward ideas we believe to be wrong, but immensely tolerant toward the people who hold such ideas, never for a moment confusing the person with the idea, which is the besetting sin of bigotry in all of its manifold forms.

— That every time we use a person for our own purposes, ignoring his needs, we diminish ourselves more than we diminish him— for his is a wound that can heal, while ours is an amputation that cannot grow back.

— That our differences are superficial, and our similarities are profound; and those who are afraid to acknowledge the similarities are forced to live — and die — by the differences.

— That most of what we call "love" is a form of vanity, and that the genuine thing (far from being as common as grass) is as rare as holiness or courage or wisdom, which have a million counterfeits for every one real manifestation.

— That we learn only what becomes a part of us: abstract knowledge is not only useless but dangerous unless we have assimilated it to the core of the personality.

— That human society is confined in a lifeboat, not dispersed on an ocean liner; and unless each one is permitted the same rights, he will not assume the same responsibilities, and the ego has no chance to survive.

— That "education" is not a formal discipline, but an attitude, an approach, an appetite, even a tone, that must begin in the home atmosphere if it is to be successfully translated to the outer world.

— That the two greatest threats to the security of civilization come from the "absolutists" who think they know precisely what is right and wrong, and from the "relativists" who insist there is no right and wrong—for each doctrine pushed to its ultimate, leads to death.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For May 1

Your birthday today: The coming year for you will be full of mental activity, at times quickened by emergency. The risk of over-doing is constant. Long-term investment expectations end in disappointment; more work is required than was first thought. New creative ventures are favored. Intuitive flashes tend to come dramatically in off-and-on bursts. Today's natives tend to a carefree five-and-let-live philosophy of life.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Your working conditions are apt to change favorably today. Speak right up and ask for your share of the results. Hold your money for tomorrow's pleasures. Retire early.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): The hasty actions of a child may make your path hazardous. Use great care in driving and using appliances. Avoid traffic. Expect deceptive conditions today and tomorrow.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): There will be unusual turns of circumstances today. Don't let strangers in your home. In talking with a very old friend, a sudden insight into your current concerns may startle you. Heed it.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22) Unfamiliar places are not favored today, nor the first use of new equipment. Unusual care in driving is essential, but stick to your schedule. Bring home something interesting for family fun tonight.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Today should be lively with changes and with friends and news. Go after more earnings. Make sure nothing of today's activity is likely to be misunderstood tomorrow.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Face yourself today against pressures and your own inner tensions. Take a measured approach, even in familiar matters, as someone around you may fail to understand. Hurrying will not help.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): There is little to be done about your confidential concerns today but to wait. Constructive changes depend on patience. Avoid long-term commitments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Health and safety precautions are strongly advised today. Your working conditions may be temporarily upset, so be patient for a couple of days. Let others know enough of your plans to be able to co-operate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): The unexpected seems to be the order of the day. Distinguish between wish and intuition, and trust your own judgment. Check for fire hazards.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Your need for tidy working conditions and reasonable plans may not be fulfilled today. Have patience through a few more days of confusion. Keep your own counsel this evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Rearrangement of your resources today may be crucially important. But unnecessary changes are not favored, as there seem to be unsuspected factors involved. Avoid harshness in presenting your opinions.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Tenderness is essential to your relationships today. The temptation is to press too hard for details not forthcoming. What you hear is distressing enough, but positive thought will help you past it.

Trains Collide

BARRIE (CP) — Two CNR freight trains collided Monday night, causing a 10-car derailment and blocking the Barrie-Toronto line. No one was injured.

CNR police said the line would be cleared early today. The accident occurred when the two northbound trains met at a Y intersection.

Dymond Will Not Give Reason Patients Removed From Home

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Matthew Dymond told the legislature Monday night his department had a "great and sufficient reason" for removing 20 patients from a Collingwood nursing home for discharged mental patients last month.

The minister declined to say what the reason was but privately took a storm of opposition criticism when he said it wasn't connected with cleanliness, food on staff but "had to do with the operator of the home herself."

Vernon Singer (L—Toronto Downsview), who said he learned of the matter only when he read newspaper reports of it Monday afternoon, told the House that if the minister didn't give needed information he would propose reducing the department's budget, for aid to nursing homes as an indication of the opposition's displeasure.

The matter was raised in the House by Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) who said the episode showed that "this is an evil department and the minister should resign."

Dr. Dymond said the patients' removal had been decided upon "because the quality of care offered did not meet the minimum standards."

Dr. Shulman asked how the removal could be justified when the health department hadn't previously recommended any improvements in the home's operation.

He said he had received telephone calls Monday from relatives of two former patients at the home who talked in close terms of the quality of care.

Dr. Dymond said he didn't want to give out details of the department's reasons because the matter was being discussed by lawyers for the operator of the home and his department.

Liberal leader Robert Nixon objected that the legislature "has all the authority of a court" and important charges had been made in the newspaper stories on the removals.

Dr. Dymond remarked that of 500 such homes in the province only two had operations which prompted removal of all patients in them.

Dr. Shulman said he had information that the "trouble" at the home began Jan. 19 when a staff member had been fired for smoking while on duty. He asked whether the decision to remove the patients was prompted by a statement to the department from a disaffected nurse.

"No sir," Dr. Dymond snapped.

Dr. Dymond said there were certain occasions, and this was one of them, when he could not ask the members of the house to have faith in his department.

John Brown (NDP—Toronto Beaches-Woodbine) said that apart from the right of the department to intervene he was most concerned at the methods that had been employed. Why hadn't the department acted in "a decent and humane way?"

The minister replied that the department hadn't acted in an inhumane way. "The comforts of the patients were looked after."

Mr. Singer then asked Dr. Dymond to give the house precise details on the statutory authority employed in making the removals and in all the house exactly what had happened.

House leader Leslie Rowntree, financial and commercial affairs minister, said he would be requested would take time to acquire and moved adjournment of the debate.

The operator of the home, Jeanette Gutman, told newspaper reporters Monday the 20 patients had been whisked away by health department officials without "a word of explanation."

"This was seven weeks ago and I still haven't been told why the patients were taken away."

CBC News Coverage in North Assailed

TORONTO (CP) — Northern members of the legislature belabored the CBC Monday, chiding the publicly-owned corporation regards northwestern Ontario as part of Manitoba in its television news coverage.

Members gave overwhelming support to a resolution by Leo Bernier (PC—Kenora) asking the provincial government to make representations to Ottawa seeking either Kenora or the Lakehead as point of origin for news telecasts shown in northwestern Ontario.

Mr. Bernier said the Kenora area is served by six television outlets, all satellites of Winnipeg's CBWT. The six carry news telecasts originating in Winnipeg which pay little or no attention to Ontario news.

"At the present time the riding of Kenora and portions of the Lakehead region live in a television news vacuum," he said.

"Nothing short of a major catastrophe can induce CBC reporters and cameramen to the area to give adequate coverage to local news happenings."

In other business Monday:

—Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) criticized Health Minister Matthew Dymond for not advertising a discovery by his department that smoking by pregnant women increases the likelihood of premature births and infant mortality.

Dr. Shulman told the house that a health department study showed the rate of premature babies among women who smoke is 5% times as high as that among non-smokers. Rate of mortalities is 50-per-cent higher.

Dr. Dymond said doctors have been informed through medical journals and 750 copies of the report have been circulated. Doctors are also including the study in pamphlets for expectant mothers.

—Darcy McKeough, minister of municipal affairs, said a task force to solve problems in the provincial rebates of property taxes will be department employees and not a permanent new force of civil servants.

He was speaking as the house gave second reading—approval in principle—to an act to provide for a reduction in municipal taxes on residential property.

—The government introduced amendments to the Corporations Act increasing the authorized capital of joint stock insurance companies selling other than life insurance to $500,000 from $300,000.

—In a statement, Agriculture Minister William Stewart said his department has set up a special committee to investigate cost; and availability of large-animal veterinary services in the province.

—Dr. Dymond said his department is considering a scheme under which medical students would get a free education in exchange for agreeing to spend a specified time after graduation in remote areas of the province.

Indians Have New Religion

TORONTO (CP) — One of the sponsors of an Indian protest march two years ago in Kenora, Ont., says Indians in Northern Ontario are rejecting the white man's religion for a "new and beautiful" faith of their own.

Jack Doner, a Kenora lawyer, said the new religion is Christian atheism—a type of worship excellently suited to the Indians' attempt to regain his identity.

"To an Indian, the white man's Christian religion is terrible," Mr. Doner writes in the current issue of Ferment, an inter-faith journal. "It depreciates the goodness in man; it holds that all men are sinners.

"But Christian atheism is fertile and dynamic: it recognizes and advocates the goodness in man: it is concerned about the problems of people."

Mr. Doner also says the white man's religion makes the Indian feel guilty, sinful and inferior.

In an interview Monday, Mr. Doner said his criticism was aimed at Christian churches in general but particularly at those in Kenora.

The protestant clergymen in this particular area are "the gutless wonders of the 20th century," he said.

"A 50-year-old white man, Mr. Doner is consultant to the Islington band of Ojibway Indians and spends one day a week in their reserve on a voluntary basis.

He said they reject all concepts of God and Christ, but recognize the goodness in man and concern themselves with the concrete problems of people.

H-C Group Organizes Ball Team

DESERONTO — The Hi-C group of the United Church are planing to play softball this summer, with the first practice next Wednesday. Everybody will be on the team, girls and boys alike, and they hope to play against other Hi-Cs of neighboring communities. Captain is Dorothy Kimbell, and Jeff Barclay is manager coach.

These young people met weekly in all winter in the United Church and have been most active. There have been serious discussions of problems facing today's teenagers, and there have been community projects such as mending all one Saturday cleaning every inch of the United Church they could reach without scaffolding. The week was their own idea, an was organized by the young folk themselves. Not long ago they put on a dessert party to which all members of the congregation were invited.

One team they are almost sure to play is Melrose, where a softball team was organized early this week. Melrose and Deseronto United churches together make up the Quinte charge, under the ministry of Rev. William Hendry.

The Melrose Hi-C members are already making plans for a strawberry festival, probably in June.

Ontario Births Continue to Fall

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's birth rate continued to decline in 1967, but the decline was slower than in 1966 and below that of Canada as a whole, figures released in the legislature Monday showed.

The annual report of Registrar General Robert Welch for 1967 said the 136,875 births reported in 1967 compared with 132,585 in 1966 and 143,978 in 1965.

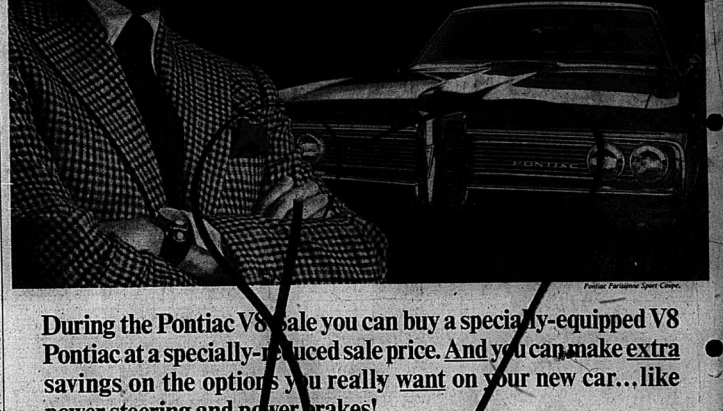
The decline in 1967 was 2.8 per cent, compared with a drop of 7.8 per cent in 1966 and a national decline of 4.6 per cent.

Drapeau Denies 'Tax' Illegal

MONTREAL (CP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau said Monday that as far as he is concerned, his "voluntary tax" scheme to raise $28,000,000 for city coffers is not illegal as suggested by some authoritative critics.

The scheme, intended to offset an anticipated deficit in the city's 1968-69 budget, has been labelled illegal by Justice Minister Jean-Jacques Bertrand of Quebec and by the Justice department in the U.S.

Persons are voluntary in contributions to the city treasury are eligible for one monthly cash prizes of up to $100,000.



Mayor Drapeau said in a statement to city council that "nothing in this day has arisen" to indicate the "voluntary tax" is illegal.

"Nothing in the procedures and formalities which will precede the awarding of $150,000 in prizes next month will impair the legality of the tax, he said.

City council "bound by" to reaffirm the legality of the tax, which could only "be impugned" by a court judgment.

The matter of legality should also be settled "as soon as possible" to dispel any confusion following Mr. Bertrand's statement, which said the scheme contravened the Criminal Code.
